Allah (SWT) says about upraiding those who lagged behind from joining the Messenger of Allah in Jihad: “If you help him (Muhammad) not,” Allah (SWT) will help him, strengthen him and make him triumph as He has done before: 'when the disbelievers drove him out, ‘when the people of Makkah were arrayed in war against him while there was no one with him other than his Companion, Abu Bakr. Thus Allah says: “The second of two,” that is, when they escaped to the cave and remained there three days so as to douse the quest for them. When the polytheists could not find both of them, they set out in their trail in every direction promising one hundred camels for whoever is able to bring them back. They followed their trails until it became confusing to them.

The one who followed their trail on behalf of the Quraish was Suraqah Ibn Malik Ibn Ju‘tham. They climbed the mountain of Thawr and they kept going back and forth the entrance of the cave next to their feet but they did not see them. This is a protection from Allah for both of them as related by Imam Ahmad from Anas Ibn Malik that Abu Bakr narrated to him: "I said to the Messenger of Allah while we were in the cave, 'if anyone of them were to look toward his feet, (he would discover us).' He replied: 'O Aba Bakr, what do you think about two people whose third is Allah (SWT)?"

Al-Bukhari related that 'A'ishah, the wife of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "I do not remember my parents believing in any religion other than the Religion (of Islam), and our being visited by Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in the morning and in the evening. When the Muslims were put to test (i.e. troubled by the pagans), Abu Bakr set out migrating to the land of Ethiopia, and when he reached Bark Al-Ghimad, Ibn Ad-Daghinah, the wife of the chief of the tribe of Qarah, mentioned how he caused Abu Bakr's return to Makkah and his offer to protect him as we have mentioned in the section of the migration to Abyssinia up to when Abu Bakr said: "I am repudiating your protection. I am pleased with the protection of Allah (SWT)."

She continued: At that time, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was still in Makkah. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to the Muslims: "I have been shown the land of your migration. It is a land suffused with date-palms located between two volcanic mountains." The two mountains are basalt rocks. Some people migrated toward Madinah and some of those who had migrated toward Abyssinia also returned to Madinah. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said (to Abu Bakr): "Take it easy for I also hope that I will be given permission." Abu Bakr said: "May my father be sacrificed for you, do you really hope for that?" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied: "Yes." So, Abu Bakr restrained himself with the hope that he would accompany him. He fed the two camels with him (in readiness the impending journey) on the leaves of As-Samur tree regularly for four months. Some mentioned that he fed them for six months.

Ibn Shihab related: Abdur Rahman Ibn Malik Al-Mudliji who was a nephew of Suraqah narrated to me that his father informed him that he heard Suraqah Ibn Malik Ibn Ju'thum saying: "The messengers of the polytheists of Quraish came to us announcing that they had assigned for the persons who would kill or arrest Allah's Messenger and Abu Bakr, a reward equal to their blood money. While I was sitting in one of the gatherings of my tribe, Bani Mudlij, a man from them came to us and stood up while we were sitting, and said, "O Suraqah! Verily, I have just seen some people far away on the seashore, and I think they are Muhammad and his Companions." Suraqah added, "I too realized that it must have been them. But I said 'No, it is not them, but you have seen so-and-so, and so-and-so whom we saw when they set out.'

"I remained in the gathering for a while and then got up and left for my home. I ordered my slave-girl to get my horse which was behind a hillock, and keep it ready for me. Then I took my spear and left by the back door of my house dragging the lower end of the spear on the ground and keeping it low. Then I reached my horse, mounted it and made it gallop.

"When I approached them (i.e. Muhammad and Abu Bakr), my horse stumbled and I fell down from it. Then I stood up, got hold of my quiver and took out the divining arrows and drew lots as to whether I should harm them (i.e. Muhammad and Abu Bakr) or not, and the lot which I disliked came out. But I mounted my horse again and let it gallop, giving no importance to the divining arrows. When I heard the recitation of the Qur'an by Allah's Messenger who did not look hither and thither while Abu Bakr was doing it often, suddenly the forelegs of my horse sank into the ground up to the knees, and

I fell down from it. Then I rebuked it and it got up but could hardly take out its forelegs from the ground, and when it stood up straight again, its forelegs caused dust to rise up in the sky like smoke.

Then again I drew lots with the divining arrows, and the lot which I disliked came out. So I called upon them to feel secure. They stopped, and I mounted my horse once again and went to them. When I saw how I had been hampered from harming them, it came to my mind that the cause of Allah's Messenger (i.e. Islam) will become victorious. So I said to him, "Your people have assigned a reward equal to the blood money for your head." Then I told them all the plans the people of Makkah had made concerning them. Then I offered them some food and goods for the journey but they refused to take anything and did not ask for anything except that they said, "Do not tell others about us." Then I requested him to write for me a statement of security and peace. He ordered 'Amir Ibn Fuhairah who wrote it for me on a parchment, and then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded."

When Suraqah turned away from them, he kept turning back everyone who was in the trail of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his Companion. He would say to them: "You don't need to check this route." When it became clear that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had arrived in Madinah, Suraqah began to recount to people the story of his encounter with the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his kind treatment of him. This story became so popular that the leaders of the Quraish were apprehensive that it would cause many people to accept Islam. Meanwhile, Suraqah was the leader and chief of Banu Mudlij, so Abu Jahl, may Allah's curse be upon him, wrote to him a verse of poem:

O Banu Mudlij, I fear that you may be deluded

By Suraqah who is bent upon aiding Muhammad

Beware of him so that he may not dismember your ranks

And then you become disunited sequel to your having authority and dominance

Suraqah also composed a poem in response to Abu Jahl's:

O Abu Hakam, by Allah, if you had witnessed

The spectacle of my steed as its shanks sank

You will marvel and you will have no doubt that Muhammad

Is a Messenger and a proof and whoever can withstand him?

You may dissuade the people from (accepting) him but I

Imagine a day when his milestone shall become manifest

Al-Bukhari related with his chain of narrations linking up to Ibn Shihab (who said) 'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair narrated to me that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, met Az-Zubair in a caravan of Muslim merchants who were returning from Sham. Az-Zubair provided Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and Abu Bakr with white clothes to wear. When the Muslims of Madinah heard the news of the departure of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, from Makkah (toward Madinah), they started going to the Harrah every morning. They would wait for him till the heat of the noon forced them to return. One day, after waiting for a long while, they returned home, and when they went into their houses, a Jew climbed up the roof of one of the forts of his people to look for something, and he saw Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his companions dressed in white clothes emerging out of the desert mirage.

The Jew could not help shouting at the top of his voice, “O Arabs! Here is your great man whom you have been waiting for!” So all the Muslims rushed to their arms and received Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) on the summit of Harra. The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) turned with them to the right and alighted at the quarters of Bani Amr Ibn 'Awf, and this was on Monday in the month of Rabee ul-Awwal. Abu Bakr stood up, receiving the people while Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) sat down and kept silent.

Some of the Ansar who came and had not seen Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) before, began to greet Abu Bakr, but when the sunshine fell on Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and Abu Bakr came forward and shaded him with his sheet only then did the people come to know Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him). The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) stayed with Bani Amr Ibn 'Awf for ten nights and established the mosque (mosque of Quba’) which was founded on piety. Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) prayed in it and then mounted his she-camel and proceeded, accompanied by the people till his she-camel knelt down at (the place of) the Mosque of Allah’s Messenger at Madinah. Some Muslims used to pray there in those days, and that place was a yard for drying dates belonging to Suhail and Sahl, the orphan boys who were under the guardianship of As’ad Ibn Zurarah.

When his she-camel knelt down, Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said, “This place, Allah willing, will be our abiding place.” Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) then called the two boys and told them to suggest a price for that yard so that he might take it as a mosque. The two boys said, “No, but we will give it as a gift, O Allah’s Messenger!” Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) then built a mosque there. The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) himself started carrying unburnt bricks for its building and while doing so, he was saying:

This load is better than the load of Khaibar, for it is more pious in the Sight of Allah and purer and better rewardable

He was also saying, “O Allah! The actual reward is the reward of the Hereafter, so bestow Your Mercy on the Ansar and the Muhajiroon.” Thus the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) recited (by way of proverb) the poem of some Muslim poet whose name is unknown to me. Ibn Shibab said: “In the Hadiths it does not occur that Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) recited a complete poetic verse other than this one.” This is Al-Bukhari’s wordings and he alone related to the exclusion of Muslim. The Hadith also has corroborations from other paths without the story of Umm Ma‘bad Al-Khuza‘iyyah.

Imam Ahmad related that Al-Bara’ narrated: Abu Bakr purchased a saddle from me for thirteen dirhams from A’Azib. Abu Bakr said to A’Azib: ‘Ask Al-Bara’ to carry this saddle to my residence’ and he said, “No, until you narrate to me what you both did on the night when you set out on a journey along with Allah’s Messenger. Abu Bakr then said: We set out during the night and went on walking until it was noon, and the path was lonely and so none passed by that (until) there appeared prominently before us a large rock. It had its shade and the rays of the sun did not reach that place. So we alighted at that place. I then went to the rock and leveled the ground with my hands at the place where the Messenger of Allah would take rest under its shade. I then set the bedding and said: ‘Allah’s Messenger, go to sleep.’ He went to sleep and I kept watch against possible scouts.

Then I saw a shepherd moving toward that rock with his flock and he intended what we intended (I. e. taking rest). I met him and said to him: ‘Young boy, to whom do you belong?’ He said: ‘to a man from the Quraish.’ He mentioned his name and I recognized him. I said, is there any milk in the udders of your sheep and goats? He said: Yes. He took hold of a goat, and I said to him: Clean the udder well so that it should be free from dust and impurity.

He dusted his hands on my order and he milked the goat for me into a container I had with me. I mixed some water in the milk to make it cool and then came to Allah’s Messenger with it. I found that he had already awakened, so I said to him: ‘drink, O Allah’s Messenger.’ He drank it till I was delighted and I said: “Is now not the time to move on?” so we proceeded while they were still pursuing us. No one caught up with us except Suraqah Ibn Malik Ibn Ju‘shum who was trailing us on his horse. I said: “O Allah’s Messenger, a scout has caught up with us.” Thereupon he said: “Do not worry, verily, Allah is with us.”

When Suraqah came close such that there was only a distance of the length of one, two or three spears, again I said: “O Allah’s Messenger, a scout has caught up with us.” Then I wept. Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) asked: “Why are you crying?” and I replied: “By Allah it is not the fear for myself that caused my weeping rather I am weeping because of you.” Then Allah’s Messenger supplicated against him saying: “O Allah suffice us with anything You wish.” Then the legs of his horse sank into quicksand up to its belly and he jumped off it. He said: “O Muhammad, I know that this is your handiwork but please supplicate to Allah to save me from my predicament and I take an oath that I shall turn away everyone who would come in search of you. Here is my quiver, pick an arrow out of it. You will come by my goats at such and such place; you may take from it as will satisfy your need.

Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said to him: "No, I do not have any need for it." So he (Allah's Messenger) supplicated to Allah and he was rescued and he went back to his companions.

Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) proceeded until we reached Madinah and people came out on rooftops on his pathways to welcome him. The servants and children scattered into the streets while they were saying: "Allah is Great! Allah's Messenger has arrived." The people began to contend as to where Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) should reside. Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "I will encamp with the tribe of Najjar, the maternal uncles of Abdul-Muttalib as a mark of honor for them." In the morning, he then went to where he was commanded.

Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib narrated: Mus'ab Ibn Umair, the brother of Banu Abdud-Dar and Ibn Umm Maktoom, the blind, a member of Banu Fihri were the first emigrants to come to us. Then there came Umar Ibn Al-Khattab along with twenty other Companions of the Messenger of Allah. We asked: "What happened to Allah's Messenger?" "He is coming after me," he answered. Later on the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) himself arrived (at Madinah) along with Abu Bakr. Al-Bara' added: Before his arrival I had read a Soorah from the Mufasssal." It is related in the two saheehs from the Hadith of Isra'eel without the statement of Al-Bara': "The first of those who came to us" till the end.

Ibn Ishaq related: Then they set off. Abu Bakr took with him Amir Ibn Fuhairah, his freed slave, to serve them on the way. Asma' Bint Abi Bakr narrated: "When the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and Abu Bakr had departed, Abu Jahl came to us with a group of Quraish...” and she narrated how he struck her on her cheek so violently that her earring fell off her ear as mentioned previously. She added: We remained for three nights without any news of the whereabouts of Allah’s Messenger until a man from the Jinn came from the lower part of Makkah chanting some verses of Arab poems. People followed him to listen to his voice even without seeing him until he exited through the upper part of Makkah saying:

May the Lord of Mankind grant the best of His rewards

To the two Companions

who rested in the two tents

of Umm Ma’bad They both

alighted with righteous

And they set off by nightfall. May Muhammad’s Companion prosper

May the place of Banu Ka’b’s woman bring them luck

For she was a watch for the Muslims

Asma’ continued: When we heard his voice, we knew that Allah’s Messenger was heading toward Madinah.

There were four of them: Allah’s Messenger, Abu Bakr, Amir Ibn Fuhairah, the freed slave of Abu Bakr and Abdullah Ibn Arqad as related by Ibn Ishaq. However, the last person is popularly referred to as Abdullah Ibn Uraiqit Ad-Du’ili Ad-Dawlee and at that time he was a polytheist.

It has been previously mentioned from Ibn Abbas that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) departed from Makkah on Monday and entered Madinah on Monday. The dominant view is that there were fifteen days between his departure from Makkah and his entrance of Madinah because he stayed in the cave of Thawr for three days and thereafter took to the route along the seashore which is the longest of the roads leading to Madinah. They passed through the place of Umm Ma'bad Bint Ka'b from Banu Ka'b Ibn Khuza'ah.

The Story of Umm Ma'bad Al-Khuzaa'iyyah

Yoonus related from Ibn Ishaq (that): Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) alighted at the tent of Umm Ma'bad whose full name was Atikah Bint Khalaf Ibn Ma'bad Ibn Rabee'ah Ibn Asram, expecting a hospitable reception. However Umm Ma'bad said: "By Allah, we neither have food nor even anything to present to you. None of our goats is pregnant (so as to produce milk)." Then Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) called for one of her goats and he rubbed its udder with his hands and supplicated to Allah. The goat produced such a large quantity of milk which filled a large container. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "Drink O Umm Ma'bad." She said: "No, you drink for you have more right to it." Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) insisted and she drank to her fill. Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) called for another goat and did as before and it also produced milk and he drank from it. He called for another goat and repeated as the previous two and he gave its milk to his guide. For the fourth time, he called for another goat, rubbed its udder and supplicated and milk flowed and he gave that to Amir. Then he relaxed.

The Quraish trailed the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) till they reached Umm Ma'bad and they asked her concerning him: "Did you see Muhammad with such and such description?" They described his features to her. She said: "I do not know what you are talking about, but I have been visited by one who milk non-pregnant goat." The Quraish said: "That is the same person we are looking for."

At this juncture, Abu Nu'aim mentioned the story of Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood: I was tending the sheep of 'Uqbah Ibn Abi Mu'ait when The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and Abu Bakr met me after they had fled from the polytheists and they said, "O boy! Do you have any (any sheep with) milk?" I replied: "Yes, but I have been entrusted with it (i.e. it is not mine)." Then he said, "Do you have any young sheep that has not mate?" So I brought to him the sheep and he massaged its udders and milk flowed from it and he collected it into a bowl and drank it and Abu Bakr also quenched his thirst. Then he said to the udders of the sheep: "Cease!" and it ceased. Thereafter, I came to him and said: O Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him), teach me these pure words (i.e. the Qur'an)." Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "You are a wellmannered boy." I took directly from his mouth seventy chapters and no one can contend with me concerning them. However, his statement that 'they had fled from the polytheists, ' is not about the time of hijrah, rather, it is about some incidents that had occurred before the hijrah. Another reason is that Ibn Mas'ood was among those who had accepted Islam long time earlier, made hijrah to Abyssinia and returned to Makkah as indicated earlier. Nevertheless, this story of his is saheeh and recorded in the Book of saheehs and others. And Allah knows best.

were at the stopover, then Ibn Sa'd came. Sa'd was the one who guided the mount of Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) on the way. Ibrahim said: "(inform me) what your Father narrated to you?" Ibn Sa'd said: My Father narrated to me that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) came to them along with Abu Bakr and Abu Bakr had a daughter in fosterage with us. Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was seeking a short route to Madinah. Sa'd said to him: "Close by is Al-Ghair (a mountain in Madinah) by mount where there are two highway robbers from Aslam called Al-Muhaanaan (the two who are despised), if you wish, we will go through them." Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "Take us along to them."

Sa'd continued: then we set off until we came close to them. One of them said to the other: "Here are the Yemenis." Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) invited both of them and presented Islam to them and they became Muslims. Then he inquired about their names and they said: "We are Al-Muhaanaan." The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "Rather, you should bear Al-Mukaramaan (the two noble ones)." Then he asked them to lead the way to Madinah. We set out till we got to the outskirts of Quba and Banu Amr Ibn 'Awf welcomed him. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) asked them: "Where is Abu Umamah As'ad Ibn Zurarah?" Sa'd Ibn Haythamah replied: "He is on his way, shouldn't I inform him of that, O Allah's Messenger?" Then the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) proceeded until he came by a palm groove with its cistern filled. He turned to Abu Bakr and said: "This is the destination. It was shown to me (in my dream) that I alighted at a cistern like that of Banu Mudlij." Ahmad related this story exclusively.

Prophet Muhammad's Entry into Madinah, where He Established His Residence, and Related Issues

Al-Bukhari related from Az-Zuhri from Urwah that the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) entered Madinah in the mid-day.

I said that perhaps his arrival was after the midday because of what is established in the two saheehs from the Hadith of Isra'eel from Ishaq from Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib from Abu Bakr concerning the Hadith of the Hijrah. He said: We arrived in the night and the people began to contend as to with whom the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) should reside. Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "I will encamp with the tribe of Najjar, the maternal uncles of Abdul Muttalib as a mark of honor for them."

This, Allah knows best, perhaps occurred on the day of his arrival at Quba. Thus, it means that his arrival close to Madinah was in the heat of the midday and stayed under the shade of that palm tree. Then he proceeded with the Muslims and alighted at Quba that night.

Al-Bukhari related through Az-Zuhri from Urwah that Allah's Messenger stayed with Banu Amr Ibn 'Awf at Quba for about ten nights. He founded a mosque at Quba within those days and then the people rode with him until his camel knelt at the spot where his mosque (in Madinah) was eventually built. At the time, the spot was used as a drying place for dates and it belonged to orphan boys, Sahl and Suhail. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) bought it from them and turned it into a mosque. All the while he was at the residence of Banu Najjar, Allah be pleased with them.

Imam Ahmad related from Anas Ibn Malik that: I was among the young children yelling: “Muhammad has come!” I ran but saw nothing. Then they shouted: “Muhammad has come!” I ran but still I did not see anything.

He continued: until Allah’s Messenger and his Companion came and we went to hide behind one of the volcanic rocks of Madinah. Thereafter, they sent two men from the desert tribes to announce their arrival to the Ansar. About five hundred Ansars came to meet them and they said: “Proceed (both of you) in security and in being obeyed.” The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and his Companion came to meet them. The people of Madinah came out en masse in such a way that even the maidens above rooftops struggled to catch a glimpse of him saying: “Which one of them is him?” We never saw a similitude of the spectacle of that day. Anas Ibn Malik said: “I saw him the day he came to us and the day he was taken (in death) and I never saw anything similar to the two days.”

It is related in the two saheehs that Abu Bakr narrated concerning the Hadith of Hijrah that: The people trooped out en masse when they both (Allah’s Messenger and Abu Bakr) arrived at Madinah and lined the streets while young boys and slaves perched on rooftops yelling: “Allahu Akbar, Allah’s Messenger has arrived! Allahu Akbar Muhammad has come!! Allahu Akbar Muhammad has come!!!” in the morning, they proceeded and he went to where he was commanded.”

Ibn Ishaq related: Ali remained in Makkah for three days and night returning the deposits which the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) had been entrusted with. Then he joined the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and lived with Kulthoom Ibn Al-Hidm. Ali had also stopped over in Quba for one or two days. He used to say: There was a Muslim woman at Quba who had no husband. I used to see a man come to her in the middle of night, knock at her door and when she comes out, he would give her something he has brought and she would take it from him. I became suspicious of her so I said to her: “O female servant of Allah, who is this man that always knock at your door every night and you would come out and who would give you something I do not know? And you are a Muslim woman who has no husband?” she replied: “The man who comes to me is Sahl Ibn Hunaif. He was aware of my predicament as a lonely woman, in the night, he would attack the idols of his people, break them into pieces and the he would bring them to me saying: ‘use this as your firewood,’ Ali recounted this exploit of Sahl Ibn Hunaif after he died in Iraq while he was with him.

Ibn Ishaq related: Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) witnessed the day of Jumu’ah while he was with the Banu Salim Ibn 'Awf and he offered it in a mosque in the middle of the valley of Ranoonaa. That was the first Jumu’ah ever established in Madinah. Then Uthman Ibn Malik and Abbas Ibn Ubadah Ibn Nadlah led others from the Banu Salim to the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him). They said to him: “O Messenger of Allah, stay with us for we are (great numbers) of men, material and efficient protection.” Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “Let it go (i.e. his camel) for it is under (Divine) command.” So let the camel go and it proceeded until it was parallel to the quarters of Banu Bayadah. Ziyad Ibn Labeed and Farwah Ibn Amr among some of men from the Banu Bayadah met him and said: “O Messenger of Allah, come and benefit from our (great numbers) of men, material and efficient protection.” Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “Let it go (i.e. his camel) for it is under (Divine) command.” They did so and the camel went further until it got to the residence of Banu Harith Ibn Khazraj when Sa’d Ibn ar-Rabee’, Kharijah Ibn Zaid and Abdullah Ibn Rawahah among their tribesmen interrupted its course and invited him saying: “O Messenger of Allah, come and benefit from our (great numbers) of men, material and efficient protection.” Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “Let it go (i.e. his camel) for it is under (Divine) command.” They did so and the camel went ahead until it passed by the residence of Adiyy Ibn An-Najjar who were the Messenger of Allah’s maternal relatives as the mother of Abdul-Muttalib, Salma Bint Amr was one of their women. Saleet Ibn Qais, Abu Saleet, Usairah Ibn Abi Kharijah among men of their tribes interrupted the course of the camel and made a similar appeal as the other clans inviting the Messenger of Allah to stay with them. They said: “O Messenger of Allah, come over to your maternal relatives to enjoy our (great numbers) of men, material and efficient protection.” Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “Let it go (i.e. his camel) for it is under (divine) command.” They did so. The camel continued in its course until it got to the residence of Banu Malik Ibn An-Najjar, then it knelt down at the spot where the door of his mosque is located today. At the time, the land belonged to the two orphan boys – Sahl and Suhail, the two sons of Amr who were in the quarter of Mu’adh Ibn Afra’.

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah said: Before Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) rode from Banu Amr Ibn ‘Awf, the Ansar had gathered swarming round the Messenger of Allah’s camel each person contending with the others to hold the rein of the camel as a mark of honor and esteem for the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him). Each time it passed by a house of the Ansar, their occupants would invite him to stay with them and he would say to them repeatedly: “Let it go (i.e. his camel) for it is under (divine) command. I will stay where Allah wants me to stay.” When it got to the house of Abu Ayyoob Al-Ansari, the camel knelt down at his door. So he alighted and stayed in his house until his mosque and residence was built.

Al-Baihaqi related from Anas that: Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) passed by a group of Bani Najjar and beating drum while saying:

We are neighbors from Banu An-Najjar

Supporters of Muhammad from among his neighbor

Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "Allah knows that I love you with my heart." It is related by Ibn Majah from Hisham Ibn Ammar from Eesa Ibn Yoonus.

In saheeh Al-Bukhari, Anas Ibn Malik said: The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) saw the women and children (of the Ansar) coming forward. (The sub-narrator said), "I think that Anas said, 'they were returning from a wedding party.'" The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) stood up and said thrice, "By Allah! You are from the most beloved people to me."

Imam Ahmad related that Anas Ibn Malik said: Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) came to Madinah while Abu Bakr was riding behind him. Abu Bakr was well known (among the Arab tribes) while the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was not. A man met Abu Bakr and said to him: "O Abu Bakr, who is this man in your front?" Abu Bakr responded: "This is the man guiding me." One would think that Abu Bakr meant someone showing him the way (on his journey) not knowing that Abu Bakr meant someone guiding him to path of goodness. Abu Bakr turned and he saw a horseman who had caught up with them. He said: "O Prophet of Allah, a horseman has caught up with us." Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) turn to look and then prayed: "O Allah throw him." Then his horse tripped and threw him off. It neighed and got up again. Seeing his fate, the man said: “O Prophet of Allah, give me your command as you may wish.” The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said, “Remain where you are and prevent anyone from catching up with us.” The man started out the day warring against Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and ended up becoming his reconnoiter.

He continued: Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) alighted by a volcanic field and then sent for the Ansar. They came, greeted him and said: “Ride on in security and in being obeyed.” Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and Abu Bakr rode on while they scattered around him with their weapons.

It is also said that this incident occurred in Madinah. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) came and the people raised their glance to look at him saying: “The Prophet of Allah has come!” He proceeded slightly till he alighted beside Abu Ayyoob’s house. While the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was speaking with the family members of Abu Ayyoob, ‘Abdullah Ibn Salam heard the news of his arrival while he himself was picking the dates for his family from his family garden. He hurried to the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) carrying the dates which he had collected for his family from the garden. He listened to Allah’s Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and then went home.

The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) asked: “Whose house is the closest?” Abu Ayyoob said: “Mine, O Prophet of Allah. This is my house and this is my door.” He said: “Go ahead and prepare for us an accommodation.” He went and prepared a place for both of them and then he returned and said: “O Messenger of Allah, I have prepared for both of you an accommodation.

It is also narrated that when the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) arrived, Abdullah Ibn Salam came to him and declared: "I bear witness that you are truly a Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) of Allah and that you have come with the truth. The Jews are well aware that I am their leader and son of their leader, the most knowledgeable of them and the son of the most knowledgeable amongst them invite and ask them about my status amongst them. When the Jews came, the Messenger of Allah said to them: "O Jews, woe to you, fear Allah for by Allah beside Whom there no other god, you know that I am truly a Messenger of Allah and that I have with the truth so accept Islam." They responded, "We do not know him." thrice.

Al-Baihaqi related from Abu Ayyoob that Allah's Messenger had alighted in his house and he occupied the lower storey, whereas Abu Ayyoob Ansari lived in the upper storey. One night, Abu Ayyoob Ansari got up and said (to himself): (How unfortunate it is) that we walk above the head of Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him), so they went aside and spent the night in a corner and then told Allah's Messenger about it whereupon Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "The lower storey is more comfortable (for us)." However, he (Abu Ayyoob Al-Ansari) insisted: "We (would not live) over the roof under which you live." So Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) shifted to the upper storey, while Abu Ayyoob Al-Ansari shifted to the lower storey; and he (Abu Ayyoob Ansari) used to prepare food for Allah's Messenger; and when it was brought (back) to him he would ask (to be shown) the part, where the Prophet's fingers had touched (on the food), and he followed his fingers on that part where his fingers (those of the Prophet) had touched. (One day) he prepared food which contained garlic, and when it was returned to him he asked (to be shown) the part which the fingers of Allah's Messenger had touched. It was said to him that he had not eaten (the food). He (Abu Ayyoob Al-Ansari) was distressed and went up to him (to the Prophet) and said: "Is it forbidden?" Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "No, (it is not forbidden), but I do not like it," and he (Abu Ayyoob Al-Ansari) said: "I also do not like what you do not like or which you did not like." He (Abu Ayyoob Al-Ansari) said: (The Prophet did not eat garlic) as Allah's Messenger was visited (by angels) and brought him the message of Allah."

It is recorded in the Saheehain from Anas Ibn Malik that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "The worthiest clans of the Ansar are Banu Najjar, thereafter Banu Abdul-Ashhal; thereafter Banul-Harith Ibn Al-Khazraj; thereafter Banu Sa'idah and there is goodness in all clans of the Ansar." Sa'd Ibn Ubadah said: "I see that he (the Prophet) has placed others above us." It was said to (him): "He has placed you above many others." This is Bukhaari's wordings.

Rather, honor and eminence have been confirmed for all of those who accepted Islam from the people of Madinah who are the Ansar. Allah says:

"And the first to embrace Islam of the Muhajiroon (those who migrated from Makkah to Madinah) and the Ansar (the citizens of Madinah who helped and gave aid to the Muhajiroon) and also those who followed them exactly (in Faith). Allah is well-pleased with them as they are well-pleased with Him. He has prepared for them Gardens under which rivers flow (Paradise), to dwell therein forever. That is the supreme success." (Soorah At-Tawbah [9]:100)

Allah (SWT) also says:

"And those who, before them, had homes (in Madinah) and had adopted the Faith, love those who emigrate to them, and have no jealousy in their breasts for that which they have been given (from the booty of Bani An-Nadir), and give them (emigrants) preference over themselves, even though they were in need of that. And whosoever is saved from his own covetousness, such are they who will be the successful.” (Al-Hashr [59]:9)

Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “But for the emigration, I would have been one of the Ansar: and if the people took their way in a valley (or a mountain pass), I would take the Ansar’s valley or the mountain pass. The Ansar are my Karsh and my ‘Aibah.”

Al-Bukhari related that Al-Bara’ Ibn ‘Azib narrated: I heard Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) (or he said): “None loves the Ansar but a believer, and none hates them but a hypocrite. So Allah will love him who loves them, and He will hate him who hates them.”

Al-Bukhari also related that Anas Ibn Malik narrated from the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) that: “Love for the Ansar is a sign of faith and hatred for the Ansar is a sign of hypocrisy.”

The city of Madinah was also honored with the migration of Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him). It became a haven for the friends of Allah and his righteous servants, a bastion, a stronghold and a fortress for the believers and a centre of guidance for the entire world. Ahadeeth enumerating the excellence of Madinah are quite numerous. There is another section in which we shall enumerate some of them insha’Allah.

It is recorded in the Saheehain that Abu Hurairah said: "Certainly, Belief returns and goes back to Madinah as a snake returns and goes back to its hole (when in danger)."

In the two saheehs also, from the Hadith of Sa'eed Ibn Yasar who narrated that he heard from Abu Hurairah that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "I was ordered to migrate to a town which will swallow (conquer) other towns and is called Yathrib and that is Madinah, and it turns out (bad) persons as a furnace removes the impurities of iron."

Al-Baihaqi also related that Abu Hurairah narrated that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "O Allah, You brought me out from the most beloved city to me so grant me residence in the most beloved city to You." So Allah granted him residence in Madinah. This Hadith is extremely odd (ghareeb).

The popular report from the majority (of scholar) is that Makkah is preferred over Madinah in excellence except for the fact that the soil of Madinah encloses the dead body of Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him). The majority of scholars have argued this out with evidences too long to mention all of them here. The proper place is in the Book of the Rulings of Pilgrimage, insha'Allah. The most prominent of their evidences is what is related by Imam Ahmad from Abu Salamah Ibn Abdur Rahman that Abdullah Ibn Adiy Ibn Al-Hamara' informed him that he heard the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) saying while he was standing at Hazwarah in a Market in Makkah: "By Allah, I know you are the best place on Allah's earth and the most beloved of it to Allah. If not that your inhabitants expelled me from you I would not have left."

Notable events and occurrences of the first year of the hijrah of the Prophet

The Companions, may Allah be pleased with them all, agreed in the 16th, 17th or 18th year (of hijrah) during the reign of Umar to begin the history of Islam from the year of Hijrah.

This was when the Commander of the faithful, Umar Ibn Al-Khattab received from Yemen a draft for some money between two men which was due in Sha'aban. Umar asked: "Which Sha'ban? Is it the Sha'ban of this year, of the previous or of the coming year?" So Umar convened an assembly of the Companions to seek their advice on establishing a calendar system by which the due dates of loans and other events shall be calculated.

Someone suggested that the Persian calendar should be adopted. After discussion, he disliked the proposal because the Roman calendar is based on the epochs of their kings, one after the other.

It was next considered whether the Roman calendar might be adopted. The Roman calendar was based on the epoch of King Alexander Ibn Feelibbus Al-Maqdooni. Again, Umar detested this idea. Someone suggested that the era should begin from the date of the birth of the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him). Some suggested that it should begin from his death. Another suggested that it should begin from the date the Muslims migrated from Makkah to Al-Madinah while another suggestion prefers the date Allah's Messenger died.

After much discussion, Umar tended toward the choice of the date of the Hijrah of Allah's Messenger because of its popularity and fame and they all agreed with him on that.

Al-Bukhari related in his saheeh that Sahl Ibn Sa'd said: "The Prophet's Companions did not take as a starting date for the Muslim calendar, the day, the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) had been sent as a Messenger or the day of his death, but the day of his arrival at Al-Madinah."

Ibn Jareer related that Uthman Ibn Mihsan narrated that Ibn Abbas used to say concerning the statement of Allah: "By the dawn; By the ten nights (i.e. the first ten days of the month of Dhul-Hijjah)” “That is Al-Muharram, the outset of the year.

It is also related from Ubaid Ibn Umair that he said: Muharram is the month of Allah and it is the beginning of the year in which the House (Ka’bah) is draped and by which the people know the date...” meaning that they begin Islamic date from the year of Hijrah and they made the first month of the year to be Muharram according to what is more popular among them. This is the opinion of the majority of Imams.

Suhaili and others also reported that Imam Malik said: “The first month of the Islamic year is the month of Rabe’ ul-Awwal for it is the month in which Allah’s Messenger migrated. "In another place, Suhaili adduced as evidence the statement of Allah: “mosque whose foundation was laid from the first day on piety...” (At-Tawbah [9]:108) i.e. on the first day Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) appeared in Madinah which is the first day of the Islamic calendar as agreed upon by the Companions that the first calendar year is the year of Hijrah. No doubt, this is more fitting in the opinion of Imam Malik, Allah have mercy on him. However, implementation runs contrary to his opinion because the first of the months of Arab was Muharram so it was made the year of the Hijrah the first year of Islam and they made Muharram its first month as is well known so that the order may not be confused. And Allah knows best.

We say, from Allah is the source of help, the year of the blessed Hijrah commenced while Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was resident in Makkah and the Ansar had given their second pledge of Aqabah and the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) had permitted the Muslims to migrate to Madinah. Subsequently, many of the Companions migrated to Madinah until no one who is capable of migrating remained except Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and Abu Bakr waited so as to accompany him on the way as we mentioned earlier. Then he left in the manner we had extensively described earlier on while Ali Ibn Abi Talib stayed behind after the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) on his order to restore to their owners the property left in his care then he caught up with them at Quba. Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) arrived on Monday close to the time the sun declined from the zenith of the midday.

When the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) arrived Al-Madinah, the first place he stayed was the residence of Banu Amr Ibn 'Awf at Quba as mentioned earlier. He stayed there according to a more popular opinion, for more than twenty nights and eighteen nights according to another opinion. Yet another opinion puts his stay at about ten nights. Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah said: he stayed for three nights. The most popular view according to Ibn Ishaq and others is that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) stayed with them at Quba from Monday till Friday. Within these different periods, he established the Mosque of Quba. Suhaili claimed that the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) established it on the first day of his arrival at Quba and based his claim on the statement of Allah:

From the analysis of the statement, it is clear that what was established on the first day is the same honorable and praiseworthy mosque about which Allah revealed:

“Never stand you therein. Verily, the mosque whose foundation was laid from the first day on piety is more worthy that you stand therein (to pray). In it are men who love to clean and to purify themselves. And Allah loves those who make themselves clean and pure (i.e. who cleaned their private parts with dust [i.e. to be considered as soap) and water from urine and stools, after answering the call of nature].” (AtTawbah[9]:108) As we have repeatedly mentioned in the Tafseer. We also mentioned the Hadith that is recorded in Saheeh Muslim that the mosque in question is rather the Mosque in Al-Madinah and the response to it.

We also mentioned the Hadith which is related by Imam Ahmad from Uwaim Ibn Sa’idah that the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) came to them in the Mosque of Quba and said: “Allah has commended you with a most beautiful praise concerning the purification in your mosque. So what is this purification to which you are used?” They responded: “By Allah, O Messenger of Allah, we do not know any other reason except that we noticed that our Jewish neighbors used to wash their backside after the call of nature and we washed our own backsides as they did.”

Abdullah Ibn Salam Accepts Islam

Abdullah Ibn Salam narrated: “When the Prophet arrived Al-Madinah, the people scurried to him and I was among those who scurried to him. When I saw him I immediately knew that his face is not that of a liar. The first thing I heard him say was: ‘O people, spread the greetings of peace (amongst yourselves), feed the people, join the ties of kinship and stand in prayer in the night, while the (rest of the) people are asleep, you will enter Paradise in peace.’”

In the wordings of Al-Bukhari through Abdul-Azeez from Anas who narrated: When the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) arrived (Al-Madinah) Abdullah Ibn Salam came and said “I testify that you (i.e. Muhammad) are Messenger of Allah and that you have come with the Truth. The Jews know well that I am their chief and the son of their chief and the most learned amongst them and the son of the most learned amongst them. So send for them (i.e. Jews) and ask them about me before they know that I have embraced Islam, for if they know that they will say about me things which are not correct.”

So Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) sent for them, and they came and entered. Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said to them, “O (the group of) Jews! Woe to you: be afraid of Allah. By Allah beside Whom none has the right to be worshipped, you people know for certain, that I am a Messenger of Allah and that I have come to you with the Truth, so embrace Islam.” The Jews replied, “We do not know this.” So they said this to the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and he repeated it thrice. Then he said, “What sort of a man is Abdullah Ibn Salam amongst you?” They said, “He is our chief and the son of our chief and the most learned man, and the son of the most learned amongst us.” He said, “What would you say if he should embrace Islam?” They said, “Allah forbid! He cannot embrace Islam.” He said, “What would you think if he should embrace Islam?” They said, “Allah forbid! He cannot embrace Islam.” He said, “What would you think if he should embrace Islam?” They said, “Allah forbid! He cannot embrace Islam.” He said, “O Ibn Salam! Come out to them.” He came out and said, “O (the group of) Jews! Fear Allah beside Whom none has the right to be worshipped. You know for certain that he is a Messenger of Allah and that he has brought a True Religion!’ They said, “You tell a lie.” On that, Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) turned them out.

When the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was ready to leave Quba on his camel, Al-Qaswa’, on Friday, it was at the time of midday. At that time he was in the residence of Banu Salim Ibn 'Awf so he lead the Muslims in the Jumu’ah prayers there in a valley called Ranoona. That was the first Jumu’ah prayer ever established by the Messenger of Allah at Al-Madinah or even ever at any place.

This is because he and his Companions were not able to settle in Makkah such that they could gather and offer the Jumu'ah prayer with a Khutbah and public admonition. That was occasioned by the severity of the opposition from the polytheists as well as their harm of him and Allah knows best.

Khutbah of the Messenger of Allah on that Day

Ibn Jareer related from Sa'eed Ibn Abdur-Rahmaan Al-Jumahi that it reached him that the Prophet's Khutbah in the first Jumu'ah which he led at Madinah in the quarters of Banu Salim Ibn Amr Ibn 'Awf, Allah be pleased with him was:

“All praise is due to Allah. I thank Him and seek His aid. I ask His forgiveness, and seek His guidance. I believe in Him and do not deny Him. I am the enemy of those who reject belief in Him. I bear witness that there is no one worthy of worship, other than Allah, Him alone, without partner; and that Muhammad is His servant and messenger whom He sent with guidance, true religion, light, and advice after a long gap of time when no messengers were sent, knowledge was little, people were misguided, and time appeared to have stopped as the Day of Judgment approached.

Whoever obeys Allah (SWT) and His messenger is wise and whoever disobeys them is astray, wasted, and has lost his way far from the true path. I advise you to fear Allah (SWT) and be conscious of Him. Be conscious of what Allah warned you of Himself. There is no better advice than that or a better reminder. It is a shield for those who follow this advice carefully and cautiously and it is an aid, and the truth that will get you what you aspire for on the Day of Judgment. Whosoever establishes a good relationship between him and Allah, secretly and openly, only to seek the pleasure of Allah, will benefit in this life and be saved in the afterlife when he will be in dire need of the good deeds he earned before death.

Man will then wish that there were a great distance between him and anything else other than taqwa.

Allah (SWT) warns you about Himself and He is kind to his servants. Allah, who has spoken the Truth and fulfilled his promise, has said: “The Sentence that comes from Me cannot be changed, and I am not unjust (to the least) to the slaves.” (Qaf [50]:29).

Fear Allah in your present and future affairs, in secret and in the open for Whosoever fears Allah (SWT) and keeps his duty to Him, He will remit his sins from him, and will enlarge his reward. And Whosoever fears Allah will achieve great success. Having taqwa (fearful awareness of Allah) protects man from Allah’s anger, protects him from His punishment and protects him from His wrath. Taqwa illumines the face, pleases the Lord, and elevates the rank.

Take what is determined for you and do not neglect your relationship with Allah. He has taught you His book, laid down for you His path so that He will know which of you are the truthful and which of you are the liars. Therefore, do good, just as Allah has done good to you, and be enemies to His enemies, (for Allah has said:) “And strive in the way of Allah sincerely for He has chosen you and named you Muslims” ( and “That those who have died (striving in His way) might die after a clear sign (had been given to them), and those who go on to live might live after a clear sign (had been given to them)”. There is no strength other than by Allah, thus increase the remembrance of Allah, and work for what will come after death, for whosoever builds a good relationship with Allah, Allah will protect him from the harm or need of people. Allah surely decrees what is destined for mankind, whereas they have no control over Him, and He has in store for them what they cannot have in store for Him. Allah is great. There is no power except by Allah, Elevated, the Great.”

The Building of his Noble Mosque During His Stay at the Residence of Abu Ayyoob Al-Ansari

Al-Bukhari related that Anas Ibn Malik said: When Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) arrived at Madinah, he alighted at the upper part of Madinah among the people called Banu Amr Ibn 'Awf and he stayed with them for fourteen nights. Then he sent for the chiefs of Banu An-Najjar, and they came, carrying their swords. As if I am just now looking at Allah's Messenger on his she-camel with Abu Bakr riding behind him (on the same camel) and the chiefs of Bani An-Najjar around him till he dismounted in the courtyard of Abu Ayyoob's home. The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) used to offer the prayer wherever the prayer was due, and he would pray even in sheepfolds. Then he ordered that the mosque be built. He sent for the chiefs of Banu an-Najjaar, and when they came, he said, "O Banu An-Najjar! Suggest to me the price of this garden of yours." They replied "No! By Allah, we do not demand its price except from Allah."

In that garden there were the (following) things that I will tell you: Graves of pagans, unlevelled land with holes and pits etc., and date-palm trees. Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) ordered that the graves of the pagans be dug up and, the unlevelled land be levelled and the date-palm trees be cut down. The trunks of the trees were arranged so as to form the wall facing the Qiblah. The stone pillars were built at the sides of its gate. The companions of the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) were carrying the stones and reciting some lyrics, and Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was with them and they were saying, "O Allah! There is no good except the good of the Hereafter, so bestow victory on the Ansar and the Muhajiroon." Al-Bukhari has related this Hadith in another place and Muslim. We have stated earlier in Saheeh Al-Bukhari through Urwah that the location where the mosque was sited used to be a place for drying dates belonging to two orphan boys living in the quarters of As'ad Ibn Zurarah, Sahl and Suhail. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) bargained the price of the piece of land with them but they said: "We will rather give it to you free of charge O Messenger of Allah," but the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) declined and bought it from them instead and he built a mosque on it.

Abu Dawood related that Ibn Umar narrated: In the lifetime of Allah's Messenger the mosque was built of adobes, its roof of the leaves of date-palms and its pillars of the stems of date-palms. Abu Bakr did not alter it. Umar expanded it on the same pattern as it was in the lifetime of Allah's Messenger by using adobes, leaves of date-palms and changing the pillars into wooden ones. 'Uthman changed it by expanding it to a great extent and built its walls with engraved stones and lime and made its pillars of engraved stones and its roof of teak wood." This is how Al-Bukhari has related from Ali Ibn Al-Madini from Ya'qoob Ibn Ibrahim.

I said: Uthman extended it based on his interpretation of the statement of the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) that: "He who built a mosque for Allah (as small) as the hole of a sand grouse, Allah would build a house for him like it in Paradise" and the other Companions present agreed with him on that and they did not change it after his demise.

Scholars have used this as evidence that the extension (of a mosque) takes the same ruling as the main structure. Thus the ruling of the entire Mosque in terms of multiplication of reward for praying in it is equally applicable to it according to a more correct opinion.

It was also extended during the time of Al-Waleed Ibn Abdul-Malik. On his orders, Umar Ibn AbdulAzeez extended it when he was the Governor of Madinah and the apartment of the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was included as shall be explained in due course in the discussion on his death. There were several other extensions after that. The direction of Qiblah was also extended till the Rawdah and the minbar (pulpit) are located behind several front rows as can be observed today.

Abdur-Razzaq related that Umm Salamah said: When Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and his Companions were building the Mosque, the other Companions would lift a brick each but Ammar would lift two bricks at a time, one brick for himself and the other on behalf of Allah's Messenger. The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) massaged his back and said: "The son of Sumayyah, while the people earn one reward each, your own reward will be double. Your last drink in this world will be a drink of milk and then a transgressing group will kill you." This chain confirms to the rules of the Saheehain.

Story of the Construction of the Prophet's Mosque upon his plan

Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi related in 'Ad-Dala'il' from Safeenah, the freed slave of the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) who said: "When the Messenger of Allah and built the mosque, Abu Bakr brought a stone and placed it, then Umar came and did similar thing and Uthman also came with a stone and placed it whereupon Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "These are the men that will be in charge of authority after me."

What is more well-known is the report of Imam Ahmad from Safeenah who said: “Khilafah shall be for thirty years and thereafter there shall be kings.” Then Safeenah said: “Keep track (of the count); Abu Bakr reigned for two years. Umar reigned for ten years. Uthman ruled for twelve years and Ali ruled for six years.” This wording is that of Ahmad. It is also related by Abu Dawood, At-Tirmidhi, An-Nasa’i through Sa’eed Ibn Jumhan.

I said: At the beginning of the construction of the mosque of the Prophet, there was no minbar (pulpit) upon which address is given. Instead, he would lean against a trunk in his Moosalla (prayer place) by the wall toward the Qiblah. When a pulpit was built for him as will be addressed in its proper section, he gave khutbah (address) on it instead. When he moved away from that trunk it cried like that of a pregnant she-camel in great yearning for what it used to hear of the Khutbah of the Messenger of Allah. The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) descended (the pulpit) and embraced it while it continued moaning like a child being quietened as shall be discussed in detail in due course.

A Reminder on the Excellence of this Noble and Exalted Mosque

Imam Ahmad related that Abu Sa’eed Al-Khudri said: “Two men disagreed, one from Banu Khudrah and the other from Banu Amr Ibn 'Awf, concerning the mosque founded upon Taqwa. The man from Khudrah said: “It is the mosque of the Messenger of Allah” while the man from Banu Amr argued that it is the mosque of Quba. So both of them came to the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) to ask him concerning that and he said: “It is this mosque.” i.e. the mosque of the Messenger of Allah. He also added: “In that is a lot of good.” i.e. the mosque of Quba.

In Saheeh Muslim, Abu Salamah Ibn Abdur-Rahman reported that Abdur-Rahman Ibn Abu Sa'eed AlKhadri happened to pass by me and I said to him. "How did you hear your father making mention of the mosque founded on Piety?" He said: "My father said: 'I went to Allah's Messenger as he was in the house of one of his wives, and said: 'Messenger of Allah, which of the two mosques is founded on piety? Thereupon he took a handful of pebbles and threw them on the ground and then said: 'This is the very mosque of yours (mosque at Madinah).'"

Imam Ahmad related that Sahl Ibn Sa'd said: "Two men disagreed concerning the mosque founded upon Taqwa. One said it is the mosque of the Messenger of Allah while the other argued that it is the mosque of Quba. So both of them came to the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) to ask him concerning that and he said: "It is this mosque." i.e. the mosque of the Messenger of Allah.

These different paths through which this Hadith is narrated almost reaching the level of absoluteness establish that the mosque in question is the mosque of the Messenger of Allah. This is the opinion of Umar, his son Abdullah, Zaid Ibn Thabit, Sa'eed Ibn Moosayyab and the preferred opinion of Ibn Jareer. Others however argued that there is no contradiction between this Hadith and the fact that the revelation of the verse is concerning the mosque of Quba as explained previously. This is because the mosque of the Prophet is more deserving of this description than the one of Quba for it is one of the three mosques one is permitted to make preparation of journey to visit as established in the two saheehs from the Hadith of Abu Hurairah who narrated that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "Do not set out on a journey except for three Mosques i.e. This mosque of mine, Al-Masjid-Al-Haram and the Mosque of Al-Aqsa, (Mosque of Jerusalem)."

In the Saheehain Abu Hurairah narrated that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "What is between my house and my minbar is one of the meadows of the Garden, and my minbar is on my watering-place (Al-Hawd)."

The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) built apartment for himself and his family around his noble mosque. The rooms were small and with low roofs. Al-Hasan Ibn Abi Al-Hasan Al-Basri who was a young boy living with his mother Khairah, the freed slave of Umm Salamah said: "I used to touch the ceiling of the Prophet's room with my hand." I (the author) said: It is necessary to point out that Al-Basri was a huge tall man. Allah's mercy be upon him.

As-Sauhaili said in 'Ar-Rawd: His apartments were built of palm fronds mixed with adobe and its entire roof was made of palm fronds. The foregoing has been related from Al-Hasan Al-Basri. In Tareekh AlBukhari, it is recorded that his door used to be knocked with nails and that is an indication that his doors never had ring. He said: All the rooms were merged with the mosque after the death of the wives of the Messenger of Allah.

The Fever of Madinah Afflicts the Muhajiroon, but the Messenger was Spared by the Wisdom and Power of Allah (SWT). He Supplicated Allah and He Removed the Fever from Madinah

Al-Bukhari related that 'A'ishah said: When Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) came to Madinah, Abu Bakr and Bilal got developed fever, and I went to both of them and said, "O my Father, how do you feel? O Bilaal, how do you feel?” Whenever Abu Bakr’s fever got worse, he would say, “Every man will meet his death once in one morning

while he will be among his family, for death is really nearer to him than his leather shoe laces (to his feet).”

And whenever fever deserted Bilal, he would say aloud,

“Would that I know whether I shall spend a night in the valley (of Makkah) with Idhkhir and Jaleel (i.e. kinds of grass) around me, and whether I shall water of Majannah, and whether I shall see once again the hills of Shamah and Tafeel?”

Then I went to Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and told him of that. He prayed, “O Allah, make us love Madinah as much as or more than we used to love Makkah, O Allah, make it healthy and bless its Sa’ and Mudd (i.e. measures), and take away its fever to Al-Juhfah.”

It is recorded in the two saheehs that Ibn Abbas said: When Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and his companions arrived (at Makkah) in the year of Umrah, the polytheists said, «There have come to you a group of people who have been weakened by the fever of Yathrib (i.e. Madinah).» So the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) ordered his companions to do Ramal (i.e. fast walking) in the first three rounds of Tawaf around the Ka’bah and to walk in between the two corners (i.e. the black stone and the Yemenite corner). The only cause which prevented the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) from ordering them to do Ramal in all the rounds of Tawaf, was that he pitied them.

Establishment of a Pact of Brotherhood Between the Muhajiroon and the Ansar

In Madinah, there were some groups of Jews from Banu Qainuqa', Banu Nadeer, Banu Quraizah who had come to the Arabian Peninsula well before the Ansar during the wars of Bukhtnassar when Palestine was inundated from what was mentioned by At-Tabari. When the Sail Al-'Arim (flood released from the dam) occurred, the people of Saba' dispersed in different directions. Al-'Aws and Khazraj arrived Madinah among the Jews with whom they entered into an alliance. They became assimilated to them when they saw that they had an edge over them owing to the knowledge transmitted from the Prophets. However, Allah bestowed favor upon the polytheists of Madinah through the guidance and Islam which they accepted. Meanwhile, the Jews refused owing to their envy, transgression arrogance against the Truth.

Imam Ahmad related that Anas Ibn Malik said: The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) formed alliance between the Muhajiroon and the Ansar in the house of Anas Ibn Malik.

In Saheeh Muslim, Jabir narrated: Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) made it obligatory for every tribe (the payment) of blood-wit."

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) wrote a document between the Muhajiroon and the Ansar in which he made a agreement with the Jews and let them deal with their religion and wealth as they deem. He equally spelt out the mutual obligations.

In the Name of Allah the Most Gracious the Most Merciful.
This is a document from Muhammad the unlettered Prophet

(governing the relations) between the believers and Muslims of Quraish and Yathrib and those who have followed and striven with them. They are one community with the exclusion of other people. The Muhajiroon of the Quraish based on their current state (with which they had been when Islam came) shall pay the blood money within themselves and shall ransom their prisoners on reasonable (terms) and with justice among believers. Banu 'Awf according to their current state shall pay the blood money they used to pay at first (before Islam) and every section shall ransom their prisoners according to reasonable terms and with justice among believers.

(Then he mentioned every clan and house from the clans of the Ansar). Banu Al-Harith according to their current state shall pay the blood money they used to pay at first and every section shall ransom their prisoners according to reasonable terms and with justice among believers. Banu Sa'idah according to their current state and Banu Jusham as well as Banu An-Najjar and Banu Amr Ibn 'Awf and Banu Nabeet up to when he said:

Verily the believers shall not leave any destitute person among them without paying his ransom money or blood money on reasonable term. A believer shall not make a pledge with the ally of another believer against him. Whoever is rebellious and whoever seeks to spread injustice, sin, aggression, or corruption between the believers, the hand of every believer who fears Allah shall be against him even if he be his child.

A Believer shall not kill another Believer for the sake of a disbeliever, nor shall he support a disbeliever against a Believer. The protection of Allah is one and is extended to the least of them I status. The believers are friends and protector of one another to the exclusion of other people.

Whosoever follows us among the Jews, for him shall be help and sympathy. They shall not be dealt with unjustly nor shall anyone be aided against them. The Jews shall share in the expenses of war as long as they fight alongside the Muslims. The Jews of Banu 'Awf are one community with the believers. To the believers belong their religion and to the Jews belong their religion allies and persons except those who perpetrate injustice and sinfulness and such a person hurts no one except themselves and their families. For the Jews of Bani Najjar, Banu Al-Harith, Banu Sa'idah and Banu Ju'sham, Banu Al-Aws, Banu Tha'labah, Jufnah and Banu Shateebah is something similar to that of Banu 'Awf. The entourage of the Jews is like themselves, none of them will go out for war except with the permission of Muhammad but he shall not be hampered from avenging for a wound. He who kills a man is like he had killed himself and his family except one who has been wronged for Allah will accept that.

The Jews shall bear their own expenses and the Muslims shall bear their own expenses as well. Each must help the other against anyone who fights against the people of this pact. They must seek mutual advice and consultation, righteousness as opposed to sin. A man is not responsible for his ally's misdemeanor. The wronged must be helped. Verily, Yathrib is a sacred precinct for the people of this pact.

The Prophet's Formation of Brotherhood Between the Muhajiroon and the Ansar

Allah says: "And those who, before them, had homes (in Madinah) and had adopted the Faith, love those who emigrate to them, and have no jealousy in their breasts for that which they have been given (from the booty of Bani An-Nadir), and give them (emigrants) preference over themselves, even though they were in need of that. And whosoever is saved from his own covetousness, such are they who will be the successful." (Al-Hashr [59]:9)

He also says: “And to everyone, We have appointed heirs of that (property) left by parents and relatives.

To those also with whom you have made a pledge (brotherhood), give them their due portion (by Wasayah - wills, etc.). Truly, Allah is Ever a Witness over all things.” (An-Nisa’ [4]:33)

Al-Bukhari related: Ibn Abbas said, “In the verse: To everyone We have appointed heirs” (an-Nisa’ [4]:33).’ (And regarding the verse) “To those also with whom you have made a pledge (brotherhood)”, Ibn Abbas said, “When the emigrants came to Madinah, the emigrants would inherit the Ansari excluding the latter’s actual relatives (from inheriting) because of the bond of brotherhood which the Prophet established between them (i.e. the emigrants and the Ansar). When the verse: “And to everyone We have appointed heirs” was revealed, it cancelled the bond (the pledge) of brotherhood regarding inheritance.” Then he said, “The verse: ‘To those also with whom you have made a pledge (brotherhood)’, remained valid regarding co-operation and mutual advice, while the matter of inheritance was excluded and it became permissible to assign something in one’s testament to the person who had the right of inheritance before.”

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq said: the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) formed a pact of brotherhood between the emigrants and the Ansar and he said, we seek Allah’s refuge from attributing to him what he did not say: “Be brothers in Allah pair by pair.” Then he took Ali Ibn Abi Talib’s hand and said: “This is my brother.” Meanwhile, the Messenger was the leader of all the Messengers, the chief of the pious ones and a Messenger of the Lord of the worlds Who has no similitude or counterpart among the servants yet he formed a brotherhood with Ali Ibn Abi Talib. Hamzah Ibn Abdul-Muttalib, the Lion of Allah and the Lion of His Messenger and an uncle to the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) became a brother to Zaid Ibn Harithah, the freed slave of Allah's Messenger. Hamzah bequeathed to Zaid on the day of the battle of Uhud in the event of his death. Ja'far Ibn Abi Talib, the possessor of two wings and Mu'adh Ibn Jabal also became brothers.

Ibn Hisham added:

“At that time, it was in the absence of Ja'far while he was at the land of Abyssinia.”

Al-Bukhari related in the chapter of how the Prophet formed the bond of brotherhood between his Companions, that Abdur-Rahman Ibn 'Awf said, “ When we came to Madinah (as emigrants) Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) established a bond of brotherhood between me and Sa'd Ibn Ar-Rabee'.” Abu Juhaifah said: The Prophet formed a bond of brother hood between Salman AlFarisi and Abud-Darda', Allah be pleased with them all.

Muhammad Ibn Yoosuf related that Sufyan narrated through Humaid from Anas that: When AbdurRahmaan Ibn 'Awf arrived Al-Madinah, the Prophet formed a bond of brotherhood between him and Sa'd Ibn ar-Rabee' Al-Ansari. Sa'd offered him one half of his wives and wealth but Abdur-Rahmaan declined saying: “May Allah bless you both in your family and wealth. Rather, show me the way to the market.” Abdur-Rahman went to that market the following day and brought some dried butter-milk (yoghurt) and butter. After a few days, the Prophet saw 'Abdur-Rahman having traces of yellow (scent) on his body. Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “What is the matter, O AbdurRahman?” and he replied, “I have married a woman from the Ansar.’ Then the Prophet asked, ‘How much did you pay her?’ He replied, ‘(I gave her) a gold piece equal in weigh to a date stone (or a date stone of gold)! The Prophet said, ‘Give a Waleemah (wedding feast) even if with one sheep’." This version is solely reported by Al-Bukhari. He has also reported in another place. Imam Muslim also related it with different chain through Al-Humaid.

Al-Bukhari related that Abu Hurairah said: The Ansar said to the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him), “Divide our date-palms between us and our emigrant brothers.” The Prophet said, “No.” The Ansar said to the emigrants, “You may do the labor (in our gardens) and we will share the fruits with you.” The emigrants said, “We hear and obey.” Al-Bukhari solely related it.

Abdur-Rahman Ibn Zaid Ibn Aslam narrated that Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said to the Ansar: “Your brothers have left wealth and children and have emigrated to you.” The Ansar said: “Divide our wealth into portions between us.” The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “Or something else?” they asked: “What is that O Messenger of Allah?” the Prophet said: “They are people who do not have the knowledge of farming. Let them work on your garden and then share the fruits with them.” And they said: “Yes.”

The death of Abu Umamah As’ad Ibn Zurarah, One of the Twelve Delegates on the Night of the Pledge of 'Aqabah

He had witnessed the three Aqabah pledges and was the first to pledge allegiance to the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) on the night of the second pledge of Aqabah according to a view. Muhammad Ibn Ishaq related from Anas that the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) cauterized As’ad Ibn Zurarah while he was suffering from Shawkah. Its narrators are trustworthy.

Ibn Ishaq related from Yahya Ibn Abdullah Ibn Abdur-Rahman Ibn As'ad Ibn Zurarah that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: "How bad the death of Abu Umamah is for the Jews and the hypocrites. They say, 'if he was a Prophet (in truth), his Companion would not have died even though I possess no power on behalf of myself and my Companions against Allah.'" This indicates that he was the first to die after the arrival of the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) in Madinah. Abul-Hasan Ibn Al-Katheer had claimed in 'Usdul-Ghabah' that he died in Shawwal, seven months after the arrival of the Prophet (in Madinah) but Allah knows best.

The Birth of Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair in Shawwal, the year of Hijrah

He was the first child to be born in Islam among the emigrants just as an-Nu'man Ibn Basheer was the first child to be born amongst the Ansar after the migration of the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him), Allah be pleased with both of them. Some have claimed that Ibn Az-Zubair was born twenty months after the hijrah.

Al-Bukhari related that Asma' conceived Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair, she narrated: "I migrated to Madinah while I was at full term of pregnancy and alighted at Quba where I gave birth to him. Then I brought him to the Prophet and put him in his lap. The Prophet asked for a date, chewed it, and put some of its juice in the child's mouth. So, the first thing that entered the child's stomach was the saliva of Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him). Then the Prophet rubbed the child's palate with a date and invoked for Allah's Blessings on him, and he was the first child born amongst the Emigrants in AllIslam."

Allah's Messenger Consummated His Marriage with 'A'ishah in Shawwal

Imam Ahmad related that 'A'ishah said: "The Messenger of Allah married me in Shawwal, and consummated his marriage with me during the month of Shawwal. And who among the wives of Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was dearer to him than I, and 'A'ishah used to like that the women (of her family) should enter the houses as brides during the month of Shawwal." This is also related by Muslim, At-Tirmidhi, an-Nasa'i and Ibn Majah from different chains through Sufyan athThawri. Based on this, his consummation with her occurred seven or eight months after the Hijrah.

Ibn Jareer said: In this year, i.e. the first year of hijrah, the salat of the resident was increased from the two rak'ahs that it used to be. The salat of the traveler was left at two rak'ahs. This occurred a month after the arrival of the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) in Madinah after twelve nights have passed in the month of Rabee' ul-Akhir.

I said: We have earlier cited the Hadith related by Al-Bukhari that 'A'ishah said: "When the prayers were first enjoined they were of two Rak'ahs each. Later the prayer in a journey was kept as it was but the prayers for non-travelers were completed." Al-Baihaqi has also related that Al-Hasan Al-Basri said that the prayer of residents was first enjoined and it was enjoined four rak'ahs.

The Legislation of Adhan (the call to prayer) Upon the Arrival of the Prophet in Madinah

Ibn Ishaq said: when the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) settled down in Madinah and his brethren among the emigrants had joined him and the affairs of the Ansar became settled and the authority of Al-Islam was founded, the prayer was established, Zakah and Fasting were enjoined, laws were promulgated, halal and haram were ordained and Islam held sway before their eyes. When the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) arrived at Madinah, people used to assemble for the prayer, and used to guess the time for it. Then Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) decided to introduce a trumpet like that of the Jews which they used to gather adherents to their own worship then he detested the idea. He requested for a bell which will be beaten to announce the time of Salat to the Muslims. While they were still deliberating on that Abdullah Ibn Zaid Ibn Tha'labah Ibn Abd Rabbihi who was paired with Bal-Harith Ibn Al-Khazraj had a dream in which he was taught the call to prayer. He came to the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and said: "I was visited (in my dream) by a visitor. I saw a man in two green pieces of cloth with a bell in his hand. I said to him: "O servant of Allah, do you sell this bell?" He asked: "What do you intend to do with it?" and I said: "I will call the people to the prayer with it." Then he said: "Shouldn't I direct you to that which is better than that?" I asked, "What is that?" and he said: "Say Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar, Ashhadu an la ilaha illallah, Ash'hadu an la ilaha illallah, Ashhadu anna Muhammadar Rasoolullah, Ashhadu anna Muhammadar Rasoolullah. Hayya alas-Salah, Hayya alas-Salah, Hayya alal-Falah, Hayya alal-Falah, Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar, la ilaha illallah (Allah is Greatest, Allah is Greatest, Allah is Greatest, Allah is Greatest, I bear witness that none deserves to be worshipped (in truth) except Allah, I bear witness that none deserves to be worshipped (in truth) except Allah, I bear witness that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah, I bear witness that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah. Come to Salat, come to Salat. Come to success, come to success, Allah is Greatest, Allah is Greatest. None deserves to be worshipped (in truth) except Allah)

When he informed the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him), he said: “It is a true vision, by the wish of Allah, teach Bilal the words so that he may call to the prayer by it for his voice is louder than yours. When Bilal called to the prayer by those words, Umar heard it while he was in his house, he rushed out to meet the Messenger of Allah while dragging his upper garment. When he got to him he said: “O Prophet of Allah, I swear by Him Who has sent you with the Truth, I have also seen something similar to what he has seen.” The Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) of Allah said: “Praise be to Allah.” This Hadith has also been related by Abu Dawood, At-Tirmidhi, Ibn Majah and Ibn Khuzaimah from different routes.

Expedition of Hamzah Ibn Abdul-Muttalib

Ibn Jareer related: Al-Waqidi claimed that in the month of Ramadan exactly seven months after his Hijrah, Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) handed over a white flag to Hamzah Ibn Abdul-Muttalib to lead thirty men in a military expedition to intercept the caravans of the Quraish and that Hamzah met Aba Jahl at the head of three hundred of the Quraish, but the honor of Ibn Amr restrained them and there was no fighting between the two groups. He added that the standard bearer of Hamzah in the expedition was Abu Marthaid Al-Ghanawi.

The Expedition of Ubaidah Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Abdul-Muttalib

Ibn Jareer related: Al-Waqidi also claimed that in the eighth (month of hijrah) same year, the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) gave a white battle flag to Ubaidah Ibn Al-Harith and commanded him to march to the centre of Rabigh. His standard was held by Mistah Ibn Uthathah. When they reached Thaniyyat Al-Marah close to Juhfah at the head sixty men of the emigrants, there was no Ansari man amongst them, they met the polytheists by the water source called Ahyaa. An exchange of arrows ensued between them but there was no sword fighting. Al-Waqidi said: The polytheists numbered two hundred headed by Abu Sufyan Sakhr Ibn Harb and that is a confirmed report in our perception too but some also claim that they were headed by Mikraz Ibn Hafsa.

Expedition of Sa'd Ibn Abi Waqqas

Al-Waqidi related: In Dhul-Qa'dah of the same year, i.e. the first year (of Hijrah), the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) sent Sa'd Ibn Abi Waqqas on a military expedition to Kharrar with a white flag held by Miqdad Ibn Al-Aswad. Abu Bakr Ibn Isma'eel narrated to me through his father from Amir Ibn Sa'd reporting that his father said: "I marched out at the head of twenty men on our feet, or he said twenty one men. We would hide by day time and march forth by night until we arrived at Kharrar in the early morning of the fifth day. Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) had taken a covenant from me never to go beyond Kharrar. Meanwhile, the sixty caravans had preceded me a day before my arrival." All of those who were with Sa'd (in that expedition) were from the emigrants.

Events of the Second Year of Hijrah

Several battles and expeditions occurred in this year. Among the most significant of those battles was the great battle of Badr which occurred in the month of Ramadan. With that battle, Allah made a distinction between the Truth and falsehood, between guidance and misguidance. Here, we relate about the battles and military forays and Allah is the Source of help.

The Book of Military Expedition

Imam Muhammad Ibn Ishaq Ibn Yasar said in his book of history after mentioning the Rabbis of the Jews and their pedigrees as well as their enmity toward Islam and its adherents and what was revealed concerning them in the verses of the Qur'an. Among them was Huyayy Ibn Akhtab and his two brothers, Yasir and Juday as well as Sallam Ibn Mishkam, Kinanah Ibn ar-Rabee' Ibn Abil-Huqaiq, Sallam Ibn Abil-Huqaiq, etc.

From the Banu Tha'labah Ibn Fityawn was Abdullah Ibn Sooriya. Throughout the Arabian Peninsula, no one had more knowledge of the Tawrah than him. I (the author) said: It was said that he accepted Islam along with Ibn Salooba and Mukhaireeq who accepted Islam on the Day of the Battle of Uhud as shall be related shortly. He was the Rabbi of his people.

From the Banu Qainuqa' were Zaid Ibn Al-Lusait, Sa'd Ibn Hunaif, Mahmood Ibn Saihaan, Uzaiz Ibn Abi Uzaiz, Abdullah Ibn Saif, Suwaid Ibn Al-Harith, Rifa'ah Ibn Qais, Finhas, Ashya' and Nu'man Ibn Ada', etc.

Ibn Ishaq added: From Quraizah were Az-Zubair Ibn Bataa Ibn Wahb, Azzal Ibn Shamweel, Ka'b Ibn Asad who was the bearer of their pact which they repudiated in the year of Ahzab, Shamweel Ibn Zaid, Jabal Ibn Amr Ibn Sukainah etc.

From Banu Zuraiq was Labeed Ibn A'sam who casted a spell on the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) From the Jews of Banu Harithah was Kinanah Ibn Sooriya. From the Jews of Banu Amr Ibn 'Awf was Qardam Ibn Amr. From the Jews of Banu An-Najjar was Silsilah Ibn Barham.

Ibn Ishaq added: All of these personalities were the Jewish Rabbis and the arrow heads of evil and enmity toward the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and his Companions, Allah be pleased with them all. They were also the questioning lots who were profuse in their putting questions to the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) in their obstinacy, intransigence and disbelief. They were also the ones who made the most strenuous efforts at exterminating Islam with the exception of Abdullah Ibn Salaam and Mukhaireeq.

Then he mentioned the acceptance of Islam of Abdullah Ibn Salaam and that of his aunt Khalidah as mentioned earlier on. He also mentioned the acceptance of Islam of Mukhaireeq on the Day of Uhud as shall be mentioned in due course; and that he said to his people on the day of Sabbath: "O company of Jews, by Allah, you are aware that the victory of Muhammad over you will come to pass." They responded: "Today is Sabbath." He said: "There is no Sabbath for you." Then he held his weapon and went out. He entered into an agreement with his followers among his people saying: "If I am killed today, my wealth should be turned over to Muhammad and he may dispose it in a manner deemed fit by Allah." He was a man of considerable wealth. So he joined the battle alongside the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and fought relentlessly until he was killed, Allah be pleased with him. It has been related to me that the Messenger used to say concerning him: "Mukhaireeq was the best of the Jews."

Then Ibn Ishaq mentioned those who inclined toward these Jewish adversaries among the hypocrites of Aws and Khazraj. From the Aws were Zuwayy Ibn Al-Harith and Julas Ibn Suwaid Ibn as-Samit AlAnsari. The following verse was revealed concerning him:

"They swear by Allah that they said nothing (bad), but really they said the word of disbelief, and they disbelieved after accepting Islam." (At-Tawbah [9]:74) in response to his statement when he lagged behind from the Battle of Tabook: “If this man is truly (a Messenger) then we are in a worse situation than donkeys.” His step son, Umair Ibn Sa’d overheard and exposed him to the Messenger of Allah. AlJulas disputed and swore that he never made such a statement and that verse came down concerning him.

It is claimed that he repented so sincerely that he became well known for his Islam and righteousness. His brother, Al-Harith Ibn Suwaid was the one who killed Al-Mujadhdhar Ibn Dhiyaad Al-Balawi and Qais Ibn Zaid from Banu Dubai’ah on the Day of the battle of Uhud. He marched forth alongside the Muslims while he was a hypocrite. When the two armies met, he attacked and killed the two Muslims then went over to join the Quraish.

Ibn Hisham related that Al-Mujadhdhar had killed his father, Suwaid Ibn Samit in one of the battles fought between them during the period of Jahiliyyah so he avenged the death of his father against him in the Battle of Uhud.

This how Ibn Hisham has related it meanwhile Ibn Ishaq had mentioned that the killer of Suwaid Ibn Samit was Mu’adh Ibn ‘Afraa’ who killed him outside the field of battle before the occurrence the Battle of Bu’ath. He shot and killed him with an arrow. However, Ibn Hisham objects that Al-Harith be blamed for the killing of Qais Ibn Zaid for, according to him, Ibn Ishaq himself did not count him among the casualties of the battle of Uhud.

Ibn Ishaq related: Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) had ordered Umar Ibn Al-Khattab to kill him whenever he is captured. Al-Harith later sent a message to his brother, Julas requesting him to seek penitence for him so that he may return to his people. Then Allah revealed concerning that, according to what was related to me from Ibn ‘Abbas: “How shall Allah guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and after they bore witness that the Messenger (Muhammad) is true and after clear proofs had come unto them? And Allah guides not the people who are Zalimoon (polytheists and wrong-doers).” (Aal 'Imran [3]:86) till the end of the story.

He added: Among them were Bijad Ibn Uthman Ibn Amir and Nabtal Ibn Al-Harith who was the same person about whom Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “Whoever wishes to see Shaytan should have a look at this (person).” He was a bulky man with extremely dark-red skinned, rough haired with reddish eyes. He used to hear words from the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and then he would relate it to the hypocrites. He was the same person who said: “Verily, Muhammad is all ears, he believes whatever anyone tells him.” then Allah revealed:

He added: Among them were Abu Habeebah Ibn Al-Az’ar who was among those who built the Masjid Ad-Dirar as well as Tha’labah Ibn Hatib and Mu’attib Ibn Qushair both of whom were the duo who gave a pledge to Allah that: “If He bestowed on us of His Bounty, we will verily, give Sadaqah (Zakah and voluntary charity in Allah’s Cause) (At-Tawbah [9]:75) and then they reneged on their pledge and that verse was revealed concerning them. Mu’attib was the same person who said on the day of the battle of Uhud: “If we had anything to do with the affair, none of us would have been killed here.” Then Allah revealed the verse concerning it: “Even if you had remained in your homes, those for whom death was decreed would certainly have gone forth to the place of their death,” He was the same person who said on the Day of Ahzab: “Muhammad is promising that we will obtain the treasure of Kisra and Qaisar while each one of us do not even feel safe going to the toilet.” Then Allah revealed concerning him:

“And when the hypocrites and those in whose hearts is a disease (of doubts) said: “Allah and His Messenger promised us nothing but delusions!” (Al-Ahzab [33]:12)

Ibn Ishaq added: Among the Khazraj were Rafi' Ibn Wadee'ah, Zaid Ibn Amr, Amr Ibn Qais, Qais Ibn Amr Ibn Sahl, Al-Jadd Ibn Qais who was the same person who said: “Grant me leave (to be exempted from Jihad) and put me not into trial.” (At-Tawbah [9]:49), Abdullah Ibn Ubayy Ibn Salool who was the same person who said: “If we return to Al-Madinah, indeed the more honorable (‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy Ibn Salool, the chief of hypocrites at Al-Madinah) will expel there from the meaner (i.e. Allah’s Messenger).” (Al-Munaafiqoon [63]:8). Considerable number of verses of the Qur’an had been revealed concerning him. It was concerning him and the trustee of the man from Banu 'Awf as well as concerning Malik Ibn Abi Qawqal, Suwaid and Da'is among his cohorts that Allah revealed: “Surely, if they (the Jews) are expelled, never will they (hypocrites) go out with them.” (Al-Hashr [59]:12) when they inclined secretly toward Banu an-Nadeer.

Those Who Accepted Islam Among the Jews Out of Dissimulation

Then Ibn Ishaq mentioned those who accepted Islam among the Jewish rabbis out of dissimulation while they were still upon their disbelief internally. A group of the vilest hypocrites followed them. They were Sa'd Ibn Hunayf, Zaid Ibn Al-Lusait who was the same person who said when the camel of the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) got lost: “Muhammad claims that he receives news from the heavens meanwhile he does not know where his camel is?!” Then Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said: “By Allah, I know nothing except what I am taught by Allah and He has guided me to where it (the camel) is. It is currently at this mountain pass detained by a tree which hooked its rein.” Some men among the Muslims went toward the direction indicated by the Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) and found it as he has said.

He added: These hypocrites used to attend the mosque, listen to the discussions of the Muslims and they would gibe and make jest of their religion. One day, a group of people gathered in the mosque and the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) saw them discussing in hushed tones while they were closely clinged to one another. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) called them and then turned them out of the mosque roughly.

The first military expedition was the expedition of Al-Abwa’ Also Referred to as the Battle of Waddan

Al-Bukhari related in the Book of Military Expedition that Ibn Ishaq said: The first battle ever fought by the Messenger of Allah was that of Al-Abwa’, then Buwat and then Al-Ushairah. It has also been narrated from Zaid Ibn Arqam that he was asked, “How many Ghazawat did the Prophet undertake?” Zaid replied, “Nineteen.” They said, “In how many Ghazawat did you join him?” He replied, “Seventeen.” I asked, “Which of these was the first?” He replied, “Al-Ushairah or Al-Ushairah.”

It is also recorded in Saheeh Al-Bukhari from Buraidah who said: He participated in sixteen Ghazawat alongside Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him). Imam Muslim also related that he participated in sixteen battles. And in another narration it added that he participated in nineteen battles and fought directly in eighteen of them.

Hanbal Ibn Ishaq related that Az-Zuhri said that the first Verse to be revealed concerning fighting was:

“Permission to fight is given to those (i.e. believers against disbelievers), who are fighting them, (and) because they (believers) have been wronged.” (Al-Hajj [22]:39) this was after the arrival of the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) in Madinah. The first one of the battles which he personally witnessed was that of Badr which occurred on Jumu’ah of the 17th day of the month of Ramadan.

He also added that he (Allah’s Messenger [peace and blessing of Allah be upon him]) fought the battle of Uhud in Shawwal i.e. in the third year and then he fought the battle of Khandaq also in Shawwal of the fourth year (of Hijrah). He fought Banu Lihyan in Sha’ban the fifth year and then he fought in the battle of Khaybar in the sixth year and then the conquest (of Makkah) occurred in Sha’ban of the eighth year. The Battle of Hunain occurred in the month of Ramadan of the same year. The Prophet fought the 11th battle but did not personally fight in it.

The first battle fought by the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) was that of Al-Abwa’, then Al-‘Ushairah, then the battle of Ghatafan followed by the Battle of Banu Sulaim, then Ghazwah of Al-Abwa’ followed by the first Badr, then the battle of At-Ta’if. Thereafter he fought the battle of Hudaibiyah and then that of As-Safra’ followed by Tabook which was the last battle (he fought).

Then he mentioned military detachments that were sent out. This is how I have written it from the (book of) history of Al-Hafiz Ibn Asakir and it is extremely odd. The correct version is what we shall mention in their order shortly by the permission of Allah. This branch (of knowledge) is from those that is incumbent to be concerned with, to be revered and to be prepared to acquire as narrated by Muhammad Ibn Umar Al-Waqidi from Abdullah Ibn Umar Ibn Ali from his Father that he heard Ali Ibn Al-Husain saying: “We used to teach about the battles of the Prophet just as we used to teach the chapters of the Qur’an.”

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq, Allah have mercy on him, said in Al-Maghazi: Thereafter, Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) girded his loins concerning what Allah has commanded him of Jihad against His enemies. From Allah’s command was the fighting against who were close among the polytheists.

Then Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) marched forth to fight in the month of Safar exactly twelve months after his arrival at Madinah. Ibn Hisham added: And he appointed Sa’d Ibn Ubadah over Madinah in his stead.

Ibn Ishaq continued: The Prophet (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) marched forth till he reached Waddan which is also known as the Battle of Al-Abwa’. Ibn Jareer said: “It is also known as the Battle of Waddan.” With the intention of fighting the Quraish and Banu Damrah Ibn Bakr Ibn Abd Manat Ibn Kinanah but they made peace agreement with him and the one who made that peace pact amongst them was Makhshi Ibn Amr Ad-Damri and he was their chief at the time. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) returned to Madinah and no fighting ensued. He remained in Madinah for the remainder of the month of Safar and the beginning of Rabee’ ul-Awwal. Ibn Hisham added: And that was the first battle ever fought by the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him).

Ibn Ishaq related: In his stead, Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) appointed Ubaidah Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Abdul-Muttalib Ibn Abd Manaf Ibn Qusayy to lead other sixty or eighty horsemen from the emigrants. There was no single Ansari among them. He marched forth until he reached the water of Hijaaz at the lower part of Thaniyyat Al-Marah. They confronted a great multitude of the Quraish but no serious fighting took place between them except that Sa'd Ibn Abi Waqqas was hit by an arrow that day. He was the first to be shot an arrow in the part of Allah in Al-Islam.

Ibn Ishaq related: The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) also appointed Hamzah Ibn Abdul-Muttalib Ibn Hashim to in his stead to lead a military contingent comprising of thirty horsemen only from the emigrants and none of them was an Ansari to the seashore in the direction of AlAees. He met Abu Jahl Ibn Hisham at that sea coast ahead of three hundred riders from the people of Makkah. Majdi Ibn Amr Al-Juhani restrained and made peace between both parties and they went their different ways without a fight.

Ibn Ishaq also related: Some people say that the standard of Hamzah was the first war standard affixed by the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) for anyone among the Muslims and that his dispatch and that of Ubaidah occurred simultaneously and so it became seeming to the people (that Ubaidah was the first)

The Ghazwah of Buwat Toward Radwa

Ibn Ishaq related: Thereafter, Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) marched forth in the month of Rabee' ul-Awwal i.e. in the second year (of Hijrah) seeking the Quraish. Ibn Hisham added: He appointed over Madinah, as-Sa'ib Ibn Uthman Ibn Maz'oon.

Ibn Ishaq continued: (He advanced) till he reached Buwat in the direction of Radwa and then he returned to Madinah and he did not fight. He remained at Madinah for the remainder of the month of Rabee' ulAkhir and some part of Jumada (Al-Ooula). Then he raided the Quraish i.e. in that raid referred to as the raid of Al-Ushairah.

Ibn Hisham added: And he appointed Abu Salamah Ibn Abdul-Asad to deputies for him over Madinah. Al-Bukhari related that Ibn Ishaq said: Once, while I was sitting beside Zaid Ibn Al-Arqam, he was asked, "How many Ghazawat did the Prophet undertake?" Zaid replied, "Nineteen." They said, "In how many Ghazawat did you join him?" He replied, "Seventeen." I asked, "Which of these was the first?" He replied, "Al-'Ushair or Al-Usaira." This Hadith clearly indicates that the first Ghazwah was that of AlUshairah.

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq related: On that day, Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said to Ali "O Abu Turab," owing to the sand that was on him and we informed him what had occurred of our affairs. So he said: "Shouldn't I inform you of the two most wretched of men?" We said, "Yes, O Messenger of Allah." He said: "the man of Thamood who killed the camel and the one who would strike you over here (i.e. on his forehead) until you are wet with your blood till," placing his hand on his beard." This version of the Hadith is strange and has a corroboration from another version concerning the nick naming of Ali 'Abu Turab' as contained in as-Saheeh Al-Bukhari that Ali once got angry with (his wife) Fatimah, and went out (of his house) and slept in the mosque. The Prophet came to their house and asked her of his whereabouts and she said: "He went out angrily." The Prophet came to the mosque and stirred him up while removing the dust from his back, saying, "Get up, O Abu Turab!" The First Battle of Badr

Ibn Ishaq related: Thereafter, upon his return from the battle of Al-Ushairah, Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) did not remain in Madinah except a few nights less than ten before he raided Kurz Ibn Jabir Al-Fihri over the pastures of Madinah. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) marched forth to seek him until he reached a valley called ‘Safwan’ in the direction of Badr. That was the first battle of Badr. Kuraz escaped and thus he could not catch up with him.

Al-Waqidi said: His standard (on that day) was borne by Ali Ibn Abi Talib.

Detachment of Abdullah Ibn Jahsh Which Was Incidental to the Great Battle of Badr

Ibn Ishaq related: The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) dispatched Abdullah Ibn Jahsh Ibn Ri’ab Al-Asadi in the month of Rajab after returning from the botched first Badr along with a group of eight men from the emigrants and there was not a single Ansari amongst them. The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) wrote a document for him and ordered him not to open it until they had travelled for two days and then they may read the document and then carry out whatever command contained therein. He was also forbidden to coerce anyone among his companions. When they had travelled for two days, they opened the document and they found written therein: “After you have read my document, proceed until you descend into the palm tree plantation located between Makkah and Ta’if. From here, you will surveil the Quraish and ferret for us information regarding their movements.” After he had read the document, he responded ‘I have heard and I have obeyed.’ He informed his companions of the content of the document and said: “I have been forbidden to coerce anyone of you. So whoever of you desires martyrdom then let him advance and whoever objects to it, let him return.”

Then a caravan of the Quraish passed by them carrying raisin and butter and some of their merchandise. In the caravan was Amr Ibn Al-Hadrami. The people debated on whether to attack the caravan instead and soon after they decided upon attacking the caravan. They embolden themselves against them and fell upon whoever they were able to overpower and then dispossessed them of their belongings.

When they returned to Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) in Madinah he blamed them saying: "I did not send you to fight in the sacred month." Their brethren from among the believers equally upbraided them over what they had done. The Quraish began to spread words around that Muhammad and his companions have violated the sacred month.

When the people became persistent upon that, Allah revealed: "They ask you concerning fighting in the Sacred Months (i.e. 1st, 7th, 11th and 12th months of the Islamic calendar). Say, 'Fighting therein is a great (transgression) but a greater (transgression) with Allah is to prevent mankind from following the Way of Allah, to disbelieve in Him, to prevent access to Al-Masjid-Al-Haram (at Makkah), and to drive out its inhabitants, and Al-Fitnah is worse than killing. And they will never cease fighting you until they turn you back from your religion (Islamic Monotheism) if they can.'" (Al-Baqarah [2]:217)

i.e. if you had fought in the sacred month, they had also prevented you from the path of Allah coupled with their disbelief. They had also prevented you from the sacred mosque and had expelled you from there even though you were its inhabitants. All of these are more grievous in the sight of Allah than your killing of those whom you had killed from their rank. Moreover, Al-Fitnah is worse than killing i.e. they had put the Muslim to trial (Fitnah) concerning his faith until they forced him to recant and return to disbelief after his belief. That is far more grievous in the sight of Allah than killing. They have perpetrated something worse and more heinous than that without remorse or restrain.

This is why Allah says: “And they will never cease fighting you until they turn you back from your religion (Islamic Monotheism) if they can.” (Al-Baqarah [2]:217)

Ibn Ishaq said: When the feeling of disappointment felt by Abdullah Ibn Jahsh and his companions had eased owing to the revelation of the verse, they aspired for reward. They said: O Messenger of Allah, do we have a hope that our expedition is that of Jihad for which we will obtain the reward of mujahidin?” Then Allah revealed: “Verily, those who have believed, and those who have emigrated (for Allah’s Religion) and have striven hard in the Way of Allah, all these hope for Allah’s Mercy. And Allah is OftForgiving, Most-Merciful.” (Al-Baqarah [2]:218) Thus Allah described them with a hope greater than their expectation.

Ibn Ishaq said: Abu Bakr As-Siddiq rendered a poem concerning the expedition of Abdullah Ibn Jahsh in response to what the polytheists were saying regarding the desecration of the sacred month. Ibn Hisham, however, said that it was Abdullah Ibn Jahsh himself who rendered it: (excerpt from a long poem)

You consider our killing in the sacred month as something heinous

Meanwhile it is far more heinous in the perception of the guided conscious mind

Your alienation from what Muhammad is saying

And your disbelief in him, Allah Sees and Witnesses

Your expulsion (of the Believers) from the mosque of Allah

So that they may not be seen in the Mosque prostrating to Allah

The Changing of the Qiblah in the Second Year of Hijrah Prior to the Battle of Badr

Some of them have said: that occurred in the month of Rajab second year of Hijrah. This is the opinion of Qatadah, Zaid Ibn Aslam and an opinion related from Muhammad Ibn Is'haaq. Imam Ahmad has also reported something to that effect from Ibn Abbas. It is also the apparent import of the Hadith of Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib as shall be mentioned shortly. However some others believe it occurred in the month of Sha'ban of the same year.

Al-Bukhari related from Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib that: The Prophet performed prayer facing Bait-Al-Maqdis (i.e. Jerusalem) for sixteen or seventeen months but he wished that his Qiblah would be the Ka'bahh (at Makkah). (So Allah Revealed [Al-Baqarah [2]:144] and he offered Asr prayers (in his Mosque facing Ka'bahh at Makkah) and some people prayed with him. A man from among those who had prayed with him went out and passed by some people offering prayer in another mosque and they were in the state of bowing. He said, "I, (swearing by Allah,) testify that I have prayed with the Prophet facing Makkah." Hearing that, they turned their faces to the Ka'bah while they were still bowing. Some men had died before the Qiblah was changed toward the Ka'bah. They had been killed and we did not know what to say about them (i.e. whether their prayers toward Jerusalem were accepted or not). So Allah revealed: "And Allah would never make your faith (prayers) to be lost (i.e. your prayers offered toward Jerusalem). Truly, Allah is full of kindness, the Most Merciful toward mankind." (Al-Baqarah [2]:143)

The summary of the whole affairs is that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) used to pray in

Makkah toward Jerusalem while the Ka'bah was right there in his presence as related by Imam Ahmad from Ibn Abbas, Allah be pleased with him. When he migrated to Madinah, it was impossible for him to combined the two so he prayed while facing Jerusalem and backing the Ka'bah at the outset of his arrival at Madinah. This continued for sixteen or seventeen months with the effect that it continued till Rajab of the second year. And Allah knows best. All the while, the Prophet had wished that the Qiblah would be changed to the Ka'bah which was the Qiblah of Ibrahim. He used to call profusely, humble himself and supplicate to Allah. He would also raise his hands and his glance to the sky in earnest request for that. Then Allah revealed:

“Verily! We have seen the turning of your (Muhammad’s) face toward the heaven. Surely, We shall turn you to a Qiblah (prayer direction) that shall please you, so turn your face in the direction of Al-Masjid- Al-Haram (at Makkah).” (Al-Baqarah [2]:144)

When the command to change the Qiblah was revealed, the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) addressed the Muslims and taught them the new command as related by An-Nasa’i from Abu Sa’eed Ibn Al-Mu’alla and that occurred at the time of Zuhr. Some people, however, said that the command for the redirection of the Qiblah occurred in between the two Salats. This is the view of Mujahid and other than him and the proof for that is what is recorded in the two saheehs from Al-Bara’ that the first prayer that Allah’s Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) offered in Madinah while facing the Ka’bah was the Asr prayer.

Strangely, that information did not reach the people of Quba until the time of Subh prayer the next day when someone came to them and said: “The Qur’an has been revealed to Allah’s Messenger and he has been commanded to face the Ka’bah, so turn toward it. Prior to that time, they were facing Shaam so they turned (while still in prayer) to face Ka’bah.”

The import of this is that when the command for the redirection of the Qiblah toward Ka’bah was revealed, that constitutes an abrogation of praying toward Jerusalem.

Slandorous, foolish, ignorant and dim-witted fellows taunted: “What has turned them (Muslims) from their Qiblah [prayer direction (toward Jerusalem)] to which they were used to face in prayer.” (AlBaqarah [2]:142)

This and the disbelievers of the People of the Book knew that it is from Allah owing to what they had found in their Books concerning the description of Muhammad and concerning the fact Madinah would eventually be the place of his migration and that he would be commanded to face the Ka’bah as Allah says:

“Certainly, the people who were given the Scriptures (i.e. Jews and the Christians) know well that, that (your turning toward the direction of the Ka’bah at Makkah in prayers) is the truth from their Lord.” (AlBaqarah [2]:144)

Along with this, Allah also responded to all their questions and obdurances. Allah says: “The fools (pagans, hypocrites, and Jews) among the people will say, “What has turned them (Muslims) from their Qiblah [prayer direction (toward Jerusalem)] to which they were used to face in prayer.” Say, (O Muhammad) “to Allah belong both, East and the West. He guides whom He wills to a Straight Way.” (Al-Baqarah [2]:142) i.e. He is the Sovereign, the Director, the Judge Whose judgment cannot be interdicted. He legislates whatever He wishes in His Shari’ah. He guides whom He wills to a Straight Way and leads astray whomever He wills away from the Correct Path and in doing that He has Wisdom with which we must be pleased and to which we must submit.

Then Allah says: “Thus We have made you [true Muslims - real believers of Islamic Monotheism, true followers of Prophet Muhammad and his Sunnah (legal ways)], a Wasat (just) nation.” (Al-Baqarah [2]:143) i.e. the best of nations. “...that you be witnesses over mankind and the Messenger (Muhammad) be a witness over you.” (Al-Baqarah [2]:143) i.e. just as We have chosen for you the best of direction for your Salat and guided you to the Qiblah of your father Ibrahim, the father of all the Prophets; to which Moosa and those who came before him among the Messengers used to face in their prayers. Thus have We made you the best of nations and quintessence of the worlds, the most noble group of both the ancient and recent times so that you may be witnesses over mankind on the Day of Judgment owing to their unanimity on your preference and their reference to you with superiority as established in saheeh AlBukhari from the Hadith of Abu Sa’eed in a marfoo’ form regarding Nooh’s choice of this Ummah as his witness on the day of Judgment. If Nooh has chosen them inspite of his time preceding theirs, then how much more those who came after him.

Thereafter, Allah clarifies His Wisdom while informing of the advent of His indignation and wrath for the one who doubts and is hesitant concerning this incident and the advent of His munificence for those who believes and follows this being. Allah says: “And We made the Qiblah (prayer direction toward Jerusalem) which you used to face, only to test those who followed the Messenger (Muhammad).” (AlBaqarah [2]:143)

Ibn Abbas explains: i.e. so that We may distinguish between those who would follow the Messenger of Allah “...from those who would turn on their heels (i.e. disobey the Messenger). Indeed it was great (heavy)...” (Al-Baqarah [2]:143) i.e. even though the implication of this incident is great and hard “except for those whom Allah guided.” (Al-Baqarah [2]:143) i.e. those who believe in it, accepts its reality without entertaining doubt but are pleased and submit to it. They believe and act for there are true worshippers of the Great Law-Giver, the Able and Omnipotent, the All-Aware, the Most Kind and Courteous and the All-Knowing.

Allah says: “Allah would never make your faith (prayers) to be lost (i.e. your prayers offered toward Jerusalem).” i.e. the legislation of praying toward Jerusalem. “Truly, Allah is full of kindness, the Most Merciful toward mankind.” Ahadeeth and narrations concerning this are quite copious indeed more than could be enumerated (here). However, they have been extensively discussed in the Tafseer. Nevertheless, further explanation shall be provided in our book Al-Ahkam Al-Kabeer.

Imam Ahmad has related that 'A'ishah narrated that Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) said concerning the People of the Book: “They are not envious of us over anything as much as they are envy us over Friday to which Allah guided us and which they missed. They are envious of us over the direction of prayer which they missed and our saying “Ameen,” behind the Imam.”

The Obligation of Fast of Ramadan in the Second Year Prior to the Battle of Badr

Allah says: “O you who believe! Observing As-Saum (the fasting) is prescribed for you as it was prescribed for those before you, that you may become Al-Muttaqun (the pious - see V.2:2). [Observing Saum (fasts)] for a fixed number of days, but if any of you is ill or on a journey, the same number (should be made up) from other days. And as for those who can fast with difficulty, (e.g. an old man, etc.), they have (a choice either to fast or) to feed a Miskin (poor person) (for every day). But whoever does good of his own accord, it is better for him. And that you fast, it is better for you if only you know. The month of Ramadan in which was revealed the Qur'an, a guidance for mankind and clear proofs for the guidance and the criterion (between right and wrong). So whoever of you sights (the crescent on the first night of) the month (of Ramadan i.e. is present at his home), he must observe Saum (fasts) that month, and whoever is ill or on a journey, the same number [of days which one did not observe Saum (fasts) must be made up] from other days. (Al-Baqarah [2]:183-185)

Imam Ahmad related that Mu'adh Ibn Jabal said: The prayer was transmuted in three situations and the fasting was also transmuted in three situations. Then he mentioned the situations of prayer. Then he said: "As for the situations of fasting, when Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) arrived at Madinah, he used to fast three days in every month. Then he fasted Ashoora'. Thereafter Allah made fasting obligatory upon him when He revealed: "O you who believe! Observing As-Saum (the fasting) is prescribed for you as it was prescribed for those before you." (Al-Baqarah [2]:183) up to His statement: "And as for those who can fast with difficulty, (e.g. an old man, etc.), they have (a choice either to fast or) to feed a Miskin (poor person) (for every day)." (Al-Baqarah [2]:184) It used be that whoever wished fasted and whoever wished fed the poor and Allah permitted that for them. Then Allah revealed the other verse: "The month of Ramadan in which was revealed the Qur'an," (Al-Baqarah [2]:185) up to His statement: "So whoever of you sights (the crescent on the first night of) the month (of Ramadan i.e. is present at his home), he must observe Saum (fasts) that month." (Al-Baqarah [2]:185) Thus the fasting of that month becomes obligatory upon the resident and the healthy and concession was provided for the ill and the one on a journey. Feeding in lieu of fasting was established for the elderly who is unable to fast. These are the two situations.

He added: They were permitted to eat, drink and have sexual relation with their wives as long as they did not sleep. But if they slept, then they were to refrain. A man from the Ansar called Sirmah used work while fasting till nightfall. One day, he came back to his wife, offered the Isha' prayer and then he slept without eating or drinking anything (to break the days's fasts) until daybreak. So he began the day's fast like that. Thereafter Allah's Messenger (peace and blessing of Allah be upon him) saw him extremely exhausted and he asked: "Why do you appear extremely exhausted?" Then the man informed him of his situation. Added to that, Umar had had relationship with his wife after he had slept so he came to mention the incident to the Messenger of Allah and then Allah revealed another verse:

"It is made lawful for you to have sexual relations with your wives on the night of As-Saum (the fasts)," (Al-Baqarah [2]:187) up to "...then complete your Saum (fast) till the nightfall." (Al-Baqarah [2]:187)

Preface to the Revision

In the Name of Allah, the Most Beneficent, the Most Merciful

All praise and thanks be to Allah (SWT), Who revived knowledge of His religion and caused it to blossom forth after it had all but disappeared, and Who demolished the false conjectures of the apostates. I praise Him and I seek refuge with Him from the sins which weigh upon the backs of mankind. I worship Him and seek His aid in removing hindrances and difficulties in the practice of my religion. I bear witness that none has the right to be worshipped except Allah, Alone, without partners and I bear witness that Muhammad – who, by Allah’s leave, brought about the dawn of faith to the darkness and misguidance which existed in the hearts of mankind – is the slave and Messenger of Allah. May the Blessings and Peace of Allah be upon him in perpetuity.

O, Allah! We seek Your favor and through You we seek to ward off affliction. We ask You to protect us and to grant us mercy. Our Lord! Make not our hearts deviate after You have already guided us. Make it easy for us to perform our deeds in the way that You have taught us. Make us grateful for what You have given us and make plain a path for us which leads to You. Open up the doors between us and You by which we may arrive before You. To You belong the keys to the heavens and the Earth and You are Most Able to do all things. To proceed:

Among the blessings which Allah has bestowed upon us, the community of Muslims is that He has made it easy for us to follow the path of guidance, and He has opened the doors of knowledge by making available to us these new publications, which present to us the writings of the early scholars and reveal to us what they said regarding legal verdicts, history, events, information and lessons. These scholars opened a clear beacon of light for all those Muslims seeking guidance and they set up for us a signpost in which there is neither deviation nor crookedness. Whoever follows it will arrive safely at his desired destination and whoever diverts from it will be lost forever. They have written these books and treatises and made clear to us therein events, information and virtues. Among such books is this unique work, Al-Bidayah Wan-Nihayah, by the Imam, the Hafiz, the master scholar of hadeeth, ‘Imaduddeen Isma’eel Ibn Katheer Al-Qurashi – may Allah have mercy on him. This book was greeted with approval by the vast majority of Muslims. No Islamic library would be complete without it. In it, the author has recorded what Allah, Most High has made easy for him about the history of mankind, from the beginning of creation, starting with the creation of the Throne and the Kursi (Footstool), the heavens and the Earth and all that they contain and all that lies between them, such as the angels, the jinn and the devils. He also described how Adam (Peace be upon him) was created, and told the stories of the prophets up to the days of the Children of Isra’eel and the Days of Ignorance (Jahiliyyah), until the advent of Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), which heralded the end of Prophethood. He then recorded his Seerah. Then he recorded the events which took place up to his own time. He also spoke of the trials and battles, the signs of the approach of the Hour, then the sending forth of mankind and the terrors of the Resurrection, which he described in detail. He then described the Hell-fire, with all its horrors, and Paradise and all the good things contained therein. He called this particular volume of his book: AnNihayah Fil-Fitan Wal-Malahim (The Ending in Trials and Battles). As for the book which is in our hands today, it is Al-Bidayah.

By Allah’s Grace, I came to know brother Abdul Malik Mujahid, the general manager of Darussalam Publishing in Riyadh. He visited me in my humble office in Damascus and suggested to me the idea of creating a summarized version of this wonderful book. I prayed for Allah’s Guidance in the matter and sought help from Him in completing the project. Allah enabled me to make the acquaintance of a number of people of knowledge and experience in this field and a plan of action for the work was written. It consisted of ten principal points and we then started the task, seeking help from the Lord of the heavens and the Earth. All of us exerted our utmost efforts in this task, making repeated revisions and corrections, until we reached the point where, by Allah’s Permission, we completed it and it was published in the form which is in your hands today.

The Plan of Action for This Book:

1. Summarization of the text. This was achieved by concentrating on the most important events narrated in the book. In doing so, we took care not to leave out any important details which would cause loss of meaning or import.
2. We relied on a number of printed and handwritten copies of the book and in cases where any contradiction or omission was found, we succeeded in establishing the most accurate and authentic text.
3. We left out the ahadeeth which proved to be baseless or weak and confined ourselves to the ahadeeth which are authentic or hasan and those which are acceptable due to the existence of other supporting narrations. On rare occasions, when it was found that there were no other ahadeeth in the chapter, we included some weak ahadeeth whose weakness was not of an extreme nature.
4. We performed takhreej of the ahadeeth with ascription of the number of the section and the page, the number of the hadeeth and in many cases, the precise location of the hadeeth in the original source, then the ruling on its authenticity, if it was not from the Saheehain, because the ahadeeth therein do not require any ruling on their authenticity and they have been widely accepted by the Muslim Ummah. As for the ahadeeth in this book, we have relied on the opinions of the Imams and scholars of hadeeth – including the earlier scholars, the later scholars and those of the present day. On some occasions, we have recorded the weak ahadeeth, while making it plain that they are not authentic. We have not omitted them because the author has included them in order to warn the people against them due to their widespread popularity amongst the Muslims in general. In such cases, we desired not to oppose the author in this effort and so we left them, at the same time making the scholars' ruling on them clear, so as to warn the people against them.
5. We summarized the asaneed present in the book, in most cases mentioning only the Companion who narrated the hadeeth, or the person who reported it from him.

6. We omitted many of the Isra'eeliyyat found in this book which the author referred to in the preface, where he said: "We do not record the Isra'eeliyyat except those which the Lawgiver has permitted, i.e., those which do not contradict the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). These are stories which are neither believed nor belied and they have been recorded because they provide details of unclarified narratives that we have, or they provide names for people and places that have only been mentioned in passing in our Revelation, due to there being no benefit in specifying them for us. Thus we have reported them in order to provide extra detail and not with the intention of citing them as evidence or placing any reliance on them. Only the Book of Allah and the authentic Sunnah of His Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) may be relied and depended upon. It is from Allah that we seek help and it is He in Whom we place our trust; there is no help and no power except in Allah, the All-Powerful, the Most Wise, the Most High, the Almighty.
7. In some instances, we have referred back to the original manuscript in order to verify the wording of a hadeeth from its source. In some cases, the author has combined two narrations of the same hadeeth together and so where this has occurred, we have noted it and separated the two narrations, placing our own words between brackets, i.e., (and in another narration...) and we have also identified the source of the addition in the footnotes.
8. We have written the Qur'anic Verses in the Uthmani script, in conformity with the copy of the Qur'an published by Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah Printing Complex.
9. We vowelised the words of many of the ahadeeth in the book and, in addition, the poetic verses, wherever possible.
10. We mentioned the meters of the poetic verses between parentheses.
11. We explained the meanings of some difficult or obscure words, relying on dictionaries, books containing ghareeb ahadeeth and narrations and other sources.

12. We furnished a brief biography of the author, Hafiz Ibn Katheer though in reality, he requires no introduction and no description.

Finally, I ask Allah, Most High, to accept this humble work from us and to acknowledge it as having been done purely and sincerely with the aim of pleasing Him and to grant us and our brothers, who assisted us in the production of this book, pardon and forgiveness in religious and secular matters. In addition, we ask Him that He include this work in the weight of our good deeds on the Day of Resurrection – a Day on which neither wealth nor sons will benefit anyone – except for those whom Allah has blessed with pure hearts.

And our final declaration is that all praise and thanks are due to Allah, and we invoke blessings and peace upon Prophet Muhammad and upon all his righteous family and Companions until the Day of Reckoning.

Publisher's Preface

Verily, all praise and thanks are due to Allah. We seek His aid and we ask forgiveness of Him. We seek refuge with Allah from the wickedness in ourselves. Whomsoever Allah guides, there is none who can misguide him and whomsoever He sends astray, there is none who can guide him. I bear witness that none is worthy of worship except Allah and that Muhammad is His slave and His Messenger. He sent him with guidance and the true Religion and with the light (of truth), the admonition and wisdom, at a time when no Messengers were sent for a long period, when there was little religious knowledge and the people had gone astray, when the Hour was drawing nearer. Whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger has followed the right course, while whoever disobeys Allah (SWT) and His

Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) erred from it and gone far astray. To proceed:

The book Al-Bidayah (The Beginning) by the Hafiz, the Imam, the scholarly critic, Ibn Katheer is an incomparable work regarding the study of the events and their chronological order, the knowledge of which he strove hard to acquire. He began by describing the start of creation – from the creation of the Throne and the Kursi and the heavens and the Earth and all that is in them and all that lies between them, such as the angels, the jinn and the devils and he described the manner of Adam's creation (Peace be upon him). He recounted the stories of the Prophets and the events that took place therein, up to the times of the Children of Isra'eel and the Days of Ignorance, which ended with the advent of the final Prophet, Muhammad r. Then he gave a detailed description of his life and what happened after that, up to the time in which he, lived. He then wrote a separate volume called An-Nihayah Fil – Fitan Wal-Malahim (The Ending With Trials and Great Battles).

Furthermore, Allah inspired us to undertake the noble task of making this book easily accessible to both the students and the scholars and then to translate it into several languages, by Allah's Permission.

I suggested to my brother, Yoosuf Al-Hajj, the necessity of summarizing this book in a suitable manner, through the omission of unbeneficial repetition, weak ahadeeth, lengthy poems, etc. I am thankful to brother Yoosuf for assembling a team that consisted of Abdul Malik Wadih, Abu Muslim Al-Jaza'iri, Muwaffeq Khaleel Hammad, and himself. Darussalam funded the entire project, paying each team member for his contribution and work. After they completed their portion of the project, the work then went through numerous people in the Research Division of Darussalam, who meticulously went through the work, adding and subtracting materials. After this, the project went through another round of editing of the Arabic material before it was sent to the translation department. The translation was then checked for accuracy and then sent for editing, resulting in the final project that you see before you. All praise and thanks be to Allah for allowing us to produce such a classical work for the first time in the English language.

O Allah! We ask that You bless us with sincerity and success and that You spread goodness through our hands.

The Great Battle of Badr

Allah, Most High, says: And Allah has already made you victorious at Badr, when you were a weak little force. So, fear Allah much (abstain from all kinds of sins and evil deeds which He has forbidden and love Allah much, perform all kinds of good deeds which He has ordained) that you may be grateful." (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:123)

Allah (SWT) also says: As your Lord caused you (O Muhammad) to go out from your home with the Truth, and verily, a party among the Believers disliked it; disputing with you concerning the Truth after it was made manifest, as if they were being driven to death, while they were looking (at it). And (remember) when Allah promised you (Muslims) one of the two parties (of the enemy i.e. either the army or the caravan) that it should be yours, you wished that the one not armed (the caravan) should be yours, but Allah willed to justify the truth by His Words and to cut off the roots of the disbelievers (i.e. in the Battle of Badr). That He might cause the Truth to triumph and bring falsehood to nothing, even though the Mujrimoon (disbelievers, polytheists, sinners, criminals, etc.) hate it. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8: 5-8)

Ibn Ishaq related that ‘Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair and others, from among our great scholars, narrated from Ibn ‘Abbas all that has been narrated to me in part. So, I combined all their narrations with the one I have concerning Badr. They said: “When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, heard of the return journey of Abu Sufyan from a trade mission in Syria, the people nursed a craving for it. So, he said: ‘This is the caravan of the Quraish, march out to intercept it, perhaps Allah might deliver it to you.’ Some people expressed some fear and some were hesitant because they did not reckon that the Messenger of Allah intended war. When Abu Sufyan approached the peninsula, he began to inquire for any news. He would ask in anxiety, due to the people's wealth that was in his care, all the riders that he would meet. He received the news from some riders that Muhammad had mobilized his Companions to intercept him and his caravan, so he should beware."

Abu Sufyan hired Damdam Ibn 'Amr Al-Ghifari and commanded him to quickly go to Makkah and mobilize the Quraish to rescue their wealth, informing them that Muhammad had marched out along with his Companions to intercept him. Damdam immediately rushed to Makkah.

Al-Bukhari related that 'Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood narrated that Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh was a close friend of Umayyah Ibn Khalaf; whenever Umayyah would pass through Madinah he would stay with Sa'd, and whenever Sa'd visited Makkah, he would stay with Umayyah. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, arrived at Madinah, Sa'd went to perform 'Umrah and stayed at Umayyah's house in Makkah. He said to Umayyah, "Tell me of a time when (the Mosque) is empty so that I may perform Tawaf around the Ka'bah." Umayyah went with him about midday. Abu Jahl met them and said, "O Abu Safwan! Who is this man accompanying you?" He said, "He is Sa'd." Abu Jahl addressed Sa'd saying, "I see you wandering about safely in Makkah inspite of the fact that you have given shelter to the people who have changed their religion (i.e. became Muslims) and have claimed that you will help them and support them. By Allah, if you were not in the company of Abu Safwan, you would not be able to go back to your family safely." Sa'd, raising his voice, said to him, "By Allah, if you should stop me from doing this (i.e. performing Tawaf) I would certainly prevent you from something which is more valuable for you, that is, your passage through Madinah." On this, Umayyah said to him, "O Sa'd do not raise your voice before Abul-Hakam, the chief of the people of the Valley (of Makkah)." Sa'd said, "O Umayyah, stop that! By Allah, I have heard Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, predicting that the Muslims will kill you." Umayyah asked, "In Makkah?" Sa'd said, "I do not know." Umayyah was terribly frightened by this news.

When Umayyah returned to his family, he said to his wife, “O Umm Safwan! Do you know what Sa’d told me?” She said, “What did he tell you?” He replied, “He says that Muhammad informed them (i.e. his Companions) that they will kill me. I asked him, ‘In Makkah?’ He replied, ‘I do not know.’” Then Umayyah added, “By Allah, I will never go out of Makkah.” But when the day of (the Ghazwah of) Badr came, Abu Jahl called the people to war, saying, “Go and protect your caravan.” But Umayyah disliked to go out (of Makkah). Abu Jahl came to him and said, “O Abu Safwan! If the people see you staying behind, and you are the chief of the people of the Valley, then they will remain behind with you.” Abu Jahl kept urging him to go until Umayyah said, “As you have forced me to change my mind, so, by Allah, I will buy the best camel in Makkah.” Then Umayyah said (to his wife). “O Umm Safwan, prepare what I need (for the journey).” She said to him, “O Abu Safwan! Have you forgotten what your Yathribi brother told you?” He said, “No, but I only want to accompany them for a short distance.” So when Umayyah went out, he would tie his camel next to wherever he camped. He kept on doing that till Allah caused him to be killed at Badr.

Ibn Ishaq related that ‘Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair said: When the Quraish were ready to march forth, they recollected what was between them and Banu Bakr and they feared that they may be double-crossed. Then Iblees appeared to them in the form of Suraqah Ibn Malik Ibn Ju‘thum Al-Mudliji, who was one of the nobles of Banu Kinanah, and said to them: “I grant you confidence that Kinanah will not allow anything you dislike to happen in your absence.” So, they marched forth hastily and confidently.

I say: This is the meaning of Allah’s statement: And be not like those who come out of their homes boastfully and to be seen of men, and hinder (men) from the Path of Allah. and Allah is Muhitun (encircling and thoroughly comprehending) all that they do. And (remember) when Shaitan made their (evil) deeds seem fair to them and said, “No one of the human beings can overcome you this Day (of the Battle of Badr) and, verily, I am your neighbor (for each and every help).” But when the two forces came in sight of each other, he ran away and said “Verily, I have nothing to do with you. Verily! I see what you see not. Verily! I fear Allah for Allah is Severe in punishment. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8: 47,48)

Iblees, may Allah's curse be upon him, deceived them till they departed and he accompanied them with his army and his flag as mentioned by several narrators. He made them acquiescent to their death. When Iblees saw the gravity of the situation and the hosts of angels, as well as Angel Jibraeel, descending to aid (the Muslims), Iblees retreated and fled, saying: "I am free of you for I see what you do not see. I fear Allah." This is similar to the statement of Allah: (Their allies deceived them) like Shaitan, when he says to man: "Disbelieve in Allah." But when (man) disbelieves in Allah, Shaitan says: "I am free of you, I fear Allah, the Lord of Al-'Alamin (mankind, Jinns and all that exists)!" (Soorah Al-Hashr 59:16)

Yoonus related that Ibn Ishaq said: The Quraish filed out in arduousness and docility. They were 950 fighting men lead by three hundred horsemen. Women prompters also accompanied them beating the duff (drum) and lampooning the Muslims in their songs, and retelling the war feats of the Quraish one after the other. This was the situation of these people as they marched forth from Makkah to Badr.

As for Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, departed after a few nights had passed in the month of Ramadan along with his Companions. He appointed Ibn Umm Maktoom to lead the people in Salat and sent back Abu Lubabah from Ar-Rawha' to govern Madinah. He gave the war standard to Mus'ab Ibn 'Umair. In front of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, were two black flags, one was in the hands of 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib and it was known as Al-'Uqab. The other was with one of the Ansar.

Ibn Hisham said the flag of the Ansar was with Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh. Al-Umawi said it was with Al-Hubab Ibn Al-Mundhir.

Imam Ahmad related that 'Ali said: There was no one on horseback among us in the Battle of Badr other than Miqdad.

Imam Ahmad related that 'Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood said: In the Battle of Badr we were three to a camel. Abu Lubabah and 'Ali were riding partners with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who took the last turn. However, both of them said: “We will rather walk (while you ride).” He replied: “I am no more in need of reward than you too.”

Imam Ahmad also related that ‘A’ishah narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, commanded that rattles be severed from the necks of the camel on the day of the Battle of Badr.

Al-Bukhari related that ‘Abdullah Ibn Ka‘b Ibn Malik narrated that ‘Abdullah Ibn Ka‘b said: I heard Ka‘b Ibn Malik say “I never remained behind Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, from any expedition which he undertook except the Battle of Tabuk and the Battle of Badr. As far as the Battle of Badr is concerned, no one was blamed for remaining behind as Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the Muslims did not set out for war but to intercept the caravan of the Quraish; but it was Allah, Who made them confront their enemies without intending (to do so).” He related it exclusively.

Ibn Ishaq related that then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, set out. Information reached him concerning the Quraish’s advance to defend their caravan. He consulted with the people and he informed them about the Quraish. Abu Bakr As-Siddiq got up and gave an inspiring speech. ‘Umar also rose and delivered a thought-provoking speech. Then Miqdad Ibn ‘Amr stood up and said: “O Allah’s Messenger! Proceed to wherever Allah guides you and we are with you. By Allah, we will not say to you as the Children of Isra’eel said to Moosa, ‘Go you and your Lord and fight you two; we are sitting here, (Soorah Al-Ma’idah 5.24) but (we say), proceed to fight, you and your Lord and we are with you both in battle. By the One Who sent you with the Truth if you advance up to Barkal-Ghimad, we shall fight alongside you against anyone who blocks our path until we are able to reach it.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, commended him and supplicated for him and then said: “O people, advise me.” By this he was referring to the Ansar since they were in the majority and at the Pledge of ‘Aqabah they had said: O Messenger of Allah! We are not under any obligation to you until you reach our land. When you reach us you will be under our protection and we shall defend you from that which we defend our wives and children. The Prophet was thus afraid that the Ansar might not think it necessary to fight on his behalf unless he was attacked in Madinah.

When he said that, Sa'd Ibn Muadh replied: "By Allah, perhaps you are referring to us, O Messenger of Allah?" When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied in the affirmative, he continued: "We have believed in you and accepted what you say. We have testified that what you brought is the truth, and on the basis of that we have given you our pledge and sworn to hear and obey you. So proceed, O Messenger of Allah, and do whatever you will, for we are with you. By Him Who sent you with the Truth, if you approached the sea with us and dived into it, we would dive into it with you and not a single man would remain behind. We are not against your confronting the enemy with us tomorrow. We are steadfast in war, truthful in meeting. Perhaps, Allah will show you something of us which will gladden your heart. So proceed with the blessings of Allah." So the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, advanced with full spirit following the reply of Sa'd. He then said: "Go forth and be cheerful. Allah has promised me one of the two parties. By Allah, it is as if I can already see the places where those people will die." This is how Ibn Ishaq, may Allah be pleased with him, related it.

The story has corroborating reports from numerous versions. From them is the one related by Al-Bukhari in his Saheeh from Ibn Mas'ood who narrated: I witnessed Al-Miqdad Ibn Al-Aswad in a scene which would have been dearer to me than anything had I been the hero of that scene. He (i.e. Al-Miqdad) came to the Prophet while the Prophet was urging the Muslims to fight with the pagans. Al-Miqdad said, "We will not say as the people of Moosa said: 'Go you and your Lord and fight you two. We are sitting here.' (Soorah Al-Ma'idah 5:24). But we shall fight on your right and on your left and in front of you and behind you." I saw the face of the Prophet brighten up with happiness, as that saying delighted him." Al-Bukhari related it exclusively in various places in his Saheeh from the Hadith of Mukhariq.

Ibn Ishaq said: Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, marched forward from Dhafirah through a mountain pass called Al-Asafir and then he descended into a plain region called Ad-Dabah with Al-Hannan, which is a huge sand dune the size of a mighty mountain, being on his right. Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, descended in the area close to Badr. He rode with one of his Companions. Ibn Hisham said it was Abu Bakr.

Ibn Ishaq related something similar to what Muhammad Ibn Yahyah Ibn Habbab narrated to me: Until they met an old Arab man and they asked him about any news that has reached him concerning the movement of the Quraish as well as that of Muhammad and his Companions. The old man said: "I will not inform you two until you tell me where you come from." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "If you inform us, we will also inform you." The man said: "Then it is tit for tat." "Regarding the current position of Allah's Messenger, if what I was informed has some truth, then they should be at such-and-such a place by today," which happened to be the exact spot where the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was. The man continued: "It also reached me that the Quraish set out on such-and-such day and if my informer was truthful to me, then by today they should be at such-and-such place," indicating the exact place where the Quraish were. When the man had informed them, he asked: "So where are you both from?" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to him: "We are from water" and then turned away from him. The old man became perplexed, and kept repeating: "From water, what water? It is the water of Iraq?" Ibn Hisham said that the old man was known as Sufyan Ad-Damri.

Ibn Ishaq said afterwards: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, returned to his Companions. In the night, he sent 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib, Zubair Ibn Al-Awwam and Sa'd Ibn Abi Waqqas among a group of people to the oasis region of Badr to scout for news. According to what was related to me by Yazeed Ibn Rooman from 'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair, they caught two water carriers of the Quraish. They were Aslam, a slave boy of Banu Al-Hajjaj and 'Areed Abu Yasar, a slave boy of Banu Al'As Ibn Sa'eed. They brought both of them back to the camp while Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was praying. They began questioning them and both of them informed that they were water carriers for the Quraish and that they had been sent to fetch water. Some of the Muslims disliked this piece of news which they heard from the two boys. They had hoped that the boys would be from Abu Sufyan, so they beat the boys severely until they said: "We are from Abu Sufyan," so they left them alone. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, bowed, went into prostration and did the tasleem (i.e. ended his prayer) and said: "When they told you the truth, you beat them and when they told you a lie you left them alone. By Allah they spoke the truth when they said they were from the Quraish." Then he turned to the boys and asked them: "What news do you have of the Quraish?" They said: "They are behind this mound that you see." The Prophet asked: "How many are they?" They replied, "Very many." He asked: "What are their numbers?" They replied, "We do not know." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked them: "How many camels do they slaughter each day?" They replied: "Nine or ten a day." The Prophet said: "They numbered between 900 and 1,000." Then he asked the boys again: "Which of the Quraish notables are among them?" They replied: " 'Utbah Ibn Rabee'ah, Shaibah Ibn Rabee'ah, Abul-Baktari Ibn Hisham, Hakeem Ibn Hizam, Nawfal Ibn Khuwailid, Al-Harith Ibn 'Amir Ibn Nawfal, Tu'aimah Ibn 'Adi Ibn Nawfal, An-Nadr Ibn Al-Harith, Zam'ah Ibn Al-Aswad, Abu Jahl Ibn Hisham, Umayyah Ibn Khalaf, Nabeeh and Munabbih, the two sons of Al-Hajjaj, Suhail Ibn 'Amr and 'Amr Ibn Abd Wudd."

The Prophet then turned to the Muslims and said: "Here is Makkah confronting you with its choicest sons."

Ibn Ishaq related: When Abu Sufyan saw that the caravan was now safe, he sent a message to the Quraish saying: "You have come out to defend your caravan, your men, and your wealth. Allah (SWT) has saved them, so go back." However, Abu Jahl said: "We shall not retrun home until we reach Badr, camp three days there, slaughter camels, feast and drink wine and have the girls sing and dance for us. The Arabs must hear of us and our march and continue to fear us forever."

Ibn Ishaq said that the Quraish proceeded until they reached the furthest point of the valley behind AlAqanqal, a huge sand dune in the middle of the valley of Yal Yal between Badr and Al-Aqanqal, and camped there.

Meanwhile, the well of Badr was situated in the nearest point within the valley of Yal Yal in direction of Madinah.

I say: It is concerning this that Allah said: (And remember) when you (the Muslim army) were on the near side of the valley, and they on the farther side, and the caravan on the ground lower than you. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:42) i.e., in the direction of the sea-shore. Even if you had made a mutual appointment to meet, you would certainly have failed in the appointment, but (you met) that Allah might accomplish a matter already ordained (in His Knowledge). (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:42)

Then Allah sent rain so that the plain of the valley became firm and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his Companions found the earth to be compact which permitted them swift movement. Concerning that, Allah says: ...and He caused water (rain) to descend on you from the sky, to clean you thereby and to remove from you the Rijz (whispering, evil-suggestions, etc.) of Shaitan, and to strengthen your hearts, and make your feet firm thereby. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:11) Thus, Allah mentions that He purifies them inwardly and outwardly; He planted their feet firmly, embolden their hearts, and removed from their hearts the insinuations of Shaitan, terror and dangerous suggestions. All these are a consolidation both internally and externally. Allah also sent down on them help from above them as contained in the Verse: (Remember) when your Lord inspired the angels, "Verily, I am with you, so keep firm those who have believed. I will cast terror into the hearts of those who have disbelieved, so strike them over the necks, (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:12) i.e. on the heads, ...and smite over all their fingers and toes, (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:12) i.e. so that they may not be able to hold their weapon firmly. This is because they defied and disobeyed Allah (SWT) and His Messenger. And whoever defies and disobeys Allah and His Messenger, then, verily, Allah is Severe in punishment. This is the torment, so taste it, and surely for the disbelievers is the torment of the Fire. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:13, 14)

Imam Ahmad related that 'Ali said: "There was not a horse rider among us except Miqdad and none was spared from slumber except Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who stood praying and crying under the tree till daybreak.” An-Nasa’i also related it from Bundar from Ghundar from Shu‘bah.

The night of the Battle of Badr was the night of Jumu‘ah, the 17th of Ramadan, the second year of Hijrah. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, spent the night praying by the foot of the tree. He used to repeat profusely in his prostration: “Ya Hayyu Ya Qayyoom.” (O the Ever-Living, the One Who sustains and protects all that exists).

Ibn Ishaq said: It was related to me from some men of Banu Salimah that they narrated that Al-Hubab Ibn Al-Mundhir Ibn Al-Jamooah said: “O Messenger of Allah, is this a place where Allah has directed you and thus we are not permitted to move forward or backward, or is it an opinion: a war strategy?” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “It is indeed an opinion: a war strategy.” Then Al-Hubab said: “Well, O Messenger of Allah, this is not a good position. Lead the people further ahead till you reach a well closest to the enemies. Let us camp there and fill up all the wells behind us. Then let us build a cistern and fill it with water. So when we fight the enemy, we shall be able to drink and they will have no water.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said in response: “You have indeed given us good advice.”

Ibn Ishaq related that in the morning, the Quraish advanced. When the Messenger of Allah saw them approaching from the Aqanqil sand dune into the valley, he exclaimed: “O Allah, here is the Quraish coming in their conceit and their haughtiness challenging You and belying Your Messenger. O Allah, grant me victory which You have promised. O Allah, destroy them this morning.”

When they settled down, a number of the Quraish, including Hakeem Ibn Hizam, dashed for the water cistern of Allah’s Messenger to drink from it. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Let them do so,” and none of them were able to drink from the cistern, except that he was killed with the exception of Hakeem Ibn Hizam. Afterwards, he became a good Muslim and would say whenever he became fervent in his oath: “By Him Who rescued me on the Day of Badr.”

I say: On that day, the Companions of Allah’s Messenger numbered three hundred and thirteen men.

In Saheeh Al-Bukhari, Al-Bara’ narrated: “We used to say that the warriors of Badr were over threehundred-and-ten, just like the companions of Toloot (Saul) who crossed the river with him; and none could cross the river with him but a believer.” Al-Bukhari also related from him that: “I and Ibn ‘Umar were considered too young (to take part) in the Battle of Badr, and the number of the Emigrant warriors were over sixty (men) and the Ansar were over two hundred and forty nine (249).”

Allah says: (And remember) when Allah showed them to you as few in your (i.e. Muhammad’s) dream; if He had shown them to you as many, you would surely have been discouraged, and you would surely have disputed in making a decision. But Allah saved (you). (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:43) That occurred in his dream which he had that night. It was also said that it was when he slept in the hut and he ordered the people not to commence fighting until they were permitted to do so. The enemy was coming closer and Abu Bakr As-Siddiq kept waking him saying: “Awake, O Messenger of Allah, they are getting closer,” but, Allah had already shown them to him a little while earlier. This narration is mentioned by Al-Umawi though it is extremely strange.

Allah (SWT) also says: And (remember) when you met (the army of the disbelievers on the day of the Battle of Badr), He showed them to you as few in your eyes and He made you appear as few in their eyes, so that Allah might accomplish a matter already ordained (in His Knowledge). (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:44)

When the two armies met, Allah made it seeming to each group that the other was small so that one might pounce on the other. This is from the pinnacle of wisdom (which belongs only to Allah). This is not contradictory to the words of Allah in Soorah Aal ‘Imran: There has already been a sign for you (O Jews) in the two armies that met (in combat i.e. the Battle of Badr): One was fighting in the Cause of Allah, and as for the other (they) were disbelievers. They (the Believers) saw them (the disbelievers) with their own eyes twice their number (although they were thrice their number). And Allah supports with His Victory whom He pleases. (Soorah Aal 'Imran [3]:13) This is because the meaning of that, based on the more correct of two views, is that the army of the polytheists saw the number of the army of the Believers as twice as much as their own. Based on the correct opinion, this was at the point of the encounter and the actual combat. Allah threw weakness and fear in the hearts of the unbelievers and beguiled them first by seeing themselves small in number at the point of fighting. Secondly, Allah strengthened the Believers with His help; thus He made the Believers seem more than them in multiples so that their resolve became weakened and they became incapacitated, and thus they were conquered. This is why Allah (SWT) says:

And Allah supports with His Victory whom He pleases." Verily, in this is a lesson for those who understand. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:13)

Ibn Ishaq related that Abu Ishaq Ibn Yasar and others narrated to me that some people of knowledge from the elders of the Ansar said that when the Quraish settled down, they sent 'Umair Ibn Wahb Al-Jumahi to assess the number of the Companions, may Allah be pleased with them, of Muhammad, peace be upon him. He galloped on his horse around the army and then returned to them and said: "Three hundred men, slightly more or less. But grant me more time so that I may see their ambushes and reinforcement." So he went around the valley till he went far but he did not see anything. So he returned and said to them: "I did not see anything but, O Quraish, I have seen misfortune bearing death and showers of Yathrib bearing destruction. I saw people without credible resistance and no recourse except to their swords. By Allah I do not see you killing one of them except that they would have killed two of you. If they were to kill you with their numbers, then there will be no good life afterwards. So consider your opinion on this."

Then 'Utbah stood to address the people: "O Quraish! What use do you have for meeting Muhammad and his Companions? By Allah, if you killed them, you would not cease to look at the face of one you hate to see (in death). You would have killed your paternal or maternal cousins or a man from your own kinsfolk. So let's return and leave Muhammad to the rest of the Arabs to deal with him. If they succeed in killing him, that is exactly what you desire, if the matter is contrary to that, then he will warm close to you and you would not experience from him what you dislike.”

Hakeem said that I proceeded until I came to Abu Jahl and he had already drawn out his arm. So I said to him: “O Abul-Hakam, ‘Utbah sent me to you with such-and-such (information).” He said: “By Allah, he has been afflicted by magical spell the moment he saw Muhammad and his Companions. No, by Allah, we will not retreat until Allah decides between us and Muhammad. As for what ‘Utbah said, he became faint-hearted only when he saw Muhammad and his Companions and also because his son is on their side and he nurses fear for his safety.” When what Abu Jahl said reached ‘Utbah, he said, “The one who will be returned empty handed and the one whose lungs are inflated (out of fear) will soon be distinguished between me and him.” Then ‘Utbah sought a helmet so as to protect his head and there was no helmet in the entire Quraish army due to the huge size of his head, so he wound his garment around his head.

Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had arranged his Companions and mobilized them efficiently. At-Tirmidhi related that ‘Abdur-Rahmaan Ibn ‘Awwf said: “The Messenger of Allah arranged our ranks by night in the Battle of Badr.”

Imam Ahmad related that Abu Ayyoob said: “Allah’s Messenger arranged our ranks in the Battle of Badr and then someone went outside the line. The Prophet cast his glance at him and ordered: “(Come here) with me! (Come here) with me!!” Ahmad related it exclusively. The chain of this narration is hasan.

Ibn Ishaq related that Habban Ibn Wasi‘ Ibn Habban narrated to me from some of his elders that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, straightened the rows of his Companions at the Battle of Badr. In his hand was an arrow with which he straightened the people. Then he passed by Sawad Ibn Ghaziyyah, an ally of Banu ‘Adiyy Ibn Najjar sticking out of the line. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, pricked him in the stomach with the arrow and said “Straighten your line, O Sawad.” He said: “You have injured me and Allah has sent you with the truth and justice, give me back my right.”

So Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, raised his shirt from his stomach and said: "Retaliate." Sawad embraced and kissed the Prophet's stomach. "What did you do that for, O Sawad?" the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked. He said: "O Messenger of Allah, just what you have seen. I had wished that the last acquaintance with you be that my skin touches yours." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, supplicated for him and for what he said.

The two armies arrayed against each other and the enemy filed in the presence of Ar-Rahman. The leader of the Prophets sought help from his Lord, and the Companions were boisterous with varieties of supplications to the Lord of the Earth of the heaven, the One Who Listens to supplication and the One Who Removes tribulation. The first person to be killed among the polytheists was Al-Aswad Ibn 'AbdulAsad Al-Makhzoomi.

Ibn Ishaq said: He was an extremely bad-tempered man. He said: "I swear by Allah that I shall surely drink from the water cistern, or destroy it or die in the quest of it. He stepped out and Hamzah Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib went for him. When they met, Hamzah amputated his leg from the shin. He fell on his back with his blood streaming toward his colleagues. He scrambled to the cistern and threw himself into it intending to fulfill his oath. Hamzah followed him and struck him until he killed him inside the cistern.

Al-Umawi said, thereby, 'Utbah Ibn Rabee'ah became agitated and wanted to demonstrate his bravery. He emerged and stood in between his brother Shaibah and his son Al-Waleed, and advanced half way between both armies and challenged the Muslims to a duel.

Three youths from the Ansar emerged to accept the challenge. They were 'Awf and Mu'adh the sons of Al-Harith and their mother was Al-Afra', while the third youth was 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, according to a report. "Who are you?" the Quraish queried. "A company of the Ansar," the youths answered. The Quraish said: "We do not have any need for you." In another narration they said: "We need our equals in nobility. Send men from our cousins to take up the challenge." Then a man from the ranks of the Quraish announced to the Muslims: “O Muhammad, send to us our equals from our own people!” So the Messenger of Allah said: “Rise, O ‘Ubaidah Ibn Al-Harith, rise O Hamzah, rise O ‘Ali.”

According to Al-Umawi who related from a group of the Ansar that when they (some men of the Ansar) emerged from the lines to pick up the challenge of the Quraish, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, disliked that as his first encounter with his enemies and he desired that his kindred should be the ones to draw the first blood. So he commanded the Ansar to return to their lines, and then he ordered those three to advance.

Ibn Ishaq continued: When we had come close to them, the Quraish asked: “Who are you?” This is a proof that they were decked in military garment so they could not be recognized from their weapons. ‘Ubaidah identified himself, as did Hamzah and ‘Ali. The Quraish said: “Yes, our equals in nobility.” ‘Ubaidah, the eldest of the three Muslim swordsmen, dueled with ‘Utbah. Hamzah dueled with Shaibah, while ‘Ali dueled with Al-Waleed Ibn ‘Utbah. As for Hamzah, he did not tarry before he killed Shaibah; ‘Ali also wasted no time in killing Al-Waleed. Striking each other, ‘Ubaidah and ‘Utbah were mortally injured. Hamzah and ‘Ali charged against ‘Utbah with their weapons and killed him. They carried their injured fellow back to their remaining compatriots. May Allah be pleased with them all.

It is established in the Saheehain that Abu Dharr used to swear that this Verse: These two opponents (Believers and disbelievers) dispute with each other about their Lord (Soorah Al-Hajj 22:19) was revealed concerning Hamzah and his opponent as well ‘Utbah and his opponent on the day that they dueled in the Battle of Badr.

I say that ‘Ubaidah was Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Muttalib Ibn ‘Abd Manaf. When they brought him injured to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, they laid him at his feet. He put his cheek against the Messenger of Allah’s feet and said: “O Messenger of Allah, if Abu Talib saw me, he would know that I am more worthy of his statement:

‘We protect him till we die in the effort

though we may neglect our children and wives.”

He then breathed his last. May Allah be pleased with him. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “I bear witness that you are a martyr.”

It is recorded in the Saheehain from Anas that Al-Harithah Ibn Suraqah was killed in the Battle of Badr by a stray arrow which hit him. His mother came to the Prophet and said, “O Allah’s Messenger! Inform me about Harithah. If he is in Paradise, I shall remain patient, but if it is not, then you shall see what I do (i.e. of wailing which had not been prohibited at the time)?” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, told her: “Woe to you! Have you lost your senses? There are wonderful gardens and your son is in the (most superior) garden of Paradise, Al-Firdaws.”

In Saheeh Al-Bukhari, Abu Usaid said: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, told us on the day of Badr: “If the polytheists encircle you, resist them with showers of arrows.”

Ibn Ishaq related that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was in the tent with Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, i.e. while he was seeking the help of Allah, to Whom belongs Might and Majesty. Allah says: (Remember) when you sought help of your Lord and He answered you (saying): “I will help you with a thousand of the angels each behind the other (following one another) in succession. Allah made it only as glad tidings, and that your hearts be at rest therewith. And there is no victory except from Allah. Verily, Allah is Almighty, All-Wise. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:9,10)

Al-Umawi and others related that the Muslims supplicated to Allah in seeking help by His Honor, seeking assistance by Him. Allah says: ... with a thousand of the angels each behind the other (following one another) in succession. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:9) i.e., following you and as a reinforcement for your group. Al-‘Awfi related it from Ibn ‘Abbas. This is also the opinion of Mujahid, Ibn Katheer, ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn Zaid and others. Abu Kudainah from Qaboos through his father from Ibn ‘Abbas that “Murdifeen” means each angel behind the other. In another narration from him with this chain, “Murdifeen” means (each angel) following the step of one another in succession. This is also the opinion of Abu Zabyan, AdDahhak and Qatadah. ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talhah Al-Walibi related from Ibn ‘Abbas that he said: “Allah reinforced his Prophet and the Believers with a thousand angels. Jibraeel led five hundred angels on one flank, and Meekael led another five hundred angels on the other flank. This is the more popular narration.

Al-Baihaqi also related that ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib, may Allah be pleased with him, said: “On the day of the Battle of Badr, I killed a number of the enemies. Then I rushed to see what had happened to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. When I got to him, he was in prostration saying: Ya Hayyu! Ya Qayyoom!! Ya Hayyu! Ya Qayyoom!! (meaning: O the Ever-Living, the One Who sustains and protects all that exists) without adding anything further. Then I returned to fight. Soon after, I came back and still found him in prostration saying the same words. I went back to the fighting and then came back (for the third time) and he was still in the position of prostration saying the same thing till Allah granted victory at his hands.” An-Nasa’i had related it in Al-Yawm Wal-Lailah.

Al-Bukhari related from Ibn ‘Abbas that the Prophet was in a tent built for him on the day of the Battle of Badr saying, “O Allah! I ask you the fulfillment of Your Covenant and Promise. O Allah! If You wish (to destroy the Believers) You will never be worshipped after today.” Abu Bakr caught him by the hand and said, “This is sufficient, O Allah’s Messenger! You have asked Allah earnestly.” The Prophet was clad in his armor at that time. He went out, saying: Their multitude will be put to flight, and they will show their backs. Nay, but the Hour is their appointed time (for their full recompense), and the Hour will be more grievous and more bitter. (Soorah Al-Qamar 54:45,46) This Verse was revealed in Makkah but its confirmation came on the day of the Battle of Badr as related by Ibn Abi Hatim from ‘Ikrimah who said: When the Verse: Their multitude will be put to flight, and they will show their backs. (Soorah Al-Qamar 54:45) was revealed, ‘Umar said: “Which multitude will be put to flight and which multitude will prevail?” ‘Umar added: “When it was the day of the Battle of Badr, I saw Allah’s Messenger jumping in his armor while he was saying: Their multitude will be put to flight, and they will show their backs. Nay, but the Hour is their appointed time (for their full recompense), and the Hour will be more grievous and more bitter. (Soorah Al-Qamar 54:45, 46) Only that day did I realize its interpretation.

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came out of his tent to his men and urged them on with the following words: “By Him in Whose Hands is Muhammad’s life, if any man fights them today and is killed while displaying steadfastness and hope in Allah, advancing and not retreating, Allah will surely admit him into Paradise.”

Upon hearing this, ‘Umair Ibn Al-Humam, the brother of Banu Salimah, while holding some dates in his hands that he was eating, said: “Bakh, bakh (expressing wonder and pleasure)! Between me and my entering Paradise is these people killing me?” Then he flung the dates in his hands and drew his sword and fought the enemies until he was killed. May Allah be pleased with him.

Ibn Jareer mentioned that ‘Umair, may Allah be pleased with him, fought while he was saying:

We hastened to Allah without provision

Except piety and striving for the Hereafter

And perseverance upon Jihad in the way of Allah

Every provision is bound to be exhausted

Except piety, righteousness and uprightness

Imam Ahmad related from ‘Ali that: Had you seen us on the day of Badr while we kept close to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him? Among us, his fighting position was the closest to the enemies. He was the bravest of people on that day.”

An-Nasa’i also related that ‘Ali said: “Whenever we met the enemy and the confrontation became heated, we would seek the protection of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.”

Imam Ahmad related that ‘Ali said: It was said to ‘Ali and Abu Bakr on the day of Badr that Jibraeel was with one of you and Meekael was with the other while Israfeel, the mighty angel was observing the course of the battle and he did not participate; or he said: observing the rows.

Al-Bukhari related that Mu‘adh Ibn Rifa‘ah Ibn Rafi‘ Az-Zuraqi narrated that his father, who was one of those who witnessed the Battle of Badr, said: “Jibraeel came to the Messenger of Allah and said, ‘How do you look upon the warriors of Badr among yourselves?’ The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, ‘As the best of the Muslims,’ or something similar. On that, Jibraeel said, “And so are the angels who participated in the Badr (battle)’.”

Allah said: (Remember) when your Lord inspired the angels, “Verily, I am with you, so keep firm those who have believed. I will cast terror into the hearts of those who have disbelieved, so strike them over the necks...” (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:12) i.e. on the heads. ...and smite over all their fingers and toes. (Soorah AlAnfal 8:12)

It is recorded in Saheeh Muslim that Ibn ‘Abbas said: “(On that day) a Muslim was chasing a disbeliever who was going ahead of him, he heard over him the swishing of the whip and the voice of the rider saying: Go ahead, Haizoom! He glanced at the polytheist in front of him and he had fallen down on his back. When he looked at him (carefully, he found that) there was a scar on his nose and his face was torn as if it had been lashed with a whip, and had turned green with its poison. The Ansari came to the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, and related this (event) to him. He said: You have told the truth. This was the help from the third heaven. The Muslims that day (i. e. the day of the Battle of Badr) killed seventy persons and captured seventy.”

Ibn Ishaq said: Abu Usaid Malik Ibn Rabee‘ah, who participated in the Battle of Badr and had lost his sight, said: If I were at Badr and I still had my sight, I would have shown you, without any doubt or difference, the mountain pass through which the angels came.”

When the angels descended and Iblees saw them and Allah inspired them: Verily, I am with you, so keep firm those who have believed. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:12) Their strengthening was that the angels would appear to a man in the form of a man whom they knew and would say to him: “Glad tidings for verily they are inconsequential for Allah is with you. Attack them!” And when Iblees saw the angels: ‘...he ran away and said, “Verily, I have nothing to do with you. Verily! I see what you see not.” (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:48) He had assumed the form of Suraqah. Abu Jahl came and was inciting his companions saying: “You will not be daunted by Suraqah’s betrayal of you for he has a secret pact with Muhammad and his Companions.” And then he added: “By Al-Lat and Al-Uzza, we shall not retreat until we scatter Muhammad and his Companions into the mountains, and do not kill them, rather capture them in their multitude.

Al-Waqidi narrated from Hakeem Ibn Hizam: “They said: when the battle started the Prophet of Allah raised his hands seeking victory from Allah and what He had promised. He said: “O Allah if they overcome this group then polytheism will prevail and the religion will not be established for You.” And Abu Bakr was saying, “By Allah, you will certainly be helped and your face will certainly be brightened.” Then Allah sent down one thousand angels in succession during the hemming in by the enemy. The Messenger said: “Glad tidings, O Abu Bakr here is Jibraeel wearing a yellow turban holding the rein of his horse between the heavens and the Earth. When he descended to the Earth, he was out of my sight for a while then reappeared dusty and saying: ‘The help of Allah came when you beseeched Him.’”

Rabee‘ Ibn Anas related that: On the day of Badr, the people used to distinguish between the corpses of the enemy slain by their hands, and those slain by the hands of the angels with a cut above the neck and lacerations on the fingertips, and [the wound] being charred, similar to the use of a whip made of fire.

When the angels descended in support [of the Muslims], the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, awoke after dozing off and gave the glad tidings to Abu Bakr saying: “O Abu Bakr, glad tidings, here is Jibraeel riding his horse in the thick of the of sandstorm,” i.e., the battlefield. Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went out of the tent in his armor and kept inspiring the Muslims to fight on, giving them glad tidings of Paradise and embolding them with information of the descent of the angels on the battlefield fighting on their side. Tranquility and confidence descended upon them. The slumber which was an indication of tranquility, firmness and Eeman (faith) had come to pass as Allah said: (Remember) when He covered you with a slumber as a security from Him... (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:11) This is similar to what occurred afterwards in the Battle of Uhud, based on the text of the Qur'an. Ibn Ma'sood said: "Slumber during battle is from Eeman and slumber during the course of Salat is from Nifaq (hypocrisy)."

And Allah (SWT) said: (O disbelievers) if you ask for a judgment, now has the judgment come unto you and if you cease (to do wrong), it will be better for you, and if you return (to the attack), so shall We return, and your forces will be of no avail to you, however numerous it be, and verily, Allah is with the believers. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:19)

Ziyad related from Ibn Ishaq that afterwards, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took a handful of pebbles, turned to the direction of the Quraish and said: "Disfigure their faces." Then he threw it in their direction and commanded his Companions to attack. The enemy was defeated and Allah caused the death of some of the leaders of Quraish, while others from their nobility were captured.

Ibn Ishaq also mentioned that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was goading his Companions to fight on, he threw dust at the polytheists and then Allah defeated them. The Prophet then returned to his tent along with Abu Bakr. Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh and some Ansar stood by the door of the tent with swords drawn as if they had turned away from the Mushrikeen to face the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

Ibn Ishaq added that the Ansar objected to the idea of taking captives. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw the objection in the face of Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing, of Allah be upon him, asked: "I see that you dislike what the people have done." He replied: "Yes, by Allah, O Messenger of Allah. This is the first encounter Allah has caused us to have with the people of polytheism and their decimation is more beloved to me than their preservation."

Ibn Ishaq related from ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abbas that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to his Companions on the day of Badr: “I am aware that some men from Banu Hashim and others have been forced to march out (to fight) while having no intention to fight against us. So whoever comes across anyone from Banu Hashim, do not kill him; whoever comes across Abul-Bakhtari Ibn Hisham Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Asad, do not kill him; whoever comes across Al-‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib, (the uncle of Allah’s Messenger), do not kill him for he was forced to march out.”

Ibn ‘Abbas continued: Abu Hudhaifah said (in response to the Prophet’s command): “Should we kill our own fathers, children, brothers and comrades and then let Al-‘Abbas go? By Allah, if I come across him, I shall let him taste the sword.”

When this statement of Abu Hudhaifah reached Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he told ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab: “O Abu Hafs.” ‘Umar said: “That was the day Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave me the nickname of Abu Hafs.”

‘Umar responded: “O Messenger of Allah, permit me to chop off his head with the sword, for, by Allah, he has become a Munafiq (hypocrite).”*

Abu Hudhaifah said: “I have not remained at peace from the day I said that statement. I never ceased to be afraid of it (i.e. its consequence) and being killed as a martyr appears to be the only redemption.” He was eventually killed as a martyr at the Battle of Yamamah. Allah be pleased with him.

The Killing of Abul-Bakhtari Ibn Hisham

Ibn Ishaq related that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had forbidden that Abul-Bakhtari be killed because he was the most abstentious of people from (harming) Allah’s Messenger while he was in Makkah. He neither participated in hurting him nor did anything distasteful that would reach the Prophet. He was one of those who executed the repudiation of the boycott. AlMujadhdhar Ibn Dhiyad Al-Balawi, an ally of the Ansar met him one day and said: "Allah's Messenger has forbidden us from killing you." Meanwhile, Abul-Bakhtari was with a friend who had traveled with him from Makkah, his name was Junadah Ibn Mulaihah. So he asked: "What about my friend?" AlMujadhdhar replied: "I shall not let your friend go for the Messenger of Allah commanded us regarding you only." Abul-Bakhtari said: "No, by Allah, then I and he shall both die together. I do not like that the women of the Quraish talk about me that I abandon my friend in my covetousness of the life. Then AbulBakhtari said:

I shall not surrender a free-born friend

Until he dies or he is let off

So they fought and Al-Mujadhdhar Ibn Dhiyad killed him.

The Killing of Umayyah Ibn Khalaf

Narrated 'Abdur-Rahman Ibn 'Awf: I got an agreement written between me and Umayyah Ibn Khalaf that Umayyah would look after my property (or family) in Makkah and I would look after his in Madinah. When I mentioned the word 'Ar-Rahman' in the document, Umayyah said, 'I do not know 'Ar-Rahman.' Write down to me your name, (with which you called yourself) in the pre-Islamic period of Ignorance." So, I wrote my name ' 'Abd 'Amr'. On the day (of the Battle) of Badr, when all the people went to sleep, I went up the hill to protect him. Bilal saw him (i.e. Umayyah) and went to a gathering of Ansar and said, "(Here is) Umayyah Ibn Khalaf! Woe to me if he escapes!" So, a group of Ansar went out with Bilal to follow us ('Abdur-Rahman and Umayyah). Being afraid that they would catch us, I left Umayyah's son for them to keep them busy but the Ansar killed the son and insisted on following us. Umayyah was a fat man, and when they approached us, I told him to kneel down, and he knelt, and I laid myself on him to protect him, but the Ansar killed him by passing their swords underneath me, and one of them injured my foot with his sword. (The sub-narrator added, " 'Abdur-Rahman used to show us the trace of the wound on the back of his foot.")

The Killing of Abu Jahl, May Allah’s Curse be Upon Him

It is recorded in the Saheehain that ‘Abdur-Rahmaan Ibn ‘Awf said: “While I was standing in the battle array on the day of Badr, I looked toward my right and my left, and found myself between two boys, who were quite young in age, from the Ansar. I wished I were between stronger persons. One of them made a sign to me and said: ‘Uncle, do you recognize Abu Jahl?’ I said: ‘Yes. What do you want to do with him, O my nephew?’ He said: ‘I have been told that he abuses the Messenger of Allah, may peace be upon him. By Allah, in Whose Hands is my life, if I see him (I will with him) and will not leave him until one of us who is destined to die earlier is killed.’ The narrator said: I wondered at this. Then the other made a sign to me and said similar words. Soon afterward, I saw Abu Jahl. He was moving about among men. I said to the two boys: ‘Don’t you see? He is the man you were inquiring about.’ (As soon as they heard this), they dashed toward him, struck him with their swords until he was killed. Then they returned to the Messenger of Allah, may peace be upon him, and informed him of this. He asked: ‘Which of you has killed him?’ Each one of them said: ‘I have killed him.’ He said: ‘Have you wiped your swords?’ They said: ‘No’.

He examined their swords and said: ‘Both of you have killed him.’ He then decided that the belongings of Abu Jahl be handed over to (the two young boys) Mu‘adh Ibn ‘Amr Ibn Al-JamooH and Mu‘adh Ibn Afra.”

Also in the Saheehain, from the Hadith of Abu Sulaiman At-Taimi that Anas Ibn Malik said: “Allah’s Messenger said on the day of the Battle of Badr: “Who will go and see what has happened to Abu Jahl?” Ibn Mas‘ood went and saw him struck by the two sons of ‘Afra’ and was on the throes of death. Ibn Mas‘ood said, “Are you Abu Jahl?” Abu Jahl replied, “Can there be a man more superior to the one whom you have killed (or [he said] his own folk have killed.)?”

In the version of Bukhari from Ibn Mas‘ood, it is recorded that he (Ibn Mas‘ood) approached Abu Jahl and said: “Has Allah humiliated you?”

Abu Jahl said: “Is there a man stronger than the one whom you have killed?”

Al-Bukhari also related that Az-Zubair said: “I met ‘Ubaidah Ibn S‘eed Ibn Al-‘As on the day (of the Battle) of Badr and he was covered with armor; so much so that only his eyes were visible. He was surnamed Abu Dhatul-Karish. He said (proudly), ‘I am Abu Dhatlal-Karsh.’ I attacked him with the spear and pierced his eye and he died. I put my foot over his body to pull (that spear) out, but even then I had to use a great amount of force to take it out as both its ends were bent.” ‘Urwah said, “Later on, Allah’s Messenger asked Az-Zubair for the spear and he gave it to him. When Allah’s Messenger died, Az-Zubair took it back. After that Abu Bakr demanded it and he gave it to him, and when Abu Bakr died, Az-Zubair took it back. ‘Umar then demanded it from him and he gave it to him. When ‘Umar died, Az-Zubair took it back, and then ‘Uthman demanded it from him and he gave it to him. When ‘Uthman was martyred, the spear remained with ‘Ali’s offspring. Then ‘Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair demanded it back, and it remained with him till he was martyred.

Ibn Ishaq said: Okkashah Ibn Mihsan , ally of Banu ‘Abd Shams Ibn ‘Abd Manaf, fought on the day of Badr with his sword until it broke in his hand. Then he came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who gave him a piece of wood and said, “O Okkashah, fight with this!” When he took it from the Messenger of Allah, he shook it and it turned into a long white hard steel sword in his hand. He fought with it until Allah granted victory to the Muslims. That sword is known as Al‘Awn. He witnessed several battles with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and it always remained with him, until he was killed during the wars of apostasy and (the sword) was still with him.

Al-Baihaqi had reported from Al-Hakim that Okkashah Ibn Mihsan narrated: “My sword broke in the Battle of Badr and Allah’s Messenger gave me a piece of wood which turned into a long white hard steel sword. I fought with it until Allah routed the polytheists.” The sword never ceased to be with him till he died.

The Messenger of Allah's Restoration of Qatadah's Eye

'Asim Ibn 'Umar Ibn Qatadah reported from his father, from his grandfather (Qatadah Ibn An-Nu'man) that his eye was hit in the Battle of Badr and its pupil was knocked out from its socket and hung down his cheek. Some people wanted to cut it off but others restrained them saying: "Let's go to Allah's Messenger to seek his advice." When they got to him and narrated to him what happened he went close to Qatadah, raised the pupil (of the eye) and placed it back into its socket. Then he rubbed the eye with his palm and prayed: "O Allah, restore it and make it good." Till he died, no one who met him was able to identify the eye that was injured.

In another narration, it turned out to be the better of the two eyes. 'Asim Ibn 'Umar Ibn Qatadah rendered a poem chronicling the incident:

I am the son of the one whose pupil (eye) hung down his cheek

Then it was restored by the hand of Al-Mustafa (the Prophet)

Another Narration similar to that:

Al-Baihaqi related from Mu'adh Ibn Rifa'ah Ibn Rafi' from his father Rafi' Ibn Malik who said: On the day of Badr, the people gathered up to Ubayy Ibn Khalaf and I approached him and I noticed an opening in his armor which had broken under his armpit, so I pierced him mortally through that opening and I was hit by an arrow on the Day of Badr and my eye was knocked out. The Messenger of Allah placed some of his saliva on it and supplicated for me and I did not feel any pain from it. This narration is, however, strange even though its chain is good but he did not authenticate it.

The Casting of the Leaders of the Kuffar Into the Well of Badr

Ibn Ishaq related that 'A'ishah said: When Allah's Messenger ordered that the all the corpses (of the Kuffar) be thrown into the pit, they were all thrown with the exception of Umayyah Ibn Khalaf who had become swollen in his armor to the extent that it filled it. When they tried to carry his corpse, it disintegrated, so they left it where it was and heaped sand and stones on his corpse to cover it up.

After they had thrown the corpses into the pit, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stood over them and said: “O people of the pit, you have found true what your Lord had for you, I have found true what my Lord had promised me.”

‘A’ishah added that his Companions said to him, “O Messenger of Allah, are you speaking people who are dead?” He said: “They know that what Allah had promised them is true.” ‘A’ishah continued: The people said that they had heard what you said to them and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, merely said: “They have realized.”

I said, this is from ‘A’ishah’s interpretation of the Hadith as has been compiled in a section indicating that she considers it to be contradictory to some Verses of the Qur’an. According to this position, to claim that she had heard what the Prophet said to them contradicts this Verse: ...but you cannot make hear those who are in graves. (Soorah Fatir 35:22)

However, there is no contradiction whatsoever; the correct view is that of the majority of the Companions and those who came after them, that the said Hadith is a textual proof against her opinion, may Allah be pleased with her.

Al-Bukhari related that it was mentioned before ‘A’ishah that Ibn ‘Umar attributed the following statement to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him: “The dead person is punished in the grave because of the crying and lamentation of his family.” On that, ‘A’ishah said, “But Allah’s Messenger said, ‘The dead person is punished for his crimes and sins while his family cry over him then’.” She added, “And this is similar to the statement of Allah’s Messenger when he stood by the (edge of the) well which contained the corpses of the pagans killed at Badr, ‘They hear what I say.’ She added, “But he said now they know very well what I used to tell them was the truth.” ‘A’ishah then recited: Verily, you cannot make the dead to hear. (Soorah An-Naml 27:80) and

...but you cannot make hear those who are in graves. (Soorah Fatir 35:22) that is, when they have taken their places in the (Hell)Fire.

The possibility of the dead hearing after being buried has been categorically established by more than one Hadith as shall be clarified in the Book Al-Jana'iz Min Ahkam Al-Kabeer by the permission of Allah.

Al-Bukhari related that Ibn 'Umar said: "The Prophet stood at the well of Badr (which contained the corpses of the pagans) and said, "Have you found true what your lord promised you?" Then he further said, "They now hear what I say to them." This was mentioned before 'A'ishah and she said, "But the Prophet said, 'Now they know very well that what I used to tell them was the truth.' Then she recited: Verily, you cannot make the dead to hear, ... till the end of Verse. (Soorah An-Naml 27:80)

Al-Bukhari related that Abu Talhah narrated that on the day of Badr, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered that the corpses of twenty-four leaders of Quraish be thrown into one of the dirty dry wells of Badr. (It was a habit of the Prophet that whenever he conquered some people, he used to stay at the battlefield for three nights.) So, on the third day of the Battle of Badr, he ordered that his she-camel be saddled, then he set out, and his Companions followed him saying among themselves: "Definitely he (i.e. the Prophet) is proceeding for some great purpose." When he halted at the edge of the well, he addressed the corpses of the Quraish infidels by their names and their fathers' names, "O so-and-so, son of so-and-so; and O so-and-so, son of so-and-so! Would it have pleased you if you had obeyed Allah and His Messenger? We have found true what our Lord promised us. Have you too found true what your Lord promised you?" 'Umar said, "O Allah's Messenger! You are speaking to bodies that have no souls!" Allah's Messenger said, "By Him in Whose Hands is Muhammad's soul, you do not hear what I say better than they do." (Qatadah said, "Allah brought them to life (again) to let them hear him, to reprimand them and slight them, and to take revenge over them and to cause them to feel remorseful and regretful.") be thrown into the pit, the corpse of ‘Utba Ibn Rabe‘ah was dragged and thrown in the Qaleeb (the well) at Badr. Abu Hudhaifah stared at his father’s corpse with a changed complexion. When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw him, he said: “Abu Hudhaifah, perhaps you are nursing some feelings regarding your father?” “No, O Messenger of Allah, I do not have any doubt about my father’s death nor about where he is going; rather, I had always known my father of having the qualities of intelligence, insight and grace, and I had hoped that these qualities will guide him to Islam. When I saw the fate that eventually befell him then I called to mind the polytheism upon which he died and the hope I had always nursed for him and that really saddened me.” Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, prayed for him and said good things about him.

Ibn Ishaq related that when the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, commanded that they (the corpse of the polytheists)

Al-Bukhari related that Ibn ‘Abbas said concerning the Verse: “Have you not seen those who have changed the Blessings of Allah into disbelief (by denying Prophet Muhammad and his Message of Islam)...” (Soorah Ibrahim 14:28) the people meant here by Allah are the pagans of Quraish and Muhammad is Allah’s blessings. Concerning the statement: “...and have caused their people to dwell in the house of destruction?” Ibn ‘Abbas said: “It meant the Fire they will suffer in (after their death) on the day of Badr.”

Imam Ahmad related that Ibn ‘Abbas said: “When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was through with the corpses, it was said to him: ‘Take to ‘Al-‘Eer’, nothing lies before it.’” Then ‘Abbas called on to him while he was in fetters: “It will not be permissible for you.” “Why?” the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked. ‘Abbas replied: “Because Allah promised you one of two groups and He has fulfilled what He has promised you.”

Allah had legalized the fighting of the Muslims against the disbelievers and had explained its wisdom in this regard. So, when you meet (in fight Jihad in Allah’s Cause), those who disbelieve smite at their necks till when you have killed and wounded many of them, then bind a bond firmly (on them, i.e. take them as captives). Thereafter (is the time) either for generosity (i.e. free them without ransom), or ransom

(according to what benefits Islam), until the war lays down its burden. Thus [you are ordered by Allah to continue in carrying out Jihad against the disbelievers till they embrace Islam (i.e. are saved from the punishment in the Hellfire) or at least come under your protection], but if it had been Allah's Will, He Himself could certainly have punished them (without you). But (He lets you fight), in order to test you, some with others. (Soorah Muhammad 47:4)

Allah (SWT) also says: Fight against them so that Allah will punish them by your hands and disgrace them and give you victory over them and heal the breasts of a believing people, And remove the anger of their (believers') hearts. Allah accepts the repentance of whom He wills. Allah is All-Knowing, All-Wise. (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:14,15)

Abu Jahl was killed by the hands of a youth from the Ansar and afterwards 'Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood came upon him, decapitated him and brought his head to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Allah gladdened the heart of the Muslims because this kind of death is more humiliating than a thunder bolting striking him, or the roof of his house collapsing on him, or him dying naturally.

Ibn Ishaq related that among those who were killed along with the polytheists on the day of Badr were those who came to the battlefield out of dissimulation and a number of them had been tortured to abandon Islam. Among them were Al-Harith Ibn Zam'ah Ibn Al-Aswad, Abu Qais Ibn Al-Fakih, Abu Qais Ibn AlWaleed Ibn Al-Mugheerah, 'Ali Ibn Umayyah Ibn Khalaf and Al-'As Ibn Munabbah Ibn Al-Hajjaj.

It is concerning them that this Verse was revealed: Verily! As for those whom the angels take (in death) while they are wronging themselves (as they stayed among the disbelievers even though emigration was obligatory for them), they (angels) say (to them): "In what (condition) were you?" They reply: "We were weak and oppressed on earth." They (angels) say: "Was not the earth of Allah spacious enough for you to emigrate therein?" Such men will find their abode in Hell - What an evil destination! (Soorah An-Nisa' 4:97)

The number of those who were captured on the day of Badr was seventy, as shall be discussed shortly, insha'Allah. Among them were members of the family of Allah's Messenger – his uncle, Al-'Abbas Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib, his cousin Aqeel Ibn Abi Talib, Nawfal Ibn Al-Harith Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib. Imam AshShafi'i, Al-Bukhari and others have adduced from this the evidence that not everyone who had some relationship and was captured was forbidden to be liberated. They cited the Hadith of Al-Hasan from Samurah regarding that. And Allah knows best. Among this group was Abul-'As Ibn Ar-Rabee' Ibn 'Abd Shams Ibn Umayyah, the husband of Zainab, who was the daughter of the Prophet.

The Companions' view were divided over the fate of the captives – should they be killed or ransomed? Al-Hasan said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sought the advice of the Muslims concerning the captives of Badr. He said: "Allah has given you power over them." 'Umar rose and said: "O Messenger of Allah, chop off their necks." The Prophet turned away from him. The Prophet again turned to the people for another advice. Abu Bakr As-Siddiq got up and said: "O Messenger of Allah, our view is that you should forgive them and accept their ransom." Then, the gloom on the face of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was dissipated and he forgave them and accepted their ransom. Then Allah revealed: Were it not a previous ordainment from Allah, a severe torment would have touched you for what you took. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:68) This Hadith is exclusively related by Ahmad.

Ibn 'Umar narrated that when the Kuffar were captured on the day of Badr, 'Abbas was among them; he was captured by one of the Ansar men. The Ansar had threatened to kill him and when that got to the Prophet, he said: "I could not sleep overnight owing to anxiety over my uncle I thought the Ansar had killed him." 'Umar said: "Should I approach them?" and the Prophet answered in the affirmative. So 'Umar approached the Ansar and said to them: "Release 'Abbas." They said: "By Allah we shall not release him." 'Umar said: "Even if that is pleasing to the Messenger of Allah?" The Ansar said: "If that pleases him, then you may take him." When 'Umar took him, he said to 'Abbas: "O 'Abbas, accept Islam. By Allah, your acceptance of Islam is more pleasing to me than that of Al-Khattab and that is not so except owing to the fact your acceptance of Islam will delight the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sought Abu Bakr's advice and he said: "They are your relatives, so release them." He sought 'Umar's advice and he said: "Kill them." Eventually, the Prophet accepted their ransom and Allah revealed: It is not for a Prophet that he should have prisoners of war (and free them with ransom) until he had made a great slaughter (among his enemies) in the land. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:67)

Al-Mujahid and Ath-Thawree said concerning Allah's statement: Were it not a previous ordainment from Allah. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:68) it means ordainment of forgiveness.

Al-Walibee related that Ibn 'Abbas said: It is recorded in the first Umm Al-Kitab that the booty and ransom of the captives of Badr are permissible for them. This is why Allah says thereafter: So enjoy what you have gotten of booty in war, lawful and good... (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:69)

This has also been related from Abu Hurairah, Ibn Mas'ood, Ibn Jubair, 'Ata', Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-'Amash and it is also the preferred opinion of Ibn Jareer. This preference for this view is corroborated by what is recorded in the Saheehain from Jabi Ibn 'Abdullah that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said:

"I have been given five things which were not given to any amongst the Prophets before me. (They are):

Allah made me victorious by awe (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey.

The earth has been made for me (and for my followers) a place for praying and a thing to perform

Tayammum. The booty has been made Halal (lawful) for me (and was not made so for anyone else). I have been given the right of intercession (on the Day of Resurrection). Every Prophet used to be sent to his nation exclusively but I have been sent to all mankind."

Al-'Amash related from Abu Saleh that Abu Hurairah narrated that the Prophet said: "War booty was not permitted other than for us." This is why Allah said: So enjoy what you have gotten of booty in war, lawful and good... (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:69) Thus Allah permitted the consumption of war booties and ransom of war captives.

Abu Dawood had related that Ibn ‘Abbas narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, fixed the ransom of the captives of the Battle of Badr at four hundred. That was the least amount of ransom taken from anyone of them. The highest amount taken from one person was four thousand dirham.

Ibn Ishaq related that Ibn ‘Abbas said: “All the while the captives remained in bondage; the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would spend the night awake. When he was asked why he could not sleep, he said, ‘I can hear the plaintive moaning of my uncle in captivity.’ When he was unfettered, ‘Abbas became quiet and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was able to sleep.

Ibn Ishaq added: He was a wealthy man, so he ransomed himself with one hundred uqiyah of gold.

I say: The hundred uqiyah of gold was paid on behalf of himself, his two nephews – ‘Aqeel and Nawfal and his ally, ‘Utbah Ibn ‘Amr, one of the Banu Al-Harith Ibn Fihir as Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had ordered when he claimed that he had accepted Islam. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to him: “We will deal only with what is apparent from you and only Allah knows best the fact of your acceptance of Islam and He will reward you accordingly.” He claimed he had no money with him. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to him: “Where is the money both you and Umm Fadl buried and you said to him: ‘If I am killed in this journey, this money is meant for Banu Fadl, ‘Abdullah and Qutham?’” He said: “By Allah, I know you are truly a Messenger of Allah for this matter known to no one other than myself and Umm Fadl.” Related by Ibn Ishaq from Ibn Abi Najeeh from ‘Ata’ from Ibn ‘Abbas.

Anas Ibn Malik narrated that: Some Ansari men asked permission from Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saying, “Allow us not to take the ransom of our nephew ‘Abbas.” The Prophet replied, “Do not leave a single dirham from it.”

Al-Bukhari related that Anas narrated that some money from Bahrain was brought to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. He said, "Spread it in the Mosque." It was the biggest amount that had ever been brought to Allah's Messenger. In the meantime, 'Abbas came to him and said, "O Allah's Messenger! Give me, for I gave the ransom of myself and 'Aqeel." The Prophet said (to him), "Take." He scooped money with both hands and poured it in his garment and tried to lift it, but he could not and appealed to the Prophet, "Will you order someone to help me in lifting it?" The Prophet said, "No." Then 'Abbas said, "Then will you yourself help me carry it?" The Prophet said, "No." Then 'Abbas threw away some of the money, but even then he was not able to lift it, and so he again requested the Prophet "Will you order someone to help me carry it?" The Prophet said, "No." Then 'Abbas said, "Then will you yourself help me carry it?" The Prophet said, "No." So, 'Abbas threw away some more money and lifted it on his shoulder and went away. The Prophet kept on looking at him with astonishment at his greediness till he went out of our sight. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not get up from there till not a single dirham remained from that money.

The Number of Captives and Those Killed Among the Polytheists in the Battle of Badr

It is popularly known that the number of captives from Badr were seventy and the number of the dead Mushrikeen was also seventy as related by other narrations separate from those related earlier, such as the Hadith of Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib in Saheeh Al-Bukhari that the Muslims killed seventy and captured seventy.

Al-Baihaqi said that Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib narrated that: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, appointed 'Abdullah Ibn Jubair over the archers on the day of the Battle of Badr and seventy of us were felled (i.e. at the Battle of Uhud). Meanwhile, the Prophet and his Companions had recorded 140 of the Mushrikeen as casualty of the Battle of Badr. Seventy were captured and seventy were killed.

I say: The aggregate of the Mushrikeen at the battle was between nine hundred and one thousand. Qatadah was categorical that they were nine hundred and fifty men and perhaps he took the information from what we have mentioned and Allah knows best. In the Hadith of ‘Umar mentioned earlier, there number was a little more than one thousand. The more authentic of the views is the first one based on what the Prophet said: “The number of the people (enemies) was between nine hundred and one thousand.” As for the number of the Companions on that day, they were about three hundred and ten men.

How the Booty Was Shared

The Companions disagreed on the day of Battle of Badr over the booty taken from the Mushrikeen over what should rightly be theirs. The Companions were broken into three groups after the Mushrikeen fled. A group encircled the Messenger of Allah lest anyone from the Mushrikeen would return to harm him.

Another group pursued the Mushrikeen killing and capturing some of them while the third group went around gathering the spoils of war from different parts of the battle field. Each group claimed to have greater right due to the gravity of their exploits.

Ibn Ishaq related that Abu Umamah Al-Bahili said: I asked Ubadah Ibn Samit about "Al-Anfal" (a chapter of the Qur'an) and he said: “It was revealed concerning us the participants of the Battle of Badr when we disagreed over the booty. When our disagreement became aggravated, Allah took it from us and made it the prerogative of the Messenger of Allah to distribute it among the believers equally.” The meaning of his statement “equally” is that equal portion was given to those who gathered the booty and those who pursued the enemies as well as those who remained under the flags; he did not give preference to anyone who claimed precedence in its portion. This did not, however, nullify the one-fifth so it was disposed of accordingly as some scholars have misconstrued among whom were Abu ‘Ubaidah and others. And Allah knows best. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, obtained a sword with a spine as his portion from the spoils of the Battle of Badr.

‘Ubadah Ibn Samit narrated: We went out with the Prophet and I witnessed the Battle of Badr with him. We met the enemy and Allah routed them. A group chased after the enemy decimating and capturing them and another group fell upon the spoils picking and gathering them while the third group encircled the Messenger of Allah lest the enemy should unexpectedly attack him. This continued till nightfall when the people gathered again. Those who had gathered the spoils claimed sole right to what they had gathered and that no one would else would have any portion in it. Those who chased after the enemy disagreed with them claiming that they had no greater share to the spoils than them for they were the ones who pursued the enemy causing them to abandon the spoils, and they were the ones who routed them. Those who encircled the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: We feared that the enemy would carry out a surprise attack on him (i.e. the Prophet) so we were busy protecting him.

Thus Allah (SWT) revealed: They ask you (O Muhammad) about the spoils of war. Say: "The spoils are for Allah and the Messenger." So fear Allah and adjust all matters of difference among you, and obey Allah and His Messenger (Muhammad), if you are believers. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:1) Thus, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, distributed it equally among the Muslims. Whenever the Messenger of Allah invaded an enemy land, he would give out one-fourth of the booty and one-third upon his return and he used to dislike the spoils of war.

Abu Dawood, An-Nasa'i, Ibn Hibban and Al-Hakim have related through different chains that Ibn 'Abbas narrated: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the day of the Battle of Badr, "Whoever does such-and-such, for him will be such-and-such reward." The young men dashed forth in quest of that while the elderly ones remained close to the flags. When Allah bestowed victory on them, the elderly men said: "We were a support for you. If you had been defeated, you would have returned to us. Do not take this booty alone and we remain (deprived of it)." The young men refused (to give), and said: The Messenger of Allah has given it to us. Then Allah revealed: They ask you (O Muhammad) about the spoils of war. Say: "The spoils are for Allah and the Messenger." So fear Allah and adjust all matters of difference among you, and obey Allah and His Messenger (Muhammad), if you are believers. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:1)

The importance of all that is that the matter of the spoils of war is referred to the ruling of Allah (SWT) and His Messenger based on the overriding benefits of the servants (of Allah) in their livelihood and hereafter. Thus Allah revealed: They ask you (O Muhammad) about the spoils of war. Say: "The spoils are for Allah and the Messenger." So fear Allah and adjust all matters of difference among you, and obey Allah and His Messenger (Muhammad), if you are believers. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:1)

Then he related the events of the Battle of Badr and what transpired till he ended with the words of Allah: And know that whatever of war booty that you may gain, verily one-fifth (1/5th) of it is assigned to Allah, and to the Messenger, and to the near relatives [of the Messenger (Muhammad)], (and also) the orphans, Al-Masakeen (the poor) and the wayfarer. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:41)

Clearly, this verse explains the ruling of Allah on the spoils of war, which He attributed to Himself and His Messenger and explained and ruled on it as He deemed.

The Prophet's Return From Badr to Madinah

It is recorded in the Saheehain that whenever the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was victorious in a battle, he would stay at an open field close to the battlefield for three days. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had stayed at the open field of Badr for three days as mentioned earlier. His departure was on Monday night. He rode his camel and stopped by the well of Badr and rebuked those who were hauled into it, as related earlier. Then the Messenger of Allah departed along with the captives and a great amount of spoils from the war. Meanwhile, Allah's Messenger, peace be upon him, had sent ahead of him two men to carry the news of his victory over those who associate partners with Allah and belie Him. He sent 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah to the upper part of Madinah and Zaid Ibn Harithah to the lower part of the city.

Usamah Ibn Zaid related that the Prophet left behind 'Uthman and Usamah Ibn Zaid to attend to the daughter of the Messenger of Allah. Zaid Ibn Harithah came riding Adba', the camel of the Messenger of Allah with news of the victory. Usamah said: I heard the hue and cry, so I came out to see that Zaid had come with the glad tiding and, by Allah, I did not believe it until we saw the captives and Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave 'Uthman his portion (of the spoils)."

Ibn Ishaq related: The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, returned to his home along with the captives, among whom were 'Uqbah Ibn Abi Mu'ait and Nadra Ibn Al-Harith. He had entrusted the spoils of war to 'Abdullah Ibn Ka'b Ibn 'Amr Ibn 'Awf Ibn Mabdhoob Ibn 'Amr Ibn Ghanm Ibn Mazin Ibn AnNajjar.

Then the Messenger of Allah continued his return journey till he passed through the strait of As-Safra'. He descended upon the sand dune known as Siyar Kunayb situated between the strait and the oasis of AnNaziyah by a tree located close by, where he distributed equally the spoils of war, which Allah had bestowed on the Muslims from the disbelievers.

Afterwards, he proceeded until he reached Ar-Raha' where he was met by some Muslims who had gathered to congratulate him, and those who were present with him, for the victory that Allah bestowed on him. Salamah Ibn Salamah Ibn Waqsh, as related to me by 'Asim Ibn 'Umar and Yazeed Ibn Roomaan, said: "Why are you congratulating us? By Allah, we merely confronted decrepit people whom we found like a tethered camel that we slaughtered." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, smiled and then said: "O my nephew, they were a multitude."

The Killing of An-Nadr Ibn Al-Harith and 'Uqbah Ibn Abi Mu'ait

Ibn Ishaq related: When the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, reached As-Safra' he ordered that An-Nadr Ibn Al-Harith be executed and 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib killed him as related to me by some men of knowledge among the people of Makkah. Thereafter, he proceeded till he was at Irq Uz-Zubayah where he ordered that 'Uqbah Ibn Abi Mu'ait be executed as well.

Ash-Sha'bi related that when the Prophet ordered the execution of 'Uqbah he said: "Would you kill me from all of Quraish?" He replied: "Yes, do you know what this one had done to me? He came while I was in prostration behind the Maqam (Ibrahim) and he placed his leg on my neck and pressed down on it and I was unable to raise my head till I thought my eyes would be affected. He came at another time with the bowels of a goat and placed it on my head while I was in prostration and Fatimah came to remove it off my head.” Ibn Hisham said: Rather, it is reported by Az-Zuhri and other people of knowledge that it was ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib who killed ‘Uqbah.

I say: These two men more than any others were vehement in their disbelief, obstinacy, transgression, envy, lampooning Islam and its adherents. May Allah curse them both.

The Joy of Najashi at the Event of Badr

Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi related from ‘Abdur-Rahmaan Ibn Yazeed Ibn Jabir from ‘Abdur-Rahman, a man from Sana‘ who narrated that one day, An-Najashi sent for Ja‘afar Ibn Abi Talib and his compatriots and they came to meet him in a house while he was wearing a worn-out cloth and sitting on bare sand. Ja‘afar said: We were scared when we saw him in that condition. When he noticed our expression, he said, I want to break to you news that will be pleasing to you. One of my spies has come to me from your land with information that Allah has given victory to His Prophet and has destroyed his enemy and such-and-such persons have been captured and such-and-such persons have been killed. They had met at a valley called Badr which is suffused with Arak as if I can see it now because I used to graze camels on behalf of my master who was a man from Banu Damrah. Ja‘afar asked him: Then why are you sitting on bare sand without any rug and wearing this sort of dress? He said: We found in what Allah has sent down upon ‘Eesa that it is a right upon the slave of Allah to demonstrate gratitude to Allah in humility whenever He granted them a favor. So when Allah granted me the favor of the victory of His Prophet, I am presenting to Him this humility as gratitude.”

The News of the Casualties of Badr Reaches Their Families in Makkah

Ibn Ishaq related: The first person to reach Makkah with the news of the casualty of Badr was AlHaithuman Ibn ‘Abdullah Al-Khuza‘i. They asked him: “What course of event did you leave behind?” He replied: “ ‘Utbah Ibn Rabee‘ah was killed and so were Shaibah Ibn Rabee‘ah, Abul-Hakam Ibn Hisham, Umayyah Ibn Khalaf, Zam‘ah Ibn Al-Aswad, Nabeeh and Munabbih, and Abul-Bakhatari Ibn Hisham.” When he continued to enumerate the fate of the noblemen of Quraish, Safwan Ibn Umayyah said: “I cannot fathom this, so ask him on my behalf.” They said: “What has Safwan Ibn Umayyah done?” He said: “There he is sitting in the hijr. By Allah, I saw his father and brother when they were killed.”

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah said that when the news reached the people of Makkah, after verifying it, the women tore their hair in grief and there were lots of wailing.

Ibn Ishaq added: Yahya Ibn ‘Abbad narrated to me from his father who said, they mourned their dead from the battle and some of them said: “Stop mourning, so that Muhammad may not rejoice at your misfortune when the news of your mourning reaches him, and do not hasten to seek the return of your captives until they become amenable so that Muhammad may not become too strict in ransom.”

I say: This is a complete punishment from Allah for them, because they abandoned the mourning of their dead, even though weeping over the dead is something that dispels grief from the heart.

Ibn Ishaq related that Al-Aswad Ibn Al-Muttalib lost three of his children, Zam‘ah, ‘Aqeel and Al-Harith. He desired to cry over the loss of his children. While he was still in grief, he heard a shriek in the middle of the night and he said to a boy of his, as he had lost his sight: “Check if what we desire has been permitted. Has the Quraish decided to weep over their dead? So that I may also weep over Hakeemah (i.e. his son Zam‘ah) for my inside has been incinerated with grief.” When the slave boy returned, he informed him that it was just a woman crying over her lost camel.

The Sending of Emissaries by the Quraish so as to Ransom their Prisoners

Ibn Ishaq related that among the captives was Abu Wada'ah Ibn Dubairah As-Sahmi, so the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "He has a son back in Makkah who is a shrewd and rich trader and it seems he will soon come to ransom his father."

When the Quraish said to not hasten in getting your captives ransomed so that Muhammad and his Companions do not become extreme in regards to their asking amount, Al-Muttalib Ibn Abi Wada'ah, the one about whom the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, said: "You are correct, do not be in haste," snuck out at night and headed for Madinah. When he got there, he ransomed his father with four thousand dirham and took him away.

I say: This was the first prisoner of the Battle of Badr to be ransomed. Afterwards, the Quraish sent emissaries seeking to ransom their prisoners. Makraz Ibn Hafs Ibn Al-Akhyaf also arrived to pay the ransom of Suhail Ibn 'Amr.

Ibn Ishaq related that 'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said to Allah's Messenger, peace be upon him: "Allow me to pluck out the front teeth of Suhail Ibn 'Amr to let his tongue stick out so that he will never again be able to speak against you in public." Allah's Messenger replied: "No, I shall not torture him so that Allah may not also torture me even though I am a Prophet."

I say: This Hadith is mursal; rather, it is mu'dal.

Ibn Ishaq related: It has reached me that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to 'Umar concerning his request to punish Suhail severely: "Perhaps he will stand in a position for which you will not censure him."

I say: This is in reference to his standing in Makkah when the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, died and some Arabs apostatized and hypocrisy reared its head in Madinah and other places.

Suhail rose in Makkah to address the people and strengthen them upon the deen of Al-Haneef (Islam) as shall be elaborated on later.

Ibn Ishaq said: ‘Abdullah Ibn Abi Bakr narrated: It was said to Abu Sufyan, “Ransom ‘Amr, your son.” He replied, “Should I add my wealth to my blood? They killed Hanzalah and will I pay ransom for ‘Amr? Leave him in their hands, let them do as they like with him.” While his son was still in captivity in Madinah, Sa’d Ibn An-Nu‘man Ibn Ukal, the brother of Banu ‘Amr Ibn ‘Awf and one of the Banu Mu‘awiyah went out with the intention of performing ‘Umrah (in Makkah). He was an old Muslim man who used to tend his livestock by the Baqee‘. So he departed from there for ‘Umrah without any fear of what might be done to him. He did not entertain the thought of being detained in Makkah. He had merely come for ‘Umrah, and the Quraish had previously given their words that they will not intercept anyone who comes to them with the intention of Hajj or ‘Umrah. However, while in Makkah, Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb transgressed against him, and detained him in retaliation for his son, ‘Amr.

Banu ‘Amr Ibn ‘Awf went to inform Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of the incident and they requested him to hand over ‘Amr Ibn Abi Sufyan so as to exchange him with their own compatriot. The Prophet acceded to their request and they sent ‘Amr to Abu Sufyan and he also freed Sa’d.

Ibn Ishaq related that ‘A’ishah said that when the Quraish sent emissaries to ransom their prisoners, Zainab sent money to ransom her husband, Abul-‘As. The money included a necklace which Khadeejah (her mother) had given her on the occasion of her marriage. When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw the necklace, he became emotional and said (to his Companions): “If you wish to free her prisoner and return her money, then do so.” The Companions accepted this and did as the Messenger of Allah wished.

Ibn Ishaq also related: Abu Azzah 'Amr Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Uthman Ibn Uhaib Ibn Hudhafah Ibn Jamuh (one of the prisoners) was a poor man with daughters to care for; so he said: O Messenger of Allah, you are aware of my condition with regard to wealth. I am a needy person with families to care for, so please be kind to me.” Allah’s Messenger showed mercy to him and he took a covenant from him to never aid anyone against him. Abu Azzah said in praise of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him:

Who will inform Muhammad on my behalf

That you are indeed truthful and a noble holder

And that you are one who invites to the truth and guidance

You have a witness from Allah, the Almighty

You were built among us like a residence

Having many levels whose climbing is easy

Whoever you wage war against is unfortunate

And whoever you make peace with is fortunate

When I remember Badr and its people

My portion of sorrow and omission come back

I say: This Abu 'Azzah would later annul the covenant he had with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. The Mushrikeen played on his intelligence and he returned to them. On the day of the Battle of Uhud, he was again captured. He once more begged the Messenger of Allah for clemency and the Prophet said: "I will not let you go, for you will turn your cheek and say that you fooled Muhammad twice." He then ordered that he be executed, which was carried out as shall be related in the story of the Battle of Uhud. It is also said that it is on this occasion that the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, said: "A Muslim is not stung twice from the same hole." These kinds of words are not heard elsewhere except from him.

Ibn Ishaq related that 'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair related that 'Umair Ibn Wahb Al-Jumahi sat with Safwan Ibn Umayyah in the hijr shortly after the debacle of Badr. 'Umair Ibn Wahb was one of the vilest of Quraish and one of those who used to hurt the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his Companions. They used to experience trouble from him while in Makkah. However, his son, Wahb Ibn 'Umar was among the prisoners of Badr. Ibn Hisham added: the one who captured him was Rifa'ah Ibn Rafi' from the Banu Zuraiq.

Ibn Ishaq related that Muhammad Ibn Ja'afar narrated to me from 'Urwah (that 'Umar Ibn Wahb and Safwan) recounted the people thrown into the pit and other casualties of theirs, so Safwan said: "By Allah, there will not be any value in living after them." 'Umar concurred saying: "You are correct, by Allah, were it not for the repayment of the loan of 'Ali, which I am incapable of repaying and my family for which I have some fears after I am gone, I would ride to Muhammad till I am able to kill him because my son is in his captivity." Safwan Ibn Umayyah seized that opportunity and said to him: "I take responsibility for the repayment of your loan and I shall merge your family with mine in their care, no harm will come to them." 'Umar said: "Then keep this matter between both of us." He replied: "I shall do that." Then 'Umar called for his sword, sharpened it and laced it with poison. Thereafter, he proceeded till he arrived in Madinah.

Meanwhile, 'Umar was in the midst of a group of Muslims discussing the event of Badr and recollecting how Allah had ennobled them with it and what they had seen in their enemies. Just then, 'Umar saw 'Umar Ibn Wahb as he perched by the entrance of the mosque with a drawn sword and said: "This is the dog, enemy of Allah, 'Umar Ibn Wahb. Nothing has brought him here except an evil intent. He is the same person who sowed discord among us and gave the estimate of our strength to the enemies on the day of Badr." Then he went in to inform the Messenger of Allah. "O Prophet of Allah," he said, "'Umar Ibn Wahb, the enemy of Allah, has come with a drawn sword." The Prophet said: "Let him in." 'Umar went back, wrapped the strap of his sword to his neck, and he said to those present among the Ansar: "All of you go in and sit with the Prophet and protect him against this filth for he is not to be trusted." 'Umar led him in to meet the Messenger of Allah. When he saw how 'Umar had wound the strap of his sword round 'Umar's neck, he said: "Release him, 'Umar. Come closer, 'Umar." He moved close to the Prophet and said: "Good morning," which was a greeting of the time of Jahiliyyah. The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, said: “Allah has ennobled us with a better form of greeting than yours. ‘Umair, the greeting of peace will be the greeting of the inmates of Paradise.” Then the Prophet asked: “What has brought you, ‘Umair?” He replied: “I have come regarding this prisoner that you have with you to seek your benevolence on his matter.” “Then what about the sword on your neck?” the Messenger of Allah poked further. ‘Umair said: “Cursed be the swords, has they benefited (us) in any way?” “Tell me the truth, what has brought you?” the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, insisted. Again, ‘Umair maintained: “Nothing has brought me other than what I had told you.” Finally, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “No, rather, you sat in the hijr with Safwan Ibn Umayyah and you both lamented your loss and remembering the Quraishi inmates of the pit (of Badr) and then you said: ‘Had it not been for my debt and my family I would have proceeded to kill Muhammad, and Safwan offered to repay your debt and take care of your family upon the promise of killing me and Allah put a wedge between you and your goal.”

Obviously flabbergasted, ‘Umair said: “I bear witness that truly you are a Messenger of Allah. We used to belie what you used to bring from the Divine information and revelation. As for this issue, no other person had witnessed it except me and Safwan. By Allah, I know no one has brought this information to you except Allah. So I thank Allah Who has guided me to Islam and made me tread this course.” Then he bore the witness of Truth (i.e. he accepted Islam).

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Teach your brother his religion. Teach him the Qur’an and release his prisoner to him.” The Companions did as the Prophet ordered. Thereafter, he said: “O Allah’s Messenger, I used to make strenuous efforts to extinguish the Light of Allah and to persecute those who were upon the religion of Allah. I wish you would permit me to go back to Makkah so that I may invite them to Allah and His Messenger as well as to Islam. Perhaps Allah will guide them or, at least, they may also persecute me the way I used to persecute your Companions over their religion.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, permitted him and he went back to Makkah.

Meanwhile, after ‘Umair had left for Madinah, Safwan would tell the people: “I give you glad tidings of an impending incident that will make you forget the debacle of Badr. Safwan kept asking every rider arriving in Makkah for information about ‘Umair until a rider came and informed him that ‘Umair had accepted Islam. He swore never to speak with ‘Umair again and to have anything to do with him again.

Ibn Ishaq continued: When ‘Umair arrived in Makkah, he began calling people to Islam and many people accepted Islam at his hands. ‘Umair Ibn Wahb or Al-Haarith Ibn Hisham was the one who saw the enemy of Allah, Iblees, when he turned on his heels on the day of Badr saying: “I have nothing to do with you. I see what you do not.” On that day, Iblees took the form of Suraqah Ibn Malik Ibn Ju‘shum.

Then Ibn Ishaq began to mention the names of the Muslims who were martyred in the Battle of Badr. First, he enumerated the names of those who witnessed it among the emigrants followed by those of the Ansar from the Aws and the Khazraj. Finally, Ibn Ishaq said: The aggregate of those who witnessed the Battle of Badr among the emigrant Muslims and the Ansar as well as those who were rewarded and given a share in the booty numbered three hundred and fourteen men. Eighty-three were from the Emigrants, sixty-one from the Aws and one hundred and seventy men from the Khazraj. Al-Bukhari has also enumerated them in his Saheeh in alphabetical order after the names of Allah’s Messenger, Abu Bakr, ‘Umar, ‘Uthman and ‘Ali. May Allah be pleased with them all.

The Excellence of Those Who Participated in the Battle of Badr

Al-Bukhari related from Humayd that he heard Anas say: Harithah was killed in the Battle of Badr, so his mother came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said: “O Allah’s Messenger! Inform me about Harithah. If he is in Paradise, I shall remain patient, but if it is not so, then you shall see what I do (i.e. of wailing)?” Allah’s Messenger said to her: “Woe to you! Have you lost your senses? Do you think Paradise is only one (level)? It has many wonderful gardens and your son is in the (most superior) garden of Paradise, Al-Firdaus.”

Al-Bukhari and Muslim both related from ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib the story of Hatib Ibn Abi Balta’ah and his sending of a letter to the people of Makkah in the year of the conquest. ‘Umar sought the permission of the Messenger of Allah to behead him for he had betrayed Allah, His Messenger and the Believers. In response, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “He participated in the Battle of Badr and who knows, perhaps Allah has already looked at the Badr warriors and said, ‘Do whatever you like, for I have forgiven you’.” ‘Umar’s eyes welled with tears and he said: “Allah and His Messenger know best.”

Imam Muslim related that Jabir narrated that a slave of Hatib came to the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, complaining against him, then he said: “O Messenger of Allah, Hatib will definitely enter the Fire.” Whereupon the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “You have lied, he will never enter it for he participated in the Battle of Badr and Al-Hudaibiyah.”

Imam Ahmad related from Abu Hurairah that the Prophet said: “Allah looked at the warriors of Badr and said, ‘Do whatever you like, for I have forgiven you’.” Abu Dawood has also related it from Ahmad Ibn Sinan and Moosa Ibn Ismael, both of whom related it from Yazeed Ibn Haaron.

Al-Bukhari related that Mu‘adh Ibn Rifa‘ah Ibn Rafi‘ Az-Zuraqi narrated that his father, who was one of those who witnessed the Battle of Badr, said: “Jibraeel came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said, “How do you look upon the warriors of Badr among yourselves?” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, “As the best of the Muslims,” or said a similar statement. On that, Jibraeel said, “And so are the angels who participated in Badr.” Al-Bukhari reported it exclusively.

The Arrival of Zainab, the Daughter of Allah’s Messenger, from Makkah to Madinah, a Month After Badr

After Abul-‘As was freed, he returned to Makkah. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, sent Zaid Ibn Harithah and commanded both of them to remain in Ya’jaj till Zainab would pass by them and then accompany her back to me in Madinah. Both of them went as commanded and this incident occurred a month or thereabout after the Battle of Badr. When Al-‘As arrived in Makkah, he ordered her to join her father (in Madinah) and she left after a short while.

Al-Baihaqi has related in Ad-Dala’il from ‘A’ishah who narrated the story of her departure and how they brought her back and the delivery of her pregnancy and how Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had sent Zaid Ibn Harithah with his ring. He gave the ring to Zainab and when she saw it, she immediately recognized her father’s ring, she asked: “Who gave you this?” Zaid replied, “A man at the outskirts of Makkah.” Zainab left by night and she rode behind him till they arrived in Madinah. ‘A’ishah added: The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, used to say: “She is the most beloved to me of my daughters who was persecuted because of me.” When this narration reached ‘Ali Ibn Al-Husain Ibn Zainul-‘Abideen, he came to ‘Urwah and said: “What is this report reaching me that you are detracting from the worth of Fatimah?” ‘Urwah replied: “By Allah, I will not detract from the right belonging to Fatimah, for all that is between the East and the West. After this, I shall never narrate it again.”

Ibn Ishaq related that Abul-‘As remained in Makkah upon his disbelief and Zainab remained with her father in Madinah till just before the Conquest of Makkah, when Abul-‘As departed on a trade mission to Syria on behalf of the Quraish. On his way back, he was intercepted by a Muslim raider and they took his merchandise but he managed to escape.

At night, he came to Zainab, his wife, to seek her protection and the return of his merchandise. In the early morning, when the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, began to lead the people in the Subh prayer, Zainab shouted from the Suffah of the women: “O people, I have given Al-‘As Ibn Ar-Rabee‘ protection.” When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, concluded the Salat, he turned to face the people and said: “Did you hear what I heard?” They replied in the affirmation and he added: “By the One in Whose Hands is the soul of Muhammad, I had known nothing about the matter before hearing what you have heard. The Muslims can protect whoever is lower than them.” Then the Messenger of Allah came to his daughter, Zainab, and said: “Make his stay comfortable but do not let him touch you for you are not lawful for him.” Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, goaded the Companions to return his merchandise to him and they did so without anything missing from it. Abul-‘As took his merchandise and headed for Makkah. On his arrival, he returned the merchandise to their owners and then said: “Does anyone still have anything with me which he has not collected?” They said: “No, may Allah reward you. We have found you to be faithful and noble.” Then he said: “However, I bear witness that none deserves to be worshipped (in truth) but Allah and that Muhammad is His slave and Messenger. By Allah, nothing had prevented me from accepting Islam except that I feared that you might think that I wanted to usurp your wealth. When Allah has returned them to you and I am through with the trade mission, I have accepted Islam.” Then he departed till he came back to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him.

Ibn Ishaq said that Dawood Ibn Al-Husain narrated to me from ‘Ikrimah from Ibn ‘Abbas who said: “The Messenger of Allah restored Zainab to him upon the first marriage contract and he did not say anything.” This Hadith has been related by Imam Ahmad, Abu Dawood, At-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from the Hadith of Muhammad Ibn Ishaq.

The Battle of Banu Sulaim in the 2nd Year of Hijrah

Ibn Ishaq related: The Messenger of Allah’s conclusion of the Battle of Badr was at the close of the month of Ramadan or in Shawwal. When he returned to Madinah, he did not spend seven nights before he again led another military contingent against Banu Sulaim. Ibn Hisham said: He appointed Siba’ Ibn ‘Urfutah Al-Ghifari or Ibn Umm Maktoom, the blind, to govern Madinah. Ibn Ishaq said that when they reached one of their watering holes named Al-Kudr, they encamped there for three nights and then returned to Madinah without any confrontation. The Messenger of Allah remained in Madinah for the remainder of the months of Shawwal and Dhul-Qa‘dah during which most of the remaining Quraish prisoners of war were ransomed.

The Invasion of As-Saweeq in Dhul-Hijjah

Ibn Ishaq related from ‘Abdullah Ibn Ka‘b Ibn Malik, and he was one of the most knowledgeable of the Ansar, that when the Quraish returned to Makkah after being vanquished at Badr, Abu Sufyan vowed never to take a bath from sexual defilement until he attacked Muhammad. He led a Calvary of two hundred men from the Quraish to carry out his pledge.

When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, got wind of his movement, he set out after them and he appointed Abu Lubabah Basheer Ibn ‘Abdul-Mundhir in charge of Madinah. The Quraish riders fled from the approaching Muslim, abandoning many of their provisions in order to make the movement of their retreat light. The Muslims took these (abandoned provisions) for themselves. Much of their abandoned food was Saweeq so the military operation was nicknamed “The Invasion of Saweeq.” The Companions asked the Prophet: “O Messenger of Allah, do you think that this will be counted as an invasion for us?” “Yes,” he answered.

Ali’s Consummates His Marriage With Fatimah, the Daughter of Allah’s Messenger

That occurred after the Battle of Badr in the second year of Hijrah based on what is related by both Bukhari and Muslim from ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib, who said that: “There fell to my lot a she-camel out of the spoils of war on the day of Badr and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave me (another) she-camel on that day out of the Khumus (one-fifth reserved for Allah and His Messenger). When I made up my mind to consummate my marriage with Fatimah, the daughter of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, I prevailed upon a goldsmith of the tribe of Qainuqa’ to go along with me so that we might bring Idhkhair, wishing to sell that to the goldsmiths so that I could arrange my wedding feast. While I was arranging the equipments, i.e. litters, sacks and ropes, my two she-camels were sitting down at the side of the apartment of a person of the Ansar. I collected (the different articles) and found to my surprise that their humps had been chopped off and their haunches had been cut off and their livers had been taken out. I could not help weeping when I saw that plight of theirs. I said: “Who has done that?”

They said: Hamzah Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib has done this and he is in this house in a drinking bout in the company of some of the Ansar with a singing girl before him and his companions. She said in her song: “O Hamzah, get up and attack these plumpy she-camels.”

Thereupon, Hamzah stood up with a sword (in his hand) and cut off their humps and ripped their haunches and tore out their livers. ‘Ali said: I went away until I came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and with him was Zaid Ibn Harithah. Allah’s Messenger recognized from my face that something had happened, so Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: “What has happened to you?” I said: “Messenger of Allah, by Allah, I have never seen (such an unfortunate day) as this day. Hamzah has committed aggression against my she-camels, and has cut off their humps and ripped their haunches, and he is in a house in the company of some drunkards.” (Hearing this) Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent for his mantle and, putting it on proceeded, and I and Zaid Ibn Harithah followed him, until he came to the door (of the house) in which there was Hamzah. He (the Prophet) sought permission which they granted him and they were all drunk. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, began to reprimand Hamzah for what he had done. Hamzah’s eyes were red. He cast a glance at Allah’s Messenger and then looked toward his knees and then lifted his eyes and cast a glance at his waist and then lifted his eyes and saw his face. And then Hamzah said: "Are you anything but the slaves of my father?" Allah’s Messenger, peace be upon him, came to know that he was intoxicated, and he turned back and came out; we also came out along with him.” This is the version of Al-Bukhari in the Book of Military Expedition.

Abu Dawood also related that Ibn ‘Abbas said that when ‘Ali married Fatimah, may Allah be pleased with both, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Give her something.” ‘Ali said: “I do not have anything with me.” The Prophet said: “Where is the shield?”

The Aggregate Events that Occurred in the 2nd Year of Hijrah

We earlier related the story of the Prophet's marriage to 'A'ishah, the Mother of the Believers. We also mentioned what had transpired in various notable military expeditions. It also included the death of several notable Muslims and disbelievers within the same period. Among those who died included the martyrs of Badr. They were fourteen, from both the Muhajiroon and the Ansar, whose names we have mentioned earlier. It also included chiefs of the polytheists of Quraish. They were seventy men according to the popular view; and right after the Battle of Badr, Abu Lahab Abdul-'Uzza Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib also died, may Allah's curse be upon him, as mentioned earlier as well.

Zaid Ibn Harithah and 'Abdullah Ibn Rawaahah gave the good news to the Believers in Madinah that Allah defeated the Mushrikeen and gave victory to the Muslims. [When the Muslims returned] they found that Ruqayyah, the daughter of Allah's Messenger, had died and had been buried. Her husband, 'Uthman had stayed behind to look after her upon the orders of the Prophet. This is why he was given a portion from the booty of Badr and his reward also lies with Allah on the Day of Judgment. Thereafter, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave him Umm Kulthoom, the daughter of Allah's Messenger, for marriage. This is why 'Uthman was referred to as Dhum-Noorain (the possessor of two lights). It is also said that no one married two daughters of the Prophet, one after the other, except him. May Allah be pleased with him.

In the same period, the direction of the Qiblah was changed, as mentioned earlier; the prayer of a resident person was also increased. In the same period, Zakatul-Fitr (charity given at the end of Ramadan fast) was also made obligatory. It also witnessed the subjugation of the polytheists of Madinah as well as the Jews who also lived in Madinah from Banu Qainuqa', Banu Nadeer, Banu Quraizah and the Jews of Banu Harithah. Many of the polytheists and Jews openly declared Islam but in reality they were hypocrites. Some of them remained upon their disbelief and some of them became thoroughly confused and so they dilly-dallied. They were neither here nor there and as Allah described them in the Qur'an: "(They are) swaying between this and that, belonging neither to these nor to those who also accepted Islam.”

The 3rd Year of Hijrah

The invasion of Najd occurred in the beginning of the third year of Hijrah. The invasion is also known as Dhu Amarr. Ibn Ishaq said that when the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned from the invasion of As-Saweeq, he remained in Madinah for the remainder of Dhul-Hijjah or close to it. Then he carried out the invasion of Najd against Ghatafan, it was also known as the Battle of Dhu Amarr. Ibn Hisham added: He appointed over Madinah in his place, ‘Uthman Ibn ‘Affaan. Ibn Ishaq continued: Spending nearly the entire month of Safar in Najd, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to Madinah without any fighting.

The Arabs escaped from him into the mountain peaks. The Muslims marched till they reached a watering hole called Dhu Amarr and they encamped there. There was a heavy downpour and the cloth of Allah’s Messenger was drenched so he rested under a tree and spread his cloth in order to dry it. All of these happened within the purview of the Mushrikeen and they became engrossed in their affairs. Finally, the Mushrikoon sent a brave man called Ghawrath Ibn Al-Harith or Du’thoor Ibn Al-Harith and they gave him a clear instruction: “Allah will enable you to kill Muhammad.” So the man set off on his mission. He stood over the Messenger of Allah with a drawn sword and said: “O Muhammad, who will save you from me today?” “Allah,” the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said calmly. Jibraeel struck the chest of the man and the sword fell off his hand and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took it and said to him: “Who will save you from me?” and the man said: “No one but I bear witness that none deserves to be worshipped but Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah.”

By Allah, no host can ever overcome him. Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned his sword to him. When the man returned to his people, they inquired of him: “Woe be to you, what happened to you?” He said: “I saw a tall man who hit me on the chest and I fell flat on my back and I knew it was an angel and I bore witness that Muhammad is a Messenger of Allah and, by Allah, no host can ever overcome him.” He kept inviting his people to Islam. It is concerning this that Allah revealed: O you who believe! Remember the Favor of Allah unto you when some people desired (made a plan) to stretch out their hands against you, but (Allah) withheld their hands from you. So fear Allah. And in Allah let Believers put their trust. (Soorah Al-Ma'idah 5:11)

The Trial of the Jews of Banu Qainuqa' from the People of Madinah

They were the subject of the statement of Allah: They are like their immediate predecessors (the Jews of Bani Qainuqa', who suffered), they tasted the evil result of their conduct, and (in the Hereafter, there is) for them a painful torment. (Soorah Al-Hashr 59:15)

Ibn Ishaq said that the narration concerning them is that Allah's Messenger, peace be upon him, requested them to gather in their marketplace and he addressed them saying: “O company of Jews, be careful of the kind of tragedy that befell the Quraish, accept Islam for you have come to know that I am a Prophet that has been sent. You have found that recorded in your Scripture and a promise from Allah to you.” They replied: “O Muhammad, do you assume that we are your people? Do not be deceived by the fact that you fought with a group who lack the knowledge of military tactics and you scored an opportunity. If you fight us then you will know what sort of people we are (in military capability).”

Ibn 'Abbas related: The following Verses of the Qur'an were revealed concerning no other people but them: Say (O Muhammad) to those who disbelieve: “You will be defeated and gathered together to Hell, and worst indeed is that place to rest.” There has already been a sign for you (O Jews) in the two armies that met (in combat i.e. the Battle of Badr)... i.e. between the warriors of Badr among the Companions of the Messenger of Allah and the Quraish. ...One was fighting in the Cause of Allah, and as for the other (they) were disbelievers. They (the believers) saw them (the disbelievers) with their own eyes twice their number (although they were thrice their number). And Allah supports with His Victory whom He pleases. Verily, in this is a lesson for those who understand. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:12, 13)

Abu 'Awn narrated that the case of the Banu Qainuqa' came to a head when an Arab woman went with her jewelry to the market of the Banu Qainuqa'. She sat down in the goldsmith's shop. A group of Jews who had gathered around her kept pressurizing her to uncover her face to which she objected. The goldsmith, unknown to her pinned the hem of her cloth to her back. When she got up, her body became exposed and the Jews started laughing at her. The woman cried out and a man from the Muslims pounced upon the Jewish goldsmith and killed him. The Jews also fell upon him and killed him in return. The spark ignited into a war between the Muslims and the Banu Qainuqa'."

Ibn Ishaq related that 'Asim Ibn 'Umar Ibn Qatadah said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sieged them till they were forced to surrender and accept his judgment. Then 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy Ibn Salool rose and said: "O Muhammad, be kind to my clients." Banu Qainuqa' were allies of the Khazraj. The Prophet did not reply immediately and 'Abdullah repeated his demand: "O Muhammad, be kind to my clients." The Prophet turned away from him but he held onto the armor of the Prophet known as Dhatul-Fudool.

The Messenger of Allah's color changed and he said: "Let me go!" He became so angry that the bystanders saw his face darkened. Then he said: "Woe to you, let me go!" But 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy said: "No, I shall not let you go till you show kindness to my clients. Four hundred without armor and three hundred with armor. They have protected me from all and sundry. Now you are going to slaughter them in one morning? By Allah, I am a man who is afraid of the consequences." Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to him: "They are yours."

Ibn Hisham added that Allah's Messenger appointed Abu Lubabah Basheer Ibn 'Abdul-Mundhir in charge of the blockade which lasted for fifteen nights. Ibn Ishaq related that 'Ubadah Ibn Samit said, when the Messenger of Allah went to war with Banu Qainuqa', 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy became obstinate in defending them, 'Ubadah Ibn Samit, who was from Banu 'Awf, who had alliances with them just like 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy, went up to Allah's Messenger and repudiated their alliances and clientele with them in preference for Allah and His Messenger. He said: "I ally myself to Allah, His Messenger, the Believers and I free myself from the alliance with these disbelievers and their clientele." It is concerning him and 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy that Allah revealed the Verses in Soorah Al-Ma'idah:

O you who believe! Take not the Jews and the Christians as Auliya' (friends, protectors, helpers, etc.), they are but Auliya' to one another (Soorah Al-Ma'idah 5:51) till the Verse, (And you see those in whose hearts there is a disease (of hypocrisy), they hurry to their friendship, saying: "We fear lest some misfortune of a disaster may befall us. (Soorah Al-Ma'idah 5:52) i.e. 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy up to the statement, And whosoever takes Allah, His Messenger, and those who have believed, as Protectors, then the party of Allah will be the victorious. (Soorah Al-Ma'idah 5:56) i.e. 'Ubadah Ibn As-Samit. We had discussed this in the Tafseer.

The Expedition of Zaid Ibn Harithah to Capture the Quraishi Caravan Led by Abu Sufyan

Yoonus related from Bukair from Ibn Ishaq that this incident occurred ten months after the Battle of Badr. The Quraish were afraid to pursue their usual trade route to Syria so they took the road to Iraq. Some of the merchants went out, including Abu Sufyan, carrying a large amount of silver which constitutes most of their trade. They appointed Furat Ibn Hayyan from Banu Bakr Ibn Wa'il as a guide along that route. At once the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Zaid who intercepted them by the watering place of Najd called "Al-Qaradah" and captured the caravan with its good but the men fled. He brought the booty to the Messenger of Allah.

The Killing of Ka'b Ibn Al-Ashraf, the Jew

Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, "Who is willing to kill Ka'b Ibn Al-Ashraf, who has hurt Allah and His Messenger?" Thereupon Muhammad Ibn Maslamah got up saying, "O

Allah's Messenger! Would you like that I kill him?" The Prophet said, "Yes," Muhammad Ibn Maslamah said, "Then allow me to say a (false) thing (i.e. to deceive Ka'b). "The Prophet said, "You may say it." Then Muhammad Ibn Maslamah went to Ka'b and said, "That man (i.e. Muhammad) demands Sadaqah (i.e. Zakat) from us, and he has troubled us, and I have come to borrow something from you." On that, Ka'b said, "By Allah, you will get tired of him!" Muhammad Ibn Maslamah said, "Now as we have followed him, we do not want to leave him unless and until we see how his end is going to be. Now we want you to lend us a camel load or two of food." (There are some differences among the narrators whether he requested for a camel load or two.) Ka'b said, "Yes, (I will lend you), but you should mortgage something to me." Muhammad Ibn Maslamah and his companion said, "What do you want?" Ka'b replied, "Mortgage your women to me." They said, "How can we mortgage our women to you and you are the most handsome of the 'Arabs?" Ka'b said, "Then, mortgage your sons to me." They said, "How can we mortgage our sons to you? Later they would be abused by the people's saying that so-and-so has been mortgaged for a camel load of food. That would cause us great disgrace, but we will mortgage our arms to you." Muhammad Ibn Maslamah and his companion promised Ka'b that Muhammad would return to him. He came to Ka'b at night along with Ka'b's foster brother, Abu Na'ilah. Ka'b invited them to come into his fort, and then he went down to them. His wife asked him, "Where are you going at this time?" Ka'b replied, "None but Muhammad Ibn Maslamah and my (foster) brother Abu Na'ilah have come." His wife said, "I hear a voice as if blood is dripping from him." Ka'b said, "They are none but my brother Muhammad Ibn Maslamah and my foster brother Abu Na'ilah. A generous man should respond to a call at night even if invited to be killed." Muhammad Ibn Maslamah went with two men. (Some narrators mention the men as Abu Abs Ibn Bin Jabr, Al-Harith Ibn Aws and Abbad Ibn Bishr). So Muhammad Ibn Maslamah went in together with two men, and said to them, "When Ka'b comes, I will touch his hair and smell it, and when you see that I have got hold of his head, strip him. I will let you smell his head." Ka'b Ibn Al-Ashraf came down to them wrapped in his clothes, and diffusing perfume. Muhammad Ibn Maslamah said. "I have never smelt a better scent than this. Ka'b replied. "I have got the best Arab women who know how to use the high class of perfume." Muhammad Ibn Maslamah requested Ka'b "Will you allow me to smell your head?" Ka'b said, “Yes.” Muhammad smelt it and made his companions smell it as well. Then he requested Ka‘b again, “Will you let me (smell your head)?” Ka‘b said, “Yes.” When Muhammad got a strong hold of him, he said (to his companions), “Get at him!” So they killed him and went to the Prophet and informed him.

The Battle of Uhud in Shawwal, the 3rd Year of Hijrah

The author relates to us that the reason why Uhud was so named is because of the solitude of its mountain. In the Saheeh, it is reported that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Uhud is a mountain that loves us and we love it.” Its meaning is that its inhabitants love us and we also love them. It is also said that it is owing to the fact that it gives one the impression of the proximity of his family upon return from his journey just as the beloved would do. It is also said that literally, it is similar to Allah’s statement: And indeed, there are stones out of which rivers gush forth, and indeed, there are of them (stones) which split asunder so that water flows from them, and indeed, there are of them (stones) which fall down for fear of Allah. (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:74)

This battle occurred in the Shawwal of the 3rd year of Hijrah. Malik said: Its occurrence was in the first few days of the month based on the most popular view. It is concerning this battle that Allah says: And (remember) when you (Muhammad) left your household in the morning to post the Believers at their stations for the Battle (of Uhud). And Allah is All-Hearer, All-Knower. When two parties from among you were about to lose heart, but Allah was their Wali (Supporter and Protector). And in Allah should the Believers put their trust. And Allah has already made you victorious at Badr, when you were a weak little force. So fear Allah much [abstain from all kinds of sins and evil deeds which He has forbidden and love Allah much, perform all kinds of good deeds which He has ordained] that you may be grateful. (Remember) when you (Muhammad) said to the Believers, “Is it not enough for you that your Lord (Allah) should help you with three thousand angels; sent down?” “Yes, if you hold on to patience and piety, and the enemy comes rushing at you; your Lord will help you with five thousand angels having marks

Allah (SWT) will not leave the Believers in the state in which you are now, until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. Nor will Allah disclose to you the secrets of the Ghaib (unseen), but Allah chooses of His Messengers whom He pleases. So believe in Allah and His Messengers. And if you believe and fear Allah, then for you there is a great reward (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:179)

When the Quraish polytheists were defeated in the battle and their vanquished soldiers returned to Makkah, Abu Sufyan had also returned with his caravan. ‘Abdullah Ibn Abi Rabee‘ah, ‘Ikrimah Ibn Abi Jahl, Safwan Ibn Umayyah among a couple of other Quraishi men whose fathers, sons and brothers were killed in the Battle of Badr came to meet Abu Sufyan to consult with him and other merchants in his caravan. They said: “O Quraish, Muhammad has left us with your best men killed, assist us with this wealth so that we may wage war against him in revenge.” And they did so.

Ibn Ishaq said: I have been informed by some men of knowledge that it is concerning them that Allah revealed: Verily, those who disbelieve spend their wealth to hinder (men) from the Path of Allah, and so will they continue to spend it; but in the end it will become an anguish for them. Then they will be overcome. And those who disbelieve will be gathered unto Hell. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:36)

So the Quraish mobilized for war in conjunction with some amenable members of the Arab tribes of Kinanah and Tihamah against Allah’s Messenger after Abu Sufyan and his compatriots in the caravan had supported the war effort.

Jubair Ibn Mut‘im called his Abyssinian slave boy Wahshi, who was very proficient in spear throwing. He said to him to march out along with the army, if you succeed in killing Hamzah, Muhammad’s uncle, in retaliation for the death of my uncle Tu‘aimah Ibn Adiiyy, then you will be manumitted. Abu Sufyan Sakhr Ibn Harb departed with the Quraishi forces which he himself commanded. With him were his wife, Hind Bint ‘Utbah, Ibn Rabee‘ah, ‘Ikrimah Ibn Abi Jahl and his wife, his uncle Al-Harith Ibn Hisham and his wife Fatimah Bint Al-Waleed Ibn Al-Mugheerah. Safwan Ibn Umayyah also joined the Quraish contingent with Barzah Bint Mas‘ood Ibn ‘Amr Ibn ‘Umair Ath-Thaqafiyyah. The list also included ‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As along with Raitah Bint Munabbih Ibn Al-Hajjaj, who was the mother of ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Amr.

Abu Moosa Al-Ash‘ari narrated that the Prophet said: “In a dream I saw myself migrating from Makkah to a place having plenty of date trees. I thought that it was Al-Yamamah or Hajar, but it came to be Madinah i.e. Yathrib. In the same dream I saw myself moving a sword and its blade got broken. It came to symbolize the defeat which the Muslims suffered on the day of Uhud. I moved the sword again, and it became normal as before, and that was the symbol of the victory Allah bestowed upon Muslims and their gathering together. I saw cows in my dream, and, by Allah, that was a blessing, and they symbolized the Believers on the day of Uhud. And the blessing was the good Allah bestowed upon us and the reward of true belief which Allah gave us after the day of Badr.”

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq related that while the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, related his dream to his Companions, he said to them: “We should remain encamped in Madinah. “ ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy supported the Messenger of Allah’s plan not to go out to fight them. Some men whom Allah honored with martyrdom at Uhud and others who did not fight at Badr said: “O Messenger of Allah, let us march out against the enemies otherwise they will think that we are cowards and weak to fight them.”

‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy said: “O Messenger of Allah, do not go out to confront them. Never did we go out of the city to fight an enemy except that we were defeated and never did anyone come here except that they were vanquished.” The people who were eager for war kept pressurizing the Messenger of Allah till he entered his room and put on his armor. That incident was on a Friday after the prayers. Malik Ibn ‘Amr from Banu Najjar had died that day. After the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, offered the funeral prayer on him, he marched out for war. Soon the Companions began to regret coercing the Prophet into fighting against his will. When he came out, they said to him:

“O Allah’s Messenger, if you so desire, you can remain in Madinah.” He replied: “It is not fitting for a Prophet after putting on his armor to take it off until he has fought.” The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, set out with a thousand of his Companions. Ibn Hisham added that he appointed Ibn Umm Maktoom to oversee the affairs of Madinah in his absence.

Ibn Ishaq continued: The Messenger of Allah proceeded till he reached Ash-Shawt, at a distance between Madinah and Uhud; there, ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy withdrew with one-third of the Muslim forces. He said to his cohorts: “He (the Messenger of Allah) obeyed them and disobeyed me, I do not see the reason why we should kill ourselves here, O people.” So he withdrew with his followers from the hypocrites and doubters. ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Amr Ibn Haram As-Salami, Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah’s father, followed them appealing: “O people, I remind you of Allah, do not forsake your people and your Prophet while their enemy is nearby.” They said: “If we know for sure that there would be a fight, we would not abandon you, but we don’t think there will be any fighting.” When they persisted in withdrawing, he said: “May Allah distance you, O enemies of Allah, Allah will surely make His Prophet be rid of you.”

I says: These group who betrayed the Prophet and the Muslims were the same set of people concerning whom Allah says: And that He might test the hypocrites, it was said to them: “Come, fight in the way of Allah or (at least) defend yourselves.” They said: “Had we known that fighting will take place, we would certainly have followed you.” They were that day, nearer to disbelief than to Faith, saying with their mouths what was not in their hearts. And Allah has full knowledge of what they conceal. (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:167) i.e. they lied in their statement that, Then what is the matter with you that you are divided into two parties about the hypocrites? Allah has cast them back (to disbelief) because of what they have earned. (Soorah An-Nisa’ 4:88)

This is because a party of them said: “Let us fight against them” while the others said, “Let us not fight against them,” as apparent from the narration related in the Saheeh. ‘Urwah and Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah related that when ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy withdrew with his followers, Banu Salamah and Banu Harithah became dejected, thus, Allah strengthened them. He says:

When two parties from among you were about to lose heart, but Allah was their Wali (Supporter and Protector). And in Allah should the believers put their trust. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:122)

Jabir ibn Abdullah said: I would not like that it was not revealed since Allah said: Allah was their Wali as is established in the Saheehain from him.

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded till they dismounted and camped at the mountain pass of Uhud by the slope of the valley and around the mountain. The Prophet positioned his army in such a way that they backed mount Uhud. He gave them strict instruction: "No one should precipitate in a fight until I order him to do so." Meanwhile, the Quraish Calvary and infantry had disembarked at a pasture situated at the brink of a water source belonging to the Muslims. The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, mobilized his men, now reduced to seven hundred men. He appointed 'Abdullah Ibn Jubair, a member of Banu 'Amr Ibn 'Awf. That day, he was distinguished with a white cloth which he wore. The archers were fifty in number and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, clarified their mission: "Drive off the Calvary from us with showers of arrows lest they should attack us from behind. Whether we are having the upper hand or being defeated, remain in your position, so that they do not attack us from your flank." A corroboration of that from the Saheehain shall be presented in due course, if Allah permits.

Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, appeared wearing two coats of mail, one over the other and he handed the flag to Mus'ab Ibn 'Umair, a member of the Banu Abdud-Dar tribe.

Allah's Messenger had turned back a couple of youngsters from the Battle of Badr due to their age, among whom was: 'Abdullah Ibn 'Umar, as is related in the Saheehain. He himself narrated: "I was presented to the Prophet on the day of Uhud but he did not permit me (to partake in the battle). However, I was presented to him on the day of Khandaq when I was fifteen years old, and he permitted me (to partake in the war)."

Imam Ahmad related that Anas narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took hold of his sword on the day of Uhud and said: "Who will take this sword from me?" All the people (present) stretched out their hands saying: "I will do it, I will do it." He (Allah's Messenger) said: "Who will take it in order to fulfill its rights?" Then the people withdrew their hands. Abu Dujanah Simak said: "I am here to take it and fulfill its rights." He took it and struck the heads of the polytheists. Muslim also related it from Abi Bakr from 'Affan.

Ibn Ishaq related that Abu Dujanah was a valiant man. He would prance about on the battlefield in arrogant and taunting gait brandishing his sword shining like a blaze of fire. Whenever he wore a red headband, people knew that he was going to fight. When he took the sword from Allah's Messenger, he pranced about on the battlefield in arrogant and taunting gait between the two lines (i.e. of the two opposing forces).

He (Ibn Ishaq) added: Ja'afar Ibn 'Abdullah Ibn Aslam Mawla 'Umar narrated to me from a man from Banu Salimah who said: When Allah saw the arrogant gait of Abu Dujanah, he said: "This kind of walk is hateful to Allah except (it is excused) in this kind of situation."

Ibn Ishaq continued: Abu Sufyan said to the standard-bearers of Banu Abdud-Dar while goading to war: "O Banu Abdud-Dar, you have assigned to bear our flag in the Battle of Badr and you know what has happened. The first standard is the first thing the enemies assail, should it fall, the entire army falls as well. Thus, either you guard its safely on our behalf, or you leave it for us and we will certainly relieve you of that burden." They got infuriated and threatened him saying: "Do you want us to deliver to you our standard? Tomorrow, when we start the battle, you will observe our (valiant) exploit." That is exactly what Abu Sufyan intended.

When the two armies drew close to each other, Hind, the daughter of 'Utbah along with other women with her, beat on tambourines behind the ranks of the Quraish warriors in order to incite them.

Ibn Hisham added: I have been informed by more than one scholar that Az-Zubair Ibn Al-'Awwam said: "I felt a disappointment in my mind when I requested Allah's Messenger for the sword but he declined to give me but handed it over to Abu Dujanah. I said to myself: 'I am the son of Safiyyah, his aunt, I am also a Quraishi and I rose to take the sword and I had requested it before him and yet he gave it to Abu Dujanah instead of me. By Allah, I am going to see what he will do with it.' So I followed him. He took out a red band and wound up it around his head and the Ansar exclaimed: "Abu Dujanah has brought out the band of death." This is what they usually say whenever he wounds his head band.

The Death of Hamzah

Ibn Ishaq related that Ja'far Ibn 'Amr Ibn Umayyah Ad-Damri narrated: I went out with 'Ubaidullah Ibn 'Adiyy Ibn Al-Khiyar from Banu Nawfal Ibn 'Abd Manaf during the reign of Mu'awiyah. We passed by Hims where Wahshi, the freed slave of Jubair had settled. When we reached there, 'Ubaidullah Ibn 'Adiyy suggested: "Do you mind that we approach so that we may ask him how he killed Hamzah?" I said to him: "If you wish."

So we proceeded till we got to him. We sat in his presence and said: "We have come so that you may narrate to us how you killed Hamzah?" He said: "I shall narrate to you exactly as I had narrated to Allah's Messenger when he asked me concerning that. I was a slave boy of Jubair Ibn Mut'im whose uncle was Tu'aimah Ibn 'Adiyy who was killed in the Battle of Badr. When the Quraish marched to the Battle of Uhud, Jubair said to me: 'If you succeed in killing Hamzah, Muhammad's uncle, in retaliation for the killing of my uncle you will be manumitted.' So I departed with the rest of the army and I am an Abyssinian who is as proficient in spear-throwing as any Abyssinian and when I throw, I do not miss my target.

When the two forces clashed, I began to look for Hamzah on the battlefield. Then I saw him in the midst of people like a camel cutting his enemy with devastating blows from his sword. Nothing could withstand his valor. I would recoil to hide behind a tree or rock waiting for him to move closer but just before I could throw it, Siba' Ibn 'Abdul 'Uzza cut in to challenge Hamzah. When he saw him, Hamzah said: "Come on, you son of clitoris-cutter." Hamzah struck him with a single and swift blow which severed his head. I shook the spear in my hand until I had a firm grip on it. I hurled it at Hamzah piercing him just below the navel and it came out between his legs. He made an attempt to reach me but had extreme difficulty in moving and then he fell to the ground. I left him with the spear still embedded in him till he died.

“After he had become still, I came close to his corpse, removed the spear from his body and headed for the camp of the Quraish and I remained there for the duration of the battle for I had no other business than that. I killed him solely to obtain my freedom.

“When we returned to Makkah, I was freed. I remained in Makkah until Allah’s Messenger conquered it and I fled to Ta’if where I settled. When the delegates of Ta’if went to the Messenger of Allah to declare their acceptance of Islam, I began to contemplate on where to flee to again. I said to myself: ‘I will go to Sham or Yemen or some other land.’ I was still in my distressful state when a man told me: ‘Woe be to you, by Allah, he does not kill anyone who enters his religion and utters the declaration of truth.’ When I was informed of that, I set out till I stood at the presence of the Messenger of Allah in Madinah and then I utter the shahadah. When he saw me he said: ‘Is it you, Wahshi?’ I said, ‘Yes, Messenger of Allah.’ He said, ‘Sit down, narrate to me, how did you kill Hamzah?’ I told him, and when I finished, he said to me, ‘Woe to you! Get out of my sight and let me not see your face again.’ From that time, I always avoided wherever the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went lest he should see me, till he died.

Afterward, when the Muslims went out to fight Musailimah, the Liar, I went with them. I took with me the same spear with which I had killed Hamzah. When the armies met, I saw Musailimah standing with his sword in his hand. By Allah, I did not recognize him. Just then one Ansari targeted him from another angle. Both of us were prepared for him. When he fell in my full range, I shook my spear till I had full control over it, threw it, and it went into his body. Then the Ansari swooped on him and lacerated him with his sword. Allah knows best which one of us killed him. If I was the one who killed him, then I had killed the best of people after the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, (Hamzah) and now I have killed the worst of people (Musailimah).”

Al-Bukhari also related the story of Hamzah's death from Ja'afar Ibn 'Amr Ibn Umayyah Ad-Damri who said: I went out with 'Abdullah Ibn 'Adiyy Ibn Al-Khiyar. And he narrated the story as related above and he mentioned that 'Ubaidullah Ibn 'Adiyy was wearing his turban and Wahshi could not see except his eyes and feet and he related how he still was able to recognize him as related previously.

Ibn Hisham related: Maslamah Ibn Alqamah Al-Mazini narrated to me that when the fighting intensified on the day of Uhud, the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, sat under the standard of the Ansar and he sent word to 'Ali to go before the standard; he did so while chanting: "I am a father of astuteness." Then Abu Sa'd Ibn Abi Talhah, the standard-bearer of the polytheists, called out to him: "Do you care for a duel, O father of astuteness?" and 'Ali responded in the affirmation. They exchanged two strokes of sword between the two lines of the opposing armies and soon 'Ali struck him mortally and then withdrew without pouncing on him to finish him off. When his friends asked him why he did not finish him off, he said: "He exposed his nakedness to me (as a sign of abject surrender) and the feeling of compassion for blood tie overtook me but I knew that Allah had already killed him."

Ibn Ishaq related: Hanzalah (who was called: "the washed one," because the angels washed him at his death as shall be explained later) and Abu Sufyan Sakhr Ibn Harb met at the battle. When Hanzalah had overpowered Abu Sufyan, Shaddad Ibn Al-Aswad who was the same person referred to as Ibn Sha'oob, double-crossed him and struck him a mortal blow. After Hanzalah had died, the Messenger of Allah said: "Your Companion is being washed by the angels, ask his wife if there was something that happened to him." So they asked his wife whose name, according to Al-Waqidi, was Jameelah Bint Ubayy Ibn Salool. At the time, she was newly wedded to him, as they married on the same day of the battle. She said: "He hurried into the battlefield when he heard the war cry while he was still in a state of sexual defilement." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "It is for this reason that the angels washed him."

Ibn Ishaq added that afterwards Allah sent down his help to the Muslims and fulfilled His promise. They uprooted their enemies with their swords and dragged them from their camp. It was an obvious defeat. Yahya Ibn ‘Abbad Ibn Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair narrated to me from his father ‘Ubad from ‘Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair who said: “By Allah, I saw the anklets of Hind Bint ‘Utbah and her cohorts as they folded their dress while fleeing. Nothing prevented anyone from capturing them when the archers turned to the camp as the enemy had been thrown out of it. Thus, we were attacked from behind by the Calvary. Someone yelled: 'Alas! Muhammad has been killed.' We returned and the enemy pursued us after we had killed the standard-bearers in succession in such a way that none of them dared to hoist it. Some of the men of knowledge informed me that the standard remained fallen until Amrah Bint Alqamah Al-Harithiyyah took it and hoisted so that they might gather the Quraish around it. The standard had been borne by a slave boy of Banu Abi Talhah Habashi and he was the last person of them to hoist the flag. He fought with it till his hands were severed. Then he stooped to pick the flag which he held with his chest and neck and he held it till he was killed.

Ibn Ishaq added: The Muslims became vulnerable and they were pelted by the enemies. It was a day of trial and test in which Allah ennoble many of them with martyrdom. The enemies were unrelenting until they had access to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who was hurt with stones so much so that he fell on his side, one of his teeth was broken. His face was gashed and his lip was injured. It was ‘Utbah Ibn Abi Waqqas who injured him. Humaid At-Taweel narrated to me from Anas Ibn Malik who said: “The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, had his front teeth damaged on the day of the Battle of Uhud, and sustained a wound on his head. He was wiping the blood streaming from his face and was saying: “How will the people attain salvation who have wounded their Prophet in the face while he was merely calling them towards Allah?” Then Allah revealed: Not for you (O Muhammad, but for Allah) is the decision; whether He turns in mercy to (pardons) them or punishes them; verily, they are the Zalmoon (polytheists, disobedients, and wrong-doers, etc.). (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:128)

Then Ubayy Ibn Khalaf Al-Jumahi who had sworn to kill the Prophet approached him. Meanwhile, the Prophet had also said: “I will be the one to kill him.” Thinking that this was the opportunity to fulfill his oath, Ubayy accosted the Prophet saying: “You liar, where are you fleeing to?!” He pounced on the Prophet but the Prophet stabbed him slightly through an opening in his armor and he fell down moaning like a bull. He was carried away and they said to him: “You have only been slightly injured, so why are you worried?” He said: Didn’t he say “I shall surely kill you?” (since he said that) even if Rabee‘ah and Mudar were gathered, he would kill them. He lived for only a day or two, then he died from that wound.

The rumor spread on the battlefield that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had been killed. Some of those who had taken to the rocky mountain said: “Would that we can send a messenger to ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy to obtain a peace deal on our behalf from Abu Sufyan. O people! Muhammad has been killed, return to your people before they come to you and slaughter you.” However, Anas Ibn An-Nadr said: “Even if Muhammad has been killed, certainly the Lord of Muhammad has not been killed. Fight on for the cause upon which Muhammad was killed. O Allah, I apologize to You for what these people are saying and I free myself from what these people have wrought.” Then he advanced with his sword and fought till he was killed. The Messenger of Allah continued calling the people till he climbed the mountain where some of the Muslims had scattered. When they saw him, one of them put his arrow in the bow and aimed it at the Prophet. He called out to them: “I am the Messenger of Allah!” and they became elated that he is still alive and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was also happy to find himself in the midst of his Companions again who would protect him. When they had gathered around the Messenger of Allah, their anxiety dissipated and they advanced again recalling the victory that was now slipping from their hands. They also recalled their compatriots who had fallen. Then Allah revealed concerning their statement that Muhammad had been killed so return to your people: Muhammad is no more than a Messenger, and indeed (many) Messengers have passed away before him.(Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:144)

I say: At the outset of the battle, the Muslims were having the upper hand over the disbelievers as Allah says: And Allah did indeed fulfill His Promise to you when you were killing them (your enemy) with His Permission; until (the moment) you lost your courage and fell to disputing about the order, and disobeyed after He showed you (of the booty) which you love. Among you are some that desire this world and some that desire the Hereafter. Then He made you flee from them (your enemy), that He might test you. But surely, He forgave you, and Allah is Most Gracious to the believers. (And remember) when you ran away (dreadfully) without even casting a side glance at anyone, and the Messenger (Muhammad) was in your rear calling you back. There did Allah give you one distress after another. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:152,153)

Al-Bukhari related that Al-Bara' narrated: We confronted the polytheists on that day (i.e. of the Battle of Uhud) and the Prophet placed a batch of archers (at a special place) and appointed 'Abdullah Ibn Jubair as their commander saying, "Do not leave this place; and if you see us conquering the enemy, do not leave this place, if you see them conquering us, do not (come to) help us." So, when we faced the enemy, they took to their heels till I saw their women running toward the mountain, lifting up their clothes from their legs, revealing their leg-bangles. The Muslims started saying, "The booty, the booty!" 'Abdullah Ibn Jubair said, "The Prophet has taken a firm promise from me not to leave this place." But his companions refused (to stay). So when they refused (to stay there), (Allah) confused them so that they could not know where to go, and they suffered seventy casualties. Abu Sufyan ascended a high place and said, "Is Muhammad present among the people?" The Prophet said, "Do not answer him." Abu Sufyan said, "Is the son of Abu Quhafah present among the people?" The Prophet said, "Do not answer him." Abu Sufyan said, "Is the son of Al-Khattab among the people?" He then added, "All these people have been killed, for, were they alive, they would have replied." On that, 'Umar could not help saying, "You are a liar, O enemy of Allah! Allah has kept what will make you unhappy." Abu Safyaan said, "Superior may be Hubal!" On that the Prophet said (to his Companions), "Reply to him." They asked, "What may we say?" He said, "Say: Allah is More Elevated and More Majestic!" Abu Sufyan said, "We have (the idol) Al'Uzza, whereas you have no 'Uzza!" The Prophet said (to his Companions), "Reply to him." They said, "What may we say?" The Prophet said, "Say: Allah is our Helper and you have no helper." Abu Sufyan said, "(This) day compensates for our loss at Badr and (in) the battle (the victory) is always undecided and shared in turns by the belligerents. You will see some of your dead men mutilated, but neither did I urge this action, nor am I sorry for it.” This is one of the Ahadeeth narrated by Bukhari to the exclusion of Muslim.

Imam Ahmad related from Anas Ibn Malik that on the day of Uhud the Prophet was left with alone seven of the Ansar and two of the Muhajiroon, and when the polytheists attacked him, he said: “Who will repulse them from us for the reward of Paradise?” An Ansari advanced and fought till he was killed. Then they attacked him again and he said once again: “Who will repulse them from us for the reward of Paradise?” till all the seven people were killed and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Our Companions were not fair to us.” Related by Muslim.

Al-Bukhari related from Qais Ibn Abi Hazim who said: “I saw Talhah’s paralyzed hand with which he had protected the Prophet (from an arrow) in the Battle of Uhud.”

It is recorded in the Saheehain from the Hadith of Moosa Ibn Ismael from Mu’tamir Ibn Sulaiman from his father from Abu ‘Uthman An-Nahdi who said: “During one of the Ghazawat in which Allah’s Messenger was fighting, none remained with the Prophet but Talhah and Sa’d.”

Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas narrated that the Prophet took out his quiver (of arrows) for me on the day of Uhud and said, “Throw (the arrows); let my father and mother be sacrificed for you.” It is related by Bukhari.

It is also recorded in Saheeh Al-Bukhari that ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib narrated: I have never heard the Prophet mentioning his father and mother for anybody other than Sa’d Ibn Malik. I heard him saying on the day of Uhud, “O Sa’d throw (arrows)! Let my father and mother be sacrificed for you!”

It is also recorded in the Saheehain from Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas who narrated: “I saw Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the day of the Battle of Uhud accompanied by two men fighting on his behalf. They were dressed in white and were fighting as bravely as possible. I had never seen them before, nor did I see them later on.” i.e. Jibraeel and Mikael, peace be upon them.

It is also related in the Saheehain from Anas who said: “On the day of the Battle of Uhud, the people ran away, leaving the Prophet, but Abu Talhah was defending the Prophet from the front with his shield. Abu Talhah was a strong, experienced archer who used to keep his arrow bow strong and well-stretched. On that day he broke two or three arrow bows. If any man passed by carrying a quiver full of arrows, the Prophet would say to him, “Empty it in front of Abu Talhah.” When the Prophet started looking at the enemy by raising his head, Abu Talhah said, “O Allah’s Prophet! Let my parents be sacrificed for your sake! Please don’t raise your head and make it visible, lest an arrow of the enemy should hit you. Let my neck and chest be wounded instead of yours.” (On that day) I saw ‘A’ishah, the daughter of Abu Bakr and Umm Sulaim both lifting their dresses up so that I was able to see the ornaments of their legs, and they were carrying the water skins on their arms to pour the water into the mouths of the thirsty people and then go back and fill them and come to pour the water into the mouths of the people again. (On that day) Abu Talhah’s sword fell from his hand twice or thrice.”

Al-Bukhari also related that Anas narrated from Abu Talhah that: I was among those whom slumber overtook during the Battle of Uhud while we were in the frontlines. My sword would fall from my hand and I would pick it up, and again it would fall down and I would pick it up again.” This is how Bukhari has mentioned it in Mu’allaq form and with words indicative of absolute certainty. He adduced the following statement of Allah in corroboration: Then after the distress, He sent down security for you. Slumber overtook a party of you, while another party was thinking about themselves (as how to save their own selves, ignoring the others and the Prophet) and thought wrongly of Allah - the thought of ignorance. They said, “Have we any part in the affair?” Say you (O Muhammad): “Indeed the affair belongs wholly to Allah.” They hide within themselves what they dare not reveal to you, saying: “If we had anything to do with the affair, none of us would have been killed here.” Say: “Even if you had remained in your homes, those for whom death was decreed would certainly have gone forth to the place of their death,” but that Allah might test what is in your breasts; and to Mahhis that which was in your hearts (sins), and Allah is All-Knower of what is in (your) breasts. Those of you who turned back on the day the two hosts met (i.e. the Battle of Uhud), it was Shaitan (Satan) who caused them to backslide (run away from the battlefield) because of some (sins) they had earned. But Allah, indeed, has forgiven them. Surely, Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Forbearing. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3: 154,155)

Al-Bukhari related that 'Uthman Ibn Mawhab narrated: A man came to perform the Hajj to (Allah's) House. Seeing some people sitting, he said, "Who are these sitting people?" Somebody said, "They are the people of Quraish." He said, "Who is the old man?" They said, "Ibn 'Umar." He went to him and said, "I want to ask you about something; will you tell me about it? I ask you with the respect due to the sanctity of this (Sacred) House, do you know that 'Uthman Ibn 'Affan fled on the day of Uhud." Ibn 'Umar said, "Yes." He said, "Do you know that he (i.e. 'Uthman) was absent from the Badr (battle) and did not join it?" Ibn 'Umar said, "Yes." He said, "Do you know that he failed to be present at the Ridwan Pledge of allegiance (i.e. Pledge of allegiance at Hudaibiyyah) and did not witness it?" Ibn 'Umar replied, "Yes," He then said, "Allahu-Akbar!" Ibn 'Umar said, "Come along; I will inform you and explain to you what you have asked. As for the flight (of 'Uthman) on the day of Uhud, I testify that Allah forgave him. As regards his absence from the Badr (battle), he was married to the daughter of Allah's Messenger and she was ill, so the Prophet said to him, 'You will have the same reward as a man who has fought in Badr, and you will also have the same share from the booty.' As for his absence from the Ridwan Pledge of allegiance, if there had been anybody more respected by the Makkans than 'Uthman Ibn 'Affan, the Prophet would surely have sent that man instead of 'Uthman. So the Prophet sent him (i.e. 'Uthman to Makkah) and the Ridwan Pledge of allegiance took place after 'Uthman had gone to Makkah. The Prophet raised his right hand saying, 'This is the hand of 'Uthman,' and clapped it over his other hand and said, "This is for 'Uthman.' " Ibn 'Umar then said (to the man), "Go now, after taking this information."

The bottom line is that many of the events that occurred in Badr also occurred in Uhud from them are: the slumber which occurred at the time of the clash. This is an evidence of the tranquility of the heart by the help of Allah and His strengthening. We have commented on the statement of Allah in our discussion on the Battle of Badr: (Remember) when He covered you with a slumber as a security from Him... (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:11) and here too Allah says: Then after the distress, He sent down security for you. Slumber overtook a party of you... (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:154)

Ibn Ma‘sood said: “Slumber during battle is from Eeman and slumber during the course of Salat is from Nifaq (hypocrisy).” This is why he said thereafter: ...another party was thinking about themselves (as how to save their own selves, ignoring the others and the Prophet)... (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:154)

Similarly, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sought victory on the day of Uhud just like in Badr with his words: “O Allah! If You wish (to destroy the believers) You will never be worshipped after today” as related by Imam Ahmad from Anas Ibn Malik who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace be upon him, used to say on the Day of Uhud: “O Allah! If You wish (to destroy the believers) You will never be worshipped after today”

Al-Bukhari related that Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah narrated: On the day of the Battle of Uhud, a man came to the Prophet and said, “Can you tell me where I will be if I should get martyred?” The Prophet replied, “In Paradise.” The man threw away some dates he was carrying in his hand, and fought till he was martyred.

The Polytheists Whom the Prophet Confronted on That Day

Al-Bukhari related from Hammam Ibn Munabbih who heard Abu Hurairah narrate concerning the injury the Prophet sustained in the Battle of Uhud that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “The anger of Allah is intensified on a people who did this to His Messenger (pointing to his inscissors) and the anger of Allah is heightened on a man killed by a Messenger of Allah while fighting in the path of Allah.”

Ahmad related that Anas narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the day of Uhud while blood streamed down his face: “How will the people attain salvation when they have wounded their Prophet in the face while he was merely calling them towards Allah?” Then Allah revealed: Not for you (O Muhammad, but for Allah) is the decision; whether He turns in mercy to (pardons) them or punishes them; verily, they are the Zalimoon (polytheists, disobedients, and wrongdoers, etc.). (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:128)”

Al-Bukhari related on the authority Abu Hazim who heard Sahl Ibn Sa‘d being asked about the injury which the Messenger of Allah sustained on the day of the Battle of Uhud. He said: “By Allah, I know who washed the wounds of Allah’s Messenger, who poured water (for washing them), and with what he was treated.” Sahl added, “Fatimah, the daughter of Allah’s Messenger used to wash the wounds, and ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib used to pour water from a shield. When Fatimah saw that the water aggravated the bleeding, she took a piece of a mat, burned it, and inserted its ashes into the wound so that the blood was congealed (and the bleeding stopped). His canine tooth was broken on that day, his face was wounded, and his helmet was broken on his head.”

‘A’ishah, the Mother of Believers, narrated that whenever Abu Bakr remembered the day of Uhud, he would say, “All of that day was for Talhah.” Then he would begin to recount his experience: I was the first to return on the day of Uhud and I saw a man fighting strenuously to protect the Messenger of Allah.

“During the Day of Uhud the Prophet, peace be upon him, was left alone and I was the first to go back to him. In front of him I saw a man fighting to shield him from the enemy. I said to myself: ‘I wish he were Talhah. Let my father and mother be sacrificed for you. (O Allah) Let him be Talhah!’ On the way, I was overtaken by Abu ‘Ubaidah Ibn Al-Jarrah, who was then moving as swiftly as a bird. We both rushed to dress the Prophet’s wounds. There we found Talhah suffering from serious wounds before the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. The Prophet said: ‘See to your brother. His deed entitled him for an abode in Paradise.’ I noticed that two rings of the iron-ringed helmet had penetrated the Prophet’s cheek. So I set out to take them out, but Abu ‘Ubaidah demanded: ‘By Allah, O Abu Bakr I beseech you, let me do it myself.’ Fearing to hurt the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he started pulling one of the two rings out very slowly and carefully with his mouth. Then he pulled the arrow out by his mouth, too.

Consequently, his front tooth fell. Then I proceeded to pull the second out; but Abu ‘Ubaidah besought me to leave it: ‘O, Abu Bakr, I adjure you by Allah to let me do it.’ He pulled the second ring very slowly and carefully with his mouth - till it came out. When we finished attending to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, we approached Talhah to tend to him and found that he had some ten sword-strokes on his body. (This showed how efficiently Talhah had fought and struggled on that day).”

It is more beloved to me that he was a man from my own people. Meanwhile, between me and the polytheists was a man whom I do not know. I was much closer to the Messenger of Allah than him but he moved so swiftly that I could not catch up with him. Alas, he was Abu Ubaidah Ibn Al-Jarrah. So both of us got to the Messenger of Allah and found out that his inscissors had been broken and his face had been gashed and two rings of the iron-ringed helmet had penetrated his cheek. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Take care of your companion,” indicating Talhah who had been exhausted and bleeding profusely. We did not pay attention to what he said. I made an attempt to extract the ring from his face and Abu ‘Ubaidah said: “I adjure you by the right that I have (over you), leave it for me.” So, I left it for him. He attempted to remove it with his hand but that was painful for the Messenger of Allah so he applied his teeth and gently removed the first ring but one of his inscissors came out with it.

I made an attempt to remove the second as I did previously but again Abu ‘Ubaidah said: “I adjure you by the right that I have (over you), leave it for me,” and again, I left it for him. He repeated what he did the first time and his second inscissor also fell off with the second ring. Abu ‘Ubaidah turned out to be one of the most handsome of men with gapped teeth. When he finished taking care of Allah’s Messenger, we came to Talhah in one of the pits and on his body were about seventy injuries from stabbing, shots (from arrows) and cuts (from swords) and one of his fingers had also been amputated. So we tended to him as well.

When ‘Abdullah Ibn Qami‘ah had inflicted that injury on the Messenger of Allah, he retreated while he was triumphantly exclaiming: “I have killed Muhammad.” Then Shaytan cried out in piercing voice that traveled wide on that day: “Finally, Muhammad has been killed!” The Muslims felt extremely confused and many of them took the news as a fact. They became resolved to fight the siege against Islam until they die upon what the Messenger of Allah had died. Among those who had that resolve was Anas Ibn An-Nadr and others who shall be mentioned later.

Moreover, Allah revealed a consolation regarding this (i.e. the Prophet’s death) that this even would actually occur. Allah says: Muhammad is no more than a Messenger, and indeed (many) Messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you then turn back on your heels (as disbelievers)? And he who turns back on his heels, not the least harm will he do to Allah, and Allah will give reward to those who are grateful. And no person can ever die except by Allah’s Leave and at an appointed term. And whoever desires a reward in (this) world, We shall give him of it; and whoever desires a reward in the Hereafter, We shall give him thereof. And We shall reward the grateful. And many a Prophet (i.e. many from amongst the Prophets) fought (in Allah’s Cause) and along with him (fought) large bands of religious learned men. But they never lost heart for that which did befall them in Allah’s Way, nor did they weaken nor degrade themselves. And Allah loves As-Sabireen (the patient ones, etc.) And they said nothing but: “Our Lord! Forgive us our sins and our transgressions (in keeping our duties to You), establish our feet firmly, and give us victory over the disbelieving folk.” So Allah gave them the reward of this world, and the excellent reward of the Hereafter. And Allah loves Al-Muhsinoon (the good-doers). O you who believe! If you obey those who disbelieve, they will send you back on your heels, and you will turn back (from Faith) as losers. Nay, Allah is your Mawla (Patron, Lord, Helper and Protector, etc.), and He is the Best of helpers. We shall cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, because they joined others in worship with Allah, for which He had sent no authority; their abode will be the Fire and how evil is the abode of the Zalimoon. (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:144-151)

We have summarized its explanation in our Tafseer, to Allah belong all Praise.

Abu Bakr As-Siddiq addressed the people in his first role after the death of the Messenger of Allah. He said: “O people, whoever worships Muhammad, then Muhammad is dead but whoever worships Allah, certainly Allah is Alive and He will never die,” then he recited this verse: Muhammad is no more than a Messenger, and indeed (many) Messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you then turn back on your heels (as disbelievers)? (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3: 144)

It was as if the people had never heard this verse before till Abu Bakr recited it and everybody began to recite it as well.

Ahmad related that Anas Ibn An-Nadr did not witness the Battle of Badr with the Prophet and it was burdensome for him. So he said: “I was absent in the first battle ever fought by the Messenger of Allah. If Allah lets me witness another battle alongside the Messenger of Allah, I am going to prove my courage.” He witnessed the Battle of Uhud alongside the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Sa’d Ibn Mu’adh approached him and Anas said to him: “O Abu ‘Amr, where are you going? Look, I can perceive the scent of Paradise before Uhud.” He fought against the disbelievers until he was killed. He was found with about eighty wounds on his body from stabs, shots (from arrows) and cuts (from swords), His sister, Amati Ar-Rubayyi‘ Bint An-Nadr said, “I could only recognize my brother from his fingertips.” This Verse was revealed: Among the Believers are men who have been true to their covenant with Allah [i.e. they have gone out for Jihad (holy fighting), and showed not their backs to the disbelievers], of them some have fulfilled their obligations (i.e. have been martyred), and some of them are still waiting, but they have never changed [i.e. they never proved treacherous to their covenant which they concluded with Allah] in the least. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:23) They opined that it was revealed concerning him and his compatriots. Related by Muslim

Al-Bukhari related that Abul-Waleed narrated from Shu‘bah from Ibn Munkadir who said: I heard Jabir say: “When my father was martyred, I started weeping and uncovering his face. The Companions of the Prophet stopped me from doing so but the Prophet did not stop me. Then the Prophet said, ‘(O Jabir) don’t weep over him, (or, what makes him weep?) for the angels kept on shading him with their wings till his body was lifted.”

Al-Bukhari also related that once a meal was brought to ‘Abdur-Rahmaan Ibn ‘Awf while he was fasting. He said, “Mus‘ab Ibn ‘Umair was martyred, and he was better than me, yet he was shrouded in a Burdah (i.e. a sheet) so that, if his head was covered, his feet became naked, and if his feet were covered, his head became naked.” ‘Abdur-Rahman added, “Hamzah was martyred and he was better than me. Then worldly wealth was bestowed upon us and we were given from it too much. We are afraid that the rewards of our deeds have been given to us in this life.” ‘Abdur-Rahman then started weeping so much till the food became cold. Al-Bukhari related it exclusively.

Al-Bukhari related that Khabbab Ibn Al-Aratt said: We migrated with the Prophet seeking Allah’s Countenance, so our rewards became due and sure with Allah. Some of us passed away without receiving anything of their rewards in this world. One of these was Mus‘ab Ibn ‘Umair who was martyred on the day of the Battle of Uhud. We did not find anything with which to shroud his body except a striped cloak. When we covered his head with it, his feet remained uncovered, and when we covered his feet with it, his head remained uncovered. So Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered us to cover his head with it and put some Idhkhir (i.e. a kind of grass) over his feet. And there are some among us whose fruits have ripened and they are collecting them (i.e. they have received their rewards in this world).” The rest of the group related it except Ibn Majah.

Al-Bukhari related that ‘A’ishah said: “On the day (of the Battle) of Uhud when the polytheists were defeated, Iblees shouted, “O slaves of Allah! Beware of the forces at your back,” and on that the Muslims of the front files fought with the Muslims of the back files (thinking they were polytheists). Hudhaifah looked back to see his father “Al-Yaman,” (being attacked by the Muslims). He shouted, “O Allah’s Slaves! My father! My father!” By Allah, they did not stop till they killed him.” Hudhaifah said, “May Allah forgive you.” ‘Urwah said that Hudhaifah continued to do good (invoking Allah to forgive the killer of his father till he met Allah, i.e. died).”

Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah narrated that Qatadah Ibn Nu‘man’s eye was knocked out in the Battle of Uhud until the it hang down his cheek and Allah’s

Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, restored it and it turned out to be the better and sharper of his two eyes, even when the other eye was sore, the restored one remained healthy.

This is why when his son came to the presence of ‘Umar Ibn ‘Abdul-Azeez, he asked him: “Who are you?” and he responded to him extemporaneously:

I am the son of he whose eye hung down his cheek

And it was restored by the hand of Al-Mustafa (the chosen) in the best of restoration

Then it went back to its previous condition

It was the better eye and how good did the knocked eye turn

Ibn Hisham related: Umm Umarah Naseebah Bint Ka‘b Al-Maziniyyah also fought in the Battle of Uhud. Sa‘eed Ibn Abi Zaid Al-Ansari mentioned that Umm Sa‘d Bint Sa‘d Ibn Rabee‘ used to say, I visited Umm Umarah and I said to her: “O maternal aunt, narrate to me your story.” She said, “I went out in the early morning to find out what the Muslims had done (in the battle) and with me was a bucket full of water. I went to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, while he was in the midst of his Companions. When the Muslims were routed, I took position by the Prophet and began to fight to repulse (the enemy) away from him. I was shot by an arrow which injured me.” (The narrator added): I saw on her shoulder a cavity of injury and I asked her: “Who inflicted you with this injury?” She replied: “Ibn Qami’ah, may Allah humiliate him. When the people fled from around the Prophet, he approached me saying ‘Point Muhammad to me, I will not be successful if he escapes.’ So, I, Mus‘ab Ibn ‘Umair and a couple of people who remained steadfast with the Messenger of Allah accosted him and he dealt me a blow which gave me this injury. Meanwhile, I had also dealt him several blows, but the enemy of Allah was wearing two layers of armor.”

Ibn Ishaq related: Once, Anas Ibn An-Nadr, Anas Ibn Malik’s uncle, came to ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab and Talhah Ibn ‘Ubaidullah among a group of people consisting of the Muhajiroon and the Ansar while they were downcast, so he asked them: “Why are you sitting here?” They responded: “The Messenger of Allah has been killed.” Then he said: “So, what will you do with your life after him? Stand up and fight (till you are killed) for the same cause upon which the Messenger of Allah died.” So he plunged into the battle and fought till he was killed. It was after him that Anas Ibn Malik was named.

Ibn Ishaq related that the first person to recognize the Prophet after the defeat and the false claim by the people that Allah’s Messenger had been killed, according to what I was informed of, was Ka’b Ibn Malik. He said: “I saw his eyes shining under the helmet, so I shouted at the top of my voice: ‘O Muslims, good news, here is Allah’s Messenger!’ but Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, indicated to me to keep quiet.

Ibn Ishaq added: Saleh Ibn Ibrahim Ibn ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn ‘Awf narrated to me that whenever Ubayy Ibn Khalaf met the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, in Makkah, he would say: O Muhammad, I have a horse which I feed a farak of sorghum everyday, I will kill you while riding on it. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would respond: “Rather, I will be the one to kill you by the wish of Allah.” When he returned to the Quraish after he had been scratched very slightly and the blood congealed, he said: “By Allah, Muhammad has killed me.” The people said to him: “By Allah, you have lost your mind, you have only been injured slightly.” He responded to them: “He used to tell me in Makkah: ‘I will be the one to kill you’ and by Allah even if he spat on me, it would kill me.” The enemy of Allah died at Saraf while he was being carried back to Makkah.

Ibn Ishaq said that while the Messenger of Allah was at a section of the battlefield with a group of his Companions (which remained with him) a company of the Quraish appeared on a hill overlooking the Muslims. Ibn Hisham added that among them was Khalid Ibn Waleed. Ibn Ishaq continues: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “O Allah, it is not fitting that they should be above us.” ‘Umar and a company of the Muhajiroon with him fought them until the Quraish were dislodged from the hill. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, then attempted to climb a boulder but was unable to due to aging. The Messenger of Allah peace be upon him, also had on him two armors. Then Talhah Ibn ‘Ubaidullah crouched underneath him so that the Prophet peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was lifted on his back until he climbed the boulder.

Yahya Ibn ‘Abbad Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair narrated to me from his father from ‘Abdullah Ibn AzZubair from Az-Zubair who said: I heard Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, say on that day: "awjabah Talhah" (i.e Paradise has become compulsory for him) due to that action of his.

Imam Ahmad related from Abu Hurairah that we witnessed the Battle of Khaibar with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he (Allah’s Messenger) said about a man who claimed to be a Muslim: “This man is from the inmates of Hellfire.” When fighting ensued, the man fought strenuously and he was injured. Someone said: “O Messenger of Allah, the man whom you said is from the inmates of Hellfire fought bravely today and was killed.” Yet the Prophet said: “Sailing to Hellfire.” The people were almost nursing some doubts in their minds at the insistence of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. While the situation remained as such, someone said: “The man is not dead yet but he has sustained a very serious wound.” When it was nightfall, the man could no longer bear the excruciating pain from his injury so he killed himself. When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was informed of that, he said: “Allah is Greatest, I bear witness that I am a slave of Allah and His Messenger.” Then he ordered Bilal to announce that people should congregate. After they gathered, the Messenger of Allah said: “Certainly, no one will enter Paradise except a soul which has truly submitted to Allah and that Allah will aid this religion even with a sinful person.”

Ibn Ishaq related that Abu Hurairah used to say: “Inform me about the man who entered Paradise even though he never offered a single Salat (prayer).” When no one among the audience knew who it was, they asked him. He said: “Al-Usairim Banu ‘Abdul Ashhal ‘Amr Ibn Thabit Ibn Waqsh.” Al-Husain said: So I said to Mahmood Ibn Labeed, “How was the matter of Al-Usairim?” He said: He used to object to his people accepting Islam. However, when it was the day of the Battle of Uhud, it occurred to him and he accepted Islam. He took his sword and advanced in the battle till he entered deep in the thick of warriors. He fought valiantly till he was mortally wounded. At the close of the battle, some men of the Banu ‘Abdul-Ashhal were scouting the battlefield for their fallen men they found him. They said: “By Allah, this is Usairim, what has brought him here? We had left him behind while he was still finding this speech (i.e. Islam) objectionable.” So they asked him: “What has brought you, O ‘Amr? Is it your compassion toward your people (which brought you to the battlefield) or a genuine desire for Islam?” He said: “Rather, a genuine quest for Islam. I have believed in Allah and His Messenger and I have accepted Islam, then I took my sword and advanced alongside Allah’s Messenger and I fought till I sustained what I am currently experiencing.” Shortly, thereafter, he died in their hands. They mentioned the incident to Allah’s Messenger and he said: “He is from the inmates of Paradise.”

Ibn Ishaq related that my father narrated to me from some elders of Banu Salimah who said: ‘Amr Ibn AlJamooh was lame and disable and he had four youthful sons who fought like lions on the battlefield whenever they would accompany the Messenger of Allah on his battles. When preparations were being made for Uhud, he wanted to go, but his sons said to him: “Allah has given you a concession, so stay at home and we shall go in your place.” ‘Amr came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said: “These sons of mine are preventing me from participating in Jihad with you. By Allah, I hope to trot in Paradise with this lame leg of mine.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “As for you, Allah has excused you and Jihad is not compulsory on you.” Then he turned to the sons and said: “What if you allowed him, perhaps Allah may grant him martyrdom?” They did and he went to the battle and he was killed in the Battle of Uhud. May Allah be pleased him.

Ibn Ishaq said: It was related to me by Saleh Ibn Kaisani, Hind and the other women with her began to mutilate the coprses of the Muslim martyrs. They went round cutting the ears and noses of the Companions of Allah’s Messenger till they made necklaces and anklets out of their noses. She gave her bangles and necklaces to her slave, Wahshi. Then she ripped open Hamzah's liver, chewed it; but finding it unpleasant, she spat it out. However, Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah mentioned that it was Wahshi who ripped open Hamzah's liver and he took it to Hind who chewed it but she found it difficult to swallow. And Allah knows best.

Ibn Ishaq said that when Abu Sufyan wanted to leave the battlefield, he approached the mountain and shouted at the top of his voice: "I have been compensated. War alternates. A day for the day of Badr. Exalted be Hubal!" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to 'Umar: "Stand up 'Umar, and give him a fitting reply. Say to him: 'Allah is more Exalted and Sublime. Your dead are in the Fire!'" 'Umar acted as ordered and Abu Sufyan said: "Come down to me, 'Umar!" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Go to him and see what he wants." 'Umar went and Abu Sufyan said to him: "I beseech you by God, have we killed Muhammad?" 'Umar replied: "By Allah, no. He can hear what you say at this moment." Abu Sufyan said: "You are more truthful and sincere to me than Ibn Qami'ah." Then he shouted: "There has been some mutilation of your dead. By Allah, I am neither pleased by it nor angry by it, and I neither forbade nor ordered it." When Abu Sufyan turned to go away, he shouted: "Your rendezvous is Badr next year."

Ibn Ishaq said: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then sent 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib, saying: "Go after them and see what they are doing. If they leave the horses aside and ride the camels, then they are heading for Makkah. However, if they ride the horses and drive the camels, then their destination is Madinah. By Him in Whose Hands is my life, if they head for Madinah, I shall march upon them and fight them within its walls. 'Ali said: "So I went after them and saw that they had left the horses aside and were riding the camels in the direction of Makkah."

The Du'a of the Prophet After the Battle of Uhud

Imam Ahmad related that Ibn Rifa'ah Az-Zuraqi narrated from his father who said: On the day of Uhud when the polytheists were repelled, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Arrange yourselves in rows so that I may praise my Lord, to Whom is Glory." They arranged themselves behind him in rows and he supplicated:

“O Allah to You belongs all Praise. O Allah, no one can withhold what You have let loose and no one can let loose what you have withheld. No one can guide the one Whom You leave astray and no one can misguide the one Whom You have guided. No one can prevent what You choose to give and no one can give what You prevent. No one can bring close the one Who You have distanced and no one can distance the one whom You have brought close. O Allah, bestow upon us Your blessings, mercy, bounty and provision.

“O Allah, verily I ask of You the everlasting bliss, which never grows stale nor vanishes. O Allah, I seek Your aid on the day of poverty, and Your security on the day of fear. O Allah, I seek refuge in You from the evil of what You have bestowed on us and what You have not bestowed. O Allah, make faith beloved to us and make it beautiful in our hearts, and make disbelief hateful to us, as well as sin and disobedience, and count us among the upright ones. O Allah, make us die as Muslims and resurrect us as Muslims and admit us among the righteous, neither disgraced nor beguiled. O Allah, fight the disbelievers who deceive Your messengers and deter others from Your Way, and send upon them punishment and chastisement. O Allah, fight the disbelievers who have been given the Scripture, O God of Truth.”

Ibn Ishaq related that Muhammad Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn Abi Sa‘sa‘ah Al-Mazini, the brother of Banu Najjar, narrated to me that when the people finished recounting their dead, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said (i.e. after the conclusion of the Battle of Uhud): “Who will check for me what happened to Sa‘d Ibn Ar-Rabee‘, is he among the dead or the living?” A man from the Ansar said: “I will do that.” So he went round all the martyrs of the battle until he found Sa‘d mortally wounded and in the throes of death. So he said to him: “O Sa‘d! Allah’s Messenger ordered me to check whether you are among the dead or among the living?” Then he said, “Certainly I am among the dead. When you get to the Messenger of Allah, say to him: ‘Sa‘d is saying may Allah reward you for me greater than any Prophet is ever rewarded on behalf of his community. Convey my salam to your people and say to them: ‘Sa‘d is saying to you: verily there is no excuse for you in the presence of Allah if they find access to your Prophet while you have eyes...” He did not recover till he died, then I came to Allah’s Messenger to inform him of his fate.

Ibn Ishaq related that according to what reached me, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, searched for the corpse of Hamzah Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib and found him in the middle of the valley with his stomach ripped and his liver taken out. His corpse had been mutilated. His nose and ears were cut off. Muhammad Ibn Ja‘afar Ibn Az-Zubair narrated to me that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said when he saw the spectacle: “Were it not that it would grieve Safiyyah and I fear that it would become a practice after me, I would have left his corpse to be eaten by wild animals and birds of prey and if Allah makes us confront the Quraish in another battle I shall severely deal with thirty of their men.” When the Muslims saw the grief and anger of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, over what had been done to his uncle, they said: “If Allah grants us victory over them at another time, we shall severely punish them in a manner that is unprecedented among the Arabs.”

Ibn Ishaq related: Buraidah Ibn Sufyan Ibn Farwah Al-Aslami narrated to me from Muhammad Ibn Ka‘b that Ibn ‘Abbas said concerning the statement of Allah: And if you punish (your enemy, O you Believers in the Oneness of Allah), then punish them with the like of that with which you were afflicted. But if you endure patiently, verily, it is better for As-Sabireen (the patient ones, etc.) And endure you patiently (O Muhammad), your patience is not but from Allah. (Soorah An-Nahl 16:126,127)

Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, refrained and chose to be patient and forbade torturing.

I says: This Verse is Makkan and the event of Uhud occurred three years after the Hijrah, so how could it be connected with this? And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Imam Ahmad related that ‘Urwah said: My father, Az-Zubair narrated to me that on the day of Uhud, a woman approached swiftly till she almost got close to the corpses. The Prophet detested that she should see them, so he said: “The woman! The woman!!” Az-Zubair said: “I checked and found out that she was my aunt, Safiyyah. So I ran toward her and caught her before she got to the corpses. She hit me on the chest and she was a resilient woman.” She said: Go away from me (otherwise) I shall not be pleased with you.” So I said to her: “Allah’s Messenger has forbidden you.” Then she stopped and brought out two clothes with her and said: “I have brought these two clothes for my brother, Hamzah. I have been informed of his death, so bury him in them.” Then we brought the two clothes to shroud Hamzah. However, by his side was an Ansari who had met a similar fate as Hamzah. We found it a detraction and shameful to shroud Hamzah in two clothes while the Ansari is buried without a shroud. So we said: give one shroud to Hamzah and the other to the Ansari. So we shared it. One was bigger than the other. We measured both of them and gave to each the cloth that is commensurate.

Funeral Prayer Over Hamzah and the Other Martyrs of Uhud

Ibn Ishaq related that Ibn ‘Abbas narrated: “The Messenger of Allah called for the corpse of Hamzah and he was brought enshrouded in a Burdah, then he offered the funeral prayer on him making in it seven takbeerat. Then, the remainder of the martyrs were brought and he offered the prayer over them one after the other along with Hamzah till he offered the prayer seventy-two times on Hamzah alone.” This narration is strange and its chain is weak.

The one related by Al-Bukhari is perhaps more established. ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn Ka‘b Ibn Malik narrated that Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah informed him that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, shrouded every two martyrs of Uhud in one piece of cloth and then he would ask, “Which of them knew more of the Qur’an?” When one of them was pointed out he would put him first in the grave, he said, “I am a witness on these.” Then he ordered them to be buried with blood on their bodies. Neither did he offer their funeral prayer nor did he get them washed.”

Ahmad relegated that Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace be upon him, said concerning the martyrs of Uhud:

“Verily every wound – or every blood – will emit the scent of musk on the Day of Judgment.” And he did not offer funeral prayer on them.

It is also established that he offered the prayer on them several years after and shortly before his death. ‘Uqbah Ibn ‘Amir said: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, offered prayer on the martyrs of Uhud eight years after their death as if bidding farewell to the living and the dead, then he ascended the pulpit and said, “I am your predecessor before you, and I am a witness over you, and your promised place to meet me will be Al-Hawd (i.e. the pond) (on the Day of Resurrection), and I am (now) looking at it from this place of mine. I am not afraid that you will worship others besides Allah, but I am afraid that worldly life will tempt you and cause you to vie with each other for it.” That was the last look which I cast on Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

Ibn Ishaq related that when Safiyyah approached to have a look at him (i.e. Hamzah’s corpse), he was her full brother, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to her son, AzZubair Ibn Al-‘Awwam: “Go and stop her so that she does not see what has befallen her brother.” He (Az-Zubair) said: “O my mother, the Messenger of Allah commands you to turn back.” “Why?” She asked. “The news has reached me that my brother has been mutilated and since that is in the path of Allah, whatever results from that we shall expect Allah’s reward for that and we shall be patient if Allah wills.” When Az-Zubair came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to inform him of what she said, the Prophet said: “Let her go.” So she went and look at her brother and prayed over him and she said the istirja‘ (i.e. from Allah we came and to Him is our return) and she sought Allah’s forgiveness.

Ibn Ishaq also related from Az-Zuhri from ‘Abdullah Ibn Tha‘labah Ibn Su‘air that when Allah’s Messenger peace be upon him, came upon the martyrs of Uhud, he said: “I am a witness over these people. Whatever wound one sustains sustains in Allah’s cause will appear on the Day of Resurrection as it was at the time of infliction; blood will be flowing from the wound and its color will be that of the blood but will smell like musk.”

He (Ibn Ishaq) also added: My uncle, Moosa Ibn Yasar narrated to me that he heard Abu Hurairah say: Abul-Qasim said, “A wound which a Muslim receives in Allah’s cause will appear on the Day of Resurrection as it was at the time of infliction; blood will be flowing from the wound and its color will be that of the blood but will smell like musk.” Another version of this Hadith is cited in the Saheehain.

Hisham Ibn ‘Amir narrated that the Ansar came to the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, on the day of Uhud and said: “We have been afflicted with wound and fatigue. What do you command us? He said: ‘Dig graves, make them wide, bury two or three in a single grave.’ He was asked: ‘Which of them should be put first?’ He replied: ‘The one who knew the Qur’an most’.” A similar Hadith is reported from AthThawri from Ayyoob from Humaid Ibn Hilal from Hisham Ibn ‘Amir with the addition: “and make it deep (i.e. the grave)”

Imam Ahmad narrated from Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah that some of the martyrs of Uhud were transported from the place of their death, but the announcer of the Prophet announced that they be returned to their places of death. Abu Dawood and An-Nasa’i have also related it from the Hadith of Ath-Thawri.

Ahmad related from Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah who said: “When Allah’s Messenger went out of Madinah to fight the polytheists my father said to me: ‘O Jabir, never mind that you are on watch for the people of Madinah till you find out the turn of our fate. If not that I am leaving behind for you my daughters (to cater for), it would have been more pleasing to me that you fight in my front.” Jabir continued: “I was still among the watch when my paternal aunt arrived with the remains of my father and my maternal uncle ferrying them on the back of a camel. She brought them to Madinah in order to bury them in our graveyard. Then a man came and announced: “Take heed! The Prophet is ordering you to return the martyrs and bury them where they were killed.” So we took them back and buried them at the spot where they were killed. During the reign of Mu‘awiyah Ibn Abi Sufyan, a man came to me and said: “O Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah, some of Mu‘awiyah’s workers have tampered with your father’s grave and a part of his body is exposed.” I came to find his body in the same shape as when I had buried him, without disintegrating the least, except for (a slight amount) that a dead person or a martyr would be unable to escape. So I buried him again.”

Al-Bukhari related from Ata' from Jabir who said: When the time of the Battle of Uhud approached, my father called me at night and said, “I think that I will be the first amongst the companions of the Prophet to be martyred. I do not leave anyone after me dearer to me than you, except Allah's Messenger's soul and I owe some debt and you should repay it and treat your sisters favorably (nicely and politely).” So in the morning he was the first to be martyred and was buried along with another (martyr). I did not like to leave him with the other (martyr) so I took him out of the grave after six months of his burial and he was in the same condition as he was on the day of burial, except a slight change near his ear.”

It is recorded in the Saheehain from Jabir that when his father was martyred he kept uncovering his face and weeping, but the people (i.e. the Companions of the Prophet) forbade him to do this, whereupon Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “You may weep or you may not weep; the angels did not cease to provide him shade with their wings until you lift him (to be buried in the grave).”

‘A'ishah also narrated that Allah's Messenger peace be upon him, said to Jabir: “O Jabir, shouldn't I give you a glad tiding?” Jabir replied "Yes." So the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “I am aware that Allah brought your father back to life and said to him: 'Let my slave wish for anything he desire and I shall grant it for you.' He replied: ‘My Lord, I worshipped You in the true sense. I desire that You return to me to the world so that I may fight alongside Your Prophet and so that I may be killed for Your sake once again.’” Allah then said: “I have previously decreed that no one (who died) will return (to the world).”

Abu Hurairah narrated that the Prophet visited the graves of the martyrs. When he came to a pass, he said: “Salamun ‘Alaikum (peace be upon you) for that you persevered in patience! Excellent indeed is the final home.” After the demise of the Prophet, Abu Bakr would do the same thing. ‘Umar also would do the same thing after Abu Bakr and ‘Uthman also followed ‘Umar's practice.

Masrooq narrated: We asked ‘Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood concerning this Verse: Think not of those who are killed in the Way of Allah as dead. Nay, they are alive, with their Lord, and they have provision.(Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:169) He responded: “As for us, we asked the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, concerning that and he said: “The souls, of the martyrs live in the bodies of green birds who have their nests in chandeliers hung from the throne of the Almighty. They eat the fruits of Paradise from wherever they like and then nestle in these chandeliers. Once their Lord cast a glance at them and said: ‘Do you want anything?’ They said: ‘What more shall we desire? We eat the fruit of Paradise from wherever we like.’ Their Lord asked them the same question thrice. When they saw that they will continue to be asked and not left (without answering the question). They said: ‘O Lord, we wish that You return our souls to our bodies so that we may be slain in Your way once again. When He (Allah) saw that they had no need except this, they were left (to their joy in heaven).”

The Numbers of the Martyrs

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah said: The aggregate of the Ansar and the Muhajiroon who were martyred in the Battle of Uhud was forty-nine men. It is recorded in the authentic Hadith related by Al-Bukhari from Al-Bara’ that the dead among the Muslims (in that battle) numbered seventy men.

Qatadah narrated that Anas said that: seventy Ansar were martyred in the Battle of Uhud, seventy in the incident of Bi’r Ma‘oonah and seventy in the Battle of Yamamah.

Moosa narrated: On that day, sixteen of the polytheists were killed. ‘Urwah, however, put the number of their dead at nineteen while Ibn Ishaq said they were twenty-two.

Rabee’ narrated that Ash-Shafi’i said: In the Battle of Uhud, no one was captured among the polytheists except Abu Azzah Al-Jumahi. He had been captured in the Battle of Badr but Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had pity for him and released him without ransom upon the condition that he will not fight against him (i.e, the Prophet). When he was captured once again in the Battle of Uhud, he again begged clemency. He said: “O Muhammad, have mercy on me for the sake of my daughters and I give you a solemn promise that I shall not fight against you.” The Prophet said: “I will not let you go for you would turn and rub your cheek back toward Makkah and then say that you fooled Muhammad twice.” Then he ordered that he be executed and it was carried out. It is also said that it is on that occasion that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “A Muslim is not stung twice from the same hole.”

Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas narrated: Allah’s Messenger once came across a woman of Banu Deenar, whose husband, brother and father were killed fighting alongside Allah’s Messenger at the Battle of Uhud. When they announced the death of her relatives, she said: “What happened to Allah’s Messenger?” They replied: “Fine, O Umm Fulan, praise be to Allah, he is as you desire.” She said: “Show him to me so that I may see him with my own eyes.” When he was pointed out to her and she saw that he was truly safe, she said: “All misfortunes are nothing so long as you are safe.”

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah said in another place: When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw a sword on me daubed with blood, he said: “If you had been courageous, so also had been ‘Asim Ibn Thabit Ibn Abi Al-Aqlah, Al-Harith Ibn As-Simmah and Sahl Ibn Hunaif.”

Ibn Hisham said: Some people of knowledge informed me that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to ‘Ali: “The polytheists will not inflict us with a similar loss till Allah grants us victory.”

Ibn ‘Umar narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came across some women of Banu Al-Ashhal lamenting over their dead in the Battle of Uhud so he said, “Hamzah has no one to lament for him.” Thereafter, the women came and they lamented the death of Hamzah in his presence (i.e. the Prophet) until he said: “Command them that no one should wail over the dead after this day.”

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah narrated that the hypocrites took to jest at the weeping of the Muslims and attempted to estrange them from Allah’s Messenger, peace be upon him, in addition to emotionally tormenting them. The evil schemes of the Jews sprouted and hypocrisy flared up and spread quite swiftly all over Madinah. They said: "If he were truly a Prophet, they would not have defeated him, he would not have suffered that fate. He is just hankering after authority and to establish and rule over a nation-state." The Hypocrites also parroted the vituperations of the Jews. They said to the believers: "If you had followed us, you would have been spared this affliction." Then Allah revealed the Qur'an concerning those who were obedient, those who demonstrated hypocrisy and at the same time consoling the believers over their losses. Allah says: And (remember) when you (Muhammad) left your household in the morning to post the believers at their stations for the Battle (of Uhud). And Allah is All-Hearer, All-Knower. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:121)

In Order to Terrorize Abu Sufyan and His Company, the Prophet and His Companions Go on His Trail

Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah said, after summarizing the incident of Uhud and the Messenger of Allah's return journey to Madinah: A man from the people of Makkah came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he inquired from him about the movement of Abu Sufyan and his men and the man said: "They have disembarked at an open-air and I overheard them trading blames, one group saying to the other: 'You have not achieved anything. You had them in your grasp, then you let them go without slaughtering them. Now they still have men gathering to fight against you.' On hearing this, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered his Companions, inspite of their excruciating injuries, to follow their trail. He said: "No one should follow me except those who partook in the war." 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy said: "I will march along with you." "No," the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, vehemently objected. In spite of their tribulation, the injured Companions responded to Allah and His Messenger and set out with him. Allah says in His Noble Book: Those who answered (the Call of) Allah and the Messenger (Muhammad) after being wounded; for those of them who did good deeds and feared Allah, there is a great reward. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:172)

He (the narrator) added: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him,) permitted Jabir to join him when it was mentioned to him that he remained behind in Madinah because his father commanded him to stay back and care for his sisters.

Ibn 'Abbas said concerning the Verse: Allah (Alone) is Sufficient for us (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:173) Ibrahim said it when he was thrown into the fire and Muhammad also said it when it was said to him: Verily, the people (pagans) have gathered against you (a great army), therefore, fear them. But it (only) increased them in Faith, and they said: "Allah (Alone) is Sufficient for us, and He is the Best Disposer of affairs (for us)." (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:173) Al-Bukhari related it exclusively.

Al-Bukhari related from 'A'ishah concerning the Verse: Those who answered (the Call of) Allah and the Messenger (Muhammad) after being wounded; for those of them who did good deeds and feared Allah, there is a great reward. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:172) She said to 'Urwah: "O my nephew! Your father, AzZubair and Abu Bakr were amongst them (i.e. those who responded to the call of Allah and the Messenger on the day (of the Battle of Uhud). When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, suffered what he suffered on the day of Uhud and the pagans left, the Prophet was afraid that they might return. So he said, 'Who will go on their (i.e. pagans') trail?' He then selected seventy men from amongst them (for this purpose) among whom were Abu Bakr and Az-Zubair." This is how AlBukhari related it.

This wording is extremely strange for the popular version among the authors of books on Islamic military history is that those who went with Allah's Messenger, peace be upon him, to Hamra' Al-Asad were the same people who partook in the Battle of Uhud; they were seven hundred in total as mentioned earlier and seventy of them were martyred.

Ibn Jareer related through 'Awfi Ibn 'Abbas who said: Allah put fear into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the Day of Uhud after what occurred from him, so he returned to Makkah. The Battle of Uhud occurred in Shawwal. The merchants used to set out in Dhul-Qa'dah for Madinah and they would disembark at AlBadr As-Sughra once every year. So they set out after the Battle of Uhud. Many of the Muslims were wounded and they complained to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, about that. The pain of their situation became aggravated. So the Messenger chose the people who would accompany him on the trail from the willing ones. He said to us: "Right now, they are coming for Hajj and they will not be capable of something similar till next year." Then Shaitan came in order to terrify his friends; he said: 'Hosts have gathered against you.' So the people objected to following the Prophet so he said: "I am going even if no one follows me." So Abu Bakr, 'Umar, 'Uthman, 'Ali, Talhah, Az-Zubair, Sa'd, 'Abdur-Rahman Ibn 'Awf, Abu 'Ubaidah, Ibn Mas'ood and Hudhaifah among seventy others stood with him. Thus, they went on the trail of Abu Sufyan till they reached As-Safra.' Then Allah revealed: Those who answered (the Call of) Allah and the Messenger (Muhammad) after being wounded; for those of them who did good deeds and feared Allah, there is a great reward. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:172) This narration is also strange.

Ibn Ishaq related: When Allah's Messenger returned to Madinah, 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy, according to what Az-Zuhri narrated to me, used to stand unobjectionably to address the people every Friday. It used to be a distinction to his personality and his clan who saw it as a honor that one of them, whenever the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, got up on Friday to address the people, would corroborate: "This is the Messenger of Allah in your presence. Allah has ennobled and honored you with his presence (in your misdt) so help and strengthen him, listen and obey him and then he would sit. After his misdemeanor at the Battle of Uhud and upon the people's return to Madinah, 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy again wanted to act as he used to whenever the Prophet rose to address the people. Infuriated by his turncoat attitude, the Muslims seized him by his cloth and told him: "Sit down! O enemy of Allah, you are not fit for that endeavor, not after what you have done." He angrily went out overstepping the necks of people while fuming: 'By Allah, it is as if I have said something wrong whereas I merely stood to consolidate his affair.' Some Ansari met him at the entrance of the Mosque and they asked: "Woe to you, what happened to you?" He said: "I stood to consolidate his affair and a group of his Companions pounced on me, pulled me and tongue-lashed me as if I said something bad when I stood to consolidate his affair." The Ansaris said: "Return so that Allah's Messenger may seek Allah's forgiveness for you." Arrogantly, 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy said: "By Allah, I do not have any desire for him to seek forgiveness on my behalf.” Then Ibn Ishaq cited some of the Verses of the Qur’an that were revealed concerning the story of Uhud in Soorah Aal ‘Imran from the Verse: And (remember) when you (Muhammad) left your household in the morning to post the Believers at their stations for the Battle (of Uhud). And Allah is AllHearer, All-Knower. (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:121) till a complete sixty Verses were revealed and he discussed them.

We (the author) have also extensively and sufficiently discussed that in our book, At-Tafseer.

I say: None of the polytheists were captured except for Abu Azzah Al-Jumahi, according to what was related by Ash-Shafi’i and others. Allah’s Messenger ordered his execution and it was carried out by AzZubair in his presence. It is also said that it was ‘Asim Ibn Thabit Ibn Abul-Aflah who executed him.

The Fourth Year of Hijrah

A military operation led by Abu Salamah Ibn Abdul Asad Abi Tulaihah Al-Asadi took place in Muharram of the fourth year. The contingent advanced as far as the watering place known as Qatan.

Al-Waqidi related from Salamah Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Abi Salamah and others that Abu Salamah took part in the Battle of Uhud and his upper arm was injured, which he kept nursing for a month. At the outset of the month of Muharram, exactly thirty-five months after the Hijrah, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, called upon him and said: “Set out with this contingent; I have appointed you to command it.” He gave him the war standard and said: “Advance till you reach the territory of the Banu Asad and raid them.” He recommended him to have the awe of Allah and to be good to the Muslims accompanying him. One hundred and fifty warriors marched forth with him till they reached the lower part of Qatan which is Banu Asad’s watering place. Meanwhile, Taleehah Al-Asadi and his brother, Salamah, the sons of Khuwailid, had mobilized there, a military contingent from the various allies of Banu Asad with the intent of attacking the Prophet. A man had come from them to inform the Prophet of their collaboration against him. Thus Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent with him Abu Salamah at the helm of this military contingent.

When they got to their territory, the Muslims took them by surprise and they dispersed in confusion and abandoned large herds of camels and goats. Abu Salamah gathered them as booty and also captured three of their men and returned to Madinah.

'Umar Ibn Abu Salamah said, Abu Usamah Al-Jushami was the one who injured my father and he kept nursing the wound for a whole month and he was healed. When he got well, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent him to Qatan in Muharram of the fourth year of Hijrah. He was away (on the military expedition) for about ten nights. However, on his return to Madinah, his wound relapsed and he died three days to the end of the month of Jumadal-Oola.

My mother observed the iddah till the conclusion of four months and ten days and then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married her and consummated the marriage in the last few nights of the month of Shawwal. My mother used to say: "There is no harm in marrying and consummating the marriage in the month of Shawwal. The Prophet married me in Shawwal and consummated with me in the same month." He added: Umm Salamah died in Dhul-Qa'dah in the 59th year. This is related by Al-Baihaqi.

I say: we shall mention again the Prophet's marriage to Umm Salamah in Shawwal in the close of the discussion of the events of this year.

The Ghazwat of Ar-Rajee'

"Allah's Messenger sent a contingent of ten men as spies under the leadership of 'Asim Ibn Thabit They proceeded till they reached Hadah, a place between 'Usfan and Makkah, and their news reached a branch of the tribe of Hudhail called Banu Lihyan. About one hundred men, who were all archers, hurried to follow their tracks till they found the place where they had eaten dates at their stopover. They said, "These are the dates of Yathrib (i.e. Madinah)," and they continued to follow their tracks.

When ‘Asim and his companions saw their pursuers, they went up on a high place and the people encircled them. They said to them, “Come down and surrender, and we promise and guarantee that we will not kill any one of you.”

‘Asim Ibn Thabit, the leader of the contingent, said, “By Allah! I will not come down to be under the protection of infidels. O Allah! Convey our news to Your Prophet.” Then they shot arrows at them till they killed ‘Asim along with six others, and a group came down accepting their promise and covenant, and they were Khubaib Zaid Ibn Ad-Dathinah and another man. When they captured them, they untied the strings of their bows and bind them with it.

Then the third (of the captives) said, “This is the first betrayal. By Allah! I will not go with you. No doubt these have set a good example for me. Namely the martyred.”

So, they dragged him and tried to compel him to accompany them, but as he refused, they killed him. They took Khubaib and Zaid Ibn Dathinah with them and sold them (as slaves) in Makkah.

The sons of Al-Harith Ibn ‘Amir Ibn Nawfal bought Khubaib for he was the person who had killed (their father) Al-Harith Ibn ‘Amr on the day (of the Battle) of Badr. Khubaib remained imprisoned by them till they decided unanimously to kill him. One day Khubaib asked to borrow, from a daughter of Al-Harith, a razor to shave his pubic hair, and she lent it to him.

Inadvertently, while she was inattentive, her going son went to him (i.e. Khubaib) and she saw that Khubaib had seated him on his thigh while the razor was in his hand. She was so much terrified that Khubaib noticed her fear and said, “Are you afraid that I will kill him? Never would I do such a thing.”

Later on (while narrating the story) she said, “By Allah, I had never seen a better captive than Khubaib. By Allah, one day I saw him eating from a bunch of grapes in his hand while he was fettered with iron chains and (at that time) there were no fruit in Makkah.” She used to say, “It was food Allah provided Khubaib with.” When they took him from the sacred precinct of Makkah to Al-Hill (outside the sanctuary) to kill him, Khubaib requested them. “Allow me to offer two Rak‘ahs of prayers.” They allowed him and he prayed two Rak‘ahs and then said, “By Allah! Had I not been afraid that you would think that I was worried, I would have prayed more.” Then he (invoked evil upon them) saying, “O Allah! Count them and kill them one by one, and do not leave anyone of them.” Then he recited: As I am killed as a Muslim, I do not care in what way I receive my death for Allah’s Sake, for this is for the Cause of Allah. If He wishes,

He will bless the cut limbs of my body

Then ‘Uqbah Ibn Al-Harith went up to him and killed him. It was Khubaib who set the tradition of a Muslim praying while in to captivity (before he is executed).

Later on, when some polytheists from Quraish were informed that ‘Asim had been killed, they sent some people to fetch a part of his body (i.e. his head) by which he would be recognized. (That was because) ‘Asim had killed one of their chiefs on the day (of the Battle) of Badr. So, a swarm of wasps, resembling a shady cloud, were sent to hover over ‘Asim and protect him from their messenger and thus they could not cut off anything from his flesh.”

Military Contingent of Umayyah Ad-Damri in Pursuit of the Murderers of Khubaib

Abu Sufyan addressed a group of Quraish saying: Is there a man who could assassinate Muhammad while he walks in the markets, so that we may obtain our full retribution. A Bedouin Arab came to him at his residence and said: “If you would give me my due in full, I will proceed to assassinate him, for I am wellaware of the path and with me is my dagger which is like an eagle’s wings.” Abu Sufyan then said: “You are our cohort.”

Then he provided him with a camel and provision and said: "Proceed immediately to accomplish your goal for I fear that someone might learn of this plot and pass the information on to Muhammad." The Bedouin said: "No one will hear of it." So, he set out the same night on his camel for his dastard mission. He traveled for five days and reached Al-Harrah in the morning of the sixth day. There, he began to inquire about the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, till he got to the place of prayer and he was informed that he (the Messenger of Allah) had gone toward Banu 'Abdul-Ashhal. Again, the Bedouin redirected his camel till he got to the quarters of Banu 'Abdul-Ashhal. He tethered his camel and went ahead to seek out the Messenger of Allah. Meanwhile, the Prophet was in his Mosque meeting with a group of his Companions. When the Bedouin entered the Mosque and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw him, he said: "This man has come intending some treachery but Allah has frustrated his effort." The man stopped and asked: "Which one of you is Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib?" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, answered: "I am Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib." Then he came close and overshadowed the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, as if with an intent to please him and demonstrate his joy. Usaid Ibn Hudair pulled him aside and said: "Step aside from Allah's Messenger," and he seized his underpants and the dagger was revealed. "This is a treacherous fellow!" and the Bedouin became alarmed and began shouting for clemency: "My blood! My blood!! O Muhammad."

Usaid Ibn Hudair kept shaking him violently with his cloth wrapped around his neck. The Prophet said to him: "Tell me the truth. Who are you and what has brought you? If you tell me the truth, it will benefit you but if you lie to me, be sure that I have been informed of it." The Bedouin said: "Will I then be safe?" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Yes you will be safe." Then he informed him of his plot in conjunction with Abu Sufyan and what he has given him in reward. The Prophet ordered that he be detained in the custody of Usaid Ibn Hudair. The next day, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, called for him and said: "I have guaranteed your security, so you may now go wherever you wish or if you desire I will present to you a better option." "And what option is that?" the Bedouin asked. "That you bear witness that none deserves to be worshipped except Allah and that I am the Messenger of Allah.” The Bedouin said: “I bear witness that none deserves to be worshipped except Allah and that you are the Messenger of Allah. O Muhammad, I was most terrified the moment I saw you, my senses went away and I was weakened. Coupled with the fact that you were aware of my purpose while no man could have preceded me to this place with that information and besides, no one was privy to that information; then I realized that you are forbidden (to be harmed) and that you are upon the truth and that the party of Abu Sufyan is a party of Shaitan.”

The Prophet kept smiling at the words of the Bedouin. He remained in Madinah for a few days and then sought permission from the Prophet and went away and no words were heard about him again.

Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said to ‘Amr Ibn Umayyah Ad-Damri and Salamah Ibn Aslam Ibn Hareesh: “Both of you, proceed to Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb. If you find the right opportunity, kill him.”

‘Amr continued: “So I went along with my companion till we reached the center of Yajaj where we tethered our camels. My companion said: ‘O ‘Amr, do you have any desire that we go to Makkah so that we may circumambulate the House (Ka‘bah) and offer two units of prayer.’ I said: “I know better than you about the character of the people of Makkah, once they are oppressed they bear all their fangs and tenaciously hang on (to the offense). Moreover, I am well-known in Makkah like a speckled horse.” My companion insisted, so we proceeded and entered Makkah. We circumambulated seven times and offered two units of prayer. When I came out, Mua‘wiyah Ibn Abi Sufyan met me and he quickly recognized me. He said: “‘Amr Ibn Umayyah and his evil.” Then he warned the people of Makkah (of our presence). They said: “‘Amr has not come with any good intent.” ‘Amr used to be an assassin in the Jahiliyyah. When the inhabitants of Makkah gathered, ‘Amr and Salamah fled. The people went in their pursuit. They rushed to the mountain. ‘Amr narrated: “Then I entered a cave and I hid from them till next morning. They searched all over the mountain for us all through the night. But Allah blinded them to look in the direction of Madinah. At the first illumination of the early morning, ‘Uthman Ibn Malik Ibn ‘Ubaidullah At-Taimi approached to gather fodder for his horse. I said to Salamah Ibn Aslam, if he sees us he will disclose our location to the inhabitants of Makkah. Now that they have dispersed from us, he will bring back the inhabitants of Makkah on our trail. He kept coming directly to the entrance of the cave till he saw us.” ‘Amr added: “I sprang out of the cave and stabbed him below his navel with my dagger so violently that he fell down and yelled. The inhabitants of Makkah gathered again after they had dispersed. I recoiled into my position and I warned my companion not to move. They came to him and asked: “Who attacked you?” He answered as he ebbed away: “‘Amr Ibn Umayyah Ad-Damri.” Abu Sufyan said: “We knew that he has not come for any good.” However, he was not able to reveal our location to them as he was in the throes of his death. After he became cold, they again frantically searched for us without success. Afterward, they carried his dead body away. We remained in our position for two more days until the search for us calmed down. Then we came out and proceeded to At-Tan‘eem and my companion said to me: ‘O ‘Amr Ibn Umayyah, do you have any desire for lowering Khubaib Ibn ‘Adiyy?’ I asked him: “Where is he?” He answered: “He is over there crucified and surrounded by guards.” So I said: “Give me some time, move away from here. If you fear for anything, run to your camel, hop on it and return to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. When you get to him, inform him of the course of events. Leave me alone for I know the way to Madinah.” I sneaked up to Khubaib’s corpse and lifted him on my back. I have not walked more than twenty cubits before the guards woke up and they came in my pursuit. I threw the bier down and I did not forget its sound. Then I stirred sand with my leg over it to cover it up. Then I took the road to As-Safra’. My pursuers soon became exhausted and they returned.

Meanwhile, my companion had run to his camel and rode as fast as possible back to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. He informed him of the incident. I proceeded on my way back till I was overlooking Al-Ghameem. I hid inside a cave with my bow and arrows and my sword. While I was in the cave, a tall one-eyed man from Banu Ad-Dee from Banu Bakr approached driving his sheep and goats. He entered the cave and found me. “Who are you?” I said: “A man from Banu Bakr.” The man said: “I am also from Banu Bakr.” Then he reclined and raised his voice singing:

I shall never be a Muslim as long as I live

I shall never adopt the religion of the Muslims

I said to myself: By Allah, I desire to kill you. When the man slept off, I moved close to him and killed him violently. When I proceeded on my return journey, I met two men whom the Quraish had sent to reconnoiter for them. I accosted them: "Surrender!" I said to them. One of them refused and I shot him an arrow and killed him. When the other saw this, he willingly surrendered himself to me. I restrained and tied him up and I brought him along to the Prophet. When I arrived at Madinah, I came upon some children of the Ansar who were playing. They heard their elders saying: "Here is 'Amr!" The children then ran to the Prophet and informed him of my arrival. I came to him leading my captive whose thumb I have tied with my bowstring. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw me, he broke into laughter and he supplicated for good for me. Salamah had arrived in Madinah three days before 'Amr.

The Expedition Bi'r Ma'oonah

Anas Ibn Malik narrated: "The Messenger of Allah sent seventy men, called Al-Qurra' for some purpose. The two groups of Banu Sulaim called Ri'l and Dhakwan appeared to them near a well called Bi'r Ma'oonah. The people (i.e. Al-Qurra') said, 'By Allah, we have not come to harm you, but we are passing by you on our way to do something for the Prophet.' But (the polytheists) killed them. The Prophet therefore invoked evil upon them for a month during the morning prayer. That was the beginning of AlQunoot and we used not to say Qunoot prior to that."

Anas also narrated (that) (the tribes of) Ri'l, Dhakwan, Usayyah and Banu Lihyan asked Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to provide them with some men to support them against their enemy. He therefore provided them with seventy men from the Ansar whom we used to call Al-Qurra' in their lifetime. They used to collect wood by daytime and pray at night. When they were at the well of Ma'oonah, the polytheists betrayed and killed them. When this news reached the Prophet, he recited Al-Qunoot for one month in the morning prayer, invoking evil upon some of the Arab tribes, upon Ri'l, Dhakwan, 'Usayyah and Banu Lihyan. We used to read a Verse of the Qur'an revealed concerning them but was later abrogated. The Verse was: "Convey to our people on our behalf the information that we have met our Lord, and He is pleased with us, and has made us pleased."

Al-Bukhari also related from Anas Ibn Malik that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Haram, the brother of Umm Sulaim, at the head of seventy riders. The chief of the polytheists, Amir Ibn At-Tufail had proposed three suggestions (to the Prophet ) saying, "Choose one of three alternatives: (1) that the Bedouins will be under your command and the townspeople will be under my command; (2) or that I will be your successor, (3) or, otherwise I will attack you with two thousand warriors from Banu Ghatafan." But before he could execute his threat, Amir was infected with plague in the house of a lady from the family of Umm Fulan. He said, "Shall I stay in the house of a lady from the family of Umm Fulan after having a (swelled) gland like that of a she-camel? Get me my horse." So he died on the back of his horse.

Then Haram, the brother of Umm Sulaim, and a lame man along with another man from Banu Fulan went toward the polytheists (i.e. the tribe of Amir). Haram said (to his companions), "Stay near to me, for I will go to them. If they (i.e. polytheists) should give me protection, you will be near to me, and if they should kill me, then you should go back to your companions. Then Haram went to them and said, "Will you give me protection so as to convey the message of Allah's Messenger?" So, he started talking to them, but they signaled to a man (to kill him) and he went behind him and stabbed him (with a spear). He (i.e. Haram) said, "Allahu Akbar! (Allah is Greatest), I have succeeded, by the Lord of the Ka'bah!" The companion of Haram was pursued by the polytheists, and then they (i.e. Haram's companions) were all killed except the lame man who was at the top of a mountain. Then Allah revealed to us a Verse that was among the ones that were later abrogated. It was: "We have met our Lord and He is pleased with us and has made us pleased." (After this event) the Prophet invoked evil on the polytheists every morning for thirty days. He invoked evil upon the (tribes of) Ri'l, Dhakwan, Banu Lihyan and Usayyah who offended Allah and His Messenger."

Al-Bukhari also related that Anas Ibn Malik said (that): “When Haram Ibn Milhan, his uncle, was stabbed on the day of Bi’r Ma’oonah, he sprinkled his blood over his face and his head this way and then said, ‘I have succeeded, by the Lord of the Ka’bah.’”

Al-Bukhari also related that Hisham Ibn ‘Urwah narrated (that): When those (Muslims) at Bi’r Ma’oonah were martyred and ‘Amr Ibn Umayyah Ad-Damri was taken prisoner, Amir Ibn At-Tufail, pointing at a killed person, asked ‘Amr, “Who is this?” ‘Amr Ibn Umayyah said to him, “He is ‘Amir Ibn Fuhairah.” Amir Ibn At-Tufail said, “I saw him lifted to the sky after he was killed till I saw the sky between him and the Earth, and then he was brought down upon the Earth. Then the news of the killed Muslims reached the Prophet and he announced the news of their death saying, “Your Companions (of Bi’r Ma’oona) have been killed, and they have asked their Lord saying, ‘O our Lord! Inform our brothers about us as we are pleased with You and You are pleased with us.’” So Allah informed them (i.e. the Prophet and his Companions) about them (i.e. martyrs of Bir Ma’oonah).

On that day, ‘Urwah Ibn Asma’ Ibn As-Salt, who was one of them, was killed, and ‘Urwah (Ibn AzZubair) was named after ‘Urwah Ibn Asma’ and Mundhir (Ibn Az-Zubair) was named after Mundhir Ibn ‘Amr (who had also been martyred on that day).

The Expedition of Banu Nadeer Concerning Whom Allah Revealed Soorah Al-Hashr

It is recorded in Saheeh Al-Bukhari that Ibn ‘Abbas used to call it “Soorah Bani An-Nadeer”. Al-Bukhari also related from Az-Zuhri from ‘Urwah that he said: the incident of Banu Nadeer occurred three months after Badr and before Uhud.

Ibn Ishaq related that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went out to Banu Nadeer seeking their assistance in paying the blood money for the two men of Banu Amir who were accidentally killed by ‘Amr Ibn Umayyah. This was in accordance with the clauses of the treaty that both parties had already signed. When the Messenger of Allah got to them, they demonstrated willingness to assist. They said: “O yes, O Abul-Qasim, we shall aid you upon what you desire.” Then the Jews went into a private consultation. They made a proposal: “You will never again find the man in such a position (meanwhile, the Messenger was sitting by a wall of their homes). So, who will climb the top of this house and throw a large rock on him and rid us of him forever?” ‘Amr Ibn Jahhash Ibn Ka‘b volunteered: “I am up to the task.” So he climbed the house intent upon throwing the stone on him. Meanwhile, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was sitting in the midst of a group of Companions including Abu Bakr, ‘Umar and ‘Ali.

Then the secret plot was exposed to Allah’s Messenger, peace be upon him, through Inspiration from the heavens. He immediately got up and headed back to Madinah. Meanwhile, his Companions had noticed his absence and had gone in search of him. They met a man who was returning from Madinah and asked him if he had seen the Prophet and he said: “I saw him entering Madinah.” So the Companions proceeded till they got to him. He informed them of the evil scheme of the Jews against him.

Ibn Ishaq related: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, advanced and laid siege on them for six nights. In the course of that, the prohibition of intoxicants was revealed. The Jews were holed up in their fortresses. Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered that their palm trees be cut down and burned. When they saw this, they called out: “O Muhammad you used to forbid evil and you used to find fault with one who perpetrates it, so why are you cutting down and burning the palm trees?” He said that a group of the Banu ‘Awf Ibn Al-Khazraj among whom was ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy, Wadee‘ah and Malik Ibn Qawqal, Suwaid and Da‘is had sent words to Banu Nadeer bolstering them: “Remain in your residences and defend yourself. Verily we shall not abandon you. If they fight against you, we shall fight alongside you and if you are expelled, we shall go along with you.” Banu Nadeer chose to remain in contravention of the Prophet’s order of their expulsion relying on the promise of reinforcement to fight their cause. However, Allah cast terror into their hearts and they eventually preferred expulsion, pleading for their blood to be spared. The Prophet stipulated that they can only take with them from their belongings that which can be carried on the back of a camel, and they were not to carry an weapons. They agreed to all of these terms and were expelled from Madinah.

Ibn Ishaq also said: They carried with them only their belongings that could be carried on the back of a camel. Some would even remove their doorframe and load it on the back of their camel and then proceed. Some of them went to Khaibar and others went to Sham. Among the notables of those who went to Khaibar were Sallam Ibn Abul-Huqaiq, Kinanah Ibn Ar-Rabee‘ Ibn Abil-Huqaiq and Huyayy Ibn Akhtab.

Ibn Ishaq added: Allah revealed Soorah Al-Hashr in its entirety concerning them, detailing His wrath which the inflicted upon them and the punishment executed on them by His Messenger and what they themselves wrought by their own hands. Then Ibn Ishaq began to explain the Verses and we have also discussed it extensively in our book of Tafseer. All praise is due to Allah.

Allah says: Whatsoever is in the heavens and whatsoever is on the Earth glorifies Allah. And He is the Almighty, the All-Wise. He it is Who drove out the disbelievers among the people of the Scripture (i.e. the Jews of the tribe of Bani An-Nadeer) from their homes at the first gathering. You did not think that they would get out. And they thought that their fortresses would defend them from Allah! But Allah’s (Torment) reached them from a place whereof they expected it not, and He cast terror into their hearts, so that they destroyed their own dwellings with their own hands and the hands of the believers. Then take admonition, O you with eyes (to see). And had it not been that Allah had decreed exile for them, He would certainly have punished them in this world, and in the Hereafter theirs shall be the torment of the Fire. That is because they opposed Allah and His Messenger (Muhammad). And whosoever opposes Allah, then verily, Allah is Severe in punishment. What you (O Muslims) cut down of the palm-trees (of the enemy), or you left them standing on their stems, it was by Leave of Allah, and in order that He might disgrace the Fasiqoon (rebellious, disobedient to Allah). (Soorah Al-Hashr 59:1-5)

Here, Allah glorifies Himself and informed us that all His celestial and terrestrial creatures glorify Him, and that He is Almighty, Whose Greatness and Eminence do not dissipate, and the Wise in all of what He created and in all what He decreed and legislated. Included in this is the decree and direction of the Messenger of Allah and His believing servants in granting them victory over their enemies, the Jews, who opposed Allah and His Messenger and estranged themselves from Allah's Messenger and His Shari'ah. Nevertheless, all of these did not impel fighting against them till their siege by the one who has been aided with the casting of terror in the enemies' hearts from the distance of a month's journey. Still he besieged them with his forces and his own eminent self for six nights. They were seized by extreme fear till they were humbled and pleaded for a truce to preserve their blood which was granted to them upon the terms that they will take from their wealth only what can be carried on the back of their riding animals and that they will not carry with them any weapon as a way of humiliation and precaution. They destroyed their own dwellings with their own hands and the hands of the believers. Then take admonition, O you with eyes (to see). (Soorah Al-Hashr 59:2)

Then Allah mentions that if they had not been exiled (i.e. from the neighborhood of Allah's Messenger in Madinah), they would have been inflicted with a far more severe punishment in this world, i.e., execution, in addition to a painful punishment which would have been in store for them in the Hereafter.

Then Allah mentions the wisdom contained in burning some of their palm-trees and sparing others all of which was acceptable. What you (O Muslims) cut down of the palm-trees (of the enemy)...” i.e. of good dates. “...or you left them standing on their stems, it was by Leave of Allah... (Soorah Al-Hashr 59:5)

All of that has been permitted by legislation and decree so there is no blame on you concerning that. It is not corruption as claimed by the vilest of slaves; rather it is a demonstration of power and humiliation for the sinful and disbelieving folks.

Al-Bukhari related from Ibn 'Umar that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had the date-palm trees of Banu Nadeer burned and cut down at a place called Al-Buwairah. Allah then revealed: What you (O Muslims) cut down of the palm-trees (of the enemy), or you left them standing on their stems, it was by Leave of Allah, and in order that He might disgrace the Fasiqoon (the rebellious, the disobedient to Allah).(Soorah Al-Hashr 59:5)

It is also recorded in Al-Bukhari from Ibn ‘Umar that: “The Prophet(Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)burned the date-palm trees of Bani An-Nadeer. Hassan Ibn Thabit said the following poetic verses about this event:-

“The terrible burning of Al-Buwairah has been received indifferently

By the nobles of Banu Lu’ayy (the masters and nobles of Quraish).”

Abu Sufyan Ibn Al-Harith (i.e. the Prophet’s cousin who was still a disbeliever then) replied to Hassan, saying in poetic verses:-

“May Allah bless that burning and set all its (i.e. Madinah) parts on burning fire. You will see who is far from it (i.e. Al- Buwairah)

And which of our lands will be harmed by it (i.e. the burning of Al-Buwairah).”

Then, Allah mentions the ruling of Fay’ (booty) which stipulates that the wealth of the Banu Nadeer was exclusively the right of the Messenger to dispose off as Allah deems fit, as recorded in the Saheehain from ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, who said: “The properties abandoned by Banu Nadeer were the ones which Allah bestowed upon His Messenger for which no expedition was undertaken either with cavalry or camelry. These properties were particularly meant for the Messenger of Allah. He would meet the annual expenditure of his family from the income thereof, and would spend what remained for purchasing horses and weapons as preparation for Jihad.”

Then, Allah elaborates on the ruling of Fay’: it is meant for the Muhajiroon and Ansar and those who follow them in goodness copying their pattern and threading their path. What Allah gave as booty (Fay’) to His Messenger (Muhammad) from the people of the townships, - it is for Allah, His Messenger (Muhammad), the kindred (of Messenger Muhammad), the orphans, Al-Masakeen (the poor), and the wayfarer, in order that it may not become a fortune used by the rich among you. And whatsoever the Messenger (Muhammad) gives you, take it, and whatsoever he forbids you, abstain (from it), and fear Allah. Verily, Allah is Severe in punishment. (Soorah Al-Hashr 59:7)

Anas Ibn Malik narrated from the Prophet of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, that a man used to present date palm-trees to the Prophet till Banu Quraizah and Banu Nadeer were conquered (then he returned to the people their date-palms). My people ordered me to ask the Prophet to return some or all the date-palms they had given, but the Prophet had given those trees to Umm Ayman. On that, Umm Ayman came and put the garment around my neck and said, "No, by Him Who has the only right to be worshipped, he will not return those trees to you as he (i.e. the Prophet) has given them to me." The Prophet said (to her), "Return those trees and I will give you so much (instead of them)." But she kept on refusing, saying, "No, by Allah," till he gave her ten times the number of her date-palms."

Then Allah (SWT) says in castigation of the hypocrites who pandered toward Banu Nadeer secretly, as mentioned previously, giving them the promise of aid even though they did not carry out any of their promises. Rather, they disappointed them when they were in dire need; meanwhile, their minds had deceived them.

Have you (O Muhammad) not observed the hypocrites who say to their friends among the People of the Scriptures who disbelieve: "(By Allah) If you are expelled, we (too) indeed will go out with you, and we shall never obey any one against you, and if you are attacked (in fight), we shall indeed help you." But Allah is Witness, that they verily, are liars. Surely, if they (the Jews) are expelled, never will they (hypocrites) go out with them, and if they are attacked, they will never help them. And if they do help them, they (hypocrites) will turn their backs, so they will not be victorious. (al-Hashr [59]:11,12)

Then He chastised them for their cowardice, paucity of their knowledge and their dim-wittedness. Then He drew for them a repulsive and repugnant similitude of Shaitan when he said to man: "Disbelieve in Allah.” But when (man) disbelieves in Allah, Shaitan says: “I am free of you, I fear Allah, the Lord of Al‘Alamin (mankind, jinns and all that exists!)) (Soorah Al-Hashr 59:16)

The Story of ‘Amr Ibn Su‘da Al-Qarazi When He Came Upon the Desolate Residence of Banu Nadeer

After Banu Nadeer had been expelled from Madinah, ‘Amr Ibn Su‘da came and went round their desolate quarters. When he beheld its ruins he was gripped by a deep thought and then he went back to Banu Quraizah. He found them in their church. He blew their horn and they all gathered. Az-Zubair Ibn Bata asked him: “O Abu Sa‘eed, where have you been all day that we did not see you.” He used to adhere to the church. He said: “Today, I saw a lesson from which we should learn. I saw the residences of our brothers in ruin after they had witnessed glory, strength, dignity, precedence and dexterity. They had abandoned their wealth and now it is controlled by other than them and they were expelled in an ignominious manner. I swear by the Tawrah, this sort of affliction did not come upon a people whom Allah has any use for. Prior to that, Ibn Al-Ashraf, the custodian of their dignity and Ibn Sunainah, their leader and Banu Qainuqa‘ had met similar fate. Meanwhile, they were Jews of strength, men of great numbers, military might and support. They were encircled and no one escaped with his head till they were enslaved and some were wounded and they were let off upon being expelled from Yathrib.

“My people, you have all witnessed all that you have witnessed, so listen to me and come along so that we may follow Muhammad. By Allah, you are aware that he is a Prophet, the tiding and affairs of whom Ibn Al-Hayyaban, Abu ‘Umair and Ibn Hirash have given us. Both of them were the most knowledgeable Jews who came to us from Jerusalem to await his coming. They enjoined on us to follow him and to convey their greeting to him (whenever he appeared) after which they died upon their religion and we buried them by this rock of ours.”

After hearing this speech, the entire congregation was dead silent and no one said a word. Then he repeated his address and scared them with the threat of war, enslavement and expulsion to drive home his point. Az-Zubair Ibn Bata said: “I swear by the Tawrah, I had read his attributes in Bata's book, the Tawrah revealed to Moosa but not in the Mathani which we have invented by ourselves." Thereupon Ka'b Ibn Asad said to him: "So what has prevented you (from following him), O Aba 'Abdur-Rahman?" He replied: "You, O Ka'b." Surprised at this claim, Ka'b Ibn Asad asked: "How is that? I swear by the Tawrah, I have never stood in your way." "You have." Az-Zubair insisted and added: "You are our most influential person and our trustee. If you follow him, we will also follow him and if you refuse we will also refuse." Then 'Amr Ibn Su'da turned to Ka'b and he mentioned their disputation on this till 'Amr said: "I do not have anything more to say concerning him than what I have already said: (i.e.) my heart is not comfortable with following (him)." Related by Al-Baihaqi.

The Ghazwat of Banu Lihyan During Which the Fear Prayer Was First Held at Usfan

Imam Ahmad related that Ayyash said: We were with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at Usfan and we were arrayed against the disbelievers led by Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed. The enemy straddled us from the direction of the Qiblah. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, led us in Salat Zuhr. The Kuffar said: "We suffered from negligence; we became careless. We should have attacked them while they were praying. It is more beloved to them than their children and their lives." Thereupon, Jibraeel descended with this Verse: "When you (O Messenger Muhammad) are among them, and lead them in As-Salat (the prayer)..." (Soorah An-Nisa' 4:102)

When the time of the afternoon prayer came, the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him, stood facing the Qiblah, and the disbelievers were standing in front of him. The people stood in a row behind him and there was another row behind this row. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, bowed and all of them bowed. He then prostrated and also the row near him prostrated. The other people in the second row remained standing and stood guard over them. When they performed two prostrations and stood up, those who were behind them prostrated. The people in the front row near him then stepped backward taking the place of the people in the second row and the second row took the place of the first row.

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then bowed and all of them bowed together. Then he and the row near him prostrated themselves. The other people in the second row remained standing and stood guard over them. When the Messenger of Allah and the row near him (i.e. the front row) were seated, the people in the second row behind them prostrated themselves. Then all of them were seated. The Prophet then uttered the salutation upon all of them. He prayed in his manner at Usfan as well as at the territory of Banu Sulaim.”

Jabir narrated: We partook in a military expedition with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, against the people of Juhainah. A ferocious battle ensued. When it was time for Zuhr, the polytheists said: “If we had attacked them (during their prayer), we would have decimated them.” Whereupon Jibraeel informed the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of that and he intun said to us: “They (the Kuffar) say, the time of Salat will soon come which is more beloved to them than their children'.”

Imam Ahmad related from Abu Hurairah that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, disembarked between Dajnan and Usfan and the polytheists said: “These people have a prayer (which they offer) that is much more beloved to them than their children and their virgin women – and that is – the ‘Asr Prayer. Mobilize yourselves and let’s attack them in unison.” Then Jibraeel came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and ordered him to divide his Companions into two groups and that he should pray leading the first group while the other stands behind to guard with their weapons. Then the other group would also come to pray with him while the first group would also stand guard with their weapons so that the two groups would pray one Rak‘ah each with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the Prophet will offer two Rak‘ahs.”

I say: “If Abu Hurairah witnessed this incident, then it occurred after Khaibar, otherwise the narration would be one of the mursals of the Companions and there is no harm about that in the view of the majority of scholars. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

However, whether the Ghazwat of Usfan occurred before or after Khandaq is still a controversial issue. Some scholars, among whom is Ash-Shafi'i, claim that the "Fear Prayer" was legislated after the Battle of Khandaq. On that day, they had delayed the prayer beyond its appointed time due to the excuse of fighting. Had the "Fear Prayer" been legislated at the time, they would have offered it and they would not have delayed the prayer beyond its appointed time. This is why some of the military historians argue that the Ghazwat of Banu Lihyan, during which the "Fear Prayer" was offered at Usfaan, occurred after the expedition of Banu Quraizah.

The Expedition of Dhatur-Riqā'

Ibn Ishaq related: After the invasion of Banu Nadeer, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, remained in Madinah for the month of Rabee' ul-Akhir and some part of Jumada. Then he invaded Najd to checkmate the two tribes of Muharib and Banu Tha'labah of Ghatafan. He appointed Abu Dharr to look after the affairs of Madinah and, according to Ibn Hisham, it was 'Uthman Ibn Affan who was appointed. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, advanced till he reached Nakhil. The expedition was known as the expedition of Dhatur-Riqā'. Ibn Hisham said that it was called so because their flag became tattered in the battle. It is also said that the name Dhatur-Riqā' belonged to a tree located at the scene.

Ibn Ishaq said: They confronted a host of Ghatafan (warriors) and they came close to fighting but it was averted because there was mutual fear between the two forces such that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, led the Companions in the "Fear Prayer."

Ibn Hisham had traced the chain of the Hadith of the "Fear Prayer" from 'Abdul-Warith Ibn Sa'eed AtTannoori from Yoonus Ibn 'Ubaid from Al-Hasan from Jabir Ibn 'Abdullah and the second chain is through 'Abdul-Warith from Ayyoob from Abu Az-Zubair from Jabir. The third chain is through 'AbdulWarith from Ayyoob from Nafi' from Ibn 'Umar. However, in all of these chains, neither Ghazwat of Najd nor that of Dhatur-Riqā' was mentioned. Nevertheless, there is no contradiction in the timing and place of the two.

The fact of the expedition of Dhatūr-Riqā‘, which took place in Najd against Banu Muḥarib and Banu Tha‘labah of the Ghatafan, occurring before the Battle of Khandaq is disputable. Al-Bukhari argues that it occurred after Khaibar drawing the evidence for it from the fact that Abu Moosa Al-Ash‘ari witnessed it, as shall be pointed out soon. Meanwhile, his arrival was in the nights of Khaibar in the company of Ja‘afar and his companions. The same is also true of Abu Hurairah and he has narrated: “I offered the 'Fear Prayer' with the Messenger of Allah in the expedition of Najd.” That which also indicates that it came after the Battle of Khandaq is that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, permitted Ibn ‘Umar to participate in fighting for the first time in the Battle of Khandaq, it is recorded in the Saheeh that he said: “I partook in the military expedition with the Messenger in the direction of Najd,” and he mentioned the "Fear Prayer."

The Story of Gawrath Ibn Al-Harith

Jabir related that a man from Banu Muḥarib called Gawrath said to his people from the Ghatafan and Muḥarib: “Shouldn’t I kill Muhammad for you?” They responded: “Yes. And how are you going to accomplish that?” He said: “I shall assassinate him.” Then he approached the Prophet while he was sitting and the Messenger of Allah’s sword was in his lap. So he said: “Muhammad, may I look at this sword of yours?” and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied: “Yes.” He took the sword, unsheathed it and began to brandish it and Allah restrained him. He said: “Muhammad, aren’t you afraid of me?” “No, I do not entertain any fear of you,” the Prophet said. The man insisted: “You are not afraid of me while there is a sword in my hand?” Again the Prophet responded calmly: “No, Allah will protect me from your harm.” Then he sheathed the sword and returned it to him and Allah revealed: O you who believe! Remember the Favor of Allah unto you when some people desired (made a plan) to stretch out their hands against you, but (Allah) withheld their hands from you. So fear Allah. And in Allah let Believers put their trust. (Soorah Al-Ma’idah 5:11)

Jabir narrated that he took part in the expedition of Najd along with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and when the time for the afternoon rest approached he was in a valley with plenty of thorny trees; he dismounted under a tree and rested in its shade and hung his sword (on it). The people dispersed amongst the trees seeking shade. While we were in this state, Allah's Messenger called us and we came and found a Bedouin sitting in front of him. The Prophet said, "This (Bedouin) came to me while I was asleep, and he took my sword stealthily. I woke up while he was standing by my head, holding my sword without its sheath. He said, 'Who will save you from me?' I replied, 'Allah.' So he sheathed it (i.e. the sword) and sat down, and here he is." But Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not punish him in spite of what he had done.

The Story of the One Whose Wife Was Killed in the Expedition

Jabir Ibn Abdullah narrated: We proceeded in the company of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, for the Battle of Dhatur-Riqa'. One of the Muslims killed the wife of one of the disbelievers. He (the husband of the woman killed) took an oath saying: I shall not rest until I draw blood from one of the Companions of Muhammad.

He went out following the footsteps of the Prophet. The Prophet encamped at a certain place. He said: "Who will keep watch on us?" A person from the Muhajiroon (Emigrants) and another from the Ansar (Helpers) volunteered. He said: "Go to the mouth of the mountain pass." volunteers were 'Ammar Ibn Yasir and 'Abbad Ibn Bishr. When they went to the mouth of the mountain pass the man from the Ansar asked the man from the Muhajiroon: "Which section of the night do you wish that I stand guard while you lie down, the first part or the last?" The Muhajiroon said: "Stand guard in the first part." So, the Muhajiroon lay down to sleep while the man from the Ansar stood praying.

The man (enemy) came to them. When he saw the person he realized that he was the watchman of the Muslims. He shot him with an arrow and hit the target. But the Ansari took the arrow out and threw it away and remained standing (in prayer). He (the enemy) then shot a second arrow and then a third one, hitting the target on each occasion. Each time, the Ansari would remove the arrow and throw it away while still standing in prayer. Then he (the Ansari) bowed and prostrated and awoke his companion. When he (the enemy) perceived that they (the Muslims) had become aware of his presence, he ran away.

When the man from the Muhajiroon saw the man from the Ansar bleeding, he exclaimed: “Subhan-Allah (Glory be to Allah)! Why did you not wake me up the first time when he shot at you?” He replied: I was busy reciting a chapter of the Qur’an and I did not like to break it till I complete it. When he shot at me repeatedly I bowed and stirred you. I swear by Allah, had I not feared that I would be neglectful of the duty post which Allah’s Messenger commanded me to man, my life would have been terminated before I break its recitation or I succeed in completing it.” This is how Ibn Ishaq has related it in Al-Maghazi and Abu Dawood had related it from Abu Tawbah from Ibn Al-Mubarak from Ibn Ishaq.

The Story of Jabir’s Camel During This Expedition

Jabir Ibn Abdullah narrated: I went out with Allah’s Messenger to the expedition of Dhatur-Riqa‘ of Nakhil riding my slow and exhausted camel. On our return journey, the army preceded while I lagged behind. The Prophet came up to me and said, “O Jabir.” I replied, “Yes?” He said, “What is the matter with you?” I replied, “My camel is slow and tired, so I am left behind.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Make it kneel.” I did so and the Prophet also did so (with his own camel). Then he said: “Give me the stick in your hand (or break a branch from a tree for me).” I did as he ordered. So, he got down and poked the camel with this stick several times and then ordered me to ride. I rode the camel and it became so fast.

While I was discussing with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he asked me: “Will you sell your camel to me, O Jabir?” I said: “I will rather give it to you as gift.” “No, I will pay its worth.” The Prophet insisted. “Then make an offer,” I said. The Messenger of Allah said: “I have taken it for a dirham.” I said: “No.” The Prophet bargained further: “Then for two dirhams,” “No,” I insisted. The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, kept jerking up the price till he offered one uqiyyah (of gold).” “Have you been pleased, O Messenger of Allah?” He said: “Yes.” “Then it is yours,” I said. The Prophet then said: “I have taken it.”

In the course of our discussion, he asked me: “Have you got married?” I replied in the affirmative. He asked, “A virgin or a matron?” I replied, “I married a matron.” The Prophet said, “Why have you not married a virgin, so that you may play with her and she may play with you?” Jabir responded, “O Messenger of Allah, my father had been martyred in the Battle of Uhud and left for me seven sisters (young in age) so I liked to marry a matron who could collect them all and comb their hair and look after them.” The Prophet said, “You will attain by Allah’s leave. When we reached Sirar, we will order camels to be slaughtered, spend the day there so that when she (Jabir’s wife) hear of our return and she will dust her cushion.” I said: “We do not have a cushion.” He replied: “You will have. When you arrive, I advise you associate with your wife (that you may have an intelligent son).” When we arrived at Sirar, the Messenger did as he said. He ordered that camels be slaughtered and we stayed for the day there.

At night fall, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered Madinah and we entered with him. I related to the woman about the events including all that Allah’s Messenger said to me. She said: “Please listen and obey (the Prophet).” In the morning, I took hold of the camel and headed to him till I tethered it by the entrance of the Messenger of Allah’s house, then I sat in the mosque nearby. When the Messenger came out and saw the camel he said: “What is this?” They said: “Jabir brought this camel.” “So where is Jabir?” the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked. I was called by him and when I came, he said, “O son of my brother, take hold of your camel for it is yours.” Then he called Bilal and said to him: “Go with Jabir and weigh for him one uqiyyah (of gold).” So I went with him and Bilal weighed for me one uqiyyah and added a little more for me. He added: “It never ceased to increase (in its blessing) in my possession till it was taken on the Day of Harrah. Something similar has been related in the Saheeh from Jabir.

The Second Expedition of Badr

It is the Badr by appointment [a meeting] which was promised the Battle of Uhud. Ibn Ishaq said: when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to Madinah from the expedition of Dhatur-Riqah, he remained there for the remainder of Jumada Al-Oola, Jumaad

Al-Aakhir and Rajab. Then he set out in Sha‘ban to Badr for the appointment set by Abu Sufyan. Ibn Hisham related: “And he appointed ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy Ibn Salool over Madinah in his absence.”

Ibn Ishaq added: The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, encamped at Badr and remained there for eight days waiting for Abu Sufyan. Meanwhile, Abu Sufyan also marched out with the forces of Makkah till they reached Majannah in the direction of Az-Zahran. Some people said that he reached Usfan. Then he began to feel reluctant and consider returning home. He said to his men: “O tribe of Quraish! Nothing will improve the condition you are in but a fruitful year — a year during which your animals feed on plants and bushes and give you milk to drink. And I see that this is a rainless year, therefore I am returning now and I recommend you to return with me.” Then they all returned after becoming crestfallen.

The people of Makkah nicknamed this army "the army of As-Saweeq" taunting that they marched forth only to drink As-Saweeq.

Then, Makhshi Ibn Amr Ad-Damri came and he had entered into a pact with the Prophet at the Battle of Waddan on behalf of Banu Damrah. He said: “O Muhammad, have you come here this water to confront the Quraish?” The Prophet replied: “Yes, O brother of Banu Damrah.” If you wish we shall repudiate the pact between us both so that we may both fight till Allah decides between us both.” He said: “No, by Allah, we do not have any need for that.” Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to Madinah without a fight.

Aggregate Events that Occurred in the Fourth Year of Hijrah

Ibn Jareer narrated: In Jumada Al-Oola of the same year, ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Uthman Ibn Affan died, i.e. the son of Ruqayyah, the daughter of Allah’s Messenger, may Allah be pleased with him. The boy died at the age of six and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, offered the funeral prayer on him and his father, ‘Uthman, descended into his grave (to by his corpse for burial).

The same year, Abu Salamah ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abdul-Asad Ibn Hilal Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Makhzoom Al-Qurashi Al-Makhzoomi died. His mother was Barrah Bint ‘Abdul-Muttalib, the aunt of Allah’s Messenger. Abu Salamah was a foster-brother to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, as they both suckled from Thuwaibah, the freed slave of Abu Lahab.

Ibn Jareer related: Few nights to the close of the month of Sha‘ban, Al-Hasan Ibn ‘Ali was born to Fatimah, the daughter of Allah’s Messenger. The narrator also said that in the month of Ramadan of the same year, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married Zainab Bint Khuzaimah Ibn Al-Harith.

Al-Waqidi said that in the month of Shawwal of the same year, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married Umm Salamah Bint Abi Umayyah.

I say: Prior to marrying the Prophet, Umm Salamah was with the father of her children, Abu Salamah Ibn ‘Abdul-Asad who had witnessed Badr and Uhud as pointed out earlier.

Umm Salamah narrated: One day, Abu Salamah returned to me from the presence of Allah’s Messenger and said: I heard Allah’s Messenger say that “No misfortune will befall a Muslim if he says at the time of that misfortune, as Allah has ordered, ‘Inna lillahi wa inna ilaihi raji‘oon. Allahumma jurni fi museebati, wakhluḥ li khairan minha’ (To Allah we belong and to Him we are returning. O Allah, reward me in my misfortune and give me better than it afterwards) except that Allah will do that for him.”

Umm Salamah continued: “I memorized that statement from him. So, when Abu Salamah died, I said the statement to myself: “Where can I find someone better than Abu Salamah?” After I had completed my waiting period (iddah), Allah’s Messenger sought my permission to enter. At the time, I was tanning a leather of mine. I washed my hands from the leaves (with which I was tanning), then I gave him permission. I spread out for him a leather cushion filled with fiber and he sat on it. He sought my hand in marriage. When he concluded his speech, I said to him: “O Allah’s Messenger, who am I not to have a desire to marry you but I am an extremely jealous woman, thus, I am scared that you will find in me something for which Allah might punish me. I am also a woman who has gathered some ages and I also have dependants.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, responded: “As for what you mentioned concerning your jealousy, Allah will cure you of it. As for the age which you have gathered, a similar thing has happened to me too. With regard to the dependants, whom you mentioned, your dependants are my dependants as well.” Umm Salamah then said: “I have submitted myself to Allah’s Messenger.” She then added: “Allah has certainly replaced for me someone better than Abu Salamah – Allah’s Messenger.”

The Fifth Year of Hijrah, the Expedition of Dawmatul-Jandal in Rabee‘ ulAwwal

Ibn Ishaq related: Afterwards, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, invaded Dawmatul-Jandal. Ibn Hisham said: It occurred in Rabee‘ ul-Awwal in the fifth year of Hijrah and he appointed Siba‘ Ibn ‘Urfutah Al-Ghifari over Madinah.

Muhammad Ibn ‘Umar Al-Waqidi has related it with his chain of narrations from his teachers from a number of predecessors who said: The target of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was the borders of Syria. It was also said that the invasion was to terrorize Ceasar. The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, had been informed that a large number of soldiers had encamped at Dawmatul-Jandal and were terrorizing everyone that they come across, and that a large market was located there. He was informed that they are mobilizing with the intent to invade Madinah. Thus, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, selected his men and marched out with one thousand Muslim warriors. They would advance under the cover of night and rest by day. He had a guide from the Banu Udhrah named Madhkoor. When they approached Dawmatul-Jandal, the guide informed him of the location of the pasture of Banu Tameem. They advanced till they snuck upon their cattles and shepherds. Some were killed and others scattered in different directions. When the news of the attack reached the inhabitants of Dawmatul-Jandal, they fled in all directions for their lives and evacuated their habitations. The Prophet encamped on their public square but did not find anyone. He stayed there for a few days during which he dispatched some expeditionary forces and then withdrew. Muhammad Ibn Salamah captured one of them and brought him to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. He enquired from him about the whereabouts of his companions and he disclosed that they had fled the day before. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, presented Islam to him and he accepted. Then, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to Madinah.

The Battle of Khandaq Otherwise Known as the Battle of the Confederates

The battle took place in the month of Shawwal, fifth year of Hijrah. Ibn Ishaq related that from 'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair, Qatadah, Al-Baihaqi and more than one scholar among the predecessors and the successors.

From the account of Al-Khandaq is that a group of Jews including Salam Ibn Abil-Huqaiq An-Nadari, Huyayy Ibn Akhtab An-Nadari, Kinanah Ibn Abil-Huqaiq, Hawdhah Ibn Qais Al-Wa'ili and Abu 'Ammar Al-Wa'ili were there among a group of Banu An-Nadeer and another from Banu Wa'il. These were the people who rallied the confederates against the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. They went to the Quraish in Makkah and invited them to a war against the Messenger of Allah saying: "We shall align with you till we all exterminate him." The Quraish said in response: "O Jews, you are the first of the People of the Book and you possess the knowledge of that which has stirred disagreement between us and Muhammad. Which religion is better, ours or his? You are more deserving of the truth than him." They were the ones concerning whom Allah revealed: Have you not seen those who were given a portion of the Book (the Jews), purchasing the wrong path, and wish that you should go astray from the Right Path. Allah has full knowledge of your enemies, and Allah is Sufficient as a Wali (Protector), and Allah is Sufficient as a Helper. (Soorah An-Nisa' 4:44, 45)

When they presented their proposal to the Quraish, it pleased them and they were enthusiastic about going to war with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. They mobilized and unified their ranks against him. The same group of Jews also proceeded till they reached the Ghatafan of Qais Ailan. They invited them to partake in a war against the Prophet. They also informed them that they were with them in that cause and that the Quraish were already disposed toward that. They also rallied with them on that purpose. The Quraish forces commanded by Abu Sufyan marched out. So did the army of Ghatafan commanded by seasoned commanders. Uyainah Ibn Hisn Ibn Hudhaifah Ibn Badr led the contingent of Banu Fazarah; Al-Harith Ibn 'Awf Ibn Abi Harithah Al-Murri commanded Banu Murrah contingent; Mis'ar Ibn Rukhailah Ibn Nuwairah Ibn Tareef Ibn Suhmah Ibn 'Abdullah Ibn Hilal Ibn Khulawah Ibn Ashja Ibn Raith Ibn Ghatafan also filed out leading warriors from the people of Ashja.

When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, heard of their mobilization against him, he dug a trench around Madinah. Ibn Hisham said: it is said that it was Salman who pointed him to the idea.

Ibn Ishaq related: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, also personally worked in digging the trench in order to awaken the desire of the Muslims for reward. The Muslims also worked with him and a party of the hypocrites declined to help, using the excuse of weakness. There were also those who snuck away with neither his permission nor his knowledge. Allah had revealed concerning that: The true Believers are only those, who believe in (the Oneness of) Allah and His Messenger (Muhammad), and when they are with him on some common matter, they go not away until they have asked his permission. Verily! Those who ask your permission, those are they who (really) believe in Allah and His Messenger. So if they ask your permission for some affairs of theirs, give permission to whom you will of them, and ask Allah for their forgiveness. Truly, Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful. Make not the calling of the Messenger (Muhammad) among you as your calling of one another. Allah knows those of you who slip away under shelter (of some excuse without taking the permission to leave, from the Messenger). And let those who oppose the Messenger's (Muhammad) commandment (i.e. his Sunnah legal ways, orders, acts of worship, statements, etc.) (among the sects) beware, lest some Fitnah (disbelief, trials, afflictions, earthquakes, killing, overpowered by a tyrant, etc.) befall them or a painful torment be inflicted on them. Certainly, to Allah belongs all that is in the heavens and the Earth. Surely, He knows your condition and (He knows) the Day when they will be brought back to Him, then He will inform them of what they did. And Allah is All-Knower of everything. (Soorah An-Noor 24: 62-64)

Humaid related that I heard Anas say: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went toward Khandaq (i.e. the Trench) and saw the Muhajiroon and the Ansar digging in a very cold morning as they did not have slaves to do that for them. When he noticed their fatigue and hunger he said, "O Allah! The real life is that of the Hereafter, (so please) forgive the Ansar and the Muhajiroon." In its reply the Muhajiroon and the Ansar said, "We are those who have given a pledge of allegiance to Muhammad that we will carry on Jihad as long as we live."

Al-Bukhari related that Sahl Ibn Sa'd narrated: "We were with Allah's Messenger in the Trench, some were digging the Trench while we were carrying the earth on our shoulders. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, 'O Allah! There is no life except the life of the Hereafter, so please forgive the Muhajiroon and the Ansar.'" The Hadith is also related by Muslim.

Al-Bukhari related that Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib said: "I saw Allah's Messenger on the day (of the Battle) of the Trench carrying earth till the hair on his stomach was covered with dust and he was reciting the following Verses: 'O Allah, were it not for You, We would not have been guided. Nor would we have given in charity, nor prayed. So, bestow on us calmness when we meet the enemy. Then make our feet firm, for indeed, if they want to put us in affliction, (i.e. want to fight against us) we would not (flee but withstand them).' The Prophet used to raise his voice while repeating: 'we would not (flee but withstand them)'."

Imam Ahmad related from Anas that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, while they were digging the Trench: "O Allah! There is no goodness except that of the Hereafter, so please set aright (the affairs of) the Ansar and the Muhajiroon."

Jabir narrated: We were digging (the Trench) on the day of Al-Khandaq and we came across a big solid rock. We went to the Prophet and said, “Here is a rock appearing across the trench.” He said, “I am coming down.” Then he got up, and a stone was tied to his belly for we had not eaten anything for three days. So the Prophet took the spade and struck the big solid rock and it became like sand. I said, “O Allah’s Messenger! Allow me to go home.” (When the Prophet allowed me) I said to my wife, “I saw the Prophet in a state that I cannot treat lightly. Have you got something for him to eat?” She replied, “I have barley and a she goat.” So I slaughtered the she-kid and she ground the barley; then we put the meat in the earthenware cooking pot. Then I came to the Prophet when the dough had become soft and fermented and (the meat in) the pot over the stone trivet had nearly been well-cooked, and said, “I have got a little food prepared, so get up O Allah’s Messenger, you and one or two men along with you (for the food).” The Prophet asked, “How much is that food?” I told him about it. He said, “It is abundant and good. Tell your wife not to remove the earthenware pot from the fire and not to take out any bread from the oven till I reach there.” Then he said (to all his Companions), “Get up.” So the Muhajiroon and the Ansar got up.

When I came to my wife, I said, “Allah’s Mercy be upon you! The Prophet came along with the Muhajireen and the Ansar and those who were present with them.” She said, “Did the Prophet ask you (how much food you had)?” I replied, “Yes.” Then the Prophet said, “Enter and do not cram.” The Prophet started cutting the bread (into pieces) and put the cooked meat over it. He covered the earthenware pot and the oven whenever he took something out of them. He would give the food to his Companions and take the meat out of the pot. He went on cutting the bread and scooping the meat (for his Companions) till they all ate their fill, and even then, some food remained. Then the Prophet said (to my wife), “Eat and present to others as the people are struck with hunger.” It is exclusively related by AlBukhari.

Al-Bara’ Ibn ‘Azib Al-Ansari narrated: Allah’s Messenger commanded us to dig a trench and a rock stood out at a spot in the trench which was too strong for our spade to break. So we went to complain to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, about it. He came to check it. He removed his garment and lowered down to the rock. He took the spade and struck the rock uttering “In the Name of Allah.” A third of the rock broke away. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, exclaimed: “Allah is the Greatest, the keys of Ash-Sham (Syria) have been given to me. I swear by Allah, I can see its reddish palaces at the moment from this spot.” Again, upon saying “In the Name of Allah,” he struck the rock for the second time and another one-third of the rock broke away. He again exclaimed: “Allah is Greatest, the keys of Persia have been given to me. I swear by Allah, I can now see the white palace of Mada’in at the moment from this spot.” For the third time, he said “in the Name of Allah,” then he struck the rock, which turned into very small pieces and he said: “Allah is Greatest, I have been given the keys of Yemen, I swear by Allah, I can see the gates of San’a while I am in my place.”

A Companion of the Prophet narrated: When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered that the Trench be dug, a rock stalled the digging. So the Prophet rose, took hold of a spade, removed his upper garment and placed it by the trench and recited: And the Word of your Lord has been fulfilled in truth and in justice. None can change His Words. And He is the All-Hearer, the All-Knower. (Soorah Al-An’am 6:115) and one-third of the rock chipped off and Salman Al-Farisi stood watching as a spark of light shone at the strike of Allah’s Messenger. Then he struck the rock for the second time while reciting the same Verse (as the first strike) and another one-third of the rock chipped off. Another spark of light came out and Salman saw it.

For the third time, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, recited: And the Word of your Lord has been fulfilled in truth and in justice. None can change His Words. And He is the All-Hearer, the All-Knower. (Soorah Al-An’am 6:115) and the remaining third of the rock broke into pieces and the Messenger climbed out of the trench, took his upper garment and sat down. Salman said: O Allah’s Messenger, I was watching you while you struck the rock and at each strike there was a spark of light.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Did you really see that, O Salman?” and Salman replied: “Yes, by Him Who sent you with the Truth, O Messenger of Allah.” The Prophet then said: “When I first struck the rock, I was shown the cities of Kisra (Chosroe) and its adjoining territories. Mada’in is a large territory till I saw it with my eyes.” His Companions who were with him asked: “O Messenger of Allah, supplicate that Allah makes us conquer it, take its descendants as booty and lay waste to their land at our hands.” The Prophet supplicated for that.

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, continued: “Then I struck it for the second time and I was shown the cities of Kisra (Caesar) and its adjoining territories till I saw it with my own eyes.” Again, the Companions requested: “O Messenger of Allah, supplicate that Allah make us conquer it, take its inhabitants as booty and lay waste their land at our hands.” The Prophet also supplicated for that. “Then I struck it for the third time and I was shown the cities of Abyssinia and its adjoining villages till I saw it with my own eyes.” Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Let the Abyssinians be as long as they let you be. Leave the Turks as long as they leave you.”

Imam Ahmad related from Abu Hurairah that Allah’s Messenger, peace be upon him, said: “I have been aided with awe and I have been blessed with succinct words with deep meanings and the entire Earth has been made a place of prayer and purification for me. While I was sleeping, the keys of the Earth’s treasures were brought to me and placed in my hand.”

It is recorded in the Saheehain that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “When Chosroe (the king of Persia) dies, there will be no Chosroe after him. And when Caesar (the king of Rome) dies, there will be no Caesar after him. By the One in Whose Hands is my life, you will spend their treasures in the cause of Allah.”

In another authentic Hadith, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Allah displayed the Earth for me – the East and the West and the authority of my Ummah shall extend to what has been displayed to me.”

Ibn Ishaq related that when the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, completed the digging of the Trench, the Quraish came and encamped in the vicinity of Madinah in a place called Al-Asyal with warriors numbering ten thousand from a hotchpotch of tribes and those who followed them from Banu Kinanah and the people of Tihamah.

The Ghatafan also came with their allies from the people of Najd till they encamped at Dhanab Naqama close to Uhud.

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, also came out with the Muslims numbering three thousand. They entrenched themselves in Sala' Mountain with the Trench standing as a barrier between them and the disbelievers. The Prophet ordered that the children and women be taken to rooftops. Ibn Hisham said: The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, appointed Ibn Umm Maktoom over Madinah in his absence. This is the import of Allah's statement: When they came upon you from above you and from below you, and when the eyes grew wild and the hearts reached to the throats, and you were harboring doubts about Allah. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:10)

'A'ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, said concerning the Verse: When they came upon you from above you and from below you, and when the eyes grew wild and the hearts reached to the throats, and you were harboring doubts about Allah (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:10), that it was on the Day of the Trench.

Ibn Ishaq related that Huyayy Ibn Akhtab An-Nadari approached Ka'b Ibn Asad Al-Qurazi, their chief and the most influential person. When Ka'b learned of his coming, he locked the gate of his fortress against Huyayy. Huyayy sought his permission to enter but he refused to open the gate for him. Huyayy called out: "Woe to you, O Ka'b, opened the gate for me!" Ka'b responded: "Woe to you too, O Huyayy, you portend bad omen. I have entered into a pact with Muhammad and I am not going to repudiate the pact between me and him. Leave me as I am for I have always found him loyal and truthful." Huyayy persisted: "Woe to you, open the gate for me so that I may have words with you." "I will not!" Ka'b insisted. "By Allah, you locked your gate against me only because of your Jasheeshah which you fear that I will eat with you." The man became enraged and threw the gate opened for him. When he had entered, Huyayy said: "Woe to you, O Ka'b, I have come to present to you perpetual honor and numerous hosts." "What is that?" Ka'b asked. "I have come to you with the Quraish and its commander and chief and they have encamped at Al-Asyal and the Ghatafan are also encamped by Mount Uhud with its commander and chief. They have agreed not to withdraw until they exterminate Muhammad and his followers.” Ka‘b said: “By Allah, you have come to me with a perpetual ignominy.”

Ibn Ishaq said: Huyayy did not cease to cajole Ka‘b till he eventually managed to win him to his side and persuaded him to break his covenant with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and enter into war alongside the confederates.

Ibn Ishaq said: When the news of the intrigue to break the covenant reached the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he dispatched Sa‘d Ibn Mu‘adh, who was at the time the leader of Aws, Sa‘d Ibn ‘Ubadah, who was at the time the leader of the Khazraj, along with ‘Abdullah Ibn Rawahah and Khawwat Ibn Jubair, to the Banu Quraizah on the Day of Ahzab. He gave them clear instruction: “Proceed to these people and find out whether the news reaching us from them is true or not. If it is true give me an encrypted message which I can understand and do not puncture the Muslims' confidence. If they, however, still conform to their pact with us, declare it publicly to the people.” The emissaries thus proceeded to meet them.

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah related: The emissaries entered the fort of the Banu Qaraizah and invited them to an accord and a renewal of the alignment. They responded: “Our wing has been broken and they were expelled.” By that they meant Banu Nadeer. They also poured vituperations against the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

Ibn Ishaq related that they spoke disparagingly against the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saying: “Who is the Messenger of Allah? We do not have any pact or covenant with Muhammad.” Sa‘d Ibn Mu‘adh reviled them and they answered him in a similar manner. He was a man with some fury in him. Sa‘d Ibn ‘Ubadah said to him: “Stop insulting them for the matter between us and them is far more serious than insulting them.” The two Sa‘ds withdrew together with their compatriots and returned to the Prophet. When they got to him, they said the salam on him and said: “It is like the treachery of Adal and Al-Qarah toward the people of Ar-Rajee, Khubaib and his companions.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Allah is Greatest! O Muslims have glad tidings.”

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah narrated: Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, covered his head with his cloth when the news was brought to him and laid down for a long time. The situation became grave and a sense of fear prevailed when they saw him lying down. It became clear to them that what came from Banu Quraizah was not good at all. Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, raised his head and said: “Have glad tidings of Allah’s victory and help.” The following morning, the enemies started coming one after the other. They were repelled by showers of arrows and stones. Sa‘eed Ibn Musayyab related: Allah’s Messenger, peace be upon him, supplicated: “O Allah, I ask You (to fulfill) Your covenant and promise. O Allah, if You wish (that the Muslims be destroyed) You will not be worshipped.”

Ibn Ishaq related that the situation became aggravated, and palpable fear enveloped the Muslims. The enemy inundated them from above and below them till the Believers began to entertain misgivings in their hearts. Hypocrisy became rife to such an extent that Mu‘attib Ibn Qushair from Banu ‘Amr Ibn ‘Awf said: “Muhammad used to give us hope that we would obtain the treasures of Persians and Romans and now none of us feels safe even going to the lavatory.” Aws Ibn Qaizi also said to the Prophet: “O Messenger of Allah, our houses are vulnerable to the enemies so permit us to go back to our houses for it is outside of Madinah.”

I say: These people and their likes are the subjects of the statement of Allah: And when the hypocrites and those in whose hearts is a disease (of doubts) said: “Allah and His Messenger promised us nothing but delusions!” And when a party of them said: “O people of Yathrib (Al-Madinah)! There is no stand (possible) for you (against the enemy attack)! Therefore go back!” And a band of them ask for permission of the Prophet saying: “Truly, our homes lie open (to the enemy).” And they lay not open. They but wished to flee. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:12,13)

When the situation became worse on the people, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, according to what was related to me, sent ‘Asim Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Qatadah and others to Uyainah Ibn Hisn and Al-Harith Ibn Awf Al-Murri, both of whom were the commanders of Ghatafan, offering them a third of Madinah’s fruit crops on condition that they withdraw with their forces from fighting against the Messenger of Allah and his Companions. There was a flurry of correspondences and an unwitnessed agreement was written which yielded no firm results. When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, wanted to carry out the proposal to the Ghatafan, he sent for the two Sa'ds (namely, Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh and Sa'd Ibn 'Ubadah) and sought their advice. They replied as follows: "Messenger of Allah! Is this course of action which you have preferred from Allah's Injunction such that we do not have a choice but to obey or is it a new course you want to follow just to provide security for us?" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied: "It is a course of action which I have devised to provide your security after all the 'Arabs have shot at you from one bow, i.e. they have united to annihilate you (Muslims) and they have hemmed you in from all directions." Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh said to him: "We have experienced these people while we were both on polytheism and idolatry not worshipping Allah and not having any knowledge of Him. We can safely say that they don't need the fruit of our orchards, they will rather aim at exterminating us completely. Is it now that Allah has honored us with Islam, guided us to Him and ennobled us with your presence that we should now turn over our wealth to them? We do not have any need for this. By Allah we should give them nothing except our unsheathed swords (i.e. fighting) till Allah decides between us and them."

Ibn Ishaq related that the Prophet and his Companions remained under siege but there was no serious confrontation between them and their enemies. Meanwhile, 'Amr Ibn 'Abd Wudd had fought in the Battle of Badr and he had sustained injuries which prevented him from partaking in the Battle of Uhud. Thus, at the Battle of Khandaq, he marched forth intending to make a mark of his distinguished position as a seasoned warrior. When he and his Calvary halted, he challenged anyone to a duel. "Who will take up my challenge?" he said arrogantly. 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib stepped out to take up the challenge. When he got to him, 'Ali said to him: "O 'Amr, remember you used to swear by Allah that no Quraishi will invite you to one of two alternatives except that you will choose one." 'Amr replied: "Yes, that is correct." Then 'Ali said: "Then I am inviting you to Allah, His Messenger and to Islam." 'Amr said: "I am in no need of that." Then 'Ali said: "Then I am inviting you to a combat." "Why, my nephew? By Allah I do not wish to kill you." 'Amr said. 'Ali responded calmly, "As for me, I swear by Allah, I love to kill you." This affront enraged ‘Amr. He hopped down from his horse, hamstrung it and hit its face, then he approached ‘Ali menacingly. A fierce duel ensued and ‘Ali succeeded in killing him. May Allah be pleased with ‘Ali.

Then ‘Ali withdrew toward the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, his face radiating with happiness. ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said to him: “Why did you not dispossess him of his armor; no ‘Arab has better armor than his.” ‘Ali said: “I broke it and his nakedness became exposed to me so I became shy of stripping him.” Seeing their man fall, his Calvary beat a quick retreat across the Trench.

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah related that the disbelievers inundated the Muslims till they were besieged in a fort like situation. The blockade lingered for close to twenty nights. The Muslims were attacked from all sides till a man would not know whether he completed his prayer or not. Detachments of the enemy forces made forays across the Trench. A large detachment headed in the direction of the Prophet’s residence. The Muslims fought them throughout the day till nightfall. When the ‘Asr prayer was due, the enemy detachment advanced and the Prophet and all of his Companions with him were unable to offer the Salat as they would like to. Eventually, the enemy detachment retreated by nightfall. Some claim that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “They (the enemy) have diverted us from the middle prayer till the sunset. May Allah fill their graves and their houses with fire, or their graves and stomachs with fire.”

The tribulation became extremely precarious, hypocrisy became rife and disgusting statements were uttered. When the Messenger of Allah saw the people’s anguish and tribulation, he kept giving them good tidings, saying: “By Him in Whose Hands is my soul, the severity of the situation which you are experiencing right now will soon be relieved. I strongly hope that I will circumambulate the Ancient House (Baitul-Ateeq) in security and the keys of the Ka‘bah shall be delivered to me. Allah shall annihilate Kisra and Qaisar and you will spend their treasures in the path of Allah.”

‘Ali narrated that the Prophet said, on the Day of Khandaq: “O Allah! Fill their (i.e. the polytheists’) houses and graves with fire as they busied us so much that we did not perform the prayer (i.e. ‘Asr) till the sunset.”

Al-Bukhari related from Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah that on the day of Khandaq, ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab came after the sun had set, cursing the disbelievers of Quraish and saying, “O Allah’s Messenger! I have not offered the ‘Asr prayer and the sun has set.” The Prophet replied, “By Allah! I too, have not offered the prayer yet.” The Prophet then went to Buthan, performed ablution and performed the ‘Asr prayer after the sun had set and then offered the Maghreb prayer after it.”

A section of scholars has used this Hadith as evidence that the Salatal-Wusta (the middle prayer) is the ‘Asr prayer as is related from him in this Hadith. Al-Qadi and Al-Mawardi have held on to Ash-Shafi’i’s position due to the authenticity of this Hadith.

We have composed that by way of transmission and deduction while explaining the words of Allah: Guard strictly (five obligatory) As-Salawat (the prayers) especially the middle Salat (i.e. the best prayer - ‘Asr). And stand before Allah with obedience and do not speak to others during the Salat (prayers.)

A section of scholars has adduced this as evidence for the permissibility of delaying the Salat due to the excuse of fighting (in war) as opinionated by Makhool and Al-Awza’i. Al-Bukhari has a chapter heading on that and adduced this Hadith as evidence and the Messenger of Allah’s statement on the day he commanded them to advanced to Banu Quraizah as shall be discussed shortly.

The Prophet said, “None of you (Muslims) should offer the ‘Asr prayer but at Banu Quraizah’s place.” When the ‘Asr prayer became due, some of them offered it on the way. Some of them did not offer it till they got to Banu Quraizah after the sun had gone down and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not berate any one of the two groups. They also advanced as argument what is reported from the Companions and those with them during the siege of Tustar in the year 20 A.H. during the time of ‘Umar when they offered the Fajr (early morning) prayer after the sun had risen due to the excuse of fighting and the conquest of the fortress was at hand.

Other scholars, who incidentally are in the majority, among whom was Ash-Shafi'i, however, argued that this act on the day of Khandaq has been abrogated with the legislation of the "Fear Prayer" afterward. Meanwhile, it was not legislated prior to that. This is the reason why they delayed the prayer on that day. This is, however, doubtful. Ibn Ishaq and a group of scholars hold the opinion that the Prophet offered the "Fear Prayer" at Usfan and Ibn Ishaq, who is a leader in military history, has situated it in his narration before the Battle of Khandaq as well as Dhatur-Riqā' which he also situated before Khandaq. And Allah knows best.

As for those who said that the delaying of the Salat on the day of Khandaq was as a result of forgetfulness as related by some commentators on (Saheeh) Muslim. This is also doubtful. The probability of that happening is remote considering their extreme concern for observing Salat. This is coupled with the fact that it has been reported that they were not able to offer the Zuhr, 'Asr and Maghreb prayers on that day till they combined them all at the time of Isha'.

Imam Ahmad related from 'Abdur-Rahman Ibn Abi Sa'eed Al-Khudri from his father who said: We were bogged down on the day of Khandaq till a part of the night had gone and we were sufficed, as indicated by the statement of Allah: And Allah drove back those who disbelieved in their rage, they gained no advantage (booty, etc.). Allah sufficed for the believers in the fighting (by sending against the disbelievers a severe wind and troops of angels). And Allah is Ever All-Strong, Almighty. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:25)

The Messenger of Allah called Bilal and ordered him to announce the Adhan and then he made the Iqamah and the Prophet offered the Zuhr prayer as he would do at its proper time. He offered the 'Asr prayer in a similar manner. He also offered the Maghreb and Isha' as he would offer them in their actual times. This occurred before the revelation of the "Fear Prayer" as stated by Al-Hajjaj: And if you fear (an enemy), perform Salat on foot or riding. And when you are in safety, offer the Salat in the manner

He has taught you, which you knew not (before). (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:239)

The Prophet's Du'a against the confederates and how Allah dealt with them by His Wisdom and Power

Thus Allah cast terror into their hearts; then sent against them tornadoes which convulsed them.

It is recorded in the Saheehain from 'Abdullah Ibn Abi Awfa that Allah's Messenger supplicated against the Ahzab thus: "O Allah! The Revealer of the Book, the Swift-Taker of Accounts, defeat the Ahzab (the Confederates). O Allah, defeat them and convulse them." In another version, he said: "O Allah, defeat them and grant us victory over them."

Al-Bukhari related from Abu Hurairah that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, used to supplicate thus: "La ilaha ill-Allah Wahdahu', A'azza jundahu, wa nasara abdahu wa galabal-azab wahdahu, fa la shay'a ba'dahu." (None has the right to be worshipped except Allah, Alone, (Who) honored His warriors and made His slave victorious, and He, Alone, defeated the confederates; so there is nothing after Him).

Nu'aim Ibn Mas'ood came to Allah's Messenger, peace be upon him, and said: "O Messenger of Allah, I have accepted Islam without the knowledge of my people, so you may command me with whatever you wish." The Prophet said: "You are only one man amongst us, so go and incite distrust among the enemies toward them off us for war is a stratagem."

Then Nu'aim approached Banu Quraizah with whom he had some comradeship during the Jahiliyyah. He said to them: "O Banu Quraizah, you are aware of my sympathy for you and the special relation existing between me and you." They acknowledged that they did not feel suspicious toward him. Then Nu'aim said to them: "The Quraish and the Ghatafan are not in a similar situation as you. The town is yours which comprises your properties, children and wives and you cannot abandon them and go somewhere else. The Quraish and Ghatafan are here to fight Muhammad and his Companions. You are supporting them against him while their own town, women and properties are not here, so they are different from you. If they find an opportunity, they will avail themselves of it but if the situation goes bad, they will return to their own land and abandon you to confront the man whom you will not be able to withstand. Do not partake in the war till you take some of their noblemen as mortgage. Let them be in your possession as measure of assurance for you and on condition that you all fight against Muhammad to a logical conclusion.” Quite impressed by the suggestion, they said: “You have indeed directed us to an intelligent suggestion.”

Thereafter, Nu‘aim proceeded to the Quraish and said to Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb and his company from the Quraish: “You are aware of my sympathy for you and my estrangement from Muhammad. I am privy to a conspiracy of which I see as rightful for me to inform you as a precaution but keep this as a secret.” After giving him the assurance of secrecy, Nu‘aim then said: “The Jews have become regretful of what they have committed between them and Muhammad. In fact, they have sent a message saying: ‘We deeply regret our action. However, will it please you that we deliver the leaders of the Quraish and Ghatafan to you so that you may chop off their necks and then we shall align with you to finish the remainder of them?’ And he (Muhammad) had sent back a word in appreciation of that. So, if the Jews request you for some of your noblemen as mortgages, do not grant them even a single person.”

Then Nu‘aim proceeded to the Ghatafan and said to them, “O people of Ghatafan, you are of my roots, my family and the most beloved people to me so I do not feel that you are suspicious of me.” When they acknowledged their trust in him, he then requested that they be secretive about the information he intend to grant them. After they had given him their words, he told them similar to what he told the Quraish and urged them to take precaution as the Quraish.

On the night of a Saturday in the month of Shawwal, 5th year of Hijrah, from Allah’s favor to His Messenger was that Abu Sufyan and some chiefs of the Ghatafan sent ‘Ikrimah Ibn Abi Jahl among other individuals from the Quraish and the Ghatafan charging them with the message that: “We cannot stay here forever. The infantry and Calvary are bogged down. So be prepared to fight along with us till we finish off Muhammad and what is between us and him is settled once and for all.” Banu Quraizah also sent a message back, saying: “Today is Saturday which coincides with a day we do not do anything. Some of us have violated this sacred day in the past and the consequence of their action is not hidden from you. Moreover, we will not partake in fighting against Muhammad until you give us some of your men as mortgage, which shall be an assurance for us till we fight and uproot Muhammad. We fear that if you begin the war and there is a negative turn of event, you will then run back to your land and abandon us to face the man all alone; something we will be unable to bear.”

When the emissaries returned with the message of Banu Quraizah, the Quraish said: “By Allah, what Nu‘aim Ibn Mas‘ood said is true.” So they sent back words, saying: “We shall not release to you a single person from us, if you really wish to fight, then come out and fight.” When this latest message reached them, they said: “What Nu‘aim had informed you of is true. They merely wish to fight if they find an opportunity but if the situation goes bad, they will return to their own land and abandon you to confront the man in your own land all alone.” So they sent back a message to the Quraish and the Ghatafan: “We shall not fight along with you till you give us a pawn.” They were refused and Allah drove a wedge between them. Thereafter, He sent against them tornadoes on a wintry and extremely cold night which kept overturning their cooking pots and sending their chattels in disarray.

It has been narrated by Ibrahim At-Taimi on the authority of his father who said: We were sitting in the company of Hudhaifah. A man said, if I were in the time of the Messenger of Allah, I would have fought by his side and would have striven hard for his causes. Hudhaifah said: You might have done that, (but you should not make a flourish of your enthusiasm). I was with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the night of the Battle of Ahzab and we were gripped by a violent wind and severe cold. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Hearken! The man who (goes reconnoitering and) brings me news of the enemy shall be ranked with me on the Day of Judgment by Allah (the Glorious and Exalted).” We all kept quiet and none of us responded to him. (Again) he said: “Hearken! The man who (goes reconnoitering and) brings me news of the enemy shall be ranked with me on the Day of Judgment by Allah (the Glorious and Exalted).” Again, we kept quiet and none of us responded to him. He again said: “Hearken! The man who (goes reconnoitering and) brings me news of the enemy shall be ranked with me on the Day of Judgment by Allah (the Glorious and Exalted).” Then he said: “Get up Hudhaifah, bring me news of the enemy.” When he called me by name I had no alternative but to get up. He said: “Go and bring me information about the enemy, and do nothing that may provoke them against me.” When I left him, I felt warm as if I were walking in a heated bath until I reached them. I saw Abu Sufyan warming his back against fire. I put an arrow in the middle of the bow intending to shoot at him, when I recalled the words of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, “Do not provoke them against me.” Had I shot at him, I would have hit him. But I returned and (felt warm as if) I were walking in a heated bath (hammam). Presenting myself before him, I gave him information about the enemy. When I did so, I began to feel cold, so the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, wrapped me in a blanket that he had in excess to his own requirement and with which he used to cover himself while saying his prayers. So I continued to sleep until it was morning. When it was morning he said: “Get up, O heavy sleeper.”

Al-Hakim and Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi related in Aad-Dala'il from ‘Abdul-Azeez, the nephew of Hudhaifah, who said: Hudhaifah related some of the battles they witnessed with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his audience said: “By Allah, had we witnessed that, we would have done such-and-such (feats of battle).” Hudhaifah said: “do not wish for that. On the night of the Ahzab, we sat still while Abu Sufyan and his army among the confederates were above us and the Jews of Banu Quraizah were below us and we were scared of them for our progenies. We never witnessed a night worse than that due to its darkness, violent winds whose sound was dumbfounding. The darkness was so pitch that each one of could not even see his finger. The hypocrites were advancing excuses to the Prophet, saying: “Our houses are exposed,” even though it was not so and there was no one who sought the permission of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, except that he permitted him. Some of them sought permission while some merely snacked away. We were about three hundred men and we were in that condition when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, approached us one after the other till he came upon me while there was nothing shielding me, neither from the enemy nor from the extreme cold, except a woolen outfit whose length did not go beyond my knees. The Prophet got to my position while I was kneeling on my knees. "Who is there?" The Prophet asked. "Hudhaifah," I replied recoiling further to the ground. "O Messenger of Allah, I hate to stand up." He ordered me to stand up and I obeyed and then he said: "Sneak into the enemy camp and bring me information." I was most frightful and chilly. Nevertheless, I set out and the Messenger supplicated: "O Allah, protect him from his front behind, right side, his left, from above him and below him." Every feeling of fright and chilliness dissipated from me. When I turned to go, he gave me a terse instruction: 'O Hudhaifah, do not do anything in the enemy ranks till you come back to me'.

"I went out till I got near the enemy camp. I beheld the glow of the enemy campfires. I saw a bulky fellow saying while his hands were upon the fire and rubbing it against his flank. He was saying: "The Departure! The Departure!" Then I returned to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, while he was covered in his mantle praying. By Allah, the moment I came back to Allah's Messenger, I began to shiver from the cold and the Prophet beckoned to me with his hand while he was praying. I drew close to him and he covered me with his mantle. Whenever a matter becomes aggravated, the Prophet would take recourse in prayer. I informed him that I left the enemies while they were ready to depart. Then Allah revealed: O you who believe! Remember Allah's Favor to you, when there came against you hosts, and We sent against them a wind and forces that you saw not [i.e. troops of angels during the Battle of Al-Ahzab (the Confederates)]. And Allah is Ever All-Seer of what you do (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:9) i.e. all of the Verse up to the statement of Allah:

And Allah drove back those who disbelieved in their rage, they gained no advantage (booty, etc.). Allah sufficed for the believers in the fighting (by sending against the disbelievers a severe wind and troops of angels). And Allah is Ever All-Strong, Almighty (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:25) meaning that Allah turned away their enemy from them with a violent wind, which He sent upon them and forces from the angels and others. "Allah sufficed for the Believers in the fighting." i.e. they had no need to clash directly with the enemies, rather, Allah, the Ever All-Strong, Almighty turned them away by His Wisdom and Power.

Thus, it is recorded in the Saheehain from Abu Hurairah that Allah's Messenger, peace be upon him, used to say: "None has the right to be worshipped except Allah, Alone, (Who) honored His warriors and made His slave victorious, and He, Alone, defeated the confederates; so there is nothing after Him."

Allah (SWT) says: Allah sufficed for the believers in the fighting. Indicating that fighting actually took place and the Quraish never returned to fight against the Muslims again thereafter.

Sulaiman Ibn Surad, may Allah be pleased with him, narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Right now we have defeated them; they will never defeat us again."

The Battle of Banu Quraizah

This (section) includes the severe punishment Allah, the Almighty, meted out to them (in this world) and His promise of an even more excruciating one in the Hereafter. All this owing to their disbelief and nullification of the pact between them and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, coupled with their allying with the confederates against him.

Allah The Almighty says: And Allah drove back those who disbelieved in their rage, they gained no advantage (booty, etc.). Allah sufficed for the believers in the fighting (by sending against the disbelievers a severe wind and troops of angels). And Allah is Ever All-Strong, the Almighty. And those of the people of the Scripture who backed them (the disbelievers) Allah brought them down from their forts and cast terror into their hearts, (so that) a group (of them) you killed, and a group (of them) you made captives. And He caused you to inherit their lands, and their houses, and their riches, and a land which you had not trodden (before). And Allah is Able to do all things. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:25-27)

Al-Bukhari related that Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, narrated, “Whenever Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned from a Ghazwah, Hajj or ‘Umrah, he used to say Takbeer thrice at every elevation of the ground and then would say: “None has the right to be worshipped but Allah; He is One and has no partner. All the kingdoms are for Him, and all the praises are for Him, and He is Omnipotent. We are returning with repentance, worshipping, prostrating, and praising our Lord. He has kept up His promise and made His slave victorious, and He Alone defeated all the clans of (non-believers).”

Al-Bukhari also related that ‘A’ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, narrated, “When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned on the day (of the Battle) of Al-Khandaq (i.e. the Trench), he put down his arms and took a bath. Then Jibraeel, whose head was covered with dust, came to him saying, “You have put down your arms! By Allah, I have not put down my arms yet.” “Where (is the new battle front)?” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked and Jibraeel said, “This way,” pointing toward the tribe of Bani Quraizah. So Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went out toward them.

Al-Bukhari related: Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him, said, “As if I am just now looking at the dust rising in the street of Banu Ghanm (in Madinah) because of the marching of Jibraeel’s regiment when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, set out to Banu Quraizah (to attack them).”

Al-Bukhari related that Ibn ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, said, “On the day of Al-Ahzab (i.e. Clans), the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: ‘None of you (Muslims) should offer the ‘Asr prayer but at the place of Banu Quraizah.’ The ‘Asr prayer became due on them on the way. Some of them said, “We will not offer it till we reach it, i.e. the place of Banu Quraizah,” while others said, “No, we will pray at this spot, for the Prophet did not mean that for us.” Later on it was mentioned to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he did not berate any of the two groups.

Al-Baihaqi also related that ‘A’ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was once with her in her apartment when a man said the greeting of peace. “Immediately, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sprinted to his feet and I also got up in pursuit and it turned out to be Dihyah Al-Kalbi. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: ‘This is Jibraeel. He has commanded me to march toward Banu Quraizah. He said: ‘You have put down your arms! As for us, we have not put down ours.

We pursued the polytheists till we reached Hamra’ Al-Asad’.”

That was upon Allah’s Messenger’s return from the Battle of Al-Khandaq. So the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, rose quickly and said to his Companions: “I make it incumbent upon you not to offer the ‘Asr prayer till you reach Banu Quraizah.” The sun had set before they reached them. A group of the Muslims (on the Prophet’s errand) said, “The Prophet did not intend that you abandon Salat,” so they offered the prayer. However, the other group said, “The command of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, is upon us and the sin (of contravening it).”

Thus, a party prayed with faith and expectation of reward while the other refrained with faith and expectation of reward and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not berate any of the two groups. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded till he came upon an assembly on his way to Banu Quraizah. He asked them: “Did (you see) anyone pass by?” They answered, “It was only Dihyah Al-Kalbi who passed by while riding on a gray mule, under him was a sheet of brocade.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “That was Jibraeel who has been sent to shake Banu Quraizah and to cast terror into their hearts.”

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, laid siege to them and asked his Companions to stand guard for him till he could make them hear his words. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, called out to them: “O brothers of apes!” They said, “O Abul-Qasim, you were not a barbarous person.” He besieged them till they succumbed to the judgment of Sa’d Ibn Mu’adh, may Allah be pleased with him, for they had been his allies in the past. Sa'd, may Allah be pleased with him, gave a judgment concerning them that their fighting men be killed and their children and women be enslaved. This Hadeeth is related from 'A'ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, as well and others with numerous good chains.

Moosa Ibn Uqbah said: When 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib, may Allah be pleased with him, saw Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, coming in his direction, he said, "O Messenger of Allah, return, for Allah has sufficed you against the Jews." Meanwhile, 'Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, had heard vile comments from them concerning Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his wives, may Allah be pleased with them all. 'Ali detested that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, should also hear such comments. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Why are you asking me to go back?" But 'Ali did not disclose what he had heard from them. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said: "Perhaps you have heard something evil from them concerning me. Proceed, for once the enemies of Allah see me they will not be able to say any of what you have heard."

When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, reached their fort, they were at the top of the fortress; he called out at the top of his voice: "Respond, O Jews! O brethren of apes, Allah has disgraced you and sent down His indignation on you!"

Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, besieged them for about ten nights with a detachment of Muslims. Allah, the Almighty, sent back Huyayy Ibn Akhtab into the fort of Banu Quraizah and Allah cast terror into their hearts and the siege became excruciating for them. They appealed to Abu Lubabah Ibn Abdul Mundhir, may Allah be pleased with him, to come to them. They had been allies of the Ansar. Abu Lubabah said, "I shall not go to them until Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, permits me. "I have permitted you," Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said.

Abu Lubabah, may Allah be pleased with him, approached them and they cried out to him saying, "What is your opinion on this matter and what do you command us (to do)?" Then Abu Lubabah made a signal to his throat running his finger across it indicating that they will be slaughtered. Abu Lubabah had barely departed when he realized that a great Fitnah (trial) had afflicted him. Then he said, "I shall not look into the face of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, till I offer a sincere repentance and until Allah, the Almighty, acknowledges it in me."

Thus, he returned to Madinah and tied himself to a pillar of the mosque. It is claimed that he remained tied like that for close to twenty nights. When he noticed the long absence of Abu Lubabah, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: "Has not Abu Lubabah concluded (his discussion) with his allies?" Then he was informed of what had happened and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "A trial had befallen him in my absence, had he come to me I would have sought forgiveness for him but since he has done this, then I shall not move him from his spot until Allah judges his case as He wishes."

Ibn Hisham said: According to what Sufyan Ibn Uyainah narrated from Isma'eel Ibn Abu Khalid, from Abdullah Ibn Abu Qatadah, then Allah revealed: O you who believe! Betray not Allah and His Messenger, nor betray knowingly your Amanat (things entrusted to you, and all the duties which Allah has ordained for you. (Soorah Al-Anfal 8:27)

Ibn Hisham said: Abu Lubabah, may Allah be pleased with him, remained fettered for six nights. All the while, his wife would come to him at each time of Salat to loosen the rope so that he could pray, afterwards, he would return to being tied up till Allah, the Almighty, revealed: And (there are) others who have acknowledged their sins, they have mixed a deed that was righteous with another that was evil. Perhaps Allah will turn unto them in forgiveness. Surely, Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful. (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:102)

Ibn Ishaq related: In the morning, they (Banu Quraizah) submitted to the judgment of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Then the Aws were aroused saying, "O Messenger of Allah, they are our allies and not the Khazraj's. You are aware of how you have recently treated their own allies." By their statement they intended the clemency granted the Banu Qainuqa' when 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy requested it for them as mentioned earlier.

Ibn Ishaq added: When the 'Aws said those words to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he said: "Would you be satisfied if one of your own tribe gives judgement concerning them?" "Yes," they replied. "Then let Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh be the arbiter." Meanwhile, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had taken Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh, may Allah be pleased with him, for treatment in a tent belonging to a woman from Banu Aslam called Rufaidah located inside the mosque. The woman used to treat the wounded. When Sa'd, may Allah be pleased with him, was appointed as the judge concerning the Banu Quraizah, his tribesmen came to where he was being treated, lifted him unto a donkey upon which a leather cushion had been placed, for Sa'd, may Allah be pleased with him, was a handsomely corpulent man.

His tribesmen brought him toward the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, while they were saying to him, "O Abu 'Amr, be nice to your allies for Allah's Messenger has appointed you so that you may show some leniency to them." When they persistently pestered him with that request, he said, "It is time for Sa'd, in the cause of Allah, the Almighty, not to fear the blame of anyone who would blame." Hearing these words, one of those who were accompanying Sa'd went to the household of Banu 'Abdul Ashhal to announce the death of Banu Quraizah before the arrival of Sa'd, may Allah be pleased with him, owing to the words he had heard from him.

When Sa'd, may Allah be pleased with him, reached the location of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the other Muslims, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Go to your chief." The Emigrants said: Allah's Messenger only addressed the Ansar but the Ansar believed he intended all the Muslims. So they rose to him and said, "O Abu 'Amr, Allah's Messenger has appointed you in charge of your allies' affairs that you may arbitrate concerning them." Then Sa'd, may Allah be pleased with him, said, "Do you make a covenant with Allah, the Almighty, that you will execute the judgment that I will pronounce on them?" They said, "Yes." He added, "And the one who is here?" looking at the direction of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, without mentioning his name out of veneration. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, “Yes.” Then Sa‘d, may Allah be pleased with him, said, “My judgment concerning them is that their men should be killed and (their) wealth distributed and (their) children and women should be taken as captives.”

Ibn Ishaq said: ‘Asim Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Qatadah narrated to me from ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn ‘Amr Ibn Sa‘d Ibn Mu‘adh from Alqamah Ibn Waqqas Al-Laithi that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Sa‘d, may Allah be pleased with him: “You have ruled concerning them with the judgment of Allah from above the seven heavens.”

Imam Ahmad, may Allah have Mercy upon him, related from Abu Sa‘eed Al-Khudri, may Allah be pleased with him, that the tribe of Quraizah succumbed to the ruling of Sa‘d Ibn Mu‘adh, may Allah be pleased with him. Thus, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent for Sa‘d and he came while riding on a camel. When he was close to the mosque of the Prophet, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Stand up to meet your chief; or the best of you.” Then he added: “These people have conceded to your judgment.” Sa‘d, may Allah be pleased with him, said, “Let us kill their fighting men and take captives their children and women.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, commented: “You have adjudicated with the judgment of Allah.” Or perhaps he said: “You have ruled with the judgment of the king.”

Ibn Ishaq related: They had said to Ka‘b Ibn Asad while they were being taken to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, one after the other, “O Ka‘b, what do you think they are doing to us?” He responded, “Must you demonstrate lack of sense at every moment? Don’t you see that the caller is unceasing and that each person taken away from you does not return? By Allah, it (i.e., your fate) is execution.”

The proceedings continued in that manner till they were finished with. Then Huyayy Ibn Akhtab was brought with his hand tied to his neck with a string. When he saw Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he said, “I do not reproach myself for my enmity with you but whomever Allah, the Almighty, has forsaken will be forsaken.” Then he turned to the people and said, “O people, there is no problem with the command (judgment) of Allah, the Almighty. This is a record, a decree and a massacre which Allah has decreed on the Children of Isra’eel.” Then he sat down and he was decapitated.

Jabal Ibn Jawwal Ath-Tha‘labee said:

By your life! Akhtab did not reproach himself,

Rather, whomever Allah has forsaken stands forsaken,

He will strive till the soul attains its excuse,

Agitate for every agitator covets prestige

Ibn Ishaq said: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had ordered the execution of everyone who had grown (private hairs – i.e., attained puberty). Shu‘bah Ibn Al-Hajjaaj narrated to me from Abdul Malik Ibn ‘Umair, from ‘Atiyah Al-Qurazee who said: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered the execution of everyone that had attained puberty from Banu Quraizah. I was a young lad at the time and they discovered that I had not yet attained puberty so I was left.”

The compilers of the four Sunans related the Hadeeth from Abdul Malik Ibn ‘Umair from ‘Atiyah AlQurazee with similar wordings. Based on this Hadeeth, some of the scholars hold the opinion that the growth of hair in the pubic area is a sign of puberty. In fact, it is puberty based on the more authentic of the two opinions of Ash-Shafi‘i and there are scholars who differentiate the boys of the Ahl Dhimmah. Thus, it is puberty in respect of them to the exclusion of others, for the Muslim will be hurt by that (i.e. checking the pubic area).

Ibn Ishaq also related from ‘A’ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, that she said: “None of their women were killed except one.” She added: “By Allah, she was conversing with me and she laughed boisterously while Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was executing her men in the marketplace. Then a caller called out her name, 'Where is such and such woman?' She answered, 'I am, by Allah.' I said to her, 'Woe, what be fell you?' She said, 'I will be executed.' 'For what?' I asked and she said, 'For a crime which I have committed'." Then she was taken away and decapitated. 'A'ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, used to say: "By Allah I never ceased to marvel at her. She was good natured and she laughed a lot even while she knew she was going to be executed." This is how Imam Ahmad, may Allah have Mercy upon him, has related it from Ya'qoob Ibn Ibraheem from his father from Muhammad Ibn Ishaq.

Ibn Ishaq said: Afterward, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, divided up the wealth, women and children of Banu Quraizah among the Muslims after taking the Khumus (one-fifth). He gave three portions to the horsemen, two for the horse and one for the rider; he gave one portion to the infantry. The horses on that day numbered thirty-six.

The Death of Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh

Ibn Ishaq related: After he had dispensed with the matter of the Banu Quraizah, the wound of Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh, may Allah be pleased with him, relapsed and consequently, he was martyred. Ibn Ishaq added: Mu'adh Ibn Rifa'ah Az-Zurqee narrated to me saying: One whom I trust of my people informed me that Jibraeel came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, donning a turban of brocade when the soul of Sa'd bin Mu'adh, may Allah be pleased with him, was taken in the middle of the night and asked: "O Muhammad who is this corpse for whom the heavens were opened and for whom the Throne shook?" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, got up hurriedly dragging his cloth and proceeded towards Sa'd, may Allah be pleased with him, and he found that he had died, may Allah be pleased with him."

Imam Ahmad and An-Nasa'i related from Jabir, may Allah be pleased with him, who said, "Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Sa'd, may Allah be pleased with him, on the day of his death while he was being buried: "Glory be to Allah for this righteous slave for whom the Throne of Ar-Rahman (Allah) shook and for whom the doors of heaven were thrown open. He was pressed and then Allah relieved him.”)

I say: This Hadith has been related by Imam Ahmad, may Allah have mercy upon him, from ‘A’ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, from the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, that: “There is a squeezing in the grave, if anyone could have escaped it, it would have been Sa’d Ibn Mu‘adh.”

Al-Hafiz Al-Bazzar related from Ibn ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, who said: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “The day Sa’d Ibn Mu‘adh died, seventy thousand angels descended and they had never descended (to the earth) before that day and the grave squeezed him briefly.”

Al-Bukhari related that Jabir, may Allah be pleased with him, said, “I heard the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saying: “The Throne (of Allah) shook at the death of Sa’d Ibn Mu‘adh.” A man said to Jabir: “Al-Bara’ Ibn ‘Azib, may Allah be pleased with him, says that the Throne shook.” He said: I heard Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saying: “The Throne of the Most Compassionate shook because of the death of Sa’d Ibn Mu‘adh.”

Al-Hafiz Al-Bazzar related from Anas, may Allah be pleased with him, who said, “When the bier of Sa’d was lifted, the hypocrites said, ‘How light is his bier!’ they said this owing to his judgment concerning Banu Quraizah, so the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was asked and he responded: “Rather, it is the angels who are lifting him.” Its chain of narration is good.

Benefit: Shaikh Abu ‘Umar Ibn Abdul-Barr commented: The Hadeeth of the shaking of the Throne is well-established and recurrent. As-Suhaili said: The group related it from some Companions among whom were Jabir, Abu Sa‘eed, Usaid Ibn Hudair, Rumaithah Bint Amr and added, “It is understood in the literal sense for it is not impossible for the Throne to move or shake.” However, as for what is related from Malik concerning its weakness and his amazement at its narration; perhaps that is not authentically related from him, and Allah (SWT) knows best.

Al-Bukhari related from Abu Ishaq: I heard Al-Bara' Ibn Azib, may Allah be pleased with him, saying, "A silken cloth was given as a present to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. His Companions started touching it and admiring its softness. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Are you admiring its softness? The handkerchiefs of Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh (in Paradise) are better and softer than this."

What the Poets Said Concerning the Khandaq and Banu Quraizah

Al-Bukhari related that Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib, may Allah be pleased with him, said, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Hassan, may Allah be pleased with him: "Lampoon them for Jibraeel is with you." It is also related from Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib, may Allah be pleased with him, who said: The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Hassan Ibn Thabit, may Allah be pleased with him, on the day of the incident of Banu Quraizah: "Lampoon the Mushrikeen for Jibraeel is with you."

Ibn Ishaq, Allah have mercy on him, related: Dirar Ibn Al-Khattab Ibn Mirdas from Banu Maharib Ibn Fihri among the people said on the Day of Khandaq: that was prior to his acceptance of Islam:

They have tolerated several thoughts concerning us

While we had led strong battalions

Whose number is as great as Uhud

When its different sides appear to spectators

You will see the bodies of heroes fully harmed with impregnable shield

Branded horses like spears directed at misguided and sinful ones

In our hands are sharp swords with which we strike the forelocks and (decide) matters

In The Defence Of the True Faith

It is like a blazing (light) when it is bared in the hands of its wielders

As the blazing of an agate in the night

You will see in it a clear gemstone

Were it not for the trench with him

We would have wreaked havoc on them all

Then Ka' b Ibn Malik from Banu Salimah, may Allah be pleased with him, responded to him thus:

Questioner is asking what we encountered, if she had witnessed it, she would have see us persevering

We were persevering not finding any equal for Allah

Over what befell us, we were reliant (on Allah)

We have a Prophet who is a truthful vizier

With him we shall overcome all the creation

We will fight against oppressive and disobedient folk

They were watching with enmity

On our right hands are light white (swords)

With which we deal with the exultation of trouble makers

By the gate of the two trenches as if manned my lions

With fangs protecting the den

The people of Makkah know when they came by

Confederates came in groups

That Allah has no partner

And that Allah is the Protector of the believers

Even if you killed Sa'd impudently

Allah is the best of the powerful

He will admit him into Excellent Gardens

Which will be an abode for the righteous

As you were repulsed in your anger, defeated, disgraced and unsuccessful

A disgrace which denude you of any success there at

And you were on the verge of destruction

Assassination of Abu Rafi' Salam Ibn Abu Al-Huqaiq the Jew, May Allah Curse Him

When he had dispensed with the affairs of both the Battle of Khandaq and that of Banu Quraizah, the Khazraj obtained the permission of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to assassinate Abu Rafi' Sallam Ibn Abu Al-Huqaiq at Khaibar. He was part of the confederates that besieged Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Meanwhile, the Aws had undertaken the assassination of Ka'b Ibn Al-Ashraf before the Battle of Uhud.

Al-Bukhari related that Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib, may Allah be pleased with him, narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent some men from the Ansar to (kill) Abu Rafi', the Jew, and appointed ‘Abdullah Ibn Ateek, may Allah be pleased with him, as their leader. Abu Rafi‘ used to slander Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and aid his enemies against him. He lived in his castle in the land of Hijaz. When those men approached (the castle) after the sun had set and the people had brought back their livestock to their homes, ‘Abdullah (Ibn Ateek) said to his companions, “Sit down at your places. I am going, and I will try to play a trick on the gatekeeper so that I may enter (the castle).”

So ‘Abdullah proceeded toward the castle, and when he approached the gate, he covered himself with his clothes, pretending to answer the call of nature. The people had gone in, and the gatekeeper (considered ‘Abdullah as one of the castle’s servants) addressed him saying, “O Allah’s Servant! Enter if you wish, for I want to close the gate.” ‘Abdullah continued, “So I went in (the castle) and hid myself. When the people got inside, the gatekeeper closed the gate and hung the keys on a fixed wooden peg. I got up and took the keys and opened the gate. Some people were staying late at night with Abu Rafi‘ for a pleasant night chat in a room of his.

“When his companions of nightly entertainment went away, I ascended to him, and whenever I opened a door, I closed it from inside. I said to myself, ‘Should these people discover my presence, they will not be able to catch me till I have killed him.’ So I reached him and found him sleeping in a dark house amidst his family, I could not recognize his location in the house. So I shouted, ‘O Abu Rafi‘!’ Abu Rafi‘ and he said, ‘Who is it?’ I proceeded towards the source of the voice and hit him with the sword, and because of my anxiety, I could not kill him. He cried loudly, and I came out of the house and waited for a while, and then went to him again and said, ‘What is this voice, O Abu Rafi‘?’ He said, ‘Woe to your mother! A man in my house has hit me with a sword! I again hit him severely but I did not kill him. Then I drove the point of the sword into his belly (and pressed it through) till it touched his back, and I realized that I had killed him.

“I then opened the doors one after the other till I reached the staircase, and thinking that I had reached the ground, I stepped out and fell down and got my leg broken in a moonlit night. I tied my leg with a turban and proceeded on till I sat at the gate, and said, ‘I will not go out tonight till I know that I have killed him.’ So, when (early in the morning) the cock crowed, the announcer of the casualty stood on the wall saying, ‘I announce the death of Abu Rafi’, the merchant of Hijaz’. Thereupon I went to my companions and said, ‘Let us save ourselves, for Allah has killed Abu Rafi’.’ So I (along with my companions proceeded and) went to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and related the whole story to him. He said: “Stretch out your (broken) leg”. I stretched it out and he rubbed it and it became as if I had never had any problem with it.”

The Assassination of Khalid Ibn Sufyan Ibn Nubaih Al-Hudhali

Imam Ahmad, may Allah have Mercy upon him, related from Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Unais who reported from his father that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, invited me and said: “Information has reached me that Khalid Ibn Sufyan Ibn Nubaih Al-Hudhali is rallying people in order to raid me and he is currently at Uranah, so go and assassinate him.” (On hearing this) I said, ‘O Allah’s Messenger, describe his features to me so that I may recognize him (when I see him).’ So he said: “Once you see him, you will feel some tremor from sighting him.” So I proceeded with my sword till I got to him at Uranah at the time of the ‘Asr prayer. When I saw him, I experienced the chill as described to me by Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

I went toward him but I was afraid that there might be some exchanges of blows between me and him which might engage me beyond the time of Salat so I prayed while I was walking toward him, nodding my head to indicate Rukoo’ (bowing) and Sujood (prostration). When I got to him, he asked, “Who are you?” “One of the Arab tribes,” I said and added, “I heard about you and your mobilization against this man and I have come to you for that purpose,” I said. He responded, “Good, I am truly involved in that cause.” I walked with him for a while till I got the opportunity and I bared my sword against him till I killed him and then I withdrew.

When I returned to Allah’s Messenger and he saw me, he said: “This (face) has attained success.” “I have killed him, O Allah’s Messenger.” I said and he responded: “You have spoken the truth.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stood with me for a while and then took me to his house and presented me a rod and said: “Keep this with you, O Abdullah Ibn Unais.”

Then I went out with it to the people and they queried, “What is this rod for?” I said, “Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, gave it to me and commanded me to keep it.” They said, “Why don’t you go back and ask him concerning it?” So I returned to Allah’s Messenger and asked, “O Allah’s Messenger, why did you give me this rod?” He said: “It is a sign between me and you on the Resurrection, on that day very few people will be able to rely on their good deeds.”

He (the narrator) added: So ‘Abdullah, may Allah be pleased with him, paired the rod with his sword and it did not cease to be with him even at his death, it was enshrouded with him and he was buried like that together.”

The Encounter of ‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As With Najashi and His Acceptance of Islam

‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As, may Allah be pleased with him, narrated: When we departed on the day of Ahzab from the Trenches, I gathered some men among the Quraish who usually shared my opinion and lent their ears to me and I said to them, “You all know that by Allah, the matter of Muhammad is gaining the upper hand in a most hateful manner and right now, I am nursing a thought and I would like to know your opinion on it.” “What is your thought?” they asked and I said, “I think we should go to Najashi and stay with him. If Muhammad eventually prevails over our people, we will remain with Najashi for to remain under his authority is far more believing than to remain under the rule of Muhammad. However, if it is our people that eventually prevail, we are already well known to them, so nothing will come to us from them except good.” They responded, “This is indeed a brilliant suggestion.” So I said, “Let us gather presents for him and the best souvenir to present to him from our land is leather.”

So we gathered a large quantity of leather and we proceeded till we arrived in his presence. By Allah, we were still with him when ‘Amr Ibn Umayyah Ad-Damri, may Allah be pleased with him, came to him on an errand from the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, concerning Ja‘afar and his companions. He went in to see Najashi and came out. So I said to my companions, “This is Amr bin Umayyah, once I enter the presence of Najashi I shall ask him to hand him over to me so that I may chop off his neck. Once I have done that, the Quraish will be gratified that I have taken revenge on their behalf with the killing of Muhammad’s messenger.

So I entered his presence and prostrated to him as I used to do. He said, “Welcome, my friend. Have you brought any present for me from your land?” I said, “Yes, O king, I have brought for you a large quantity of leather.” So I presented it to him and he marveled at its beauty and loved it. Then I said to him: “O king, I have seen a man coming out of your palace, he is a messenger for a man who is our enemy, hand him over to me so that I may kill him. He has killed a number of our noblemen and elites.”

The narrator added: Then he (Najashi) became extremely angry. He stretched his hand and hit his nose so violently that I thought he had broken it. At that time, if the ground had cleaved I would have entered into it in flight from him. Then I said, “O king, by Allah, had I thought you would detest that, I would not have requested you to hand him over to me.” Then he said, “Do you ask me to hand over to you the messenger of a man who is visited by the same great Nameos that visited Moosa for you to kill?”

Then I said, “O king, is he truly as you have said?” He replied, “Woe be unto you, O Amr, obey me and follow him, for by Allah he is upon the truth. Moreover, he will prevail over whoever opposes him just as Moosa bin Imran prevailed over Fir‘awn and his army.” Then I said, “Will you then take my allegiance to him upon Islam on his behalf?” He obliged and then stretched out his hand and I pledged allegiance to him upon Islam and thereafter, I took my leave and returned to my companions after my mind had changed from its previous thought. I hid my acceptance of Islam from my companions.

Thereafter, I decided to go to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to formally proclaim Islam at his hands. On the way, I met Khalid Ibn al-Waleed, may Allah be pleased with him, on his way out of Makkah and that was just shortly before the Conquest (of Makkah). So I said, "Where to, O Abu Sulaiman?" He said, "By Allah, the sign has become evident that the man is indeed a Prophet, so, by Allah, I am going to declare my Islam." I said, "By Allah, I also came for no other purpose then to accept Islam."

So we both arrived at the presence of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in Madinah and Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed, may Allah be pleased with him, stepped forward and declared his acceptance of Islam and pledged his allegiance. Then I also moved close to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said, "O Messenger of Allah, I will pledge my allegiance to you upon the condition that you forgive all that has preceded of my sins and I do not mention the later ones." Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "O 'Amr, pledge your allegiance, for Islam obliterates all (sins) that came before it."

'Amr, may Allah be pleased with him, continued, "Then I pledged allegiance and thereafter I departed." Ibn Ishaq related: I have been informed from impeccable sources that 'Uthman Ibn Talhah Ibn Abi Talhah, may Allah be pleased with him, was with both of them.

I say: Their acceptance of Islam occurred after the Treaty of Al-Hudaybiyah and at the time, Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed, may Allah be pleased with him, was with the Calvary of the Mushrikeen as shall be elucidated in due course. The mentioning of his acceptance of Islam thereafter flows better. We only mentioned it in following Imam Muhammad Ibn Ishaq, may Allah have Mercy on him, because the first time 'Amr Ibn Al-'As, may Allah be pleased with him, went to Najashi was after the Battle of Khandaq. Obviously, he went within the last five years. And Allah knows best.

The Prophet's Marriage to Umm Habeebah Ramlah Bint Abu Sufyan

Al-Baihaqi related, after (relating the) incident of Al-Khandaq, through Al-Kalbi from Abu Saleh from Ibn 'Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, who said while commenting on the Verse: Perhaps Allah will make friendship between you and those whom you hold as enemies. (Soorah Al-Mumtahinah 60:7):

“That was concerning the Prophet's marriage to Umm Habeebah Bint Abu Sufyan, may Allah be pleased with her, so she became one of the Mothers of Believers and Mu'awiyah, may Allah be pleased with him, became the Uncle of the Believers.”

Umm Habeebah, may Allah be pleased with her, narrated that she was married to 'Ubaidullah Ibn Jahsh and he traveled to Najashi but died. Thus Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married Umm Habeebah, may Allah be pleased with her, while she was in Abyssinia and Najashi married her to him. Her Mahr was four thousand dirhams. She was sent with Shurahbil Ibn Hasanah, may Allah be pleased with him, and all her essentials were supplied by Najashi. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not send anything to her. He (the reporter) added, “Meanwhile, the Mahr of the Prophet's wives was four hundred.”

The more authentic view is that the Mahr of the Prophet's wives was twelve uqiyah and nasha (uqiyah and a waqiyah equals forty dirhams and a nash is half a dirham) totaling five hundred dirhams.

I say: The representative of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in accepting the marriage was Najashi, the king of Abyssinia, as related by Yoonus from Muhammad Ibn Ishaq: Abu Ja'far Muhammad Ibn 'Ali Ibn Al-Husain narrated to me that: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent 'Amr Ibn Umayyah Ad-Damri, may Allah be pleased with him, to Najashi and he married Umm Habeebah to him and paid four hundred deenars on his behalf.

Al-Hafiz Ibn Al-Atheer says in Usdul-Ghabah, relating from Qatadah, that when Umm Habeebah, may Allah be pleased with her, migrated from Abyssinia to Madinah, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sought and married her. It is also related from some of them that he (the Prophet) married her after her father's acceptance of Islam after the Conquest (of Makkah). This opinion adduced as evidence what is related by Muslim from Ibn 'Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, that Abu Sufyan said, 'O Messenger of Allah grant me three things and the Prophet said: 'Yes'. 'Make me the commander (of the Muslim army) so that I may fight against the disbelievers as I fought against the Muslims.' He said: 'Yes.' And he (Abu Sufyan) again said, 'Accept Mu'awiyah to serve as your scribe.' The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said: 'Yes'. He (further) said, 'I have with me the best and most pretty (woman) of all the Arabs, Umm Habeebah, daughter of Abu Sufyan; I marry her to you', whereupon he said: 'Yes'.

Ibn Atheer said: This Hadith is from the ones over which Muslim is criticized for when Abu Sufyan, may Allah be pleased with him, came to renew the contract just before the conquest of Makkah, he visited his daughter Umm Habeebah, may Allah be pleased with her, and she snatched the Prophet's cushion from underneath him. He said, "My daughter, do you consider this bed unfit for me (i.e., my status) or me unfit for it?" She said, "It is the bed of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, and you are an unclean polytheist." He said, "My daughter, you have been afflicted with evil after (you left) me."

Ibn Hazm said: This Hadith is fabricated by 'Ikrimah Ibn Ammar but this statement is unacceptable. Others say that he intended to renew the marriage contract due to its occurrence without his permission which constituted a blemish for him. Some others say: He believed that the marriage of his daughter was nullified with his own acceptance of Islam. All of these are however weak. The better view is that he wanted to marry to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, another daughter of his, 'Azzah, due to the honor that would accrue to him and a recourse to her sister, Umm Habeebah, as related in the Saheehain and that is a misconception on the part of the narrator for mentioning Umm Habeebah. We have cited a report in corroboration of that.

The Prophet's Marriage to Zainab Bint Jahsh Ibn Ri'ab Ibn Ya'mar Ibn Sabirah Ibn Murrah Ibn Kabeer Ibn Ghanm Ibn Doowdan Ibn Asad Ibn Khuzaimah Al-Asadiyyah

Allah, the Almighty, says: And (remember) when you said to him (Zaid Ibn Harithah, the freed-slave of the Prophet) on whom Allah has bestowed Grace (by guiding him to Islam) and you (O Muhammad too) have done favor (by manumitting him) "Keep your wife to yourself, and fear Allah." But you did hide in yourself (i.e. what Allah has already made known to you that He will give her to you in marriage) that which Allah will make manifest, you did fear the people (i.e., Muhammad married the divorced wife of his manumitted slave) whereas Allah had a better right that you should fear Him.

So when Zaid had accomplished his desire from her (i.e. divorced her), We gave her to you in marriage, so that (in future) there may be no difficulty to the believers in respect of (the marriage of) the wives of their adopted sons when the latter have no desire to keep them (i.e. they have divorced them). And Allah's Command must be fulfilled. There is no blame on the Prophet in that which Allah has made legal for him. That has been Allah's Way with those who have passed away of (the Prophets of) old. And the Command of Allah is a decree determined. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:37,38)

The one on whom Allah, the Almighty, bestowed Grace here is Zaid Ibn Al-Harithah, may Allah be pleased with him, the freed slave of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Allah bestowed Grace on him with Islam and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, bestowed Grace on him by manumitting and marrying him to his aunt's daughter, Zainab Bint Jahsh, may Allah be pleased with her. Maqatil Ibn Hayyan related, "The amount of dowry he paid to her was ten deenar, sixty dirham, a face veil, a blanket, a shield, fifty measures of food and ten measures of dates."

She was married to him for close to a year or a little more than a year and then strife erupted between both of them. Her husband came to the

Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, complaining about his wife and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, kept telling him: “Keep your wife to yourself, and fear Allah.”

Allah, the Almighty, says: You did hide in yourself (i.e. what Allah has already made known to you that He will give her to you in marriage) that which Allah will make manifest. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:37)

‘Ali Ibn Al-Husain Zainul-‘Abideen and As-Suddi said: Allah, the Almighty, had already informed him that she would be one of his wives and that is what he, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, hid in his heart. Many of the predecessors have commented on this matter relating strange narrations some of which contain some doubts. We have deliberately omitted them.

Allah says: So when Zaid had accomplished his desire from her (i.e., divorced her), We gave her to you in marriage (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:37) meaning that when Zaid divorced his wife and after she had concluded her waiting period, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent a message seeking her hand in marriage for himself. Then she married him. The One Who married her [to the Prophet] was the Lord of the Worlds, the Exalted and Sublime. This is confirmed in Saheeh AlBukhari from Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him, that Zainab Bint Jahsh, may Allah be pleased with her, used to boast to the other wives of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and used to say: “Your families married you, but Allah married me (to the Prophet) from above the seven Heavens.”

It is concerning her that the Verse of Al-Hijab (veil) was revealed: O you who believe! Enter not the Prophet’s houses, except when leave is given to you for a meal, (and then) not (so early as) to wait for its preparation. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:53)

Imam Ahmad, may Allah have Mercy upon him, related from Anas, may Allah be pleased with him, that when Zainab’s waiting period was over, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Zaid: “Go and mention me to her.” So he proceeded till he got to her while she was kneading her dough. He said, “The moment I saw her, she became great in my heart till I could no longer bear to look at her given that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had mentioned her.” So I turned my back to her and retreated on my heels and I said, “O Zainab, glad tidings! Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, has mentioned you (i.e., for a proposal of marriage).’ She said, “I am not going to do anything till my Lord commands me.” Then she stood in her prayer spot and then Allah, the Almighty, revealed the Qur’an and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came and entered upon her without seeking permission.

Anas, may Allah be pleased with him, added, “After Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, consummated his marriage with her, he fed us bread and meat. When the people left, some men remained behind in the house chatting after the meal so the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went out, and I followed him, and he went round the dwelling place of his wives saying the greeting of peace to them and they would respond, “Peace and the mercy of Allah be on you too. How did you find your wife?” I do not remember whether I was the one who informed him that the people had left or someone else informed him. Then he returned to his apartment and I wanted to enter along with him but he drew the curtain between me and him, and then the Verse of Al-Hijab was revealed and the people were admonished: Enter not the Prophet’s houses, except when leave is given to you for a meal. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33: 53)

The Revelation of the Verse of Hijab on the Morning of Her Wedding Ceremony

The verse of Hijab was appropriately revealed at the time of this wedding as a protection for her and her sisters among the Mothers of Believers. This is consistent with the opinion of Al-Umari.

Al-Bukhari related that Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him, narrated: When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married Zainab Bint Jahsh, may Allah be pleased with her, he invited the people for a meal and they remained sitting and talking. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, pretended to be ready to get up, but the people did not get up. When he noticed that, he got up, and when he had got up, some of those people got up along with him and there remained three (who kept on sitting). Then the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came back and found those people still sitting. Later on those people got up and went away. So I went to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and informed him that they had left. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came and entered (his house). I wanted to enter (along with him) but he drew a curtain between me and him and then Allah, the Almighty, revealed: O you who believe! Enter not the Prophet's houses, except when leave is given to you for a meal. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33: 53)

The Sixth Year of Hijrah

The Ghazwah of Dhi Qarad

Ibn Ishaq related: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to Madinah but he did not stay more than a few nights before Uyainah Ibn Hisn Ibn Hudhaifah Ibn Badr Al-Fazari, commanding a Calvary from Ghatafan, raided the camels of the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, at the outskirts (of the town). A man from Banu Ghifar and his wife were present, so they killed the man and kidnapped the woman along with the camels.

Al-Bukhari has placed the occurrence of the Ghazwah of Dhi Qarad which is the Ghazwah in which the camels of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, were raided after the Treaty of Al-Hudaybiyah and three (years) before Khaibar. Salamah Ibn Aal-Akwa', may Allah be pleased with him, narrated: Once I went (from Madinah) toward (Al-Ghabah) before the first Adhan of the Fajr Prayer. The she-camels of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, used to graze at a place called Dhi Qarad. A slave of Abdur-Rahman Ibn Awf, may Allah be pleased with him, met me (on the way) and said, "The she-camels of Allah's Messenger have been taken away by force." I asked, "Who has taken them?" He replied "(The people of) Ghatafan." I made three loud cries (to the people of Madinah) saying, "O Sabahah!" I made the people between the two mountains of Madinah hear me. Then I rushed onward and caught up with the robbers while they were watering the camels. I started shooting arrows at them as I was a good archer, while saying, "I am the son of Al-Akwa', and today I will cause the wicked people to perish."

I kept on saying that till I restored the she-camels (of the Prophet), I also snatched thirty Burdah (i.e., garments) from them. Then the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the other people came there, and I said, "O Allah's Prophet! I have stopped the people (of Ghatafan) from taking water and they are thirsty now, so send (some people) after them now." On that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "O son of Al-Akwa'! You have overpowered them, so forgive them." Then we all came back and Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, made me sit behind him on his she-camel till we entered Madinah.

Imam Ahmad, may Allah have Mercy upon him, related that Imran Ibn Husain, may Allah be pleased with him, said, "Al-Adba' belonged to a man of Banu Uqail. The she-camel used to be in the vanguard of Hajj. The man was captured and Al-Adba' was taken along with him. Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, met him while he was in shackles and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was riding a donkey with a velvet sheet spread on its back. The man said, 'O Muhammad, why did you arrest me as well as the vanguard of pilgrimage (referring to the she-camel)?' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, responded: "We arrested you for the crime of your allies, Thaqeef."

At the time, the Thaqeef had captured two men from the Companions of the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him. According to a report, the man then said, 'I am a Muslim.' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Had you said this while you were free and had choice, you would have enjoyed all success." Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded. Then the man said, 'O Muhammad, I am hungry, give me food and I am thirsty, give me drink.' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked him: "Is this all you need?" Afterwards, he was swapped with the two men and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, kept al-Adba' with him as part of his mounts.

He said: Then the Mushrikoon raided the grazing land of Madinah and they ran away with the camels and Al-Adba' was among them. A Muslim woman was also taken prisoner. The woman had been tied with ropes. The people were giving rest to their animals before their houses. After they had gone to sleep, she escaped one night from the bondage and came to the camels. As she drew near the camels, they fretted and fumed and so she left them until she came to Al-Adba'. It did not fret and fume; it was docile so she rode upon its back and drove it towards Madinah. She (the woman) took a vow that if Allah, the Almighty, saved her upon its back she would slaughter it as a sacrifice. As she reached Madinah, the people recognized the she-camel and said, 'Here is the camel of Allah's Messenger!' Then the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "What a bad way to reward it or how ill she rewarded it! Allah saved her on its back and then you would slaughter it!" He also added: "There is no fulfillment of the vow in an act of disobedience to Allah, nor in an act over which a person has no control. "

Ghazwah Banu Al-Mustaliq of Khuza'ah

Al-Bukhari says: It is (also) known as the Battle of Al-Muraisi'. Muhammad Ibn Ishaq added: It occurred in the sixth year but Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah said that it occurred in the fourth. An-Nu'man Ibn Rashid related from Az-Zuhri: The incident of Al-Ifk occurred in the Battle of Muraisi'. This is how Al-Bukhari related it from Moosa Ibn Uqbah and that it was in the fourth year.

Ibn Ishaq said: 'Asim Ibn 'Umar Ibn Qatadah, 'Abdullah Ibn Abu Bakr and Muhammad Ibn Yahya Ibn Hibbaan all informed me about some of the incident of Banu Mustaliq. They said: Information reached the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, that Banu Mustaliq were mobilizing against him and their commander was Harith Ibn Abu Dirar, Juwairiyah Bint Al-Harith's father whom Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married afterwards.

Upon hearing of their mobilization, he went out against them at the site of one of their water sources called Al-Muraisi' in the direction of Qudaid toward the shore. The two sides clashed and a furious battle ensued. Allah, the Almighty, vanquished Banu Mustaliq. Some of them were killed and their children and women were captured and shared as booty of war.

It is recorded in the Saheehhain from the Hadith of 'Abdullah Ibn 'Aun who said: I wrote to Nafi' asking him about the supplication before fighting and he said, 'The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, raided Banu Mustaliq while they were unaware and while their animals were being watered. Their fighting men were killed and their women and children were taken as captives; the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, got Juwairiyah, may Allah be pleased with her, on that day. Nafi' said that Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, had told him the above narration and that Ibn ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, was in that army.

Ibn Ishaq related: While the people were still by that well, Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, had an employee from Banu Ghifar called Jahjah Ibn Mas‘ood whom he hired to tend to his horse. Jahjah crowded Sinan Ibin Wabar Al-Juhani of Banu Awf Ibn Al-Khazraj and a scuffle ensued between them. Al-Juhani cried out, ‘O Ansar!’ and Jahjah also called out, ‘O Muhajiroon!’. ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy Ibn Salool was infuriated. He had a group of people from his clansmen among whom was Zaid Ibn Arqam, may Allah be pleased with him, who was a young boy.

Abdullah Ibn Ubayy said, “Indeed they have not only crowded us here, but even in our land. The case of our hospitality to them has been nothing short of (the common saying) ‘Feed your beast and one day it will devour you’. By Allah, when we return to Madinah, the honorable one will expel the meaner one.” Then he turned to those who were with him among the people and said, “This is what you have brought upon yourselves. You allowed them to occupy your land and you have willingly shared your wealth. By Allah, if you would deprive them of these privileges, they will go somewhere else.”

Zaid Ibn Arqam, may Allah be pleased with him, heard this and took the information to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. At the time, he had just completed his military operation against his enemies. Zaid informed him in the presence of ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, and he (Umar) said, “Order Abbad Ibn Bishr to go and execute him.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “O ‘Umar, how would it then be when people begin to say that Muhammad has started killing his Companions? No, rather, make an announcement that we are proceeding immediately.” The people obediently proceeded at a time which was quite unusual for the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to proceed.

When he got wind that Zaid Ibn Arqam, may Allah be pleased with him, had informed the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of what he heard him say, Abdullah Ibn Ubayy Ibn Salool went to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, swearing by Allah that he had never said any of what he was told. Because he enjoyed an exalted status among his people, the Ansar who were with the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sympathized with him saying, “O Messenger of Allah, it may be that the boy imagined what he said and did not remember the exact words the man uttered.”

When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was on his way back, Usaid Ibn Hudair, may Allah be pleased with him, met and greeted him and said, “O Messenger of Allah, you are moving at a bad time, you have never done that before.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Have you not heard what your companion has said?” “Which companion?” Usaid asked and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Abdullah Ibn Ubayy.” “What did he say?” Usaid asked further to which the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, answered: “He claims that if he returns to Madinah, the honorable one will expel the meaner.” Usaid said reassuringly, “But you, O Messenger of Allah, can expel him if you wish. By Allah he is the mean one while you are the honorable one.” He added, ‘O Messenger of Allah, be gentle with him for Allah, the Almighty, brought you to us while his people were about to crown him and he believes that you have deprived him of a kingdom.”

Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, having the men with him, kept on walking throughout the day till night. Then throughout the night till next morning, so that the sun oppressed them. Then he stopped to alight. Once they were on the ground, they fell sound asleep. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did this deliberately so as to divert their thoughts from the incident of Abdullah Ibn Ubayy which had occurred the previous day.

Then the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded to a watering place known as AlBaq‘a in Hijaz slightly above An-Naqi‘. While on their journey, a violent wind blew which terrified them. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Do not be terrified by it, it signifies the death of one of the greatest disbelievers.” When they arrived in Madinah, they discovered that the person who had died that day was Rifa'ah Ibn Zaid Ibn At-Taboot, a member of Banu Qainuqa', a great figure among the Jews and a secret haven for the hypocrites.

Ibn Ishaq related: Among those who were captured as prisoners of war was Juwairiyah Bint Al-Harith Ibn Abu Dirar. Muhammad Ibn Ja'afar Ibn Az-Zubair narrated from Urwah that 'A'ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, said, "When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, distributed the prisoners of Banu Mustaliq, Juwairiyah Bint Al-Harith fell to the lot of Thabit Ibn Qais Ibn Shammās or his cousin. She entered into an agreement to purchase her freedom. She was a very beautiful woman, most attractive to the eye. No one saw her except that he was enamored by her (beauty)."

'A'ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, said, "She then came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asking him for the purchase of her freedom. When she was standing at the door, I looked at her with disapproval. I realized that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would look at her in the same way that I had looked."

She said, "O Messenger of Allah, I am Juwairiyah, daughter of Al-Harith, and something has happened to me, which is not hidden from you. I have fallen to the lot of Thabit Ibn Qais Ibn Shammās or his cousin, and I have entered into an agreement to purchase my freedom. I have come to you to seek assistance for the purchase of my freedom."

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Are you inclined to that which is better?" She asked, "What is that, O Messenger of Allah?" He replied: "I shall pay the price of your freedom on your behalf, and I shall marry you."

She said, "I shall do this." She ('A'ishah) said,

"The people then heard that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had married Juwairiyah. They released the captives in their possession and set them free, and said, "They are the relatives of the Messenger of Allah by marriage." One hundred families of Banu Mustaliq were set free on account of her. We did not see any woman greater than Juwairiyah who brought blessings to her people.”

Then, Ibn Ishaq mentioned the story of the Ifk in its entirety in this Ghazwah. This is how Al-Bukhari has also related it.

The Story of the Ifk (Slander)

Ibn Ishaq related that ‘A’ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, said: Whenever Allah’s Messenger intended to go on a journey, he used to draw lots amongst his wives. Whomever the lot fell on would travel with him. When it was the time of the Battle of Banu Mustaliq the lot fell on me so I proceeded with him.”

She said further: In those days the women would eat lightly, they did not like meat because they would put on weight. While the camel was being saddled, I would sit in my Hawdaj. The people would come to carry the Hawdaj from its lower part, lifting it up and placing it on the back of the camel where they would fasten it with a rope. They would hold the camel by the head and then they would proceed.

When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had finished that journey he turned back, and when he was nearing Madinah he halted and spent part of the night there. Then one of his men announced that they should be on their way. While they were getting ready, I went out for some purpose, wearing a necklace of mine around my neck. When I finished, it slipped from my neck without my knowing, and when I returned to the camel, I felt my neck for it but could not find it. Meanwhile, the group had already started off, and I returned to the place where I had been and looked for it until I found it. The men who had been saddling my camel for me came, and having already finished the preparation, picked up the Hawdaj, thinking that I was in it. Then they took the camel by its head and went off with it. I went back to the camp and not a soul was there, the men had gone. So I wrapped myself in my gown and lay down in my place. I knew that if I was missed the men would come back for me.

By Allah, I had barely laid down when Safwan Ibn Al-Mu'attal As-Sulami, who had remained behind from the army for the purpose of picking up some abandoned properties of the people so that he may return them to their respective owners, saw me.”

It is also claimed that he was left behind due to his heavy sleeping. This is corroborated by the Hadith related by Abu Dawood that his wife complained to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, about him saying, “O Messenger of Allah, he sleeps beyond the time of Salat As-Subh, he beats me when I pray and he forces me to break my fast.” He responded that he was a heavy sleeper, a trait for which his family was well-known. Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Offer your prayer whenever you wake up.” He also alleged that his wife would lengthen her prayer (in the night) elongating her recitation in it and that she used to fast a lot while he was present (with her).” Thus Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, forbade the woman not to fast while her husband is present except with his permission. (Hadith)

As-Suhaili said: Safwan, may Allah be pleased with him, was martyred during the Khilafah of Mu’awiyah. His leg was amputated (in battle) and he kept fighting till he was killed, may Allah be pleased with him. He was buried in Al-Jazeerah at a spot called Shimtat.

It is also possible that he had tarried behind for some of his needs and had not spent the night with the (other) people. When he saw a black object perching in the distance, he came toward me. He used to see me before the veil was prescribed for us, so when he recognized me he exclaimed: ‘Inna lillah wa inna ilayhi raji’oon’ (To Allah we belong and to Him is our return.) the wife of Allah’s Messenger?” while I was wrapped in my garment. He asked, “What has kept you back? May Allah shower His Mercy on you!” I did not reply. Then he brought his camel over and said, “Mount” and stood back from me. I mounted and he took the camel by its head and set off in search of the group. By Allah we did not overtake them nor was I missed until the morning when they had halted. When they had rested, the man appeared leading the camel with me riding it. Then the slanderers said what they said and the camp was disturbed, but, by Allah, I had no knowledge of that.

Then we arrived in Madinah and shortly afterward I became seriously ill and so I heard nothing of the matter. However, the talk reached the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and my parents and they did not mention a thing to me, more or less.

I missed some of the Prophet's usual kindness to me during this illness and I disliked that from him. Whenever he came in to see me while my mother was nursing me, he would say: "How is she?" and would say nothing more. I found some resentment in my heart so I said to him, "O Messenger of Allah, will you permit me to go over to my mother?" He replied: "Alright."

She continued: So I was taken to my mother's house still unaware of what had happened until I recovered from my illness about twenty days later. We were simple people and we used not to have toilets in our houses like the foreigners would have. We loathed and detested them. Instead, we used to go out into the open spaces of Madinah and the women would go out every night.

One night I went out for my need with Umm Mistah. By Allah she was walking with me when she tripped over her gown and exclaimed, "Wretched be Mistah!" I said, "By Allah, it is a bad thing to say of one of the Muhajireen (Emigrants) who fought at Badr!" Then she said, "Haven't you heard the news, daughter of Abu Bakr?" I replied, "What news?" then she informed me of what the slanderers were spreading. I said, "Did that really happen?" She said, "Yes, by Allah, it happened!" And by Allah I was not able to do what I had come to do, so I went back and by Allah, I did not stop crying until I felt that my heart would break. I said to my mother, "May Allah forgive you, the people were talking about all this and you did not mention a word of it to me?" She replied, "My little daughter, do not be grieved for by Allah, seldom is there a beautiful woman married to a man who loves her and having co-wives but they gossip about her and people do the same."

She added: The Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, had stood up and addressed the people while I had no knowledge of it. He praised Allah, the Almighty, then said: "O people, what is the matter with certain men that they disturb me about my family and say about them what is not true?"

By Allah, I know only good of them, and they say the same about a man of whom, by Allah I only know good, and who never enters a house of mine except in my company.”

She continued, “Most of the gossip came from ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy of the Khazraj tribe, besides what Mistah and Hammah Bint Jahsh said. That was because her sister Zainab Bint Jahsh was a wife of the Prophet, and only she among all the wives competed with me for his favor. As for Zainab, Allah protected her with her religion and she spoke nothing but good. However, Hammah gossiped all she could, opposing me for her sister’s sake.”

When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, made his speech, Usaid Ibn Hudair, may Allah be pleased with him, said, “O Messenger of Allah, if they are from the Aws, let us rid you of them; and if they are from our Khazraj brothers, then give us your orders, for, by Allah, they deserve to have their heads cut off.” Sa’d Ibn ‘Ubadah, may Allah be pleased with him, got up and before that, he was known to be a pious man and said, “You have made this statement only because you know that they are of the Khazraj, and if they had been from your tribe you would not have said that.”

Usaid said, “It is you who lied, by Allah, you are a hypocrite defending the hypocrites.”

Emotions ran very high so much so that the two groups almost broke into a fight. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stepped down from the pulpit and came in to see me. He called ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib and Usamah Zaid, may Allah be pleased with them, and asked their opinion.

Usamah, may Allah be pleased with him, spoke only good, saying, ‘O Messenger of Allah, they are your family, and this is a lie and falsehood.’ ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, however said, “O Messenger of Allah, women are plentiful and you are capable of marrying another one but ask the slave-girl and she will tell you the truth.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, called Bareerah and questioned her, and ‘Ali got up and gave her a severe beating, saying, “Tell the Messenger of Allah the truth!” She replied, “By Allah, I only know good of her, and I find no fault with ‘A’ishah except that I knead dough and tell her to watch it, but she falls asleep and the sheep come and eat it!”

Another time, the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, came in to see me while my parents and another woman from the Ansar were with me. I was weeping and she too was weeping. He sat down, praised Allah and then said: “‘A’ishah, you know what people say about you, so fear Allah, and if you have done wrong as people say, then repent to Allah, for He accepts repentance from His servants.” And by Allah as he said this my tears ceased, and I did not feel them anymore. I waited for my parents to reply on my behalf but they did not speak.”

She said: By Allah, I used to consider myself to be too inconsequential for Allah, the Almighty, to reveal the Qur’an about me. However, I hoped that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would see something in his dream by which Allah would clear me of the charge because He knew my innocence. As for the Qur’an being revealed about me, by Allah, I felt myself to be too insignificant for that.

When I saw that my parents would not speak, I said to them, “Will you not reply to the Messenger of Allah?” “By Allah we do not know what to say to him,” they said. By Allah I do not know of a household which suffered as the family of Abu Bakr did in those days.

Then she said, “When they kept silent, I burst into tears again, then I said: ‘By Allah, I shall never repent to Allah for what you mention. By Allah, I know that if I deny what the people say, you would not believe me.’

Then I searched for the name of Ya‘qoob (in my memory) but I could not remember it, so I said, “I say only what the father of Yoosuf, peace be upon him, said: ‘So (for me) patience is most fitting. And it is Allah (Alone) Whose help can be sought against that which you assert.’” (Soorah Yoosuf:18)

By Allah, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had not shifted from his sitting position when there came upon him what used to come upon him. So he was wrapped in his garment and a pillow was placed under his head. As for me, when I saw that, I was not afraid nor was I worried for I knew that I was innocent and that Allah, the Almighty, would not wrong me. As for my parents, by Him in Whose Hands is 'A'ishah's soul, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had hardly recovered when I thought that they would die from fear that confirmation of what the people said would come from Allah, the Almighty. Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, recovered and sat up, and there rolled down from his face sweat like pearls on a wintry day.

He sat wiping the perspiration from his face and saying: "Be of good cheer, 'A'ishah! Allah has revealed your innocence." I said, "Praise be to Allah!" Then he went out to the people and addressed them, reciting to them the Verses of the Qur'an that were revealed regarding the incident. Then he ordered that Mistah Ibn Uthathah, Hassan Ibn Thabit and Hammah Bint Jahsh be all brought for they were among those who spread the slander and he carried out on them their prescribed punishment.

This Hadith is also related in the Saheehain through Az-Zuhri. This sequence has copious benefits. It mentions the prescribed punishment meted out to Hassan and those with him. Abu Dawood related it in his Sunan. A Muslim poet said concerning the lashing of Hassan and his companions:

*Hassan did taste what befitted him,
And Hammah, when they made the evil claim, and Mistah,
They dabbled into accusing the wife of their Prophet,
And they incurred the anger of the Owner of the Noble Throne thus,
They were grieved.
They harmed the Messenger of Allah by (slandering) her,*

*They were draped in encompassing shame that persisted and they were disgraced, They were made to taste lashes like showers of rain,
Coming down profusely.*

The Ghazwah of Hudaibiyah

The battle occurred in Dhul-Qa'dah of the sixth year, by consensus. Al-Bukhari and Muslim related from Qatadah that Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him, informed him that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, performed four 'Umrahs all of them in Dhul-Qa'dah with the exception of the one he performed along with his Hajj. One 'Umrah from Hudaibiyah in the following year and yet another from Ji'ranah both of which occurred in Dhul-Qa'dah. Also in Dhul-Qa'dah he distributed the booty of the Battle of Hunayn; and then, an 'Umrah along with his Hajj." This is AlBukhari's wording.

Ibn Ishaq related through 'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair that Al-Miswar Ibn Makhramah and Marwan Ibn AlHakam both related that: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, marched out, in the year of Al-Hudaibiyah, with the intention of visiting the House (Ka'bah) and did not intend any fighting. He took with him forty camels garlanded for sacrifice. The people who went with him numbered seven hundred. One sacrificial camel was meant for every ten person. It has also reached me that Jabir used to say, "We, the Companions of Hudaibiyah numbered fourteen hundred."

Az-Zuhri said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, marched forth till he got to Usfan where Bishr bin Sufyan Al-Ka'bi met him and said, "O Messenger of Allah, the Quraish have become aware of your movement and they have marched forth even with nursing camels. They are right now encamped at Dhu Tuwa decked in tiger skin (traditional war regalia). They have pledged by Allah never to allow you entrance. Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed is commanding their cavalry and has gone ahead to set up camp at Kura'al-Gameem, a place situated between Makkah and Madinah.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said: “Woe to the Quraish, their hostility is undoing them. Why do they object to letting me settle this affair with the Arab tribes without intervention? If the Arab tribes destroy me, that will be a realization of their objective. If, on the other hand, Allah grants me victory, then they can enter into Islam with dignity; and if they resist, they can then fight with good cause. How does the Quraish think? By Allah, I shall never cease to strive to further the mission for which Allah has sent me till Allah causes it to prevail or I lose my neck in the process.”

Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, “Is there any man who can direct us to another route different from the ones the Quraish have occupied?” Ibn Ishaq added, Abdullah Ibn Abu Bakr narrated to me that a man from Aslam stood and said, “O Messenger of Allah, I can.” So he took them through a desolate rocky valley route. By the time they passed through the valley, the journey had been extremely hard upon the Muslims.

Soon after crossing the hard terrain, they departed and scattered into a plain land. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to the people: “We ask Allah for forgiveness and we repent unto Him.” After they had done so, he then said: “By Allah, this is the (saying of) ‘Forgive us’ which was ordained on the children of Isra’eel, but they did not say it.”

Ibn Shihab related: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, travelled on the way leading to the spot of Thaniyatal-Murar when his camel suddenly knelt down. The people began to say that it was stubbornly clinging to the ground. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “It is not stubborn as that is not its nature but it has been restrained by what restrained the elephant from entering Makkah. Today, the Quraish will not ask me for any anything which is conducive to strengthening the ties of kinship except that I shall grant them.

Az-Zuhri narrated in his Hadith: When Allah’s Messenger had settled down, Budail Ibn Warqa’alKhuza’i came with some people from his tribe, Khuza’a. They conversed with him and asked him for the reason why he had come. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, informed them that he did not come to fight, but to visit the House (of Allah) and venerate its sacredness.

Then they sent Mikraz Ibn Hafs Ibn Al-Akhyaf from Banu Amir Ibn Lu'ayy. When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw him coming, he said: "This is a treacherous man." When he approached and spoke to the Prophet, he (the Prophet) responded to him with the same words as he said to Budail and his Companions.

Then they sent to him Hulaiis Ibn Alqamah or Ibn Zabban who was at the time, the chief of the AlAhabeesh from Banu Al-Harith Ibn Abdul Manat Ibn Kinanah. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw him coming, he said: "This man is from the tribe that respects the Budn (i.e. camels of the sacrifice). So, bring the Budn in front of him." When he saw the sacrificial animals being driven in his presence through the valley and with knotted ropes already eaten into their skin due to long tethering at a spot, he returned to the Quraish expressing that he did not think it is advisable to prevent the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in deference to what he had seen. They said to him, "Sit down, you are an ordinary Bedouin possessing no knowledge."

Then they sent to the Prophet Urwah Ibn Mas'ood Ath-Thaqaafee and when he approached the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he sat in front of him and then said, "O Muhammad! Won't you feel any scruple in extirpating your relations? Have you ever heard of anyone amongst the Arabs extirpating his relatives before you? On the other hand, if the reverse should happen, (nobody will aid you, for) by Allah, I do not see (with you) dignified people, but people from various tribes who would run away leaving you alone."

Hearing that, Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, who was standing behind the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, rebuked him and said, "Do you say we would run and leave the Prophet alone?" Urwah said, "Who is that man?" They said, "He is Abu Bakr." Urwah said to Abu Bakr, "By Him in Whose Hands is my life, were it not for the favor which you did to me and which I did not compensate, I would retort on you."

Urwah kept on talking to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and seizing the Prophet's beard as he was talking while Al-Mugheerah Ibn Shu'bah was standing near the head of the Prophet, holding a sword and wearing a helmet. Whenever Urwah stretched his hand toward the beard of the Prophet, Al-Mugheerah would hit his hand with the handle of the sword and say (to Urwah), "Remove your hand from the beard of Allah's Messenger." Urwah raised his head and asked, "Who is that?" The people said, "He is Al-Mugheerah ibn Shu'bah." Urwah said, "O treacherous one! Am I not doing my best to prevent evil consequences of your treachery of yesterday?"

When he went back to the Quraish, he said, "O Quraish, I have visited Kisra in his sovereignty and I have equally visited Caesar and Negus in their respective sovereignties but by Allah, I have never witnessed a king among his subjects similar to Muhammad amongst his Companions. I have seen people who would never give him up for anything, so you may consider your opinion."

Ibn Ishaq related: I have been informed from 'Ikrimah from Ibn 'Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, that Quraish sent forty or fifty men from them ordering them to reconnoiter the army of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and to kidnap one of his Companions. The Quraish contingent were captured and brought to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, but he forgave and released them even though they had pelted the army of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, with stones and arrows.

Afterward, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, summoned 'Umar Ibn AlKhattab to convey his message to the chiefs of Makkah explaining the reason for his coming. Umar said, "O Messenger of Allah, I fear that they would kill me especially since there is none of the Banu Adiy in Makkah who could defend me and the Quraish are well acquainted with my animosity and harshness towards them, rather I recommend to you a man who is far more respectable to them than me – 'Uthman Ibn 'Affan."

Thus, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, summoned 'Uthman Ibn 'Affan, may Allah be pleased with him, and sent him to Abu Sufyan and other notables of Quraish informing them that he had not come to fight (against them) but to visit the House in honor of its sacredness. Soon after, information reached the Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, and the Muslims that 'Uthman, may Allah be pleased with him, had been killed. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "We shall not depart until we have fought against the people (of Quraish)." Then he invited (the Muslims) to give their pledge. This turned out to be the Pledge of Ridhwaan which took place under the tree.

Ibn Hisham related: Someone whose trustworthiness I trust informed me that he was informed through Ibn Abi Mulaikah from Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave a pledge on behalf of 'Uthman, may Allah be pleased with him, by placing his hand over the other. The chain of this Hadith as related by Ibn Hisham is weak however it is confirmed in the Saheehain.

Afterward, the Quraish sent Suhail Ibn 'Amr. When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw him coming, he said: "They have decided to negotiate peace with the sending of this man." When Suhail finally got to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, they both spoke at length and bantered words and finally struck a peace agreement. Afterward, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, requested 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib, may Allah be pleased with him, to record the terms of the treaty. "Write In the Name of Allah the Beneficent, the Merciful," The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, began to dictate to 'Ali but Suhail interjected, "I don't know that, rather, write 'In Your Name, O God.' It was written as Suhail demanded and then the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, resumed dictating to 'Ali: "Write: 'This is a peace treaty agreed upon by Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah and Suhail Ibn Amr.'" Again, Suhail interjected, "Had I acknowledged that you are indeed a Messenger of Allah, I would not have fought you. Rather, write 'What is agreed upon by Muhammad Ibn 'Abdullah and Suhail Ibn Amr.'"

The terms of the treaty stipulated that all hostilities shall be eschewed for ten years within which people would taste security and each side would abstain from (fighting) the other; whoever defects from the Quraish to Muhammad without the permission of his Waliyy, then he shall be repatriated to them but whoever defects to the Quraish from the camp of Muhammad shall not be repatriated to him. There shall neither be theft nor treachery. He who wishes to enter into a covenant and pact with Muhammad shall be covered and whoever wishes to enter into a covenant and pact with the Quraish shall be covered as well.

The Khuza‘ah chose to enter into agreement with Muhammad while the Banu Bakr entered into a pact and covenant with the Quraish. The terms of the treaty also included: “...And that you shall turn back away without entering Makkah (against our wish) this year. Next year, however, we shall leave it for you and your Companions for three days carrying nothing but riders’ dagger and sheathed sword.”

While the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was in the process of concluding this treaty, Abu Jandal Ibn Suhail Ibn ‘Amr appeared in fetters, he had escaped to the Prophet from incarceration. Meanwhile, the Companions of the Prophet had left home having no doubt of the Conquest (of Makkah) based on the vision that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had earlier seen.

However, when they saw the turn of events and them leaving [without making hajj] as part of the terms of the peace agreement, which was being foisted on them, and what the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had to endure, they became extremely depressed almost to the point of death. When Suhail saw Abu Jandal, he got up and hit him in the face and held him by the collar and said: “O Muhammad, the pact had been concluded before this man came to you.” He (the Prophet) said: “You are correct.” Then he kept pulling the man violently by his collar with the intent of taking him back to the Quraish. Abu Jandal kept crying at the top of his voice, “O Muslims, I am to be sent back to the disbelievers to coerce me from my religion?”

This exacerbated the grief felt by the Muslims. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Abu Jandal, be patient in expectation of the reward; Allah will forge relief and a way out for you and other oppressed persons with you. We have entered a pact of peace with these people and we have given them our word and they have given us theirs by Allah and we do not want to betray them.

When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, rose from the peace treaty, he went to his sacrificial animal and slaughtered it and then had his head shaven. The one who shaved his head that day was Khirash Ibn Umayyah Ibn Al-Fadl Al-Khuza'i. When the Muslims saw that the Messenger had slaughtered and shaven his head, they rushed to do so as well.

Ibn Ishaq related from Ibn 'Abbas, may Allah be pleased with him, that, some men shaved their head while others merely trimmed it. So Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “May Allah have mercy on those who shaved.” People interjected: “And those who trimmed, O Messenger of Allah?” “May Allah have mercy on those who shaved,” Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, repeated. Still the people interjected, “And those who trimmed, O Messenger of Allah?” Then the Messenger said, “...And those who trimmed.” The people asked, “O Messenger of Allah, why did you give preference to those who shaved asking mercy for them to the preclusion of those who trimmed?” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, responded: “(Because) they did not doubt.”

Al-Bukhari related from Zaid Ibn Khalid who said, “We went out with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in the Year of Al-Hudaibiyah. One night, it rained and Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, led us in the Fajr Prayer and (after finishing it), turned to us and said: “Do you know what your Lord has said?” We replied, “Allah and His Messenger know it better.” He said: “Allah says: (Some of) My slaves got up believing in Me, And (some of them) disbelieving in Me. The one who said: We have been given rain through Allah's Mercy and Allah's Blessing and Allah's Bounty, then he is a believer in Me, and is a disbeliever in the star. And whoever said: We have been given rain because of such and such star, then he is a believer in the star, and is a disbeliever in Me.

Al-Bukhari also related from Al-Bara' (Ibn 'Azib) who said, "Do you (people) consider the conquest of Makkah the victory? Was the conquest of Makkah a victory? We really consider that the actual Victory was the Ar-Ridhwaan Pledge of allegiance which we gave on the day of Al-Hudaibiyah (to the Prophet). On the day of Al-Hudaibiyah we were fourteen hundred men along with the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him. Al-Hudaibiyah was a well, the water of which we used up and did not leave a single drop of water remaining. When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was informed of that, he came and sat on its edge. Then he asked for a utensil of water, performed ablution from it, rinsed (his mouth), supplicated (to Allah, the Almighty), and poured the remaining water into the well. We stayed there for a while and then the well filled with water for ourselves and our riding animals." The Hadith is exclusively related by Al-Bukhari.

Az-Zuhri said, "No previous victory was greater than this. It was only fighting when people met; however, when there was an armistice instead of war, people felt secure, sat together and negotiated to settle disputes. No one rationalized what was said about Islam except that he embraced it. In those two years, so many people embraced Islam as never before or even more. Ibn Hisham said: The proof of what Az-Zuhri said is that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, marched out to Hudaibiyah with one thousand four hundred men according to Jabir's report but he marched out two years afterward, for the conquest of Makkah, with ten thousand men.

Al-Bukhari related from Jabir who said: "On the day of Al-Hudaibiyah, the people felt thirsty and Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had a utensil containing water. He performed ablution from it and then the people came toward him. Allah's Messenger said: 'What is wrong with you?' The people said, 'O Allah's Messenger! We haven't got any water to perform ablution with or to drink, except what you have in your utensil.' So the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, put his hand in the utensil and the water started gushing out between his fingers like springs. So we drank and performed ablution." I said to Jabir,

“What was your number on that day?” He replied, “Even if we had been one hundred thousand, that water would have been sufficient for us. Anyhow, we were 1,500.”

Al-Bukhari also related that Qatadah said to Sa‘eed Ibn Al-Musayyab: It (information) has reached me that Jabir said they were fourteen hundred men. Sa‘eed then responded: Jabir narrated to me that there were fifteen hundred men who pledged allegiance to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the day of Al-Hudaibiyah.

Al-Bukhari related from ‘Amr who heard Jabir say, “On the day of Al-Hudaibiyah, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to us: ‘You are the best people on the earth!’ We were 1,400 then. If I could see now, I would have shown you the place of the Tree (underneath which we gave the Pledge of allegiance).”

Al-Bukhari related from Abdullah Ibn Abu Awfa said, “The people (who gave the Pledge of allegiance) under the Tree numbered 1300 and the number of Banu Aslam was one-eighth of the Emigrants.”

Then Al-Bukhari related from Marwan and Al-Miswar Ibn Makhramah both of whom said: “In the year of Al-Hudaibiyah, the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, went out with around ten thousand of his Companions. When they got to Dhul Hulayfah, he garlanded and marked his Hady and assumed his Ihram from there.”

All of these narrations contradict the view of Ibn Ishaq that the Companions of Al-Hudaibiyah numbered seven hundred. And Allah knows best. He merely said that spontaneously from his own conjecture, owing to the fact that the number of the sacrificial camels on that day was seventy, each one meant for ten people. Based on his opinion, the people who made the sacrifice would then be seven hundred. On the contrary, however, it is neither automatic that all of them slaughtered nor that all of them assumed Ihram. It is confirmed that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent some of them who did not assume Ihram, among whom was Abu Qatadah, may Allah be pleased with him. Abu Qatadah, may Allah be pleased with him, did not assume Ihram which was why he was able to kill the wild donkey from which he and his companions ate and some of which they took to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, midway through their journey. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Did anyone of you order him to attack it (the animal) or pointed it out to him?" They responded, "No." He said: "You may eat the remainder of its meat."

Al-Bukhari related from 'Abdullah Ibn Abi Qatadah that his father related to him saying, "We set out with the Prophet in the year of Al-Hudaibiyah, and all his companions assumed Ihram but I did not."

Al-Bukhari related from Qatadah (who narrated) from Sa'eed Ibn Al-Musayyab (who in turn narrated) from his father who said, "I had seen the tree (under which the pledge was made) and I came to it but afterwards I did not recognize it anymore."

Al-Bukhari also related through Tariq Ibn 'Abdur-Rahmaan who said, "When I set out for Hajj, I passed by some people offering a prayer, I asked, "What is this mosque?" They said, "This is the Tree where Allah's Messenger took the Ar-Ridhwaan Pledge of allegiance. Then I went to Sa'eed Ibn Al-Musayyab and informed him about it. Sa'eed said, "My father said that he was amongst those who had given the Pledge of Allegiance to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, beneath the Tree.

He (i.e., my father) said, When we set out the following year, we forgot the Tree and were unable to recognize it." Then Sa'eed said (perhaps sarcastically), "The Companions of the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, could not recognize it; nevertheless, you (claim to) recognize it; do you then possess better knowledge (than them)?"

Al-Bukhari related from Abbad Ibn Tameem who said, "When it was the day (of the Battle) of Al-Harra the people were giving Pledge of Allegiance to 'Abdullah Ibn Hanzalah. Ibn Zaid said, "For what are the people giving Pledge of allegiance to 'Abdullah Ibn Hanzalah?" It was said to him, "For death." Ibn Zaid said, "I will never give the Pledge of Allegiance for that to anybody else after Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him.” Ibn Zaid was one of those who had witnessed the day of Al-Hudaibiyah with the Prophet.”

Al-Bukhari’s Narration of the ‘Umrah of Al-Hudaibiyah

Al-Miswar Ibn Al-Makhrumah and Marwan (whose narrations corroborate each other) said: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, set out at the time of Al-Hudaibiyah (treaty), and when they proceeded for a distance, he said, “Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed is leading the cavalry of Quraish and is at a place called Al-Ghameem, so take the way to the right.” By Allah, Khalid did not perceive the arrival of the Muslims till the dust arising from the march of the Muslim army reached him, and then he turned back hurriedly to inform the Quraish.

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went on advancing till he reached Thaniyyah (i.e., a mountainous way) through which one would go to them (i.e., people of Quraish). The she-camel of the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, sat down. The people tried their best to cause the shecamel to get up but in vain, so they said, “Al-Qaswa’ (i.e. the she-camel’s name) has become stubborn! Al-Qaswa’ has become stubborn!” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “AlQaswa’ has not become stubborn, for stubbornness is not her habit, but she was stopped by Him Who stopped the elephant.” Then he said: “By the Name of Him in Whose Hands my soul is, if they (i.e., the Quraish infidels) ask me anything which will respect the ordinances of Allah, I will grant it to them.”

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then rebuked the she-camel and she got up. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, changed his way till he dismounted at the farthest end of Al-Hudaibiyah at a pit (i.e., well) containing a little water which the people used in small amounts, and in a short while the people used up all its water and complained to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of thirst. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took an arrow out of his arrow-case and ordered them to put the arrow in that pit. By Allah, the water started and continued gushing out till all the people quenched their thirst and returned with satisfaction.

While they were still in that state, Budail Ibn Warqa'-Al-Khuza'i came with some people from his tribe Khuza'ah and they were the advisers of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who would keep no secret from him and were from the people of Tihamah. Budail said, "I left Ka'b Ibn Lu'ayy and 'Amir Ibn Lu'ayy residing at the profuse water of Al-Hudaibiyyah and they had milch camels (or their women and children) with them, and will wage war against you, and will prevent you from visiting the Ka'bah." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, said: "We have not come to fight anyone, but to perform the 'Umrah. No doubt, the war has weakened Quraish and they have suffered great losses, so if they wish, I will conclude a truce with them, during which they should refrain from interfering between me and the people (i.e., the Arab infidels other than Quraish), and if I have victory over those infidels, Quraish will have the option to embrace Islam as the other people do, if they wish; they will at least get strong enough to fight. But if they do not accept the truce, by Allah in Whose Hands my life is, I will fight with them defending my Cause till I get killed, but (I am sure) Allah will definitely make His Cause victorious."

Budail said, "I will inform them of what you have said." So, he set off till he reached the Quraish and said, "We have come from that man (i.e., Muhammad) whom we heard saying something which we will disclose to you if you should like." Some of the fools among the Quraish shouted that they were not in need of this information, but the wiser among them said, "Relate what you heard him saying." Budail said, "I heard him saying so-and-so," relating what the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had told him.

'Urwah Ibn Mas'ood got up and said, "O people! Are you not the sons? They said, "Yes." He added, "Am I not the father?" They said, "Yes." He said, "Do you mistrust me?" They said, "No." He said, "Do you not know that I invited the people of 'Ukadh for your help, and when they refused I brought my relatives and children and those who obeyed me (to help you)?" They said, "Yes." He said, "This man (i.e., the Prophet) has offered you a reasonable proposal, you had better accept it and allow me to meet him." They said, "You may meet him." So, he went to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and started talking to him. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, told him almost the same thing as he had told Budail. Then ‘Urwah said, “O Muhammad! Won’t you feel any scruple in extirpating your relations? Have you ever heard of anyone amongst the Arabs extirpating his relatives before you? On the other hand, if the reverse should happen, (nobody will aid you, for) by Allah, I do not see (with you) dignified people, but people from various tribes who would run away leaving you alone.”

Hearing that, Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, abused him and said, “Do you say we would run and leave the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, alone?” ‘Urwah said, “Who is that man?” They said, “He is Abu Bakr.” ‘Urwah said to Abu Bakr, “By Him in Whose Hands my life is, were it not for the favor which you did to me and which I did not compensate, I would retort at you.” ‘Urwah kept on talking to the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, and seizing the Prophet’s beard as he was talking while Al-Mugheerah Ibn Shu‘bah was standing near the head of the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, holding a sword and wearing a helmet. Whenever ‘Urwah stretched his hand toward the beard of the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, Al-Mugheerah would hit his hand with the handle of the sword and say (to ‘Urwah), “Remove your hand from the beard of Allah’s Messenger.” ‘Urwah raised his head and asked, “Who is that?” The people said, “He is Al-Mugheerah Ibn Shu‘bah.” ‘Urwah said, “O treacherous one! Am I not doing my best to prevent evil consequences of your treachery?”

Before embracing Islam, Al-Mugheerah was in the company of some people. He killed them and took their property and came (to Madinah) to embrace Islam. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to him: “As regards your Islam, I accept it, but as for the property I do not take anything of it.” (As it was taken through treason).” ‘Urwah then started looking at the Companions of the Prophet. By Allah, whenever Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, spat, the spittle would fall in the hand of one of them (i.e. the Prophet’s Companions) who would rub it on his face and skin; if he ordered them they would carry out his orders immediately; if he performed ablution, they would struggle to take the remaining water; and when they spoke to him, they would lower their voices and would not look at his face constantly out of respect. ‘Urwah returned to his people and said, “O people! By Allah, I have been to the kings and to Qaisar, Kisra and Najashi, yet I have never seen any of them respected by his courtiers as much as Muhammad is respected by his Companions. By Allah, if he spits, the spittle falls in the hand of one of them (i.e. the Prophet's Companions) who would rub it on his face and skin; if he orders them, they carry out his order immediately; if he performs ablution, they struggle to take the remaining water; and when they speak, they lower their voices and do not look at his face constantly out of respect." 'Urwah added, "No doubt, he has presented to you a good reasonable offer, so please accept it."

A man from the tribe of Banu Kinanah said, "Allow me to go to him," and they allowed him, and when he approached the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, and his companions, Allah's Messenger said: "He is so-and-so who belongs to the tribe that respects the Budn (i.e. camels of the sacrifice). So, bring the Budn in front of him." So, the Budn were brought before him and the people received him while they were reciting Talbiyah. When he saw that scene, he said, "Glorified be Allah! It is not fair to prevent these people from visiting the Ka'bah." When he returned to his people, he said, 'I saw the Budn garlanded (with colored knotted ropes) and marked (with stabs on their backs). I do not think it is advisable to prevent them from visiting the Ka'bah." Another person called Mikraz Ibn Hafz got up and sought their permission to go to Muhammad, and they allowed him, too. When he approached the Muslims, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Here is Mikraz and he is a vicious man." Mikraz started talking to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and as he was talking, Suhail Ibn 'Amr came.

Ma'mar related: Ayyoob related to me on the authority of 'Ikrimah that when Suhail Ibn 'Amr came, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Your affair has become easy." Ma'mar added: Az-Zuhri related in his own narration: Suhail said, "Please conclude a peace treaty with us." So, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, called the scribe and said to him: "Write: In the Name of Allah, the most Beneficent, the most Merciful." Suhail said, "As for 'Beneficent,' by Allah, I do not know what it means. So write: 'In Your Name O Allah', as you used to write previously." The Muslims said, "By Allah, we will not write except: By the Name of Allah, the most

Beneficent, the most Merciful.” The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said: “Write: In Your Name O Allah.” Then he dictated: “This is the peace treaty which Muhammad, Allah’s Messenger has concluded.” Suhail said, “By Allah, if we knew that you were Allah’s Messenger we would not prevent you from visiting the Ka‘bah, and would not fight with you. So, write: “Muhammad Ibn ‘Abdullah.” The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said: “By Allah! I am Messenger of Allah even if you people do not believe me. Write: Muhammad Ibn ‘Abdullah.”

It is recorded in the Saheeh that ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, objected saying, “By Allah I will not erase you.” Then he took over the writing and wrote: “This is the peace treaty which Muhammad Ibn ‘Abdullah has concluded.” Many people have spoken at length on this issue and we mentioned it in brief in the explanation of the statement of Allah: Neither did you (O Muhammad) read any book before it (this Qur'an), nor did you write any book (whatsoever) with your right hand. In that case, indeed, the followers of falsehood might have doubted.

In some versions, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Whoever defects from us will be distanced by Allah (from His mercy).”

Az-Zuhri said, “The Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, accepted all those terms, as he had already said that he would accept everything they would demand if it respected the ordinance of Allah, the Almighty, (i.e., by letting him and his companions perform ‘Umrah.)” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Suhail: “On the condition that you allow us to visit the House (i.e. Ka‘bah) so that we may perform Tawaf around it.” Suhail said, “By Allah, we will not (allow you this year) so as not to give chance to the Arabs to say that we have yielded to you, but we will allow you next year.” So, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, got that written.

Then Suhail said, “We also stipulate that you should return to us whoever comes to you from us, even if he has embraced your religion.” The Muslims said, “Glorified be Allah! How will such a person be returned to the pagans after he has become a Muslim?” While they were in this state

Abu Jandal Ibn Suhail bin ‘Amr came from the valley of Makkah staggering with his fetters and fell down amongst the Muslims. Suhail said, “O Muhammad! This is the very first term with which we make peace with you, i.e., you shall return Abu Jandal to me.” The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said: “The peace treaty has not been written yet.” Suhail said, “I will never allow you to keep him.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Yes.” He said, “I will not.” The Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, said: “We allow you (to keep him).” Abu Jandal said, “O Muslims! Will I be returned to the pagans though I have come as a Muslim? Don’t you see how much I have suffered?” Abu Jandal had been tortured severely for the cause of Allah, the Almighty.

Az-Zuhri added: ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said, “I went to the Prophet and said, ‘Are you not truly the Messenger of Allah?’ The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said: ‘Yes, indeed.’ I said, ‘Is not our cause just and the cause of the enemy unjust?’ He said: ‘Yes.’ I said, ‘Then why should we be humiliated in our religion?’ He said: “I am Allah’s Messenger and I do not disobey Him, and He will make me victorious.” I said, ‘Did you not tell us that we would go to the Ka‘bah and perform Tawaf around it?’ He said: “Yes, but did I tell you that we would visit the Ka‘bah this year?” I said, ‘No.’ He said: “So you will visit it and perform Tawaf around it.”

“Umar further said, “I went to Abu Bakr and said, ‘O Abu Bakr! Is he not truly Allah’s Prophet?’ He replied, ‘Yes.’ I said, ‘Then why should we be humble in our religion?’ He said, ‘Indeed, he is Allah’s Messenger and he does not disobey his Lord, and He will make him victorious. Adhere to him as, by Allah, he is on the right.’ I said, ‘Was he not telling us that we would go to the Ka‘bah and perform Tawaf around it?’ He said, ‘Yes, but did he tell you that you would go to the Ka‘bah this year?’ I said, ‘No.’ He said, ‘You will go to the Ka‘bah and perform Tawaf around it.’” (Az-Zuhri added, ‘Umar said, “I performed many good deeds as expiation for the improper questions I asked them.”)

When the writing of the peace treaty was concluded, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to his companions, “Get up and slaughter your sacrifices and get your head shaved.” By Allah none of them got up, and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, repeated his order thrice. When none of them got up, he left them and went to Umm Salamah, may Allah be pleased with her, and told her of the people's attitude toward him. Umm Salamah, may Allah be pleased with her, said, "O Prophet of Allah! Do you want your order to be carried out? Go out and do not say a word to anybody till you have slaughtered your sacrifice and call your barber to shave your head." So, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went out and did not talk to anyone of them till he did that, i.e., slaughtered the sacrifice and called his barber who shaved his head. Seeing that, the Companions of the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, got up, slaughtered their sacrifices, and started shaving the heads of one another.

Afterwards, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to Madinah then Abu Baseer, a new Muslim convert from Quraish came to him (Ibn Ishaq said: al-Azhar bin Abd Awf az-Zuhri and al-Akhnas bin Shuraiq ath-Thaqafi sent a man from Banu Amir bin Lu'ayy along with a freed slave of theirs to seek Abu Baseer's repatriation. He also mentioned that the one whom Abu Baseer killed was the man from Banu al-Amir and the one who escaped was the freed slave).

The infidels sent in his pursuit two men who said (to the Prophet), "Abide by the promise you gave us." So, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, handed him over to them. They took him out (of the city) till they reached Dhul-Hulaifah where they dismounted to eat some dates they had with them. Abu Baseer said to one of them, "By Allah, O so-and-so, I see you have a fine sword." The other drew it out (of the scabbard) and said, "By Allah, it is very fine and I have tried it many times." Abu Baseer said, "Let me have a look at it."

When the other gave it to him, he hit him with it till he died, and his companion ran away till he came to Madinah and entered the Mosque running. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw him he said: "This man appears to have been frightened." When he reached the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he said, "My companion has been murdered and I would have been murdered too." Abu Baseer came and said, "O Allah's Messenger, by Allah, Allah has made you fulfill your obligations by your returning me to them (i.e. the Infidels), but Allah, the Almighty, has saved me from them.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: (Woe to his mother! What an excellent war kindler he would be, should he only have supporters!)

When Abu Baseer heard that he understood that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would return him to them again, so he set off till he reached the seashore. Abu Jandal Ibn Suhail managed to escape from captivity (i.e. of the infidels) and joined Abu Baseer. So, whenever a man from Quraish embraced Islam he would follow Abu Baseer till they formed a strong group. By Allah, whenever they heard about a caravan of Quraish heading toward Sham, they stopped it, attacked and killed them (i.e., infidels) and took their properties. The people of Quraish sent a message to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, requesting him for the sake of Allah, kith and kin to send for Abu Baseer and his companions promising that whoever (amongst them) came to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would be secure. So the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent for them (i.e. Abu Baseer’s companions) and Allah revealed the following Verses:

And it is He Who has withheld their hands from you and your hands from them in the midst of Makkah, after He made you the victorious over them... the pride and haughtiness of the time of ignorance.” (Soorah Al-Fat’h 48:24-26)

And their pride and haughtiness was such that they did not confess (write in the treaty) that he (i.e. Muhammad) was the Prophet of Allah and refused to write: “In the Name of Allah, the most Beneficent, the Most Merciful,” and prevented the Muslims from visiting the Ka’bah. This version includes some beneficial additions that are not present in the version of Ibn Ishaq from Az-Zuhri.

Al-Bukhari related from Zaid Ibn Aslam who narrated from his father that while Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was proceeding at night during one of his journeys and ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, was traveling beside him, ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, asked him about something but Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not reply. He asked again, but he did not reply, and then he asked (for the third time) but he did not reply. On that, ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, said to himself, “Thakilatka Ummuka ya Umar (May ‘Umar’s mother lose her son)! I asked Allah’s Messenger three times but he did not reply.” ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, then said, “I made my camel run faster and went ahead of the people, and I was afraid that some Qur’anic Verses might be revealed concerning me. Not long afterwards, I heard somebody calling me. I said to myself, ‘I fear that some Qur’anic Verses have been revealed concerning me,’ and so I went to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, and greeted him. He said: “Tonight a Soorah (Chapter) has been revealed to me, and it is dearer to me than that on which the sun rises (i.e. the world)” Then he recited: “Verily, We have given you a manifest victory.” (Soorah Al-Fat’h 48:1)

Military Expeditions and Invasions that Occurred in the Sixth Year of Hijrah

The summary of that is cited by Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi from Al-Waqidi. He said: In Rabee‘ ul-Awwal or Rabee‘ ul-Akhir of that year, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Ukkashah Ibn Mihsan at the head of forty men to Al-Ghamr, among whom were Thabit Ibn Aqram and Siba‘ Ibn Wahb both of whom were too hasty thus their action warned the enemy and they fled.

The same year, Abu ‘Ubaidah Ibn al-Jarrah, may Allah be pleased with him, was sent with forty men to Al-Qassah. They advanced toward the enemy on foot till got to them in the early morning and then fled into the mountain tops. Also, Muhammad Ibn Maslamah was sent among a contingent of ten men. The enemy hid for them till they were asleep, unaware of the lurking danger. The companions of Muhammad Ibn Maslamah were all killed but he escaped with injuries.

Occurring in the same year was the military expedition of Zaid Ibn Harithah at Al-Hamoom where he captured an adorned lady called Haleemah. She directed the Muslims to one of the quarters of Banu Sulaim where they obtained fortune and captives. Among the captives was this lady’s husband. As a reward, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave her back to her husband and manumitted both of them.

Again, Zaid Ibn Harithah was sent to Banu Tha‘labah in the Jumadal-Oola of the same year with a detachment of fifteen men. The Arab tribes fled from him. It is also said that the merchandise in the custody of Abu Al-‘As Ibn Ar-Rabee‘ was seized this year he sought the protection of Zainab, may Allah be pleased with her, the daughter of Allah’s Messenger and it was granted.

In Sha‘ban of the sixth year, the detachment commanded by Abdur-Rahman Ibn ‘Awf, may Allah be pleased with him, was sent to Daumat ul-Jandal. Before he left, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, instructed him: “If they obey you, marry the daughter of their king.” The people accepted Islam and following the Prophet’s recommendation, Abdur-Rahman, may Allah be pleased with him, married Tumadir Ibn Al-Asbagh Al-Kalbiyah, the daughter of their king, who gave birth to Abu Salamah Ibn Abdur-Rahmaan bin Awf.

Shawwal of the sixth year also witnessed the expedition of Kurz Ibn Jabir Al-Fihri against the people of ‘Urainah who murdered the shepherd of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and herded away the livestock. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent on their trail Kurz Ibn Jabir at the command of twenty horsemen who succeeded in repulsing them and returned the stolen livestock.

From their story is what is related by Al-Bukhari and Muslim: Anas, may Allah be pleased with him, said, “Some people of ‘Ukl or ‘Urainah tribe came to Madinah and its climate did not suit them. So the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered them to go to the herd of (milch) camels and to drink their milk and urine (as a medicine). So they went as directed and after they became healthy, they killed the shepherd of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and drove away all the camels. The news reached the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, early in the morning and he sent (men) in their pursuit and they were captured and brought at noon. He then ordered to cut their hands and feet (and it was done), and their eyes were branded with heated pieces of iron. They were abandoned in the direction of ‘Al-Harrah’ till they died in that condition.”

Summary of Events and Occurrences of the Sixth Year of Hijrah

The obligation of Hajj was promulgated this year as repeatedly pointed out by Ash-Shafi'i, may Allah have Mercy on him, while commenting on the statement of Allah, the Almighty: And perform properly (i.e. all the ceremonies according to the ways of Prophet Muhammad), the Hajj and 'Umrah (i.e. the pilgrimage to Makkah) for Allah. (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:196).

Consequently, he is of the opinion that Hajj should be performed at a later time. This is because he (the Prophet) did not perform Hajj until the tenth year. However, Ash-Shafi'i, may Allah have Mercy upon him, is contradicted by the other three Imams – Malik, Abu Hanifah and Ahmad, may Allah have Mercy upon them. According to them, Hajj is obligatory earnestly upon anyone who is able to undertake it.

In this year also, the Muslim women were forbidden in marriage to the disbelievers as a specification of (and an exemption from) the general provision of the Treaty of Hudaibiyah stipulating that "...you should return to us whoever comes to you from us, even if he embraces your religion." Then Allah revealed:

O you who believe! When believing women come to you as emigrants, examine them, Allah knows best as to their Faith, then if you ascertain that they are true Believers, send them not back to the disbelievers, they are not lawful (wives) for the disbelievers nor are the disbelievers lawful (husbands) for them. (Soorah Al-Mumtahinah 60:10)

The Ghazwah of Al-Muraisi' as well as the 'Umrah of Al-Hudaibiyah also occurred in this year.

The Seventh Year of the Prophetic Hijrah

The Ghazwah of Khaibar occurring at the onset of the year. 'Urwah related on the authority of Marwan and Al-Miswar both of whom said, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned in the year of Al-Hudaibiyah and Soorah Al-Fat'h was revealed to him at a distance between Makkah and Madinah. He arrived in Madinah in the month of Dhul-Hijjah where he remained till he marched forth to Khaibar. He encamped at Al-Rajee' which is a valley situated between Khaibar and Ghatafan. In order not to stir Ghatafan into reinforcing the enemies, he spent the night at the valley and invaded Khaibar the following morning.

Imam Ahmad, may Allah have mercy upon him, has also related from Ibn Irak who narrated from his father that Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, arrived at Madinah in the midst a contingent of his people while the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was still engaged in Khaibar. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had deputized Siba' Ibn 'Urfutah Al-Ghatafani to oversee the affairs of Madinah in his absence. Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, narrated, "We got to him while he was reciting: Kaf- Ha-Ya-'Ain-Sad (Soorah Maryam 19:1) in the first Rak'ah and in the second: Woe to Al-Mutaffifeen [those who give less in measure and weight (decrease the rights of others)] (Soorah Al-Mutaffifeen 83:1) Then I said to myself: 'Woe be to such and such person who, when he has to receive by measure (from others) he demands full measure but when he has to give by measure or weight (to others), he gives less than due.' Upon concluding the Salat, he equipped us so that we may proceed to Khaibar. We got to Khaibar after it had been conquered by the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him." Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, added, "The Prophet recommended that the Muslims let us partake in their booty."

Al-Bukhari related that Salamah Ibn Al-Akwa' said, "We went out to Khaibar in the company of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. While we were proceeding at night, a man from the group said to 'Amir, "O 'Amir! Won't you let us hear your poetry?" 'Amir was a poet, so he got down and started reciting for the people poetry that kept pace with the camels' footsteps, saying: "O Allah! Without You we would not have been guided on the right path

Neither would we have given in charity, nor would we have prayed.

*So please forgive us, what we have committed (i.e. our defects); let all of us be sacrificed for Your cause And send Sakinah (i.e. calmness) upon us to make our feet firm When we meet our enemy, and If they will call us towards an unjust thing, we will refuse.
The infidels have made a hue and cry to ask others' help against us."*

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on that, asked: "Who is that (camel) driver (reciting poetry)?" The people said, "He is 'Amir Ibn Al-Akwa'."

Then the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "May Allah have Mercy on him." A man amongst the people said, "O Allah's Prophet! Has (martyrdom) been granted to him? Would that you let us enjoy his company longer." Then we reached and besieged Khaibar till we were afflicted with severe hunger. Then Allah, the Almighty, helped the Muslims to conquer it (i.e., Khaibar). In the evening of the day of the conquest of the city, the Muslims made huge fires. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: (What are these fires? What are you cooking over the fire?) The people replied, "(For cooking) meat." He asked: "What kind of meat?" They (i.e. people) said, "The meat of donkeys." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Throw away the meat and break the pots!" A man said, "O Allah's Messenger! Shall we throw away the meat and wash the pots instead?" He said: "(Yes, you can do) that too."

So when the army ranks were arranged in rows (for the clash), 'Amir's sword was short and he aimed at the leg of a Jew to strike it, but the sharp blade of the sword returned to him and injured his own knee, and that caused him to die. When they returned from the battle, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw me (in a sad mood). He took my hand and said: "What is bothering you?" I replied, "Let my father and mother be sacrificed for you! The people say that the deeds of 'Amir are lost." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Whoever says so, is mistaken, for 'Amir has got a double reward." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, raised two fingers and added: “He (i.e. ‘Amir) was a persevering struggler in the cause of Allah and there are few ‘Arabs who achieved the like of (good deeds) ‘Amir had done.”

Al-Bukhari also related from Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him, that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, reached Khaibar at night and it was his habit that, whenever he reached the enemy at night, he would not attack them till it was morning. When it was morning, the Jews came out with their spades and baskets, and when they saw him (i.e. the Prophet), they said, “Muhammad! By Allah! Muhammad and his army!” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Khaibar is destroyed, for whenever we approach a (hostile) nation (to fight), then evil will be the morning for those who have been warned.”

Al-Bukhari also related that Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him, said, “The Prophet offered the Fajr Prayer near Khaibar when it was still dark and then said: “Allahu-Akbar! Khaibar is destroyed, for whenever we approach a belligerent nation to fight, then evil will be the morning for those who have been warned.” Then the inhabitants of Khaibar came out running on the roads. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had their warriors killed, their offspring and woman taken as captives. Safiyyah, may Allah be pleased with her, was amongst the captives. She first fell into the lot of Dihyah Al-Kalbi, may Allah be pleased with him, but later on she was transferred to the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, made her manumission as her Mahr. Abdul Azeez Ibn Suhaib said to Thabit, “O Abu Muhammad, are you the one who informed Anas what her Mahr was?” and he nodded his head in affirmation.

Al-Bukhari related from Abu ‘Imran Al-Jawni who said: Anas, may Allah be pleased with him, looked at the people on the day of Jumu‘ah and saw a pallium (i.e. a special kind of head-covering worn by Jews in old days). and he said: “At this moment they (i.e. those people) look like the Jews of Khaibar.”

He (Al-Bukhari) also related on the authority of Sahl Ibn Sa‘d that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the day (of the Battle) of Khaibar: “Tomorrow I will give the flag to somebody who will be given victory (by Allah) and who loves Allah and His Messenger and is loved by Allah and His Messenger.” So, the people wondered all night as to who would receive the flag and in the morning everyone hoped that he would be that person. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, asked: “Where is ‘Ali?” He was told that ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, was suffering from eye-trouble, so he applied saliva to his eyes and supplicated to Allah, the Almighty, to cure him. He at once got cured as if he had no ailment. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave him the flag. ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, asked, “Should I fight them till they become like us (i.e. Muslims)?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Go to them patiently and calmly till you enter the land. Then, invite them to Islam, and inform them what is enjoined upon them, for, by Allah, if Allah gives guidance to somebody through you, it is better for you than possessing red camels.”

Al-Bukhari related that Yazeed Ibn Abu Ubaid said, “I saw the scar from a wound on Salamah’s leg. I said to him, ‘O Abu Muslim! What is this wound?’ He said, ‘This was inflicted on me on the Day of Khaibar and the people said, ‘Salamah has been wounded.’” Then I went to the Prophet and he spat his saliva on it (i.e. the wound) three times and since then I have not had any pain from it till this hour.”

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, who said, “We witnessed (the battle of) Khaibar. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said concerning a man from those who were with him and who claimed to be a Muslim: (This (man) is from the dwellers of the Hell-Fire.) When the battle started, that fellow fought so violently and bravely that he received plenty of wounds. Some of the people were about to doubt (the Prophet’s statement), but the man, under severe pain from his wounds, put his hand into his quiver, took out some arrows with which he killed himself (i.e., committed suicide). Then some men amongst the Muslims came hurriedly and said, “O Allah’s Messenger! Allah has made your statement true, so-and-so has committed suicide. The Prophet said: “O so-and-so! Get up and make an announcement that none but a believer will enter Paradise and that Allah may support the religion with an unchaste (sinful) man”.

Shadad Ibn Al-Had related that a Bedouin Arab came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, believed and followed him. He said, "I will migrate with you." The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, entrusted him to some of his Companions. When it was the time of the Battle of Khaibar, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, obtained booty which he distributed among his Companions and he also reserved a portion for the Bedouin which he gave to his companions (to be taken to him). He used to tend their riding animals. When they got to him and handed over to him his portion, he asked, "What is this?" They responded saying: "A part apportioned to you by Allah's Messenger." He took it and went to the Prophet. He said, "What is this, O Muhammad?" "A part which I have apportioned to you," the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, said. The man then said, "I have not followed you because of this. Rather, I have followed you so that I may be shot an arrow (here) [for the sake of Allah] (pointing to his throat) and then I die and thereafter I am admitted to Paradise." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "If you are true to Allah, Allah will be true to you."

Then he rose to fight against the enemy. He was brought to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, having been hit by arrow on the exact spot he had indicated. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: "Is he the same person?" The people responded in the affirmative. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "He was true to Allah and Allah was true to him." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, shrouded him in his Jubbah then he laid him before him and offered the funeral prayer on him. From what was gleaned from his prayer is: "O Allah, Your servant went out migrating in Your cause and he was martyred and I am a witness for him."

Ibn Ishaq related: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, kept taking over their wealth gradually and conquering their forts one after the other. The first of their forts to fall was that of Na'im where Mahmood Ibn Maslamah was killed. Then Al-Qamoos, the fort of Banu Abil-Huqaiq where Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took a number of them as prisoners among whom was Safiyyah Bint Huyayy Ibn Akhtab; she was with Kinanah Ibn Ar-Rabee'

Ibn AbilHuqaiq along with a cousin of hers. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, chose Safiyyah, may Allah be pleased with her, for himself Dihyah Ibn Khalifah, may Allah be pleased with him, had requested Safiyyah from Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Thus, when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, chose Safiyyah for himself, he gave Dihyah, may Allah be pleased with him, her cousin instead.

The remainder of the prisoners of Khaibar was distributed among the Muslims and the people cooked the meat of donkeys and it is mentioned that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, prohibited that for them. Al-Bukhari devoted attention to this section thus, by relating a number of narrations concerning it from good and reliable chains. The prohibition of it (the meat of donkey) is the preferred opinion of the majority of the earlier and later generations of scholars. It is equally the preferred opinion of the four Imams. However, some of the early scholars held the opinion of its permissibility among whom was Ibn 'Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both. They gave various responses to the Ahadeeth cited on its prohibition. They said: (The donkey was prohibited because) it was a riding beast which they relied upon to carry their load. It is also said that (eating its meat was prohibited) because it eats filth (i.e., Jalalah). However, the authentic position is that it was prohibited due to its inherent nature. It is recorded in an authentic narration that a caller of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, announced: "Allah and His Messenger have prohibited for you the meat of domestic donkey and eating garlic."

It is also related in Saheeh Al-Bukhari from Nafi' Ibn 'Umar that on the day (of the Battle) of Khaibar, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, prohibited the meat of domestic donkey and eating garlic.

People have spoken extensively concerning the Hadith related in the Saheehain from 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib, may Allah be pleased with him, that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, prohibited Al-Mut'a marriage and the eating of donkey's meat in the year of the Battle of Khaibar. This is wordings of the Saheehain as related through Malik and others from Az-Zuhri requiring the connection of the prohibition of the Mut‘a marriage to the Battle of Khaibar which is doubtful from two angles:

1. On the day of the Battle of Khaibar, there were no women with whom they could have had Mut‘a relationship since they were sufficed by captives beyond having the need for Mut‘a marriage.

2. It is recorded in Saheeh Muslim on the authority of Ar-Rabee‘ Ibn Sabrah Ibn Ma‘bad from his father that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, permitted them Mut‘a on the day of the Conquest of Makkah but he did not leave Makkah before he prohibited it again and he said: “Allah has prohibited it till the Day of Judgment.”

Based on this, it is possible that he had prohibited it then permitted it and thereafter prohibited once again. This indicates that the abrogation (of the ruling) occurred twice which is very remote. Nevertheless, it is reported that Imam Ash-Shafi’i, may Allah have Mercy upon him, said that he does not know anything that was prohibited then permitted and thereafter, prohibited once again except Nikah Mut‘a. Nothing compelled him to say that, may Allah have mercy on him, other than his reliance on these two Hadith as indicated earlier.

As-Suhaili and others have related on the authority of some of them who claimed that it was permitted thrice and prohibited thrice. Others said: (it was prohibited) four times but this is extremely remote, and Allah knows best. They also disagreed on the first time it was prohibited. Some said, (it was) at the Battle of Khaibar. It is also said that it occurred at the time of the Umrah of redemption. Others favored the Conquest of Makkah and this is the more dominant view. Some others also argued that it occurred in Awtas which is closer to the latter opinion. It is also said that it was first prohibited in Tabook while some others argued that it was first prohibited during the Farewell Pilgrimage. This is related by Abu Dawood.

Some scholars have tried to give response to the Hadith of ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, by arguing that there occur in it advancement and deferment and what is upheld there from is what is related by Imam Ahmad, may Allah have Mercy upon him: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Az-Zuhri from Al-Hasan and ‘Abdullah, the two sons of Muhammad narrating from their father that ‘Ali said to Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them all: “The Messenger of Allah has prohibited (us) from Nikah Mut‘a and from the meat of domestic donkey at the time of Khaibar.” The narrator made us believe that the word Khaibar is an adverb for the prohibition of both (of them – Nikah Mut‘a and meat of domestic donkey) However, this is not so. Rather, it is an adverb for the prohibition of the meat of domestic donkey. As for the Nikah Mut‘a, no adverb was mentioned concerning it, it was only merged with it because ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, got information that Ibn Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, permitted Nikah Mut‘a and the meat of domestic donkey as is well-known from him.

Thus, as Ameerul-Mu‘mineen, he said to him, “You are a conceited fellow! Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, has prohibited Nikah Mut‘a and the meat of domestic donkey on the day of the Battle of Khaibar and he merely added that so as to dissuade him from his belief of permissibility concerning it. It is to this account that our Shaikh, Al-Hafiz Abul-Hajjaj Al-Mizzi, may Allah cover him in His Mercy (Aameen) [leaned towards]. In spite of this, Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, did not retract from his opinion of the permissibility of domestic donkey and Mut‘a. As for the prohibition, he interpreted it that it was their load-carrier (a reason which gave rise to its prohibition). As for Mut‘a, he used to permit it at the time of exigency during journeys. Thus, he understood the prohibition to be at the time of wellbeing. Some of Ibn ‘Abbas’ companions and students equally followed him on this view and this did cease to be well-known to the scholars of Al-Hijaz till the time of Ibn Juraij and thereafter. A similar view to Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, has been purportedly related from Imam Ahmad Ibn Hanbal, may Allah have Mercy upon him, but this is inauthentic. And Allah knows best.

Ibn Ishaq related: After Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had conquered a number of their fortresses and gained large amounts of their wealth in booty, he headed for their fortresses of Al-Wateeh and As-Sulalim both of which were the last two fortresses to be conquered. He lay siege on them for ten nights. Ibn Hisham added: Their slogan on the day of Khaibar was ‘O Mansoor (the aided ones), kill, kill!’

The Story of Safiyyah Bint Huyayy Ibn Akhtab An-Nadariyyah

Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him, related: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, offered the Fajr prayer when it was still dark, then he rode and said: “Allahu Akbar! Khaibar is ruined. When we approach near to a nation, the most unfortunate is the morning of those who have been warned.” They (the inhabitants of Khaibar) came out running on the roads. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had their warriors killed, their offspring and woman taken as captives. Safiyyah, may Allah be pleased with her, was amongst the captives. She first fell into the lot of Dihyah Al-Kalbi, may Allah be pleased with him, but later on she was transferred to the Prophet. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, made her manumission her Mahr.

Imam Bukhari related on the authority of Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him, who said, “The Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, came to Khaibar and when Allah, the Almighty, made him victorious and he conquered the town by breaking the enemy’s defense, the beauty of Safiyyah Bint Huyayy Ibn Akhtab, may Allah be pleased with her, was mentioned to him and her husband had been killed while she was a bride. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, selected her for himself and he set out in her company till he reached Suddas-Sahba’ (a place close to Khaibar) where her menses were over and he married her. Then Hais (a kind of meal) was prepared and served on a small leather sheet (used for serving meals). Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said to me: “Inform those who are around you (about the wedding banquet).” So that was the marriage banquet given by Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, for (his marriage with) Safiyyah, may Allah be pleased with her. After that we proceeded to Madinah and I saw that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was covering her with a cloak while she was behind him. Then he would sit beside his camel and let Safiyyah put her feet on his knees to ride (the camel).” Imam Al-Bukhari related this exclusive Muslim.

Anas, may Allah be pleased with him, also narrated: The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stayed for three nights between Khaibar and Al-Madinah and was married to Safiyyah, may Allah be pleased with her. I invited the Muslims to his marriage banquet and there was neither meat nor bread in that banquet but the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered Bilal, may Allah be pleased with him, to spread the leather mats on which dates, dried yogurt and butter were placed. The Muslims said amongst themselves, “Will she (i.e., Safiyyah) be one of the Mothers of the Believers, (i.e., one of the wives of the Prophet ) or just (a lady captive) of what his right-hand possesses?” Some of them said, “If the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, makes her observe the veil, then she will be one of the mothers of the believers (i.e. one of the Prophet’s wives), and if he does not make her observe the veil, then she will be his lady slave.” So when he departed, he made a place for her behind him (on his and made her observe the veil).” Al-Bukhari related it exclusively.

Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, laid siege on the people of Khaibar in their two strongholds of Al-Wateeh and As-Sulalim. When they became convinced of their destruction they requested him to let them leave and spare their blood, which he granted. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had captured all their property, AshShiqq, Natat and Al-Kateebah and all their fortresses except the two strongholds. When the people of Fadak got wind that he had done so, they also sent to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asking him to treat them in a similar manner in exchange for access to their wealth and he granted their request as well.

Muhayyisah Ibn Mas‘ood, the brother of Banu Harithah, was among those who mediated between the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and them. When the people of Khaibar had surrendered, they requested that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, let them undertake their property for a half share of the proceeds saying: “We know it better than you and we are better growers.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, accepted their proposal but stipulated that “If we wish to exile you, we reserve the right to do that.” He (the Messenger of Allah) made a similar agreement with the people of Fadak.

Ibn ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, narrated: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, fought against the people of Khaibar till they retreated into their fort and he captured their land, crops and palm plantation. They entered into an armistice upon the permission to cultivate the land and for them will be what can be carried on their riding animals and for the Messenger of Allah will be the rest. They were also obliged not to hide anything and if they did, then there would be neither protection nor armistice for them. This included a leather bag containing some wealth and jewelry belonging to Huyayy Ibn Akhtab which he carried along with him to Khaibar when he was dislodged from An-Nadeer.

Consequently, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Huyayy’s uncle: “What happened to Huyayy’s leather bag which he brought with him from An-Nadeer?” He responded, “It has been depleted by expenses and wars.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said: “The agreement had just been concluded and the wealth is much more than that.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, handed him over to Az-Zubayr who meted out punishment on him. Meanwhile, Huyayy entered the ruins (of the fort). Upon receiving punishment, he confessed saying, “I had seen Huyayy going round the ruins towards this direction.” So they traced the direction and found the leather bag in the ruins.

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, executed the two sons of AbilHuqaiq and one of them was the husband of Safiyyah bint Huyayy Ibn Akhtab. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, captured their women and children and divided up their wealth due to their breach of faith. He wanted to evict them from their land but they pleaded, “O Muhammad, grant us to remain on this land so that we may till it and reside on it.” Since neither the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, nor the Companions have any men living on it nor did they intend it to be desolate, they granted them Khaibar on the condition that half of all the harvest shall be for them and a little aside from that for Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him,.

Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him, used to visit them every year to estimate their harvest and reserve for them half of it. They complained to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of Abdullah's covetousness and they sought to bribe him. He (Abdullah) said, "O enemies of Allah, you want to give me evil. By Allah, I have come to you from the most beloved of men to me while you are the most hateful to me due to a number of you from among the monkeys and swines. Nevertheless my aversion for you and my love for him will not impel me to be unjust to you." They responded, "It is this that sustains the heaven and the earth."

It is said that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw a green mark on Safiyyah's eye and he asked: "What is this green [mark] on you, Safiyyah?" She responded, "My head was on the lap of Ibn Abi Al-Huqaiq while I was sleeping. Then I saw that the moon fell on my lap. So I informed him of my dream and he slapped me and said, "You desire the king of Yathrib." She added, "The Messenger of Allah used to be the most hateful to me for he killed my husband and father and he never ceased to give me excuses saying, "Your father incited the Arabs against me and did such and such" until the feeling of aversion dissipated from my heart."

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, used to give each of his wives every year, 80 wasqs (measure) of dates, 20 wasqs of barley. During the time of 'Umar, they (the people of Khaibar) double-crossed the Muslims and threw Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, from a rooftop and he had his wrist dislocated. Consequently 'Umar announced, "Whoever has a claim (share) in Khaibar should gather so that we may divide it up." Their leader pleaded, "Do not exile us, rather, let us remain on the land as The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and Abu Bakr had done." 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, responded: "Do you think that I have forgotten the statement of Allah's Messenger, i.e., "what will your condition be when you are expelled and your camel will be carrying you toward Ash-Sham day after day?" Thus, 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, divided it among those who fought in the Battle of Khaibar among the companions of Al-Hudaibiyah.” Abu Dawood has also reported it in a summarized form.

Imam Bukhari related that Ibn ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, said, “On the day of Khaibar, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, gave two portions to the cavalry and one to the infantry.” Nafi’, however, explained the rational saying, “If a man had a horse, he was given three portions and if he had no horse, he was given a portion.” This version implied that all of Khaibar was divided up among the soldiers.

It is related on the authority of Ibn Shihab who said, “Information reached me that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, conquered Khaibar forcibly and left some of the people to utilize the land after the battle. Based on this, Aaz-Zuhri said: “Allah’s Messenger took Khumus (one-fifth of booty) and then divided up its remainder among those who witnessed the battle.”

However, what Az-Zuhri has said is debatable for the authentic view is that all of Khaibar was not divided but half of it was divided between the victorious warriors as shall be explained shortly. Malik and others who shared his opinion have adduced this as an evidence that the Imam has a choice regarding conquered land: if he wishes, he may divide it or he may earmark it as he deems for the benefit of the Muslims. If he also wishes, he may divide a part of it and set aside the other part to cater for recurrent needs and benefits.

Abu Dawood related on the authority of Sahl Ibn Abi Hathmah who said: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, divided Khaibar into two halves, one half for his recurrent needs and other benefits while he shared the other half among the Muslims. He divided it into eighteen portions.”

On the authority of Bushair Ibn Yasar, the freed slave of the Ansar, from some of the Companions of Allah’s Messenger: that when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was victorious over Khaibar he divided it into thirty six portions, each portion comprising one hundred parts. One half of all the portion was for the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the Muslims while the other half was set aside for inadvertent occurrences and recurrent needs of the people.

On the authority of Mujmmi‘ Ibn Jariyah Al-Ansari, may Allah be pleased with him, one of the reciters of the Qur’an who said, “Khaibar was divided among the companions of Al-Hudaibiyyah. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, divided it into eighteen portions and the army numbered one thousand five hundred among which were thirty cavalries. He gave the cavalries two portions and the infantry one portion.” Abu Dawood related it exclusively.

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq said: Ash-Shiqq and An-Natat were among the two portions of the Muslims. AshShiqq comprises of thirteen portions while An-Natat comprises of fifty portions. He divided them all into one thousand eight hundred shares and distributed among those who witnessed Al-Hudaibiyyah and who were present at Khaibar as well as those were absent. Meanwhile, none of those who witnessed AlHudaibiyyah were absent from Khaibar except Jabir Ibn Abdullah, may Allah be pleased with him, and he was still given his own share.

He also added: “The companions of Al-Hudaibiyyah numbered one thousand four hundred along with two hundred mounted men. Two shares were given for the horse and he gave every hundred persons a portion each of the eighteen portions. He gave additional shares of four hundred to the two hundred mounted men which was meant for their horses.” This is how Al-Baihaqi related it on the authority of Salih Ibn Kaisan, that the army numbered one thousand four hundred men along with two hundred horses.

I say: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, apportioned among them their shares and the first of the two portions, Ash-Shiqq, was with ‘Asim Ibn Adiyy.

As for those who witnessed Khaibar among the slaves and women, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave them a part of the booty but did not give them an allotment.

On the authority of Muhammad Ibn Zaid who said: ‘Umair, the freed slave of Abi Al-Lahm informed me saying, “I was present at Khaibar along with my masters who spoke about me to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him. He issued an order about me, and a sword was girded on me and I was trailing it. He was then informed that I was a slave. He, therefore, ordered that I should be given some inferior goods.”

The Arrival of Ja‘afar Ibn Abi Talib and Those Who Remained of the Muslims Who Migrated to Abyssinia

On the authority of Abu Moosa, may Allah be pleased with him, who said: The news of the migration of the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, (from Makkah to Madinah) reached us while we were in Yemen. So we set out as emigrants towards him. We were (three) I and my two brothers. I was the youngest of them, and one of the two was Abu Burdah, and the other, Abu Ruhm, and our total number was either 52 or 53 men from my people. We got on board a boat and our boat took us to an-Najashi in Abyssinia. There we met Ja‘far bin Abi Taalib, may Allah be pleased with him, and stayed with him. Then we all came (to Madinah) and met the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, at the time of the conquest of Khaibar. Some of the people used to say to us, i.e., the people of the ship, “We have migrated before you.”

Asma’ Bint ‘Umais, may Allah be pleased with her, who was one of those who had come with us, came as a visitor to Hafsa, may Allah be pleased with her, the wife the Prophet. She had migrated along with those other Muslims who migrated to an-Najashi. ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, came to Hafsa while Asma’ bint ‘Umais was with her. ‘Umar, on seeing Asma’ asked, “Who is this?” She said, “Asma’ Bint ‘Umais”. ‘Umar said, “Is she the Abyssinian? Is she the sea-faring lady?” Asma’ replied, “Yes.” ‘Umar said, “We have migrated before you (people of the boat), so we have got more right than you over Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, “ On that Asma’ became angry and said, “No, by Allah, while you were with Allah’s Messenger who was feeding the hungry ones amongst you, and advising the ignorant ones amongst you, we were in the far-off hated land of Abyssinia, and all that was for the sake of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. By Allah, I will neither eat any food nor drink anything till I inform Allah's Messenger of all that you have said. There we were harmed and frightened. I will mention this to the Prophet and will not tell a lie or curtail your saying or add something to it."

So when the Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, came, she said, "O Allah's Messenger, 'Umar has said such-and-such." He said (to Asma'): "What did you say to him?" Asma said, "I told him such-and-such." The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said: "He (i.e. 'Umar) has not got more right than you people over me, as he and his companions have (the reward of) only one migration, and you, the people of the boat, have (the reward of) two migrations." Asma' later on said, "I saw Abu Moosa and the other people of the boat coming to me in successive groups, asking me about this narration, and to them nothing in the world was more cheerful and greater than what the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had said about them."

Narrated Abu Burdah: Asma' said, "I saw Abu Moosa requesting me to repeat this narration again and again."

Narrated Abu Burdah: Abu Moosa said, "The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'I recognize the voice of the group of Al-Ash'ariyoon; when they recite the Qur'an after entering their homes at night. I can recognize their houses by (listening) to their voices when they are reciting the Qur'an at night although I have not seen their houses when they come during the day time. Amongst them is Hakim who, on meeting the cavalry or the enemy, used to say to them (i.e. the enemy): My companions order you to wait for them'."

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Abu Moosa, may Allah be pleased with him, who said, "We came upon the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, after he had conquered Khaibar. He then gave us a share (from the booty), meanwhile he never gave to anybody else who did not attend the Conquest aside from us."

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Anbasah Ibn Sa'eed that Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, came to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and asked him (for a share from the booty of Khaibar). On that, one of the sons of Sa'eed Ibn Al-'As said to him, "O Allah's Messenger! Do not give him." Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, then said (to the Prophet), "This is the murderer of Ibn Qawqal." Sa'eed's son said, "How strange! A guinea-pig coming from Qadoom AdDa'n!"

The Story of the Poisoned Lamb

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, who said: When Khaibar was conquered, a (cooked) sheep containing poison, was given as a present to Allah's Messenger."

Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, also narrated: When Khaibar was conquered, a roasted poisoned sheep was presented to the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, as a gift (by the Jews). The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered:

"Let all the Jews who have been here, be assembled before me." The Jews were collected and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said (to them): "I am going to ask you a question. Will you tell the truth?" They said, "Yes." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: "Who is your father?" They replied, "So-and-so." He said: "You have told a lie; your father is so-and-so." They said, "You are right." He said: "Will you now tell me the truth, if I ask you about something?" They replied, "Yes, O Abul-Qasim; and if we should tell a lie, you can realize our lie as you have done regarding our father." On that he asked: "Who are the people of the (Hell) Fire?" They said, "We shall remain in the (Hell) Fire for a short period, and after that you will replace us." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "May you be cursed and humiliated in it! By Allah, we shall never replace you in it." Then he asked: "Will you now tell me the truth if I ask you a question?" They said, "Yes, O Abul-Qasim." He asked: "Have you poisoned this sheep?" They said, "Yes." He asked: "What made you do so?" They said, "We wanted to know if you were a liar in which case we would get rid of you, and if you are a prophet then the poison would not harm you."

Ibn Ishaq said: When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, finished with Khaibar, he departed for Wadi Al-Qura and laid siege on its inhabitants for several nights. Thereafter, he returned homeward to Madinah.

Then he mentioned the incident of the stray arrow which killed Mid'am. The people said, "Congratulations to him for the martyrdom." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "No, by Him in Whose Hand my soul is, the sheet (of cloth) which he had taken (illegally) on the Day of Khaibar from the booty before the distribution of the booty, has become a flame of Fire burning him."

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq also mentioned in his biography that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, consummated his marriage with Safiyyah, may Allah be pleased with her, at Khaibar or while on the way. The person who embellished, combed her hair and beautified her for Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was Umm Sulaim Bint Milhan, Anas Ibn Malik's mother. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, passed the night with her in his tent and Abu Ayoob, may Allah be pleased with him, stood guard with his sword patrolling the tent throughout the night. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, noticed his presence he asked: "What is the matter with you O Abu Ayoob?" He responded: "I was afraid of your safety from this woman. You had killed her father and husband coupled with the fact that she had newly accepted Islam so I nursed fear of her concerning your safety." They claimed that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, supplicated: "O Allah, protect Abu Ayyoob as he protected me through the night."

Then he said: Az-Zuhri relate on the authority of Sa'eed Ibn Musayyab mentioning their oversleeping beyond the time of Salat us-Subh on their way back from Khaibar and that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was the first to wake up and said: "O Bilal, what did you do to us?" He responded, "O Messenger of Allah, the One who took your soul (in sleep) also took mine." And the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "You have spoken the truth." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, steered his camel a short while and then alighted, performed ablution and offered his prayer as he used to offer it before. This is how Malik has related on the authority of Az-Zuhri from Sa'eed in mursal form.

Abu Dawood has related on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, that while Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was returning from the Battle of Khaibar, he traveled through the night till sleep overtook us and he said to Bilal, may Allah be pleased with him: "Keep the vigil for us, Bilal." He (the narrator) added: sleep overtook Bilal, may Allah be pleased with him, while he was leaning against his riding animal. Neither did the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, nor Bilal, may Allah be pleased with him, nor anyone else among his companions wake up till the sun shone on them. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was the first to awake and, being startled, he called to Bilal, may Allah be pleased with him, who said: "O Messenger of Allah, may my father and mother be offered as ransom for you, the same thing that overpowered me which overpowered you." He (the Messenger of Allah) then said: "Lead the beasts on." So they led their camels to some distance. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then performed ablution and gave orders to Bilal, may Allah be pleased with him, who pronounced the Iqamah and then led them in the morning prayer. When he finished the prayer he said: "When anyone forgets the prayer, he should observe it when he remembers it, for Allah has said: "and perform As-Salat (Iqamat us-Salat) for My Remembrance.'" (Soorah Ta Ha 20:14) Yoonus said: Ibn Shihab used to recite it in a similar manner.

On the authority of Ibn Mas'ood, may Allah be pleased with him, (who said): This occurred on their return from Al-Hudaibiyah and in his own version: that it was Bilal, may Allah be pleased with him, who was guarding them. And in yet another narration from him, he was the one who was guarding them."

Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi said: It is possible that this occurred twice. In the Hadith of 'Imran Ibn Husain and Abu Qatadah, their sleep was beyond the time of Salat. There is the Hadith of Al-Meeda'ah concerning that and it is possible that this is one of those two times or the third time. Al-Waqidi said in the Hadith of Abu Qatadah, may Allah be pleased with him, that this occurred on their return journey from the Battle of Tabook. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Then Al-Baihaqi cited a Hadith related by the author of Saheeh from the story of ‘Awf, the bedouin on the authority of Abu Raja’ from ‘Imran Ibn Husain concerning the incident of his sleeping beyond the time of Salat and that of the woman with the two buckets and how he took the two buckets of water with which he watered the entire army and the water did not reduce from its original quantity even slightest. Then he also mentioned the incident related by Muslim from the Hadith of Thabit Al-Bunani on the authority of Abdullah bin Rabah from Abu Qatadah and it is a lengthy hadeeth, in which they slept beyond the time of Salat and the increment in water quantity from the water basin.”

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Abu Moosa Al-Ash‘ari, may Allah be pleased with him, who said: When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, fought the Battle of Khaibar, or when he went toward it, (whenever) the people passed over a high place overlooking a valley, they raised their voices saying, “Allahu-Akbar! Allahu-Akbar! None has the right to be worshipped except Allah.” On that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said (to them): “Lower your voices, for you are not calling a deaf or an absent one, but you are calling a Hearer Who is near and is with you.” I was behind the riding animal of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he heard me saying, “La ilaha ill-Allah wala hawla wala quwwata illa billah” (There is neither might, nor power but with Allah). On that he said to me: “O Abdullah Ibn Qais!” I said, “Labbaik, O Allah’s Messenger!” He said: “Shall I tell you a sentence which is one of the treasures of Paradise?” I said, “Yes, O Allah’s Messenger! Let my father and mother be sacrificed for your sake.” He said: “It is: ‘La hawla wa la quwwata illa billah.’” (There is neither might nor power but with Allah.)”

The Prophet’s March Through Wadi Al-Qura and His Siege of the Jewish Inhabitants

Al-Waqidi related on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, that we went out along with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, from Khaibar to Wadi Al-Qura.

Meanwhile, Rifa' Ibn Zaid Ibn Wahb Al-Judhami had presented to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, a gift of a black slave called Mid'am. He used to unsaddle the mount of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. When we got to the valley and came close to the Jews they greeted us with a shower of arrows. As the black slave began to unpack the saddle-bag, he was suddenly struck by a (stray) arrow which proved fatal. We said, "This is glad tidings for him, O Messenger of Allah, as he is a martyr." Upon this the Messenger of Allah remarked: "Not so. By Him in Whose hand is the life of Muhammad, the small garment which he stole from the booty on the Day of Khaibar, which did not (legitimately) fall to his lot is burning like the Fire (of Hell) on him." The people were greatly perturbed (on hearing this). A person came there with a lace or two laces and said, "O Messenger of Allah, I found (them) on the Day of Khaibar. He (the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him) remarked: "This is a lace of fire or two laces of fire." This Hadith is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with him, from the Prophet.

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, prevented his Companions from fighting against them. Rather, he arrayed them and then invited them to Islam and informed them that if they accept Islam, they will be protecting their wealth and preserving their blood, and their accounting rests with Allah, the Almighty.

Nevertheless, one of them stepped forward throwing a challenge for a duel and Az-Zubair Ibn Al'Awam, may Allah be pleased with him, stepped forward and killed him. Another person also stepped forward for a challenge and 'Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, also stepped forward and finished him. Yet another person stepped forward from them and Abu Dujanah, may Allah be pleased with him, took up his challenge and killed him. This continued until eleven men were killed from their camp. Each time a person was killed, the rest were invited to Islam. On that day, when the time of Salat approached, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, led his Companions in prayer and then resumed calling them to Islam, to Allah and His Messenger. In this manner, the Muslims killed them till nightfall.

By the following morning, the sun had not even risen till the length of a spear before they surrendered. They were pressured into defeat and Allah, the Almighty, granted their wealth as booty and the Muslims captured a large amount of furnishings and personal effects. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, remained in the valley for four days during which he divided the booty among his Companions and left the land and palm plantations in the hands of the Jews to work upon on a sharecropping agreement. When the Jews of Taima' got wind of what the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, meted out to Khaibar, Fadak and Wadi Al-Qura, they settled for conciliation with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, upon the promise to pay the Jizyah. Thus, they retained their wealth. When 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, expelled the Jews of Khaibar and Fadak he did not expel the inhabitants of Taima' and Wadi Al-Qura for both of them were situated within the territory of Sham. He also opined that whatever is before Wadi Al-Qura up to Madinah is Hijaz and whatever is beyond that falls within Sham.

The narrator added: Afterwards, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, withdrew on a returning journey back to Madinah after he had concluded the affairs of Khaibar and Wadi Al-Qura and Allah obtained for him considerable booty.

It is recorded in the Saheehain that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, conquered Khaibar and employed the Jewish inhabitants (of Khaibar) to cultivate it on the condition that they would have half of its yield. It is stated in some versions of this Hadith that the conditions include that they should work upon it with their own wealth (seeds, implements). In yet another version, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to them: "We will allow you to continue here, so long as we would desire."

It is recorded in As-Siyar that he would send to them 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him, to estimate the yield once the fruits had become fully grown and then, he would collect them together himself. When 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him, was killed at (the Battle of) Mu'tah, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would send Jabbar Ibn Sakhr, may Allah be pleased with him, instead.

I say: In different eras after three hundred (years), the Jews of Khaibar claimed they had in their possession a document from Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in which they were absolved from paying the Jizyah. They had deceived a number of scholars with this document till some of them opined that they had been truly absolved from paying the Jizyah among whom (from the Shafi'iyah) was Shaikh Abu 'Ali Ibn Khairon. However, this document was forged, a lie and a fabrication without any basis whatsoever.

I have explained its futility from a number of angles in the Kitab Mufrad. A number of scholars have exposed the forgery of this document in their books such as Ibn As-Sibagh in his 'Masa'il', Ash-Shaikh Abu Hamid in his Ta'leeqat and Ibn Al-Maslamah authored a distinct volume dedicated to the refutation against the document. They (the Jews) stirred up the issue of the document after seven hundred years and displayed a document in which contains a transcription of the Ashab mentioned in their books and I came across it and found out it was all false.

Contained in it is the witnessing of Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh, may Allah be pleased with him, though he had died before the time of (the battle of) Khaibar. It also includes Mu'awiyah Ibn Abi Sufyan, may Allah be pleased with him, even though he had not even become Muslim at the time. At the end, it says: 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib, may Allah be pleased with him, wrote it and again this is an error for the Jizyah which the document claims had been absolved from them was not even legislated until after (Khaibar). The first time it was legislated and taken was from the people of Najran and they paid it at the end of the ninth year. And Allah knows best.

The Military Expedition of Abu Bakr to Banu Fazarah

Imam Ahmad, may Allah have mercy upon him, related on the authority of Salamah, may Allah be pleased with him, who said: "We proceeded on a military expedition with Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, who was appointed as the commander over us. He had been appointed by the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. When we were only at an hour's distance from the water of the enemy, Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, ordered us to attack. We made a halt during the last part of the night to rest and then we attacked from all sides and reached their wateringplace where a battle was fought. Some of the enemy was killed and others were taken prisoner.

The Military Expedition of Umar Ibn Al-Khattab to Turabah in the Territory of the Hawazin

Al-Baihaqi related through Al-Waqidi with his chains of narration that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent 'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab at the command of thirty mounted soldiers with a guide from Banu Hilal. The army would travel by night and hide by daytime. When they returned to the enemy territory, they (the enemies) fled and 'Umar retreated back to Madinah. They asked him, "Do you have any interest in attacking Khath'am?" He responded, "The Messenger of Allah commanded me only to attack the Hawazin in their territory."

The Expedition of Abdullah Ibn Rawahah Against Yusair Ibn Rizam, the Jew

Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of 'Urwah and through Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah from Az-Zuhri that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him, at the command of thirty horsemen, among them was 'Abdullah Ibn Unais, to march against Yusair Ibn Rizam, the Jew at Khaibar. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had been informed that he had been rousing and mobilizing the Ghatafan to wage war along with him (against the Muslims). The Muslim contingent came to him and said: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, has sent us to make you the ruler of Khaibar. They did not cease to convince him till he chose to follow them accompanied by thirty of his men. Each man had a Muslim riding behind him. When they reached Thibar, six miles from Khaibar, Yusair Ibn Rizam regretted falling for the Muslims' trick. He reached out for 'Abdullah Ibn Unais' sword but Ibn Unais outsmarted him. He goaded his camel and rushed into the crowd till he overpowered Yusair then he struck his leg and amputated it. Yusair rushed with a splinter of rock in his hand and hit the face of ‘Abdullah Ibn Unais smashing his forehead. Each Muslim also pounced on their riding partner among the enemies and killed them all with the exception of one man. None of the Muslims were killed. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, spat on the fracture of ‘Abdullah Ibn Unais and it neither festered nor pained him till he died.

Another Expedition With Basheer Ibn Sa’d

Imam Ahmad, may Allah have mercy upon him, related on the authority of Usamah Ibn Zaid, may Allah be pleased with him, who said:

Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent us (to fight) against Al-Huraqah (one of the sub-tribes) of Juhainah. We reached those people in the morning and defeated them. A man from the Ansar and I chased one of their men and when we attacked him, he said, “None has the right to be worshipped but Allah.” The Ansari refrained from killing him but I stabbed him with my spear till I killed him. When we reached (Madinah), this news reached the Prophet. He said to me: “O Usamah! You killed him after he had said, ‘None has the right to be worshipped but Allah?’” I said, “O Allah’s Messenger! He merely said in order to save himself.” The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said: “You killed him after he had said, ‘None has the right to be worshipped but Allah.’” The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, kept on repeating that statement till I wished I had not become Muslim prior to that day.”

The Military Expedition of Abu Hadrad to Al-Ghabah

Yoonus said on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, concerning the story of Abu Hadrad and his expedition to Ghaabah, that a man came from Jusham Ibn Mu’awiyah named Rifa’ah Ibn Qais or Qais Ibn Rifa’ah from Ju’sham till he arrived among his people along with those who had been with him at Al-Ghabah with the intent of mobilizing the Qais to wage war against Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. He was a popular and noble person among the Jusham. Thus, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, invited me and two other Muslims and said: "Go to this man and bring me information and intelligence reports."

So we proceeded with our weapons till we came close to their camp at dusk; we hid in a section and I gave instructions to my two Companions to hid in another section of their camp. I said to both of them: "Once you hear that I have shouted the Takbeer and I have charged against them then you too should echo my Takbeer and attack along with me." They had a shepherd who grazed their animals in the pasture of that territory. He passed by me and I aimed an arrow at him and drove it right into his heart. By Allah, he could not even make a single sound. I pounced on him and decapitated him and then I attacked a section of the army and I shouted the Takbeer and my two companions also followed suit. We captured a big herd of camels and a large amount of booty and we returned with them to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. I also came along with his head.

The Expedition in Which Muhallim Ibn Jaththamah Killed 'Amir Ibn AlAdbat

On the authority of Abu Hadrad, who narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent us to 'Idam among a group of Muslims among whom were Abu Qatadah Al-Harith Ibn Rib'i and Muhallim Ibn Jaththamah Ibn Qais. We proceeded till we got to the middle of 'Idam when we came across 'Amir Ibn Al-Adbat on his ride with his personal effects including a bottle of milk. He greeted us with the greeting of Islam, so we refrained from him but Muhallim Ibn Jaththamah bared his weapon against him and killed him over a dispute which had occurred between them. He took his camel and personal belongings. When we returned to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, we informed him of the incident and Allah revealed (a portion of) the Qur'an concerning us:

"O you who believe! When you go (to fight) in the Cause of Allah, verify (the truth), and say not to anyone who greets you (by embracing Islam): 'You are not a believer'; seeking the perishable goods of the worldly life.

There are much more profits and booties with Allah. Even as he is now, so were you yourselves before till Allah conferred on you His Favors (i.e. guided you to Islam), therefore, be cautious in discrimination. Allah is Ever Well-Aware of what you do.” (Soorah An-Nisa’ 4:94)

The Expedition of Abdullah Ibn Hudhafah As-Sahmi

It is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib, may Allah be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent an army contingent (for some expedition) and appointed a man from the Ansar as its commander and ordered them (the soldiers) to obey him. (During the campaign) he became angry with them and said, “Didn’t the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, order you to obey me?” They said, “Yes.” He said, “I order you to collect wood and make a fire and then throw yourselves into it.” So they collected wood and made a fire, but when they were about to throw themselves into it, they started looking at each other, and some of them said, “We followed the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, to escape from the fire how should we enter it now?” So while they were in that state, the fire extinguished and their commander’s anger subsided. The incident was mentioned to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he said: “If they had entered it (i.e. the fire) they would never have come out of it, for obedience is required only in what is good.”

The ‘Umrah of Redemption

It is also called "Al-Qisas" and As-Suhaili prefers it, it is also referred to as "'Umratul-Qadiyyah". As for the first appellation, it is concerning the access-blockade of the year of Al-Hudaibiyyah. As for the second (Al-Qisas), it is concerning the statement of Allah, the Almighty: “And for the prohibited things, there is the Law of Equality (Qisas).” (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:194). The third name derives from the decision that was reached where [the Muslims would] return from them (the people of Makkah) that year [without performing] and return the following year with a small army, and not staying beyond three days. This is the ‘Umrah referred to in the Verse of the Qur’an:

“Indeed, Allah shall fulfill the true vision which He showed to His Messenger [i.e. the Prophet saw a dream that he has entered Makkah along with his Companions, having their (head) hair shaved and cut short] in very truth. Certainly, you shall enter Al-Masjid Al-Haram; if Allah wills, secure, (some) having your heads shaved, and (some) having your head hair cut short, having no fear.” (Soorah Al-Fat’h 48:27)

It was promised in the statement of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab when he said to him, “Did you not tell us that we would go to the Ka’bah and perform Tawaf around it?” He said: “Yes, but did I tell you that you would visit the Ka’bah this year?” I said, “No.” He said: “So you will visit it, and perform Tawaf around it?”

Ibn Ishaq related that when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned from the Battle of Khaibar, he stayed in Madinah through the two months of Rabee’ (ul-Awwal and ath-Thani), the two Jumadas (al-Oola and al-Akhir), the months of Rajab, Sha’ban, Ramadan and Shawwal sending his various military expeditions in between those months. Afterwards, he went out in the month of DhulQa’dah (the same month in which the Mushrikoon had held him back [from performing ‘Umrah]) intent upon the ‘Umrah of redemption in place of the one from which he was prevented (the previous year).

Ibn Hisham added: He (the Prophet) appointed Uwaif Ibn Al-Adbat Ad-Du’ili [in charge as Madinah]. It was referred to as the ‘Umratul-Qisas for they prevented the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in Dhul-Qa’dah in the sacred month of the sixth year. In the seventh year, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered Makkah in Dhul-Qa’dah, the same sacred month in which he was previously prevented. It reached us on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, that he said, Allah, the Almighty, revealed concerning that: “And for the prohibited things, there is the Law of Equality (Qisas).” (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:194).

On the authority of Abdullah Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, who said: “They lined for him at the Darun-Nadwah to have a glimpse of him and his Companions. When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered the Masjid, he did Idtiba‘ with his upper garment exposing his right shoulder and said: “Allah be pleased with a man in whom they can see strength.” Then he touched the corner and started out walking briskly and his Companions followed suit and he proceeded till the House covered him away from them, he touched the Yemeni corner and walked till he touched the Black (Stone) corner. Then he walked briskly for three circuits and then walked normally through the remaining circuits.”

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, who said: “When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his Companions arrived in Makkah, the pagans circulated the news that a group of people were coming to them and they had been weakened by the fever of Yathrib (Madinah). So the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered his companions to do Ramal (brisk walking) in the first three rounds of Tawaf of the Ka‘bah and to walk between the two corners (the Black Stone and Yemenite corner). Nothing stopped the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, from ordering them to do Ramal in all the rounds of Tawaf except out of pity for them.”

Abu ‘Abdullah narrated that Abu Salamah added on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, who said: “When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came in the year agreed upon, he said: “Do Ramal (walk briskly) so that the pagans may observe your strength.” Meanwhile, the Mushrikoon were in the direction of Qu‘aiqi‘an.”

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, passed by Marraz-Zahran during his lesser pilgrimage. Meanwhile, information reached the Companions of Allah’s Messenger that the Quraish are saying: “They have become debilitated by emaciation.” Thus the Companions said, “If we could slaughter some of our mounts, eat from its meat and drink from its broth, we would then enter upon the people (Mushrikoon) the following morning with some relief and being well-fed.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Do not do that, rather, gather for me all your available provisions.” So they gathered them for him and spread it out and they ate so much to their fill that there was leftover from which each one of them also filled his traveling bag. Thereafter, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded till he entered the Grand Mosque and the Quraish sat in the direction of Hijr. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did Idtiba’ with his upper Rida’ (i.e., covered his upper part such that his right shoulder was exposed) and then said: “Today, the pagans will not find any blemish in you.” He touched the corner and then walked briskly till he was shielded away by the Yemeni corner and then he walked to the Black (Stone) corner. Then the Quraish said, “They are not even contented with walking, perhaps they will sprint in a manner similar to the antelope.” And they did just that in three circuits and it became a practice. Abu Tufail added: Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, also informed me that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did that during his Farewell Hajj.

The Story of the Prophet's Marriage to Maimoonah

Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married Maimoonah, may Allah be pleased with her, in the course of that journey while he was in a sacral state. It was ‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib, may Allah be pleased with him, who married her to him. Ibn Hisham related: She had entrusted her affairs to her sister, Umm Fadhl, may Allah be pleased with her, and she in turn entrusted her to her husband ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with him, and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married her and gave her a dowry of four hundred dirhams.

As-Suhaili added that when the Prophet’s proposal was conveyed to her she was riding a camel, she said, “The camel and whatever is on it are for Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. It is concerning her that the following Verse was revealed: “...and a believing woman if she offers herself to the Prophet, and the Prophet wishes to marry her; a privilege for you only, not for the (rest of) the Believers.” (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:50)

As-Suhaili added: Ad-Daraqutni related through Abul-Aswad, the orphan of ‘Urwah, and through Matar Al-Warraaq on the authority of ‘Ikrimah from Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married Maimoonah, may Allah be pleased with her, while he was in the state of Halal. Thus, they re-interpret the first version of Ibn ‘Abbas’ narration that he was in a state of Ihram i.e., in the sacred month.

I say: This interpretation is, however, questionable because that version has been frequently related from Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, especially his statement, “He married her while he was a Muhrim and consummated it while in the state of Halal.”

It is also recorded in Saheeh Al-Bukhari on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas, may Allah be pleased with them both, that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married Maimoonah while he was in the state of Ihram.”

The Prophet’s Departure From Makkah After Completing his ‘Umrah

On the authority of Al-Bara’ who narrated: When the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, went out for the ‘Umrah in the month of Dhul-Qa‘dah, the people of Makkah did not allow him to enter their city till he agreed to conclude a peace treaty with them by virtue of which he would stay in Makkah for three days only (in the following year). When the agreement was being written, the Muslims wrote: “This is the peace treaty, which Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah has concluded.” The polytheists objected and said (to the Prophet), “We do not agree with you on this, for if we knew that you are indeed a Messenger of Allah we would not have prevented you for anything (i.e. entering Makkah), but you are only Muhammad the son of ‘Abdullah.” Then he said to ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him: “Erase (the title of) ‘Messenger of Allah’.” ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, objected and said, “No, by Allah, I will never erase you (i.e. your name).” Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took the writing sheet but since he did not know a better writing, so he wrote (or got the following written): “This is the peace treaty which Muhammad, the son of ‘Abdullah, has concluded:

Muhammad should not bring arms into Makkah except sheathed swords, and should not take with him any person of the people of Makkah, even if such a person wants to follow him, and if any of his companions wants to stay in Makkah, he should not forbid him.”

(The following year) when the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, entered Makkah and the allowed period of stay elapsed, the infidels came to ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, and said, “Tell your companion (Muhammad) to go out, as the allowed period of his stay has finished.” So the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, departed (from Makkah) and the daughter of Hamzah, may Allah be pleased with him, followed him shouting, “O Uncle, O Uncle!” ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, took her by the hand and said to Fatimah, may Allah be pleased with her, “Take the daughter of your uncle.” So she made her ride (on her horse). (When they reached Madinah) ‘Ali, Zaid and Ja‘afar, may Allah be pleased with them all, quarreled about her. ‘Ali said, “I took her for she is the daughter of my uncle.” Ja‘afar said, “She is the daughter of my uncle and her aunt is my wife.” Zaid said, “She is the daughter of my brother.” On that, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave her to her aunt [the wife of Zaid] and said: “The aunt is of the same status as the mother.” He then said to ‘Ali: “You are from me, and I am from you,” and said to Ja‘far: “You resemble me in appearance and character,” and said to Zaid: “You are our brother and our freed slave.” ‘Ali said to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, “Will you marry the daughter of Hamzah?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, “She is the daughter of my foster brother.” Al-Bukhari exclusively related it from this route.

The Acceptance of Islam of ‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As, Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed and ‘Uthman Ibn Talhah Ibn Abi Talhah

The Hadith concerning the story of ‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As’ acceptance of Islam after the Battle of Khandaq has been earlier cited under the heading: The story of ‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As and Najashi and his acceptance of Islam at his hand.

Al-Waqidi said: On the authority of his Shaikh, Abdul Hameed, who narrated that I said to Zaid Ibn Abi Habeeb: “Were you told of the time of the arrival of ‘Amr and Khalid?” He said, “No, but he merely said it was before ‘The Conquest’.” So I said: “My father informed me that ‘Amr, Khalid and ‘Uthman Ibn Talhah arrived in the month of Safar, 8th year of Hijrah.

Shortly afterward, while recounting the event of his death (as contained in Saheeh Muslim), we shall relate the context of his acceptance of Islam, his good companionship to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, throughout his (the Prophet’s) lifetime, and he died while feeling regret for his actions during his reign as governor shortly after the Prophet’s death, along with a description of his death.

Khalid Ibn Waleed’s Path to Islam

Al-Waqidi related: Yahya Ibn Al-Mugheerah Ibn ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Hisham informed me saying: I heard my father narrating on the authority of Khalid Ibn Waleed, may Allah be pleased with him, that (he said): When Allah, the Almighty, fulfilled for me the good that He intended for me and Islam made inroads into my heart and my conscience prickled me, I said (to myself): “I have participated in all these battles against Muhammad and I did not return from any of them except that my mind tells me I am on a wrong side and that Muhammad will eventually prevail.”

My brother, Al-Waleed Ibn Al-Waleed had participated with the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in the ‘Umrah of redemption and he had sought for me to no avail and then wrote a letter to me the content of which says:

“In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent the Merciful

To proceed: I am astonished at your failure to see (the Truth of) and accept Islam inspite of your intelligence and is it Islam that anybody would feign to be ignorant of? The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had asked me about you. He said: 'Where is Khalid?' I said, 'Allah will bring him (into Islam).' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Someone like Khalid will not remain ignorant of Islam. It would be better for him to devote his power to inflict defeat and good fortune on the side of the Muslims against the idolaters and we would promote him over others.' Catch up with what you have missed; (for) righteousness has missed you in many battles."

“When I received his letter, I was goaded to leave (Makkah) and my desire for Islam was sharpened. The Prophet’s asking of me pleased me so much I returned to my house, requested for my horse and set out till I came across ‘Uthman Ibn Talhah, may Allah be pleased with him (on the way). I said (to myself): ‘This is a friend of mine, I should inform him of my intention.’ We proceeded till we reached Al-Hadah where we met ‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As. He said, ‘Greetings to the people.’ And we replied, ‘And to you.’ Then he asked, ‘Where are you going?’ We also asked him, ‘What has brought you?’ He repeated his own query and we answered, ‘We seek to enter into (the fold of) Islam and to follow Muhammad.’ He said, ‘This is the same reason which has brought me’.”

“So we all went together in company till we entered Madinah. We tethered our riding animals behind AlHarrah and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was informed of our arrival and he was pleased. I wore my best clothes and then proceeded toward Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. My brother met me on the way and said, ‘Hurry, for Allah’s Messenger has been informed of and is pleased with your arrival. He is waiting for you right now.’ We walked fast till I appeared to him and he never ceased to smile at me till I got to him. I greeted him as the Prophet and he returned my greeting with a cheerful face. I said: ‘I bear witness that none deserves to be worshipped in truth and that you are the Messenger of Allah.’ ‘Come (close),’ the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, began and added: ‘Praise be to Allah Who has guided you. I had always thought that you were intelligent and that it would lead you to good.’ I said, ‘You are aware of all the battles I have fought against you to impede the Truth, so please seek Allah’s forgiveness for me over them.’ He said: ‘O Allah, forgive Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed all that he did to impede Your way.’”

Khalid, may Allah be pleased with him, continued, “ ‘Uthman Ibn Talhah and ‘Amr, may Allah be pleased with them, also stepped forward and pledged their allegiance to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Our arrival was in Safar, 8th year of Hijrah. By Allah, on the day I became a Muslim, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not make me equal to any of his Companions in what he repaid.”

The Expedition of Shuja‘ Ibn Wahb Al-Asadi to a Group of Hawazin Tribe

Al-Waqidi related on the authority of ‘Umar Ibn Al-Hakam who said, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Shuja‘ Ibn Wahb with twenty-four men to raid a group of Hawazin. They proceeded, traveling by night and hiding by day till they got to them and carried out the raid. Meanwhile, he had counseled his companions not to go to extremes in pursuit (of the enemies). They captured large number of herds of cattle and sheep which they herded back to Madinah. The portion given to each participant in the raid was fifteen camels. It is possible that this expedition is the same one mentioned in what was related by Ash-Shafi‘i from Malik from Nafi‘ on the authority of Ibn ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent a raiding party in the direction of Najd. Among the raiding party was ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar who said, “We gained a huge number of camels as war booty. The share of each one of us was twelve or eleven camels, and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave us an extra camel each.”

Expedition of Ka‘b Ibn ‘Umair Against Banu Quda‘ah of Sham

Al-Waqidi related: Muhammad Ibn ‘Abdullah narrated to us from Az-Zuhri that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Ka‘b Ibn ‘Umair Al-Ghifari with fifteen men (and they traveled) till they reached Dhat Atlah in Sham where they found a group among their numerous groups. They invited them to Islam but they declined and shot a hail of arrows at the Muslims. When the Companions of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him, saw this, they fought a grim battle against them till they were all martyred except for one, who was injured and awoke under the calm of the night and managed to return to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him,. He was prepared to send against them a punitive force but was informed that the enemy had moved on to another location.

The Battle of Mu'tah

On the authority of 'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair who narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent him to Mu'tah in Jumada al-Oola in the 8th year (of Hijrah). He appointed Zaid Ibn Al-Harithah, may Allah be pleased with him, as their commander with the instructions: "If Zaid is killed, then Ja'afar should assume the mantle of command over the people, and if Ja'afar is also killed, then 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah should command the people."

The people equipped themselves and in no time they were prepared to march forth. They numbered three thousand fighting men.

Ibn Ishaq related: When the time for their departure came, the people bade farewell to and greeted the commander of Allah's Messenger. When 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him, was bidden farewell among the others, he wept. When he was asked what made him weep, he said, "By Allah, I neither have an attachment to the world nor prefer remaining with you, rather, I heard Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, reciting a portion of the Book of Allah in which Hellfire was mentioned: "There is not one of you but will pass over it (Hell); this is with your Lord; a Decree which must be accomplished." (Soorah Maryam 19:71) and I do not know what my fate will be when I come across it." The Muslims supplicated, "May Allah accompany you, protect you and bring you back to us in righteousness."

'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him, said in a poem:

As for me, I ask Ar-Rahman for forgiveness,

And a wide cut spouting out blood,

Or a mortal piercing,

With a spear penetrating the intestines and the liver,

Such that whenever they come across my corpse, they would say:

Allah has guided him as a warrior and he was indeed guided.

Ibn Ishaq also related: They proceeded till they encamped at Ma'an in Sham. Information reached the Muslim forces that Heraclius had also encamped at Balqa' with 100,000 Roman soldiers and yet another 100,000 men joined them from Lakhm, Judham, Al-Qain, Bahra' and Baliyy commanded by a man from Baliyy and another from Irashah named Malik bin Zafilah. In the narration of Yoonus from Ibn Ishaq (it says): Information got to them that Heraclius had encamped at Ma'ab with 100,000 Roman army and another 100,000 from the Arab tribes. It is also claimed that the Roman army was two hundred thousand while their opponents numbered 15,000 men. The least number that was reported is 100,000 Romans, and the Arabs numbered 50,000 men as narrated by As-Suhaili. When this information reached the Muslims, they remained in their camp at Ma'an for two days ruminating over their situation. Some of them suggested: "We should write to inform the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him, of the number of the enemy forces so that he may either send us reinforcements or give us his orders which we can execute."

However, 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him, emboldened the people saying, "O men, by Allah what you dislike is exactly what you have come out seeking – martyrdom. We neither fight with number nor with our power and multitude. We do not fight them except with this faith with which Allah The Almighty has ennobled us. So, proceed either of the two good outcomes shall be yours – victory or martyrdom." Then the men responded, "By Allah, Ibn Rawahah has spoken well."

Ibn Ishaq added: The Muslim army marched ahead till they reached Balqa' where they met a combined force of the Romans and the Arab tribes at a village called Masharif. The enemies moved closer and the Muslims positioned themselves at a village called Mu'tah where the two forces eventually met. The Muslims positioned themselves [in preparation] for the enemy. The right flank was manned by a member of Banu Udhrah named Qutbah Ibn Qatadah while the left flank was commanded by an Ansari called Abayah Ibn Malik.

Ibn Ishaq also related: When the two armies clashed, Zaid, may Allah be pleased with him, fought gallantly with the banner of Allah's Messenger until he was killed by a swarm of spears. Then Ja'afar, may Allah be pleased with him, took over the banner and fought as well till the battle became grim; he was alighted from his horse, so he hamstrung it and resumed fighting till he was killed. Ja'afar, may Allah be pleased with him, was the first Muslim ever to do this act in Islam.

When Ja'afar, may Allah be pleased with him, was killed, 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him, took over the banner and stepped forward upbraiding his soul and encouraging himself saying:

O soul, I have sworn that you will fight in the battle willingly,

Or you shall be coerced to fight,

When the people assembled and shouted the war cry,

Why do you not advance with them? Or do you hate to enter Paradise?

No doubt, you have remained at ease for so long,

Were you not a lowly drop of water in the womb?

He also said:

O soul, if you are not killed, still you will die,

And you will meet this bird of death,

What you wished for has been bestowed on you,

If you can do what your martyrs have done,

You will be guided.

Reciting these poems, he advanced and he fought strenuously till he was martyred. May Allah be pleased with him.

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had announced the death of Zaid, Ja'afar and Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with them, to the people before the news of their death reached them. He said with his eyes flowing with tears: "Zaid took the flag and was martyred; then Ja'afar took the flag and was martyred, and then Ibn Rawahah took the flag and was martyred. Finally the flag was taken by one of Allah's Swords (i.e. Khalid bin Al-Waleed) and Allah gave them (i.e. the Muslims) victory."

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of 'Abdullah Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, that, "Allah's Messenger appointed Zaid Ibn Harithah, may Allah be pleased with him, as the commander of the army during the Ghazwah of Mu'tah and said: "If Zaid is martyred, Ja'afar should take over his position, and if Ja'afar is martyred, 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah should take over his position.'" 'Abdullah Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, further said, "I was present amongst them in that battle and we searched for Ja'afar Ibn Abi Talib and found his body amongst the bodies of the martyred ones, and found over ninety wounds over his body, caused by stabs or shots (of arrows)." Al-Bukhari related it exclusively.

Al-Bukhari also related from Nafi' that Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, informed him that he (on the day of Mu'tah) stood beside Ja'afar, may Allah be pleased with him, who was dead (i.e. killed in the battle), and he counted fifty wounds on his body, caused by stabs or strokes, and none of those wounds was in his back. This Hadith is also exclusively related by Al-Bukhari. A reconciliation between this narration and the one before it is that Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, came upon these number while others counted more than that or that this number of wounds on his front side were the ones he sustained before he was killed. However, when he fell dead, they (the enemies) struck him several times on his back. Thus, Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with them both, counted the wounds sustained in his front while facing the enemy prior to his martyrdom, may Allah be pleased with him.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Qais Ibn Abi Hazim who said: I heard Khalid Ibn Waleed, may Allah be pleased with him, saying, "On the day (of the battle of) Mu'tah, nine swords were broken in my hand and nothing was left in my hand except a small Yemeni sword."

Ibn Ishaq related from Umm Ja'afar Bint Muhammad Ibn Ja'afar Ibn Abi Taalib on the authority of her grandmother, Asma' Bint 'Umais who narrated: "When Ja'afar was killed, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, came to me while I had finished tanning, kneaded my flour, bathed, cleaned and embellished my children. He requested: "Bring me Ja'afar's children, I brought them to him. He leaned over and hugged them while tears flowed from his eyes. Apprehensive, I asked him: 'O Messenger of Allah, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you, why are you crying? Has any news reached you concerning Ja'afar and his Companions?'" 'Yes,' he replied. "They were killed today." She added: "I got up and yelled and other women gathered round me and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, left for his house and said: "Don't forget to prepare food for the family of Ja'afar for there came upon them an incident which has engaged them." This is how Imam Ahmad related it from the Hadith of Ibn Ishaq. Ibn Majah also related it through Muhammad Ibn Ishaq and from Ibn Abi Bakr from Umm 'Eesa from Umm Awn Bint Muhammad Ibn Ja'afar on the authority of Asma' and he mentioned the matter along with the provision of food. The correct view is that she is Umm Ja'afar and Umm Awn.

On the authority of Amrah who said: I heard 'A'ishah saying, "When the news of the martyrdom of Ibn Harithah, Ja'afar Ibn Abi Talib and 'Abdullah Ibn Rawahah was delivered, Allah's Messenger sat with sorrow explicit on his face." 'A'ishah added, "I was then peeping through a chink in the door. A man came to him and said, 'O Allah's Messenger! The women of Ja'afar are crying.' Thereupon the Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, told him to forbid them to do so. So the man went away and returned saying, 'I forbade them but they did not listen to me.' The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, ordered him again to go (and forbid them). He went again and came saying, ‘By Allah, they overpowered me (i.e. did not listen to me).’ ‘A’ishah said that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said (to him), ‘Go and throw dust into their mouths.’ ‘A’ishah added, ‘I said, May Allah rub your nose in the dust! By Allah, neither have you done what you have been ordered, nor have you relieved Allah’s Messenger of trouble.’”

‘Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair related that when the returning army was close to entering Madinah, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, went to welcome them along with other Muslims. (The narrator added): The children also swarmed around the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, while he was accompanying the army back (into Madinah) on his animal. He said: “Take the children (let them ride with you) and give me Ja’afar’s son.” ‘Abdullah Ibn Ja’afar was brought to him. He took him and placed him in his front (on the animal). (The narrator added): Meanwhile, the people were throwing dust at the returning army saying: “You deserters, you deserted (fighting in) the cause of Allah.” The Messenger Allah however said: “They are not deserters rather they are resumes by Allah’s wish.” This narration is mursal.

Imam Ahmad has related on the authority of ‘Abdullah Ibn Ja’afar who said: Whenever Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, returned from a journey, he would be welcomed by the children of his household. He once returned from a journey and I was presented to him and he carried me in his front. Then one of the two sons of Fatimah, either Hasan or Husain was brought too and he also rode along with us at his back and three of us entered Madinah on a horse.”

Virtues of These Three Commanders – Zaid, Ja’afar and Abdullah

Zaid Ibn Harithah said the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, loved him greatly and he was the first among the freed slaves to accept Islam. A number of Verses of the Qur’an were revealed concerning him among which are: “...nor has He made your adopted sons your real sons.” (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:4); “Call them (adopted sons) by (the names of) their fathers, that is more just with Allah.” (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:5); “Muhammad is not the father of any man among you.” (Soorah AlAhzab 33:40); “And (remember) when you said to him (Zaid Ibn Harithah the freed-slave of the Prophet) on whom Allah has bestowed Grace (by guiding him to Islam) and you (O Muhammad too) have done favor (by manumitting him) “Keep your wife to yourself, and fear Allah.” But you did hide in yourself (i.e. what Allah has already made known to you that He will give her to you in marriage) that which Allah will make manifest, you did fear the people (i.e., Muhammad married the divorced wife of his manumitted slave) whereas Allah had a better right that you should fear Him. So when Zaid had accomplished his desire from her (i.e. divorced her), We gave her to you in marriage.” (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:37) There is a consensus that all these Verses were revealed concerning him. The grace which Allah bestowed on him is Islam and the grace which the Prophet bestowed on him is his manumission.

On the authority of Ibn ‘Umar, Allah be pleased with him, who said that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, sent an army unit headed by Usamah Ibn Zaid and the people criticized his leadership. The Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, said (to the people), “If you are criticizing his leadership now, then you used to criticize his father’s leadership before. By Allah, he (Usamah’s father) deserved the leadership and used to be one of the most beloved persons to me, and now his son (Usamah) is one of the most beloved persons to me after him.”

Ja‘afar Ibn Abi Talib: when he sent him to the Battle of Mu’tah the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, appointed him as the deputy of Zaid Ibn Harithah. When he was killed, about 90 wound could be counted on his body from stabs, strokes and piercing from spear. He was also shot by arrows all the while facing the enemy valiantly, never turning his back to them. His right hand was amputated and then the left while holding the flag of Islam. When he lost his two hands, he clasped the flag to his bosom with the stumps of his hands till he was killed in that condition. It is said that a Roman struck him with a sword cutting him into two. May Allah be pleased with Ja‘afar, and curse his killer. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, has attested to his martyrdom and he is among whom Paradise is categorically affirmed for. A number of hadeeth have been related nicknaming him as “the possessor of two wings”.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn ‘Umar that whenever he greeted his son (i.e. Ja‘afar’s) ‘Abdullah Ibn Ja‘afar he would say to him: Peace be unto you the son of “the possessor of two wings.”

On the authority of Abu Hurairah who narrated (that Allah’s Messenger said): “I saw Ja‘afar flying in Paradise among the angels.”

Abu Hurairah intended his preference in nobility based on the evidence inherent in the narration of Bukhari on the authority of Abu Hurairah who said: The people used to say, “Abu Hurairah narrates too many narrations.” In fact I used to keep close to Allah’s Messenger and was satisfied with what filled my stomach. I ate no leavened bread and dressed no decorated striped clothes, and never did a man or a woman serve me, and I often used to press my belly against gravel because of hunger, and I used to ask a man to recite a Qur’anic Verse to me although I knew it, so that he would take me to his home and feed me. And the most generous of all the people to the poor was Ja‘afar Ibn Abi Talib. He used to take us to his home and offer us what was available therein. He would even offer us an empty folded leather container (of butter) which we would split and lick whatever was in it.” Al-Bukhari related it exclusively.

Ibn Rawahah: He was one of the commanders that were martyred in the Battle of Mu’tah as pointed out earlier. He was the one who emboldened the Muslims to confront the Romans during their deliberation. He also embolden himself after the death of his two other Companions. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, has affirmed martyrdom for him and he is from those whom Paradise is affirmed for.

On the authority of ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Abi Laila who narrated that Abdullah Ibn Rawahah came while Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, was giving sermon and he heard him say: “Sit down” so he sat down where he was, outside the Mosque till the Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, concluded his sermon. When the Prophet, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, heard of that he said: “May Allah increase you in obedience to Allah and His Messenger.”

Al-Bukhari said in his Saheeh: Mu‘adh said: “Sit with us for an hour so that we may (increase our) belief.”

Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of Ata’ Ibn Yasar that ‘Abdullah Ibn Rawahah said to his companion: “Come so that we may believe for an hour.” He responded: “Are we not believers?” he said: ‘True, but we can remember Allah and thus increase our Eeman.”

It is recorded in Saheeh Al-Bukhari on the authority of Abu Darda’ who said: “We were with Allah’s Messenger on a journey during intense heat and none of us was fasting except Allah’s Messenger and ‘Abdullah Ibn Rawahah, may Allah be pleased with him.

He was also one of the popular poets among the Companions. Some of his poems about the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, as related by Al-Bukhari include: ‘We have Allah’s Messenger with us who recites His Book (the Qur’an) in the early morning time. He gave us guidance and light while we were blind and astray, so our hearts are sure that whatever he says, will certainly happen. He does not touch his bed at night, being busy in worshipping Allah while the pagans are sound asleep in their beds. He came with guidance after our hearts had been blinded. Convinced that what he says shall come to pass’.”

On the authority of Nu‘man Ibn Basheer who narrated: ‘Abdullah Ibn Rawahah fell down unconscious and his sister ‘Amrah started crying and was saying loudly, “O Jabalah! Oh so-and-so! O so-and-so! And went on calling him by his (noble) qualities one after the other). When he came to his senses, he said (to his sister), “Whenever you said something, I was asked, ‘Are you really so (i.e. as she says)’?”

The Martyrs of the Muslims on the Day of Mu’tah

Among the Muhajiroon were Ja‘afar Ibn Abi Talib, Zaid Ibn Harithah Al-Kalbi, Mas‘ood Ibn Al-Aswad Ibn Harithah Ibn Nadlah Al-Adawi, Wahb Ibn Sa‘d Ibn Abi Sarh, all making four martyrs. From the Ansar, the martyrs include ‘Abdullaah Ibn Rawahah, ‘Abbad Ibn Qais Al-Khazrajiyan, Al-Harith Ibn AnNu‘man Ibn Isaf Ibn Nadlah An-Najjari and Suraqah Ibn ‘Amr Ibn Atiyyah Ibn Khansa’ Al-Mazini making four men. The aggregate of those who were killed from the Muslims on that day were just these eight men.

Meanwhile, a large number of the polytheists were killed. Here is Khalid himself saying thus: “On the day (of the Battle of) Mu’tah, nine swords were broken in my hand and nothing was left in my hand except a small Yemeni sword.” What (number of enemies) do you suppose he would have killed with those swords? Not to even talk of other brave heroes among the carriers of the Qur’an. This is subsumed in the statement of Allah: “There has already been a sign for you (O Jews) in the two armies that met (in combat i.e. the Battle of Badr): One was fighting in the Cause of Allah, and as for the other (they) were disbelievers. They (the Believers) saw them (the disbelievers) with their own eyes twice their number (although they were thrice their number). And Allah supports with His Victory whom He pleases. Verily, in this is a lesson for those who understand.” (Soorah Aal ‘Imran 3:13)

Hadeeth Indicating the Great Excellence of the Commanders of This Expedition

On the authority of Abu Umamah Al-Bahili who said: I heard Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessing of Allah be upon him, saying: “While I was sleeping, two men came to me (in my dream) and held me below my armpit and took me to a rough mountain and then asked me to climb. I said: ‘I can’t climb it.’ They insisted saying: ‘We shall make it easy for you.’ Then I climbed till I got to the summit of the mountain and then I began to hear intense sounds and I asked: ‘What are these sounds?’ They said: ‘These are the yelling of the inmates of Hellfire.’ They proceeded with me till we saw some people hung with their Achilles tendon pierced through their cheeks and blood streaming from them (their cheeks). ‘Who are these?’ I asked and they said: ‘These are people who break their fast before its due time.’ He said: ‘May the Jews and Christians be frustrated.’” Sulaim said: I do not know whether he heard it from Allah’s Messenger or from his own opinion.

“As they took me along I saw some people with exceedingly bloated bodies and exuding the most disgusting odor like that of a lavatory. I asked, ‘Who are these?’ They replied, ‘These are the polytheists killed (in battles)’. Then we proceeded till we saw another group of people with exceedingly bloated bodies and exuding the most disgusting of odor like that of a lavatory. I asked, ‘Who are these?’ They replied, ‘These are the male and female adulterers.’ They went ahead with me then we saw snakes biting the breasts of some women. I asked, ‘What happened to these ones?’ They replied, ‘These are women who prevented their children from their breast milk.’ We went ahead till we saw some young boys playing between two seas and I asked, ‘Who are these’ They informed me, ‘These are children of the believers.’ Then I was directed to a direction and I saw three people drinking their wine and I asked who they are and they said, ‘these are Ja‘afar Ibn Abi Talib, Zaid Ibn Harithah and Abdullah Ibn Rawahah.’ They directed me once again and I saw another group of three people and I asked, ‘Who are these?’ they responded, ‘These are Ibrahim, Moosa and Eesa, upon whom be Allah’s peace, waiting for you’.”

(باللغة الإنجليزية)

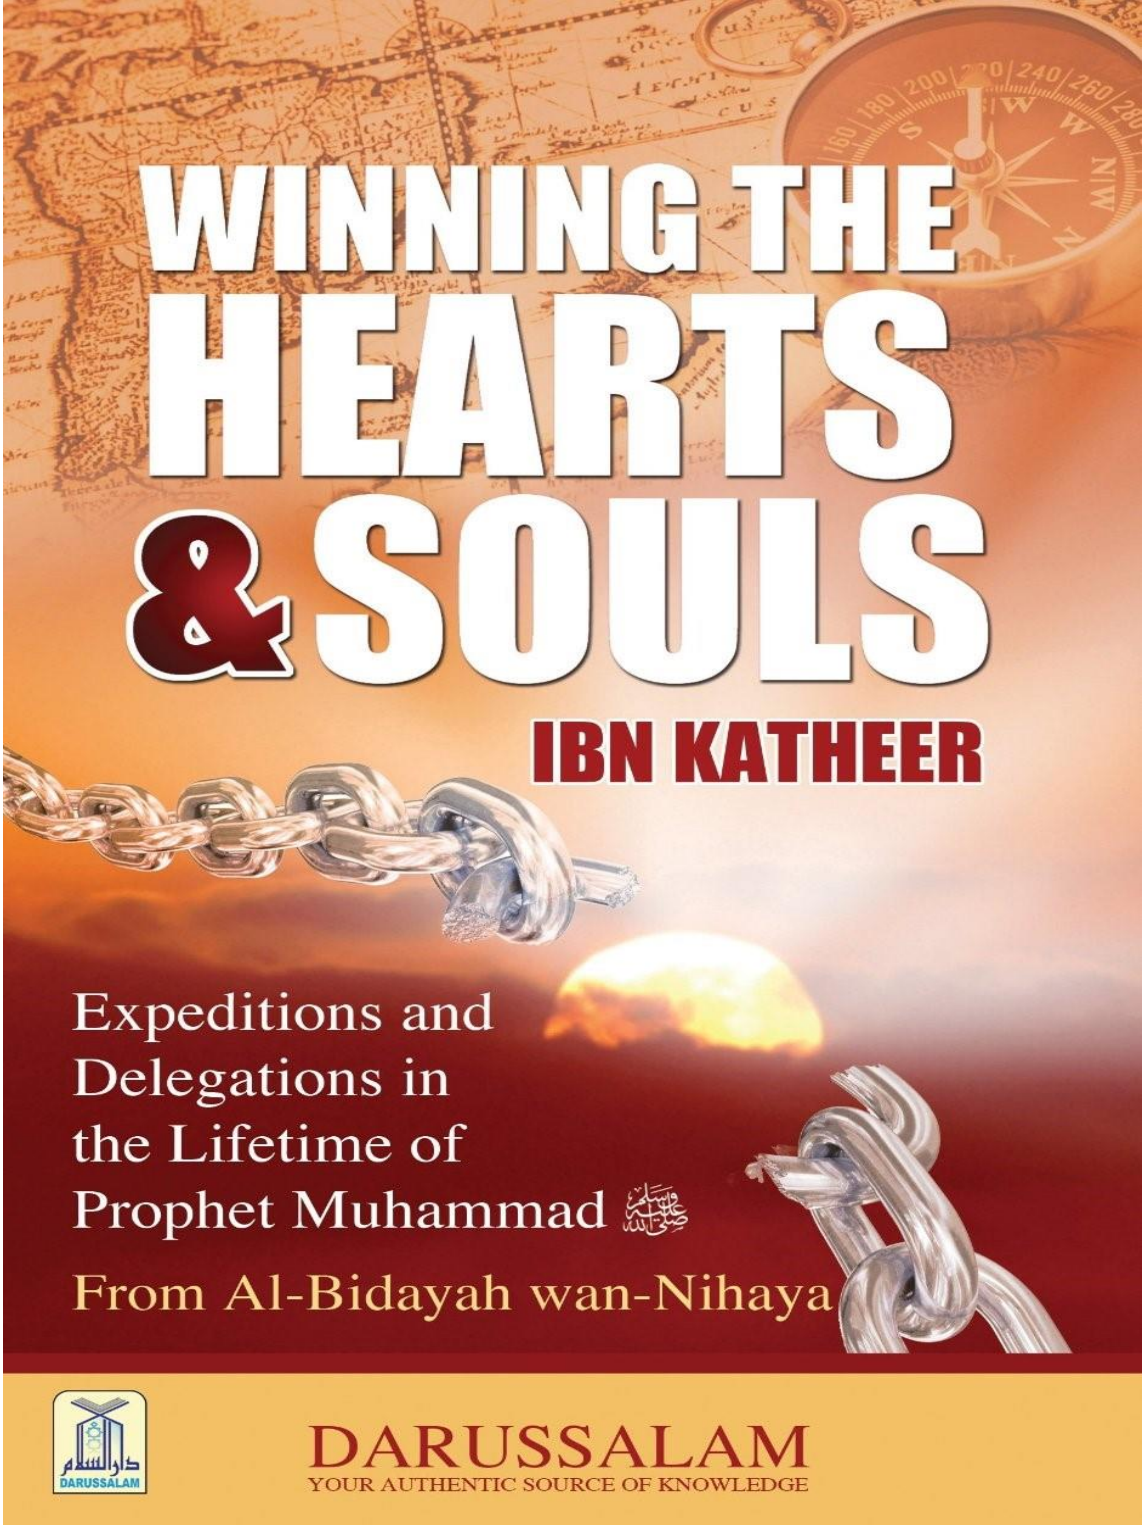

Darussalam is proud to present the abridged English translation of the classic work: Al-Bidayah wan Nihayah, focusing exclusively on the battles, expeditions and Peace Treaties undertaken in the lifetime of Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings be upon him). This volume contains a detailed account of the most momentous events from the Battle of Badr to the Battle of Mu'tah -- that occurred to the Muslims under the leadership of the Messenger of Allah. Many of these events have become immortalised by the Noble Qur'an and continue to provide invaluable lessons to humanity, now and forever.

Al-Bidayah wan Nihayah (The Beginning and The End) by the renowned scholar Abu Al-Fida 'Imad ad-Deen Isma'eel bin 'Umar ibn Katheer, is considered one of the most authoritative sources on Islamic history.

Preface To The Revision

In the Name of Allah, the Most Beneficent, the Most Merciful

All praise and thanks be to Allah, Who revived knowledge of His religion and caused it to blossom forth after it had all but disappeared, and Who demolished the false conjectures of the apostates. I praise Him and I seek refuge with Him from the sins which weigh upon the backs of mankind. I worship Him and seek His help and guidance in removing hindrances and difficulties in the practice of my religion. I bear witness that none has the right to be worshipped except Allah, Alone, without partners and I bear witness that Muhammad – who, by Allah’s leave, brought about the dawn of faith to the darkness and misguidance which existed in the hearts of mankind – is the slave and Messenger of Allah. May the Blessings and Peace of Allah be upon him in perpetuity.

O Allah! We seek Your favor and through You we seek to ward off affliction. We ask You to protect us and to grant us mercy. Our Lord! Make not our hearts deviate after You have already guided us. Make it easy for us to perform our deeds in the way that You have taught us. Make us grateful for what You have given us and make plain a path for us which leads to You. Open up the doors between us and You by which we may arrive before You. To You belong the keys to the heavens and the Earth and You are Most Able to do all things.

Among the blessings which Allah has bestowed upon us, the community of Muslims, is that He has made it easy for us to follow the path of guidance and He has opened the doors of knowledge by making available to us these new publications, which present to us the writings of the early scholars and reveal to us what they said regarding legal verdicts, history, events, information and lessons. These scholars opened a clear beacon of light for all those Muslims seeking guidance, and they set up for us a signpost in which there is neither deviation nor crookedness. Whoever follows it will arrive safely at his desired destination and whoever diverts from it will be lost forever. They have written these books and treatises and made clear to us therein events, information and virtues. Among such books is this unique work, Al-Bidayah Wan- Nihayah, by the Imam, the Hafiz, the master scholar of ahadeeth, ‘Imaduddeen Isma‘eel Ibn Katheer Al-Qurashi – may Allah have Mercy on him. This book was greeted with approval by the vast majority of Muslims. No Islamic library would be complete without it. In it, the author has recorded what Allah, Most High, has made easy for him about the history of mankind, from the beginning of creation, starting with the creation of the Throne and the Kursi (chair), the heavens and the Earth and all that they contain and all that lies between them, such as the angels, the jinn and the devils. He also described how Adam was created, and told the stories of the prophets up to the days of the Children of Isra‘eel and the Days of Ignorance (Jahiliyyah), until the advent of Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), which heralded the end of Prophethood. He then recorded his Seera)

Then he recorded the events which took place up to his own time. He also spoke of the trials and battles, the signs of the approach of the Hour, then the sending forth of mankind and the terrors of the Resurrection, which he described in detail. He then described the Hellfire, with all its horrors, and Paradise and all the good things contained therein. He called this particular volume of his book: An-Nihayah Fil- Fitan Wal-Malahim (The Ending in Trials and Battles). As for the book which is in our hands today, it is Al-Bidayah.

By Allah's Grace, I came to know Brother Abdul Malik Mujahid, the general manager of Darussalam Publishing in Riyadh. He visited me in my humble office in Damascus and suggested to me the idea of creating a summarised version of this wonderful book. I prayed for Allah's Guidance in the matter and sought help from Him in completing the project. Allah enabled me to make the acquaintance of a number of people of knowledge and experience in this field and a plan of action for the work was written. It consisted of ten principal points and we then started the task, seeking help from the Lord of the heavens and the Earth. All of us exerted our utmost efforts in this task, making repeated revisions and corrections, until we reached the point where, by Allah's Permission, we completed it and it was published in the form which is in your hands today.

The Plan of Action for This Book:

1. Summarization of the text. This was achieved by concentrating on the most important events narrated in the book. In doing so, we took care not to leave out any important details which would cause loss of meaning or import.

3. We left out the ahadeeth which proved to be baseless or weak and confined ourselves to the ahadeeth which are authentic or Hasan and those which are acceptable due to the existence of other supporting narrations. On rare occasions, when it was found that there were no other ahadeeth in the chapter, we included some weak ahadeeth whose weakness was not of an extreme nature.
4. We performed takhreej of the ahadeeth with ascription of the number of the section and the page, the number of the ahadeeth and in many cases, the precise location of the hadeeth in the original source, then the ruling on its authenticity, if it was not from the Saheehain, because the ahadeeth therein do not require any ruling on their authenticity and they have been widely accepted by the Muslim Ummah. As for the ahadeeth in this book, we have relied on the opinions of the Imams and scholars of Hadith – including the earlier scholars, the later scholars and those of the present day. On some occasions, we have recorded the weak ahadeeth, while making it plain that they are not authentic. We have not omitted them because the author has included them in order to warn the people against them due to their widespread popularity amongst the Muslims in general. In such cases, we desired not to oppose the author in this effort and so we left them, at the same time making the scholars' ruling on them clear, so as to warn the people against them.

5. We summarised the asaneed present in the book, in most cases mentioning only the Companion who narrated the Hadith, or the person who reported it from him.
6. We omitted many of the Isra'eeliyyat found in this book which the author referred to in the preface, where he said: "We do not record the Isra'eeliyyat except those which the Lawgiver has permitted, i.e., those which do not contradict the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). These are stories which are neither believed nor belied and they have been recorded because they provide details of unclarified narratives that we have, or they provide names for people and places that have only been mentioned in passing in our Revelation, due to there being no benefit in specifying them for us. Thus we have reported them in order to provide extra detail and not with the intention of citing them as evidence or placing any reliance on them. Only the Book of Allah and the authentic Sunnah of His Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) may be relied and depended upon. It is from Allah that we seek help and it is He in Whom we place our trust; there is no help and no power except in Allah, the Almighty, the All-Powerful, Most Wise and Most High.
7. In some instances, we have referred back to the original manuscript in order to verify the wording of a Hadith from its source. In some cases, the author has combined two narrations of the same Hadith together and so where this has occurred, we have noted it and separated the two narrations, placing our own words between brackets, i.e., (and in another narration...) and we have also identified the source of the addition in the footnotes.

8. We have written the Qur’anic Verses in the Uthmani script, in conformity with the copy of the Qur’an published by Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah Printing Complex.
9. We vowelized the words of many of the ahadeeth in the book and, in addition, the poetic verses, wherever possible.
10. We mentioned the meters of the poetic verses between parentheses.
11. We explained the meanings of some difficult or obscure words, relying on dictionaries, books containing ghareeb ahadeeth and narrations and other sources.
12. We furnished a brief biography of the author, Hafiz Ibn Katheer, though in reality, he requires no introduction and no description.

Finally, I ask Allah, Most High, to accept this humble work from us and to acknowledge it as having been done purely and sincerely with the aim of pleasing Him and to grant us and our brothers, who assisted us in the production of this book, pardon and forgiveness in religious and secular matters. In addition, we ask Him that He include this work in the weight of our good deeds on the Day of Resurrection – a Day on which neither wealth nor sons will benefit anyone – except for those whom Allah has blessed with pure hearts.

And our final declaration is that all praise and thanks are due to Allah, and we invoke blessings and peace upon Prophet Muhammad and upon all his righteous family and Companions until the Day of Reckoning.

Publisher's Preface

Verily, all praise and thanks are due to Allah. We seek His help and we ask forgiveness from Him. We seek refuge with Allah from the wickedness in ourselves. Whomsoever Allah guides, there is none who can misguide him and whomsoever He sends astray, there is none who can guide him. I bear witness that none is worthy of worship except Allah and that Muhammad is His slave and His Messenger. He sent him with guidance and the true Religion and with the light (of truth), the admonition and wisdom, at a time when no Messengers were sent for a long period, when there was little religious knowledge and the people had gone astray, when the Hour was drawing nearer. Whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger has followed the right course, while whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger erred from it and gone far astray.

The book Al-Bidayah (The Beginning) by the Hafiz, the Imam, the scholarly critic, Ibn Katheer is an incomparable work regarding the study of the events and their chronological order, the knowledge of which he strove hard to acquire. He began by describing the start of creation – from the creation of the Throne and the Kursi and the heavens and the Earth and all that is in them and all that lies between them, such as the angels, the jinn and the devils and he described the manner of Adam's creation. He recounted the stories of the Prophets and the events that took place therein, up to the times of the Children of Isra'eel and the Days of Ignorance, which ended with the advent of the final Prophet, Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Then he gave a detailed description of his life and what happened after that, up to the time in which he lived. He then wrote a separate volume called An-Nihayah Fil- Fitan Wal- Malahim (The Ending With Trials and Great Battles).

Furthermore, Allah inspired us to undertake the noble task of making this book easily accessible to both the students and the scholars and then to translate it into several languages, by Allah's Permission.

I suggested to my brother, Yoosuf Al-Hajj, the necessity of summarizing this book in a suitable manner, through the omission of unbeneficial repetition, weak ahadeeth, lengthy poems, etc. I am thankful to Brother Yoosuf for assembling a team that consisted of Abdul Malik Wadih, Abu Muslim AlJaza'iri, Muwaffeq Khaleel Hammad, and himself. Darussalam funded the entire project, paying each team member for his contribution and work. After they completed their portion of the project, the work then went through numerous people in the Research Division of Darussalam, who meticulously went through the work, adding and subtracting materials. After this, the project went through another round of editing of the Arabic material before it was sent to the translation department. The translation was then checked for accuracy and then sent for editing, resulting in the final project that you see before you. All praise and thanks be to Allah for allowing us to produce such a classical work for the first time in the English language.

O Allah! We ask that You bless us with sincerity and success and that You spread goodness through our hands.

The Messenger of Allah's Letters to Foreign Sovereigns Inviting Them to Allah and to Accept Islam

On the authority of Anas Ibn Malik who narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, wrote to Kisra (Chosroes, King of Persia), Qaisar (Caesar, Emperor of Rome), An-Najashi (King of Abyssinia), and to every (other) ruler inviting them to Allah, the Exalted. The Najashi (Negus) mentioned here was not the same one for whom the Messenger of Allah offered the funeral prayers.

On the authority of 'Abdullah Ibn 'Abbas who said that Abu Sufyan narrated to me directly saying, "We were merchants and we had been strained by continual fighting until our wealth became depleted. After the armistice, i.e. the Treaty of Hudaibiyah, between us and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, I went on a trade mission to Sham (Syria) along with a group (of people) from Quraish. We arrived in Sham when Qaisar, the king of Rome, had defeated and expelled the Persians who had occupied his territory. He also reclaimed the Cross that had previously been lost. When the news of the victory (and defeat of the Persians) reached him, he was residing in Hims, Sham, and walked to Bait Al-Maqdis to offer prayers as a token of his gratitude (for the victory). He was welcomed by the people with great pomp and pageantry. A messenger from the king of Busra came to him with an Arab, whom he had brought, and said, 'O King, this man is an Arab from the people of sheep and camels; he brings you news of events that have occurred in his land,' and in the king's presence he asked his translator to tell the Arab to deliver the news. The man said, 'An Arab from the Quraish has appeared claiming to be a Prophet; some of the people have followed him while others have opposed him. Bloody confrontations have occurred between them in a number of battles, and I left them in that condition.'

The king summoned the head guard and ordered, 'Comb through every part of Sham and bring me someone from this man's country to verify his story'."

Abu Sufyan said, "When we came to him, he said to his translator: 'Ask them who amongst them is the closest in relation to the one who claims to be a Prophet.'" Abu Sufyan added, I replied, 'I am the nearest relative to him.' He asked, 'What degree of relationship do you have with him?' I replied, 'He is my cousin, and there was no one from Banu 'Abd Manaf in the caravan except myself.' The king said, 'Let him approach me.' He then ordered that my companions stand behind me near my shoulder and said to his translator, 'Relate to his companions that I am going to ask him about the man who claims to be a Prophet. If he lies, they should oppose him immediately!."

Abu Sufyan added, "By Allah! Had it not been shameful that my companions would label me a liar, I would not have spoken the truth about him when asked, so I spoke the truth. He said to his translator, 'Ask him what kind of family does he belong to.' I replied, 'He belongs to a noble family from amongst us.' He asked, 'Has anyone else from amongst you ever claimed the same prior to him?' I replied, 'No.' He asked, 'Have you ever censured him for telling lies prior to what he claimed?' I replied, 'No.' He asked, 'Was anyone from amongst his ancestors a king?' I replied, 'No.' He asked, 'Do the noble or the poor follow him?' I replied, 'It is the poor who follow him.' He asked, 'Are they increasing or decreasing?’ I replied, ‘They are increasing.’ He asked, ‘Has anyone from amongst those who have embraced his religion become displeased with it and discarded it?’ I replied, ‘No.’ He asked, ‘Does he break his promises?’ I replied, ‘No, but we are now at truce with him and we are afraid that he may betray us!’” Abu Sufyan added, “Other than the last sentence, I could not say anything against him.”

Caesar then asked, ‘Have you ever fought a battle with him?’ I replied, ‘Yes.’ He asked, ‘What was the outcome of your battles with him?’ I replied, ‘The result was unstable; sometimes he was victorious and other times we were.’ He asked, ‘What does he order you to do?’ I said, ‘He tells us to worship Allah, Alone, not to worship anything along with Him, and to abandon all that our forefathers worshipped. He orders us to pray, give in charity, be chaste, maintain our promises, and return whatever is entrusted to us.’ When I said that, Qaisar said to his translator, ‘Say to him: I asked you about his lineage and your reply was that he belonged to a noble family. In truth, all the Messengers came from the noblest lineage of their nations. Then I asked you whether anyone else from amongst you had ever claimed such a thing, and your reply was in the negative. If the answer had been in the affirmative, I would have thought that this man was following a claim that had been said before him. When I asked you whether he was ever censured for telling lies, your reply was in the negative, so I take it for granted that a person who did not lie about others could never lie about Allah. Then I asked you whether any of his ancestors were kings. Your reply was in the negative, and if it had been in the affirmative, I would have thought that this man wanted to take back his ancestral kingdom.’

When I asked you if he is followed by the rich or the poor, you replied that it was the poor who follow him. In fact, such are the followers of the Messengers. Then I asked you whether his followers were increasing or decreasing. You replied that they were increasing. In fact, this is the result of true faith until it is complete (in all respects). I asked you whether there was anyone who, after embracing his religion, became displeased with it and discarded it, your reply was in the negative. In fact, this is the sign of true faith, for, when its goodness enters and mixes in the heart, no one will be displeased with it. I asked you whether he had ever broken his promise. You replied in the negative. Such are the Prophets, they never break their promises. When I asked you whether you fought against one another, you replied in the affirmative and (you also said) that sometimes he was victorious and sometimes you were. Indeed, such are the Messengers; they are put to trials and the final victory is always theirs.

Then I asked you what he orders you with. You replied that he orders you to worship Allah, Alone, not to worship others along with Him, to leave all that your forefathers used to worship, to offer prayers, to speak the truth, to be chaste, to keep promises, and to return what is entrusted to you. These are truly the qualities of a Prophet, who I knew (from the previous Scriptures) would appear, but I did not know that he would be from among you. If what you say is true, he will, very soon, occupy the ground beneath my feet; if I knew that I would reach him, I would go immediately to meet him; were I with him, then I would certainly wash his feet!" Abu Sufyan added, "Qaisar then asked for the letter of Allah's Messenger, which was read."

Abu Sufyan added, "When Heraclius finished his speech, a great hue and cry was caused by the Byzantine courtiers surrounding him; there was so much noise that I did not understand what they said. Thereafter, we were turned out of the court. When I left with my companions and we were alone, I said to them, ‘Verily, Ibn Abi Kabsha’s (i.e. the Prophet’s) affair has gained power. This is the king of Banu Al-Asfar fearing him.’ Abu Sufyan added, “By Allah, I remained low and was sure that his religion would be victorious until Allah converted me to Islam, though I disliked it.”

Ibn Ishaq said that Az-Zuhri narrated to me saying that a Christian prelate who had witnessed that event informed me that it was Dihyah Ibn Khaleefah who came to Heraclius with the letter from the Messenger of Allah, which contained the following words: “In the Name of Allah, the Most Beneficent, the Most Merciful. (This letter is) from Muhammad, the slave of Allah and His Messenger, to Heraclius, the ruler of the Byzantine. Peace be upon the followers of guidance.

"I invite you to Islam; embrace Islam and you will be safe; embrace Islam and Allah will bestow on you a double reward. But if you reject this invitation of Islam, you shall be responsible for misguiding the peasants (i.e. your nation)."

Upon reading the contents of this letter, he slipped it between his thighs and shank and then wrote to a man from Turkey, who was well-versed in Hebrew, asking him to inform him about what he had just received from Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. The man wrote back saying, “He is undoubtedly the Prophet that is being awaited, so follow him.” He then invited the Roman nobles and assembled them at the colosseum, which he ordered locked. He told them of the rationale behind his action and then he said, “O company of Romans, a letter has reached me from Ahmad, and, by Allah, he is the Prophet that we have been waiting for. He is mentioned in our Book and his signs and time have become discernable (to us), so accept Islam and follow him and you will find peace in this world and in the Hereafter.”

Upon hearing this address, the congregation objected and they all unanimously made for the exit, but found the gates of the colosseum locked. The king became apprehensive of their reaction and ordered, “Bring them back to me.” When they returned to his presence he said to them, “O company of Romans, I gave that address in order to test your loyalty to your religion and I have seen in you what pleases me.” On the king’s volte face, they all prostrated before him and then the gates of the colosseum were opened for them and they left.

The Prophet’s Letters to the Christian Arab Kings in the Region of Syria

Ibn Ishaq related: Afterward, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Shuja’ Ibn Wahb from Banu Asad Ibn Khuzaimah to AlMundhir Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Abi Shamir Al-Ghassani, the ruler of Damascus. Al-Waqidi adds that he sent a letter with him (saying): “Peace on those who follow the guidance and believe in it. I invite you to believe in Allah, Alone, and to not associate any partners with Him. (If you do so) your authority will remain.” When Shuja’ delivered the letter and the Ghassanid ruler read it, he asked indignantly: “Who will dispossess me of my authority? I will be the first to march against him.”

The Prophet's Deputation to Kisra (Chosroes), the King of Persia

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent a man with a letter addressed to Kisra. He ordered him to first give it to the ruler of Bahrain and tell him to deliver it to Kisra. When Kisra read it, he tore it into pieces. (Az-Zuhri said): I think Ibn Al-Musaiyyab said: "Allah's Messenger invoked Allah to tear them (Kisra and his followers) into pieces."

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, also sent Hudhafah Ibn Qais Ibn 'Adiyy Ibn Sa'd Ibn Sahn with a letter to Kisra saying:

"In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

From Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah

To Kisra, the king of Persia

Peace be upon those who follow the guidance and believe in Allah and His Messenger; bearing witness that none deserves to be worshipped except Allah, Alone, with Whom there is no partner, and that Muhammad is His slave and Messenger. I invite you with Allah's invitation, for I am truly His Messenger sent to the entire humanity, to give warning to the living and justify the Word against the disbelievers. If you submit (to Islam), you will be safe but if you decline, the sin of (all) the Magians will be upon you."

(The narrator added): When he read the letter, he tore it and said, "He writes this type of letter to me, while he is my slave?" Then

Kisra wrote to Badham, his viceroy over Yemen, ordering him to “send two men to arrest this man in Hijaz and bring him to me.” Badham sent his steward along with two Persians. When they reached the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, with their clean-shaven beards and bushy mustaches, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, detested looking at them. He asked, “Woe be to you, who ordered you to do this?” They responded, “Our lord (Kisra).” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, “Rather, my Lord commands me to keep the beard and trim the mustache.” He then said, “Go back and return to me tomorrow.” Meanwhile, Divine revelation was sent to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, informing him that Sheerawaih, Kisra’s son, had overthrown him, and killed him (his father) in such-and-such month on such-and-such night. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, invited the two emissaries and informed them of the news. They said: “Are you aware of what you are saying? The one who has sent us against you is more vulnerable than that. Should we write this against you and inform King Badham about what you have said?”

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Yes, inform him on my behalf” and add: “Certainly, my religion and my authority shall subsume the extent of Kisra’s authority and it will terminate at the limit of where the hooves (of riding animals) can cover. Also tell him: If you submit, I shall leave your territory with you and preserve your authority over your people.”

Badham had not tarried long before Sheerawaih’s letter reached him saying: “I have killed Kisra in vengeance for deeming it permissible to assassinate noblemen and slaughtering them. So once you receive my letter, take allegiance on my behalf from those in your direction and then proceed to that man about whom Kisra had written an edict and do not provoke him until you receive my order concerning him.”

When Sheerawaih’s letter was delivered to Badham, he cried out: “This man is truly a Messenger (from Allah).” He accepted Islam and all those Persians who were with him in Yemen also followed suit. Badhawaih said to Badham: “I have never spoken to a more awe-inspiring person than him.” Badham asked him: “Did he have a guard with him?” He said, “No.”

Imam Ash-Shafi’i related on the authority of Abu Hurairah that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Kisra will die and there would be no Kisra after him. Qaisar (king of Rome) will die and there would be no Qaisar after him; by the One in Whose Hands is my life, you will spend their treasures in the cause of Allah.” Related by Muslim from the Hadith of IbnUyainahand they narrated it from the Hadith of Az-Zuhri.

I say: In this is an implicit tiding that the king of Rome shall never return to Sham. The Arabs used to give the appellation of Qaisar to the Roman rulers of Sham and the peninsula. Similarly, they referred to each person that ruled Persia as Kisra and the ruler of Abyssinia as Negus. They also gave the title of Muqawqis to every ruler of Alexandria, Fir‘awn (Pharaoh) to the non-Muslim ruler of Egypt, and Batlaimoos to the ruler of Hind. They also had peculiar titles other than these. We have mentioned this at other places also. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Muslim related on the authority of Jabir Ibn Samurah who said: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: A small force of Muslims will capture the treasure of Kisra in the White Palace."

Deputation to Muqawqis, Juraij Ibn Meena Al-Qibt, the Monarch of the City of Alexandria

On the authority of Ibn Ishaq who said that "Az-Zuhri narrated to me from 'Abdur Rahman Ibn 'Abdul-Qari that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Hatib Ibn Abi Balta'ah to Muqawqis, the ruler of Alexandria, with the Prophet's letter. When he received the letter, he kissed it, conferred an honor on Hatib and treated him hospitably. He sent Hatib back with gifts to the Prophet including clothes, white mules, and two slave girls. One of the two slave girls would become the mother of Ibrahim and Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave the other to Muhammad Ibn Qais Al-Abdi." This narration is related by Al-Baihaqi.

I say: Included in these gifts were a black eunuch slaveboy named Maabur, two unique black mules, and a white mule named Ad-Duldul. Maabur's condition as a eunuch was not well-known to the people. So, when he started to enter upon Mariyah, as they used to do in their land, some people began to insinuate concerning both of them as they were unaware of him being an eunuch. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, commanded 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib to execute him, but when it was discovered that he was an eunuch, he was released. The Hadith is recorded in Saheeh Muslim.

Ibn Ishaq related that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Saleet Ibn 'Amr Ibn 'Abd Wudd from Banu 'Amir Ibn Lu'ay to Hawdhah Ibn 'Ali, the ruler of Al-Yamamah, Al-'Ala Ibn Al-Hadrami to Al-Mundhir Ibn Sawa of Banu 'Abdul Qais, the ruler Bahrain, and 'Amr Ibn Al-'As to Jayfar Ibn Al-Julanda and Ammar Ibn Al-Julanda Al-Azdiyyin the two rulers of Amman.

The Battle of Dhat us-Salasil

Al-Baihaqi cited it here before the Battle of the Conquest (of Makkah). He related it through Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah and 'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair, both of whom narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent 'Amr Ibn Al-'As and 'Abdullah along with those who followed him from Quda'ah to Dhat us-Salasil in the vicinity of Sham in Baliyy. 'Urwah added: Banu Baliyy are the maternal uncles of Al-'As Ibn Wa'il. Upon seeing the enemies' numbers, 'Amr sought reinforcement from the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent reinforcements which included some of the early Emigrants, such as Abu Bakr and 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with them. He gave the command to Abu 'Ubaidah Ibn Al-Jarrah over them.

Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah related that when they arrived, 'Amr said: "I am your commander as I requested your reinforcement from the Messenger of Allah." The Emigrants said: "Rather, you are the commander of your companions while Abu 'Ubaidah is the commander of the Emigrants." 'Amr insisted: "You were merely sent as a reinforcement (for me)." Observing his insistence, Abu 'Ubaidah, who was a good-natured and soft-hearted man, said:

“The last pledge that Allah’s Messenger took from me is that we both acquiesce. So if you disobey me, I will obey you.” Thus, Abu ‘Ubaidah handed over the reign of the command to ‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As.

On the authority of ‘Amr Ibn Al-‘As who narrated: "I had a wet-dream on a cold night in the Battle of Dhat us-Salasil. I was afraid that if I took a bath I would die. I, therefore, performed tayammum (dry ablution) and led my companions in the dawn prayer. They mentioned that to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he said: ‘Amr, did you lead your companions in prayer while you were sexually defiled?’ I informed him of the cause which impeded me from taking a bath. And I said: ‘I heard Allah say: And do not kill yourselves (nor kill one another). Surely, Allah is Most Merciful to you.’ (Soorah An-Nisa’ 4:29) The Messenger of Allah laughed and did not say anything.”

Imam Malik related on the authority of Jabir who narrated: “Allah’s Messenger sent an army consisting of three hundred men toward the east coast and appointed Abu ‘Ubaidah Ibn Al-Jarrah as their commander.” Jabir continued, “I was part of it. We marched until our food was about to finish.

Abu ‘Ubaidah ordered us to collect all the remaining provisions which was done. Our provisions were dates. Abu ‘Ubaidah kept giving us our daily ration in small amounts from it, until it was exhausted. The share of each one of us would be one date only.” I (the sub-narrator) asked, “How could one date suffice you?” Jabir replied, “We came to know its value when that too finished.” Jabir added, “When we reached the seashore, we saw a huge fish which was like a small mountain. The army ate from it for eighteen days. Then Abu ‘Ubaidah ordered that two of its bones be fixed and they were fixed in the ground. Then he ordered that a she-camel be ridden and it passed under the two ribs (which formed an arch) without touching them.”

The Conquest of Makkah

The Conquest of Makkah occurred in the month of Ramadan, 8th year (of Hijrah), and Allah has referred to it at various places in the Qur’an. Allah, the Almighty, says:

“Not equal among you are those who spent and fought before the conquering (of Makkah) (with those among you who did so later). Such are higher in degree than those who spent and fought afterward. But to all, Allah has promised the best (reward). (Soorah Al-Hadeed 57:10)

Allah (SWT) also says:

“When comes the Help of Allah (to you, O Muhammad against your enemies) and the Conquest (of Makkah), And you see that the people enter Allah’s religion (Islam) in crowds, So glorify the Praises of your Lord, and ask for His Forgiveness. Verily, He is the One Who accepts the repentance and forgives.” (Soorah An-Nasr 110:1-3)

The reason for the Conquest, after the Treaty of Hudaibiyah, is related in the narration of Muhammad Ibn Ishaq from Az-Zuhri on the authority of ‘Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair, who said that Al-Miswar Ibn Makhramah and Marwan Ibn Al-Hakam jointly informed him that the Treaty of Hudaibiyah stipulated that anyone who wished may enter into a treaty either with Muhammad or with the Quraish; the terms (of the treaty) shall be applicable to them as well. Banu Khuza‘ah said: “We are entering into a treaty with Muhammad,” and Banu Bakr quickly aligned themselves with Quraish.

This status quo, as stipulated by the treaty, remained for 17 or 18 months.

Afterward, Banu Bakr betrayed the treaty by attacking Banu Khuza‘ah at night near a watering place called Al-Wateer, which was close to Makkah. Quraish said: “Muhammad will not come to know of these events as it occurred at night and no one will see us.” They supported their allies with men and weapons and fought against Banu Khuza‘ah, because of their malice toward the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

However, after the incident between Banu Khuza‘ah and Banu Bakr at AlWateer, ‘Amr Ibn Salim rode to inform Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of the incident.

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “O ‘Amr Ibn Salim, you will be aided.” A cloud appeared in the sky and he said: “This cloud will pour down with the victory of Bani Ka‘b.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered the people to make preparations (to march out) as stealthily as possible and supplicated to Allah to hide the news (of their preparation) from Quraish until they are able to reach their land.

Abu Sufyan went to see Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in Madinah, but first he went to see his daughter, Umm Habeebah, the wife of the Prophet. As he tried to sit on the bed of the Prophet, she pulled it from underneath him. He asked: "My daughter, do you consider this bed unfit for me or me unfit for this?" She said: "It is the bed of Allah's Messenger and you are an unclean polytheist, and I do not wish for you to sit on it." Abu Sufyan said: "My daughter, you have been afflicted with evil after (you left) me." He then went to speak with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, but he did not get any response (from him). So he went to Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, requesting him to mediate with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on his behalf. Abu Bakr's response was brief and he said, "I will not do so." He then went to 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, with the same request, and he said: "Would I intercede on your behalf with Allah's Messenger? By Allah, even if I found nothing more than motes, I shall still fight against you with it." Undaunted, Abu Sufyan went to 'Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, with whom he found Fatimah, the daughter of Allah's Messenger, and with her was Hasan, who was a toddler crawling in front of them.

Abu Sufyan said: "'Ali, you are the closest person to me in kinship and relation. I have come for a need and I shall not return frustrated. Would you please intercede for me with Allah's Messenger?" 'Ali said: "Abu Sufyan, Allah's Messenger has decided upon a matter concerning which we cannot speak to him." Then he (Abu Sufyan) turned to Fatimah and said: "O daughter of Muhammad, would you ask this son of yours to intercede between the people so that he becomes a leader of the Arabs until the end of time?" She said: "My son cannot intercede between the people and no one can grant protection against the Prophet.”

Then Abu Sufyan said: “Abu Al-Hasan, it appears that matters have really become difficult for me, so please advise me.” ‘Ali said: “By Allah, I know nothing that will suffice you, except that you are the leader of Banu Kinanah; you may hold discussions among the people and then return to your land.” Abu Sufyan asked: “Do you foresee any benefit in that for me?” ‘Ali replied: “No, I do not think so, but I have no other advice to give you other than that.”

Abu Sufyan rose and went to the Mosque and addressed the people: “O People, I have been given protection,” and then rode his camel and left. On his return back to Makkah, the Quraish asked: “What news did you leave behind?” He said: “I went to Muhammad, spoke with him but he did not give me any response. Then I went to Ibn Abi Quhafah but, by Allah, I did not find any good in him. Then I went to ‘Umar and found him most hostile. I went to ‘Ali and I found him to be the gentlest of them. He is the one who directed me to a course of action and I do not know whether it will be of any benefit or not.” They asked: “What did he advise you to do?” He replied: “He asked me to intercede between the people and I complied.” They said: “It will not add up to anything, for the man merely played on your intelligence. Your feedback will not be of any benefit to us.” Resignedly, Abu Sufyan said: “I did not find a better option other than that.”

After Abu Sufyan left, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, remained for as long as Allah wished and then he resumed preparation for the invasion of Makkah. He asked ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) to prepare his personal effects for the journey and told her to be quick about it.

Afterward, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went to the Mosque or to satisfy a need when Abu Bakr came and found ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) sifting and picking wheat. He asked: “Does Allah’s Messenger intend a military expedition?” She kept silent. Abu Bakr probed further, “Perhaps he intends to invade the Romans?” ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) remained quiet. “Perhaps he intends the inhabitants of Najd?” Abu Bakr inquired further mentioning some of their misdeeds. ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) gave no information to her father. Undaunted, Abu Bakr prodded further: “Perhaps he intends the Quraish?” ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) still did not respond.

Soon after, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came back and he asked the same questions to him: “Allah’s Messenger, do you intend to go on a military expedition?” “Yes,” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied. “Perhaps it is against the Romans?” Abu Bakr asked. “No,” the Messenger of Allah said. “Perhaps you intend the inhabitants of Najd?” he further asked. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, answered in the negative. “Perhaps it is against the Quraish?” Abu Bakr asked. Finally, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Yes.” Alarmed at the Prophet’s response, Abu Bakr asked: “But isn’t there a treaty between you and them?” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Haven’t you been informed of what they did to Banu Ka’b?” Thereafter, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, announced to the people to prepare for an invasion. Then Hatib Ibn Abi Balta'ah wrote to Quraish (betraying the Prophet's secret). Allah exposed the incident of the letter to His Messenger and the story is related as follows:

The Story of Hatib Ibn Abi Balta'ah

On the authority of 'Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, who narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Az-Zubair, Miqdad, and me on an errand, saying, "Go until you reach the Rawdat Khakh where there is a pagan woman carrying a letter from Hatib Ibn Abi Balta'ah to the pagans of Makkah." We jumped on our horses and raced until we got to the meadow where we found her at the place which Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had described. We said (to her): "Bring forth the letter." She said: "I have no letter." We said, "Take out the letter, otherwise we will strip you naked." When she saw that we were determined, she took out the letter from her hair braid and we brought it to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. When it was opened, it contained correspondence between Hatib Ibn Abi Balta'ah and some of the Makkan polytheists disclosing to them some of the Messenger of Allah's plans.

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, invited Hatib and asked: "Hatib, what made you do this?" Hatib replied, "O Messenger of Allah, please do not be hasty in passing judgment on me; there is none of your Companions but has relatives in Makkah who look after their families and property, while I have nobody there. I wanted to do them a favor (so that they might look after my family and property). I did not do so this as a consequence of apostatizing from my faith or from being pleased with disbelief after I had believed." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “He is truthful (in what he has said).” ‘Umar said, “O Messenger of Allah, allow me to chop off the neck of this hypocrite.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “He participated in the Battle of Badr. Who knows, perhaps Allah has looked at the warriors of Badr and said (to them), ‘Do whatever you like, for I have forgiven you’.” Then Allah revealed the chapter: “O you who believe! Take not My enemies and your enemies (i.e. disbelievers and polytheists, etc.) as friends,” up to “then indeed he has gone (far) astray, (away) from the Straight Path.” (Soorah AlMumtahinah 60:1)

On the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas, who narrated that afterward Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, departed on his journey, and he appointed Abu Ruhm Kulthoom Ibn Husain Ibn ‘Utbah Ibn Khalaf Al-Ghifari over Madinah. He departed ten days into the month of Ramadan. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, fasted and the people also did the same along with him until they reached Al- Kadeed (a place) between ‘Usfan and Amaja, where he broke his fast. He proceeded until he disembarked at Marraz-Zahran along with 10,000 Muslims.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who narrated that Allah’s Messenger traveled in the month of Ramadan and he fasted until he reached (a place called) ‘Usfan. He asked for a tumbler of water and drank from it during the daytime, so that the people might see him. He broke his fast until he reached Makkah. Ibn ‘Abbas used to say, “Allah’s Messenger fasted and sometimes did not fast while traveling, so one may fast or may not (on journeys).”

Az-Zuhri said: The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went on the expedition of the Conquest, i.e. the conquest of Makkah. He set out of Madinah in Ramadan along with ten thousand Muslims, and that was exactly eight and a half years after his arrival in Madinah. He conquered Makkah thirteen days into the month of Ramadan.

Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of Abu Sa'eed Al-Khudri who narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, announced to us to march out in the Year of the Conquest, two nights into the month of Ramadan. We set out while fasting until we reached Al-Kadeed where Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered us to break our fast. Thus, the people broke into two factions – a faction fasting and the other, not fasting. This was the situation until we reached the location where we encountered the enemy and then we were all ordered to break our fast. Thus we broke our fast altogether.

I say: based on what Az-Zuhri mentioned that the Conquest occurred on the 13th of Ramadan coupled with Abu Sa'eed's narration that they departed from Madinah on the 2nd of Ramadan, it indicates that their journey between Makkah and Madinah took 11 nights.

The Acceptance of Islam of the Prophet's Uncle, 'Abbas Ibn 'Abdul Muttalib, Abu Sufyan Ibn Al-Harith Ibn 'Abdul Muttalib, the Prophet's cousin, and 'Abdullah Ibn Abi Umayyah Ibn Al-Mugheerah Al - Makhzoomi

Ibn Ishaq related that 'Abbas Ibn 'Abdul Muttalib met Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, along the way. Ibn Hisham said that he met him at Juhfah while he was migrating on his horse. Meanwhile, he had stayed in Makkah overseeing his watering place, with the Messenger of Allah's consent, as mentioned by Ibn Shihab Az-Zuhri.

Ibn Ishaq added: Abu Sufyan Ibn Al-Harith Ibn 'Abdul Muttalib and 'Abdullah Ibn Umayyah also met Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the way at Neeq-il-'Uqab, somewhere between Makkah and Madinah, at which point they sought an audience with him. Umm Salamah spoke to him on their behalf. She said: "Allah's Messenger, your cousin and your brother-in-law (would like to have your audience)." He said: "I do not have any need for them. As for my paternal cousin, he has denigrated me and it was my maternal cousin who said what he said concerning me in Makkah." When the comment of the Messenger of Allah was conveyed to them, Abu Sufyan, who was with his son, said: "By Allah, he either grants me permission or I shall hold the hand of this son of mine and wander in the land until we both die of thirst and hunger." When the news of his threat was conveyed to the Prophet, he became compassionate toward them and gave them permission. They were admitted into his presence and they both accepted Islam.

When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, arrived at Marraz-Zhahran, he camped there as related by Al-Bukhari on the authority of Jabir, who said: "We were with Allah's Messenger collecting Al-Kabathat Marraz-Zhahran. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said, "Collect the black ones, for they are better." Somebody said, "O Allah's Messenger! Have you ever shepherded sheep?" He said, "Yes, every Prophet has been a shepherd."

Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of Abul-Waleed Sa'eed Ibn Meena, who said that when the warriors (sent to) Mu'tah were finished with their engagement, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, turned their attention toward Makkah. When they arrived at Marraz-Zhahran, he alighted at Al-'Aqabah and sent a group of harvesters to harvest Al-Kabath. "What is that?" I asked Sa'eed and he said: "It is the fruit of Al-Arak." (The narrator continued): Ibn Mas'ood also went with the harvesters. Whenever anyone of them picked a good seed, he tossed it in his mouth. The people began to laugh at Ibn Mas'ood's shanks as he climbed a tree. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Do you marvel at the thinness of his shanks? By Him in Whose Hands is my soul, they are heavier than Uhud on the scale. It is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of Anas, who said: Once we came upon a rabbit at Marraz-Zhahran. The people chased it until they became tired. I caught it and brought it to Abu Talhah, who slaughtered it and sent both its pelvic pieces (or legs) to the Prophet, which he accepted.

Al-Bukhari related from Ibn Hisham (who narrated) from his father that: When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, set out (toward Makkah) during the Year of the Conquest (of Makkah) and this news reached (the polytheists of Quraish), Abu Sufyan, Hakeem Ibn Hizam and Budail Ibn Warqa' came out to gather news about Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. They proceeded on their way until they reached Marraz-Zhahran. There they saw many fires as if they were the fires of 'Arafah. Abu Sufyan said: "What is this? It looks like the fires of 'Arafah." Budail Ibn Warqa' said, "(Perhaps) it is the fires of Banu 'Amr." Abu Sufyan interjected: "Banu 'Amr are less in number than that." Some of the guards of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw them, caught up with them, captured them and brought them to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him,. Then Abu Sufyan embraced Islam.

When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded, he said to 'Abbas: "Keep Abu Sufyan standing at the top of the mountain so that he may look upon the Muslims." So 'Abbas kept him standing (at that place) and the tribes accompanying the Prophet began to pass in front of him. A group passed by and Abu Sufyan asked: "'Abbas, who are these?" 'Abbas said: "They are (Banu) Ghifar." Abu Sufyan said: "I have nothing to do with Ghifar." Then (a group from) Juhainah passed by and he said something similar as above. Then (a group from) Sa'd Ibn Hudhaim passed by and he said something similar. Then (Banu) Sulaim passed by and he said something similar. Then came a group, the like of which Abu Sufyan had never seen before, so he asked: "Who are they?" 'Abbas said: "They are the Ansar headed by Sa'd Ibn 'Ubadah, the one holding the flag." Sa'd said: "Abu Sufyan! Today is the day of a great battle, and today (what is prohibited in) the Ka'bah will be permissible." Abu Sufyan said: "O 'Abbas! How excellent the day of destruction is!"

Then came another group (of warriors), which was the smallest; in it was Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his Companions and the flag of the Prophet was carried by Zubair Ibn Al-'Awwam. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, passed by Abu Sufyan, the latter said, (to the Prophet): "Do you know what Sa'd Ibn 'Ubadah said?" The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: "What did he say?" Abu Sufyan said: "He said such-and- such." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Sa'd told a lie. Today Allah will give superiority to the Ka'bah, and today the Ka'bah will be covered with a covering." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered that his flag be hoisted at Al-Hajoon.

'Urwah narrated Nafi' Ibn Jubair Ibn Mut'im said: I heard 'Abbas asking Zubair Ibn Al-'Awwam: "O Abu 'Abdullah! Did Allah's Messenger order you to hoist the flag here?" He replied, "Yes," and added: "Allah's Messenger ordered Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed to enter Makkah from its upper part, Kada', while the Prophet himself entered from Kuday. Two men from the cavalry of Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed named Hubaish Ibn Al-Ash'ar and Kurz Ibn Jabir AlFihri were martyred on that day.

Abu Dawood related on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas who narrated that in the Year of the Conquest, that 'Abbas Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, with Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb who accepted Islam at Marraz-Zhahran. 'Abbas said to him: "O Messenger of Allah, Abu Sufyan loves pride, would you grant him something (to boost his ego)?" Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied: "Whoever enters Abu Sufyan's house is safe and whoever remains indoors is safe (as well)."

The Description of the Prophet's Entrance into Makkah

It is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of Anas that on the Day of the Conquest, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered Makkah, wearing a helmet on his head. When he took it off, a man came and said: "Ibn Khatal is clinging to the curtain of Ka'bah." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Kill him." Malik (a sub-narrator) said: "On that day the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was not in a state of Ihram, as it appeared to us. And Allah (SWT) knows best."

Ahmad related on the authority of Jabir that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered Makkah on the Day of the Conquest wearing a black turban.

Muslim related on the authority of 'Amr Ibn Huraith, who narrated: "As if I am seeing Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the Day of the Conquest of Makkah with a pitch-black turban on his head, and its two ends hanging between his shoulders."

The compilers of the four Sunan related on the authority of Jabir that the flag of the Messenger of Allah was white on the day he entered Makkah.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Mu'awiyah Ibn Qurrah, who narrated that I heard 'Abdullah Ibn Mughaffal said: "I saw Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the Day of the Conquest of Makkah riding his she-camel, reciting Surah Al-Fat'h in a vibrant quivering tone." The sub-narrator added: “Were I not afraid that the people would gather around me, I would recite in a vibrant quivering tone just as he did.”

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Hisham Ibn ‘Urwah from his father that ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) informed him that on the Day of the Conquest, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered through Kada’ in the upper part of Makkah. Abu Usamah and Wuhaib followed him concerning the wording Kada’.

‘Ubaid Ibn Isma’eel narrated from Abu Usamah from Hisham on the authority of his father that in the Year of the Conquest, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered from the upper part of Makkah through Kada’. This is more authentic.

Ibn Ishaq related that Ibn Abi Najeesh stated in his Hadith that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered Khalid Ibn AlWaleed to enter from Al-Leet, in the lower part of Makkah with a group of people. At that time, Khalid was on the right flank, which included the tribes of Aslam, Sulaim, Ghifar, Muzainah, Juhainah and a number of other Arab tribes. Abu ‘Ubaidah Ibn Al-Jarrah approached with the Muslim column to lay ambush to Makkah. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered from Adhakhir until he disembarked at the upper part of Makkah where his tent was pitched.”

Al-Bukhari related that Usamah Ibn Zaid asked the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at the time of the Conquest: “O Allah’s Messenger! Where will we camp tomorrow?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him: said, “Has ‘Aqeel left for us any house to lodge in?” He then added, “ (Anyway) No Believer will inherit an infidel’s property, and no infidel will inherit the property of a Believer.”

Al-Bukhari also related on the authority of Abu Hurairah that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “If Allah makes us victorious, our camping place will be Al-Khaif, the place where the infidels took an oath of dedication to kufr.”

Ibn Ishaq said that ‘Abdullah Ibn Khatal belonged to Banu Taim Ibn Ghalib.

I say: His name was probably ‘Abdul ‘Uzza Ibn Khatal and when he became Muslim, his name was changed to ‘Abdullah. After he accepted Islam, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent him to collect Zakah and sent an Ansari along with him. Ibn Khatal also had with him his mawla (freed slave). On the way, he became extremely angry with the mawla, killed him and then apostatized. He had two female singers, Fartana and her friend, both of whom used to satirize the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the Muslims in their songs. It is for this reason that his blood and that of the two female singers were permitted to be shed. He was killed while hanging on the drapes of Ka‘bah. Abu Barzah Al-Aslami and Sa’eed Ibn Huraith Al-Makhzoomi jointly executed him. One of the two female singers was also executed while security was requested (and granted) for the other.

The narrator added: Al-Huwairith Ibn Nuqaidh Ibn Wahb Ibn Abd Ibn Qusayy was one of those who used to harm the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in Makkah. When ‘Abbas carried Fatimah and Umm Kulthoom so that they may join their father, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in Madinah during the first Hijrah, AlHuwaitrith poked the camel on which the Prophet's daughters were riding and they both fell off the animal. Thus, when the permission for his killing was given, 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib executed him.

He also added that Miqyas Ibn Subabah was also killed because he killed someone who mistakenly killed his brother after he had collected the blood money (for his brother) and also apostatized.

A member from his clan named Numailah Ibn 'Abdullah carried out his execution. Another person who was permitted to be killed was Sarah, the female client of Banu 'Abdul-Muttalib and of 'Ikrimah Ibn Abi Jahl as she would harm the Prophet while she was in Makkah.

I say: It has been expressed earlier that she is the same person who was carrying the letter of Hatib Ibn Abi Balta'ah. It appears that she was forgiven or perhaps she fled. Later, the order for her execution was given. And Allah (SWT) knows best. She fled again until her protection was sought from the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and it was granted. She lived until the rule of 'Umar; someone ran over her with a horse after which she died. As-Suhaili mentioned that Fartana also accepted Islam.

On the authority of Mus'ab Ibn Sa'd from his father that on the Day of the Conquest of Makkah, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, granted amnesty to the people with the exception of four men and two women. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave the command: "Kill them even if you find them hanging to the drapes of the Ka'bah." They included: 'Ikrimah Ibn Abi Jahl, 'Abdullah Ibn Khatal, Miqyas Ibn Subabah, and ‘Abdullah Ibn Sa’d Ibn Abi Sarh. As for ‘Abdullah Ibn Khatal, he was found hanging on the drape of the Ka’bah, Sa’eed Ibn Huraith and ‘Ammar Ibn Yasir raced toward him, but Sa’eed was faster for he was the younger of the two, and he killed him. Miqyas was found in the market and he was killed. ‘Ikrimah fled to the high sea, where they were caught in a storm. The occupants of the ship said to one another, “Worship Allah sincerely for all your (false) deities will not suffice you in the least in this precarious situation.” ‘Ikrimah said: “By Allah, if one cannot be saved on the high sea except through sincerity to Allah, then one cannot possibly be saved (at any othertime) by other than Him. O Allah, I give You my solemn pledge that if You deliver me from this situation I will go to Muhammad and place my hand in his.” True to his vow, ‘Ikrimah came and accepted Islam.

‘Abdullah Ibn Sa’d Ibn Abi Sarh was with ‘Uthman. When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, invited the people to pledge allegiance, ‘Uthman brought him to the presence of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said: “O Messenger of Allah, take ‘Abdullah’s (pledge of) allegiance.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, lifted his gaze to look at him three times, each time refusing (to accept) his allegiance. After the third time, he accepted his pledge of allegiance and then turned to his Companions and said: “Wasn’t there any intelligent person who would have killed him when you saw that I tarried in accepting his allegiance?” They said: “We did not know what you intended. Why didn’t you wink at us (to give a sign) ?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “It is not fitting for a Prophet to kill by gestures.” Related by Abu Dawood and An-Nasa’i also related a similar narration.

Ibn Ishaq related on the authority of Abu Murrâh, the freed slave of ‘Aqeel Ibn Abi Talib that Umm Hani, the daughter of Abi Talib, said that when the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, disembarked at upper Makkah, two men from my in-laws among Banu Makhzoom fled to me. Ibn Hisham added: They were Al-Harîth Ibn Hisham and Zuhair Ibn Abi Umayyah Ibn Al-Mugheerah. She was married to Hubairah Ibn Abi Wahb AlMakhzoomi.

Umm Hani continued: “My brother, ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib, came in to see me and insisted: ‘I shall kill both of them.’ So I locked the door of my house on both of them and went to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at the upper part of Makkah. I found him taking a bath from a bowl with dough stain and Fatimah was hiding him with a cloth. When he finished his bath, he donned his cloth and offered eight units of Dhuha prayer and then came to meet me, and said: ‘Welcome, O Umm Hani, what brought you here?’ I informed him about the two men and ‘Ali’s insistence (on killing them). He said: ‘I have granted asylum to whoever you grant asylum and safety to whom you grant safety. He shall not kill them!’”

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn Abi Laila that no one narrated to us that he saw the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, offering the Salat ud-Dhuha other than Umm Hani. She mentioned that on the Day of the Conquest of Makkah the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took a bath in her house and then offered eight units of prayer. She added: "I never saw him offering a lighter prayer than that, even though he completed the bowing and prostration properly."

Ibn Ishaq related on the authority of Safiyyah Bint Shaibah that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, arrived in Makkah and the people settled down, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came to the House (Ka'bah) and circumambulated it seven times while riding his animal touching the corner with a staff in his hand. When he completed his tawaf, he called 'Uthman Ibn Talhah and took the key to the Ka'bah and opened it. When he entered it, he found a wooden pigeon which he broke and threw it (out). Then he stood by the door of the Ka'bah while the people gathered around him in the Grand Mosque.

Ibn Ishaq said that some people of knowledge informed him that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stood by the door of the Ka'bah and said: "I bear witness that none is worthy of worship (in truth) except Allah, He is Alone without any associate. He has fulfilled His promise and helped His slave and routed the confederates. Take note! All the merits mentioned in pre-Islamic times, and the claims made for blood or property are now under my feet, except the custody of the Ka'bah and the supply of water to the pilgrims.

"Take note! The blood-money for unintentional murder, which appears intentional — such as those murdered with a whip or a stick — is one hundred camels, forty of which should be pregnant. O company of the Quraish, Allah has eliminated the haughtiness of the time of ignorance and pride in ancestry. Every man is from Adam and Adam is from dust."

Then he recited this Verse: "O mankind! We have created you from a male and a female..." (Soorah Al-Hujurat 49:13) in its entirety, and then said: "O people of Quraish! What do you think of the treatment that I am about to accord on you?” They replied: “We expect nothing but goodness from you, (you are a) noble brother and the son of a noble brother!” Upon this the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Go, for you are free.”

Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sat in the Mosque. ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib went up to him bearing the key to the Ka‘bah and said: “Grant us the custody (of Ka‘bah) and the (job of the) supplying water to the pilgrims, Allah’s peace be upon you.” Upon that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Where is ‘Uthman Ibn Talhah?” He was called and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to him: “O ‘Uthman, this is your key. Today is a day of benevolence and fealty.”

Ibn Hisham related that some people of knowledge informed me that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered the Ka‘bah on the Day of the Conquest and saw the pictures of angels and others. He also saw a picture of Ibrahim with divining arrows in his hand. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “May Allah kill them all! They turned our chief into an arrow diviner! What has Ibrahim got to do with divining arrows?” and recited the Verse, “Ibrahim was neither a Jew nor a Christian, but he was a true Muslim Haneef (Islamic Monotheism - to worship none but Allah Alone) and he was not of Al-Mushrikoon.” (Soorah Aal Imran 3:67) Then he commanded that the pictures be destroyed.

Al-Bukhari related that ‘Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood said: When the Messenger of Allah entered Makkah on the Day of Conquest, there were 360 idols around the Ka‘bah. He started striking them with a stick, which he had in his hand, and kept saying, “The truth has come, and falsehood can neither create anything nor resurrect (anything).”

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered Makkah on the Day of the Conquest riding his camel and circumambulated the House on it. Surrounding the Ka‘bah were idols bound with lead. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, began to point to the idols with a something in his hand, saying: “Truth has come and falsehood has vanished. Surely, falsehood is ever bound to vanish.” He did not point at the face of any of the idols except that it fell on its back, and he did not point at its back except that it fell on its face, until all the idols fell down. Tameem Ibn Asad Al-Khuza‘i said in a verse of poetry:

In the (fate of the) idols are lessons and knowledge

For he who hopes for reward or punishment

Abu Hurairah narrated in the Hadith of the Conquest of Makkah saying: The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, proceeded until he approached the (Black) Stone. He kissed it and circumambulated the Ka‘bah. He approached an idol by the side of the Ka‘bah which was worshipped by the people. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had a bow in his hand, and he was holding it from a corner. When he came near the idol, he began to pierce its eyes with the bow saying: “Truth has been established and falsehood has perished.” When he finished the circumambulation, he came to Safa, ascended it to a height from where he could see the Ka‘bah, raised his hands (in prayer) and began to praise Allah and supplicate as much as he wanted.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas that upon the arrival of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in Makkah, he refused to enter the Ka‘bah while idols still remained inside it. He commanded that they be thrown out. Then they brought a picture of Ibrahim and Isma‘eel, peace be upon both of them, with divining arrows in their hands to which he said: “May Allah ruin them! They knew that both of them never divined by arrow.” He then entered the Ka‘bah and extolled the Greatness of Allah by all its sides and he came out without offering any prayer in it.

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas that when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered the Ka‘bah, he supplicated by its corner and then came out to offer two units of prayer.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered Makkah on the Day of the Conquest from its upper part while riding his she-camel, and Usamah was riding behind him. Bilal and ‘Uthman Ibn Talhah, one of the servants of the Ka‘bah, were also accompanying him until he made his camel kneel in the Mosque and asked the latter to bring the key of the Ka‘bah. He opened the door of the Ka‘bah and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered in the company of Usamah, Bilal and ‘Uthman, and stayed in it for a long time. When he came out, the people rushed to it, and ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar was the first to enter it and found Bilal standing behind the door. He asked Bilal: “Where did the Prophet offer his prayer?” He pointed to the place where he had offered his prayer. ‘Abdullah said: “I forgot to ask him how many Raka‘hs he had performed.”

It is mentioned in Saheeh Bukhari and others that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, prayed in the Ka'bah, with his back to the door between the two pillars, one on the right and the other on his left and three other pillars toward his back. At the time, the House had six pillars. Between him and the western wall (of the Ka'bah) was a distance of three arms length.

Yoonus Ibn Bukair related on the authority of Ibn Ishaq who said: "My father informed me that a member of the household of Jubair Ibn Mut'im informed him that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered Makkah, he ordered Bilal to climb the roof of the Ka'bah and give the call to prayer, to which he complied." One of Banu Sa'eed Ibn Al-'As said: "Allah has conferred honor on Sa'eed for he died before he could witness the spectacle of this black man on the rooftop of the Ka'bah."

Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas that Abu Sufyan saw Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, walking while the people were trailing behind him. He said to himself: "What if I were to renew fighting with this man?" Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came and struck me on the chest with his hand and said: "Then you will be disgraced." Then Abu Sufyan said: "I repent to Allah and seek His forgiveness for what I have uttered."

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Mujahid that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: Allah's Messenger got up on the Day of the Conquest of Makkah and said: "Allah has made Makkah a sanctuary since the day He created the heavens and the Earth, and it will remain a sanctuary by virtue of the sanctity Allah has bestowed on it until the Day of Resurrection. It (i.e. fighting in it) was not made lawful to anyone before me nor will it be made lawful to anyone after me, and it was not made lawful for me except for a short period of time. Its game should not be chased, nor should its trees be cut, nor its vegetation or grass uprooted; its Luqatah (i.e. lost things) should not be picked up except by the one who makes a public announcement of it.” ‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib interjected: “Except the Idhkhir, O Allah’s Messenger, as it is indispensable for blacksmiths and houses.” On that, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, kept quiet and then said: “Except the Idhkhir as it is lawful to cut.”

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of ‘Amr Ibn Shu’aib from his grandfather through his father that when Allah allowed His Messenger to conquer Makkah, he said: “All hostilities must cease except for the Khuza‘ah against Banu Bakr.” He gave them permission until he offered the ‘Asr prayer. He then said: “All hostilities should cease.” The following day a man from Khuza‘ah came across another man from Banu Bakr at Muzdalifah and killed him. When the news of that (incident) reached the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he rose to address the people. (The narrator added: I saw him while his back was against the Ka‘bah saying): “The one who transgressed most against Allah is he who killed in the sacred precinct or murdered one not guilty of murder or took vengeance of the time of ignorance.”

On the authority of Al-Harith Ibn Malik Ibn Al-Barsa’ Al-Khuza‘i who narrated: I heard Allah’s Messenger say on the Day of the Conquest of Makkah: “After this day, this (city) shall not be invaded again (forever) till the Day of Resurrection.”

It is recorded in Saheeh Muslim on the authority of Mutee' Ibn Al-Aswad AlAdawi who narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the Day of the Conquest of Makkah: "The Quraish shall not be killed helplessly after this day until the Day of Resurrection." This statement is similar to the previous one.

Ibn Hisham related that "some people of knowledge informed me that Fadalah Ibn 'Umair Ibn Mulawwah, that is, Al-Laithi, wanted to kill the Prophet while he was circumambulating the Ka'bah in the Year of the Conquest. When he approached him, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said (to him): "Is this Fadalah?" He replied: "Yes, it is Fadalah, O Messenger of Allah." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then asked: "What are you nursing in your mind?" Fadalah said: "Nothing. I am merely remembering Allah." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, smiled and said: "Seek Allah's forgiveness." Then he placed his hand on his bosom and his heart became calm. Fadalah used to say: "He had hardly removed his hand from my bosom when I felt that there was no one more beloved to me than he."

Fadalah added: "Thereafter, I returned to my family. On the way, I came across a woman with whom I used to have an affair (during Jahiliyyah). She said: 'Come over so that we may chat'." He (Fadalah) declined and then began to say (in verse):

She said: come so that we may chat

I said: No, Allah and Islam forbid it to me

If you had seen Muhammad and his tribe

On the Day of the Conquest when the idols were shattered

You would have seen the religion of Allah becoming manifest

And the face of idolatry being smothered in darkness

Ibn Ishaq related on the authority of ‘Urwah from ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) who narrated: Safwan left for Juddah with the intention of boarding (a ship) to Yemen. ‘Umair Ibn Wahb said: “O Allah’s Prophet, Safwan Ibn Umayyah is the chief of his people but he has left in flight from you so as to plunge himself into the sea, please grant him amnesty.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “He is granted amnesty.” Again he asked: “Messenger of Allah, give me a sign for your amnesty.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave him his turban which he had put on when he entered Makkah.

So ‘Umair left in search of Safwan. He found him while he was trying to go to sea. He caught him and said: “O Safwan, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you! Allah has saved your soul from perdition. Here is an amnesty that I obtained from Allah’s Messenger (for you).” He said: “Stay away from me and don’t talk to me.” ‘Umair insisted: “Safwan, may my mother and father be sacrificed for you, your cousin is the best of men, the most benevolent, most forbearing. His glory is equally yours, his honor is yours and his reign is yours as well.” Safwan said: “I am afraid for my life.” ‘Umair insisted: “He is far more forbearing and nobler than that.” Finally, he conceded and returned with him. When he came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, Safwan said: “This one claims that you have given me amnesty.” “He has spoken the truth,” the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied. Then Safwan requested: “Can you give me two months to choose?” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “You can have four months to choose.”

Ibn Ishaq related on the authority of Az-Zuhri that Fakhitah Bint Al-Waleed, Safwan’s wife, and Umm Hakeem Bint Al-Harith Ibn Hisham, ‘Ikrimah Ibn Abi Jahl’s wife, had gone after him to Yemen and brought him back, and he accepted Islam. When both of them (Safwan and ‘Ikrimah) accepted Islam, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, allowed their wives to remain with them (in marriage) with the first contract.”

Ibn Ishaq also related that the number of those who witnessed the Conquest of Makkah among the Muslims were 10,000. Banu Sulaim contributed 700 while another opinion put their contribution at 1,000. Banu Ghifar had 400 men. As many as 400 men were from Banu Aslam. Banu Muzainah contributed 1,003 men while the rest of the army was from the Quraish, the Ansar and their allies from the various Arab tribes of Tameem, Qais, and Asad. ‘Urwah, Az-Zuhri and Moosa Ibn Uqbah narrated: the number of the Muslims with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the Day of the Conquest was 12,000. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Prophet’s Dispatching of Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed to Bani Jadheemah of Kinanah After the Conquest

Ibn Ishaq related that Hakeem Ibn Hakeem Ibn ‘Abbad Ibn Hunaif said on the authority of Abu Ja‘afar Muhammad Ibn ‘Ali, who said: When he conquered Makkah, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, dispatched Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed for the purpose of inviting him (to Islam) and not to fight. He sent along with him some Arab tribes from Sulaim Ibn Mansoor and Mudlij Ibn Murrah. They calmed Banu Jadheemah Ibn ‘Amir Ibn ‘Abd Manaf Ibn Kinanah. When they saw him coming they drew their weapons, but Khalid said: “Drop your weapons for the people have accepted Islam.”

Ibn Ishaq also said that some people of knowledge from our companions among Banu Jadheemah informed me that when Khalid ordered us to drop our weapons, a person from among us named Jadham said: “O Banu Jadheemah, woe be to you, this is Khalid, by Allah, nothing will follow your laying down your weapons except strapping (cuffs) and nothing more will come after except the striking of your necks. By Allah, I shall never lay down my weapon.”

(The narrator added): Some men from his tribe spoke to him saying: “Jadham, do you wish for our blood to be spilled? The people have accepted Islam and have laid down their weapons, war has ended and there is now pervading security.” They kept pressurizing him until they took away his weapons and all the people laid down their weapons (relying) on the statement of Khalid.

Ibn Ishaq related that Hakeem Ibn Hakeem related that Abu Ja‘afar said that when they laid down their weapons, Khalid ordered that they be shackled and then put a number of them to the sword. When the news of his action reached the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he raised his hand to the sky and said: “O Allah, I am innocent of what Khalid Ibn AlWaleed has done.”

Ibn Ishaq also said that Jadhah had said to them when he saw what Khalid had done to Banu Jadheemah: “The striking (of the necks) has manifested itself. I had warned you concerning what you have fallen victim to.” Ibn Ishaq related that some altercation occurred between Khalid and ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn ‘Awf on the same issue. The latter asked: “Did you carry out an act from the period of Ignorance?” Khalid replied: “I took revenge for your father.” ‘Abdur Rahman responded: “You have lied, you have killed my father’s murderer previously; rather, you have taken revenge for your uncle Al-Fakih Ibn AlMugheerah.” There was an altercation between them which came to the attention of Allah’s Messenger, so he said: “Khalid, take your time, and let my Companions be (i.e. none should revile my Companions), for if you have as much gold as Uhud and you were to spend it (all) in charity, it would (still) not amount to as much as the early morning striving or evening striving of one of my Companions.”

The Dispatch of Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed to Destroy Al‘Uzza

Ibn Ishaq related that afterward, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, dispatched Khalid to destroy Al-‘Uzza, which was an idol housed surrounded by palm groves and venerated by Quraish, Kinanah and Mudar. Its custodian and its drapers were from Banu Shaiban from the clan of Banu Sulaim who were allies of Banu Hashim. When its custodian, AsSulami, heard of Khalid’s movement toward the idol, he hung his sword on the Al-‘Uzza and then rushed to the hill where it was located while saying:

O ‘Uzza, in a manner that is unprecedented, be prepared

For Khalid, jettison your veil and be prepared

For O 'Uzza, if you do not kill a man like Khalid

You will be displaced and cut short in haste

When Khalid came to the idol, he destroyed it and returned to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

The Length of the Prophet's Stay in Makkah

There is no disagreement that he spent the remainder of the month of Ramadan shortening prayers and not fasting. This is a proof for some of the scholars who argue that if a traveler does not intend residency, then he may shorten the prayers and refrain from fasting for 18 days according to one of the two opinions.

Al-Bukhari related that Anas Ibn Malik said: "We stayed with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, (in Makkah) for ten (days) and we were shortened the prayers."

Al-Bukhari related that Ibn 'Abbas said: Allah's Messenger stayed (in Makkah) for 19 days offering prayers of two raka'ahs (i.e. shortening them).

'Imran Ibn Husain said: "I participated in military expeditions with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and I witnessed the Conquest along with him. He stayed for 18 nights offering two raka'ahs of (shortened) prayers. He would say: 'O residents, pray four (units) for we are travelers.'" This is how At-Tirmidhi related it and he said: This Hadith is hasan saheeh.

Judgment Passed by Allah’s Messenger in Makkah

‘Utbah Ibn Abi Waqqas authorized his brother, Sa’d, to take the son of the slave-girl of Zam‘ah into his custody. ‘Utbah said (to him) “he is my son.”

When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, arrived in Makkah during the Conquest (of Makkah), Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas took the son of the slave-girl of Zam‘ah to the Prophet. ‘Abd Ibn Zam‘ah too came along with him. Sa’d said, “This is the son of my brother and the latter has informed me that he is his son.” ‘Abd Ibn Zam‘ah said, “O Allah’s Messenger! This is my brother who is the son of the slave-girl of Zam‘ah and was born on his (i.e. Zam‘ah’s) bed.” Allah’s Messenger looked at the son of the slave-girl of Zam‘ah and noticed that he, of all the people, had the greatest resemblance to ‘Utbah Ibn Abi Waqqas. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said (to ‘Abd), “He is yours; he is your brother, O ‘Abd Ibn Zam‘ah, he was born on the bed (of your father).”

(At the same time) Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said (to his wife, Sawdah): “O Sawdah, veil yourself before him (i.e. the son of the slave-girl),” because of the resemblance he noticed between him and ‘Utbah Ibn Abi Waqqas. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, added, “The boy is for the bed (i.e. for the owner of the bed where he was born), and stoning is for the adulterer.” Ibn Shihab said: “Abu Hurairah used to say that publicly.”

Al-Bukhari also related that Ibn Shihab said: ‘Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair narrated to me that a lady committed theft during the lifetime of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in the Ghazwah of Al-Fat'h, (i.e. the Conquest of Makkah). Her folk went to Usamah Ibn Zaid to intercede for her (with the Prophet). When Usamah interceded for her with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, the color of his face changed and he said: "Do you intercede with me in a matter involving one of the legal punishments prescribed by Allah?" Usamah said: "O Allah's Messenger! Ask Allah's Forgiveness for me." So in the afternoon, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, got up and addressed the people. He praised Allah as He deserved and then said: "The nations before you were destroyed because if a noble from among them were to steal, they would excuse him, but if a poor person from among them were to steal, they would apply (Allah's) legal punishment on him. By Him in Whose Hand is Muhammad's soul, if Fatimah, the daughter of Muhammad, were to steal, I would cut her hand." Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave his order in the case of that woman and her hand was amputated. Afterward, her repentance proved sincere and she was married. 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) said: "That lady used to visit me and I used to convey her demands to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him."

It is recorded in Saheeh Muslim from the Hadith of Sabrah Ibn Ma'bad AlJuhani who said: "Allah's Messenger ordered us to do Mut'ah (temporary marriage) in the Year of the Conquest (ofMakkah) when he entered Makkah. Then he prohibited before he left (Makkah)." In another version, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Beware, it is prohibited from this day (of yours) until the Day of Resurrection."

I say: the most emphatic prohibition of it occurred in the Battle of Khaibar. It is said that he permitted it twice and prohibited twice. Ash-Shafi‘i and others prefer this opinion. It is also argued that it was prohibited only once, which was after the Conquest.

It is also said that it was permitted due to necessity. Based on this, once necessity calls for it, then it becomes permissible. This is a reported opinion from Imam Ahmad. Another opinion argues that it was not absolutely prohibited and it is still under permissibility. This opinion is well-known from Ibn ‘Abbas and some of his companions.

Ibn Jareer related that the people then gathered in Makkah to pledge allegiance to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, upon Islam. According to what was related to me, he sat for that purpose on Mount Safa while ‘Umar sat below him and he began to accept from people their oath to listen and obey Allah and His Messenger in whatever way they are able to. When he finished taking the pledge from the men, he then took the pledge from the women. Among them was Hind Bint ‘Utbah who came veiled because of the (evil) that she had perpetrated on Hamzah and therefore fearing that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, might apprehend her. When the women moved closer to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to give their pledge, he said (to them): “Do you give me your pledge that you will not associate any partner with Allah?” Hind said: “Would you take from us what you did not take from the men?” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, continued: “That you will not steal,” again she interjected: “I took something from the wealth of Abu Sufyan, but I do not know whether that is permissible for us or not.” Abu Sufyan, who was witnessing all that she was saying, said: “As for what you had taken in the past, it is permitted to you.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: “Are you Hind Bint Utbah?” She replied in the affirmative and she entreated: “Overlook what has gone by, may Allah overlook for you (your mistakes).”

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then continued: “That you will not commit adultery.” Again Hind interjected: “O Allah’s Messenger, does a woman born free commit adultery?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, continued: “That you will not kill your children.” She said: “We had nurtured them in their infancy, while you and your Companions killed them in adulthood at the Battle of Badr.” At this, ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab laughed heartily. Again, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “That you shall not peddle slander.” She said: “Peddling rumor is indeed a despicable thing.” He said: “That you shall not disobey me.” She interjected: “In righteousness.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to ‘Umar: “Accept their pledge and seek Allah’s forgiveness for them for He is Oft-Forgiving and Merciful.” ‘Umar took their pledge. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, neither shook the hands of women nor did he touch any woman other than the one whom Allah had permitted for him or those who were Dhat Mahram (those close relatives to whom marriage was permanently forbidden for him).

It is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) that: “By Allah, the hand of Allah’s Messenger never touched that of any (strange) woman.” In another version: “He never used to accept their pledge except by word of mouth and he would say: 'My address to one woman is similar to addressing a hundred women!'

It is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) that Hind Bint 'Utbah said: "O Allah's Messenger! Abu Sufyan is a miser and he does not give me what is sufficient for me and my children. Can I take from his wealth without his knowledge?" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Take what is sufficient for you and your children, and the amount should be just and reasonable."

On the authority of Ibn 'Abbas who narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the Day of the Conquest of Makkah: "There is no migration (after the Conquest), but (there is still) Jihad and good intentions; when you are called for Jihad, you should respond to the call immediately."

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Majashi' Ibn Mas'ood who said: "I took Abu Ma'bad to the Prophet so that he might give him the pledge of allegiance for migration." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Migration has ended, but I take the pledge from him (i.e. Abu Ma'bad) for Islam and Jihad." (The sub-narrator said): "Then I met Abu Ma'bad and I asked him and he said: 'Majashi' has spoken the truth'." Khalid related on the authority of Abu 'Uthman from Majashi' that he came with his brother Mujalid.

These Ahadeeth indicate that Hijrah, either in its entirety or absolutely, has ceased after the Conquest of Makkah, because people entered the religion of Allah in throngs, Islam prevailed (and become manifest), and its pillars and beams became well-entrenched so there was no more Hijrah except in a situation which requires migration as a consequence of living in proximity with war-mongers and one does not have the power to openly practice the religion among them. In that situation, migration becomes obligatory from there to Dar Al-Islam (the land of Islam). There is no difference among the scholars on this issue. However, this Hijrah is not similar to the one that occurred before the Conquest. Similarly, Jihad and spending in the path of Allah are both legislated and highly recommended until the Day of Resurrection, but they are not similar to Jihad and spending in the path of Allah before the Conquest of Makkah. Allah says: “Not equal among you are those who spent and fought before the conquering (of Makkah) (with those among you who did so later). Such are higher in degree than those who spent and fought afterwards. But to all, Allah has promised the best (reward).” (Soorah Al-Hadeed 57:10)

Al-Bukhari also related on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas that ‘Umar used to admit me (into his house) along with the older men who fought in the Battle of Badr. Some of them said (to ‘Umar): “Why do you allow this young man to enter with us, while we have sons of his own age?” ‘Umar said: “Do you know who he is?” One day ‘Umar called them and called me along with them, I had thought he called me on that day to show them something about me (i.e. my knowledge). ‘Umar asked them: “What do you say about (the Soorah): ‘When comes the Help of Allah (to you, O Muhammad against your enemies) and the Conquest (of Makkah), and you see that the people enter Allah’s religion (Islam) in crowds, so glorify the Praises of your Lord, and ask for His Forgiveness. Verily, He is the One Who accepts the repentance and forgives. ’” (Soorah An-Nasr 110:1-3)

Some of them replied: “We are ordered to praise Allah, and repent to Him if we are helped and granted victory.” Some said: “We do not know.” Others remained silent. ‘Umar then said to me: “Do you say similarly?” I said: “No.” ‘Umar said: “What do you say then?” I said: “This Verse indicates the approaching death of Allah’s Messenger, which Allah informed him about. ‘When comes the Help of Allah (to you, O Muhammad against your enemies) and the conquest (of Makkah) ’ that will be the sign of your (Prophet’s) approaching death, ‘So glorify the Praises of your Lord, and ask for His Forgiveness. Verily, He is the One Who accepts the repentance and forgives.’ On that, ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, said: “I do not know about it anything other than what you say.”

On the authority of ‘Amr Ibn Salimah who narrated that AbuQilabah said to me: “Shouldn’t you meet him and ask him?” so I met him and asked him and he said: We were at a place which was a thoroughfare for the people, and the caravans used to pass by us and we would ask them: “What is wrong with the people? What is wrong with the people? Who is that man?” They would say, “That man claims that Allah has sent him (as a Messenger), that he has been Divinely inspired, and that Allah has revealed to him such-and-such.” I used to memorize that (Divine) speech, and felt as if it was ingrained in my heart. The ‘Arabs (other than Quraish) delayed their conversion to Islam until the Conquest (of Makkah). They used to say: “Leave him (i.e. Muhammad) and his people Quraish: if he overpowers them then he is a true Prophet.”

So, when Makkah was conquered, every tribe rushed to embrace Islam, and my father hurried to embrace Islam before (the other members of) my tribe. When my father returned (from the Prophet) to his tribe, he said: "By Allah, I have surely come to you from the Prophet." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, afterward said to them: "Offer such-and-such prayer at such-and-such time, and when the time for the prayer comes, then appoint someone to pronounce the Adhan (for the prayer), and let someone from among you, who knows the most Qur'an, to lead the prayer." So they looked for a person and found none who knew more Qur'an than I because of the Qur'anic portions which I would learn from the caravans. They made me their Imam (to lead the prayer) and at that time I was a boy of six or seven years. I would wear a Burdah (i.e. a black square garment) which proved to be very short for me (and my body became partly naked). A lady from the tribe said: "Won't you cover the backside of your reciter for us?" So they bought (a piece of cloth) and made a shirt for me. I have never been so happy with anything before as I was with that shirt.

The Expedition of Hawazin on the Day of Hunain

Allah, the Almighty, says: "Truly, Allah has given you victory on many battlefields, and on the Day of Hunain (battle) when you rejoiced at your great number but it availed you naught and the Earth, vast as it is, was straitened for you, then you turned back in flight. Then Allah did send down His Sakinah (calmness, tranquility and reassurance, etc.) on the Messenger (Muhammad), and on the Believers, and sent down forces (angels) which you saw not, and punished the disbelievers. Such is the recompense of disbelievers. Then after that Allah will accept the repentance of whom He will. And Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful." (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:25-27)

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq Ibn Yasar has mentioned in his book that the Messenger of Allah's march to Hawazin took place after the Conquest (of Makkah) on the 5th of Shawwal, in the 8th year. He also claimed that the Conquest occurred ten days toward the end of the month of Ramadan and 15 days before his march against them.

Ibn Ishaq related that when the Hawazin heard that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had conquered Makkah, its ruler, Malik Ibn 'Awf An-Nasri, convened a meeting which was attended by all the Hawazin of Thaqeef, the people of Nasr and Ju'sham, Sa'd Ibn Bakr and a few from Banu Hilal. None was present from Qais of Ailan aside from these. Ka'b and Kilab of the Hawazin stayed away and no one of repute attended. Among Banu Ju'sham was Duraid Ibn As-Simmah, an elderly and experienced man who was known for his valuable advice and experience in warfare.

Thaqeef had two chiefs: Qarib Ibn Al-Aswad Ibn Mas'ood Ibn Mu'attib, who was the leader of Al-Ahlaf, and Dhul-Khimar Subai' Ibn Al-Harith, who was the leader of Bani Malik and his brother Ahmar Ibn Al-Harith. However, the overall affairs were in the hands of Malik Ibn 'Awf An-Nasri. When he decided to march against the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he was accompanied with his men, their wealth, women and children. When he camped at Awtas, the people gathered around him and included in them was Duraid Ibn As-Simmah, who was sitting in a hawdaj (howdah-like carriage) in which he was carried. As soon as he dismounted he asked: "In what valley are you?" They said: "Al-Awtas." So he said: "It is suitable for the horse. Neither a rocky mount nor a dusty plain, but why do I hear the growl of camels, the braying of asses, the cries of children, and the bleating of sheep?” They informed him: “Malik brought the army with their wealth, wives, and children.” Duraid asked: “Where is Malik?” Malik was summoned for him and he said to him: “Malik, you have become the leader of your people and today will be a precipitation of events of the subsequent days. Why do I hear the growl of camels, the braying of asses, the cries of children, and the bleating of sheep?” Malik answered: “I have brought the army along with their children, wives, and wealth.” Duraid asked: “Why did you do such a thing?” Malik replied: “I want to place behind every soldier his family and wealth so that they might encourage him to fight without thinking of retreat.” Duraid said exasperatedly: “You are no more than a shepherd of sheep! By Allah, do you think anything will change the situation of a defeated man? In case things go well nothing will help but a man with a sword and spear; and in case it goes against you, you will be debased in your family and wealth.”

He then asked: “What happened to Ka‘b and Kilab?” He was told: “No one is present from them.” So he said: “Boldness and might are absent. If it were a day of sublimity, Ka‘b and Kilab wouldn’t have been absent. I wish you would act in a similar manner as Ka‘b and Kilab. Who among your clan is present?” They informed him: “ ‘Amr Ibn ‘Amir, ‘Awf Ibn ‘Amir.” He said: “Those two weak branches of ‘Amir who can neither benefit nor harm.” Then he turned to Malik and said: “Malik, you have erred. When you advance the mass of the Hawazin to encounter the cavalry, let them ascend to a high and inaccessible part of their land and confront the Subayy riding your horses. In case the fight is to your advantage, those in the back can proceed and join you, and in the event that it goes against you, you would have rescued your families and property.” Malik said: “By Allah, I will not do what you have asked. It appears you have grown old both physically and mentally.” Then Malik said: “Hawazin, you will either follow me or I will pierce myself with this sword until it comes out from my back.” He simply detested to allow Duraid have a say in the matter. When Hawazin chose to follow Malik, Duraid said: “This is a day I will neither witness nor miss.” Then Malik addressed his men: “Once you see them, break your scabbard and assault them as a single man.”

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Umayyah Ibn Safwan Ibn Umayyah from his father that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, borrowed some armor (from Safwan). He asked: “O Muhammad, do you wish to take them by force?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied: “No, they are warranted loans until we return them to you.” Eventually, some of them were lost and the Messenger of Allah went to compensate him for them, but Safwan said: “O Messenger of Allah, I have never had a desire for Islam more than today.”

Abu Dawood related on the authority of ‘Abdul-Azeez Ibn Rufai’ from some people from the descendants of ‘Abdullah Ibn Safwan who reported that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: “O Safwan, do you have any weapons?” He (Safwan) asked: “As a loan or (will you take them) by force?” He replied: “As a loan.” So he lent him between thirty to forty coats of mail. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, fought in the Battle of Hunain. When the polytheists were defeated, Safwan’s coats of mail were collected and it was noticed that some of them were lost. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Safwan: “We have lost some of your coats of mail. Should we compensate you for them?” He replied: “No, O Messenger of Allah, for I have in my heart today what I did not have that day.”

I say: Based on the statement of ‘Urwah, Az-Zuhri and Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah the total number of the two armies which he (the Prophet) took to the Hawazin was 14,000 soldiers. This is because he arrived in Makkah with 12,000 men (according to their own opinion) and 2,000 more joined them from the freed (people of Makkah).

Ibn Ishaq related that he (the Messenger of Allah) left Makkah on the 5th of Shawwal and added that he appointed ‘Attab Ibn Aseed Ibn Abul-Ees Ibn Umayyab Ibn Abd Shams Al-Umawi to oversee the affairs of the people of Makkah on his behalf.

I say: His age (i.e. ‘Attab’s) was close to twenty. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded to confront the Hawazin, and he cited the poem of ‘Abbas Ibn Al-Mirdas:

Inform the Hawazin, the high and the low of them

From me is a letter, a clear counsel

I think Allah’s Messenger will reach you in the morning

With an army like pillars in the expanse of the land

Among them is Sulaim, your brother, who would not let you be

And the Muslims who are ardent servants of Allah

On his right flank is Banu Asad

The land itself trembles in awe of him In his front are 'Aws and 'Uthman

Abu Dawood related on the authority of As-Salooli that Sahl Ibn AlHanzaliyyah narrated to him that on the Day of Hunain we traveled with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, for a long time until evening came and I attended the prayer along with the Messenger of Allah.

A horseman came and said: "O Messenger of Allah, I went ahead of you and climbed a certain mountain where I saw the Hawazin gathered together with their women, cattle, and sheep at Hunain."

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, smiled and said: "That will be the booty of the Muslims tomorrow, if Allah wills." He then asked: "Who will be on guard tonight?" Anas Ibn Abu Marthad AlGhanawi said: "I shall, O Messenger of Allah." He said: "Then mount your horse." He mounted his horse, and came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

The Messenger of Allah said to him: "Proceed to the top of this ravine. We should not be exposed to danger from your side." In the morning, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came out to his place of prayer, and offered two raka'ahs. He then asked: "Have you seen any sign of your horseman?" The people said: "We have not, O Messenger of Allah." The announcement of the time for prayer was then made, and while the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was praying, he glanced toward the ravine. When he finished his prayer with the utterance of the salutation, he said: "Be cheerful, for your horseman has returned." We began to look between the trees in the ravine, and there he was.

He stood beside the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, greeted him, and said: “I continued until I reached the top of this ravine, where the Messenger of Allah commanded me, and in the morning I looked down into both ravines but saw no one.”

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked him: “Did you dismount during the night?” He replied: “No, except to pray or to relieve myself.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “You have ensured your entry to (Paradise). No blame will be attached to you from this day onward.”

The Description of the Battle: Initial Fleeing and the Event Victory of Al- Muttaqoon

Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah related from his father that Malik Ibn ‘Awf with and his army advanced to Hunain and arrived before Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. They hid themselves in the crevices and curvatures along the mountain pass, well-prepared (for a surprise attack). Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his Companion then approached and he (the Prophet) climbed down with them into the valley in the early morning. Soon, the horses became agitated and the enemy inundated them from all sides, dealing them a surprise attack. The people scampered as they fled in a hasty retreat, with no one caring for another. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, withdrew to the right flank saying: “Where are the people? Come around me, I am the Messenger of Allah, I am Muhammad Ibn ‘Abdullah.” But there were only carriages of camels scattered about topsy-turvy. The people had fled. Only a few stood firmly with the Prophet. Some of them were members of his household and included: ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib, Abu Sufyan Ibn Al-Harith Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib and his brother, Rabee‘ah Ibn Al-Harith Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib, Fadl Ibn ‘Abbas (it is claimed that it was Al-Fudail Ibn Abi Sufyan), Aiman Ibn Umm Aiman, Usamah Ibn Zaid. Also among the others who remained with him was Qutham Ibn ‘Abbas, and a group among the Muhajiroon which included Abu Bakr, ‘Umar and ‘Abbas.

The narrator added: A man from Hawazin riding a red-stained camel held a black flag fixed to the end of a long spear and rode in the vanguard of the Hawazin. Whenever he came across a Muslim he would stab him and if he escaped he would raise his spear as a signal to those behind and they would pursue him. While he was devastating the ranks of the Muslims, ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib and an Ansari man went toward him with the intention of killing him. ‘Ali approached him from behind and severed the two achilles’ tendons of the camel causing it to fall backward. The Ansar pounced on the man and dealt him a big blow which severed his foot and half his shank, making them fly high (in the air), causing him to fall from his saddle. The warriors did their best in the fight. When those who had fled came back, they found prisoners fettered with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

Ibn Ishaq related that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, turned to Abu Sufyan Ibn Al-Harith Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib, who was among those who remained steadfast with him on that day and demonstrated his sincerity in his Islam. He held on to the rein of the mule of Allah’s Messenger and when he asked: “Who is that?” Abu Sufyan replied: “O Allah’s Messenger, It is I, your cousin.”

Ibn Ishaq related that when the people were routed and beat a hasty retreat, a number of Bedouins betrayed the Muslims because of some enmity that still lurked in their hearts. Abu Sufyan Sakhr Ibn Harb, who had recently embraced Islam, said, "Their retreat will not stop until they reach the sea." Kaladah Ibn Al-Hanbal who came along with his half-brother, Safwan Ibn Umayyah, yelled: "Surely magic has grown inactive today." Safwan retorted back at him: "Keep quiet, May Allah break your mouth! By Allah, it is more beloved for me to be ruled by a man from Quraish than by a man from Hawazin."

Anas Ibn Malik reported that the Hawazin came with their children, women, camels and sheep and they arranged them in rows. When the two forces clashed, the Muslims fled as Allah said (in the Qur'an). Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, called them: "O servants of Allah, I am the servant of Allah and His Messenger." Then he said: "O Ansar! I am the servant of Allah and His Messenger." Thereafter, Allah routed the polytheists. 'Affan added: "He (the Prophet) was not struck by a sword nor was he shot by an arrow." On that day the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Whoever kills a polytheist, for him is his spoils." On that day, Abu Talhah killed twenty men and he took possession of all their spoils.

Abu Qatadah said: "O Allah's Messenger, I struck a man on his neck tendon (i.e. I killed him) and he had an armor on him but my attention was taken away from him (by other combatants) so please check who took it." A man got up and said: "I have the loot of that slain person with me, so give him compensation for it, O Messenger of Allah." The character of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was such that he was not asked for anything except that he gave it or he remained quiet, so Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, remained silent. 'Umar then said: "No, by Allah! Allah will not allow that one of His lions should fight and then give you his spoils." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, smiled and said: "'Umar has spoken the truth."

Abu Talhah saw Umm Sulaim with a small dagger and he asked her: "What is this in your possession?" She replied: "I am holding a dagger in case a polytheist comes close to me so I can rip open his bowels with it." Abu Talhah said: "O Messenger of Allah, do you not hear what Umm Sulaim is saying?" She turned to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said: "O Messenger of Allah, kill those who fled from you just as you killed those who fought against you, for they are deserving of that." He replied: "O Umm Sulaim, Allah has sufficed us and has been good to us (i.e. there is no need for that)."

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Anas Ibn Malik who narrated that part of the supplication of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the day of Hunain was: "O Allah, if You wish, You will not be worshipped after today." Its chain is threefold on the standard of the two Shaikhain.

Abu Ishaq related that he heard a man from Qais ask Al-Bara' Ibn 'Azib: "Did you desert Allah's Messenger during the Battle of Hunain?" Al-Bara' replied: "But Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not flee. The people of the tribe of Hawazin were good archers, so when we met them, we attacked them, and they fled. When the Muslims started collecting the war booty, the pagans barraged us with arrows, but Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not flee. No doubt, I saw him on his white mule and Abu Sufyan was holding its reins. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was saying: 'I am the Prophet in truth!'

Al-Bara' said: "Whenever we were hard-pressed by fright we would take recourse with Allah's Messenger, and it is indeed a brave person that people take recourse to."

Sayabah Ibn 'Asim As-Sulami narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the Day of Hunain: "I am the son of Al-Awatik."

Abu Qatadah related: "We set out along with the Prophet during the year of (the Battle of) Hunain, and when we confronted the enemy, the Muslims (with the exception of the Prophet and some of his Companions) retreated. I saw one of the polytheists overpowering one of the Muslims, so I struck the polytheist from behind his neck causing his armor to break loose. The polytheist turned toward me and pressed me so forcibly that it was as if I could perceive the odor of death. Then death took him and he released me. Afterward, I followed 'Umar and said to him: 'What is wrong with the people?' He said: 'It is the order of Allah.' The Muslims then returned (to the battle after retreating) and (after overcoming the enemy) the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sat and said: 'Whoever killed an infidel and has evidence to this, will have the spoils (of the deceased).' I (stood up) and said: 'Who will be my witness?' and then sat down. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, repeated his question, and then did so again (a third time). I got up and asked: 'Who will be my witness?' and then sat down. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked his question again, so I got up. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'What is the matter, Abu Qatadah?' I narrated the whole story. A man said: 'Abu Qatadah has spoken the truth, and the spoils of the deceased are with me, so please compensate Abu Qatadah on my behalf.' Abu Bakr said: 'No, by Allah, it will never happen that the Prophet will leave a lion of Allah who fights for the sake of Allah and His Messenger and give his spoils to you.' The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Abu Bakr has spoken the truth. Give it (the spoils) back to him!' So he gave it to me and I bought a garden in (the land of) Banu Salimah with it; that was the first property I got after embracing Islam."

Jabir Ibn 'Abdullah narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the day of (the Battle) of Hunain when he saw how the people had scattered in disarray: "'Abbas, call out: 'O company of Ansar! The people who pledgedfealty under the tree!'" When 'Abbas carried out the command of Allah's Messenger, they responded to the call saying: "Here we are, at your service. Here we are." You would see them trying to goad their camels back to the battlefield unsuccessfully. Hastily dismounting, they would snatch their armor from their necks, take their shield and sword and then head in the direction of the call until close to one hundred of them gathered around the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. The people were arrayed and a grim battle ensued. The first call was for the Ansar and the other for the Khazraj. They persevered, displaying prodigious stamina in the heat of the battle. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, commanded the Muslim army from his mount and when he observed the place where a grim and furious swordfight was taking place, he said: "Now the fight has grown fierce." By Allah, when those who had fled came back, they found prisoners fettered with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Allah caused some of the enemy to be killed, while others were routed. Allah granted their property and children as booty to His Messenger.

Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah mentioned in his History of Military Expeditions on the authority of Az-Zuhri that when Allah delighted His Messenger with the Conquest of Makkah, he marched on to the Hawazin. The people of Makkah also went along with him. A large number of them went, not minding whether they were riding or walking until even women marched out, not for the religious intention, but as spectators and in quest for war booty.

Accompanying him was Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb and Safwan Ibn Umayyah; the latter's wife had accepted Islam but he had still remained upon polytheism. It is also said that the leader of the polytheists on that day was Malik Ibn 'Awf An-Nasri and alongwith him was Duraid Ibn As-Simmah who was trembling from old age. With him were women, children and livestock. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, dispatched 'Abdullah Ibn Abi Hadard to spy on them. He spent the night in their camp and heard Malik address his men: "In the morning, attack them as a single man (i.e. in one swoop) and break the scabbards of your swords and arrange your livestock and your women in different rows." The following morning, Abu Sufyan, Safwan and Hakeem Ibn Hizam withdrew to the rear of the battle to observe which of the opposing forces would eventually prevail.

When the two armies were arrayed against each other, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, rode his female donkey toward the lines. He inspected his men, gave them instructions and urged them to fight, promising them victory if they persevered. Unexpectedly, the polytheists attacked the Muslim lines in one swoop. The Muslims dispersed and took flight.

Harithah Ibn Nu'man said: "I estimated those who remained with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to be a hundred men." A man came across Safwan Ibn Umayyah and said: "Glad tidings of the defeat of Muhammad and his Companions, by Allah, they can never reverse it." Safwan said: "You are giving tidings of the victory of the Arabs (Bedouins), by Allah, a lord from the Quraish is far more beloved to me than a lord from the Arab tribesmen," demonstrating his anger at the information.

Moosa said: Safwan dispatched one of his slave boys to find out whose war cry was heard on the battlefield. The boy came back to him and said: "I heard them say: Banu 'Abdur Rahman, Banu 'Abdullah, Banu 'Ubaidullah." Upon hearing this, he said: "Muhammad has prevailed for that is their usual slogan on the battlefield." When the battle enveloped him, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stood between two riders on his female donkey and he raised his hands to Allah in supplication saying: "O Allah, I beseech You to fulfill Your promise to me. It is not fitting that they should prevail over us." Then he called out to his Companions: "O compatriots of the pledge of fealty on the Day of Hudaibiyah, by Allah, they are assaulting your Messenger!”

It is also said that he spurred them by saying: “Helpers of Allah and His Messenger! Banu Al-Khazraj! Companions of Soorah Al- Baqarah!” He also ordered someone from among his Companions to make a similar call. (Narrators also say): The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took a handful of earth and he hurled it at the faces of the polytheists and their collective forelocks while saying: “May your faces be humiliated!” Instantly, his Companions began to hasten back to him. It is stated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Now the fight has grown fierce.” Allah then defeated the enemy from every angle where the pebbles from the handful of earth had gone. The Muslims pursued them and killed them. Allah granted their women and children as booty and Malik Ibn Awf fled to the fortress of Ta’if along with some noblemen from his tribe. Consequently, upon seeing the victory of Allah and His Messenger, and the honor of his religion, many people of Makkah accepted Islam.” Related by Al-Baihaqi.

‘Abbas narrated: I witnessed the Battle of Hunain with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and I remained with him along with Abu Sufyan Ibn Al-Harith without abandoning him. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was riding a white mule presented to him by Farwah Ibn Nufathah Al-Judhami. When the two armies clashed, the Muslims turned in flight but the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, kept goading his mule in the direction of the polytheists. ‘Abbas added: "I was holding the rein of the mule to restrain it so as to prevent it from running, while Abu Sufyan held on to the stirrup of Allah's Messenger. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him said: 'O 'Abbas, call the companions of As-Samurah.' By Allah, it was as if I motivated them. The moment they heard my voice, they (took heed like a) cow motivated with compassion to its calves. They chorused: 'Here we are, at his service. Here we are.' They clashed with the polytheists. The clarion call was also directed to the Ansar: 'O Company of the Ansar! O company of the Ansar!' The call was then restricted to Banu Al-Harith Ibn Al-Khazraj: 'Banu Al-Harith Ibn AlKhazraj!' While still on his mule, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was observing the course of the battle and said: 'Now the fighting has grown fierce.' He took a handful of pebbles and threw it at the faces of the disbelievers and said: 'You will be routed, by the Lord of Muhammad.' I went to observe the proceedings of the battle, and, by Allah, the moment the Messenger flung those pebbles at them, I never ceased to see them being incapacitated and their initial advantage was reversed."

On the authority of Salamah Ibn Al-Akwa' who narrated: "We fought by the side of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in the Battle of Hunain. When we encountered the enemy, I advanced and ascended a hill. A man from the enemy turned toward me and I shot him with an arrow. He (ducked and) hid himself from me. I could not understand what he did, but (all of a sudden) I saw a group of people appearing from the other hill. They and the Companions of the Prophet met in combat, but the Companions of the Prophet turned back and I too turned back defeated. I had two mantles, one of which I had wrapped round the waist (covering the lower part of my body) and the other I had put around my shoulders.

My waistwrapper got loose and I held the two mantles together. (In this downcast condition) I passed by the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who was riding on his white mule. He said: 'The son of Akwa' finds himself to be utterly perplexed.' When the Companions rallied around him, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, dismounted from his mule, picked up a handful of dust from the ground, threw it at the (enemies') faces and said: 'May these faces be deformed!' There was no one among the enemy whose eyes were not filled with the dust from this handful. So they turned back in flight and Allah defeated them. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, distributed their booty among the Muslims.”

On the authority of ‘Abdur Rahman Al-Fihri who narrated: “We were with the Messenger of Allah at Hunain. We marched under sweltering weather and we camped under the shadows of As-Samur (trees). When the sun declined from its zenith, I donned my armor, jumped on my horse and came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, while he was in his tent. I said to him: 'Peace and mercy of Allah be on you, Allah’s Messenger, the time for departure has come.' He responded: 'Certainly! get up, Bilal.' So he roused from under As-Samurah whose shadow was no more than that of a bird. Bilal said: 'Here I am at your service and may I be ransomed for you.' So the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, instructed him: 'Saddle my horse for me.' So he brought him two sheets of palm fiber bereft of glamor or haughtiness. We traveled that day and we clashed with the enemy while each side was confident of victory.

"We fought against them and the Muslims turned on their heels in flight as Allah mentioned (in the Qur'an). The Messenger kept shouting: 'O servants of Allah, I am the slave of Allah and His Messenger!' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, dismounted from his horse and someone who was closer to him than I was, informed me that he took a handful of earth and threw it at the face of the enemy saying: 'May these faces be deformed!' Ya'la Ibn 'Ata' added: Some of their children related to us from their father that there was no one (among the enemy) whose eyes and mouth were not filled with the dust (from this handful). We heard clanging sounds from the sky similar to the clanging of steel when two forces confident of victory clash. Then Allah, the Exalted, defeated them."

Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood narrated: "I was with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at the Battle of Hunain when the people turned on their heels in flight. However, 80 men among the Ansar and the Muhajiroon remained steadfast with him. Though we retreated backward for a distance of 80 steps, we did not turn our backs to the enemy. These were the people upon whom Allah sent down tranquility. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who was on his female mule lunged forward and he tilted toward the ground from his saddle so I said to him: 'Rise, may Allah elevate you.' He said to me: 'Scoop for me a handful of dirt.' He threw it at the faces of the enemy and their eyes were filled with dust. He then asked: 'Where are the Muhajiroon and the Ansar?' I said: 'Here they are.' He said: 'Call out to them.' So I called out to them (in a loud voice) and they came with their swords in their right hands like meteors. Soon after, the polytheists turned on their heels in flight."

On the authority of ‘Abdullah Ibn Iyyad Ibn Al-Harith Al-Ansari, narrating from his father, said: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went to the Hawazin with 12,000 men, and the number of the dead from the people of Taif in the Battle of Hunain was similar to that of the Battle of Badr. He also added: "Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took a handful of pebbles and threw it at our faces and we were defeated in the Battle of Hunain."

On the authority of ‘Abdur Rahman Mawla Umm Burthun who narrated from someone who witnessed the Battle of Hunain as a polytheist. He said: “When we clashed with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, the Muslims were unable to withstand our onslaught even for the moment within which a goat is milked. We advanced brandishing our swords in front of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, until we overwhelmed him. Just then, some men with handsome faces stood between us and him. They said: ‘May these faces be deformed! Go back!’” We were defeated owing to that statement."

On the authority of Mus‘ab Ibn Shaibah, narrating from his father, said: "I advanced with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on the day of the Battle of Hunain. Neither Islam nor its cognizance impelled my going with them, but I detested that the Hawazin should prevail over Quraish. While I was standing by his side, I said: 'O Messenger of Allah, I see that the horses are few in numbers.' He said: 'O Shaibah, no one sees that except a disbeliever.' So he struck my chest with his hand and supplicated: 'O Allah, guide Shaibah.' He struck the second time and repeated the supplication: 'O Allah, guide Shaibah.' Then a third time he struck my chest and said: 'O Allah, guide Shaibah.' (1) By Allah, he had barely raised his hand from the third strike when no one became dearer to me from the creatures of Allah than him."

On the authority of Shaibah Ibn 'Uthman who narrated: "When I saw that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, became vulnerable on the Day of Hunain, I remembered the killing of my father and uncle at the hands of Hamzah. So I said to myself: 'Today I will exact my revenge from Allah's Messenger.' So I snuck in on him from the right and found 'Abbas Ibn 'Abdul- Muttalib standing over him with a white silver-like shield. I said to myself: His uncle will never abandon him. I then approached him from his left and found Abu Sufyan Ibn Al-Harith Ibn 'Abdul- Muttalib. Again I said to myself: His cousin will never abandon him. Then I came from behind him and I was just about to rush with my sword when a blaze of fire, like a lightning, crossed between me and him. I was scared that it might incinerate me, so I covered my face with my hands and retreated. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, turned to me and said: 'O Shaibah! O Shaibah! Come close to me. O Allah, estrange Shaitan from him.' I raised my gaze to look at him and he became more beloved to me than my hearing and sight. Then he said: 'O Shaibah, fight against the disbelievers!'"

When the Hawazin were defeated, their leader, Malik Ibn 'Awf An-Nasri stood on a hill with a section of his men and said: "Wait for your weak ones to pass and those in the rear to catch up with you."

Ibn Ishaq related: "It has reached me that when the horses appeared while Malik and his companions were on the hill, he said to them: 'What can you see?' They replied: 'We can see a group of people whose spears are placed between the ears of their horses with long forearms.' He then said: 'They are Banu Sulaim, no harm will come to you from them.' When they approached, they went through the valley. Then another group of horsemen appeared in quick succession. Again, Malik asked his companions: 'What can you see?' They replied: 'A group of people bearing their spears in an unassuming manner on their horses.' He said: 'These are the Aws and Khazraj, but no harm will come to you from them.' When they got to the foot of the hill, they also went in the direction of Banu Sulaim. A horseman appeared, and he once again he asked his companions: 'What can you see?' They said: 'We can see a horseman with long forearms carrying his spear on his shoulder with a red band wrapped around his head.' He said: 'That is Az-Zubair Ibn Al-‘Awwam. I swear by Al-Lat, he will attack you so persevere against him.'" When AzZubair got to the foot of the hill and saw the enemy, he confronted them and kept shooting at them until were neutralized and deserted the hill.

"Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered that the booty be gathered and be herded to Ji'ranah where it would be kept. He appointed Mas'ood Ibn 'Amr Al-Ghifari in charge of the booty."

On the authority of Rabah Ibn Rabee', brother of Hanzalah Al-Katib, who narrated that he informed him that he marched along with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in one of the battles he participated in. In the vanguard (of the Muslims) at that battle was Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed. Rabah and some of the Companions of Allah's Messenger came across a woman who was killed by the vanguard of the Muslim army. So they stopped and marveled at the features of the woman until Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, caught up with them on his mount and they dispersed from her. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stood by her and said: "This is not the manner of fighting," and he said to one of them: "Catch up with Khalid and inform him not to kill children and slaves."

The Expedition of Awtas

The reason for this expedition was that when Hawazin were defeated, a group from them, which included Malik Ibn 'Awf An-Nasri, went to Ta'if and entrenched themselves in a fortress, while another group fled to a place called Awtas. Allah's Messenger dispatched against the latter group a raiding contingent from his Companions, and appointed Abu 'Amir Al-Ash'ari as their commander. They fought and conquered them. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, himself went to lay siege to the inhabitants of Ta'if.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Abu Moosa Al-Ash'ari who narrated that "when the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, finished from the Battle of Hunain, he sent Abu 'Amir at the head of an army to Awtas. He (i.e. Abu 'Amir) met Duraid Ibn As-Simmah. Duraid was killed and Allah defeated those who were with him. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent me with Abu 'Amir. Abu 'Amir was shot in his knee with an arrow that became fixed in it by a man from Ju'sham. I went to him and said, 'O uncle! Who shot you?' He pointed me out (to his killer) saying: 'That is my killer who shot me (with an arrow).' I headed toward him and overtook him, and when he saw me, he fled; I followed him and shouted at him saying: 'Won't you be ashamed? Won't you stop?' So that person stopped, and we exchanged two strokes of the swords and I killed him. Then I said to Abu 'Amir: 'Allah has killed your attacker.' He said: 'Take out this arrow.' I removed it, and water oozed out of the wound. He then said: 'O son of my brother! Convey my compliments to the Prophet and request him to ask Allah's forgiveness for me.'

"Abu 'Amir made me his successor in commanding the people (i.e. troops). He survived for a short while and then died. (Later) I returned and entered upon the Prophet at his house, and found him lying on a bed made of stalks of date-palm leaves knitted with ropes, and on it there was bedding. The strings of the bed had left their traces over his back and sides. I told the Prophet about our and Abu 'Amir's news and how he had said: 'Tell him to ask Allah's forgiveness for me.' The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked for water, performed ablution and then raised his hands, saying: 'O Allah! Forgive 'Ubaid, Abu 'Amir.' At that time I saw the whiteness of the Prophet's armpits. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said: 'O Allah, make him (i.e. Abu 'Amir) on the Day of Resurrection, superior to many of Your human creatures.' I said: 'Will you ask Allah's forgiveness for me?' (On that) the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'O Allah, forgive the sins of 'Abdullah Ibn Qais and admit him to a nice entrance (i.e. Paradise) on the Day of Resurrection.' Abu Burdah said: 'One of the prayers was for Abu 'Amir and the other was for Abu Moosa (i.e. 'Abdullah Ibn Qais)!'."

On the authority of Abu Sa'eed Al-Khudri who narrated: "We obtained some women from the captives of the Battle of Awtas who had husbands and we detested having relations with them while they had husbands. So we asked the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and this Verse was revealed: “Also (forbidden are) women already married, except those (captives and slaves) whom your right hands possess.” (Soorah An-Nisa’ 4:24) So they were made permissible.

A group of the pious predecessors have advanced this Verse as evidence that the sale of a slave-girl is her divorce. This opinion is related from Ibn Mas’ood, Ubayy Ibn Ka’b, Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah, Ibn ‘Abbas, Sa’eed Ibn AlMusayyab and Al-Hasan Al-Basri. However, a majority of scholars oppose them using as evidence the Hadith of Bareerah when she was sold and she was given the choice either to dissolve her marriage or sustain it. If her sale was her divorce, she would not have been given a choice. We have extensively explored this issue in the Tafseer in a manner that suffices.

Martyrs of the Battle of Hunain and the Expedition of Awtas

They include Aiman Ibn Umm Aiman, the freed slave of Allah’s Messenger. He is the same person as Aiman Ibn ‘Ubaid, Yazeed Ibn Zam’ah Ibn AlAswad Ibn Al-Mutallib Ibn Asad who was thrown by his horse named Wings resulting in his death. The list also includes Suraqah Ibn Malik Ibn Al-Harith Ibn ‘Adiyy Al-Ansari from Banu Ajlan, Abu ‘Amir Al-Ash’ari, the commander of the military detachment to Awtas. May Allah be pleased with them all.

Ghazwah At-Ta'if

'Urwah and Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah related from Az-Zuhri that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, fought the Battle of Hunain and besieged Ta'if in Shawwal of the 8th year. 'Urwah narrated: Afterward, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, marched to Ta'if and left the captives at Al-Ji'ranah and their number filled the entrepot of Makkah. He dismounted at the hill by the fort of Ta'if and fought them for about 10 days while they also fought back from behind their fortress. None of them ventured out except Abu Bakrah Ibn Masrooh, Ziyad's half-brother from his mother. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, manumitted him. There were a considerable number of injured. They cut some of their vineyards to infuriate them. The Thaqeef protested: "Do not destroy the property for it is either for us or for you."

'Urwah added: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, commanded each man to cut down five date-palm trees. Then he dispatched someone to announce: "Whoever comes out to us is free." A group of them broke through among whom was Abu Bakrah Ibn Masrooh, Ziyad Ibn Abi Sufyan's half-brother from his mother. So he freed them and put each of them under the charge of one Muslim, both for sustenance and care.

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq related: Two of the wives of Allah Messenger were with him; one was Umm Salamah. A tent was erected for each of them and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would take turns praying in them. He besieged (the fort) and fought against them (the inhabitants) a grim battle. They pelted one another with hails of arrows. Ibn Hisham added: They also shot at them with a ballista. Someone whom I trust narrated to me from the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, that the first person to shoot with a ballista in Islam was against the people of Ta'if.

Ibn Ishaq mentioned that a group of the Companions ducked under a wooden tank and then crept toward the wall of the people of Ta'if intent on burning it. Unfortunately, the people of Thaqeef poured molten hot iron down on them and they scampered out from under the tank and again they were pelted with a flurry of arrows; a number of them were killed.

At that point, in order to force the enemy to surrender, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered that their crops be cut. The Muslims swarmed in on their vineyards in order to cut their vines. Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb and Al-Mugheerah Ibn Shu'bah stepped forward and requested Thaqeef to agree to a cease-fire so that he could talk to them. They granted the cease-fire and requested that some women from Quraish and Banu Kinanah be sent to them (as pawns). Both of them feared that they could be taken hostage in the event of downfall of the fortress so they refused the request. Abul-Aswad Ibn Mas'ood said to both of them: "Should I not direct you to what is better than what has brought you both? The property of Abul-Aswad is located where you two are aware of and Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, has camped at a valley called 'Al-Aqeeq' which is between the property of Banu Al-Aswad and that of Ta'if. The people of Ta'if do not have a property to which they are more attached or which is more valuable to them than that. If Muhammad were to cut that, then they will never prosper again forever. So speak with him and let him take it for himself or leave it (for them) for the sake of Allah and out of the ties of kinship.” They claimed that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, left it for them.

Al-Waqidi also related a similar narration on the authority of his Shaikh, saying in his narration that it was Salman Al-Farisi who suggested the idea of the ballista and he himself operated it. It is also said that he was presented with it and two wooden tanks. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Umm Salamah narrated: "Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came to visit me while an eunuch was with me and he heard him say to ‘Abdullah Ibn Abu Umayyah: If Allah grants you victory in Ta’if the next day, I will show you the daughter of Ghailan for she has four folds (upon her body) on the front side of her stomach and eight folds on the back. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Such (people) should not visit you'."

On the authority of ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Amr who narrated: When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, besieged Ta’if and could not conquer it, he said: “We will return, if Allah wills.” That distressed the Companions (of the Prophet) and they said: “Shall we go away without conquering it (i.e. the fort of Ta’if) ?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said (to them): “Fight tomorrow.” They fought and (many of them) were wounded, whereupon the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “We will return tomorrow, if Allah wills.” That delighted them, whereupon the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, smiled. The sub-narrator, Sufyan said once: “ (The Prophet) smiled.”

Following is a list of the Muslims who were martyred in the campaign of Ta'if as related by Ibn Ishaq. Among the Quraish were: Sa'eed Ibn Sa'eed Ibn Al'As Ibn Umayyah, Urfutah Ibn Janab, an ally of Banu Umayyah from Al-Asad Ibn Al-Ghawth, 'Abdullah Ibn Abu Bakr As-Siddiq, who was shot with an arrow and later died in Madinah from the injury after the death of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. It also included 'Abdullah Ibn Abu Umayyah Ibn Al-Mugheerah Al- Makhzoomi who was among the casualties of the hails of arrows. Among them were also 'Abdullah Ibn 'Amir Ibn Rabee'ah, an ally of Banu 'Adiyy; As-Sa'ib Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Qais Ibn 'Adiyy As-Sahmi and his brother 'Abdullah; Julaihah Ibn 'Abdullah from Banu Sa'd Ibn Laith.

The martyrs from the Ansar and the Khazraj were: Thabit Ibn Al-Jidh' AsSulami, Al-Harith Ibn Sahl Ibn Abi Sa'sa'ah Al-Mazini and Al-Mundhir Ibn 'Abdullah from Banu Sa'idah. Only Ruqaim Ibn Thabit Ibn Tha'labah Ibn Zaid Ibn Lawdhan Ibn Muawiyah was martyred from the Aws. Thus, the aggregate number of those who were martyred on that day were twelve: seven from Quraish, four from the Ansar and a man from Banu Laith. May Allah be pleased with them all.

I say: Divine wisdom dictates that perhaps the victory was delayed that year so as to prevent a large number of casualties from them. It has been mentioned earlier that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had gone to Ta'if to invite them to Allah and to grant him protection so that he could deliver the Message of his Lord, the Exalted. This incident occurred after the death of his uncle, Abu Talib. The people of Ta'if rejected and belied him. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned with distress. He had not gone beyond Qarn Tha'alib when he saw Jibraeel in the clouds and the two angels in charge of the mountain called out to him saying: "o Muhammad, your Lord conveys His greetings of peace, and He has heard what your people have said to you and their response to your call. Do you desire that the two mountains be overturned on them?" Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "No, grant them respite instead, perhaps Allah will bring from their loins those who would worship Him alone without associating any partner with Him whatsoever." Thus, in harmony with the statement of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, "No, grant them respite instead," Allah prevented the conquest of their fortress so that they may not be killed (cutting short their progeny whom the Prophet hoped would practice Islam). Thus Allah delayed their conquest so that they may declare their Islam in Ramadan of the following year, as shall be related shortly, if Allah willing.

The Return of the Prophet From Ta'if and the Distribution of the Booty Gained From the Battle of Hunain

Ibn Ishaq related that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, withdrew from Ta'if and proceeded to Ji'ranah accompanied by the Muslims who were with him, along with a considerable number of the captives of Hawazin. A man from his Companions said to him when they were retreating from the Thaqeef: "O Messenger of Allah, curse them." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, instead said: "O Allah guide Thaqeef and bring them (to Islam)."

Ibn Ishaq added that the delegates of the Hawazin came and met the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at Ji'ranah and he had with him from the captives of Hawazin, 6,000 of their children and women as well as sheep and camels, the number of which I could not count.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Al-Miswar Ibn Makhramah and Marwan Ibn Al-Hakam that when the delegates of the tribe of Hawazin came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, they requested him to return their properties and captives. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stood up and said to them: "I have other people with me in this matter (as you see), and the most beloved statement to me is the true one; you may choose either the properties or the prisoners as I have delayed their distribution." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had waited for them for about ten days since his arrival from Ta'if. So, when it became evident to them that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was not going to return to them no more than one of the two, they said: "We choose our prisoners." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, got up among the people, glorified and praised Allah as He deserved and said: "These brethren of yours have come to us in repentance, and I see it logical to return to them the captives. So, whoever amongst you likes to do that as a favor, then he can do it, and whoever of you likes to stick to his share until we recompense him from the very first war booty which Allah will give us, then he can do so (i.e. give up the present captives)." The people unanimously said: "We (return the captives) willingly." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "We do not know which of you has agreed to it and which have not, so go back and let your leaders forward to us your decision.” So, all the people then went back and discussed the matter with their leaders who returned and informed the Prophet that all the people had willingly given their consent to return the captives. This is what has reached us about the captives of Hawazin.

Al-Bukhari did not contradict the objection to Al-Aqra’ and Uyainah and their people; rather he was silent concerning them and affirmation takes precedence over negation, how much more this is true of a silent situation.

Abu Wajzah Yazeed Ibn Ubaid As-Sa’di related that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib a slave-girl named Raitah Bint Hilal Ibn Hayyan Ibn Umairah. He gave to ‘Uthman Ibn ‘Affan a slave-girl called Zainab Bint Hayyan Ibn ‘Amr Ibn Hayyan and he gave to ‘Umar another slave-girl whom he in turn gave as a gift to his son ‘Abdullah. The import of this is that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to the Hawazin their captives after he had apportioned them as clearly indicated by this and other statements. The apparent importance of the Hadith of ‘Amr Ibn Shu’aib which Muhammad Ibn Ishaq cited from him through his father from his grandfather is that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to the Hawazin their captives before their distribution. Therefore, when he returned the captives and set out on his mount, the Arab tribesmen snatched his garment saying: “Distribute to us our booty of camels and herds.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, snatched his garment and said: “Return my garment! O people, by Him in Whose Hands is my soul, if your sheep were as many as the trees of Tihamah, I would share it among you and you would not find me to be niggardly, cowardly or a liar.” It is related by AlBukhari on the authority of Jubair Ibn Mut‘im.

It was as if he was wary of returning to the Hawazin their properties as he returned their women and children. Thus they asked about the distribution and he shared (amongst them) as Allah, the Exalted, has commanded. He gave preference to some people in the distribution and consequently people gathered among the leaders and chiefs of the tribes. Some of the Ansar made apparent their displeasure and the Prophet addressed them explaining the wisdom behind his action, in such a way that they were pleased with it. Some ignorant fellows among the Khawarij like Dhul-Khuwaisirah, may Allah disfigure him, and his likes remained critical of the Prophet’s action.

On the authority of Abu Sa’eed Al-Khudri who narrated: When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, obtained booty of livestock in Hunain, he gave a large portion to those whose hearts needed to be reconciled (to Islam) among the Quraish and other Arab tribes, and he allotted nothing to the Ansar. A group from the Ansar felt so uneasy about it that a lot of ill-statements against the Prophet were spread among them to the extent that one of them said: “By Allah, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was ill-spoken of by his folkmen!” Those illstatements went on spreading until Sa’d Ibn ‘Ubadah went to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “O Messenger of Allah, this group of the Ansar are unhappy with you.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: “Concerning what?” Sa’d replied: “About the distribution of the booty that you have won. You have allotted shares to your own kinsmen and allotted lots of gifts to the Arab tribes. But they (the Ansar) have received nothing.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then asked Sa’d: “Sa’d, what is your opinion of this matter?” Sa’d replied: “O Messenger of Allah. I am no more than a member of my people.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Call out to your people and bring them forth to me and when they have gathered, let me know.”

So Sa’d went out and summoned them and when they gathered, an Emigrant came, he let him in but debarred others. None of the Ansar remained without being in attendance. When they were all gathered together, he informed the Prophet saying: “The Ansar have gathered where you have commanded me.” Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went out to address them. After he thanked Allah and praised Him, as is due, he said: “O Ansar, did I not come to you when you were astray and Allah guided you? You were poor and Allah gave you wealth. Were you not foes and Allah reconciled your hearts?” They said: “Yes.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “What prevents you from replying to me?” They said: “What should we say? With what should we reply to you, O Messenger of Allah, while to the Lord and to his Messenger belong all benevolence and grace.”

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, again said: “But, by Allah, you might have answered and answered truly, for I would have testified to its truth myself: ‘You came to us belied and rejected and we accepted you; you came to us helpless and we helped you; a fugitive, and we granted you asylum; poor and we comforted you.’”

The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, also added: "O Ansar, do you feel anxious for the things of this world, with which I have sought to incline these people to the Faith, which is already established in you? O Ansar, are you not satisfied that the people go with ewes and camels while you return with the Messenger of Allah to your homes. By Him in Whose Hands is my life, had there been no migration, I would have been one of the Ansar. If the people would go through a valley and passage, and the Ansar were to go through another valley and passage, I would go through the valley and passage of the Ansar. O Allah! Have mercy on the Ansar, their children and their children's children." The audience wept until tears moistened their beards as they said: "Yes, we are satisfied, O Messenger of Allah with our lot and share." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then left the gathering and the people also dispersed.

On the authority of Abu Moosa who narrated: "I was with the Messenger of Allah when he was camping at Ji'ranah (a place) between Makkah and Madinah and Bilal was with him. A Bedouin came to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said: 'Will you not fulfill what you have promised me?' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Rejoice (at what I will do for you).' The Bedouin said: ' (You have said to me) rejoice too often.' Then the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, turned to me and Bilal in an angry mood and said: 'The Bedouin refused the good tidings, so you both accept them.' Bilal and I said: 'We accept them.' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then asked for a drinking bowl containing water and washed his hands and face in it, and then took a mouthful of water and threw it therein saying (to us): 'Drink (some of) it and pour (some) over your faces and chests and be happy at the good tidings.' So they both took the drinking bowl and did as instructed. Umm Salamah called from behind a screen: 'Keep something (of the water) for your mother.' So they left some of it for her."

On the authority of Anas who narrated: "I was once walking with Allah's Messenger while he was wearing a Najrani Burd with a thick margin. A Bedouin caught up with him and tugged at his Burd so violently that I noticed the side of the shoulder of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, which was bruised by the violent pull of the Burd. The Bedouin said: 'Order that I be given from Allah's wealth that is with you.' Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, turned to look at him and smiled and then he ordered that he be given something."

In an authentic Hadith on the authority of Safwan Ibn Umayyah who narrated: "Even when he was the most detestable person to me, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, never ceased to give me from the booty of Hunain until he became the most beloved person to me."

The Coming of Malik Ibn 'Awf An-Nasri to Allah's Messenger

Ibn Ishaq related that when the delegates of the Hawazin came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he asked them about Malik Ibn 'Awf and they said: "He is in Ta'if with the Thaqeef." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said: "Inform him that if he comes to me as a Muslim, I shall return to him his family and property and I shall grant him 100 camels.” When the message was delivered to Malik, he sneaked away from Thaqeef and came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, while he was still (either) at Ji‘ranah or Makkah, and he accepted Islam and his family and property were returned to him (as promised), and he was given an additional 100 camels.

Ibn Ishaq added that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, appointed (him) the leader of those who accepted Islam from his people which consisted of Thumalah, Salimah and Fahm tribes.

‘Amr Ibn Taghlib narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave (gifts) to some people to the exclusion of others, who seemed to be displeased of that. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “I give to some people lest they should deviate from the true faith or lose patience, while I refer other people to the goodness and contentment which Allah has put in their hearts, and ‘Amr Ibn Taghlib is amongst them.” ‘Amr Ibn Taghlib said: “The statement of Allah’s Messenger is dearer to me than red camels.”

The Objection to the Fair Distribution of the Messenger of Allah by Some Ignoramuses From the People of Schism and Hypocrisy

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Abdullah who narrated: "When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, distributed the war booty of Hunain, a man from the Ansar said: 'He (i.e. the Prophet), did not intend to please Allah in this distribution.' So I came to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and informed him of that (statement) whereupon the color of his face changed and he said: 'May Allah bestow His Mercy on Moosa, for he was troubled with more than this, but he remained patient!.'

It is recorded in the Saheehain from the Hadith of Abu Sa'eed who narrated: "While we were with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, when he was distributing (the booty), there came DhulKhuwaisirah, a man from the tribe of Bani Tameem, who said: 'O Allah's Messenger! Do justice.' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Woe to you, who could do justice if I were not to? I would be a desperate loser if I did not do justice.' 'Umar said: 'O Allah's Messenger! Allow me to chop his head off.' The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Leave him, for he has companions who pray and fast in such a way that you would consider your fasting negligible in comparison to theirs. They recite the Qur'an but it does not go beyond their throats (i.e. they do not act on it) and they will desert Islam as an arrow goes through a victim's body, so that the hunter, on looking at the arrow's blade, would see nothing on it; he would look at its Rusaf (arrow head) and see nothing: he would look at its Nadiyy (arrow shaft) and see nothing, and he would look at its Qudhadh (arrow vanes) and see nothing (neither meat nor blood), for the arrow has been too fast even for the blood and excretions to smear. The sign by which they will be recognized is that among them will be a black man, one of his arms will resemble a woman's breast or a lump of meat moving loosely. Those people will appear when there will be differences among the people.' I testify that I heard this narration from Allah's Messenger and I testify that 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib fought with such people, and I was in his company. He ordered that the man (described by the Prophet) should be looked for. The man was brought and I looked at him and noticed that he looked exactly as the Prophet described him."

The Arrival of Ash-Shaima', the Foster Sister of Allah's Messenger, at Ji'ranah

Ibn Ishaq related that some of the members of Banu Sa'd Ibn Bakr narrated to me that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the day (of the Battle) of Hawazin: "If you happen upon Bijad, a man from Banu Sa'd Ibn Bakr, do not let him run away from you for he had committed an evil act. When the Muslims seized him, they took him away along with his family and Ash-Shaima' Bint Al-Harith Ibn 'Abdul 'Uzza, the foster sister of Allah's Messenger. They were tough with her on their way. She said to the Muslims: 'By Allah, do you know that I am the foster sister of your Companion (i.e. the Prophet) ?' but they did not believe her until they brought her to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him."

Ibn Ishaq also related that Abu Wajzah, Yazeed Ibn 'Ubaid As-Sa'di narrated to me that when they brought her to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, she said: "O Messenger of Allah, I am your foster sister." He asked: "What is the proof of that?" She said: "A bite which you bit me on my back while I was carrying you on my hip." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, recognized the sign and spread out his mantle for her and asked her to sit on it. Then he gave her a choice: "If you wish, you may stay with me in endearment and honor or return to your people with plentiful presents." She said: "Give me the presents and return me to my family." The Messenger of Allah returned her to her people and gave her a slave-boy named Makhool and a slave-girl whom he gave in marriage to the former (the slave-boy) and their progeny continued.

The ‘Umrah of Ji‘ranah in Dhul-Qa‘dah

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Qatadah who narrated that "I asked Anas Ibn Mallik: 'How many Hajj did Allah's Messenger perform?' He said: 'He performed Hajj once and ‘Umrah four times; one ‘Umrah at the time of Hudaibiyah, one in Dhul-Qa‘dah from Madinah and yet another from Ji‘ranah in Dhul-Qa‘dah when he distributed the booty of Hunain and the fourth one was with his Hajj'."

On the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who narrated that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, performed four ‘Umrahs; the ‘Umrah of Hudaibiyah, the ‘Umrah of redemption, the third is the ‘Umrah from Ji‘ranah and the fourth was the one he performed along with his Hajj.

I say: Nafi' and his teacher, Ibn ‘Umar, used to object to the claim that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, performed ‘Umrah from Ji‘ranah at all and that is contained in what Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn ‘Umar that ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said: "O Allah's Messenger! I vowed to observe I‘tikaf for one day during the pre-Islamic period." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered him to fulfill his vow. ‘Umar gained two lady captives from the war prisoners of Hunain and he left them in some of the houses at Makkah. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, freed the captives of Hunain without ransom, they came out walking in the streets. ‘Umar said (to his son): "O ‘Abdullah! See what the matter is.” ‘Abdullah replied: “Allah’s Messenger has freed the captives without ransom.” He said (to him): “Go and set free those two slave-girls.” (Nafi’ added:) Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not perform the ‘Umrah from Ji‘ranah, and if he had performed the ‘Umrah, it would not have been hidden from ‘Abdullah.

It is also recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) that she objected to Ibn ‘Umar’s saying that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, performed ‘Umrah in Rajab and she said: “May Allah forgive Abu ‘Abdur Rahman, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, never performed ‘Umrah except that he was present but he neverperformed any ‘Umrah in Rajab.”

On the authority of Mukharrish Al-Kalbi who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded from Ji‘ranah for ‘Umrah in the night. He entered Makkah by night to perform his rites of ‘Umrah and then went out again back to Ji‘ranah under the cover of the darkness like the one who spent the night (sleeping). He remained till the decline of the sun (from its zenith), then he proceeded from Ji‘ranah amid pomp until he beat the road to Madinah. Mukharrish said: “This is why his ‘Umrah was inconspicuous to many people.”

The import of this is that the ‘Umrah of Ji‘ranah is confirmed by authentic texts which can neither be interdicted nor refuted and whoever obviates it is bereft of evidence against the one who affirms it. And Allah (SWT) knows best. He also cast doubt at those who reconciled that it occurred in DhulQa‘dah after the Ghazwah of Ta‘if and then he distributed the booty of Hunain.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ya‘la that he used to say: “I wish I could see Allah’s Messenger at the time of his Divine inspiration.” Ya‘la added: “While the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was at Ji‘ranah, shaded under a cloth sheet (in the form of a tent) with some of his Companions, a Bedouin wearing a cloak and perfumed extravagantly suddenly came to him and asked: 'O Allah’s Messenger, what is your opinion regarding a man who assumes the state of Ihram for ‘Umrah wearing a cloak after applying perfume to his body?’ ‘Umar signaled with his hand to Ya‘la to come (near). Ya‘la came and put his head (underneath that cloth sheet) and saw the Prophet red-faced, and when that state (of the Prophet) was over, he asked: 'Where is the one who had asked me about ‘Umrah?' The man was looked for and brought to the Prophet. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said (to him): 'As for the perfume you have applied to your body, wash it off thrice, and take off your cloak, and then in your ‘Umrah perform the rites that you do in your Hajj.'”

On the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his Companions proceeded on ‘Umrah from Ji‘ranah and they walked briskly around the House (Ka‘bah) in three circuits and walked the remaining four circuits; they wore their Rida’ under their right armpit and over their left shoulder.

Ibn ‘Abbas informed him that Mu‘awiyah narrated to him saying: “I shaved the hair of Allah’s Messenger with a long blade.” Or he said: “I saw him having his hair cut at Al-Marwah.” (3) The import of that is an indication that the haircut must have occurred in the 'Umrah of Ji'ranah. This is because in the 'Umrah of Hudaibiyah, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not enter Makkah as he was prevented, and this has been explained previously. As for the 'Umrah of redemption, Abu Sufyan had not accepted Islam and none of the inhabitants of Makkah remained in the town when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered it. Rather, they vacated the town for a period of three days during which the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, remained in Makkah. Concerning his 'Umrah, which he performed along with his Hajj, he did not come out of Ihram after it (the 'Umrah rites) by consensus. It becomes clear that cutting of the hair, which Mu'awiyah Ibn Abi Sufyan performed on the hair of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at al-Marwah was at the 'Umrah of Ji'ranah as we have said. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq related that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded from Ji'ranah for 'Umrah and he ordered that the remaining booty of war be brought, and it was kept at Majannah in the direction of Marraz-Zahran.

Obviously, he deliberately left some of the booty so as to distribute it to the Arab tribemen living between Makkah and Madinah.

Ibn Ishaq related that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, completed his 'Umrah rites, he returned to Madinah and appointed 'Attab Ibn 'Aseed to govern

Makkah and left Mu'adh Ibn Jabal to teach the people the religion and the recitation of the Qur'an.

'Urwah and Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah mentioned that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, left Mu'adh with 'Attab at Makkah before his departure to Hawazin, and he also deputized both of them again when he returned to Madinah.

Ibn Ishaq related that the people performed Hajj in a similar manner that the Arabs used to perform Hajj. In the same year, 'Attab Ibn Aseed led the people in the performance of Hajj, and that was in the 8th year. He added: The inhabitants of Ta'if persisted on their polytheism and recalcitrance in their vacillation for the period between Dhul-Qa'dah and Ramadan of the 9th year.

Ka'b Ibn Zuhair Ibn Abi Sulma's Acceptance of Islam. His Father Was the Author of Seven Mu'allaqat (compilation of poems).

Ibn Ishaq related that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned from his expedition of Ta'if, Bujair Ibn Zuhair Ibn Abi Sulma wrote to his half-brother (from his father) Ka'b Ibn Zuhair informing him that "Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had executed some poets who lampooned and harmed him while the remaining ones among the Quraish poets, Ibn Az-Ziba'ra and Hubairah Ibn Abi Wahb had scattered in all directions. If you are still keen about your life, then hurry to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, for he does not kill anyone who comes to him repentant, but if you would not do that then betake yourself to any place on Earth where you will feel safe.

Ka‘b wrote thus saying in poetry:

Won't you give a message to Bujair from me?

Do you accept what I said? Confound you!

Tell us plainly if you will not implement what I say

For what reason other than that has led you

To a behavior (religion) I cannot find his father ever held

And you cannot find your brother ever followed

If you would not implement what I say, I shall not feel sorry

Nor say if you stumble: Allah help you!

Al-Ma'moon (the Safe) has given you a full cup to drink And added a second draught of the same

Ibn Ishaq related that then he sent it to Bujair. When the poem reached Bujair, he detested to conceal it from Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he went and recited it to him. Upon hearing it, "AlMa'moon (the Safe) has given you a full cup to drink," he said: "That is right, although he is a liar, I am truly Al-Ma'moon." When he heard the stanza: "To a behavior (religion) I cannot find his mother or father ever held," he commented: "That is right, neither his father nor mother held it." Then Bujair also composed a poem in reply and sent it to Ka'b saying:

Who would inform Ka'ab: do you have any interest

What you are wrongfully blaming (me) I have resolved

Turn to Allah alone and neither 'Uzza nor Lat

Then you will succeed and be safe

On the day in which no one will succeed or be saved

Among men except the Muslims with pure heart

The religion of Zuhair is a nonentity

And the religion of Abi Sulma is forbidden to me

When he received the letter, he was deeply frightened and worried about his life. His foes around him spread rumors that he would be slain. When he saw himself in a dire situation, he wrote a poem in which he praised the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he referred in it to his deep fright and the disturbing rumors of his enemies. Afterward, he headed for Madinah and stayed with a man from Juhaynah whom he knew. He took him to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at the time of the morning prayer and he prayed along with him. Then they pointed out the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to him and said to him: "That is the Messenger of Allah, go to him and ask for your safety." (The narrator added:) It was related to me that he rose and went to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sat in front of him and placed his hands in his. Meanwhile, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not recognize him and said: "O Messenger of Allah, Ka‘b has come to you repentant and as a Muslim to seek safety. Would you accept it from him if I bring him to you?” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Yes.” So he said: “Then O Messenger of Allah, I am Ka‘b Ibn Zuhair.”

Ibn Ishaq related that ‘Asim Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Qatadah narrated to me that an Ansari pounced on him and said: “O Allah’s Messenger permit me to chop off his head.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Let him be for he has come repentant.” He added: Ka‘b Ibn Zuhair became angry at the group of Ansar for what their man had done to him and because none among the Emigrants said anything concerning him except good.

Notable Events and Deaths Which Occurred in the 8th Year

The Battle of Mu‘tah occurred in the month of Jumada, and Ramadan witnessed the Conquest of Makkah. Afterward, in Shawwal, the Ghazwah of Hawazin took place followed by the siege of Ta’if, then the ‘Umrah of Ji‘ranah in Dhul-Qa‘dah and then the Prophet, peace be upon him, returned to and remained in Madinah for the remainder of the year.

I say: Al-Bukhari has mentioned after the (story of the) Conquest of Makkah, the story of the demolition of the House which was worshipped and named the Ka‘bah of Yemen analogous to the Ka‘bah in Makkah. They used to call the Ka‘bah in Makkah, Ka‘bah of Shamiyah. It is concerning that Ka‘bah that AlBukhari related:

Jareer said that Allah's Messenger said to me: "Won't you relieve me of DhulKhalasah?" I replied, "Yes, (I will relieve you)." So I proceeded along with one hundred and fifty cavalry from Ahmas tribe who were skillful in riding horses. I could not sit firm over horses, so I informed the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of that and he stroked my chest with his hand until I saw the marks of his hand over my chest and he said, "O Allah! Make him firm and one who guides others and is guided (on the right path)." Since then I have never fallen from a horse. Dhul-Khalasah was a house in Yemen belonging to the tribe of Khath'am and Bajeelah, and in it were idols that were worshipped, and it was called Al-Ka'bah."

Jareer went there, burned it with fire and dismantled it. When Jareer reached Yemen, there was a man who used to foretell and give good omens by casting arrows of divination. Someone said to him: "The messenger of Allah's Messenger is present here and if he should get hold of you, he would chop off your neck." One day while he was using them (i.e. arrows of divination), Jareer stopped there and said to him: "Break them (i.e. the arrows) and testify that none has the right to be worshipped (in truth) except Allah, or else I will chop off your neck." So the man broke those arrows and testified that none has the right to be worshipped except Allah. Then Jareer sent a man called Abu Artat from the tribe of Ahmas to the Prophet to convey the good news (of destroying Dhul-Khalasah). When the messenger reached the Prophet, he said: "O Allah's Messenger! By Him Who sent you with the Truth, I did not leave it until it was like a scabby camel." So the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, blessed the horses of Ahmas and their men five times.

9th Year of Hijrah and the Ghazwah of Tabook in the Month of Rajab of That Year

Allah says: “O you who believe (in Allah’s Oneness and in His Messenger (Muhammad) ! Verily, the Mushrikoon (polytheists, pagans, idolaters, disbelievers in the Oneness of Allah, and in the Message of Muhammad) are Najasoon (impure). So let them not come near Al-Masjid Al-Haram (at Makkah) after this year, and if you fear poverty, Allah will enrich you if He Will, out of His Bounty. Surely, Allah is All-Knowing, All-Wise. Fight against those who (1) believe not in Allah, (2) nor in the Last Day, (3) nor forbid that which has been forbidden by Allah and His Messenger (4) and those who acknowledge not the religion of Truth (i.e. Islam) among the People of the Scriptures (Jews and Christians), until they pay the Jizyah with willing submission, and feel themselves subdued.” (Soorah At-Tawbah 9 :28, 29)

It is related that Ibn ‘Abbas, Mujahid, ‘Ikrimah, Sa’eed Ibn Jubair, Qatadah, Ad-Dahhak and others opine that when Allah commanded that the polytheists be prevented from coming near Masjid Al-Haram whether during the Hajj or any other time, the Quraish said: “It will certainly infringe on our commerce and markets during Hajj, and it will deprive us from our gains,” but Allah compensated them for that with the command to wage war on the People of the Book until they become Muslims or they pay the Jizyah with willful submission, and feel themselves subdued.

I say: Afterward, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, resolved to fight against the Romans because they were closer in proximity to him and more deserving of being invited to the truth because of their closeness to Islam and

Muslims. Allah says in the Qur'an: "O you who believe! Fight those of the disbelievers who are close to you, and let them find harshness in you, and know that Allah is with those who are the AlMuttaqoon." (Soorah At-Tawbah 9: 123)

Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, decided to invade the Romans in the year of Tabook at a time when the weather was extremely hot and conditions were daunting. The matter was extremely hard on the people. He invited the surrounding Arab chiefs to come along with him on the campaign. Many people advanced with him, with their number being close to thirty thousand, as shall be related shortly. Meanwhile, there were others who remained behind. Allah reproached those, among the hypocrites and the negligent, who remained behind without a genuine excuse. Allah berated, upbraided and censured them in the most severe manner and disgraced them. He revealed a (Verse of the) Qur'an concerning them and exposed their affairs in the chapter Al-Bara'ah, which we have explained extensively in the Tafseer. He commanded the believers to go forth regardless of the condition.

Allah, Most High, says: "March forth, whether you are light or heavy, and strive hard with your wealth and your lives in the cause of Allah. This is better for you, if you but knew. Had it been a near gain and an easy journey, they would have followed you, but the distance was long for them; and they would swear by Allah. If we only could, we would certainly have come forth with you." They destroy their own selves, and Allah knows that they are liars." (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:41, 42) and the Verse following it.

Then Allah says: "And it is not (proper) for the Believers to go out to fight (in Jihad) all together. Of every troop of them, a party only should go forth, that they (who are left behind) may get instructions in (Islamic) religion, and that they may warn their people when they return to them, so that they may beware (of evil).” (Soorah At-Tawbah 9 :122) Some people said that this Verse abrogates the previous one and others disagree. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Ibn Ishaq said that afterward, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, remained in Madinah from Dhul-Hijjah to Rajab of the 9th year. He then ordered the people to prepare for a campaign against the Romans. AzZuhri and Yazeed Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Abu Bakr, ‘Asim Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Qatadah and others from among our scholars mentioned the Battle of Tabook, each one of them relating the narrations that reached him concerning this campaign. Some of them would relate part of these narrations exclusive of others. They related that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered his Companions to prepare for an invasion of the Romans. This campaign fell at a most difficult time for the people. The weather was scorchingly hot, the land was arid and caked and the fruits were ripe for harvest and the people wanted to savor their fruits and the shade of their lush date trees. They detested that anything should disturb the calm situation in which they were. In most instances when the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, decided for an invasion, he would hide the object of their march. But in the Battle of Tabook, he made clear the enemy owing to the length and difficulty of the journey as well as the large number of the enemy forces they were going to confront. Thus, he clarified it to them so that they may be well-prepared. He ordered that preparation be made in earnest and informed them that they were headed against the Byzantines.

One day while making arrangements for the invasion, the Messenger of Allah said to Al-Jadd Ibn Qais: “O Jadd, would you like to fight Banu Asfar this year?” He said: “O Messenger of Allah, would you excuse me from the fight so as not to put me to trial? By Allah, my people are well aware that there is no man who admires women as much as I do. I am afraid that if I set my eyes on the women of the red people (i.e. the Romans) I might not be able to control myself.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, turned away from him and said: “You are excused.” It was concerning Jadd that Allah revealed this Verse: “And among them is he who says: ‘Grant me leave (to be exempted from Jihad) and put me not into trial.’ Surely, they have fallen into trial. And verily, Hell is surrounding the disbelievers.” (Soorah At-Tawbah: 49)

Some of the hypocrites said to one another: “Do not go forth in the heat,” detesting war, doubting the Truth and spreading rumors about the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Concerning them Allah revealed: “Those who stayed away (from the Tabook expedition) rejoiced in their staying behind the Messenger of Allah; they hated to strive and fight with their properties and their lives in the Cause of Allah, and they said: 'March not forth in the heat'. Say: 'The Fire of Hell is more intense in heat', if only they could understand. So let them laugh a little and (they will) cry much as a recompense of what they used to earn (by committing sins).” (Soorah At-Tawbah: 81, 82)

On the authority of Katheer, the freed slave of ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Samurah, who said: ‘Uthman Ibn Affan came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, with 1,000 Dinars in his cloth while the Prophet was equipping the Jaish Al-

‘Usrah (the army of difficulty). He spread the money in the Prophet’s room. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, kept turning the money in his hand saying: “None of Ibn ‘Affan’s action will harm him after today.”

On the authority of Al-Ahnaf Ibn Qais who said: "I heard ‘Uthman Ibn ‘Affan say to Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas, ‘Ali Ibn AbiTalib, Az-Zubair Ibn Al-‘Awwam and Talhah: 'I beseech you by Allah, are you aware that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: Whoever equips the army of distress, Allah will forgive him and I equipped them such that they neither lacked bridle or hubble'?" They responded: “By Allah, yes.”

Those Who Remained Behind Due to an Excuse Among the Weepers as Well as Others

Allah, the Almighty, says: “And when a Soorah is revealed, enjoining them to believe in Allah and to strive hard and fight along with His Messenger, the wealthy among them ask your leave to exempt them (from Jihad) and say, ‘Leave us (behind), we would be with those who sit (at home).’ They are content to be with those (the women) who sit behind (at home). Their hearts are sealed up (from all kinds of goodness and right guidance), so they understand not. But the Messenger (Muhammad) and those who believed with him (in Islamic Monotheism) strove hard and fought with their wealth and their lives (in Allah’s Cause). Such are they for whom are the good tidings, and it is they who will be successful. For them Allah has got ready gardens (Paradise) under which rivers flow, to dwell therein forever. That is the supreme success.

And those who made excuses from the Bedouins came (to you, O Prophet) asking your permission to exempt them (from the battle), and those who had lied to Allah and His Messenger sat at home (without asking the permission for it) ; a painful torment will seize those of them who disbelieve. There is no blame on those who are weak or ill or who find no resources to spend (in Jihad), if they are sincere and true (in duty) to Allah and His Messenger. No ground (of complaint) can there be against the Muhsinoon (good-doers). And Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful. Nor (is there blame) on those who came to you to be provided with mounts, and when you said: "I can find no mounts for you," they turned back, while their eyes were overflowing with tears of grief that they could not find anything to spend (for Jihad). The ground (of complaint) is only against those who are rich, and yet ask exemption. They are content to be with (the women) who sit behind (at home) and Allah has sealed up their hearts (from all kinds of goodness and right guidance) so that they know not (what they are losing). (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:86-93)

We have extensively explained this in the Tafseer in a manner that suffices, and all praise and grace is due to Allah.

The weepers are those who approached the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to provide them with mounts so that they can accompany him in this battle; however, they could not find any mounts with him so they returned weeping out of sorrow for missing the Jihad and spending in the path of Allah.

Ibn Ishaq related: They were seven individuals from the Ansar as well as from other groups. From Banu 'Amr Ibn 'Awf were Salim Ibn 'Umair, 'Ulba Ibn Zaid from Banu Harithah, Abu Laila 'Abdur Rahman Ibn Ka'b from Banu Mazin Ibn An-Najjar, 'Amr Ibn Al-Humam Ibn Al-JamooH from Banu Salimah and 'Abdullah Ibn Al-Mughaffal Al-Mazani. Some people said it was 'Abdullah Ibn 'Amr Al-Muzani, Haramiyy Ibn 'Abdullah of Banu Waqif and Irbad Ibn Sariyah Al-Fazari.

Abu Moosa narrated: "My Companions sent me to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to ask him for some riding animals as they were accompanying him in the army of Al-'Usrah, which was the Ghazwah of Tabook. I asked: 'O Allah's Prophet! My companions have sent me to you to provide them with means of transportation.' He said: 'By Allah! I will not make you ride anything.' It happened that when I reached him, he was in an angry mood, and I didn't notice it. So I returned in a sad mood because of the refusal of the Prophet and for the fear that the Prophet might have become angry with me. So I returned to my companions and informed them of what the Prophet had said. Only a short while had passed when I heard Bilal calling: 'O 'Abdullah Ibn Qais!' I replied to his call. Bilal said: 'Respond to Allah's Messenger who is calling you.' When I went to him (i.e. the Prophet), he said: 'Take these two camels tied together and also these two camels tied together,' referring to six camels he had brought from Sa'd at that time.

"The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, added: 'Take them to your companions and say: 'Allah (or Allah's Messenger) permits you to ride on these,' so ride on them.' So I took those camels to them and said: 'The Prophet permits you to ride on these (camels), but by Allah, I will not leave you until some of you proceed with me to some one who heard the statement of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Do not think that I narrate to you a thing which Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not say.' They said to me: 'We consider you truthful, and we will do what you like'."

The sub-narrator added: So Abu Moosa proceeded along with some of them until they came to those who had heard the statement of Allah's Messenger, in which he (had initially) denied them (some animals to ride on) and (his statement) whereby he gave them the same. So these people told them the same information as Abu Moosa had told them.

Ibn Ishaq said: A couple of Muslims vacillated in their intention until they eventually lingered behind, neither out of doubt nor dubiety. Among them were: Ka'b Ibn Malik Ibn Abi Ka'b from Banu Salimah, Murarah Ibn Rabee' from Banu 'Amr Ibn 'Awf and Hilal Ibn Umayyah from Banu Waqif and Abu Khaithamah from Banu Salim Ibn 'Awf. They were truthful individuals whose (belief in) Islam cannot be impugned.

I say: As for the first three, the summary of their story shall be related in a short while, insha'Allah. It is concerning them that Allah revealed: "And (He did forgive also) the three [who did not join the Tabook expedition (whom the Prophet) ] left (i.e. he did not give his judgment in their case, and their case was suspended for Allah's Decision) till for them the Earth, vast as it is, was straitened and their own selves were straitened to them, and they perceived that there is no fleeing from Allah, and no refuge but with Him." (Soorah AtTawbah 9:118)

As for Abu Khaithamah, he resolved to catch up with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, as shall be related shortly.

The Mobilization of the Muslim Army Numbering Thirty Thousand

Yoonus Ibn Bukair related on the authority of Ibn Ishaq that the preparation progressed well and the march became near. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, marched out on a Thursday, he camped with his army numbering over 30,000 men at Thaniyat Al-Wada'. 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy camped his own army in a section of the Prophet's location. While Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded, 'Abdullah Ibn Ubayy lagged behind and eventually withdrew along with a contingent of the hypocrites and the people of doubt.

Ibn Ishaq added that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, appointed 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib to oversee the affairs of his family and commanded him to remain with them. Consequently, the hypocrites began to spread rumors that he had left him behind because he was a burden to him and wanted to rid himself of him.

On the authority of Mus'ab Ibn Sa'd who related from his father that he said that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, left 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib behind in the Battle of Tabook and he complained: "O Messenger of Allah, would you leave me behind among the women and children?" Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Are you not pleased to be to me as Haroon was to Moosa with the exception that there will be no Prophet after me?"

On the authority of 'Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood who said that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, proceeded to Tabook, each time a person would lag behind, the people would say: “O Messenger of Allah, so and so has lagged behind.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would say: “Leave him, if Allah finds any good in him, He will cause him to catch up with you. If He finds in him something that is contrary, then Allah has relieved you of him.” They said: “O Messenger of Allah, Abu Dharr has lagged behind, his camel has slowed him down.” Again the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Leave him, if Allah finds any good in him, He will cause him to catch up with you. If He finds in him something contrary, then Allah has relieved you of him.” Abu Dharr rebuked his camel and when it became too slow for him, he took his belongings and placed it on his back and proceeded on the trail of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, on foot.

Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, camped at one of his rest areas when a Muslim, who was keeping watch, called out: “O Allah’s Messenger, there is a man approaching on foot along the road.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “That is Abu Dharr.” When the people looked more carefully they said: “O Allah’s Messenger, by Allah it is truly Abu Dharr!” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “May Allah have mercy on Abu Dharr, he walks alone, he will die alone and will be resurrected alone.” As time went by, Abu Dharr relocated to Rabadhah. When his death approached, he instructed his wife and his young boy: “Once I am dead, wash and shroud me in the night and then place me in the middle of the road. When the first passersby come, tell them: ‘This is Abu Dharr’.” When he died, they did as he instructed. A caravan appeared in which there was ‘Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood among a group of people from Kufah. (When he saw the spectacle) he asked: “What is this?” He was told: "This is the corpse of Abu Dharr." Ibn Mas'ood began to cry and said: "Truthful are the words of Allah's Messenger: 'May Allah have Mercy on Abu Dharr, he walks alone, he will die alone and will be resurrected alone!'" He dismounted and took charge of the corpse by himself and buried him.

'Umar said: "We proceeded to Tabook in extremely hot weather and we camped at a location where we were seized by such an extreme thirst that we feared that our necks would be severed. One of us would go in search of luggage and he would not return except with a thought that his neck would be choked due to extreme thirst. The situation deteriorated to such an extent that someone would slaughter his camel and he would squeeze its waste and then drink it. Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, approached the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said: 'O Messenger of Allah, Allah has vouchsafed your response to supplication, so beseech Allah on our behalf.' He asked: 'Would you really like that?' Abu Bakr replied in the affirmative. Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, raised his hands toward the sky and did not lower them till the sky became cloudy and there was a downpour; they filled all their containers. We went to check and found that the rain did not fall beyond the area of the army."

On the authority of Abu Hurairah or Abu Sa'eed Al-Khudri (Al-A'mash was doubtful) who said: During the Battle of Tabook, the Muslim army was seized by starvation so they complained to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him saying: "O Messenger of Allah, do you permit us to slaughter our animals for consumption?" He replied: "You may do so." 'Umar came and said: "O Messenger of Allah, if you permit them, then the riding animals will be depleted. Rather, order them to gather the remnant of their provision and ask Allah to bless it, perhaps He will cause it to be blessed.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, liked ‘Umar’s suggestion and called for a leather mat to be spread and ordered the people to bring the remnants of their provision. A man would bring a handful of sorghum, another would come with a handful of dates, and yet another would bring only a morsel till a very small quantity was collected on the leather sheet. Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, supplicated for Allah’s blessings and said: “Fill your bags.” So they scooped the food and filled their bags until there was no container in the camp except that it was filled with provision. They ate to their fill and there was much more left in stock. Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “I bear witness that none deserves to be worshipped except Allah and that I am the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and by it (the statement) Allah shall not cast (into the Fire) except the doubters who would be screened from Al-Jannah.”

The Prophet’s Passing by the Ruins of Thamood at AlHijr on the Way to Tabook

On the authority of Jabir who narrated that when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, passed by Al-Hijr, he said: “Do not request for a miracle, for the people of Saleh had asked for it. It (the shecamel) would return through this pass and emerge from this pass but they became arrogant against the command of their Lord and they killed her; thus they were overtaken by As-Saihah (awful cry) and Allah caused all those who were under the surface of the sky to be killed except a man who was in the Haram (sacred precinct) of Allah.” Someone asked: “Who was he, O Messenger of Allah?” He said: “He was Abu Rigal. When he left the Haram, he was overtaken by the punishment meted out to his people.”

On the authority of Humaid As-Sa‘idi who narrated: "We took part in the Battle of Tabook in the company of the Prophet and when we arrived at the Wadi Al-Qura, there was a woman in her garden. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked his Companions to estimate the amount of the fruits in the garden, and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, estimated it at ten Awsuq (measures). The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to that lady, 'Check what your garden will yield.' When we reached Tabook, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'There will be a strong wind tonight and so no one should stand and whoever has a camel, should fasten it.' So we fastened our camels. A strong wind blew at night and a man stood up and he was blown away to Mount Tayy.

Then the king of Ailah sent a white mule and cloth to the Prophet as gifts, and wrote to him that his people will stay in their place (and would pay the Jizyah taxation.) When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, reached Wadi Al-Qura, he asked that woman how much her garden had yielded. She said: 'Ten Awsuq,' and that was what Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had estimated. Then the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'I want to reach Madinah quickly, and whoever among you wants to accompany me, should hurry.' The subnarrator added: When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw Madinah he said: 'This is Taba.' And when he saw the mountain of Uhud, he said: 'This mountain loves us and we love it. Shall I tell you of the best amongst the Ansar?' They replied in the affirmative. He said: 'The family of Banu An-Najjar, and then the family of Banu Sa'idah or Banu Al-Harith Ibn Al-Khazraj. The aforementioned are the best but there is goodness in all the families of Ansar'."

On the authority of Abu Tufail 'Amir Ibn Wathilah who related that Mu'adh Ibn Jabal informed him that when they accompanied the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in the year of Tabook, the Messenger of Allah joined Zuhr with 'Asr and Maghrib with 'Isha'. Mu'adh said: "One day he delayed the prayer, and then came out and prayed Zuhr and 'Asr together. Then he said: 'Tomorrow you will come, insha'Allah, to the spring of Tabook. But you will not reach it until the morning. Whoever arrives there should not touch any of its water until I reach there.' We came to it and two men had gotten to it before us and the spring was dripping with a little water. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked them: 'Have you touched any of its water?' They replied: 'Yes.' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, scolded them and said what Allah wished him to say. Then they took water with their hands from the spring little by little until it had been collected in something. Then the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, washed his face and hands in it. Then he put it back into the spring and the spring flowed with an abundance of water and the people drew water from it. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Mu'adh, if you live long enough you will see this place filled with gardens!'"

The Messenger of Allah's Arrival at Tabook

On the authority of Sa'eed Ibn Abi Rashid who narrated: "I met At-Tanookhi, the messenger of Heraclius to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who was my neighbor at Hims. He had become an extremely old man who had reached senility or was close to it. I asked him: 'Can you relate to me concerning Heraclius' letter to the Prophet and vice versa?' He said: 'Certainly, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, arrived at Tabook and sent Dihyah Al-Kalbi to Heraclius. When the letter of Allah's Messenger reached him, he invited the vicars and the Roman patriarchs and then locked the door behind them. He addressed them saying: A letter has reached me from this man, as you have seen, inviting me to one of three choices: follow his religion, give him our wealth from our land even though the land belongs to us, or to confront him in battle. By Allah you are well aware from what you have read in the Divine Book that he will conquer whatever is under my feet, therefore come, so that we may follow his religion or give him the wealth of our land.'

They snorted unanimously and said: 'You are inviting us to apostatize from Christianity and become slaves to an Arab who has come from Hijaz?' When he suspected that if they left his presence they would sow mischief and turn the Romans against him, he said: 'I only said that to test your steadfastness on your religion.' He invited a man from an Arab tribe who was a Christian Arab and said to him: 'Ferret for me someone with a strong retentive memory (and can keep secrets) and speaks Arabic, so that I may send him to this man to relay the response to his letter.' I was brought to him and Heraclius handed over to me a letter and said: 'Take my letter to this man in response to his previous letter and whatever you miss of his words at least preserve for me one of three things: check if he says anything concerning my letter to him; when he reads my letter, does he make any reference to night, and look at his back, does he have a strange mark?'

So I proceeded until I arrived at Tabook, where I found him sitting in the midst of his Companions in an amicable manner. I asked: 'Where is your man?' I was told: 'There is he is.' I approached until I sat in front of him and handed over the letter to him. He dropped it on his lap and asked: 'From whom are you?' I said: 'I am one of the Tanookh.' He said: 'Do you wish to belong to the path of Islam, Al-Hanifiyyah; the path of your forefather Ibrahim?' I replied: 'I am a messenger of a people and I am upon their religion; I shall not forsake it until I return to them.' The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, smiled and recited: Verily! You (O Muhammad) guide not whom you like, but Allah guides whom He wills. And He knows best those who are the guided. (Soorah Al-Qasas 28:56)

Then he added: 'O Brother of Tanookh, I wrote a letter to Qaisar which he tore and Allah will tear his kingdom into shreds. I wrote another letter to Negus which he shredded and Allah will shred him and his kingdom. I wrote and sent my letter to your companion which he accepted and the people will not cease to find in him bravery as long as he lives in good condition.' I said (to myself): 'This is one of the three things my companion instructed me to observe.' So I took an arrow from my quiver and I wrote with it on the leather of my sword. Then he handed over the letter to a man on his left. I asked: 'Who is your secretary that reads your letters?' They said: 'Mu'awiyah.' He read the content of my companion's letter which said: 'You are inviting me to a Paradise, the expanse of which is heaven and Earth that is prepared for the pious, then where is Hellfire?' Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Glory be to Allah! Where is the night when daylight comes?' I took out an arrow from my quiver and wrote it on my scabbard. When he finished reading my letter he said: 'You have a right for you are a messenger, if something is found with us, we would furnish you with it. Travelers at times suffer from paucity of provision.' A man, from those present, said: 'I will furnish him.' Then he opened his bag and brought out a Safooriyyah garment and placed it on my lap.' I asked about the identity of the owner of the garment and I was told it was 'Uthman.

"Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: 'Who among you would host the man?' A young man from the Ansar said: 'I will.' And the Ansari stood and I also got up and followed him until we passed by a section of the assembly when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, called me and said: 'Come here, O brother of Tanookh.' I went toward him and stood at the same spot I had sat in front of him and he raised his Burdah (garment) from his back and said: 'Here! Have a look at what you have been commanded.' I went round to look at his back and there was a ring in the middle of the shoulder blade like a fatty mass."

His Treaty With the King of Ailah and the People of Jarba' and Adhruh While Encamped at Tabook

Ibn Ishaq related that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, reached Tabook, Yuhannah Ibn Ru'bah, the chief of Ailah, came to him and a treaty was brokered with him in which he agreed to pay the jizyah. The people of Jarba' and Adhruh also did the same and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, wrote for them a document which they kept with themselves. He wrote for Yuhannah and the people of Ailah the following:

“In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful. This is a guarantee from Allah and Muhammad, the Prophet and Messenger of Allah, to Yuhannah Ibn Ru'bah and the people of Ailah for their ships and caravans. They, along with those who are with them from the people of Syria, Yemen, and the seamen will all have the protection of Allah and of the Prophet Muhammad. Whoever infringes on this pact from them, his property shall not save him and it is permissible for whoever takes. It is impermissible that they be prevented from their watering places or from a road they want to pass through by land or sea.”

Yoonus narrated from Ibn Ishaq that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, also wrote another document for the people of Jarba' and Adhruh that they are given the guarantee of Allah and the guarantee of Muhammad and they are obliged to pay voluntarily 100 Dinars and 100 Ooqiyyah every year in the month of Rajab. In return, they are awarded a warrantee of sincerity and good relations with the Muslims and those who take recourse to them from among the Muslims. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave to the people of Ailah his Burdah along with his document. (The narrator added): Subsequently, Abu Al-Abbas Abdullah Ibn Muhammad purchased it at a price of 300 Deenars.

The Prophet's Dispatch of Khalid Ibn Waleed to Ukaidir Doomah

Ibn Ishaq related that afterward, Allah's Messenger invited Khalid Ibn Waleed and dispatched him to Ukaidir Doomah. Ukaidir Ibn 'Abdul Malik from Kindah was their king and he was a Christian. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Khalid: "You will find him hunting wild cows." Khalid set out until he was within sight of his fortress. It was a moonlit summer night when Ukaidir was with his wife on the rooftop. The wild cows were rubbing their horns against the gate of his castle. His wife urged him to go after the wild cows. He came down and ordered that his horse be saddled and went off with a band of his family members, among whom was his brother, Hassan. During their pursuit, the cavalry of Allah's Messenger intercepted them, captured him and killed his brother, Ukaidir was dressed in a cloth brocade embellished with gold. Khalid took the outfit and sent it to the Prophet ahead of his arrival.

'Asim Ibn 'Umar Ibn Qatadah related on the authority of Anas Ibn Malik who said: "I saw the garment of Ukaidir when it was brought to Allah's Messenger and the Muslims began to marvel at its beauty. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Do you marvel at its beauty? By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, the handkerchief of Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh in Paradise is far more beautiful than this'."

On the authority of 'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair who narrated that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned to Madinah from Tabook, a group of hypocrites decided to assassinate him. Their plan was to push him from the precipice of a mountain pass. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was informed of their plan, so he ordered the people to march along the valley while he ascended the mountain. The group involved in the assassination scheme followed him while hiding their faces. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered 'Ammar Ibn Yasir and Hudhaifah Ibn Al-Yaman to come along with him. 'Ammar held the rein of the camel while Hudhaifah drove it. While they were going, they heard the people who had betrayed them. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, became angry. When Hudhaifah saw his anger he turned back toward them with a staff and approached their camels with it. When they saw Hudhaifah, they thought their grave secret had been exposed and they hastily retreated until they mingled with the people. Hudhaifah returned and caught up with the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, urged them and they quickly traversed the mountain path and stopped to wait for the other people.

Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Hudhaifah: "Did you recognize this group of people?" He said: "I do not recognize them except that I saw their camels in the darkness of the night." He said: "Did you both know the intention of these riders?" Both of them replied in the negative and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, informed them of what they had planned to do to him and he told them their names and asked them to keep it secret." They both said: "Shouldn't you order that they be executed?" The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "I detest that people say that Muhammad kills his Companions."

Ibn Ishaq related this story with the difference that the Prophet related their names only to Hudhaifah Ibn Al-Yaman, and this is more probable. And Allah (SWT) knows best. This is corroborated by the statement of Abu Darda' to 'Alqamah, the companion of Ibn Mas'ood: "Don't you have among you (i.e. the people of Kufah) the bearer of a secret which no one knows except him (i.e. Hudhaifah) ? Don't you have among you the one whom Allah protected from Shaitan on the tongue of Muhammad (i.e. 'Ammar)." It is related on the authority of Ameerul-Mu'mineen 'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, that he said to Hudhaifah: "I beseech you by Allah, am I among them?" He said: "No, but I shall not exempt anyone after you," i.e. so that he may not reveal the secret of the Prophet.

I say: They were four men while some say they were twelve. Ibn Ishaq related that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent Hudhaifah to convene them and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, informed them about what they had been planning against him; Ibn Ishaq then listed their names. It was concerning them that Allah, the Exalted, revealed: "and they resolved that (plot to murder Prophet Muhammad) which they were unable to carry out." (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:74)

On the authority of At-Tufail who related that when Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was returning from the Ghazwah of Tabook, he commanded someone to announce that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was passing through the mountain path so no one should follow the same path. While Hudhaifah was driving the Prophet's camel and 'Ammar was steering it, a group of people, who were concealing their faces, approached on their camels. ‘Ammar turned toward them and began to beat the face of their camels. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to Hudhaifah: “Faster! Faster,” until they descended from the valley. When they had descended, ‘Ammar returned and the Prophet asked him: “O ‘Ammar, did you recognize the people?” He said: “I just saw their camels but the people themselves were covered.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, further asked: “Do you know what they intended to do?” ‘Ammar replied: “Allah and His Messenger know best.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “They intended to startle the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, so that they might cause him to be thrown.” ‘Ammar confided in one of the Companions of the Prophet who asked him: “We beseech you by Allah, how many were the people of the steep mountain pass?” He replied: “They were fourteen men.” The man said: “If I am among them, then they were fifteen.” ‘Ammar added: “Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, excused three of them for they said: ‘We did not hear the crier of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, making that announcement and neither were we aware of what the people intended to do.’” ‘Ammar said: “I call you to witness that the remaining ten individuals rebelled against Allah and His Messenger in this world and the witnessing of that day shall be established.”

The Story of the Masjid Ad-Dirar

Allah, the Exalted, says: And as for those who put up a mosque by way of harming and disbelief, and to disunite the Believers, and as an outpost for those who warred against Allah and His Messenger (Muhammad) aforetime, they will indeed swear that their intention is nothing but good. Allah bears witness that they are certainly liars. Never stand therein.

Verily, the mosque whose foundation was laid from the first day on piety is more worthy that you stand therein (to pray). In it are men who love to clean and to purify themselves. And Allah loves those who make themselves clean and pure (i.e. who clean their private parts with dust (i.e. to be considered as soap) and water from urine and stools, after answering the call of nature) Is it then he, who laid the foundation of his building on piety to Allah and His Good Pleasure, better, or he who laid the foundation of his building on an undetermined brink of a precipice ready to crumble down, so that it crumbled to pieces with him into the Fire of Hell. And Allah guides not the people who are the Zalimoon (cruel, violent, proud, polytheist and wrong-doer. The building which they built will never cease to be a cause of hypocrisy and doubt in their hearts, unless their hearts are cut to pieces. (i.e. till they die). And Allah is All - Knowing, All-Wise.” (Soorah At- Tawbah 9:107-110)

We have explained all that is connected to this Verse in our Tafseer in a manner that suffices. Ibn Ishaq mentioned how this mosque was built and how Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was commanded, even before he entered Madinah, to demolish it on his return from Tabook. The story behind that is that a group of hypocrites built something like a mosque close to the mosque of Quba’ and they wanted Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to come and lead them in prayer so as to validate and popularise their intent of corruption, disbelief and obstinacy. However, Allah protected His Messenger from prayer in it. This occurred at a time when he was on his way to Tabook. When he returned, he stopped at Dhu Awan, a location at a distance of an hour's journey from Madinah when Revelation came to him concerning the affair of the mosque:

“And as for those who put up a mosque by way of harming and disbelief, and to disunite the Believers, and as an outpost for those who warred against Allah and His Messenger (Muhammad) aforetime, they will indeed swear that their intention is nothing but good. Allah bears witness that they are certainly liars.” (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:107)

As for Allah's statement “by way of harming”, this is due to the fact that they intended to compete with the mosque of Quba', “and disbelief” in Allah and not borne from any kind of sincere belief in Him; “and to disunite” the general congregation from the mosque of Quba; “and as an outpost for those who warred against Allah and His Messenger,” referring to Abu 'Amir, the monk and the sinner, may Allah disfigure him. When Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, invited him to Islam, he objected and went to the people of Makkah to stir them (against the Muslims) and they came in the Year of 'Uhud and their affairs have been mentioned previously. When his desire was not accomplished, he went to the Roman king, Qaisar, to seek his assistance against Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Abu 'Amir belonged to the religion of Heraclius and he was from among the Arab Christians. He used to write to his brothers who became hypocrites, giving them promises and false hope and the promise of Shaitan is nothing but deception. His correspondence and letters came to them at every epoch. They constructed this building in the semblance of a mosque but in reality it was a house of rebellion and an exemplification of what they received from Abu ‘Amir, and an assembly for all those who were upon their path among the hypocrites. For this reason, Allah says: “and as an outpost for those who warred against Allah and His Messenger aforetime.” Allah further says: “they will indeed swear,” i.e. those who built the mosque, “that their intention is nothing but good,” i.e. by building the mosque, we intended good. Allah also says: “Allah bears witness that they are certainly liars.”

Then Allah told His Messenger: “Never stand therein;” forbidding him from standing in it so as to not acknowledge it. He then commanded and urged him to stand in the mosque whose foundation was laid from the first day on piety, referring to the mosque of Quba’ as indicated by the context and a number of Ahadeeth related to the purity of its people, as an advice to him.

Nevertheless, the Hadith recorded in Saheeh Muslim which indicates that the mosque whose foundation was laid on piety from the first day refers to the Mosque of Allah’s Messenger is not a negation of the Quba’ mosque because if its foundation was laid on piety from the first day, then the Mosque of Allah’s Messenger is more worthy and more deserving of that appellation and its virtues are more well-established and stronger. We have sufficed us with comments on that in the Tafseer. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

While Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was still at Dhu-Awan, he called Malik Ibn Ad-Dukhshum and Ma’n Ibn Adiy or his brother, ‘Asim Ibn ‘Adiy, may Allah be pleased with them both, and commanded them to proceed to that mosque whose builders were unjust with the instruction to destroy it. They complied and burned the mosque and its inhabitants dispersed.

I say: During this Battle of Tabook, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, offered the early morning prayer behind 'Abdur Rahman Ibn 'Awf. He caught the second ra'akah with him.

On the authority of Abu Humaid who said: "We returned in the company of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, from the Ghazwah of Tabook till we got to the outskirts of Madinah. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "This is Tabah, this is Uhud, that is a mountain which loves us and we love it." (1) It is also related by Muslim.

On the authority of As-Sa'ib Ibn Yazeed who said: "I remember that I once went with some children to welcome Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at Thaniyat Al-Wada' on his return from the Ghazwah of Tabook."

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of 'Abdullah Ibn Ka'b Ibn Malik, who was from among Ka'b's sons and his guide when he became blind, said: "I heard Ka'b Ibn Malik narrating the story of (the Ghazwah of) Tabook in which he failed to take part." Ka'b said, "I did not remain behind Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in any Ghazwah that he fought except the Ghazwah of Tabook. I failed to take part in the Ghazwah of Badr, but Allah did not admonish anyone who had not participated in it, for in fact, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had only gone out in search of the caravan of Quraish until Allah made them (i.e. the Muslims) and their enemy meet without any appointment. I witnessed the night of Al-‘Aqabah (Pledge) with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, when we pledged for Islam, and I would not exchange it for the Badr Battle although the Badr Battle is more popular among the people than it (i.e. Al-‘Aqabah Pledge). As for my news (in this Battle of Tabook), I had never been stronger or wealthier than when I remained behind the Prophet in that Ghazwah.

“By Allah, I never had two she-camels before, but I had them at the time of this Ghazwah. Whenever Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, wanted to undertake a military expedition, he used to hide his intention by apparently referring to a different Ghazwah. However, at the time of that Ghazwah (of Tabook), which Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was to fight in severe heat, facing a long journey, the desert, and the great number of the enemy force, the Prophet announced to the Muslims clearly their destination so that they might get prepared for their Ghazwah. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was accompanied by a large number of Muslims.”

Ka‘b added: “Any person who wanted to be absent would think that the matter would remain hidden, (due to the sheer size of the force), unless Allah revealed it through Divine Revelation. So, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went out for that Ghazwah at the time when the fruits had ripened and the shade looked pleasant. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and his Companions prepared for the battle and I started to go out in order to get myself ready along with them, but I returned without doing anything. I would say to myself: ‘I can do that.’ So I kept on delaying it and the people had gotten ready and departed with Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. I had not prepared anything for my departure, and I said: ‘I will prepare myself for departure one or two days after him, and then join them.’ In the morning following their departure, I went out to get myself ready but returned having done nothing. The same happened again the next morning, I went out to get ready but returned without doing anything.

“Such was the case with me until they left and the battle was missed (by me). Even then I intended to depart to overtake them. I wish I had done so! But it was not in my luck. So, after the departure of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, whenever I went out and walked amongst the people (i.e, the remaining persons), it grieved me that I could see none around me, but those accused of hypocrisy or those Allah had excused because of their weakness. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not remember me until he reached Tabook. While he was sitting among the people in Tabook, he asked: ‘What did Ka’b do?’ A man from Banu Salimah said: ‘O Allah’s Messenger! He has been held back by his two burdas (i.e. garments) and his looking at his own flanks with pride.’ Mu’adh Ibn Jabal said: ‘What a bad thing you have said! O Allah’s Messenger, by Allah, we know nothing about him but good.’ Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, kept silent.”

Ka’b Ibn Malik added: “When I heard that he (i.e. the Prophet) was on his way back to Madinah I was overwhelmed by my concern, and began to think of false excuses, saying to myself: ‘How can I avoid his anger tomorrow?’ I took the advice of a wise member of my family in this matter. When it was said that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had come near, all the evil false excuses abandoned my mind and I knew well that I could never come out of this problem by forging a false statement. I then decided to firmly speak the truth. So Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, arrived in the morning, and whenever he returned from a journey, he used to visit the Mosque first and offer two units of prayer and then sit for the people. When he had done all that this time, those who had failed to join the army in the Battle came and started offering excuses and taking oaths before him. They were more than eighty men. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, accepted the excuses they expressed, took their pledge of allegiance, asked for Allah's forgiveness for them, and left the secrets of their hearts for Allah to judge. Then I came to him, and when I greeted him, he smiled a smile of an angry person and said: 'Come,' so I came sat before him. He said to me: 'What prevented you from joining us. Did you not purchase an animal for riding?' I answered: 'Yes, O Allah's Messenger! But, by Allah, if I were sitting before any person from among the people of the world other than you, I would have avoided his anger with an excuse.'

“By Allah, I have been bestowed with the power of fluent and eloquent speech, but, by Allah, I knew well that if today I were to tell you a lie to seek your favor, Allah would surely make you angry with me in the near future; but if I tell you the truth, though you will become angry due to it, I hope for Allah's forgiveness. By Allah, there was no excuse for me. By Allah, I had never been stronger or wealthier than I was when I remained behind you.’ Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'As regards this man, he has spoken the truth. Get up until Allah decides your case.'

“I got up, and many men of Banu Salimah followed me and said: ‘By Allah, we never witnessed you doing any sin before this. You failed to offer an excuse to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, as the others, who did not join him, have offered. The supplication of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to Allah to forgive you would have been sufficient for you.’ They continued blaming me so much that I intended to return to the Prophet and accuse myself of having told a lie, but I asked them: ‘Is there anyone else who has met the same fate as I have?’ They replied: ‘Yes, there are two men who have said the same thing you have, and both of them were given the same order as you.’ I asked: ‘Who are they?’ They replied: ‘Murarah Ibn Ar-Rabee’ Al-Amri and Hilal Ibn Umayyah AlWaqifi.’ They mentioned to me two pious men who had attended the Ghazwah of Badr, and in whom there was an example for me, so I did not change my mind. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, forbade all the Muslims from speaking with three of us, who had remained behind in that Ghazwah. We were kept away from the people and they changed their attitude toward us till the very land (where I lived) appeared strange to me as if I did not know it.

We remained in that position for fifty nights. My two fellows remained in their houses and wept, but, as, I was the youngest and the most resolute of them, I would go out and join the Muslims in the prayers and roam about in the markets, but no one would speak to me. I would come to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and offer him the greetings, while he was sitting in his gathering after the prayer, and I would wonder whether the Prophet moved his lips to return my greetings or not. I would then offer my prayer near to him and look at him stealthily. When I was busy with my prayer, he would turn his face toward me, but when I turned my face to him, he would turn his face away from me.

“When this harsh attitude from the people lasted a long time, I walked until I scaled the wall of the garden of Abu Qatadah who was my cousin and the dearest person to me. I offered my greetings to him, but, by Allah, he did not return my greetings. I said: ‘Abu Qatadah! I beseech you by Allah! Do you know that I love Allah and His Messenger?’ He kept quiet. I asked him again, beseeching him by Allah, but he remained silent. Then I asked him again in the Name of Allah. He said: ‘Allah and His Messenger know better.’ Thereupon my eyes flowed with tears and I returned and jumped over the wall.”

Ka‘b added: “While I was walking in the market of Madinah, I suddenly saw a Nabati (i.e. a Christian farmer) from the Nabatis of Sham who had come to sell his grains in Madinah. He was asked: ‘Who will lead me to Ka‘b Ibn Malik?’ The people began to point me out to him until he came to me and handed me a letter from the king of Ghassan in which the following was written:

‘I have been informed that your friend (i.e. the Prophet) has treated you harshly. Nevertheless, Allah will not let you live at a place where you feel inferior and your right is lost. So join us, and we will console you.’

“When I read it, I said to myself: ‘This is also a test.’ I took the letter to the oven, made a fire and burned it. When forty of the fifty nights passed, the envoy of Allah’s Messenger came and said: ‘Allah’s Messenger orders you to keep away from your wife.’ I said: ‘Should I divorce her; what should I do?’ He said: ‘Only keep away from her and do not have sexual relations with her.’ The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent the same message to the other two. I said to my wife: ‘Go to your parents and remain with them until Allah gives His verdict in this matter.’ The wife of Hilal Ibn Umayyah came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said: ‘O Allah’s Messenger! Hilal is a helpless old man who has no servant to attend to him. Do you dislike that I should serve him?’ He said: ‘No (you may serve him) but he should not come near you.’ She said: ‘By Allah, he has no desire for anything. By Allah, he has not ceased weeping until his case began till this day.’

“On that, some of my family members said to me: ‘Will you also not ask Allah’s Messenger to permit your wife (to serve you) as he has permitted the wife of Hilal Ibn Umayyah to serve him?’ I said: ‘By Allah, I will not ask the permission of Allah’s Messenger regarding her, for I do not know what Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, would say if I asked him to permit her (to serve me) while I am a young man.’ I remained in that state for ten more nights until the period of fifty nights was completed from the point when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, prohibited the people from speaking to us. When, on the morning of day fifty, I finished offering the Fajr prayer on the roof of one of our houses, I was sitting in the condition which Allah described (in the Qur’an), i.e. my very soul seemed straitened to me and even the earth seemed narrow to me for all its spaciousness, and I heard the voice of onewho had ascended the mountain of Sala’ calling with his loudest voice: ‘Ka’b Ibn Malik! Be happy (by receiving good tidings).’ I fell down in prostration before Allah, realizing that relief has come.

“Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had announced Allah’s acceptance of our repentance when he offered the Fajr prayer. The people came out to congratulate us. Some bringers of good tidings went out to the other two, and a horseman came to me in haste, while a man from Banu Aslam came running and ascended the mountain, and his voice was swifter than the horse. When he (i.e. the man) whose voice I had heard, came to me conveying the good news, I took off my garments and dressed him with them; and by Allah, I owned no other garments than them on that day. I borrowed two garments and wore them and went to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

“The people started receiving me in batches, congratulating me on Allah’s acceptance of my repentance, saying: ‘We congratulate you on Allah’s acceptance of your repentance.’ When I entered the Mosque. I saw Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sitting with the people around him. Talhah Ibn ‘Ubaidullah swiftly came to me, shook hands with me and congratulated me. By Allah, none of the Muhajiroon (i.e. Emigrants) got up for me except him (i.e. Talhah), and I will never forget this of Talhah. When I greeted Allah’s Messenger, his face being bright with joy, said: ‘Be happy with the best day that you have got since your mother delivered you.’ I said to the Prophet: ‘Is this forgiveness from you or from Allah?’ He said: ‘It is from Allah.’

“Whenever Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, became happy, his face would shine as if it were a piece of the moon, and we all knew that characteristic of his. When I sat before him, I said: ‘O Allah’s Messenger, because of the acceptance of my repentance I will give up all my wealth as alms for the sake of Allah and His Messenger.' Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Keep some of your wealth, as it will be better for you.' I said: 'So I will keep my share from Khaibar with me,' and added: 'O Allah's Messenger, Allah has saved me for telling the truth, so it is a part of my repentance to speak only the truth as long as I am alive.' By Allah, I do not know anyone from the Muslims whom Allah helped for speaking the truth more than me. Since I mentioned that truth to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, until today, I have never spoken a lie. I hope that Allah will also save me (from telling lies) for the rest of my life. So, Allah revealed to His Messenger:

"Allah has forgiven the Prophet, the Muhajiroon and the Ansar" (up to the Verse): "and be with those who are true (in words and deeds)." (Soorah AtTawbah 9:117-119)

"By Allah, Allah has never bestowed upon me, apart from His guiding me to Islam, a greater blessing than the fact that I did not tell a lie to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, which would have caused me to perish as those who lied and perished; Allah described those who told lies with the worst description Allah, the Almighty, said: "They will swear by Allah to you (Muslims) when you return to them, that you may turn away from them. So turn away from them. Surely, they are Rijsun [i.e. Najasun (impure) because of their evil deeds], and Hell is their dwelling place - a recompense for that which they used to earn. They (the hypocrites) swear to you (Muslims) that you may be pleased with them, but if you are pleased with them, certainly Allah is not pleased with the people who are Al-Fasiqoon (rebellious, disobedient to Allah)." (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:95, 96) “We, the three persons, differed altogether from those whose excuses Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, accepted when they swore to him. He took their pledge of allegiance and asked Allah to forgive them, but Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, left our case pending until Allah gave His Judgment about it. As for that Allah said: ‘And (He did forgive also) the three [who did not join the Tabook expedition (whom the Prophet) ] left (i.e. he did not give his judgment in their case, and their case was suspended for Allah’s Decision) till for them the Earth, vast as it is, was straitened and their own selves were straitened to them, and they perceived that there is no fleeing from Allah, and no refuge but with Him. Then, He accepted their repentance that they might repent (unto Him).

Verily, Allah is the One Who accepts repentance, Most Merciful.’ (Soorah AtTawbah 9:118)

“What Allah said (in this Verse) does not indicate our failure to take part in the Ghazwah, but it refers to the deferment of making a decision by the Prophet about our case in contrast to the case of those who had taken an oath before him and he excused them by accepting their excuses.”We have narrated it in At-Tafseer from Musnad Imam Ahmad and it contains a slight addition and to Allah belong praise and grace.

Other Disobedient Individuals Who Also Lagged Behind

They were ten individuals who lagged behind Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in the Battle of Tabook. Upon the Prophet’s return, they tied themselves to the pillars of the Mosque. When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, passed by, he asked: “Who are these people?” He was told: “This is Abu Lubabah and his compatriots who lagged behind you (and have tied themselves) till you free and excuse them.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “I swear by Allah, I shall not free them nor shall I excuse them until Allah Himself frees them. They turned away from me and lagged behind from the battle alongside the Muslims.” When this statement of Allah’s Messenger was conveyed to them they resolved: “We shall not unbind ourselves until Allah Himself frees us.”

Then Allah revealed: “And (there are) others who have acknowledged their sins.” Upon the revelation of this Verse, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent word to them freeing and excusing them. As a token of their gratitude, they came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, with their wealth saying: “O Messenger of Allah, this is our wealth, give it in charity and seek forgiveness on our behalf.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “I have not been commanded to take your properties.” Then Allah revealed: “Take Sadaqah (alms) from their wealth in order to purify them and sanctify them with it, and invoke Allah for them. Verily! Your invocations are a source of security for them, and Allah is All-Hearer, All-Knower” (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:103) upto the Verse: “And others await Allah’s Decree, whether He will punish them or will forgive them.” (9:106) These are those who did not fetter themselves to the pillars of the mosque so they kept hoping till Allah revealed yet another Verse: “Allah has forgiven the Prophet, the Muhajiroon and the Ansar who followed him (Muhammad) in the time of distress (Tabook expedition, etc.) ” (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:117) upto the Verse: “And (He did forgive also) the three [who did not join the Tabook expedition (whom the Prophet ) left (i.e. he did not give his judgment in their case, and their case was suspended for Allah's Decision)." (9:118) till the end of the Verse. This is how 'Atiyah Ibn Sa'd Al-A'wfi has related it on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas.

I said: Perhaps these three were not mentioned along with the remainder of his compatriots and he was just mentioned because he was their leader as indicated by the wordings of Ibn 'Abbas. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

I said: Those who lagged behind from the Battle of Tabook were in four categories: those who were ordered (to remain behind) and will be rewarded, such as 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib, Muhammad Ibn Maslamah and Ibn Umm Maktoom. The second category consists of those who were excused. These were the weak and sick ones as well as those who turned back weeping. The third category is the disobedient and guilty ones. They were three individuals: Abu Lubabah and his compatriots. The fourth category was of the blameworthy and disparaged ones and they were the hypocrites.

Events that Occurred After the Prophet's Return to Madinah and the Conclusion of the Battle of Tabook

Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "This is Heerah Al-Baida', it has been shown to me, and here is Ash-Shaima' Bint Buqailah Al-Azdiyyah riding an ash-colored mule donning a black veil." I said: "Messenger of Allah, if we enter Heerah and I find her as you have described, would she be mine?" The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “She will be yours.” Later (after the Prophet’s death) occurred the apostasy (of the Arab tribes)

Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed marched against Musailimah, the liar, and we marched along with him. When we were through with Musailimah, we went toward Basrah where we confronted Hurmuz at Kazimah; he was in command of an army which outnumbered ours. There was no one who had a greater enmity to the Arabs and to Islam than Hurmuz. Khalid stepped forward inviting him to a duel. He accepted Khalid’s challenge and Khalid killed him quickly. He wrote the account of the event to Abu Bakr As-Siddiq, may Allah be pleased with him, and he sent along with it Hurmuz’s cap. The price of the cap reached 100,000 Dirhams. It was the custom of the Persians that if a man attained a high rank among them, they would make for him a cap worth 100,000 Dirhams.

Then we returned to the route back to Heerah. The first person we met upon entering Heerah was Shaima’ Bint Buqailah, exactly as mentioned by Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. She was riding an ash-colored mule donning a black veil. I loved the sight of her and I said: “This is a gift which Allah’s Messenger had given to me.” Khalid summoned me concerning her and asked for evidence, which I brought to him. The evidences were (the testimony of) Muhammad Ibn Maslamah and Muhammad Ibn Basheer Al-Ansari. Convinced of my claim, he handed her to me. Her brother, Abdul-Maseeh, came to me with the intention of taking her back. He said to me: “Sell her to me.” I replied: “I shall not decrease her price from one thousand Dirhams.” He gave me one thousand Dirhams and I handed her over to him. Some people said: “If you had placed a price of 100,000, he would have paid that to you.” I said: “I did not know that there was a number greater than 1,000.”

The Visit of the Deputation of Thaqeef to Allah’s Messenger in the Month of Ramadan, the 9th Year

It has been mentioned earlier that when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was withdrawing from the Thaqeef, he was asked to curse them, but, rather, he supplicated for their guidance. It has also been mentioned that when Malik Ibn ‘Awf An-Nasri accepted Islam, he was kind to him and granted him profound gifts and made him the chief of those who accepted Islam among his people. He would raid the land of Thaqeef and straitened them till he compelled them to enter the fold of Islam.

A few months after ‘Urwah was killed, Thaqeef deliberated among themselves and came to the conclusion that they did not have the capability to wage war against the surrounding Arab tribes, who had pledged allegiance (to the Prophet) and had accepted Islam. Based on the advice of ‘Amr Ibn Umayyah of Banu ‘Ilaj, they had a mutual consultation and decided to dispatch one of them to Allah’s Messenger. They sent Abd Yaleel Ibn ‘Amr Ibn ‘Umayr along with two men from Ahlaf and three from Banu Malik.

Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah said that they were about ten individuals and among them were Kinanah Ibn ‘Abd Yaleel, who was their leader, and ‘Uthman Ibn Abu Al-‘As, who was the youngest of the delegates.

Ibn Ishaq related that when the delegates approached Madinah, they stopped at Qanat; where they met Mugheerah Ibn Shu‘bah whose turn it was to graze the camels of the Prophet’s Companions for they took this task in turns. When he saw them, he quickly went to inform Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of their arrival. Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, met him on the way and he informed him of the arrival of the delegation from Thaqeef with the intention of pledging allegiance and accepting Islam on the conditions of the Prophet and provided that a document of guarantee would be written for their people. Abu Bakr said to Al-Mugheerah: “I beseech you by Allah, please do not precede me to inform the Messenger of Allah, let me be the one who will relate the good news to him.” Mugheerah agreed and Abu Bakr went in to inform the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, of their arrival.

Mugheerah went back to the delegates of Thaqeef. Although he taught them the proper etiquette of greeting the Prophet, still upon arriving at his presence, they greeted him with the greeting of the pre-Islamic period. He erected a tent for them in the Mosque and it was Khalid Ibn Sa’eed Ibn Al-‘As who was the intermediary between them and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Whenever he brought food to them from Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, they would not eat it unless Khalid Ibn Sa’eed ate of it first. He was also the one who wrote down the document of guarantee for them.

Among the conditions they stipulated to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was that they be allowed to maintain their idol, Al-Lat, for three years without being demolished. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, refused and they persisted imploring him for a moratorium of two or even one year but the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not accede to their demand. Eventually, they asked for a month from their arrival back home and they impressed it upon him that the reason was so that the foolish ones might be reconciled (to Islam). However, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, refused to stipulate any time limit for them; rather, he sent Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb and Mugheerah Ibn Shu'bah with them to demolish the idol.

They also requested that they be exempted from offering Salat and from having to destroy their idols by their own hands. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "As for your request not to demolish your idols by your own hands, we shall exempt you from that, but concerning your being excused from offering Salat, there is no good in a religion which is bereft of Salat."

On the authority of Wahb who said: "I asked Jabir concerning Thaqeef and their pledge of allegiance. He said: 'They stipulated that they be exempted from paying Zakah and from participating in Jihad.' He heard the Prophet say afterward: "They will pay the Zakah and participate in Jihad once they accept Islam."

Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah mentioned that whenever their delegates went to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, they would leave 'Uthman Ibn Abul-'As in their camp and when they returned to him around midday, he would approach Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to ask him for some knowledge and to learn the Qur'an. Whenever he found him sleeping, he would go to Abu Bakr As-Siddiq and he did not cease from this practice until he acquired the understanding of Islam and Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, loved him dearly.

On the authority of 'Uthman Ibn Abul-'As who narrated: I once said: "O Messenger of Allah, make me the Imam of my people," and he said, "You are appointed their Imam and lead according to the ability of the weakest of them and choose a Mu'adhhdhin who would not receive payment for his calls."

Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah related that the delegation from Thaqeef consisted of ten individuals. When they came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he lodged them at the Mosque so that they may listen to the Qur'an; they asked him concerning Riba' (interest), Zina (adultery) and Khamr (intoxicants) and he forbade for them all that.

They also asked him as to what should be done to their idol, and he said: "Demolish it." They said: "Impossible, if it comes to know of your intention to demolish it, its kindred will kill you." 'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, said: "Woe to you, Ibn 'Abd Yaleel, how ignorant you are. The deity is just a stone." They said: "O Messenger of Allah, undertake the demolition yourself. As for us, we shall never destroy it (with our own hands)." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "I shall send with you someone who will destroy it." (2) They entered into a pact with him on that and further requested that they be allowed to precede his messengers to their town. Upon their return back home, their people inundated them asking for the news of their encounter with Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

They feigned grief saying that they had returned from a man who was severe and harsh-hearted who had unsheathed his sword and judged as he deemed fit and had stunned the Arabs. They told their people that he had prohibited Riba', Zina and Khamr and had ordered the demolition of their deity. Thaqeef broke into a frenzy saying: "We shall never consent to that!" They mobilized for war and prepared their weapons and lay in wait for two or three days. Then Allah cast terror into their hearts and they returned to their town and became repentant.

They turned to their delegates and said: "Return to him and relay to him our willingness and conclude a peace pact with him on our behalf." The delegates said: "We have already done that and we found him to be the most pious of men, the best in fulfilling the terms of a treaty, the most merciful of men and the most truthful. We have been blessed by our journey to him and concerning the agreement which we have entered with him, have a full grasp of the agreement." They said: "So why did you conceal all these things?" The delegates responded: "We intended that Allah remove from your hearts the arrogance of Shaitan."

They yielded their position and a few days afterward, the envoys of the Prophet arrived. Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed had been appointed their leader. Among the Prophet's envoys was Mugheerah Ibn Shu'bah. They headed to Al-Lat and the men, women and children of Thaqeef gathered around Al-Lat. The majority of the people did not believe that demolishing it would be possible. In fact, they had assumed that it was invincible. Mugheerah got up, took a pick-ax and said to his companions: "I shall make you laugh at Thaqeef." He struck the idol with the pick-ax and then he fell down shaking his leg. The people of Thaqeef broke into a frenzied cry of joy. They said: “Allah has forsaken Mugheerah, the deity has killed him; let anyone dare to come near it again!” Upon hearing that, Mugheerah got up and said: “By Allah, people of Thaqeef, it is merely a despicable (statue made of) stone and mud; accept the Will of Allah and worship Him alone.” Then he struck the door and broke it. Then he climbed the effigy and other men ascended with him and they did not cease to demolish it stone by stone until they pulled it down.

The custodian of the idol said: “Its foundation shall be extremely angry and it will convulse the earth beneath them.” When Mugheerah heard that he said to Khalid, “Permit me to excavate its foundation.” He excavated it until he removed all the soil and made it into a heap. Then they returned to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and they distributed its wealth the same day and they gave thanks to Allah for giving glory to His religion and for aiding His Messenger.

The Death of ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy, MayAllah Disfigure Him

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq related on the authority of Usamah Ibn Zaid who narrated: Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went to visit ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy during his illness from which he eventually died. When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saw in him the sign of death, he said: “By Allah, I used to warn you against loving the Jews.”

On the authority of Ibn ‘Umar who narrated that when ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy died, his son ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abdullah came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who gave his shirt to him and ordered him to shroud his father in it. Then he stood up to offer the funeral prayer for the deceased, but ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, took hold of his garment and said: “Would you offer the funeral prayer for him though he was a hypocrite and Allah has forbidden you to ask forgiveness for the hypocrites?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Allah has given me the choice (or Allah has informed me) saying: “Whether you (O Muhammad) ask forgiveness for them (hypocrites) or ask not forgiveness for them ... (and even) if you ask seventy times for their forgiveness ... Allah will not forgive them” (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:80)

Then he added: “I will (appeal to Allah for his sake) more than seventy times.” So Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, offered the funeral prayer for him and we also offered the prayer along with him. Then Allah revealed: “And never (O Muhammad) pray (funeral prayer) for any of them (hypocrites) who dies, nor stand at his grave. Certainly, they disbelieved in Allah and His Messenger”. (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:84)

On the authority of Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, came to the dead body of ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy after it had been placed in his grave. He ordered that he be taken out of the grave) and he was taken out. Then he placed him on his knees and threw some of his saliva on him and clothed him in his (the Prophet’s) own shirt. And Allah (SWT) knows best (why he did so).

A similar narration is recorded in Saheeh Al-Bukhari indicating that he gave him his shirt as compensation as he had given his own shirt to ‘Abbas when he arrived in Madinah because no shirt fit him except that of ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy.

Ibn Ishaq related that the Ghazwah of Tabook was the last battle that was fought by Allah’s Messenger.

9th Year of Hijrah: The Messenger of Allah’s Appointment of Abu Bakr As-Siddiq as the Leader of the Hajj Delegation and the Revelation of Soorah Al-Bara’ah

Ibn Ishaq related that after the deputation of the people of Ta’if, who came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in the month of Ramadan, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, remained in Madinah for the remainder of Ramadan, Shawwal, Dhul-Qa’dah and then he dispatched Abu Bakr as leader of the Hajj delegates in the 9th year to apprise the people of the Hajj rites. Meanwhile, the polytheists remained in their residences and did not hinder access to the House (Ka’bah). Among them were those who had a temporary pact for a period of time with the Muslims. When Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, exited along with the other Muslims who were with him and they had evacuated the House, Allah revealed these first few Verses of Soorah At-Tawbah:

“Freedom from (all) obligations (is declared) from Allah and His Messenger to those of the Mushrikoon, (with whom you made a treaty). So travel freely (O Mushrikoon) for four months (as you will) throughout the land” up to the Verse: “And a declaration from Allah and His Messenger to mankind on the greatest day (the 10th of Dhul-Hijjah - the 12th month of Islamic calendar) that Allah is free from (all) obligations to the Mushrikoon and so is His Messenger. So if you (Mushrikoon) repent, it is better for you, but if you turn away, then know that you cannot escape from the Punishment of Allah. And give tidings (O Muhammad) of a painful torment to those who disbelieve.” (Soorah At-Tawbah 9:3) till the end of the story.

Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, dispatched ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, after Abu Bakr As-Siddiq, may Allah be pleased with him, in order to join him and to undertake the conveyance of AlBara’ah to the polytheists on behalf of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, owing to his blood relationship with him as his cousin.

On the authority of Abu Hurairah who narrated: “Abu Bakr sent me during that Hajj in which he was the leader of the pilgrims along with an announcers whom he sent on the Day of Nahr to announce at Mina: 'No pagan shall perform Hajj after this year, and none shall perform the Tawaf around the Ka‘bah in the state of nudity.' Humaid added: The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib, may Allah be pleased with him, and ordered him to recite Soorah Al- Bara’ah aloud in public. Abu Hurairah added: “So ‘Ali, along with us, recited Bara’ah (loudly) before the people at Mina on the Day of Nahr and announced: 'No pagan shall perform Hajj after this year, and none shall perform the Tawaf around the Ka‘bah in a state of nudity'.”

On the authority of Muharrar Ibn Abi Hurairah reported from his father that: “I was with ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent him. (He said): ‘What were you announcing?’ They replied: ‘We were announcing that none shall enter Paradise except a Believer and none should circumambulate the Ka‘bah while in a state of nudity, and anyone with whom Allah’s Messenger has a pact, the duration of that pact is now four months. When the four months expire, Allah dissociates His Messenger from the polytheists. No polytheist shall be allowed to make pilgrimage to the House after this year.’ I kept announcing till my voice became hoarse.” This chain of narrations is good except that there is an objection concerning the reporter’s statement that: “Anyone with whom Allah’s Messenger has a pact, the duration of that pact is now four months.”

Even though some have adopted this opinion, the more correct position is that: whoever had a pact (with Allah’s Messenger), its deadline was according to the fixed duration, however long it was— even if it spanned beyond four months. However, concerning those pacts whose durations were not determined, then for such was a moratorium of four months. The majority of pacts were those whose duration was less than four months from the beginning of the moratorium, then it was possible to apply the terms of the first category which is that its deadline was according to the fixed duration, however short it was. It is equally possible to say: It is deferred till four months elapsed because they have a greater right than those who did not have any pact at all in the first instance. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Among the Various Events That Took Place in the 9th Year Was the Ghazwah of Tabook in the Month of Rajab

Al-Waqidi related that in Rajab of the same year, Najashi, the ruler of Abyssinia, died and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, announced his death to the people. In Sha‘ban, ‘Umm Kulthoom, the daughter of Allah’s Messenger’s died and Asma’ Bint ‘Umais along with Safiyyah Bint ‘Abdul-Muttalib washed her body . Some, however, claimed that she was washed by a number of Ansari women among whom was Umm ‘Atiyyah.

I say: This is established in the Saheehain.

The 9th year also witnessed the peace treaties concluded with the king of Ailah, the people of Jarba’, Adhruh and the chief of Doumatal-Jandal as explained earlier on appropriate places.

In the same year, "Masjid Ad-Dirar" was built by a group of hypocrites and was soon demolished. It was a clandestine hostile camp. Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, made a proclamation concerning it and it was razed to the ground. In the month of Ramadan of that year, the delegation of Thaqeef arrived and they concluded a peace treaty on behalf of their people and returned to their people with a guarantee. Their chief idol, Allat, was also broken as related earlier. Toward the end of the same year, ‘Abdullah Ibn Ubayy, the patron of the hypocrites died, May Allah curse him. A few months earlier, Mu‘awiyah Ibn Mu‘awiyah Al-Laithi, or Al-Muzani, also died. He was the one on whom Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, offered the funeral prayer, if the story is authentic.

In the same year, Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, led the Muslim pilgrims to Hajj with the permission of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. It (the 9th year) also witnessed the arrival of various Arab delegations. This is why the 9th year is nicknamed the Year of the Delegates.

Emulating Al-Bukhari and others, here we put together a chapter on that.

The Book of Various Delegations that Came to Allah's Messenger

According to Ibn Ishaq, after Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, conquered Makkah and returned from Tabook, and after Thaqeef had embraced Islam and pledged allegiance, Arab delegations came to him from different directions.

Ibn Hisham added that "Abu 'Ubaidah related to me that the event occurred in the 9th year and that it was known as the Year of Delegations. Ibn Ishaq said that the Arab tribes were watching the emerging relationship between Islam and the Quraish for they did not deny that the Quraish were leaders and guides of men, the people of the Sacred Mosque, the pure progeny of Prophet Isma'eel, the son of Ibrahim, and the leaders of the Arabs. In the first place, it was the Quraish who first waged war and opposed the Messenger of Allah. After the Conquest of Makkah, when the Quraish surrendered to Islam and Allah's Messenger, the Arab tribes were convinced that they were in no position to wage war on Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, or demonstrate animosity toward him. Thus, they entered into the religion as Allah stated 'in throngs' coming to him from all directions. Allah says to His Prophet: When comes the Help of Allah (to you, O Muhammad, against your enemies) and the Conquest (of Makkah), And you see that the people enter Allah's religion (Islam) in crowds, glorify the Praises of your Lord, and ask for His Forgiveness. Verily, He is the One Who accepts the repentance and forgives. (Soorah An-Nasr 110:1-3) " Meaning, give praise to Allah for having made your religion triumphant and ask for His Forgiveness. Verily, He is the One Who accepts repentance and forgives.

I say: Muhammad Ibn Ishaq, Al-Waqidi, Al-Bukhari, and Al-Baihaqi have all mentioned that among the delegations were those whose arrival we have already mentioned under the events of the 9th year, or even from the Conquest of Makkah. Allah says: Not equal among you are those who spent and fought before the conquering (of Makkah) (with those among you who did so later). Such are higher in degree than those who spent and fought afterward. But to all, Allah has promised the best (reward). (Soorah Al-Hadeed 57:10)

Earlier we mentioned that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said on the day of the Conquest of Makkah: "There is no Hijrah (i.e. migration) after the Conquest (of Makkah), but Jihad and good intentions remain." Thus, it is incumbent to make a distinction between the earlier delegations at the time of the Conquest among those whose arrival was considered a migration and the latter ones who joined them after the Conquest among those whom Allah has promised the best reward. Nevertheless they (latter ones) cannot be compared to those who preceded them in time, both in reward and excellence.

The Deputation of Muzainah

The first delegation to come and meet Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was from Mudar. They were four hundred delegates from Muzainah arriving in the month of Rajab of the 5th year. Allah's Messenger granted them the status of migration in their locality. He said: “You are Muhajiroon wherever you are so you may return to your properties.” So they returned to their country.

Al-Bukhari, may Allah have Mercy on him, related in the chapter of the delegation of Banu Tameem, on the authority of Imran Ibn Husain who narrated that a delegation from Banu Tameem came to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he said (to them): “Accept the good tidings, Banu Tameem!” They said: “O Allah’s Messenger! You have given us good tidings, so give us (something else).” Signs of displeasure appeared on his face. Then another delegation from Yemen came and he said (to them): “Accept the good tidings, for Banu Tameem refuses to accept them.” They replied, “We have accepted them, O Allah’s Messenger!”

Al-Bukhari also related that ‘Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair informed them that a group of riders belonging to Banu Tameem came to the Prophet. Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, said (to the Prophet): “Appoint Al-Qa‘qa’ Ibn Ma‘bad Ibn Zurarah as (their) leader.” ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, said (to the Prophet): “Appoint Al-Aqra’ Ibn Habis instead.” Thereupon Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, said (to ‘Umar): “You just want to oppose me.” ‘Umar replied: “I did not want to oppose you.” So both of them argued so much that their voices became louder, and then the following Verses were revealed concerning that: O you who believe! Do not put (yourselves) forward before Allah and His Messenger... (till the end of Verse) (Soorah Al- Hujurat 49:1)

Al-Bukhari also related it through more than one route on the authority of Ibn Abi Mulaikah with different wordings. We have mentioned that in the Tafseer in the interpretation of the Verse: O you who believe! Raise not your voices above the voice of the Prophet. (Soorah Al-Hujurat 49:2)

Al-Waqidi has mentioned the reason for their coming. He said: They had declared war on Banu Khuza‘ah and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, dispatched against them Uyainah Ibn Badr at the head of a raiding contingent of fifty men which consisted of neither an Ansari nor a Muhajir. The contingent captured eleven men, ten women and thirty children from them. So their leaders came on account of their prisoners.

It is said that 60 or 70 of them arrived for that reason. Among them were: ‘Utarid, Az-Zibriqan, Qais Ibn Asim, Qais Ibn Al-Harith, Nu‘aim Ibn Sa’d, Al-Aqra’ Ibn Habis, Rabah Ibn Al-Harith and ‘Amr Ibn Al-Ahtam. They entered the mosque when Bilal had given the call for the Zuhr prayer and the people were waiting for the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, to come out to lead them (in prayer). These people, in haste, called him from behind the dwellings, and then the revelation concerning came. Al-Waqidi also mentioned about their orator and poet and that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ordered for each of them 10 Ooqiyyahs except ‘Amr Ibn Al-Ahtam who was given 5 Ooqiyyahs due to his young age. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Ibn Ishaq related that this Divine Revelation came concerning them: Verily! Those who call you from behind the dwellings, most of them have no sense. And if they had patience till you could come out to them, it would have been better for them. And

Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful. (Soorah AlHujurat 49:4,5)

Ibn Jareer related on the authority of Al-Bara' concerning the Verse: Verily! Those who call you from behind the dwellings, that a man came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said: "O Muhammad, O Muhammad! My praise is embellishing and my disparagement is damning." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "That (description is fitting) (only) for Allah, the Exalted." This chain is good and well-connected.

It is related from Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Qatadah in a mursal form and the name of this man has been mentioned from Abu Salamah Ibn 'Abdur Rahman from Al-Aqra' Ibn Habis said that he called Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, saying: "O Muhammad, O Muhammad!" In another narration, he said: "O Messenger of Allah!" But he did not respond to him. Then he said: "O Messenger of Allah, my praise is embellishing and my disparagement is dishonoring." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said: "That (description is fitting) (only for) Allah."

Narration Concerning the Merits of Banu Tameem

Abu Hurairah narrated: "Since I heard three things from Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, my love for Banu Tameem has never declined. I heard Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, say about them that they would put up the strongest resistance against the Dajjal from my Ummah. There was a slave-girl in the house of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) who was from Banu Tameem and Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: ‘Set her free, for she is from the offspring of Isma‘eel.’” The narrator said: When their consignment of Zakah was brought to him, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “This is the charity of our people.” It is related by Muslim.

Delegation of Banu ‘Abdul Qais

After the delegates of Banu Tameem, Al-Bukhari mentions the delegation of Banu ‘Abdul-Qais.

Abu Jamrah narrated: "I said to Ibn ‘Abbas that I have an earthenware containing Nabeedh (i.e. water and dates or grapes) for me, and I drink it while it is sweet. If I drink too much of it while with the people for a long period of time, I get afraid that they may discover it (for I will appear as if I were drunk)." Ibn ‘Abbas said: “A delegation of ‘Abdul Qais came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he said to them: ‘Welcome, O people! You will neither have any disgrace nor will you regret.’ They said: ‘O Allah’s Messenger, there are the Mudar polytheists between you and us, so we cannot come to you except in the sacred months. So please teach us some injunctions to which if we adhere they will cause us to be admitted into Paradise. We will preach that to our people who have remained behind.’ The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: ‘I order you to do four things and forbid you from four things. (I order you) to believe in Allah. Do you know what it is to believe in Allah? It is to testify that none has the right to be worshipped (in truth) except Allah, Alone. I also order you to offer prayers perfectly, to pay the Zakah, and to fast the month of Ramadan and to give the Khums (i.e. one-fifth of the booty) (for Allah's sake). I forbid you from four other things (i.e. the wine that is prepared in) Ad-Dubba', AnNaqeer, Al-Hantam and Al-Muzaffat'."

Al-Wazi' Ibn Zari' narrated: On the authority of Umm Aban, the daughter of Al-Wazi' Ibn Zari', from her grandfather, who was a member of the deputation of 'Abdul Qais, who said: "When we came to Madinah, we raced to be the first to dismount and kiss the hand and foot of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. But Al-Ashajj Al-Mundhir waited until he came to the bundle of his clothes. He put on his two garments and then he went to the Prophet. He said to him: 'You have two characteristics which Allah likes: gentleness and deliberation.' He asked: 'Have I acquired them or has Allah created (them as part of) my nature?' He replied: 'Allah has created (them) in your nature.' He said: 'Praise be to Allah Who has created in my nature two characteristics which Allah and His Messenger like'."

She also narrated that her grandfather Az-Zari' went to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, along with a mentally disabled son of his or his nephew. "My grandfather said: 'When we got to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in Madinah, I said to him: I have with me my son (or my nephew) who is insane, I have brought him to you so that you may supplicate to Allah, the Exalted, for him. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'Bring him to me.' I took him with me to see him while he was on his mount. I removed his journey cloth and adorned him in two nice garments and I held his hands and took him to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. (When we got to him) he said: 'Bring him closer to me and turn his back toward me.' He held his upper and lower garments and began to beat his back until I could see the whiteness of his armpit. He kept saying: 'Come out, O enemy of Allah! Come out, O enemy of Allah!' Then the boy wore a healthy look different from his earlier appearance. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, made him sit in his front and then requested for water. When it was brought, he wiped his face with it and supplicated for him. Consequently, there was no one in the delegation that was preferred to him after the supplication of Allah's Messenger (for him) '."

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, who narrated: The first Jumu'ah prayer which was offered outside of the Mosque of Allah's Messenger took place in the mosque of the tribe of 'Abdul Qais at Juwatha in Bahrain.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Umm Salamah that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, delayed the two Raka'ahs after the Zuhr prayer until after the 'Asr prayer in her house on account of the arrival of the delegation from 'Abdul -Qais.

I say: There is an indication in the words of Ibn 'Abbas which suggest that the arrival of the delegation of 'Abdul Qais occurred before the Conquest of Makkah owing to their statement: "Allah's Messenger, the polytheists of Mudar are between us and you, so we cannot come to you except during the sacred months." And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Story of Thumamah and the Delegation from Banu Haneefah With Musailimah, the Liar, May the Curse of Allah be on Him

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Abu Hurairah who narrated that the Prophet sent some cavalry toward Najd and they brought a man from the tribe of Banu Haneefah who was named Thumamah Ibn Uthal. They fettered him to one of the pillars of the Mosque. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, went to him and said: "What have you got, Thumamah?" He replied: "I have got a good thought, O Muhammad! If you kill me, then you will have killed a person who has already killed somebody; if you were to set me free, you would do a favor to one who is grateful; and if you want property, then ask me for whatever wealth you want." He was left until the next day when the Prophet said to him: "What have you got, Thumamah?" He said: "What I have told you; i.e. if you set me free, you would do a favor to one who is grateful." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, left him until the day after, and he said: "What have you got, Thumamah?" He said: "I have got what I told you." On that the Prophet said: "Release Thumamah."

So, Thumamah went to a garden of date-palm trees near the Mosque, took a bath and then entered the Mosque and said: "I testify that none has the right to be worshipped except Allah, and I also testify that Muhammad is His Messenger! By Allah, O Muhammad, there was no face on the surface of this Earth that was more disliked by me than yours, but now your face has become the most beloved to me. By Allah, there was no religion more disliked by me than yours, but now it is the most beloved religion to me. By Allah, there was no town more disliked by me than your town, but now it is the most beloved town to me. Your cavalry arrested me (at the time) when I was intending to perform 'Umrah. What should I do?" The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave him good tidings (congratulated him) and ordered him to perform 'Umrah. So when he came to Makkah, someone said to him, "You have become a Sabian?" Thumamah replied, "By Allah, I have embraced Islam with Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah. By Allah, not a single grain of wheat will come to you from Yamamah unless the Prophet gives his permission."

Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority Ibn 'Ubaidullah Ibn 'Utbah who narrated: "We were informed that Musailimah Al-Kadhhab (the liar) had arrived in Madinah and stayed in the house of the daughter of Al-Harith. The daughter of Al-Harith Ibn Kuraiz was his wife and she was the mother of 'Abdullah Ibn Amir. There came to him Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, accompanied by Thabit Ibn Qais Ibn Shammah, who was called the orator of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was holding a stick in his hand. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stopped before Musailimah and spoke to him. Musailimah said to him: 'If you wish, we would not interfere between you and the rule, on condition that the rule will be ours after you.' The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'If you were to ask me for this stick, I would not give it to you. I think you are the same person who was shown to me in a dream. And this is Thabit Ibn Qais who will answer you on my behalf.' The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then went away.

"I asked Ibn 'Abbas about the dream Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had mentioned. Ibn 'Abbas said: 'Someone told me that the Prophet said: 'When I was sleeping, I saw in a dream that two gold bangles were put in my hands, which frightened me and made me dislike them. I was allowed to blow on them, and when I blew at them, both of them flew. I interpreted them as two liars who would appear.' One of them was Al-Ansi who was killed by Fairouz in Yemen and the other was Musailimah AlKadhdhab."

Abul-Qasim As-Suhaili said: He was Musailimah Ibn Thumamah Ibn Kabeer Ibn Habeeb Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Abdul-Harith Ibn Hiffan Ibn Dhuhl Ibn AdDool Ibn Haneefah. He was nicknamed Abu Thumamah or Abu Haroon. He also named himself Rahman so he was referred to as Rahman of Yamamah. His age by the time he was killed was 150 years. He knew some magic. He could insert an egg into a small bottle and he was the first person to do that. He would also break the wing of bird and join it together again. He claimed that a deer used to come to him from the mountain and he would milk it.

I say: We shall relate some of his story while discussing his killing.

As-Suhaili and others relate that Ar-Rajjal Ibn Unfuwah, his real name being Nahar Ibn Unfuwah, had accepted Islam and had learned some portions of the Qur'an and accompanied the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, for a while. Once, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, met him while he was sitting along with Abu Hurairah and Furat Ibn Hayyan and he said to them: "The molar of one of you in the Hellfire will be (as big) as Uhud." The latter two individuals never ceased to be afraid till Rajjal apostatized along with Musailimah and acknowledge for him visitors and that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave him a share in the matter along with him. He rendered a portion of what he used to memorize from the Qur'an. Musailimah invited him to himself and the great Fitnah (trial) of Banu Haneefah came to pass. Zaid Ibn Al-Khattab killed him in the battle of Yamamah as shall be related shortly.

As-Suhaili also related that the mu'aththin of Musailimah was a man called Hujair. He was a battle schemer in the presence of Muhakkam Ibn At-Tufail. Sajah, who was nicknamed UmmSadir, also aligned with them and Musailimah married her. There are a couple of licentious stories concerning her. The name of her mu'aththin was Zuhair Ibn 'Amr while some said he was Janabah Ibn Tariq. It is also said that Shibth Ibn Rib'ee also acted in that capacity for her as well but later accepted Islam. She also accepted Islam during the reign of 'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab and she became a very good Muslim.

On the authority of 'Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood who narrated: Ibn An-Nawwahal and Ibn Uthal, two emissaries of Musailimah Al-Kadhdhab came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he said to both of them: "Do you testify that I am a Messenger of Allah?" They both said: "We bear witness that Musailimah is a messenger of Allah." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "I believe in Allah and His Messengers, if I were to kill any messenger I would have killed both of you." 'Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood added: "Thus the practice of not killing messengers continued." 'Abdullah said: "As for Ibn Uthal, Allah has sufficed him. As for An-Nawwahah, he never ceased to dominate my mind until Allah made me overpower him.

Shortly, we shall relate the death of Al-Aswad Al-Ansi toward the end of the life of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the death of Musailimah Al-Kadhdhab during the days of Abu Bakr's Caliphate, and what became of Banu Haneefah.

The Delegation of the People of Najran

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Hudhaifah who narrated: Al-Aqib and Sayyid, the rulers of Najran, came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, with the intention of doing Li'an. One of them said to the other: "Do not do (this Li'an) for, by Allah, if he is a Prophet and we do this Li'an, neither we, nor our offspring after us will be successful." Then both of them said (to the Prophet): "We will give what you ask, but you should send a trustworthy man with us, and do not send any person with us but an honest one." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "I will send an honest man who is truly trustworthy." Every one of the Companions of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, wished to be that person. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Get up, Abu 'Ubaidah Ibn Al-Jarrah." When he got up, Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "This is the trustworthy man of this (Muslim) nation."

Yoonus said: The ruler of Najran was a Christian but became Muslim. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had written to the people of Najran prior to their coming to him:

“In the Name of the God of Ibrahim, Ishaq and Ya‘qoob. From Muhammad, Allah’s Messenger, to the prelate and to the people of Najran; if you accept Islam then I will give praise to the God of Ibrahim, Ishaq and Ya‘qoob. I am inviting you to the worship of Allah away from the worship of slaves; I invite you to the Authority of Allah away from the authority of slaves. However, if you decline, then it is incumbent on you to pay the Jizyah. If you reject, then I warn you of a war.”

When the letter was received by the prelate and he read its contents, he was filled with great fright. He sent for a man from the people of Najran who was known as Shurahbeel Ibn Wada‘ah from Hamdan. Whenever a problem erupted, no one was consulted before him. When he came, the prelate handed him the letter sent by Allah’s Messenger. The prelate said: “Abu Maryam, what is your opinion?” Shurahbeel said: “You are well aware of Allah’s promise to Ibrahim concerning the progeny of Isma‘eel and Prophethood so there is no assurance that this is not the same man (promised). I do not have an opinion in the matter of Prophethood. If it were an issue from the mundane matters I would have preferred an opinion and exerted effort to arrive at a sound judgment for you.” The prelate said to him: “Relax and take a seat.” Shurahbeel sat down close to him and the prelate sent for another person from the people of Najran named ‘Abdullah Ibn Shurahbeel. He read the letter to him and then asked him his opinion and he spoke in a manner similar to what Shurahbeel had said. Again the prelate said to him: “Relax and take a seat,” and he sat close to him. The prelate sent for yet another person from the people of Najran called Jabbar Ibn Faid from Banu Al- Harith Ibn Ka‘b, a member of Banu Al-Himas. Again, he read the letter to him and asked him for an opinion concerning it. Again, the man responded in a similar manner as that of Shurahbeel and ‘Abdullah and the prelate asked him to take a seat, which he did.

When their opinions were heard, and it was established that they all had the same opinion, the prelate asked for a bell and rang it. He raised his hood in the hermitage. This was their manner when they were alarmed in the daytime. Whenever they were alarmed in the night time, they would ring the bell and then kindle a fire in their hermitage. Once the bell was rung and the hood was raised, all the people, from the upper and the lower part of the entire valley up to the distance of a day’s journey for a fast rider, gathered. There were 73 villages and one hundred and twenty fighters. The prelate read the letter of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to them and then requested for their opinion. The intelligent ones among them suggested that they send Shurahbeel Ibn Wada‘ah Al-Hamdani, ‘Abdullah Ibn Shurahbeel Al-Asbahi and Jabbar Ibn Faid Al-Harithi to gather more information about the Messenger of Allah.

So they headed for Madinah. Once they arrived there, they took off their journey clothes and adorned themselves with jewelry and gold rings, and then they proceeded to see the Messenger of Allah. They gave him the greetings but he did not return their greeting. They attempted to engage him in a discussion all day long but he refused to speak with them while they were wearing their jewelry and gold rings. They then went in search of ‘Uthman Ibn ‘Affan and ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn ‘Awf, may Allah be pleased with them, both of whom they had known. They found both of them in the midst of a gathering of the Ansar and the Muhajiroon. They said: “O ‘Uthman and ‘Abdur Rahman, your Prophet wrote to us and we came in response to him but when we went to see him, we gave him the greeting but he did not respond to our greeting; we attempted to speak with him all day but he declined to speak to us. What do you both suggest we do, should we return (back home) ?” ‘Uthman and ‘Abdur Rahman turned to ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, who was also present in the gathering and asked for his opinion concerning the complaint of the delegates. ‘Ali said to them: “I suggest that they take off their jewelry and gold rings, wear their journey clothes and then return to him.”

They did so and they greeted the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and this time he returned their greeting and then said:

“By the One Who sent me with the Truth, they had come to me at first instance while Iblees was with them.” They exchanged questions and they continued in that until they finally asked: “What do you say about ‘Eesa, for we shall return to our people who are Christians? We will be pleased to hear what you have to say concerning him if you are truly a Prophet.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “I do not have anything (to say) concerning him today, but wait until I tell you what Allah will say concerning him.” By the following morning Allah had revealed this Verse:

Verily, the likeness of ‘Eesa (Jesus) before Allah is the likeness of Adam. He created him from dust, then (He) said to him: ‘Be!’ - and he was. (This is) the truth from your Lord, so be not of those who doubt. Then whoever disputes with you concerning him 'Eesa after (all this) knowledge that has come to you, (i.e. 'Eesa) being a slave of Allah, and having no share in Divinity. Say: (O Muhammad) 'Come, let us call our sons and your sons, our women and your women, ourselves and yourselves - then we pray and invoke (sincerely) the Curse of Allah upon those who lie'. (Soorah Aal 'Imran 3:59-61)

However, they failed to acknowledge that.

The following morning they still showed sign of not accepting Allah's Words concerning 'Eesa. The Messenger of Allah came forward, wrapping AlHasan and Al-Husain under his garment while Fatimah was walking behind him, to challenge them to a Mubalahah (a mutual cursing on the liar between two contending individuals or groups). At the time, he had a number of women. Apprehensive of the course of events, Shurahbeel said to his remaining two companions: "You both know well that if you were to merge all of the inhabitants of the upper and lower part of the valley, they will not initiate an action except from my opinion. I swear by Allah, right now, I foresee a grave matter. If this man is truly a Prophet that has been sent and we dare exchange curses with him then not a single hair or nail of us will escape destruction." His two other companions asked: "So what do you suggest, Abu Maryam?" He said: "I suggest that we ask him to decide upon the matter for I see him to be a man who would never exceed the limit in judgment." The other two companions agreed and Shurahbeel went to meet the Messenger of Allah. He said to him: "I opine something better than engaging you in an exchange of curses." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: "What is that?" Shurahbeel replied:

“We leave you to decide on a matter from this day until nightfall and from night till daybreak. Whatever you decide will be acceptable to us.”

Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: “Perhaps, someone will oppose you from those whom you left behind?” Shurahbeel said: “You may ask my two companions.” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked them and they said: “The entire valley does not initiate or reject except by Shurahbeel’s advice.” Thus Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned without engaging them in Mubalah. The following morning he came back and wrote this document for them:

“In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent the Merciful. This is a document written by Muhammad, the unlettered Prophet, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, for (the people of) Najran on condition that they would pay to the Muslims two thousand suits of garments, half in Safar, and the rest in Rajab...”

The sub-narrator related the terms of the agreement in its entirety until he said: “Witnessed by Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb, Ghailan Ibn Amr, Malik Ibn ‘Awf from Bani Nasr, Al-Aqra’ Ibn Habis Al-Hanzali and Al-Mugheerah Ibn Shu‘bah.” They took their document and left for Najran.

The delegates entered Najran and came to the monk Ibn Abi Shamir AzZabeedi in his hermitage and said to him: A Prophet has been raised in Tihamah and they related to him the deputation of Najran to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and that he had challenged them to an exchange of mutual curse and they had declined, Bishr Ibn Mu‘awiyah had gone over to him and had accepted Islam.” The monk said: “Bring me down otherwise I shall throw myself down from this hermitage.” They lowered him, bringing along with him a gift. Then he proceeded to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him,. He stayed with him for a while listening to the Qur’an and then returned to his people. He did not accept, but had promised to return; however, it was not possible for him until Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, died.

The prelate Abul-Harith also came to Allah’s Messenger along with some leaders, deputies and noblemen and they stayed listening to what was being revealed to Allah’s Messenger. Then he (the Prophet) wrote this document for this prelate and the prelates after him:

“In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful. From Muhammad, the Prophet, to the prelate, Abul-Harith, and all the prelates of Najran after him, as well as all the priests, monks and all those under their authority, small or large, all (have been provided the) security of Allah and His Messenger. No prelate, priest, or monk shall be displaced and none of their rights or authorities, which they currently enjoy, shall be denied to them. This is a security of Allah and His Messenger forever as long as they give good advice and behave well and they are not burdened with oppression and not being oppressors.” Mugheerah Ibn Shu‘bah wrote down the document.

The Deputation of Banu ‘Amir and the Story of ‘Amir Ibn At-Tufail and Arbad Ibn Qais, May Allah Curse Them Both

Ibn Ishaq said: Among the delegates of Banu ‘Amir which came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, were ‘Amir Ibn AtTufail, Arbad Ibn Qais and Jaz’ Ibn Khalid Ibn Ja‘afar and Jabbar Ibn Sulma Ibn Malik Ibn Ja‘afar. The three of them were the leaders of their people and the evil ones from among them. Allah’s enemy, ‘Amir, arrived in the presence of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, while intending treachery against him. His people told him: “O Amir, people are already accepting Islam, why don’t you also follow suit?” He said: “I have vowed that I shall not cease until the Arabs follow my heels. Should I then follow this fellow from the Quraish?” He then said to Arbad: “When we get to him, I will divert his attention away from you so that you may smite him with your sword.”

When they got to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ‘Amir said to him: “O Muhammad, take me as a friend.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “By Allah, not until you believe in Allah, Alone.” Again, ‘Amir repeated his request and continued to engage him in discussion while expecting Arbad to do what they had agreed on, but the latter remained still. When ‘Amir saw the inaction of Arbad, he put the same request to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him: “O Muhammad, take me as a friend.” Again the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Not until you believe in Allah, Alone, and not associating any partner with him.” When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, declined insistently, hesaid: “By Allah, I will spread the earth against you with cavalry and infantry.” When he departed, Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, supplicated: “Allah suffice me (i.e. protect me) against ‘Amir Ibn At-Tufail.”

When they left the presence of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, ‘Amir said to Arbad: “Why didn’t you do as I had commanded you? By Allah, there was no man on Earth whom I feared more than you, but, by Allah, I shall never fear you after today.” Arbad said: “Do not be hasty in passing judgment on me. By Allah, each time I made an effort to carry out what you had ordered me, you came in between me and the man in such a way that I could see none but you. Should I then smite you with the sword?”

They continued on their homeward journey. After they had covered part of the distance, Allah sent a plague on ‘Amir which afflicted him on the neck and he died as a result of it in the house of a woman from Banu Salool. He kept saying: “Banu ‘Amir, a boil like the boil of a young camel in the house of a woman from Banu Salool!”

I say: Apparently, the story of ‘Amir Ibn At-Tufail preceded the Conquest of Makkah even though Ibn Ishaq and Al-Baihaqi have both mentioned it after the Conquest. That is owing to Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi’s narration.

On the authority of Anas Ibn Malik came the story of Bi’r Ma’oonah, ‘Amir Ibn At-Tufail’s murder of Haram Ibn Milhan, maternal uncle of Anas Ibn Malik and his treachery against the companions of Bi’r Ma’oonah till they were all slaughtered except ‘Amr Ibn Umayyah.”

Al-Awza'i related that Yahya said: Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, spent thirty days cursing 'Amr Ibn At-Tufail: "Allah suffice (protect) me with whatever You wish against 'Amr Ibn At-Tufail and send to him what will kill him." Then Allah sent upon him a plague.

Ibn Ishaq related: After burying him, his companion returned in winter to the land of Banu 'Amir. When he arrived, the people questioned him about what had happened and he said: "Nothing. By Allah, he invited us to worship someone. I wish he were here now so that I could shoot him with arrows to kill him." After a day or two, he went out to sell his camel when Allah sent a thunderbolt upon him and his camel and they were incinerated.

On the authority of Ibn 'Abbas who said: Then Allah revealed concerning 'Amir and Arbad: Allah knows what every female bears, and by how much the wombs fall short (of their time or number) or exceed. Everything with Him is in (due) proportion. All-Knower of the Unseen and the seen, the Greatest, the Highest. It is the same (to Him) whether any of you conceal his speech or declare it openly, whether he be hid by night or go forth freely by day. For each (person), there are angels in succession, before and behind him. They guard him by the Command of Allah (Soorah Ar-Ra'd 13:8-11) i.e. Muhammad.

Then Allah mentions about Arbad and his death: It is He who shows you the lightning, as a fear (for travelers) and as a hope (for those who wait for rain). And it is He Who brings up (or originates) the clouds, heavy (with water). And Ar- Ra'd (thunder) glorifies and praises Him, and so do the angels because of His Awe, He sends the thunderbolts, and therewith He strikes whom He wills, yet they (disbelievers) dispute about Allah. And He is Mighty in strength and Severe in punishment. (Soorah Ar-Ra'd 13:11-13)

The Arrival of Dimam Ibn Tha'labah to Allah's Messenger as a Delegate of His People, Banu Sa'd Ibn Bakr

On the authority of Anas Ibn Malik who narrated: "We were forbidden from asking Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, (too many) questions and we would be delighted when an intelligent Bedouin came to ask him questions while we listened. Once a Bedouin came and asked: 'O Muhammad, your envoy came to us and informed us that you claim that you have been sent by Allah.'" The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "He has spoken the truth." The Bedouin said: "Who created the heavens?" The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied: "Allah." The Bedouin asked: "Who created the Earth." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, again said: "Allah." He again asked: "Who erected this mountain and created in it whatever He has created?" Again the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, answered: "Allah." The Bedouin said: "I ask you by Allah, the One Who created the heavens and the Earth, and Who erected the mountain, is it Allah Who has sent you?" "Yes," the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, answered.

The Bedouin further said: "Your envoy also claims that five salawaat are obligatory on us day and night." "He has spoken the truth," the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied. "Is it Allah who has commanded you this?" the man asked and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied in the affirmative. The Bedouin also asked: "Your envoy also states that we are obliged to pay Zakah from our wealth." Again the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "He has spoken the truth." "Is it Allah who has commanded you this?" the man asked and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, again replied in the affirmative. Again the Bedouin said: "Your envoy also says that fasting in the month of Ramadan is obligatory on us every year." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "He has spoken the truth." The man then said: "(I ask you) by Him Who has sent you, is it Allah Who has commanded you this?" The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Yes." The Bedouin said: "Your envoy also says that upon us is the obligation of Hajj to the House for he who is able and finds the way to it." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "He has spoken the truth." Then he turned to go and said: "By Him Who has sent you with the Truth, I shall neither increase this nor decrease it whatsoever." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, then said: "If he is truthful (to his vow), he shall enter Paradise." This Hadith is recorded in the Saheehain and other books.

The Arrival of the Delegation of Tayy' Along With Zaid Al-Khail

Ibn Ishaq related about the delegation of Tayy' which included Zaid Al-Khail who was their leader. When they reached Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, they had a discussion with him and he presented Islam to them, which they accepted and became good Muslims. As related to me by an impeccable source from the people of Tayy', Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to them: "The Arabs are never exact at estimating people. They have never told me about the virtues of a man correctly; for when I see the man concerned I realize that they have overestimated him except Zaid Al-Khail, when I met him I knew that they had underestimated him." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, nicknamed him Zaid Al-Khair and apportioned to him Fa'id and two other pieces of land with it and wrote a document for him concerning that.

He left the presence of Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to return to his people. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "If Zaid survives the fever of Madinah, then he would not (be blemished)." Ibn Ishaq added: When he got to a part of the territory of Najd by one of its oases called Fardah, he was gripped by fever and he died there. When he felt the pangs of death, he said:

Are my people departing toward the East in the early morning?
While I am left alone in house by (the spring of) Fardah at Najd
How many days have gone by when I took ill and I was visited by the visitors

Whoever (from them) is not righteous will toil.

When he died, his wife, due to her ignorance, paucity of intelligence and piety she burned the document written for him by Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

I say: It is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of Abu Sa'eed that 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib sent to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, from Yemen some gold alloyed with clay in a leather bag dyed in the leaves of Mimosa. He distributed it among four men: Zaid Al-Khail, 'Alqama Ibn Ulathah, Aqra' Ibn Habis and 'Uyainah Ibn Badr.

The Story of Adiyy Ibn Hatim At-Tayy'

Al-Bukhari related in the Saheeh the delegation of Tayy' and the Hadith of Adiyy Ibn Hatim: On the authority of Adiyy Ibn Hatim who narrated: "We came to 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, in a delegation (during his rule). He started calling the men one by one, calling each by his name. (As he did not call me early) I said to him: 'Do you not recognize me, O Commander of the Believers?' He said: 'Yes, you embraced Islam when they (i.e. your people) disbelieved; you came (to the Truth) when they ran away; you fulfilled your promises when they broke theirs; and you recognized it (i.e. the Truth of Islam) when they denied it.' On that, Adiyy said: 'From now on I do not care (what happens to me) '."

Ibn Ishaq related that as for Adiyy Ibn Hatim, he used to say as related to me: "No Arab detested the Messenger of Allah when he first knew him as I did. I was a Christian leader of noble birth, and I used to take a quarter of my people's spoils. I was religious and my people treated me like a king. On hearing about the Prophet, I hated him and said to an Arab servant of mine who was taking care of my camels: 'Choose some well-trained, well-fed camels, to be near me, and once you hear of Muhammad's army conquering this land, then give me a signal.' One morning he came to me and said, 'Whatever you had intended to do when the army of Muhammad comes, you had better do it now for I have seen flags and I asked about them and I was told that it was Muhammad's army.' I ordered him to get my camels and made my family ride them and set forth to join the Christians of Syria. I went as far as Al-Jaooshiyyah. Meanwhile, I left one of Hatim's daughters behind. When I arrived in Syria, I settled there.

“Some of the cavalry of the Messenger of Allah followed me and took captives from Tayy’ among whom was Hatim’s daughter, who was brought to the Prophet. The Messenger of Allah was aware of my flight to Syria. When he passed by Hatim’s daughter, who was imprisoned along with the other captives in an enclosure by the gate of the Mosque, she went to him, for she was a courteous woman. She said, ‘O Messenger of Allah, my father is dead and the one who should replace him has fled, so be kind to me, may Allah be kind to you.’ He asked her about the man who should look after her, and she told him it was Adiyy Ibn Hatim. He said: ‘The one who has escaped from Allah and His Messenger?’ Then he went out.

“The next day, they exchanged a similar conversation but on the third day, she lost hope. A man behind him waved to her to talk to him (again). She repeated the same words: ‘O Messenger of Allah, my father is dead and the one who should replace him has fled, so be kind to me, may Allah be kind to you.’ He answered: ‘I have done so, but do not be hasty in leaving until you find a person from your own people whom you trust to take you home, and then let me know.’ She asked about the name of the man who had motioned to her to talk and was informed that it was ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib. She remained there until a caravan arrived from Baliy or Quda’ah. All that she wished for was to join her brother in Syria. When she went to inform Allah’s Messenger that she had found a reliable, well-reputed man from her people, he provided her with clothing and a mount and gave her provisions. Then she left with them until she reached Syria.”

Adiyy further narrated: “While sitting in the midst of my people, I saw a howdah coming toward us, so I exclaimed: ‘Hatim’s daughter?’ and so it was. She came to me and started to blame me saying: ‘You are irresponsible and unjust. You took away your family and children and abandoned your father’s daughter.’ I said: ‘Do not say but good, little sister, for, by Allah, I have no excuse, I am guilty of all that you have said.’ Then she dismounted and stayed with me. She was a discerning woman so I asked her about her opinion of this man. She said: ‘I think you should join him immediately, for if the man is a Prophet, then he will be bountiful to those who will come to him first, and if he is a king, you will not be humiliated in the glory of Yemen, especially with your high position.’

“I was convinced by her argument, so I set out to meet the Messenger of Allah and I found him in his Mosque in Madinah. I greeted him, and he asked: ‘Who is this?’ I introduced myself and he got up to take me to his house. On our way, an old feeble woman stopped him and they had a long discussion concerning her needs. I said to myself: ‘By Allah, this is not a king.’ On reaching his house, he took a leather cushion stuffed with palm leaves and passed it to me saying: ‘Sit on this.’ I said: ‘Rather, you sit on it.’

‘No, you sit,’ he insisted. So I sat on it while he sat on the ground. I said to myself: ‘By Allah, this can never be the behavior of a king.’ Then he said: ‘Adiyy Ibn Hatim, are you not a Rakoosi?’ I responded saying: ‘Yes.’ He said: ‘Yet it is not allowed for you in your religion.’ ‘Undoubtedly, by Allah,’ I said. Immediately, I became convinced that he was a Prophet who has been truly sent by Allah. He knew what was not generally known. Then he said: ‘Perhaps what prevents you from entering this religion is the indigence in which they are, but, by Allah, money will soon flow so profusely among them that there will not be (enough) people to take it. Perhaps what restrains you from embracing it is that you see their enemy is great in number while they are few! However, by Allah, you will soon hear that a woman will have traveled on her camel from Al-Qadisiyyah to visit this House (Ka‘bah) without fear. Perhaps what restrains you from embracing it is that you see that the others have the dominion and power, but, by Allah, you will soon hear that the white palaces of Babylon will have been opened to them.’ Then I accepted Islam.”

Adiyy said: “Two of the three prophecies of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, have taken place and the third will surely happen. I saw the white palaces of Babylon laid open and I saw women unafraid of coming alone from Qadisiyyah to make pilgrimage to this House. And, by Allah, the third will happen when the money will flow until there will not be enough people to take it.” This is how Ibn Ishaq, may Allah have Mercy on him, quoted it in these words without a chain of narrations. It has corroborations through other narrations.

Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of Adiyy Ibn Hatim who narrated: "While I was with the Prophet, a man came and complained to him of destitution and poverty. Then another man came and complained of robbery (by highwaymen). The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “Adiyy! Have you visited Al-Heerah?” I said: “I have not been to it, but I was informed about it.” He said: “If you should live long enough, you will certainly see that a lady in a howdah traveling from Al-Heerah will (safely reach Makkah and) perform the Tawaf of Ka‘bah, fearing none but Allah.” I said to myself: “What will happen to the robbers of the tribe of Tayy’ who have spread evil throughout the country?” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, further said: “If you live long enough, the treasures of Kisra will be opened (and taken as booty).” I asked: “You mean Kisra, the son of Hurmuz?” He said: “Kisra, the son of Hurmuz; and if you should live long enough, you will see that one will carry a handful of gold or silver and go out looking for a person to accept it from him, but will find none to accept it from him. Any of you, when meeting Allah, will meet Him without needing an interpreter between him and Allah, and Allah will say to him: ‘Did I not send a messenger to teach you?’ He will say: ‘Yes.’ Allah will say: ‘Did I not give you wealth and give you favors?’ He will say: ‘Yes.’ Then he will look to his right and see nothing but Hell, and look to his left and see nothing but Hell.”

Adiyy further said: I heard the Prophet say, “Save yourself from the (Hell) Fire even with half a date (to be given in charity) and if you do not find a half date, then with a good pleasant word.” Adiyy added: “ (Later on), I saw a lady in a howdah traveling from Kufah till she performed the Tawaf of Ka‘bah, fearing none but Allah. And I was one of those who opened (conquered) the treasures of Kisra, son of Hurmuz. If you should live long, you will see what Prophet Abul-Qasim had said.”

The Story of Daws and At-Tufail Ibn ‘Amr

On the authority of Abu Hurairah who narrated: At-Tufail Ibn ‘Amr came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and said, “O Allah’s Messenger! The tribe of Daws has disobeyed (Allah and His Messenger) and refused (to embrace Islam), so invoke Allah’s wrath on them.” The people thought that the Messenger would invoke Allah's wrath on them, but he said: "O Allah! Guide the tribe of Daws and bring them (to us)." Al-Bukhari related it exclusively with these wordings from Qais on the authority of Abu Hurairah who narrated: When I was coming to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, I said on the way, "Oh what a long, tedious and tiresome night; nevertheless, it has rescued me from the place of heathenism." A slave-boy of mine ran away. When I reached the Prophet I gave him the oath of allegiance (for Islam), and while I was sitting with him, suddenly the slave-boy appeared. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to me: "Abu Hurairah! Here is your slave." I said: "He is (free) for Allah's sake," and I manumitted him.

This is what Al-Bukhari related concerning the arrival of At-Tufail Ibn 'Amr which was probably before the Hijrah and if his arrival occurred after the Hijrah, then it occurred before the Conquest because the Daws arrived along with Abu Hurairah, and Abu Hurairah's arrival coincided with the time Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, besieging Khaibar. Abu Hurairah set out until he came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, at Khaibar after the Conquest and he gave to them some of the booty.

The Arrival of Al-Ash'aris and the People of Yemen

On the authority of Abu Hurairah who narrated that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "There has come to you the people from Yemen; they have tender heart and mild feelings, faith is Yemeni, wisdom is Yemeni. Pride and conceitedness is (found) among the uncivil owners of the camels.

Tranquility and calmness is (found) among the owners of goats and sheep.” It is related by Muslim.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of ‘Imran Ibn Husain who narrated: A delegation from Banu Tameem came to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and he said (to them): “Accept the good tidings, Banu Tameem!” They said: “O Allah’s Messenger! You have given us good tidings, so give us (something else).” Signs of displeasure appeared on his face. Then another delegation from Yemen came and he said (to them): “Accept the good tidings; as Banu Tameem refuses to accept them.” They replied: “We have accepted them, O Allah’s Messenger!” At- Tirmidhi and An-Nasa’i have also related it.

All this points to the merit of the delegation of the people of Yemen and there is no contradiction concerning the time of their arrival and the arrival of Banu Tameem even though their arrival was later; it does not suppose that their arrival coincided with that of the Ash‘aris. Rather, the Ash‘aris preceded their delegation, for they came in the company of Abu Moosa Al-Ash‘ari, in the company of Ja‘afar Ibn Abi Talib, and his companions among the Emigrants who were in Abyssinia. All of that occurred at a time when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was engaged in the Battle of Khaibar.

The Story of Oman and Bahrain

On the authority of Jabir who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “I will give you this much (the Prophet pointed thrice with his hands) when the funds of Bahrain will come to me.” But the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, died before the money reached him. (When it came) Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, ordered a Companion to announce that whoever had a money claim on the Prophet or was promised to be given something, should come to Abu Bakr. I went to Abu Bakr and told him that the Prophet had promised to give me so much. On that, Abu Bakr gave me three handfuls (of money).” Another time he said: “I came to Abu Bakr and I asked him, but he did not give me, then I asked him once again but he did not give me. I came back to him for the third time and said to him: ‘I asked you (the first time) but you did not give me. I came again and asked you but you still did not give me. Now I ask you (a third time) and yet you still do not give me. So you should either give me or else you are miserly to me.’ On that, Abu Bakr said: ‘Do you say that I am miserly? There is no worse disease than miserliness.’ Abu Bakr added: ‘Whenever I had refused to give you, I had the intention of giving you.’” (In another narration) Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah said: “ (I went to Abu Bakr) and he gave me a handful of money and told me to count it, I counted and found it five hundred, and then Abu Bakr said (to me): ‘Take the same amount twice more!’”

The Arrival of Farwah Ibn Musaik Al-Muradi

Ibn Ishaq related that Farwah Ibn Musaik Al-Muradi went to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, leaving the kings of Kindah. Just before the advent of Islam, a battle called Ar-Radm had taken place between Murad and Hamdan in which Murad lost many of its men. The leader of Hamdan in the battle was Al-Ajda’ Ibn Malik.

Ibn Ishaq added that when Farwah headed toward Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, abandoning the kings of Kindah he said: “When I saw the kings of Kindah appearing like the infracted limb, with my camel, I approached, betaking myself to Muhammad in quest of his generosity and fortune.”

When Farwah came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, he asked him: “Farwah, are you distressed at what had happened to your people at the Battle of Ar-Radm?” He replied: “Allah’s Messenger, who would not feel upset when his people suffer a similar defeat as the one my people suffered?” The Messenger of Allah said: “Nevertheless, in Islam, your people will not record an increase except in goodness.” Then he appointed him over all of Murad, Zubaid and Madhhij and sent with him Khalid Ibn Sa’eed Ibn Al-‘As to collect the alms. Khalid remained with him until the death of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

The Arrival of ‘Amr Ibn Ma‘dekarib Among a Group From Zubaid

When the news of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, reached him, ‘Amr Ibn Ma‘dekarib said to Qais Ibn Makshooh AlMuradi: “O Qais, you are the leader of your people. It has reached us that a man from Quraish named Muhammad from the Hejaz claims to be a Prophet, so take us to him in order to find out the truth. If he is truly a Prophet as he claims, you can know and then we will follow him. In case he is not, then we will know.” Qais declined his proposal and castigated his opinion. Thereupon, ‘Amr headed for the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and embraced Islam, acknowledged his truthfulness and believed in Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.

When Qais Ibn Makshooh heard this, he got angry and threatened ‘Amr. He said: “You opposed me and went against my order and opinion!”

Ibn Ishaq added that ‘Amr remained with his people from Banu Zubaid while Farwah Ibn Musaik ruled them. When Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, died, ‘Amr Ibn Ma‘dekarib apostatized along with others and lampooned Farwah Ibn Musaik saying:

We found the reign of Fawah a worse one

(like) an ass whose nostril has been destroyed by perforation

Whenever you saw Aba Umair

You would have seen the placenta of slyness and treachery

I say: He later returned to Islam and became a good Muslim. He participated in numerous conquests, many of them during the reigns of As-Siddiq (Abu Bakr) and ‘Umar Al-Farooq, may Allah be pleased with them both. He was one of those whose bravery was notable and one of the popular heroes and one of the most skillful poets. He died in 21 A.H. after he had witnessed the Battle of Nahawand. It is also claimed that he witnessed the Battle of Qadisiyyah in which he was killed.

Abu ‘Amr Ibn Abd Barr said: His deputation to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, took place in the 9th year (of Hijrah) and some said in the 10th year based on what was mentioned by Ibn Ishaq and AlWaqidi. There is an indication of that too in the statement of Ash-Shafi‘i. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Arrival of Ash‘ath Ibn Qais Among the Delegation of Kindah

Ibn Ishaq related that Ash‘ath Ibn Qais came to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, among the delegation of Kindah. AzZuhri informed me that he was one of 80 riders from Kindah. They met Allah’s Messenger in the Mosque. They had combed their hair and lined their eyelids with kohl. They were dressed in striped Yemeni garments hemmed with silk. When they met the Prophet, he asked them: “Have you accepted Islam?” They replied in the affirmative and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, further asked: “So why do have this silk on your necks?” Immediately, they tore it and threw it away. Then Ash‘ath Ibn Qais said to him: “O Allah’s Messenger, we are children of the eaters of bitter herbs just like you are.” The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, smiled and said: “This is related to ‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib and Rabee‘ah Ibn Harith. They were both merchants and whenever they moved around among the Arabs they would be asked: ‘From where are you?’ They would reply: ‘We are children of the eaters of bitter herbs’ that is attributing themselves to Kindah so that they may be loved in that land for Kindah. I believed the Quraish were from them because of the saying of ‘Abbas and Rabee‘ah. And that was Al-Harith Ibn ‘Amr Ibn Hujr Ibn ‘Amr Ibn Mu‘awiyah Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Mu‘awiyah Ibn Thawr Ibn Murti’ Ibn Mu‘awiyah Ibn Kindi and he was called Ibn Kindah.” Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to them: “We are children of An-Nadr Ibn Kinanah. We do not follow our maternal lineage denying our father’s.” Then Ash‘ath Ibn Qais said to them: “Have you finished, people of Kindah? By Allah, if I hear a man say it again, I will give him 80 strokes.”

This Hadith has been related in a connected form through another chain on the authority of Ash‘ath Ibn Qais who narrated: I came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, among the delegation of Kindah and he asked me: “Do you have any child?” I said: “(Yes) only a son was delivered to me from one of the daughter of Jamd on my departure to you even though I would have preferred a large quantity that would satisfy the people.” He said: “Do not say that for in them is a coolness of the eyes and reward if they die. If you were to say that they are source of sorrow then they will eventually turn out to be one.” Ahmad related this exclusively and it is a hasan Hadith with a good chain of narrators.

The Arrival of A‘sha of Banu Mazin

O leader of men and the judge of the Arabs
To you I complain concerning a licentious (woman)
Like a female ash-colored wolf in the shadow of a herd
I went out seeking for her food in Rajab
She repaid me with discord and abscondment
She reneged on her promise clinging on to the sin
She maligned me during a mixed epoch
They (women) are the worst conquerors for the one who has been conquered

At this point, the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, also said: “They (women) are the worst conquerors for the one who has been conquered.” He then complained about his wife, her treatment of him, and that she was with a man from his tribe named Mutarrif Ibn Nahshal. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, wrote a letter to Mutarrif saying: “Check this man’s wife, Mu’adhah, and restore her to him.” A’sha brought the Prophet’s letter and read it to him. Upon receiving the Prophet’s letter, Mutarrif said to the woman: “Mu’adhah, here is the Prophet’s letter concerning you so I am restoring you back to him.” She said: “Take from him, on my behalf, a promise, a covenant and the immunity of his Prophet that he will not punish me for what I have done.” Mutarrif did so and then returned her to him.

The Arrival of Surad Ibn ‘Abdullah Al-Azdi and Then the Deputation of Ahl Jurash

Ibn Ishaq related that Surad Ibn ‘Abdullah Al-Azdi came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, among the delegation from Al-Azd. He accepted Islam and turned out to be a good Muslim. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, appointed him as the leader of the Muslims among his people and commanded him to fight the neighboring polytheists from the tribes of Yemen. To comply with the Prophet’s order, Surad marched out and besieged Jurash in which were some Yemeni tribes along with Khath‘am, who had also joined them to seek refuge when he heard of the approaching Muslim army. Surad besieged them for close to a month without gaining access to the fort. Consequently, he retreated as far as a mountain known as Shakar. The people of Jurash thought that he had retreated from them in defeat so they went in pursuit. Surad turned on them and killed them in large numbers.

Meanwhile, the people of Jurash had sent two of their men to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, in Madinah. They stayed with the Prophet until after the ‘Asr prayer. He asked them: “Which part of Allah’s land is Shakar located?” The two emissaries got up and said: “Messenger of Allah, there is a mountain in our land known as Kashar.” So it was called by the people of Jurash. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “It is not Kashar; rather, it is Shakar.” They asked: “Then what is happening to it now?” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, replied: “Sacrificial camels of Allah are being slaughtered by it right now.”

The two men sat close to Abu Bakr or ‘Uthman, who said: “Woe to you! Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, has just announced to you the defeat of your people, so get up and ask him to supplicate to Allah to save them.” They did as they were told and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, supplicated: “O Allah lift from them (their defeat).” Afterward, they returned home and found that their people were beaten at the same time the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, informed them of the incident. Subsequently, the delegates of the Jurash came with the remaining people of their town to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and accepted Islam and became good Muslims. He delineated for them a special sanctuary around their town.

The Arrival of the Envoy of the King of Himyar

Al-Waqidi said: That occurred in Ramadan of the 9th year.

On his return from the expedition of Tabook, an envoy brought a letter to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, from the kings of Himyar announcing their conversion to Islam. The kings were: Al-Harith Ibn Abd Kulal, Nu‘aim Ibn Abd Kulal and Nu‘man, the chieftain of Dhu Ru‘ain, Ma‘afir and Hamdan. Zur‘ah Dhu Yazan dispatched Malik Ibn Murrah Ar-Rahawiyy with a message declaring their acceptance of Islam and their estrangement from polytheism and polytheists. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent them the following letter in response:

“In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful. (This is a letter) from Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah, the Prophet, to Al-Harith Ibn Abd Kulal, Nu‘aim Ibn Abd Kulal and Nu‘man, the chieftain of Dhu Ru‘ain, Ma‘afir and Hamdan. I praise Allah beside Whom there is no god. Your envoy came to us as we were coming back from the Roman land. On meeting us in Madinah, he conveyed to us your letter informing us of your acceptance of Islam and your killing of the polytheists. Surely, Allah has guided you with His Guidance as long as you work with righteousness, obey Allah and His Messenger, perform prayers, pay Zakah and give out from war booty one-fifth for Allah, the share of the Prophet as well as what he selects for himself (from the booty).

"The obligatory alms on the believers are (to be given out as follows): from the land, a tithe of what is watered by wells and rain, and half of a tithe of what is watered by buckets; a young she-camel is to be given out for every forty camels; a young male camel for every thirty camels; a sheep for every five camels; two sheep for every ten camels; a cow for every forty cows; a young bull which has completed one or two years of age, or a young cow, which completed two years of age; and a sheep for every forty sheep at pasture. This is what Allah has obligated on the believers concerning alms. He who gives more (than this out of his own) goodness, it is good for him, and he who performs this, declares his (acceptance of) Islam; and whoever supports the believers against the polytheists is one of the believers; he shares with them the same rights and obligations and he has a guarantee of protection from Allah and His Messenger.

"If a Jew or Christian accepts Islam, then he belongs to the (fold of the) Muslims. He shares with them the same rights and obligations. He who persists upon his religion, whether Judaism or Christianity, not converting (to Islam), shall not be compelled to abandon it but must pay the Jizyah: for every adult, male or female, free or slave, one full Dinar calculated on the valuation of Ma'afir or its equivalent in clothes. He who pays that to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, shall have a guarantee of protection from Allah and His Messenger.

"The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, Muhammad, has sent to Zur'ah Dhu Yazan: When my envoys arrive to you, I command them to your good offices. These are Mu'adh Ibn Jabal, 'Abdullah Ibn Zaid, Malik Ibn Ubadah, Uqbah Ibn Namir and Malik Ibn Murrah and their companions. Collect the Zakah and Jizyah that is due from your territories and deliver them to my envoys whose leader is Mu'adh Ibn Jabal, and let him not return unless he is satisfied.

"Muhammad testifies that there is no god but Allah and that he is His slave and His Messenger. Malik Ibn Murrah Ar- Rahawi has recounted to me that you were from among the first Himyar to accept Islam and have slain the polytheists, so be happy. I order you to treat Himyar well, and not to betray or forsake one another, for the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, is the patron of both your poor and rich. The alms are not lawful to Muhammad or his household, they are a Zakah which is to be given to the poor Muslims and the wayfarers.

"Malik has also delivered the news and preserved what is confidential and I command you to treat him well. I have dispatched to you some of the best people, both in religion and in knowledge, and I order you to treat them well, for they must be respected. Peace and Allah's mercy and blessings be on you."

The Arrival of Jareer Ibn 'Abdullah Al- Bajali and His Acceptance of Islam

Imam Ahmad related from Al-Mugheerah Ibn Shibl who narrated that Jareer said: "When I came near Madinah, I tethered my camel and made it kneel down, unpacked by leather bag and I put on my clothes. Afterward, I entered the Mosque where the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was addressing the people. The people cast their gaze upon me, so I asked the person next to me: "Did Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, mention anything about me?" The man said: "Yes, he mentioned about you in the best form of description; while he was delivering his sermon, he said: 'Verily, the best of the people of Yemen will enter upon you through this opening and on his face will be the radiance of an angel.'" Thereupon, I praised Allah. Abu Qatan said: Then I said to him: "Did you hear this from him or from Mugheerah Ibn Shibl?" He said: "Yes."

When he accepted Islam the Prophet dispatched him to Dhul-Khalasah (the idol-house) which was venerated by Khath'am and Bajeelah. They referred to it as the Ka'bah of Yemen. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to him: "Will you not relieve me of Dhul-Khalasah?" Thereupon, he complained to the Prophet of his inability to sit firmly on a horse. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stroked him on the chest with his noble hand in such a way that it left a mark, and he supplicated: “O Allah! Make him firm and make him a guiding and rightly guided man.”

Subsequently, he never fell from the back of a horse. He proceeded with one hundred and fifty cavalry men from his tribe, Ahmas, and they demolished and razed that idol-house in such a way that it remained like a mangy camel. Then he sent a bearer for the good news, who was known as Abu Artat. He gave the Prophet the news of their accomplishment. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, prayed for Allah’s blessings on the horses and men of Ahmas five times. The Hadith is related extensively in the Saheehain and other places.

Apparently, Jareer’s acceptance of Islam occurred much later after the Conquest. On the authority of Jareer Ibn ‘Abdullah Al-Bajali who narrated: “I accepted Islam after Soorah Al-Ma’idah had been revealed. I saw Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, wipe (his feet) after I had accepted Islam.” Ahmad related exclusively with a good chain albeit it is broken between Mujahid and himself.

The Arrival of Wa’il Ibn Hujr Ibn Rabee‘ah Ibn Wa’il Ibn Ya‘mar Al-Hadrami, Abu Hunaid and One of the Yemeni Kings

Abu ‘Umar Ibn ‘Abdul Barr related that he was one of the chieftains of Hadramawt and his father was their king. It is also said that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, gave the tidings of his coming to his Companions even before his arrival. He said: “The remaining children of kings will (soon) come to you.” When he eventually arrived, Allah’s

Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, welcomed and drew him close to himself. He brought his seat close to him and spread his garment for him and he supplicated: “Allah bless Wa’il, his children and grandchildren.”

Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, appointed him the head of all the chieftains of Hadramawt and wrote three documents for him. One to Al-Muhajir Ibn Abu Umayyah and the other two to the chieftains and Al-Abahilah. He earmarked for him a portion of land and sent along with him Mu’awiyah Ibn Abi Sufyan. He set out in his company but soon complained to him of the scorching heat (of the desert). Wa’il said to him: “Travel in the shade of the camel.” He said: “What use would that be for me? Perhaps you should let me ride behind you.” Wa’il snapped at him: “Keep quiet! I am not from the kings that tolerate co-riders.”

Wa’il Ibn Hujr lived until he visited Mu’awiyah while he was the chief of Muslims. Mu’awiyah recognized him and welcomed him warmly. He also drew him close to himself and he reminded him of the Hadith. He also awarded him two years bonus but Wa’il declined and said: “Give it to someone who is more in need of it than me.” Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi related it in part and he indicated that al-Bukhari related some of it in his book of history.

The Arrival of Laqet Ibn Amir Ibn Al-Muntafiq, Abu Razeen Al-Uqaili

On the authority of ‘Asim Ibn Laqet who narrated that Laqet went as a delegate to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, along with a companion of his known as Naheek Ibn ‘Asim Ibn Malik Ibn AlMuntafiq. Laqet said: “I set out along with my companion until we came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, toward the end of Rajab, and met him when he had just concluded the early morning prayer."

The Deputation of Ziyad Ibn Al-Harith As-Suda'i

On the authority of Ziyad Ibn Al-Harith As-Suda'i who narrated: "I came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and I gave him the pledge of Islam. I informed him that he had dispatched an army to fight my people so I said to him: 'Allah's Messenger, bring back the army and I give you the promise of my people's acceptance of Islam and their obedience.' So he said to me: 'Go and bring them back.' I said: 'O Messenger of Allah, my camel is exhausted.' Then Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, dispatched someone to bring them back. As-Suda'i added: 'I sent a letter (to my people) and their delegation came to declare their acceptance of Islam.' Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to me: 'Brother Suda' you are indeed (someone who is) obeyed among your people. I said: 'Rather, it is Allah who has guided them to Islam.'" The Messenger of Allah said: 'Should I appoint you as their leader?' I said: 'Yes, O Messenger of Allah.' Then he wrote a document appointing me as the leader. I said: 'O Messenger of Allah, order for me something from their alms.' The Prophet agreed and he wrote yet another document for me (concerning that)."

As-Suda'i added: This occurred during one of his journeys and Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, alighted at a place and its inhabitants came to complain about their representative. They said: "He is punishing us for a quarrel between us and his people during the period of ignorance." The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked: "He did that?" and they replied in the affirmative. The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, turned toward his Companions while I was among them and said: "There is no good in the position of authority for a believing Muslim." As-Suda'i said: "That (statement) settled in my heart."

Someone else came to him and asked: "O Messenger of Allah, give me something." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Whoever begs from the people while he is rich, it will be a headache and a stomachache (for him)." The man then said: "Then give me from the Zakah." Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Allah does not permit Zakah (for anyone) by the ruling a Prophet or other than him until He Himself gives His ruling on it. He has apportioned Zakah into eight categories, if you fall into any of the categories then I shall give you." As-Suda'i added: "That also sank into my heart given that I am rich and yet I had asked him from the Zakah."

Thereafter, the Messenger felt thirsty in the first part of the night, I remained with him nearby, but all his Companions had left him with no one remaining other than myself. When it was time for Salat As-Subh he ordered me to call the prayer and I complied. I kept asking him: "O Messenger of Allah, may I announce the Iqamah?" and he would say: "No," until the dawn appeared and he alighted and lined up. Then he came to me, passing through his Companions and said to me: "Brother of Suda'a, do you have any water (left)?" I said: "No, except a very small quantity which will not be sufficient for you." He said: "Pour it into a bowl and bring it to me.” I did as he ordered and he dipped his hand into the water and I saw water gushing out from between his fingers.

He said: “Were it not that I am shy of my Lord, the Exalted, I would have quenched our thirst and give us drink. Call those who have a need for water among my Companions.” I made the call to them and those who wanted took some of the water and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, stood up to pray. Bilal wanted to announce the Iqamah but Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to him: “It was the man of Suda’a who made the call (Adhan) and he who gave the Adhan should announce the Iqamah.” As-Suda’i said: “So I announced the Iqamah.”

When the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, concluded the Salat, I went to him with the two documents (he had written for me) and I said: “Relieve me of these two (documents).” He asked: “What is the matter with you?” I said: “Messenger of Allah, I heard you say: ‘There is no good in the position of authority for a believing Muslim,’ and I believe in Allah and in His Messenger. I also heard you say: ‘Whoever begs from people while he is rich, it will be a headache and stomachache (for him),’ and I am rich.” The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: “That is the case but if you wish you can take it or otherwise you can return it.” I said: “I return (them).” Then Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to me: “Then direct me to someone I may appoint as your leader.” So I directed him to a man among the delegation that came to him and he appointed him as the leader.

"Then we said to him: 'O Messenger of Allah, we have a well in our town. During the winter, its water is ample for us and we all mill around it. But during the summer, its water recedes and we disperse in different directions to various wells around us. Now we have accepted Islam and all those around us are enemies. Please supplicate for our well so that its water becomes ample for us, and we will not have to disperse (anymore).' He called for seven pebbles and scrubbed them with his own hands. He supplicated on them and then said: 'Go with these pebbles. When you get to the well, throw the pebbles one after the other while mentioning Allah's Name at each throw'." As-Suda'i added: "We did as we were told and thereafter, we were unable to see the bottom of the well again." This Hadith has various corroborations in Sunan Abi Dawood, At-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah.

The Arrival of Al-Harith Ibn Hassan Al- Bakri

Imam Ahmad related from Al-Harith Ibn Hassan, who is also known as Ibn Yazeed Al-Bakri, that he said: "I set out to complain to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, against Al-Ala' Ibn Al-Hadrami. On my way, at Rabadhah, I met a stranded old woman from Banu Tameem. She said: 'O servant of Allah, I have a need to go to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him,, would you kindly take me to him?'

"So I took her with me. When I came to Madinah, the Mosque was packed with people and a black flag was flying. Bilal, with his sword strapped, stood in front of the Messenger of Allah. I asked: 'What is happening to the people?' They replied: 'He wants to send 'Amr Ibn Al-'As to a (war) front.' So I sat down. Soon afterward, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, entered his house (or he said, his tent). I sought and was given permission to enter. I greeted him and he asked: 'Has something happened between you and Banu Tameem?' I said: 'Yes, but we overpowered them. I came across an old woman from Banu Tameem and she asked me to take her to you. She is right now at the door.' He permitted her to come in and she said: 'O Messenger of Allah, if you intend to forge a demarcation between us and Banu Tameem, make Ad-Dahna' the demarcation!'"

The old woman then sat as if she intended to immediately stand up, and asked: 'O Allah's Messenger, to where are you compelling your Mudar?' I said: 'My similitude is like that of Mi'za who gave a ride to her death. I brought this (woman) but I did not know that she was an enemy to me. I seek refuge from being like the delegate of Ad.' The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: 'What is the delegate of Ad?' even though he knew the matter better than him but merely asked him. I said: 'Ad were afflicted with famine and they sent their delegate, who was known as Qail. He came across Mu'awiyah Ibn Bakr and stayed with him for a month giving him intoxicants, and two girls known as Al-Jaradatan were singing for him. After a month, he went out to the mountain of Tihamah and said: 'O Allah, You know that I did not come to a sick person so as to heal him nor have I come to a captive so that I may free him. O Allah, provide water for Ad as You used to.' Then a black cloud passed by and he was called from it (saying): 'Choose!' He pointed to a dark cloud from it and he was called from it: Take from it incenerating ashes which will leave behind no one from among Ad.' I said: 'Nothing more than the wind as small as this ring of mine was sent to them and they were destroyed.'" Abu Wa'il said: "He has spoken the truth,” and added: “Women and men whenever they sent their delegate, they would say to him: ‘Do not be like the delegate of Ad’.” This is how At-Tirmidhi related it on the authority of Abd Ibn Humaid from Zaid Ibn Al-Hubab.

The Arrival of ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Abu ‘Aqeel With His People

On the authority of ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Abu ‘Aqeel who narrated: "I set out among a delegation to Allah’s Messenger. When we came to him, we made our camel kneel by the door. There was no one more detestable to us than this person whom we were going in to see. We went in and by the time we came out, there was no one more beloved to us than the man we had just met. One of us said to him: 'O Messenger of Allah, why don’t you ask your Lord for a kingdom like that of Sulaiman?' The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, smiled and said: 'Perhaps there is with Allah for your companion something better than the kingdom of Sulaiman. Allah does not send a prophet except that He gives him (the gift of) a supplication. Some of them used it to gain the world which they were given. Some of them used it against their own people when they disobeyed them, and they were destroyed. Allah has also given me a supplication but I have reserved it with my Lord as an intercession for my Ummah on the Day of Resurrection.'”

The Arrival of Tariq Ibn ‘Abdullah and His Companions

Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of Tariq Ibn ‘Abdullah who narrated: "I was standing in the market of Dhul-Majaz when a man approached wearing a jubbah saying: 'Say, none deserves to be worshipped (in truth) except Allah so that you may be successful.' Another man was following him, hurling stones at him and saying: 'People, he is liar, don't believe him.' So I asked: 'Who is that man?' someone said: 'That is the youth from Banu Hashim who claims to be the Messenger of Allah.' I asked about the identity of the one trailing him and he said: 'That is his uncle Abdul Uzza'.

"When the people became Muslim and had migrated we set out from Rabadhah heading for Madinah to seek some of its dates. When we approached its walls and its palmgroves, I said: 'It will be nice to alight (here) and change our clothes.' Just then a man wearing two sets of old clothes met us, greeted us and asked: 'From where did you come from?' We said: 'We are from Rabadhah.' He asked: 'Where is your destination?' We replied: 'We are heading to Madinah.' He asked: 'What business do you have there?' We said: 'To seek from its dates. We have our women with us and a red camel that is bridled.' He said: 'Is your camel for sale?' We responded: 'Yes, for such-and-such measures (sa‘) of dates and we will not discount anything from what we have said.' He took the bridle of the camel and went away. When he had been shielded by the walls of Madinah and its palm trees, we said: 'What have we done, we never even sold our camel to someone we know without taking its price (and now we have done that to a stranger).' One of the women with us said: 'I saw a man whose face is like the radiance of the full moon. I am a guarantor for your camel.'

"Soon after, the man approached and said: 'I am the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, to you. These are your dates, eat to your satisfaction and weigh a full measure.' We ate to our fill and we weighed a full measure. Afterward, we entered Madinah and went into the Mosque and there was the same man standing on the pulpit addressing the people. We caught him saying in his address: 'Give alms for giving alms is better for you. The upper hand is better than the lower one. Your mother, your father, your sister, your brother and other relatives in descending order.'

"Then a man came in the midst of a group from Banu Yarboo' (or he said, a man from the Ansar) and said: 'O Messenger of Allah, we have a murder case against these (people) in the period of ignorance.' He said: 'The father is not punished over his son.' He said this three times.

The Arrival of the Delegation of Farwah Ibn 'Amr AlJudhami, the Sovereign of the Land of Mu'an, to Declare His Islam

Ibn Ishaq said: Farwah Ibn 'Amr Ibn An-Nafirah Al-Judhami and An-Nufathi sent envoys to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, conveying his acceptance of Islam and he sent as a gift a white mule. He was a representative of Rome in charge of the adjacent Arab territories. His residence was at Mu'an and the surrounding areas in the territory of Syria. When Rome became aware of his acceptance of Islam they sought him out until they apprehended him and detained him.

When the Romans gathered to crucify him by one of their watering place known as 'Ifra at Palestine he said:

Alas, has it reached Salma that her spouse

Is by the oasis of 'Ifra on top a gallows

On a camel whose mother has not been mated by a male

Whose edges have been pruned by a sickle

Az-Zuhri claims that when he was brought for execution, he said:

Convey to the leaders of the Muslims that

I have surrendered to my Lord, my bones and my position

Then they beheaded him and crucified him by that water. May Allah have Mercy and be pleased with him, and make him pleased and make Paradise his final abode.

The Arrival of Tameem Ad-Dari, His Encounter With AlJassasah and What He Heard from Ad-Dajjal Concerning the Advent of the Prophet

Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of Fatimah Bint Qais: Tameem Ad-Dari came to Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and informed him that he traveled on the high sea and their ship was tossed by the waves. They were taken to an island and they came out of the ship seeking fresh water. They met a creature with long dragging hair. They asked him: "Who are you?" He said: "I am Jassasah." They said: "Give us information," and Jassasah said: "I will not inform you (of anything) but go into this island." We went in and found a man fettered. He asked: "Who are you?" We replied: "We are men from the Arabs." He asked further: "What is the news of this Prophet that has emerged from your midst?" We said:

“People have believed in him, followed him and acknowledged the truth of his message.” The man said: “That is better for them.”

He then asked: “Inform me about the spring of Zughar, what has happened to it?” We informed him and he leaped up so high that we almost exited behind the wall. Then he asked: “Inform me about the date-palm trees of Baisan. Are they bearing fruits or not?” We informed him that it is bearing fruits. Again he leapt up in a similar manner as the first time. Then he said: “I will soon be permitted to go out and I will travel throughout the land excluding Taibah.” Afterward, (when Tameem had narrated the encounter to him) the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, brought him (i.e. Tameem) out and he addressed the people and said: “This is Taibah (Madinah) and that was Dajjal.”

The Delegation of Banu Asad

Al-Waqidi related that in the beginning of the 9th year, the delegation of Banu Asad came to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. They were ten delegates among whom were Dirar Ibn Al-Azwar, Wabisah Ibn Ma‘bad, Tulaihah Ibn Khuwailid who would later claim prophethood but would eventually return back to Islam and became a good Muslim, and Nuqadah Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Khalaf. Their leader, Hadramee Ibn ‘Amir said: “O Messenger of Allah, we have come to you under the pitch-dark night in a cold season but you did not send envoys to us. Concerning them, the following Verse was revealed: Count not your Islam as a favor upon me. Nay, but Allah has conferred a favor upon you, that He has guided you to the Faith, if you indeed are true. (Soorah Al-Hujurat 49:17)

Among them was a tribe known as Banu Zinyah and the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, changed their name saying: “You are Banu Rishdah” Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, had asked Nuqadah Ibn Abdullah Ibn Khalaf to direct him to a camel that is good for riding and milking without any offspring with her. He sought and found (such a camel) with one of his cousins and brought it to Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, who ordered that it be milked. He drank out of it gave the remainder to him and then said: “Allah, bless it and the one who has bestowed it.”

The Delegation of Banu Abs

Al-Waqidi related that they were nine individuals (and Al-Waqidi recounted their names) and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to them: “I am your tenth.” He ordered Talhah Ibn ‘Ubaidullah to fix a flag for them. Thus their slogan became, “The ten.” He also mentioned that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, asked them concerning Khalid Ibn Sinan Al-Absi and they mentioned that he left no successor and (the narrator) also mentioned that Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, sent them to lay ambush for the caravan of the Quraish caravan coming from Syria. This indicates that their coming preceded the Conquest of Makkah. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Delegation of Bani Fazarah

Al-Waqidi related that on the authority of Abu Wajzah As-Sa’di who narrated that when Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, returned from the expedition of Tabook, which was in the 9th year, the delegation of Banu Fazarah came to him. The delegation consisted of about ten delegates, among whom were Kharijah Ibn Hisn, Al-Harith Ibn Qais Ibn Hisn who was the youngest of them and was riding a lean animal. They came to confess their acceptance of Islam. Allah's Messenger asked them about their land and one of them said: "O Messenger of Allah, our land has stagnated, our livestock have been destroyed and our farmlands have become arid and our family famished. Please supplicate to Allah for us." The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, climbed the minbar and supplicated: "O Allah, provide water for Your land and Your animals and spread Your Mercy and revive Your dead land. O Allah! Send down to us Your rain relieving, profuse, fertile, consistent, ample, instant and not delayed, beneficial and not destructive. O Allah! Grant us a rain that is merciful and not punitive, devastating, drowning and annihilating. O Allah! Send down rain on us and help us against the enemy." Then it rained and it did not cease for a week. Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, once again ascended the minbar and supplicated: "O Allah! Around us and not upon us; on the hillock, rocks, the middle of the valley and the roots of tree."

The Delegation of Banu Murrah

Al-Waqidi related that they arrived in the 9th year during the Prophet's return from Tabook. They were three individuals among whom was Al-Harith Ibn 'Awf. Allah's Messenger granted them ten ounce of silver and he gave AlHarith Ibn 'Awf twelve Ooqiyyahs. They informed him that their land was barren and requested him to supplicate (to Allah) for them. He said: "Allah! Send down rain for them." When they returned to their land, they found that rain had fallen the same day that the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, supplicated for them.

The Delegation of Banu Tha‘labah

Al-Waqidi related that "when Allah's Messenger returned from Ji'ranah in the 8th year, four of us came to him and said: 'We are emissaries of our people and they are (conveying) their profession of Islam.' He arranged an accommodation for us and we stayed for some days and then we came to bid him farewell. He said to Bilal: 'Make provision for them as you normally do for a delegation.' He then came with a cow laden with silver and he gave each one of us five ounce (of silver)." He said: 'We do not have Dirhams.' Then we returned to our country.

The Arrival of Banu Muharib

Al-Waqidi related that "Muhammad Ibn Saleh narrated to me on the authority of Abi Wajzah As-Sa'di who said that the delegation of Maharib arrived in the 10th year during the Farewell Pilgrimage. They were ten delegates among whom were Sawa' Ibn Al-Harith and his son Khuzaimah Ibn Sawa'. They stayed at the house of Ramlah Bint Al-Harith. Bilal used to come to them morning and evening. They accepted Islam and they said: 'We are representing those whom we left behind.' That season, there was no one who had been more rough and crude to Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), than them. Among the delegation was a man whom Allah's Messenger recognized. He said: 'Praise be to Allah who has preserved me until I believed in you.' Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

, said: 'This heart is in the Hand of Allah, the Exalted.' Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), wiped the face of Khuzaimah Ibn Sawa' and there appeared a white spot and he provided for them as he would do for a delegation and they left for their country."

The Delegation of Banu Kilab

Al-Waqidi related that they arrived in the 9th year. They were three individuals: the poets Labeed Ibn Rabe'e'ah, Jabbar Ibn Sulma who shared some friendship with Ka'b Ibn Malik. He welcomed him, honored him and gave him gifts. He accompanied him to Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and greeted him with the greeting of Islam. They also mentioned to him that Ad-Dahhak Ibn Sufyan Al-Kilabi had gone around among them with the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger with which Allah had commanded him and he invited them to Allah. They had responded to him and he had taken their Zakah from the wealthy and gave it to their poor.

The Delegation of Banu Ru'as Ibn Kilab

Al-Waqidi related that "a man named 'Amr Ibn Malik Ibn Qais Ibn Bujaid Ibn Ru'as Ibn Kilab Ibn Rabe'e'ah Ibn Amir Ibn Sa'sa'ah came to Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), accepted Islam, returned to his people and invited them to Allah; however they said: 'Not until we do to Banu 'Uqail exactly what they did to us.' He mentioned the wars that took place between them and that this same Amr Ibn Malik had killed someone from Banu 'Uqail, and his hands became tied. I came to Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and the news had reached him and he had said: 'If he comes to me I will cut loose the fetter of his hands.' When I came to him, I greeted him but he did not return my greeting and he turned away from me. I approached him from his right and he turned away. I came to him from his left and still he turned away. I approached directly from his front and I said: 'O Messenger of Allah, the pleasure of the Lord is sought and He grants it, be pleased with me, may Allah be pleased with you (as well).' Then the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: 'I am pleased with you'."

The Delegation of Banu ‘Uqail Ibn Ka‘b

Al-Waqidi related that they came to Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and he apportioned to them Al-‘Aqeeq, ‘Aqeeq Banu ‘Uqail, which was a piece of land where there were date-palms and water springs. He wrote for them a document to that effect:

“In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful, this is what Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah, has given to Rabee‘ah, Mutarrif, and Anas. I have given them Al-‘Aqeeq as long as they establish the Salat, offer the Zakah, listen and obey, and they do not infringe on the rights of a Muslim.”

The document remained in the hands of Mutarrif. The narrator added: Laqeet Ibn ‘Amir Ibn Al-Muntafiq Ibn ‘Amir Ibn ‘Uqail known as Abu Razeen also came to Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and he gave him an oasis known as An-Nazeem which he sold to his people. We have mentioned earlier his arrival, his story and statement extensively and to Allah belongs Praise and Grace.

The Delegation of Banu Qushair Ibn Ka‘b

Their coming was prior to the Farewell Pilgrimage and the Battle of Hunain. It is mentioned that Qurrah Ibn Hubairah Ibn ‘Amir Ibn Salamah Al-Khair Ibn Qushair was among them. He accepted Islam and Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), gave him a burdah (covering cloth) to wear and appointed him in charge of his people’s Sadaqah (alms).

The Delegation of Banu Al-Bakka’

Al-Waqidi related that they came in the 9th year and that they were thirty men in number. Among them was Mu‘awiyah Ibn Thawr Ibn Ibadah Ibn AlBakka’. His age on that day was 100 years. With him was his son known as Bishr. He said: “O Allah’s Messenger, I seek blessing by your touch. I have grown old and this son of mine has been dutiful to me, please wipe his face.” The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did as requested and gave him an additional sandy-colored female goat, and he supplicated for their blessing. Afterward, they were never afflicted with drought or famine.

The Delegation of Kinanah

Al-Waqidi related with his own chain of narrations that Wathilah Ibn AlAsqa’ Al-Laithi came to Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), on his way to Tabook. He offered the early morning prayer with him and then returned to his people and invited them and spoke to them about Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Exasperated by his impudence, his father said: “I shall never speak to you again.” Nevertheless, his sister listened to his words and accepted Islam. She supplied him with provision and he was able to accompany the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), to Tabook riding on Ka'b Ibn Ujrah's camel. Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), dispatched him along with Khalid to Ukaidir Doomah. On their return, Wathilah presented to Ka'b Ibn Ujrah part of the booty which fell to his lot in compensation for granting him a ride on his camel but Ka'b said to him: "I gave you a ride solely for the sake of Allah."

The Delegation of Ashja'

Al-Waqidi mentioned that they arrived in the year of Khandaq. They were 100 men in total. Their leader was Mas'ood Ibn Rukhailah. They dismounted by the mountain pass of Sala' and Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), went to meet them and ordered for them loads of dates. It is also said that they arrived after the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had finished dealing with Banu Quraizah. They were 700 men. He concluded a peace treaty with them and they returned, and afterward they accepted Islam.

The Delegation of Bahilah

Their leader, Mutarrif Ibn Al-Kahin arrived after the Conquest (of Makkah) and accepted Islam. He obtained guarantee on behalf of his people and a document was written for him containing the obligatory duties and laws of Islam. It was 'Uthman who wrote the document.

The Delegation of Banu Sulaim

A man from Banu Sulaim known as Qais Ibn Nushbah came to Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). He listened to Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and asked him questions on a number of things to which he responded. Allah's Messenger invited him to Islam and he accepted. He returned to his people, Banu Sulaim, and addressed them saying: "I have listened to the Roman memoirs, the subtleties of the Persians, the poetry of the Arabs, the divination of the soothsayers, and the words of the chieftains of Yemen; none of them resembles the words of Muhammad. So follow me so that you may take your own portion from him." In the year of the Conquest, Banu Sulaim, numbering 700, set out and met the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), at Quda'id. It is also said they were 1,000 in number among whom was Al-'Abbas Ibn Mirdas and a number of their dignitaries, and they accepted Islam.

The Delegation of Banu Hilal Ibn 'Amir

Among their delegation were 'Abd 'Awf Ibn Asram who accepted Islam, and Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), changed his name to 'Abdullah, and Qabeesah Ibn Mukhariq, about whom there is a story concerning the Sadaqah. Also in the delegation was Ziyad Ibn 'Abdullah Ibn Malik Ibn Bujair Ibn Al-Huzam Ibn Ruaibah Ibn 'Abdullah Ibn Hilal Ibn 'Amir. When he entered Madinah, he headed for the residence of his maternal aunt, Maimoonah Bint Al-Harith and went in to see her. When Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), entered his residence and when he saw him he became angry and left. She said: "O Messenger of Allah, he is my nephew.” He returned and soon went out to the Mosque along with Ziyad. They offered the Dhuhr prayer and then he drew close to Ziyad and he prayed for him, placed his hand on his head and then glided it down to the tip of his nose. The Banu Hilal used to say: “Since then we never ceased to discern blessing from the face of Ziyad.”

The Delegation of Banu Bakr Ibn Wa’il

Al-Waqidi related that when they arrived, they asked Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), about Quss Ibn Sa’idah and he said: “He is not from you. He was a man who would walk barefoot from Iyad to ‘Ukaz, during the period of ignorance while the people were gathered and he would address them.” He recited to them some of his words which he had memorized.

The Delegation of Banu Taglib

Al-Waqidi related that they were 16 men comprising Muslims and Christians, (the latter) wore golden crosses. They stayed in the house of Ramlah Bint AlHarith and the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had a peace pact with the Christians upon the condition that they would not baptize their children into Christianity and gave grants to the Muslims among them.

The Arrival of the Delegation of Tujeeb

Al-Waqidi related that they arrived from Yemen in the 9th year. They were thirteen individuals and the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), gave them a grant more than he gave to others.

The Delegation of Khawlan

Al-Waqidi related that they were ten and that they arrived in Sha‘ban in the 10th year. Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), asked them about their idol which they called ‘Amm Anas and they said: “Allah has replaced it with that which is better. When we return, we shall demolish it.” They learned the Qur’an and Sunan. When they returned to their country, they demolished the idol; they permitted what Allah has permitted and forbade what Allah has forbidden.

The Ju’fi Delegation

Al-Waqidi related that they used to forbid eating the heart (of animals). When their delegation became Muslims, Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ordered them to eat the heart. He ordered that an (animal heart) be barbecued and gave it to their leader and said: “Your Iman (faith) will not be complete until you eat it.” He took it with a trembling hand and ate it. Then he said: “Eating the heart was detested (by me), in such a way that my fingers trembled when it touched it.”

The Delegation of As-Sadif

About ten riders arrived and they found Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), on his Minbar addressing the people. They sat down without greeting. The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to them: “Are you Muslims?” They answered in the affirmative and he said: “Shouldn’t you have said the Salam?” They got up swiftly and said: “Peace, Mercy and Blessing (of Allah) be upon you, O Prophet.” He responded: “And upon you be peace. Sit down.” They sat down and they later asked him about the times of Salawat (prayers).”

The Delegation of Khushain

Abu Tha‘labah Al-Khushani came to Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), while he was preparing for Khaibar. He participated in the expedition of Khaibar along with him. Afterward, he came with about ten men from his people and they accepted Islam.

The Delegation of Banu Sa’d

Then he mentioned the delegation of Banu Sa’d, Hudhaim, Baliyy, Bahra’, Bani Udhray, Salaman, Juhainah, Bani Kalb, Al-Jarmiyyeen. We have mentioned earlier the Hadith of ‘Amr Ibn Salmah Al-Jarmi in Saheeh AlBukhari.

He also mentioned the delegation of Al-Azd; the delegation of Ghassan, AlHarith Ibn Ka’b, Hamdan, Sa’d, Al-‘Asheerah and ‘Ans. The delegations also included, the Dariyyeen, Rahawiyyeen, Banu Ghamid, Nakha’, Bajeelah, Khath’am, Hadramawt. He mentioned that among them were Wa’il Ibn Hujr and the four kings: Jamd, Mikhwah, Mishrah and Abda’ah. It is recorded in the Musnad of Imam Ahmad that they were cursed along with their sister AlAmarradah. Al-Waqidi spoke at length on this.

He also mentioned the delegations of Azd Oman, Ghafiq, Bariq, Daws, Thumalah, Al-Huddan, Aslam, Judham, Mahrah, Himyar, Najran and Ja'ishahn and he discussed these different tribes very extensively. We have presented earlier some of their concerns in our previous narration which is sufficient. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Delegation of the As-Siba' (Beasts of Prey)

On the authority of 'Abdul-Muttalib Ibn 'Abdullah Ibn Hantab who narrated that while Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was sitting in the midst of his Companions in Madinah, a wolf came and stood in front of him and howled. Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: "This is the delegation of the beasts of prey that has come to you. If you wish you may apportion something for them which will not go to any other than them, otherwise you let it be and you will be protected from it, but whatever it takes is its provision." They said: "O Allah's Messenger, we are not pleased to give it anything." Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), signaled to it with three fingers and it went back with two honeycombs. This narration is mural from this angle and it appears that this is the same wolf mentioned in the Hadith related by Ahmad.

The Arrival of Al-Azd

Suwaid Ibn Al-Harith said: "I was the seventh of the delegates of my people to Allah Messenger. When we came to him, we spoke with him and our speech and appearance impressed him. He asked, 'Who are you?' We said: 'We are believers.' Allah's

Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), smiled and said: 'Every statement has its truth. What is the truth of your statement and Iman?' Suwaid added: We said, 'They are fifteen practices. Five of them, your envoy commanded us to believe in them, five of them, you commanded us to carry out, and the remaining five have been part of our character since the period of ignorance unless you detest anything from it.' The Messenger asked: 'What are the five things that my envoy commanded you to believe in?' We answered: 'He commanded us to believe in Allah, His angels, His Books, His Messengers, and Resurrection after death.'

The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then asked: 'What are the five things I have commanded you to do?' We said: 'You commanded us to say that there is none worthy of worship (in truth) except Allah, that we should establish the prayer, pay the Zakah, that we should fast the month of Ramadan, and that we should go on pilgrimage if we are able and find the means.' He asked: 'What are the five things which were part of your character since the time of Ignorance?' We said: 'Gratitude in times of comfort, patience in times of adversity, truthfulness at the point of meeting (the enemy), and glee over the misfortune of the enemies.' Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: 'Wise men and scholars, their men of knowledge almost were Prophets.' And he added: 'I shall add five more things for them making it twenty if you are as you have said. Do not amass what you cannot eat, do not build a house in which you will not live, do not vie (with one another) over what you know will be ephemeral tomorrow, fear Allah to Whom is your returning and to Whom you shall be presented (for judgment), and be desirous of what you are heading to (Paradise) in which you shall live forever.' The people went away from the presence of Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and they memorized his advice and implemented it."

It has been mentioned earlier that a delegation of the Jinn came in Makkah before the Hijrah. We have examined the discussion on that in the explanation of Allah's statement: "And (remember) when We sent toward you (O Muhammad) Nafran (three to ten persons) of the Jinn, (quietly) listening to the Qur'an." (Soorah Al-Ahqaf 46:29)

This and other similar narrations indicate the repeated coming of the delegation of the Jinn to Makkah. We have also stated that repeatedly in a manner that suffices.

The 10th Year: Allah's Messenger Dispatches Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed to Banu Al-Harith

Ibn Ishaq related that afterward, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), dispatched Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed in the month of Rabee' Ul- Akhir or Jumad Al-Ooala, in 10th A.H. to Banu Al-Harith Ibn Ka'b in Najran. He ordered him to invite them to Islam for three days prior to any fighting. In the event of their accepting Islam, he should accept it from them, otherwise he should fight them if they refused.

Khalid marched out, dispersing convoys in different directions to invite people to Islam saying: "O People embrace Islam and you will be safe." So people accepted Islam. In deference to the command of Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), in the event of their accepting Islam, he refrained from fighting them. He stayed with them to teach them Islamic teachings, the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Prophet.

Then Khalid wrote to the Messenger of Allah:

“In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful, (this is letter to Muhammad, the Prophet and Messenger of Allah, from Khalid Ibn Waleed. Peace, Mercy and Blessing of Allah be on you. Praise be to Allah beside Whom there is no god. O Messenger of Allah, you sent me to Banu Al-Harith Ibn Ka‘b commanding me not to fight them for three days, to call them to Islam and to remain with them if they embrace it, and to accept it from them and teach them the religion, the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Prophet; and in case they do not submit, I should fight them. I went to them, invited them to Islam for three days as ordained by Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and I sent convoys among them saying: ‘O Banu Al-Harith, embrace Islam and you will be safe.’ They accepted it without a fight and I remained among them enjoining on them what Allah has commanded and forbidding them from what Allah has forbidden, and educating them about Islamic teachings and the Sunnah of the Prophet. And Peace, Mercy and Blessing of Allah be on you.”

Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), wrote back to him thus:

“In the Name of Allah the Beneficent, the Merciful, (this is a letter from Muhammad, the Prophet and Messenger of Allah, to Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed. Peace, Mercy and Blessing of Allah be on you. Praise be to Allah beside Whom there is no god. I received your letter from your envoy informing me that Banu Al-Harith Ibn Ka‘b has embraced Islam without a fight, that they responded to (the teaching of) Islam which you had invited them to, that they have testified that none deserves to be worshipped

(in truth) except Allah and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, and that Allah has guided them with His guidance (to the Right Path). So promise them (the good consequence of their work) and warn them (against the evil of disobedience), and come with a delegation from them. Peace, Mercy and Blessing of Allah be on you.”

So, Khalid came to the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), with a delegation from Banu Al-Harith Ibn Ka‘b.

Ibn Ishaq added: Afterward, they returned to their people during the remaining days of Shawwal or in the beginning of Dhul-Qa‘dah. He also said: After the delegation had left, he (Allah’s Messenger) also sent to them ‘Amr Ibn Hazm to teach them Islam, the Sunnah, the Islamic rulings, and to take from them their Zakah. He wrote a document for him stating that his agreement (with them) is his own agreement the command (of ‘Amr) is his command.

Allah’s Messenger Sent Ameers to the People of Yemen Prior to the Farewell Pilgrimage

Al-Bukhari says in the chapter of the dispatch of Abu Moosa and Mu’adh Ibn Jabal to Yemen that on the authority of Abu Burdah, who narrated that the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), sent Mu’adh and AbuMoosa to Yemen. He sent each of them to administer a province as Yemen consisted of two provinces. He said to them: “Treat the people with ease and do not be hard on them; give them glad tidings and do not fill them with aversion.” In another narration, he added: “And love each other, and do not differ.” Thus, each of them went to carry out his job. So when any one of them toured his province and happened to come near (the border of the province of) his companion, he would visit him and greet him. Once Mu'adh toured that part of his state which was near (the border of the province of) his companion Abu Moosa.

Mu'adh came riding his mule until he reached Abu Moosa and saw him sitting, and the people had gathered around him. There was a man tied with his hands behind his neck. Mu'adh said to Abu Moosa: "Abdullah Ibn Qais, what is this?" Abu Moosa replied: "This man has reverted to polytheism after embracing Islam." Mu'adh said: "I will not dismount until he is killed." Abu Moosa replied: "He has been brought for this purpose, so dismount." Mu'adh said: "I will not dismount until he is killed." So Abu Moosa ordered that he be killed, and he was killed. Then Mu'adh dismounted and said: "O 'Abdullah (Ibn Qais) ! How do you recite the Qur'an?" Abu Moosa said: "I recite the Qur'an regularly at intervals and piecemeal." He asked: "How do you recite it, O Mu'adh?" Mu'adh said: "I sleep in the first part of the night and then get up after having slept for the time devoted for my sleep and then recite as much as Allah has written for me. So I seek Allah's reward for both my sleep as well as my prayer (at night)."

On the authority of Ibn 'Abbas who narrated that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to Mu'adh when he sent him to Yemen: "You are going to the People of the Scripture, so when you reach them, invite them to testify that none has the right to be worshipped except Allah and that Muhammad is His Messenger. If they obey you in that, then tell them that Allah has enjoined on them five prayers to be performed every day and night. If they obey you in that, then tell them that Allah has enjoined on them Sadaqah (i.e. Zakah) to be taken from the rich among them and given to the poor among them. If they obey you in that, then be cautious! Don't take their best properties (as Zakah) and be afraid of the curse of an oppressed person as there is no screen between his invocation and Allah.”

It is narrated that Mu'adh used to say: “Allah's Messenger sent me to Yemen and said: ‘Perhaps you will (come back and) pass by my grave and my Mosque. I have sent you to a people whose hearts are soft and they fight upon the truth (saying that twice). So fight along with those who follow you from among them against those who disobey you until they return to Islam, and the woman hastens to her spouse, son to his father, brother to his brother and until tranquility prevails between two lovers.”

This Hadith contains a clear indication and prophecy that Mu'adh would not meet Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and this is exactly what happened. He remained in Yemen until the time of the Farewell Pilgrimage and then the Messenger of Allah's death occurred 81 days after the Farewell Hajj.

Ubayy Ibn Ka'b Ibn Malik narrated that Mu'adh Ibn Jabal was a handsome and big-hearted young man from the best of the youth of his people. He was never asked anything except that he gave it until his debt overwhelmed his wealth. He asked Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), to intervene with his creditors on his behalf and he did. If someone were to be let off based on the statement of another, it should have been Mu'adh. He would have been left because of the statement of Allah's Messenger. So Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), supplicated for him and continued to distribute his wealth and portions among his creditors. Eventually, Mu'adh became penniless. When Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed the last pilgrimage, he sent Mu'adh to Yemen to improve his condition. The first person to be restored with this wealth was Mu'adh.

The sub-narrator added: He came to Abu Bakr As-Siddiq, may Allah be pleased with him, from Yemen when Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had died. 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, came to Mu'adh and said to him: "Do you have any desire to follow me so that you may return this wealth to Abu Bakr? If he leaves it for you then you may take it." Mu'adh replied: "Why should I return it to him when Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), sent me in order to improve my condition?" When Mu'adh objected, 'Umar went to Abu Bakr and said: "Send for this man and take from him (his wealth) and let him go." Abu Bakr said: "I shall not do such (a thing). Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), sent him to Yemen to improve his condition and I shall not take away anything from him." In the morning, Mu'adh went to 'Umar and said: "I have no other choice but to follow your advice. I saw myself in a dream being dragged into the Hellfire while you were pulling me away from it." Thus, he went to Abu Bakr with all that he came back with from Yemen until he even brought a whip. He swore to him that he did not hide anything. Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, said: "It is for you, I shall not take anything from you."

Then Al-Baihaqi mentioned a corroboration for the Hadith of Mu'adh's sleep on the authority of 'Abdullah and that all that he brought (from Yemen) were slaves and he brought them to Abu Bakr. When all of them were returned to him, he went back with them. One day, he stood up to pray and they all stood up and prayed with him. When he concluded the prayer, he asked them: "To whom were you praying?" They responded: "To Allah." So he said: "Then you are free for His sake," and so he set them free.

Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), Sent 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib and Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed to Yemen

Al-Bara' narrated that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), sent Khalid Ibn Al-Waleed to the people of Yemen to invite them to Islam. Al-Bara' added: I was among those who set out with Khalid Ibn AlWaleed. We stayed for six months inviting them to Islam but they did not respond to him. Then Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), sent 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib and also ordered that Khalid should return (with his entourage) excluding one man who had been with Khalid. I wished I would be left behind with 'Ali. Al-Bara' continued: I was among those left behind with 'Ali. When we came close to the people, they came out to meet us. 'Ali stepped forward and led us in prayer and then he arranged us into a single row. Then he went forward in front of us and read the letter of Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to them and the people of Hamdan accepted Islam in their entirety. 'Ali sent a letter to Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), informing him of their acceptance of Islam. When Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) read the letter, he prostrated and when he raised his head, he said: "Peace be unto Hamdan, peace be unto Hamdan."

It is related that Abu Sa'eed Al-Khudri said: Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), sent 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib to Yemen. Abu Sa'eed continued: I was among those who set out along with him. When he took Zakah of camels, we asked him to allow us to ride on them so that we may relieve our camels for we noticed some weakness in our camels but he refused and said: "Your share in it is similar to that of other Muslims." When 'Ali was through (with his assignment) and was set on a return journey, he appointed someone to lead us and he hastened back and he caught the Hajj. When he had concluded his Hajj, the Prophet said to him: "Go back to your companions and lead them."

Abu Sa'eed continued: "We had asked the person 'Ali had appointed in his stead to allow us to ride the camels of Zakah since 'Ali did not prohibit us directly himself. So he did. On his return, when 'Ali discovered that the camels of Zakah had been ridden and he saw signs to that effect, he censured and reproached the person he had appointed in his place. I said: I swear by Allah that I shall take it upon myself to report to Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) the harshness and straitening that we were subjected to. When we got back to Madinah, early in the morning, I went to Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with the intention of fulfilling my vow. I met Abu Bakr coming out from the presence of Allah's Messenger. When he saw me, he stayed with me, welcomed me and asked about my affairs and I asked him about his. He asked: 'When did you arrive?' I said: 'I came back last night.' He went back with me to see the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). He entered and said: 'Here is Sa'd Ibn Malik Ibn Ash-Shaheed.' Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said:

'Let him enter.' When I entered, I greeted him and he returned my greeting. He turned to me and asked me about myself and my family. I quickly broached the matter: 'O Messenger of Allah, (you should have seen) what we experienced of harshness and bad companionship.' The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), withdrew while I enumerated all our experience with him (i.e. 'Ali) until when I was still in the middle of my speech, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), patted my thigh for I was close to him and said: 'O Sa'd Ibn Malik Ibn Shaheed, refrain from your talk about your brother, 'Ali, for you know that he was merely harsh for them in the path of Allah.' I said to myself: 'O Sa'd Ibn Malik, may your mother be bereft of you! Shouldn't you have told me that I have engaged you in what is detestable all day? By Allah I shall never mention him with evil (again) whether secretly or openly'."

The import of this episode is that many rumors were spread concerning his command of that army solely because of his objection to the use of the camels of Zakah and his retrieval of the garments which his deputy had given out to them. 'Ali was excused from all that he did but the comments became rife among the pilgrims. This is why, And Allah (SWT) knows best, when Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) returned from his pilgrimage and he concluded his rites and on his return journey to Madinah, at Ghadeer Khumm, he rose to address the people. He absolved Ali publicly, boosted his esteem and described him with virtues in order to dissipate what the hearts of many people were entertaining concerning him.

The Farewell Pilgrimage in the 10th Year

This is because Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) bade farewell to the people during it and never performed any other Hajj after it. It is called Hajjat ul-Islam because Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), never undertook any Hajj from Madinah other than this even though he performed Hajj before the Hijrah several times prior to Prophethood and after it. It is said that the obligation of Hajj was promulgated that year. It is also said that it was obligated in the 9th year while some said it was in the 6th year. Others opine that the obligation was revealed just before the Hijrah but this is very strange. It is called Hajjat ul-Balagh because Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), conveyed to the people the Islamic law of Hajj both in statement and action. Thus, there was nothing left of the cornerstones and pillars of Islam except that he (Allah's Messenger) had explained them. He explained to them the laws of Hajj, Allah revealed while he was standing on 'Arafah: "This day, I have perfected your religion for you, completed My Favor upon you, and have chosen for you Islam as your religion." (SoorahAl-Ma'idah 5:3) An explanation of all this will be presented later.

The import of this explanation is to relate the description of the Hajj of the Prophet as there are considerable variances among the narrations concerning it, according to the knowledge that reached each one of the narrators, which caused them to differ especially after the generation of the Companions, Allah be pleased with them all.

Here we cite what the Imams have related in their books from these narrations and we reconcile all of them in a manner that will delight anyone who contemplates and examines them carefully, reconciling between the two routes of the Hadith and understanding their meanings, insha'Allah. In Allah we place our reliance and to Him (all affairs) are entrusted. People have paid considerable attention to the Hajj of the Messenger of Allah, from the earlier scholars to the later ones. 'Allamah Abu Muhammad Ibn Hazm Al-Andalusi, may Allah have Mercy on him, has compiled an entire volume on the Farewell Pilgrimage demonstrating his mastery in much of it, albeit he had some falseimpressions which we shall point out in their proper places.

Explanation of the Fact About the Hajj of Allah's Messenger From Madinah

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Anas who said: "Allah's Messenger performed four 'Umrahs all of them in the month of Dhul-Qa'dah, except the one which he performed during his Hajj."

The first: out of these 'Umrahs (of the Prophet) was the 'Umrah of Al-Hudaibiyah from which he was prevented. Then after that was the 'Umrah AlQada' (redemption). It is also known as the 'Umrah Al-Qisas (of reprisal). It is equally known as the 'Umrah of Al-Qadiyyah. Subsequently came the 'Umrah Al-Ji'ranah on his return from Ta'if where he distributed the booty of (the battle of) Hunain. Discussions on all of these have preceded at their proper places.

The fourth 'Umrah performed by the Prophet was the one he performed along with his Hajj. We shall explain the differences among the people concerning this 'Umrah, which he performed with the Hajj. Was it (the Hajj) Mutamatti' such that the 'Umrah occurred before the Hajj and then he became free (of Ihram) or he was prevented from being free (from Ihram) by his coming with Hady. Or was it Qarin (simultaneous) with his Hajj as we mentioned from the Ahadeeth pointing to that. Or was it Mufrid (i.e. singled out) from the Hajj such that the 'Umrah occurred after he had completed the Hajj rites. This is the argument of those who subscribe to the fact that it was Ifrad, as is wellknown from Ash-Shafi'i. An explanation of these shall be presented during our discussion on his assumption of Ihram to determine whether he undertook Ifrad, Mutamatti' or Qarin.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Zaid Ibn Arqam that the Prophet fought 19 Ghazwahs (battles) and performed Hajj once after he migrated (to Madinah). Abu Ishaq said: "Another one was in Makkah."

What Abu Ishaq states here is that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Hajj in Makkah "another Hajj" implying that he did not perform more than one Hajj in Makkah as is apparent in his wordings, which of course is quite remote. This is because after Prophethood, Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to attend the season of Hajj and he would invite the people to Allah saying: "Who would give me protection so that I can deliver the message of my Lord, for the Quraish have prevented me from conveying the message of my Lord?” This remained the case until Allah ordained for him a group of Ansar who met him on the night of ‘Aqabah, i.e. on the eve of the day of Nahr by the Jamrah Al‘Aqabah, for three years consecutively until the third year when they pledged to him on the night of the second ‘Aqabah which was their third meeting with him. Soon after, the Hijrah to Madinah took place just as we have related earlier in its proper context. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

His Exit From Madinah for the Farewell Pilgrimage

The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with his Companions proceeded from Madinah after combing and oiling his hair and putting on two sheets of Ihram). He did not forbid anyone to wear any kind of sheets except the ones colored and dipped in with saffron, because they may leave a scar of scent on the skin. In the early morning, the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) mounted his ride while in Dhul-Hulaifah and set out until they reached Baida’. That happened four nights toward the end of DhulQa‘dah and he reached Makkah on the 5th of Dhul- Hijjah.” Al-Bukhari related it exclusively.

Regarding his statement: “That occurred five days toward the end of DhulQa‘dah,” he meant by it that he got to Dhul-Hulaifah on the morning of that day. Ibn Hazm argued that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) left Madinah on Thursday and spent the night of Jumu‘ah at Dhul-Hulaifah until the day of Jumu‘ah corresponding to the 25th day of Dhul-Qa‘dah. Thus, the statement of Ibn ‘Abbas that: “This occurred five days toward the end of Dhul-Qa‘dah,” means from the day of his departure from Madinah after he had oiled, combed his hair and donned his Izar and Rida’; ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) and Jabir narrated that they departed from Madinah five days toward the end of Dhul-Qa’dah and this makes the argument of Ibn Hazm remote and improbable suggesting the more correct opinion is to the contrary. That day does not correspond to Friday if the month of Dhul-Qa’dah was complete.

It is not possible that the Messenger of Allah’s departure was on a Friday, because of what is related by Al-Bukhari from Anas Ibn Malik, who said: “While we were in Madinah, Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) offered the Dhuhr prayers four Raka’ahs and offered two Raka’ahs of the ‘Asr prayers at Dhul-Hulaifah. Then he spent the night there until the following morning. He then mounted his riding animal and set out until they reached Baida’ where he uttered the praise of Allah (Alhamdulillah), glorified Him (Subhan-Allah) and extolled the greatness of Allah (AllahuAkbar), and then he made the Talbiyah for Hajj and ‘Umrah.

This nullifies the possibility of the departure of Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ever occurring on Friday and based on this as well, it is not possible that his departure was on Thursday as opined by Ibn Hazm because that corresponds with the 24th day of Dhul- Qa’dah. There are no differences on the fact that the first day of Dhul-Hijjah was Thursday as established by concurrent narrations and the consensus that Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood on ‘Arafah on Jumu’ah, 9th of Dhul-Hijjah, indubitably. If his departure were to occur on Thursday, 24th of Dhul-Qa’dah, it would leave six nights to the end of the month – the nights of Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Ibn ‘Abbas, ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), and Jabir have said that he departed five days toward the end of Dhul-Qa‘dah and it is impracticable that it was on Friday based on the Hadith of Anas. Thus, the day of his departure ought to be Saturday. The narrator thought that the month was complete but it is unanimous that the month (of Dhul- Qa‘dah) of that year was short. At the close of Wednesday, the month of Dhul-Hijjah began on the night of Thursday. This is corroborated by what occurs in the narration of Jabir that (his departure was) five or four days (toward the end of DhulQa‘dah). This is a confirmation that this is the (more apt) estimation; there is no deviation from it, by no means. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Description of His Departure From Madinah to Makkah for Pilgrimage

On the authority of Ibn ‘Umar that Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to go (for Hajj) via Ash-Shajarah pathway and return via Mu‘arras pathway; and no doubt, whenever Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went to Makkah, he used to offer the prayer in the Mosque of Ash-Shajarah; on his return, he used to offer the prayer at Dhul- Hulaifah in the middle of the valley, and pass the night there until the morning.”

On the authority of Anas that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) performed pilgrimage on a shabby mount and underneath was a velvet sheet and he said: “A Hajj devoid of show-off and dissimulation.”

Al-Bukhari has related in his Saheeh on the authority of Thumamah Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Anas who said: “Allah’s Messenger performed Hajj on a packsaddle and he was not a miser.” (Anas added): “Allah’s Messenger performed Hajj on a pack-saddle and the same mount was carrying his baggage too.”

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Ishaq Ibn Sa’eed from his father who narrated: “I set out along with Ibn ‘Umar and we met a company of Yemenis with leather luggage and the rein of their camels was rope. So ‘Abdullah said: ‘Whoever wishes to see the similitude of fellowship common with Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his Companions when they arrived for the Farewell Pilgrimage, then let him look at this company!’”

On the authority of Asma’ Bint Abu Bakr who narrated: "We set out with the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on pilgrimage until we got to Al-Arj where the Messenger of Allah dismounted and ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) sat by his side while I sat by my father. Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and AbuBakr shared the same camel and it was entrusted to a slave-boy of Abu Bakr. Abu Bakr sat waiting for him to turn up and when he did, his camel was not with him. Abu Bakr asked: “Where is your camel?” The boy said: “It got lost yesterday.” Abu Bakr said: “The only camel and you lost it?” Then he began to hit him while Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was smiling and saying: “Look at this pilgrim and his action.”

It has been stated earlier that Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) offered four Raka‘ahs of Dhuhur prayers and then proceeded to Dhul- Hulaifah, which is also known as Wadi Al-‘Aqeeq and he offered the ‘Asr prayers in two Raka‘ahs which points to the fact that he came to DhulHulaifah during the day at the time of ‘Asr and thus he shortened the ‘Asr prayers. Between Madinah and Dhul-Hulaifah was a distance of three miles and thereafter, he offered the Maghreb and ‘Isha’. He spent the night there until the morning and led his Companions in Salat. He then informed them that a revelation had been sent to them during the night concerning the Ihram.

On the authority of Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar who narrated that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came while he was at Al-Mu‘arras in Dhul-Hulaifah. It was said to him: “You are in a blessed valley.”

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of ‘Umar who narrated: I heard Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say while he was in Wadi Al- ‘Aqeeq: “Tonight a messenger came to me from my Lord and asked me to pray in this blessed valley and to assume Ihram for Hajj and ‘Umrah together.” Al-Bukhari related it exclusive of Muslim. Obviously the command to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to pray at the valley of ‘Aqeeq was a command to stay there until he offered the Dhuh prayers. This is because the order came to him in the night and he informed them after the conclusion of the Subh prayers and there was no Salat coming just after that except Dhuh. Thus, he ordered them to offer it there even if the Ihram would come afterward. This is why he said: “Tonight a messenger came to me from my Lord and asked me to pray in this blessed valley and to assume Ihram for Hajj and ‘Umrah together.” This has been used as evidence for the obligation of Qiran and incidentally, it is the strongest evidence on that as shall be explained in due course.

The significance of this is that Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was ordered to remain in the valley of 'Aqeeq until the time of the Dhuhr prayers, and he complied. He remained there and visited his wives in turn that morning; there were nine of them with him at the time, all of whom had set out with him. He did not leave until he offered the Dhuhr prayers as shall be explained in due course in the Hadith of Abi Hassan AlA'raj from Ibn 'Abbas that: "Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) offered the Dhuhr prayers at Dhul- Hulaifah and then he branded his Badanah (sacrificial camels) and he rode his mount and began the Talbiyah."

On the authority of Anas Ibn Malik who narrated that: "Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) offered the Dhuhr prayers and then mounted his camel. When he ascended Al-Baida', he said the Talbiyah."

On the authority of Anas also (that): "Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) spent the night at Dhul-Hulaifah until the following morning when he offered the Subh prayers and then rode his camel until it took him to Al-Baidaa when he pronounced the Talbiyah for both 'Umrah and Hajj."

'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: "I used to apply perfume on Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and then he would visit his wives, and then he would assume Ihram in the morning while still emitting perfume."

On the authority of Kharijah Ibn Zaid Ibn Thabit from his father who narrated: "He saw Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) remove his cloth for his Talbiyah and take a bath.”

On the authority of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) that: “I applied perfume on Allah’s Messenger with my own hands with Dhareerah during the Farewell Pilgrimage for exiting the state of Ihram and entering into it.”

This Hadith points to the fact that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) applied perfume after the bath, for if the perfume were applied before the bath, it would have been washed away and none of its traces would remain – especially three days after assuming Ihram. Some of the predecessors, including Ibn ‘Umar, have opined that it is detestable to apply perfume at the time of Ihram.

Ibn ‘Umar narrated that Hafsa, the wife of the Prophet, asked: “O Messenger of Allah, why have the people finished their Ihram after performing ‘Umrah but you have not finished your Ihram after performing ‘Umrah?” He replied: “I have matted my hair and garlanded my Hady. So I will not finish my Ihram until I have slaughtered (my Hady).”

On the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who narrated that: “When Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) reached Dhul-Hulaifah, he called for his camel, marked it on the right side of its hump, removed the blood from it, and tied two sandals round its neck. He then mounted his camel.” The authors of the four Sunan have related it through different chains on the authority of Qatadah. This is a pointer that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) carried out the marking and garlanding of his Budn (sacrificial camel) with his own hands and he entrusted the marking and garlanding of the remainder to someone else for his Hady were many either numbering 100 or slightly less. It is also possible that he slaughtered 63 with his own hands and told ‘Ali to slaughter the remainder. The Hadith of Jabir indicates that ‘Ali came from Yemen with the Prophet’s Budn and the wordings of Ibn Ishaq mentions that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) shared his Budn with ‘Ali. And Allah (SWT) knows best. Others mentioned that he (the Messenger of Allah) and ‘Ali slaughtered 100 camels on the day of Nahr. Based on this, it is possible that he had herded them all the way from Dhul-Hulaifah and it is equally possible that he bought some of them afterward while he was a Muhrim.

The Explanation of the Place From Where Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), Began His Talbiyah

On the authority of ‘Umar who narrated (that the Messenger of Allah said): “Tonight a messenger came to me from my Lord and asked me to pray in this blessed valley and to assume Ihram for Hajj and ‘Umrah together.”

Salim Ibn ‘Abdullah said: I heard my father say, “Never did Allah’s Messenger assume Ihram except at the mosque, that is, at the Mosque of DhulHulaifah.”

However, Ibn ‘Umar has narrated something contrary to that as related on another angle which is related in the Saheehain from Ibn ‘Umar and he mentioned a Hadith concerning that, which is that ‘Abdullah said: “As for uttering the Talbiyah, I did not see Allah’s Messenger utter it until his camel proceeded with him.”

Al-Bukhari has said this in the chapter of facing the Qiblah to utter the Talbiyah.

On the authority of Nafi' who narrated that whenever Ibn 'Umar offered the morning prayers at Dhul-Hulaifah, he would call for his camel and mount it. When it stood upright, he would face the Qiblah and then pronounce the Talbiyah until he reached the sacred precinct. Then he would discontinue until he got to Dhi Tuwa. He would spend the night until the following morning. After offering the morning Salat, he would take a bath and he claimed that Allah's Messenger did the same thing.

On the authority of Ibn 'Abbas who narrated: The Prophet, (Peace and lessings of Allah be upon him) with his Companions started from Madinah after combing and oiling his hair and putting on two sheets of Ihram. He did not forbid anyone to wear any kind of sheets except the ones colored with saffron because they may leave the scent on the skin. In the early morning, the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) mounted his riding animal while in Dhul-Hulaifah and set out until they reached Baida', where he and his Companions recited Talbiyah, and then they did the ceremony of Taqleed (which means to put the colored garlands around the necks of the sacrificial animals). And all that happened on the 25th of Dhul-Qa'dah.

When he reached Makkah on the 4th of Dhul-Hijjah he performed the Tawaf round the Ka'bah and Sa'i between Safa and Marwah. Since he had a sacrificial animal with him and had garlanded it, he did exit from his Ihram. He proceeded toward the highest places of Makkah near Al-Hajoon and as he had assumed the Ihram for Hajj, he did not go near the Ka'bah after he performed Tawaf until he returned from 'Arafah. Then he ordered his companions to perform Tawaf and then the Tawaf of Safa and Marwah, and to cut short the hair of their heads and to exit from their Ihram. This was only for those people who had not garlanded a Budn. Those who had their wives with them were permitted to have sexual relation with them, and similarly use perfume and (ordinary) clothes were permissible for them. These narrations from Ibn ‘Abbas in which Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) began his Talbiyah after his camel had stood upright, are more authentic and well- established than the Hadith of Khusaif Al-Jazari from Sa’eed Ibn Jubair. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The narrations that are well-established and clarify that he began the Talbiyah when his mount stood upright with him have precedence over others because of the probability that he assumed his Ihram at the mosque when his camel had stood upright with him. Thus the narration containing his riding his camel would then be an additional information above the others. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

An Extensive Discussion on the Type of Ihram that Allah’s

Messenger Assumed in The Hajj

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Hajj Ifrad. And on the authority of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), who said: “We set out along with Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), while some of us had made intention for Hajj, others for ‘Umrah, and yet some others had made the intention for both Hajj and ‘Umrah. Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), made the intention for Hajj. Those who made the intention for ‘Umrah became free after they had circumambulated the Ka‘bah and went around the Safa and Marwah. Those who made the intention for Hajj or both Hajj and ‘Umrah did not become free until the day of Nahr.”

On the authority of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), who said: “Allah’s Messenger made intention for Hajj and ‘Umrah during the Farewell Pilgrimage and he came along with his Hady. Some of the people with him made intention for ‘Umrah and drove along with them their Hady. There were others who, however, made the intention for ‘Umrah but did not drive along with them the Hady.” ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) added: “I was among those who made intention for ‘Umrah and did not drive along with them their Hady. When Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), arrived, he said: ‘Whoever among you has driven the Hady, should not finish his Ihram until he completes his Hajj; and whoever among you has not (driven) the Hady with him, should perform Tawaf of the Ka‘bah and the Sa‘i between Safa and Marwah, then cut short his hair and exit his Ihram, and then later assume the Ihram for Hajj; but he must offer a Hady (sacrifice) ; and if anyone cannot afford a Hady, he should fast for three days during the Hajj and seven days when he returns home.” ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) added: “Then Allah’s Messenger brought forward the Hajj in which his death was feared and delayed the ‘Umrah.” This one of the Ahadeeth related exclusively by Ahmad though some of the wordings are objectionable but others have corroborations in the Saheeh. Saleh Ibn Abi Al-Khdar was not among the prominent companions of Az-Dhuhri especially when he is contradicted by others as is the case here in some of his wordings in this narration.

His statement: “Allah’s Messenger brought forward the Hajj, in which his death was feared, and delayed the ‘Umrah” obviously does not flow with the first section of the Hadith that he made intention for Hajj and ‘Umrah. If his intention in the clause is that he made his intention for both at the same and then he brought forward the rites of Hajj and upon concluding it, he made intention for ‘Umrah as opined by those argue that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did Ifrad and this is what we are discussing currently. However, if he intended that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), delayed the ‘Umrah in entirety after he had assumed Ihram for it, then I do not know any scholar who subscribes to that opinion. If he meant that he carried out the rites of Hajj separate from those of ‘Umrah and he entered ‘Umrah into Hajj, then this is the opinion of those who say that he (Allah’s Messenger) performed Qiran. They have interpreted the statement of the one who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) performed Ifrad, i.e. he performed the rites of Hajj Ifrad even though he had intended to perform ‘Umrah along with it. They said: “Everyone who narrated Ifrad had also narrated Al-Qiran.”

On the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), made the intention for Hajj arriving (at Makkah) four days into the month of Dhul-Hijjah. He led us in the Subh prayers at Batha’. Then he said: “Whoever wishes to make an intention for ‘Umrah may do so.”

Arguments that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), Performed Tamattu‘

On the authority of Ibn ‘Umar who narrated: “During the last Hajj (Hajjat ulWadaa‘) of Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

, he performed Tamattu‘, i.e. combined ‘Umrah with Hajj. He herded a Hady along with him from Dhul-Hulaifah. Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), started by assuming the Ihram for ‘Umrah and Hajj. The people also performed the ‘Umrah and Hajj along with the Prophet. Some of them brought a Hady with them, while others did not do so. When the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), arrived in Makkah, he said to the people, “Whoever among you has brought a Hady, should exit from his Ihram until he completes his Hajj; whoever has not brought the Hady with him, should perform Tawaf of the Ka‘bah and the Sa‘i between Safa and Marwah, then cut his hair and exit from his Ihram, and then later assume the Ihram for Hajj; however, he must offer a Hady (sacrifice) and if he is unable to afford a Hady, then he should fast for three days during the Hajj and seven days upon his return to his home.

The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Tawaf of the Ka‘bah; he would first touch the corner (where the Black Stone is located) and then perform Ramal (brisk walk moving the shoulders) during the first three rounds around the Ka‘bah; during the last four rounds he would walk at a normal pace. After finishing Tawaf of the Ka‘bah, he offered a two Raka‘ahs prayer at the Maqam of Ibrahim; he then went to Safa and Marwah and performed seven rounds of Sa'i between them and did not perform any ritual or any action which was forbidden for the one in Ihram. He continued until he completed all the rituals of his Hajj and sacrificed his Hady on the day of Nahr (10th day of Dhul-Hijjah). He then hastened toward Makkah and performed Tawaf of Ka'bah, after which everything that was forbidden because of Ihram became permissible. Those who brought with them a Hady did the same as Allah's Messenger did."

This Hadith is the more problematic of the three opinions. As for the opinion of Ifrad, there is affirmation of 'Umrah either before the Hajj or along with it. However, based on this narration, the opinion that he only performed Tamattu' (is problematic) because the narration mentions that he did not come out of his Ihram after he had performed the rounds between Safa and Marwah. This is not the nature of Tamattu'. Those who claim that he was prevented from exiting his Ihram say this because he brought with him a Hady. This is understood from the Hadith of Ibn 'Umar from Hafsa that she said as she asked the Prophet: "O Messenger of Allah, why have the people exited from their Ihram after performing 'Umrah, but you have not done so?" He replied: "I have matted my hair and garlanded my Hady. So I will not take out my Ihram until I have slaughtered (my Hady)." However, their statement is remote because the Hadith narrated for the affirmation of Qiran contradicts this statement as well as the fact that Allah's Messenger made the intention for 'Umrah first and then, after his Sa'i between Safa and Marwah, he made another intention for Hajj. No one narrates this sequence (or description) through any authentic chain, not even a hasan or dha'eef one.

As for his statement contained in this Hadith: “During the last Hajj (HajjatalWadaa‘) of Allah’s Messenger, he performed Tamattu‘,” i.e. combined ‘Umrah with Hajj. If it is intended by that At-Tamattu‘ solely, where a pilgrim becomes free after Sa‘i, then that is not the case here for the wordings of the Hadith contradict this and the affirmation of ‘Umrah alongside the Hajj of Allah’s Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, also contains a denial of it. If the general Tamattu‘ is intended by this, in which Al-Qiran is inclusive, then that may be possible.

Concerning his statement that “Allah’s Messenger started by assuming Ihram for ‘Umrah and Hajj”, if it is intended to mean that he pronounced the wording (of the intention for) ‘Umrah before that of Hajj perhaps by saying: “Labbaika Allahumma ‘Umratan wa Hajjan” (Here I am, O Allah, intending ‘Umrah and Hajj) it is easier and does not contradict Al-Qiran. If it is intended by this that he intended ‘Umrah first and then he added Hajj to it after a delay but before the Tawaf, then that would turn to Al-Qiran also. If he intended by it that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), made the intention for ‘Umrah and upon concluding its rites, he came out of Ihram or he did not come out of it due to his driving the Hady — as claimed by its proponents — but he if he had made the intention for Hajj after he had fulfilled the rites of ‘Umrah and before setting out for Mina, then this has not been narrated from any of the Companions as we have said earlier. The argument of whoever claims this among the people stands refuted due to lack of a (supporting) narration and its contradiction to Ahadeeth narrated concerning the affirmation of Qiran as shall be gleaned shortly, as well as the Ahadeeth reported concerning Ifrad as pointed out earlier. Allah knows best.

What is apparent, is that this Hadith of Al-Laith from ‘Uqail, from Az-Dhuhri from Salim from Ibn ‘Umar is related through another chain from Ibn ‘Umar when he intended (to perform) Hajj at the time of Al-Hajjaj’s siege against Ibn Zubair and it was said to him: “It appears that there is something between the people, shouldn’t you delay performing the Hajj this year?” He said: “Then I would be doing as the Prophet did, i.e. at the time of the siege of Hudaibiyah.” So he assumed Ihram for ‘Umrah from Dhul-Hulaifah. When he reached Baida’ he said: “I do not see their affairs except that it is one.” So he made intention for Hajj along with it. The sub-narrator believed that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), behaved in a similar manner, he started with the intention of ‘Umrah and then made the intention for Hajj and they reported it as such. However, there is an observation concerning that based on what we shall explain.

The explanation of this is contained in the Hadith reported that ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar set out on ‘Umrah during the fitnah and he said: "If I am prevented from accessing the House, we shall behave in a similar manner as Allah’s Messenger behaved." So he made intention for ‘Umrah and traveled till he reached Baida’. He turned toward his Companions and said: “I see that their differences have been reconciled. I call you to witness that I have combined Hajj with ‘Umrah.” He set out until he reached the House (Ka‘bah), circumambulated it, and walked between Safa and Marwah seven times without increasing it and he considers that permissible and he took with him a Hady.

It is also contained in the narration of Al-Bukhari that Ibn ‘Umar intended Hajj the year Al-Hajjaj advanced against Ibn Az-Zubair. It was said to him: “It appears that there is fighting between the people and we fear that they might be turned back.” He recited an Ayah: Indeed in the Messenger of Allah (Muhammad) you have a good example to follow. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:21)

And then said, “In that case, I shall do the same as the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had done. I call you to witness that I have merged Hajj with my ‘Umrah,” and then he set out till he reached Baida’. There he said: “I do not view the matter of Hajj and ‘Umrah except that they are the same. I call you to witness that I have merged Hajj with my ‘Umrah” and then he took a Hady which he had bought at Qudaid and he did not increase upon that and he did not slaughter, he did not commit any act forbidden because of Ihram and he did not shave his head for the first time. Ibn ‘Umar said: “This is the same as Allah’s Messenger had done.”

Al-Bukhari related from Nafi’ who related that ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar and his riding animal entered the house of Ibn ‘Umar. The son of Ibn ‘Umar said: “I fear that this year a battle might take place between the people and you might be prevented from going to the Ka’bah. I suggest that you stay here.” Ibn ‘Umar said: “Once Allah’s Messenger set out for pilgrimage, and the polytheists of Quraish intervened between him and the Ka’bah. So, if the people intervene between me and the Ka’bah, I would do the same as Allah’s Messenger had done... Indeed in the Messenger of Allah (Muhammad) you have a good example to follow. (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:21) Then he added: “I make you a witness that I have intended to perform Hajj along with ‘Umrah.” After arriving at Makkah, Ibn ‘Umar performed one Sa’i only (between Safa and Marwah).

Ibn ‘Umar had emulated the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), in exiting from Ihram at the blockade of the enemy and contentment with one Tawaf for both Hajj and ‘Umrah, because he had originally assumed Ihram for ‘Umrah so that he might perform Tamattu‘, and then feared that there would be a blockade so he merged them together; he merged Hajj into ‘Umrah prior to the Sa‘i so he became a Hajj Qiran pilgrim and he said: “I do not see any difference between the two, i.e. being prevented from Hajj or ‘Umrah or both.” Thus when he arrived in Makkah, he sufficed both of them with his first Sa‘i as distinct from the wordings of the first narration we cited, which is his view that he had fulfilled the requirements of Sa‘i of Hajj and ‘Umrah with his first Sa‘i. Ibn ‘Umar said: “This is the same as Allah’s Messenger has done.” Meaning, Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was content with one Sa‘i for both Hajj and ‘Umrah. In this is an indication that Ibn ‘Umar reported Hajj Qiran (from the Prophet) and this why An-Nasa’i related on the authority of Nafi’ that Ibn ‘Umar did a Qiran Hajj and ‘Umrah and he did one Tawaf.

An-Nasa’i also related on the authority of Nafi’ that Ibn ‘Umar came to DhulHulaifah and made the intention for ‘Umrah and feared that he may be prevented from reaching the House.

The import of this narration is that when some narrators heard Ibn ‘Umar say: “In that case, I shall do the same as the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had done,” and his other statement: “This is the same as Allah’s Messenger had done,” they believed that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had also started with the intention of ‘Umrah and then he intended Hajj and added it to the ‘Umrah before the Tawaf and thus they reported the meaning of what they understood. Meanwhile, Ibn ‘Umar did not intend that; rather what he intended was what we have already mentioned. Allah knows best what the most correct view is. Even based on the understanding that he initially made the intention for ‘Umrah and then added to it that of Hajj before the Tawaf; however, this still makes him a Hajj Qiran pilgrim and not pure Tamattu‘. Thus, there is no evidence that may be inferred from it by proponents of preference for Tamattu‘. And Allah (SWT) knows best. As for the Hadith reported by Al-Bukhari in his Saheeh from ‘Imran, who said: “We performed Tamattu’ during the time of the Prophet and then the Qur’an was revealed (regarding Hajj At-Tamattu‘) and somebody said what he wished (regarding Hajj At-Tamattu‘) according to his own opinion.” Muslim also related it.

The intended meaning here is the Tamattu’ which is more general than Qiran. What points to that is what Muslim related on the authority of ‘Imran Ibn Husain that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), combined Hajj and ‘Umrah. He mentioned the remainder of the Hadith. The majority of the preceding scholars used to apply Mut’ah to Al-Qiran as related by Al-Bukhari on the authority of Sa’eed Ibn Al-Musayyib who said: ‘Ali and ‘Uthman, may Allah be pleased with them, disagreed concerning Mut’ah (i.e. Tamattu‘), May Allah be pleased with both of them, while they were both at ‘Ufan. ‘Ali said: “You merely want to prohibit something that Allah’s Messenger had done.” When ‘Ali saw that, he made intention for both of them together.

The Evidence of Those Who Opine That Allah's Messenger Performed Hajj Qiran

The narration of Ameerul-Mu'mineen 'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, which Al-Bukhari reported that he said: I heard Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), say at the valley of 'Aqeeq: "Tonight a messenger came to me from my Lord saying: pray in this blessed valley and say: 'Umrah is entered into Hajj.'"

The narration of Anas Ibn Malik, may Allah be pleased with him is reported by a host of Tabi'een (successors) from him. We list them in alphabetical order:

Bakr Ibn 'Abdullah Al-Muzani: I heard Anas Ibn Malik narrate: "I heard Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), utter the Talbiyah of Hajj and 'Umrah together." I (Bakr, one of the narrators) narrated it to Ibn 'Umar, whereupon he said: "He (the Prophet) pronounced the Talbiyah for Hajj alone." I met Anas and narrated to him the words of Ibn 'Umar, whereupon he said: "You treat us only as children. I heard Allah's Messenger pronounce Talbiyah both for 'Umrah and Hajj."

I say: A similar narration with a chain of narrators linking ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) shall be cited later.

The narration of Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah, may Allah be pleased with him and his father, states: “The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed three Hajj. Two prior to his Migration and the third, he performed along with ‘Umrah (Qiran).”

The Narration of Abu Talhah That Allah’s Messenger Combined Hajj and ‘Umrah

Suraqah Ibn Malik Ibn Ju’shum narrated: "I heard Nazzal Ibn Sabrah, the companion of ‘Ali, say: I heard Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), say: “‘Umrah has been entered into Hajj till the Day of Resurrection.” He said: Allah’s Messenger performed Qiran in the Farewell Pilgrimage.

According to the narration of Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas from the Prophet that he made Tamattu’ (merger) of Hajj into ‘Umrah which is Al-Qiran that he heard Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas, Ad-Dahhak Ibn Qais the same year Mu’awiyah Ibn Abi Sufyan performed Hajj mentioning the combination of ‘Umrah into Hajj and Ad- Dahhak commented: “No one does that except he who is ignorant of the rulings of Allah.” Sa’d said: “How wrong is that which you have just said, O son of my brother!” Ad-Dahhak said: “This is because ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab used to forbid it.” Sa’d responded: “Allah’s Messenger had done it and we did it along with him.”According to the narration of ‘Abdullah Ibn Abi ‘Awfa: “Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), combined Hajj and ‘Umrah because he knew that he would not be able to perform another Hajj after that year.”

‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abbas narrated concerning that on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who said: “The Messenger of Allah performed four ‘Umrahs: the ‘Umrah of Hudaibiyah, the ‘Umrah Al-Qa‘ada’, the third was the ‘Umrah from Ji‘ranah, and the last was the one he performed along with his Hajj.”

‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him and his father, narrated: “Allah’s Messenger made Tamattu’ during the Farewell Pilgrimage; he obtained a Hady and it from Dhul-Hulaifah. Allah’s Messenger began by making the intention for ‘Umrah and then for Hajj.”

‘Imran Ibn Husain, may Allah be pleased with him, narrated: "I will narrate to you a Hadith, through which Allah might reward you is that Allah’s Messenger merged both his ‘Umrah and Hajj; neither did he forbid it until he died nor was the Qur’an revealed prohibiting it. He used to greet me, but when I cauterized myself he stopped and when I refrained (from cauterization) he resumed greeting me.”

The narration of Al-Hirmas Ibn Ziyad Al-Bahili on the authority of AlHirmas, who said: "I was riding behind my father when I saw the Prophet on his camel saying: Labbaik bi Hajjatin wa Umratin Ma’an (Here I am performing Hajj and ‘Umrah combined).

According to Hafsa Bint ‘Umar, the Mother of the Believers, she said to the Prophet: “O Messenger of Allah, why have you not exited from your Ihram as you have been commanded?” He replied: “I have matted my hair and garlanded my Hady, so I will not finish my Ihram until I have slaughtered (my Hady).”

According to the narration of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), she said: "We went out with Allah’s Messenger during the Hajjat Al-Wadaa’ and we assumed the Ihram for ‘Umrah. Then Allah’s Messenger said to us: 'Whoever has brought a Hady should assume Ihram for Hajj and ‘Umrah and should not exit from his Ihram until he has performed both (‘Umrah and Hajj).' I arrived at Makkah with him (i.e. the Prophet) while I was menstruating, so I did not perform the Tawaf around the Ka‘bah or between Safa and Marwah. I informed Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), about that and he said: 'Undo your braids and comb your hair, and then assume Ihram for Hajj and leave the ‘Umrah.' I did so, and when we performed and finished the Hajj, Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), sent me to At-Taneem along with (my brother) ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn Abu Bakr As-Siddiq, to perform the ‘Umrah. The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: 'This ‘Umrah is in lieu of your missed ‘Umrah.’” Those who had assumed Ihram for ‘Umrah, performed the Tawaf around the Ka‘bah and between Safa and Marwah, and then exited from their Ihram, and on their return from Mina, they performed another Tawaf (around the Ka‘bah and between Safa and Marwah), but those who combined their Hajj and ‘Umrah, performed only one run (between Safa and Marwah) (for both).”

If it is said that you have related from a group of Companions that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), singled out Hajj and then you also related that from them in their individual capacities and other than them that he (Allah’s Messenger) combined Hajj and ‘Umrah, so what is the reconciliation of this?

The answer to this is that the narration that he singled out Hajj may be understood that he singled out the rites of Hajj and the ‘Umrah was merged to it in intention, action and timing. This points to the fact that he sufficed both (the Hajj and ‘Umrah) with the Tawaf and Sa‘i of Hajj as is the opinion of the majority of the pilgrims performing Hajj Qiran; this differs from Imam Abu Hanifah, may Allah have Mercy on him, who opined that the Qiran pilgrim performs two Tawafs and Sa‘i relying on a narration from ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib. However, its chain that links up to him contains some doubts.

As for those who relate At-Tamattu’ and then also relate Al-Qiran, we have answered earlier that At-Tamattu’ in the parlance of the Salaf (righteous predecessors) is more general than the specific Tamattu’ and Al-Qiran. Rather, they apply it to performing ‘Umrah during the months of Hajj even if he did not perform Hajj. This is as stated by Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas: “We did Tamattu’ with Allah’s Messenger...” and this – i.e. Mu’awiyah – at that time was an unbeliever at Makkah; rather, he intended by that one of the two ‘Umrahs, either Hudaibiyah or Al-Qada’. As for ‘Umrah of Al-Ji’ranah, Mu’awiyah had accepted Islam at the time because it occurred after the Conquest of Makkah and the Farewell Pilgrimage came after that in the tenth year. This is clear and evident. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

If it is said that then what is your response to the Hadith related by Abu Dawood At-Tayalisi in his Musnad that Mu’awiyah said to a group of the Companions of the Messenger of Allah: “Do you know that Allah’s Messenger forbade Sufafin-Numoor (saddle linen).” They said: “Yes.” He added: “I am also witness to that.” Again he asked: “Are you aware that Allah’s Messenger prohibited wearing gold except a (small) portion?” They said: “Yes.” He asked further: “Do you know that Allah’s Messenger prohibited connecting Hajj with ‘Umrah?” They said: “No, he said it is connected to them.”

He found the narration of Mu’awiyah forbidding combining Hajj and ‘Umrah to be odd. Perhaps what was prohibited was Mut’ah and the narrator believed it was the Mut’ah of Hajj, while it was the Mut’ah with women, and so there was no narration in the knowledge of those Companions prohibiting it. Or perhaps the prohibition was about peering (Iqran) in dates as related in the Hadith of Ibn ‘Umar, thus the narrator believed that what was meant is AlQiran in Hajj and this is not the case. The person who used to ban the Mut‘ah of Hajj was ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, mayAllah be pleased with him, but his ban was not that of outright prohibition and imposition of obligation as we mentioned earlier. He used to ban it so as to single out Hajj with another journey so that the Ka‘bah may be frequently visited. The Companions, may Allah be pleased with them, used to fear him and most times they dared not contradict him. Nevertheless, his son used to oppose him and he would be asked: “Your father used to prohibit it,” and he would respond: “I fear that stones might rain down on you from the sky. Allah’s Messenger had done it. Is it the Sunnah of Allah’s Messenger we should follow or that of ‘Umar Ibn AlKhattab?’ Uthman, may Allah be pleased with him, also used to ban it and ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, differed from him as mentioned earlier. He would say: “I shall not abandon the Sunnah of Allah’s Messenger for the statement of anyone.” Thus, ‘Imran Ibn Husain said: “We did Tamattu’ along with Allah’s Messenger and the Qur’an was not revealed prohibiting it, and he did not forbid it even up to his death.” It is related in the Saheehain.

i.e. they did it with Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), at Makkah at the time (when the polytheists controlled it).

I say: It has been mentioned earlier that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did Hajj Qiran based on the Ahadeeth that relate it; between his Farewell Pilgrimage and his death were no more than 81 days and the Companions who witnessed it (the Hajj) both in statement and action numbered more than 40,000. Thus, if he had prohibited Qiran in Hajj during the Hajj which the people witnessed with him, not a single Companion would have reported it exclusively; (if he were to do so) a group from among them would refute him from those who heard from him and those who did not. All of these are part of the signs that indicate this is not well-preserved from Mu'awiyah, may Allah be pleased with him.

The Bases of Those Who Opined That Allah's Messenger Generalized His Ihram

It has been related from Ash-Shafi'i to be his preferred opinion, albeit it is a weak opinion. Ash-Shafi'i, may Allah have Mercy on him, said: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), set out from Madinah without specifying Hajj or 'Umrah; rather he waited for a ruling (from Allah). The ruling was revealed to him while he was between Safa and Marwah. Thus he commanded those from his Companions who had intended Hajj but did not bring along a Hady to make it an 'Umrah. He said: "Had I been privy to what I now possess of knowledge, I would not have driven the Hady but I have matted my hair and have driven the Hady so I will not finish my Ihram until I have slaughtered them." Then Suraqah Ibn Malik rose and said to him: "O Messenger of Allah, give us the ruling of the common people who have just been born today. Is this 'Umrah of ours only for this year or forever?" Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: "It is forever. 'Umrah has been entered into Hajj until the Day of Resurrection."

Thereafter, 'Ali came from Yemen and the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), asked him: "What intention have you made?” He responded: “Here I am with an intention similar to that of the Prophet.” Or (he said): “Here I am, intending the Hajj of the Prophet.”

This Hadith is mursal from Tawoos and there is some strangeness in it. AshShafi‘i’s own principle is that he does not accept mursal absolutely except if it is strengthened by another narration with the exception that it (the mursal) is from senior Followers (Tabi‘een) as his statement in Ar-Risalah indicates.

This is because in most cases, they (the Tabi‘een) do not drop a narrator except that he is a Companion. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

This mursal, however, is not from this set; rather, it contradicts all the Ahadeeth cited earlier – the Ahadeeth of Ifrad, Tamattu’ and Qiran — all of which are authentically related as pointed out earlier. All those Ahadeeth take precedence for they are evidences of affirmation while this mursal is that of negation and an evidence of affirmation takes precedence over that of negation if they are equal (in status and strength). How much more is it if a Musnad Saheeh contradicts a mursal which does not even rise up to the level of evidence due to the break in its chain. And Allah, the Exalted, knows best.

It is related that ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) said: "We set out with Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), without specifying Hajj or ‘Umrah. When we arrived, he ordered us to exit from Ihram. When it was the night of departure, Safiyyah Bint Huyayy saw her menses and the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: “A ruptured vein, there is nothing more than that; she is going to detain you.” He asked her: “Did you circumambulate (the Ka‘bah) on the day of Nahr?” She replied in the affirmative. “Then you may depart,” the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said. ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated further: I said: “O Allah’s Messenger, I have not made my intention.” The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: “Assume ‘Umrah from Tan‘eem.” The sub-narrator added: Her brother accompanied her. ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) added: “We met at the tail end of the night.” He said: “Your meeting point is at such-and-such place.” This is understood that this is not to be mentioned along with the Talbiyah even though it was mentioned at the point of Ihram as contained in the Hadith of Anas: I heard Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), say: “Labbaik Allahumma Hajjan wa ‘Umratan.” (Here I am intending Hajj and ‘Umrah). I heard them raising their voices together with both statements. As for the Hadith related by Muslim from Jabir and Abu Sa‘eed Al-Khudri, who both narrated: “We arrived along with Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), while we were raising our voices high with Hajj (Talbiyah).” Based on this, the Hadith is problematic. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Talbiyah of Allah’s Messenger

On the authority of ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar who narrated: Whenever his mount stood upright at the mosque of Dhul-Hulaifah, the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), would assume his intention. He said: “Labbaik Allahumma labbaik, labbaika la shareeka Laka labbaik. Innalhamda wan-ni‘mata Laka wal-mulk la shareeka Lak (Here I am responding to Your call, O Allah, Here I am. Here I am, You have no partner. All the praises and blessings are for You; all the sovereignty is for You; and You have no partners with You).” They said: ‘Abdullah used to say: “This is the Talbiyah of Allah’s Messenger.” Nafi’ added: ‘Abdullah used to add to this: “(Here I am responding to Your call (three times) and I am obedient to Your orders. All good is in Your Hands. Here I am, to You all requests and deeds are directed).”

On the authority of Zaid Ibn Khalid Al-Juhani who narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: “Jibraeel came to me and said: 'Order your Companions to raise their voice with the Talbiyah for it is the symbol of Hajj'.”

The Hadith of Jabir Concerning the Hajj of Allah’s Messenger

It is unique and distinctive in relating the rites of Hajj and we thought it correct to quote it at this juncture because it subsumes the Talbiyah and other rites of Hajj mentioned earlier and those that will be mentioned later. We relate its paths and wordings and we follow it with corroborations from Ahadeeth having similar meanings and help is sought from Allah.

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Ja‘far Ibn Muhammad who narrated that "my father related to me: 'We came to Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah while he was with Banu Salimah, and we asked him concerning the Hajj of the Prophet and he narrated to us that: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), stayed in Madinah for nine years without performing Hajj. Then afterward (in the tenth year) he made a public announcement that Allah’s Messenger shall perform Hajj this year, a large number of people came to Madinah, all of them eager to emulate the Prophet and follow his actions'."

Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), set out ten days to the end of the month of Dhul-Qa'dah and we accompanied him until we came to Dhul-Hulaifah when Asma' Bint 'Umais gave birth to Muhammad Ibn Abu Bakr. She sent a message to the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), asking him: "What should I do?" He (the Prophet) said: "Take a bath, place a bandage around your private parts, and place on Ihram."

The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), set out until his camel stood upright with him on its back at Baida'. He pronounced the Oneness of Allah (saying): "Labbaik Allahumma labbaik, labbaika la shareeka Laka labbaik. Innalhamda wan-ni'mata Laka wal-mulk la shareeka Lak (Here I am responding to Your call, O Allah, Here I am. Here I am, You have no partner. All the praises and blessings are for You; all the sovereignty is for You; and You have no partners with You)." And the people also followed suit while they also added: "Dhal-Ma'arij" (The Lord of the ways of ascent) and similar words while the Prophet was listening and yet he did not say anything (of objection) to them. I looked as far as I could see in front of Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), riders and pedestrians, and similar throngs were behind him, on his right and his left.

Jabir continued: "The Messenger of Allah, may peace be upon him, was prominent among us and the revelation of the Holy Qur'an was descending upon him. It is he who knows its true significance. Whatever he did, we also did that. We continued, having no intention other than to perform Hajj, until we came to the Ka'bah where he touched the pillar and made seven circuits jogging three of them and walking four. When he finished, he went to the Maqam-e-Ibrahim (Station of Ibrahim) to offer two Rak'ahs of prayer and then recited: 'And take you (people) the Maqam (place) of Ibrahim (or the stone on which Ibrahim stood while he was building the Ka'bah) as a place of prayer (for some of your prayers, e.g. two Raka'ahs after the Tawaf of the Ka'bah at Makkah) '."

Abu 'Abdullah (Ja'afar – the sub-narrator) added: "He recited in both units (of prayer) At-Tawheed (Soorah Al-Ikhlās) and Qul ya ayyuhal-Kafiroon (Soorah Al-Kafiroon). Then he went to kiss the Black Stone (Hajar Al-Aswad). Then he went to Safa and (as he reached near it) he recited: "Verily! As-Safa and Al-Marwah (two mountains in Makkah) are of the Symbols of Allah." (AlBaqarah 2:158) and then added: "We begin with what Allah has began." He first mounted Safa till he saw the House, and facing the Qiblah he extolled the greatness of Allah and then said: "La ilaha ill-Allah wahdahu la shareeka lahu la hul-mulk wa la hul-hamd wa Huwa a'laa kulli shai'in Qadeer. La ilaha ill-Allah anjaza wa'dahu wa sadaqa a'bdahu wa galabal-Ahzaba wahdahu (There is no deity worthy of worship (in truth) but Allah, the One, there is no partner with Him. His is the Sovereignty; to Him praise is due and He is Powerful over everything. There is no deity worthy of worship (in truth) but Allah, Who fulfilled His promise, helped His servant and overcame the confederates alone)." Then he supplicated and resumed these words and then descended until his feet came down in the bottom of the valley, where he began to jog, and when he began to ascend, he again started to walk until he reached Marwah. He ascended it, faced the House and he repeated what he said on Safa. When it was his seventh running at Marwah he said: "If I had known beforehand what I have come to know afterward, I would not have brought a sacrificial animals and would have performed an ‘Umrah. So, he who among you has not a sacrificial animal with him should exit the Ihram and treat it as an ‘Umrah.” And all of the people exited from their Ihram.

Suraqah Ibn Malik Ibn Ju‘ashum, who was at the foot of Marwah, got up and asked: “O Messenger of Allah, does it apply to the present year, or does it apply forever?” Thereupon the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), intertwined the fingers (of one hand) into another and said three times: “Forever.” And then he said: “The ‘Umrah has been incorporated into Hajj till the Day of Resurrection.”

‘Ali came from the Yemen with the Hady, while the Prophet had also come with Hady, and found that Fatimah had exited from the Ihram and had put on dyed clothes and had applied antimony. ‘Ali showed disapproval to it, whereupon she said: “Allah’s Messenger has commanded me to do this.” The narrator said that ‘Ali used to say these words in Kufah (Ja‘afar narrated: my fathersaid, words not mentioned by Jabir): “I went to the Messenger of Allah showing annoyance at Fatimah for what she had done, seeking the verdict of the Prophet regarding what she had narrated from him, and told him that I was angry with her, whereupon he said: ‘She has told the truth, she has told the truth, she has told the truth. I ordered her to do so.’”

Jabir continued: Then Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to ‘Ali: “What did you say when you intended to go for Hajj?” ‘Ali said: “O Allah, I am putting on the Ihram for the same purpose for which Your Messenger has put it on.” He said: “I have with me sacrificial animals, so do not exit from the Ihram.”

The total number of those sacrificial animals brought by ‘Ali from Yemen and of those brought by the Prophet were one hundred. Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), slaughtered sixty-three with his own hands and then told ‘Ali to slaughter the remainder and make him partake in his Hady. He then commanded that a piece of flesh from each animal sacrificed should be put in a pot, and when it was cooked, both of them (the Prophet and ‘Ali) took some meat out of it and drank from its broth.

The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: “I have slaughtered here and all of Mina is a place of slaughtering.” Then he stood on ‘Arafah and said: “I have stood here but all of ‘Arafah is a place for standing.” Then he stood at Muzdalifah and said: “I have stood here but all of Muzdalifah is a place for standing.” This is how Imam Ahmad has related this Hadith though he had summarized its concluding part. It is also related by Imam Muslim.

We had apprized that there are different additions in the wordings of Ahmad from that of Muslim up to the statement of Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), to ‘Ali: “She has told the truth, she has told the truth, she has told the truth. I ordered her to do so. What did you say when you made intention for Hajj?” ‘Ali said: “O Allah, I am putting on Ihram for the same purpose for which Your Messenger has put it on.” He said: “I have with me sacrificial animals, so do not exit from Ihram.”

Then all the people except the Prophet and those who had with them sacrificial animals, exited from their Ihram, and had their hair clipped. When it was the day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah) they went to Mina and put on Ihram for Hajj and the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), rode and led the noon, afternoon, sunset, 'Isha' and dawn prayers. He then waited a little until the sun rose, and commanded that a tent be pitched at Namirah.

The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then set out and the Quraish believed that he would stop at Al-Mash'ar Al-Haram (the sacred site) as the Quraish would do in the pre-Islamic period. The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), however, continued until he came to 'Arafah and found that the tent had been pitched for him at Namirah. There he alighted and stayed until the sun had passed the meridian; then he commanded that Al-Qaswa' should be brought and saddled for him. He came to the bottom of the valley, and addressed the people saying: "Verily your blood, your property are as sacred and inviolable as the sacredness of this day of yours, in this month of yours, in this town of yours. Behold! Everything pertaining to the Days of Ignorance is under my feet completely abolished.

Abolished are also the blood-revenges of the Days of Ignorance.

"The first claim of ours on blood-revenge which I abolish is that of the son of Rabee'ah Ibn Al-Harith, who was nursed among the tribe of Sa'd and killed by Hudhail. The usury of the pre-Islamic period is abolished, and the first of our usury I abolish is that of 'Abbas Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib, for it is all abolished. Fear Allah concerning women! Verily you have taken them on the security of Allah, and intercourse with them has been made lawful to you by the words of Allah. You have rights over them: they should not allow anyone to sit on your bed whom you do not like. But if they do that, you can chastise them but not severely. Their rights upon you are that you should provide them with food and clothing in a fitting manner.

“I have left among you the Book of Allah, and if you hold fast to it, you would never go astray. You will be asked about me (on the Day of Resurrection), what would you say?”

The audience said: “We will bear witness that you have conveyed (the message), discharged (the responsibility of Prophethood) and given wise counsel.” The narrator said: The Prophet then raised his forefinger toward the sky and pointing it at the people (said): “O Allah, bear witness. O Allah, bear witness,” saying it three times.

Then Bilal pronounced the Adhan and then Iqamah and the Prophet led the noon prayer. Bilal again uttered the Iqamah and the Prophet led the afternoon prayer and he observed no other prayer between the two.

The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then mounted his camel and came to the place of stay, making his she-camel, AlQaswa', turn toward the side where there were rocks, having the path taken by those who went on foot in front of him, and faced the Qiblah. He stood there until the sun set, and the yellow light had somewhat faded, and the disc of the sun had disappeared. He made Usamah sit behind him, and he pulled the nosestring of Al-Qaswa' (in order to keep her under perfect control) so forcefully that its head touched the saddle, and he pointed out to the people with his right hand to be moderate in speed, and whenever he happened to pass over an elevated tract of sand, he slightly loosened the nose-string of his camel until she climbed up and this is how he reached Al-Muzdalifah.

He led the evening and 'Isha' prayers with one Adhan and two Iqamas and did not glorify (Allah) between them (i.e. he did not observe supererogatory Raka'ahs between Maghreb and 'Isha' prayers). The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then lay down until dawn and offered the dawn prayers, with an Adhan and Iqamah. When the morning light was clear, he again mounted Al-Qaswa', and when he came to Al-Mash'ar AlHaram, he faced toward the Qiblah, supplicated Allah, Glorified Him, and pronounced His Uniqueness (La ilaha ill-Allah) and Oneness, and stood until the daylight was very clear.

He then went quickly before the sun rose, and seated behind him was Al-Fadl Ibn 'Abbas and he was a man having beautiful hair, a fair complexion, and a handsome face. As the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), traveled on, a group of women also traveled on his side. Al-Fadl began to look at them. The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), placed his hand on the face of Fadl who then turned his face to the other side; he again began to look and the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), turned his hand to the other side and placed it on the face of Al-Fadl who again turned his face to the other side until he came to the bottom of Muhassir. He urged Al-Qaswa' a little, and, following the middle road, which comes out at the Greatest Jamrah (Al-Kubra), he came to the Jamrah which is near the tree. At this he threw seven small pebbles, saying Allahu Akbar while throwing each one of them in a manner in which the small pebbles are thrown (with the help of fingers) and this he did at the bottom of the valley. He then went to the place of sacrifice, and sacrificed sixty-three (camels) with his own hand. Then he gave the remaining number to 'Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, who sacrificed them, and he made him partake in his sacrifice. He then commanded that a piece of flesh from each animal sacrificed be put in a pot, and when it was cooked, both of them (the Prophet and ‘Ali) took some meat out of it and drank its broth. The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), again rode and came to Ka’bah, and offered the Dhuhr prayers at Masjid Al-Haram. He came to the tribe of ‘Abdul-Muttalib, who were supplying water at Zamzam, and said: “Draw water, O Bani ‘Abdul-Muttalib; were it not that people would usurp this right of supplying water from you, I would have drawn it along with you.” So they handed him a bucket and he drank from it.

Places Where Allah’s Messenger Had Prayed During His Journey From Madinah to Makkah

Al-Bukhari related that Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah said: “I saw Salim Ibn ‘Abdullah looking for some places on the way and prayed there. He narrated that his father used to pray there, and had seen the Prophet praying at those very places.” Nafi’ on the authority of Ibn ‘Umar narrated: “I used to pray at those places.” (Moosa, the narrator added): “I asked Salim on which he agreed with Nafi’ concerning those places, except the mosque situated at a place called Sharaf Ar-Rawha.”

Nafi’ narrated that ‘Abdullah informed that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to stop at Dhul-Hulaifah under Samurah at the spot where the Mosque of Dhul-Hulaifah is located whenever he went for ‘Umrah and when he went for his Hajj. Whenever he returned from a Ghazwah, Hajj or ‘Umrah, he would return through the same route. Whenever he descended into the middle of the valley, he would make his camel kneel down at a basin by the eastern edge of the valley to take rest until the following morning; neither in the mosque close to the Hijarah (stone) nor the hillock upon which the mosque lies. It is at that bay, the middle of which is a sand hill, ‘Abdullah used to pray. Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to pray there. Torrential rainfall into the basin eventually buried the spot in which ‘Abdullah used to pray.

Nafi’ also said that ‘Abdullah related to him that the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), prayed at the spot occupied by the small mosque which is before the mosque at the honored Rawha’. ‘Abdullah used to know the spot where the Prophet had prayed. He would say: There on your right is where you should stand to pray. That is the mosque on the edge of the road on the right as you are going toward Makkah. Between it and the big mosque is the distance of a stone’s throw or thereabouts.

Ibn ‘Umar used to pray toward a hill by the exit of Ar-Rawha’. The edge of that hill terminates into the edge of the road before the mosque, which is between it and the exit on your way toward Makkah. A mosque was constructed at the spot but ‘Abdullah would not to pray in that mosque but would rather abandon it toward his left behind him and he would pray in its front toward the hill itself. ‘Abdullah used to relax at Ar-Rawha’ and he would not offer the Dhuhr prayers until he got to that spot where he would then offer the Dhuhr prayers. On his way back from Makkah, if he passed it an hour before the Subh prayers or at the end of the Sahar (early morning before dawn), he would tarry so that he could offer the Subh prayers there.

‘Abdullah narrated that the Prophet used to alight under a massive tree just before Ar-Ruwaithah by the right side of the road at an expansive area. He would descend until there were two miles between him and Bareed ArRuwaithah. Its top portion had been chipped; it is curved in the middle and it is straight at its lower trunk, where there is plenty of sand.

He also reported that Ibn ‘Umar narrated to him that the Prophet prayed at the edge of the hill located behind Al-‘Araj on your way to Hadbah. There are two or three graves by that mosque. On the graves were heaps of stones by the right side of the road by its edge. Between those edges, ‘Abdullah used to relax by Al-‘Araj after the sun had deflected by the midday and then he would offer the Dhuhr prayers in that mosque.

‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar narrated to him that Allah’s Messenger alighted at the location of some big trees on the left side of the road in the ravine at the lower end of Harsha. That ravine is connected to Kura’ Harsha. Between it and the road is the distance of an arrow shot. ‘Abdullah used to pray toward the tree which is the closest of the trees to the road and the tallest of them.

‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar narrated to him that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to alight at the ravine located at the lowest part of Marraz- Zahran toward Madinah upon descending from AsSafrawat. He would descend into the middle of that ravine on the right side of the road on your way to Makkah. Between the place where the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had alighted and the road is a distance of a stone throw. Nafi’ also said that Ibn ‘Umar informed him that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to alight at Dhi Tuwa and he would spend the night until the following morning when he would move ahead to Makkah. The place where Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), prayed was a rough hillock; not in the mosque built there but on the hillock at a lower spot.

He also mentioned that 'Abdullah narrated to him that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), approached the crevices of the mountain which is located between him and the sprawling mountain toward the Ka'bah. The mosque was on the left of the edge of the hillock. The place of prayer of the Prophet was at a lower section on the black hillock. He would inch away from the hillock the distance of ten arms length or thereabouts and then he would pray toward the crevices of the mountain which is located between you and Ka'bah. Al-Bukhari related this Hadith in its length and wordings exclusively.

Much or most of these places are no longer known today because much of their names have been changed by the Bedouins living there. Ignorance has overtaken most of them. Al-Bukhari has related in his book that perhaps someone might be guided to them through investigation, scrutiny and research. r perhaps many or most of them were known during the time of Al-Bukhari. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Prophet's Entrance Into Makkah

On the authority of Ibn 'Umar who narrated that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to spend the night at Dhi Tuwa, and he would offer the Subh prayers on his way to Makkah. The place of prayer of the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was by a rough hillock and Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), would face the crevices of the mountain located between him and the sprawling mountain in the direction of the Ka'bah. The mosque which had been built was on the left of the edge of the hillock. The place of prayer of the Prophet was at a lower section of a black hillock at a distance ten cubits or thereabout from the hillock. He would pray toward the crevices of the mountain which intervenes between you and the Ka'bah. This is related in the Saheehain. Whenever Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), reached Dhi Tuwa, close to Makkah and near the Haram, he would stop uttering the Talbiyah because that was his destination. He would spend the night at that place and would offer the Subh prayers there at the described spot between the two crevices of the sprawling mountain were located. Whoever looks closely at these indicated places with insight will recognize them and the place where Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), prayed will be identified. Then Allah's Messenger would take a bath for the entrance of Makkah, and he would ride and enter it during the day time publicly through Thaniyyat Al-Ulya located at the basin-shaped valley also known as Kada' so that people may see him and to supervise them. This is how he entered it on the Day of the Conquest as mentioned earlier.

Ibn 'Umar related that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), entered Makkah through the upper Thaniyyah and exited through the lower Thaniyyah. Related in the Saheehain from his Hadith. Then Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), entered the Mosque through the door of Banu Shaibah.

Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi said: Ibn Juraij informed us from ‘Ata’ Ibn Abi Rabah who said: “The Muhrim enters from anywhere he wants.” He added: “And the Prophet entered through the gate of Banu Shaibah and exited to Safa through Banu Makhzoom.” Al- Baihaqi further commented: “This is a good mursal.”

Description of His Tawaf

Al-Bukhari related that ‘Urwah said: ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) informed me that: “The first thing the Prophet did on reaching Makkah, was the ablution and then he performed Tawaf of the Ka‘bah and that was not ‘Umrah (alone), (but Hajj Qiran).” ‘Urwah added: “Later, Abu Bakr and ‘Umar did the same in their Hajj.” And I performed the Hajj with my father Az-Zubair, and the first thing he did was Tawaf of the Ka‘bah. Later, I saw the Muhajiroon (Emigrants) and the Ansar doing the same. My mother (Asma’) told me that she, her sister (‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her)), AzZubair and so-and-so persons put on Ihram for ‘Umrah, and after they passed their hands over the Black Stone Corner they took out their Ihram (i.e. after doing Tawaf of the Ka‘bah and Sa‘i between Safa and Marwah).

Al-Bukhari related that ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, came to the Black Stone, kissed it and then said: “I am kissing you, whereas I know that you are a stone, were it not that I saw Allah’s Messenger kissing you, I would not have kissed you.” Muslim also reported it.

Al-Bukhari related that ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab addressed the Black Stone saying: “By Allah! I know that you are a stone and can neither benefit nor harm. Had I not seen the Prophet touching and kissing you, I would never have touched and kissed you.” Then he kissed it and said: “There is no reason for us to do Ramal (brisk walking in Tawaf) except that we wanted to show off before the pagans, and now Allah has destroyed them.” ‘Umar added: “ (Nevertheless), the Prophet did that and we do not want to leave it (i.e. Ramal).”

Abu Dawood At-Tayalisi related from Ja‘afar Ibn ‘Uthman Al-Qurashi who reported from an inhabitant of Makkah saying: Isaw Muhammad Ibn ‘Abbad Ibn Ja‘afar kissing the Stone and prostrating to it. Thereafter he said: I saw your maternal uncle kissing it and prostrating to it and Ibn Abbas said: I saw ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab kissing and prostrating to it and ‘Umar said: “Had I not seen the Prophet kissing it, I would never have kissed it.” This chain is good.

In sum, this Hadith related from different chains from Ameerul-Mu’mineen, ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, is decisive in the opinion of many scholars on this matter. There is nothing in these narrations showing that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), prostrated before the Black Stone except what is mentioned in the narration of Abu Dawood At-Tayalisi from Ja‘afar Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Uthman and it is not clearly connected to the Prophet.

Al-Bukhari related from Az-Zubair Ibn ‘Arabi who said: “A man asked Ibn ‘Umar concerning the touching of the Black Stone and he said: I saw Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), touching and kissing it.” The man said: “What if there is a crowd and I am overcrowded?” He replied: “I saw Allah's Messenger touching and kissing it." Muslim related it exclusively.

Abu Dawood, An-Nasa'i related on the authority of Ibn 'Umar that Allah's Messenger never abandoned touching the Yemeni corner and the Hajar (Black Stone) in all his Tawaf.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Salim Ibn 'Abdullah from his father that he said: "I did not see the Prophet touch any part of the House (Ka'bah) except the two Yemeni corners." It is also related by Muslim.

Al-Bukhari related from Abi Ash Sha'tha' who said: "Who would avoid any part of House?" Mu'awiyah used to touch all the corners and Ibn 'Abbas said to him: "These two corners are not to be touched." Mu'awiyah said in response: "There is nothing of the House that should be abandoned." Ibn AzZubair also used to touch all of the corners. Al-Bukhari related this narration exclusively, may Allah have Mercy on him.

On the authority of Ibn 'Abbas who said: "I did not see Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), touching other than the two Yemeni corners." Muslim related it exclusively.

The report of Ibn 'Umar agrees with that of Ibn 'Abbas that the two Shami corners are not to be touched because they were not built on the foundation of Ibrahim. The Quraish were short of funds so they expunged the Hijr from the House when they were rebuilding it as stated earlier. The Prophet desired to complete it upon the foundation of Ibrahim but feared that since the people had abandoned Jahiliyyah recently, their hearts would be repelled by such an action. During the reign of 'Abdullah Ibn Az-

Zubair, the Ka‘bah was destroyed and he built it on the foundation indicated as he was informed by his maternal aunt, the Mother of Believers, ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) Bint Abu Bakr As-Siddiq. If Ibn Az-Zubair had touched all of the corners after rebuilding it on the foundation of Ibrahim, then that will be considered very good and this is more likely of him.

An-Nasa’i related on the authority of ‘Abdullah Ibn As-Sa’ib who said: I heard Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), say between the Yemeni corner and the Black Stone: “Our Lord! Give us in this world that which is good and in the Hereafter that which is good, and save us from the torment of the Fire.” (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:201)

Abu Dawood also related on the authority of Jabir that when the Prophet arrived in Makkah, he entered the Mosque and touched the Black Stone and then proceeded toward his right jogging three times (round the Ka‘bah) and walking the remaining four circuits. Then he came to the Maqam (Ibrahim) and said: “And take you (people) the Maqam (place) of Ibrahim (or the stone on which Ibrahim stood while he was building the Ka‘bah) as a place of prayer (for some of your prayers, e.g. two Raka’ahs after the Tawaf).” (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:125) He offered two units of prayer while the Maqam was intervening between him and the House. Afterward, he went to the Black Stone after the two Raka’ahs and touched it and then exited to Safa and I think he said: “Verily! As-Safa and Al-Marwah are of the Symbols of Allah.” (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:158) This Hadith is hasan saheeh and so is working according to it the people of knowledge.

The Description of the Prophet's Ramaland Idtiba' During His Tawaf

When Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Tawaf of the Ka'bah for Hajj or 'Umrah, the first thing he did was to do Ramal during the first three rounds, and in the last four rounds he would walk; then after the Tawaf he used to offer two Raka'ahs and then performed Tawaf between Safa and Marwah. Imam Muslim also related it from the Hadith of Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah.

Al-Bukhari also related from Ibn 'Umar that: "Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to circumambulate the Ka'bah the first time jogging through three circuits and walking through four. He also used to run when he got to the middle of the valley whenever he did Sa'i between Safa and Marwah." It is related by Muslim.

'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him, said concerning why Ramal was done and the shoulders were exposed: "Allah established Islam and banished disbelief and its adherents. Nevertheless, we will never abandon whatever we used to do with Allah's Messenger." It is related by Ahmad, Abu Dawood, Ibn Majah and Al-Baihaqi.

All of these are refutations of Ibn 'Abbas and those who follow him from the opinion that Ramal is not Sunnah, as Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), only did it when he and his Companions arrived on the morning of the fourth day on the 'Umrat Al-Qada' and the Mushrikoon (polytheists) said: "A delegation that has been debilitated by the fever of Yathrib has come to you," thus, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), ordered to jog (Ramal) through the first three circuits and to walk the distance between the two corners and nothing prevented (him from commanding) them from jogging through all the circuits except out of pity for them. This is established in the Saheehain. Ibn 'Abbas used to disprove the occurrence of Ramal during the Farewell Pilgrimage. However, it is authentically related and confirmed as stated earlier and in it is a more complete addition confirming Ramal. He did not walk between the two Yemeni corners owing to the abatement of that reason, which is weakness.

It is recorded in an authentic Hadith from Ibn 'Abbas that they did Ramal in the 'Umrah of Ji'ranah and they also did Idtiba'. This is a refutation against him as during the 'Umrah of Ji'ranah, they were not under any type of fear because it occurred after the Conquest as stated earlier.

Ibn 'Abbas narrated that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and his Companions assumed 'Umrah from Ji'ranah and they did Ramal and Idtiba', placing a part of their Rida' (upper garment) under their armpits and the other end of it over their shoulders. It is related by Abu Dawood.

Concerning Idtiba' during the Farewell Pilgrimage, Ya'la Ibn Umayyah from Umayyah who said: I saw Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), circumambulating the House with Idtiba'. Related by AtTirmidhi from the Hadith of Thawree and he said it is hasan saheeh.

Jabir said in his Hadith related earlier: "Until we came to Ka'bah where he touched the pillar and (made seven circuits) jogging three of them and walking four. When he finished, he went to the Maqam Ibrahim to offer two units of prayer and then he recited: 'And take you (people) the Maqam Ibrahim as a lace of prayer (for some of your prayers, e.g. two Raka'ahs after the Tawaf of the Ka'bah at Makkah) '." Abu 'Abdullah (Ja'afar – the sub-narrator) added: "He recited in both units (of prayer) At-Tawheed (Soorah Al-Ikhlās) and Qul ya ayyuhal Kafiroon (Soorah Al-Kafiroon)."

If it is said: Was Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), riding or walking during this Tawaf? The answer is that two narrations have been reported which are thought to be contradictory and we relate them and indicate reconciliation between them and clear the mind of those who have a false impression that there is contradiction between them; Allah is the source of fortune and from Him is assistance sought, He is sufficient for us and the best trustee.

Al-Bukhari related from Ibn 'Abbas that: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), circumambulated (the Ka'bah) on his camel during the Farewell Pilgrimage and he would touch the corner with a staff.

Muslim related on the authority of 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), circumambulated round the Ka'bah on his camel during the Farewell Pilgrimage and he touched the corner and he did not like that the people should be pushed away from him. This is an affirmation that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), circumambulated riding a camel during the Farewell Pilgrimage and there were three Tawafs in the Farewell Pilgrimage: the first is Tawaf Al-Qudoom, the second is Tawaf Al-Ifadah which the obligatory Tawaf on the day of sacrifice and the third is Tawaf Al-Wadaa'. Perhaps his riding (to perform Tawaf) occurred either in one or both of the last two Tawafs. As for the first, which is Tawaf AlQudoom, he was walking during it. Ash-Shafi'i has related all of these. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Abu Dawood related on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), arrived in Makkah with a an ailment and so he circumambulated on his mount. When he came to the corner he touched it with a stick. When he completed his Tawaf, he made his camel kneel and then offered two units of prayer. Yazeed Ibn Abi Ziyad related it exclusively but he is judged to be weak.

Also, he did not mention that it was during the Farewell Pilgrimage and he did not mention whether it occurred in the first Tawaf during the Farewell Pilgrimage and he did not mention Ibn 'Abbas in the authentic Hadith in Muslim. So also Jabir narrated that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), rode in his Tawaf due to weakness and it is also mentioned that the weakness was due to the large number of people and their frequent visits (to him) and he did not like that people be beaten in his presence as shall be confirmed shortly insha'Allah.

Also, the second kissing after the Tawaf after the two Raka'ahs which is mentioned by Ibn Ishaq in his narration is equally confirmed in Saheeh Muslim from the Hadith of Jabir. He said after mentioning the two Raka'ahs after Tawaf: "Then he returned to the corner and touched it."

Imam Muslim related in his Saheeh on the authority of Nafi' who said: "I saw Ibn 'Umar touching the Black Stone with his hand and then he kissed his hand and then said: I have never abandoned it since I saw Allah's Messenger doing it." This implies that he saw Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), in some of his Tawafs or it was in his last Tawaf that he did that as we have mentioned, or perhaps Ibn 'Umar did not get to the Black Stone due to his weakness or perhaps so that he may not push others and they may not be harmed by him.

His Sa'i Between As-Safa and Al-Marwah

Imam Muslim related in his Saheeh on the authority of Jabir in his lengthy Hadith quoted earlier after mentioning his seven circuits around the House, his two Raka'ahs of Salat at the Maqam, hesaid: Thereafter, he went out to Safa and (as he reached near it) he recited: "Verily! As-Safa and Al-Marwah are of the Symbols of Allah." (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:158) and then added: "We begin with what Allah has begun." He first mounted Safa till he saw the House, and facing the Qiblah he extolled the greatness of Allah and then said: "La ilaha ill-Allah wahdahu la shareeka lahu lahul- mulk wa lahul-hamd wa Huwa a'la kulli shai'in Qadeer. La ilaha ill-Allah anjaza wahdahu wa sadaqa a'bdahu wa ghalabal-ahzab wahdahu (There is no deity worthy of worship (in truth) but Allah, the One, there is no partner with Him. His is the Sovereignty; to Him is due praise and He is Powerful over everything. There is no deity worthy of worship (in truth) but Allah, Who fulfilled His promise, helped His servant and overcame the confederates alone)." Then he supplicated and then resumed these words and then he descended until his feet came down to the bottom of the valley, then he ran, and when he began to ascend, he walked again till he reached Al-

Marwah. He ascended it, faced the House and he repeated what he said on As-Safa’.

On the authority of Umm Walad Shaibah Ibn ‘Uthman who said that she saw the Prophet going between As-Safa and Al-Marwah (for Sa‘i). An-Nasa’i related it. The meaning of Sa‘i here is the movement from As-Safa to AlMarwah and vice versa and the meaning here is not the jogging and hastening. This is because Allah has not made it compulsory on us; rather, if a man were to walk normally throughout the seven circuits and he did not perform Ramal (jogging) in the ravine, that will still suffice him according to a group of scholars and no difference of opinion is known concerning that.

At-Tirmidhi, may Allah have Mercy on him, reported from some people of knowledge from Katheer Ibn Jumhan who said: “I saw Ibn ‘Umar walk in the Masa’a (place of Sa‘i) and I said to him: ‘Do you walk between As-Safa and Al-Marwah?’ He said: ‘If I hasten, I have seen Allah’s Messenger doing that and if I walk, I have seen Allah’s Messenger doing that as well and coupled with that, I am an old man’.” Then the narrator said: This Hadith is hasan saheeh.

The statement of ‘Umar that he witnessed the two situations from Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), implies two things:

That he saw him walk during the Sa‘i and not jogging at all.

Or that he saw him hasten a part and walk a part of the way.

This (the second implication) is perhaps stronger because it has been related by both Al-Bukhari and Muslim on the authority of Ibn ‘Umar that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to hasten in the middle of the valley whenever he went between Safa and Marwah. It is has been stated earlier in the Hadith of Jabir that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), “Descended until his feet came down in the bottom of the valley, then he ran, and when he began to ascend, he again walked until he reached Marwah.” This is the more preferred opinion of the scholars that it is recommended to jog in the middle of the valley at each circuit during the Sa‘i. They designate it to be between the green mileposts; one toward Safa close to the Mosque and two together in the direction of Marwah, also close to the Mosque. Some of the scholars said: The distance between these mileposts today is wider than the middle of the valley in which Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), jogged. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

As for the statement of Muhammad Ibn Hazm in the book he compiled on the Farewell Pilgrimage: “Then he (the Messenger of Allah) exited to Safa and he recited: “Verily! As-Safa and Al-Marwah are of the Symbols of Allah.” (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:158) I start with what Allah has started,” then he went between Safa and Marwah seven times riding, or jogging through the first three circuits and walking the remaining four. No one has concurred with him on this opinion and nobody has uttered it before him that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), ran three circuits between Safa and Marwah and he walked four circuits. Coupled with this serious error, he did not adduce for it any evidence at all. Rather, when he got to the point of adducing evidence for it, he said: “We do not find any text for the number of jogging between Safa and Marwah even though that is agreed upon. If he intends that the Ramal in the first three circuits is agreed upon, then this is not correct; in fact, no one has said it. If he intends that the Ramal in the first three circuits is generally agreed upon, then that also does not avail him nor does it actualize his intention.

Just as they are agreed upon Ramal in the first three circuits, they have also agreed on its being recommended in the other four circuits. Hence, Ibn Hazm's restriction of Ramal to the first three circuits is contrary to what the scholars have mentioned.

As for Ibn Hazm's statement that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was riding between Safa and Marwah, then it has been presented earlier on the authority of Ibn 'Umar that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to hasten in the middle of the valley.

In the narration of At-Tirmidhi on his authority, it reads: "If I hasten, (this is because) I have seen Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), doing so; and if I walk, (this is because) I have seen Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) doing so." Jabir also said: "When he descended until his feet came touched the bottom of the valley, then he ran, and when he began to ascend, he again walked." It is related by Muslim. Habeebah Bint Abi Tijrat narrated: "He hastened and his Izar gathered round him due to the intensity of the jogging." It is related by Ahmad. It is recorded in Saheeh Muslim on the authority of Jabir as stated earlier that he climbed Safa until he could see the House and similarly on Marwah.

It is stated earlier on the authority of Jabir that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), made his camel kneel down at the gate of the Mosque until he circumambulated and it is not mentioned that he mounted it at the time when he went out to Safa. All of these indicate the possibility that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Sa'i on foot.

However, Muslim related on the authority of Abu Az-Zubair that he heard Jabir Ibn 'Abdullah say: During the Farewell Pilgrimage, the Prophet performed the Tawaf of the House on the back of his mount and the Sa'i on his camel so that the people could see him, to direct them and that they may ask him questions; neither the Prophet nor his Companions performed Sa'i except once.

Abu Dawood has related on the authority of Abu Az-Zubair that he heard Jabir Ibn 'Abdullah say: "During the Farewell Pilgrimage, the Prophet circumambulated the House and then between Safa and Marwah."

This is well-preserved in the Hadith of Ibn Juraij which is very problematic because the remainder of the narrations of Jabir and others indicated that the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Sa'i on foot. It is possible that this addition is a version of Abu Az-Zubair and his statement: "Between Safa and Marwah" is an interpolation from someone after the Companions. And Allah (SWT) knows best. Or perhaps Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), carried out some of his Tawafs on foot and they witnessed what has been mentioned but when the number of the people became multiplied and there was overcrowding, he rode as indicated by the Hadith of Ibn 'Abbas coming shortly. Ibn Hazm conceded that his first Tawaf around the House was on foot and understood his riding during Tawaf to be in the ones after. He also claimed that he was riding during the Sa'i, he said: Because he did not circumambulate but once and he interpreted the statement of Jabir: "till his feet touched the bottom of the valley, then he ran," as to be correct. If he was riding, then, when his camel descended into the valley, he has descended entirely, his foot along with the rest of his body. This interpretation is very remote indeed. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Abu Dawood related on the authority of Abu Tufail who said: I said to Ibn 'Abbas: "Your people claim that Allah's Messenger did Ramal round the House and that is part of his Sunnah." He replied: "They told the truth and they lied." I said: "Where did they speak the truth and where did they tell a lie?" He said: "They spoke the truth for the Messenger of Allah did Ramal but they lied because it is not Sunnah. During the period of Hudaibiyah, the Quraish said: Leave him and his Companions to die like maggots. Afterward, they reached an armistice to allow the Muslims to perform Hajj the following year and to reside in Makkah for three days for that purpose. Allah's Messenger arrived (in Makkah) while the polytheists were in the direction of Qu'aiqi'an. Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to his Companions: 'Do Ramal of the House three times.' Thus, it is not Sunnah."

She said: "Your people claim that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went between Safa and Marwah on the back of his camel and that is Sunnah." He said: "They told the truth and they lied. They spoke the truth for the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did Sa'i but they lied because it is not Sunnah. It was difficult repelling and staving off the people from the Prophet so he rode his camel so that they may hear and see him (well) and to observe his movements without their hands reaching him.”

Muslim has related on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas in which he mentioned the virtue of circumambulating the House in the manner described above and then he said: She said to Ibn ‘Abbas: “Relate to me about the Tawaf between Safa and Marwah while riding, for your people claim that it is Sunnah?” He replied: “They told the truth and they lied.” I said: “What do you mean by your statement: they told the truth and they lied.” He said: “The people swarmed Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), shouting: ‘This is Muhammad! This is Muhammad!’ Until the virgin girls came out of the houses. Meanwhile, the Prophet did not tolerate that people be beaten in his presence. However, when he was overcrowded, he rode.” Ibn ‘Abbas added: “But walking and hastening is preferred.” This is the wording of Muslim and it implies that his riding was circumstantial and this is a reconciliation of all the Ahadeeth. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

As for what is related by Muslim in his Saheeh on the authority of Abu Tufail who said: “I said to Ibn ‘Abbas: ‘I think that I saw Allah’s Messenger.’ He (Ibn ‘Abbas) said: ‘Describe him to me.’ I said: ‘I saw him near Marwah on the back of a she-camel, and people thronged around him.’ Thereupon Ibn Abbas said: ‘It was Allah’s Messenger for they (the crowd of people) were neither pushed aside from him, nor were they turned away!’” Muslim has related it exclusively and there is nothing in it indicating that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed the Sa‘i between Safa and Marwah riding since that was neither restricted to the Farewell Pilgrimage nor other than it. Supposing that it occurred during the Farewell Pilgrimage, from what is possible is that after Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had concluded his Sa'i, his sitting on Marwah, his addressing the people, his commanding those who did not drive their Hady among them to turn their Hajj into 'Umrah and they had exited from their Ihram (as commanded) except those who came with their Hady, as stated earlier in the Hadith of Jabir; after all these, he came to his camel, mounted it and proceeded to his residence at Al-Abtah as we shall relate shortly. It is at this time Abu At-Tufail 'Amir Ibn Wathilah Al-Bakri saw him. He was also counted among the junior Companions.

However, Abu Dawood related on the authority of Abu At-Tufail who said: "I saw the Prophet circumambulating the House on the back of his camel, touching the corner with a staff and then would kiss it (the stick)." Muhammad Ibn Rafi' added: "Afterward, he went out to Safa and Marwah and he walked between them seven times (riding) on his camel." Muslim has also related it in his Saheeh from the Hadith of Abu Dawood At-Tayalisi.

On the authority of Qudamah Ibn 'Abdullah Ibn 'Ammar Al-Kilabi who narrated that he saw Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), pelting the Jamrah on the day of Nahr at the middle of valley while riding a reddish camel, neither beating nor shoving (people) and he was not saying: "(stay) away from me, (stay) away from me."

I say: A number of scholars from Iraq like Abu Hanifah and his companions and Ath-Thawri have posited that a Qarin (a pilgrim performing Hajj Qiran) should do two Tawafs and two Sa'is. This opinion is also related of 'Ali, Ibn Mas'ood, Mujahid and Ash-Sha‘bi. They can adduce the lengthy Hadith of Jabir as a proof that the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did Sa‘i between Safa and Marwah on foot and this Hadith of his that the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Sa‘i between both of them on foot throughout the number of circuits on one occasion and on another riding. Sa‘eed Ibn Mansoor has related in his Sunan on the authority of ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, that he made intention for Hajj and ‘Umrah. When he arrived in Makkah, he circumambulated the House and between Safa and Marwah for his ‘Umrah. Thereafter, he circumambulated the House and walked between Safa and Marwah for his Hajj. He remained in Ihram until the day of sacrifice. This wording is his.

Abu Dharr Al-Harawi in Al-Manasik said on the authority of ‘Ali that he combined both Hajj and ‘Umrah and he performed two Tawafs and Sa‘i (i.e., one each) for both of them and said: “This is how I have seen Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), behave.” This is how Al-Baihaqi, Ad-Daraqutni and An-Nasa‘i also related in Khasa’is ‘Ali.

Al-Baihaqi related in his Sunan on the authority of Abu Nasr who said: I met ‘Ali while I had made intention for Hajj and he had made intention for both Hajj and ‘Umrah so I asked: “Is it possible for to me to act in a similar manner (as you have acted)?” He replied: “That is on the condition that you started with the ‘Umrah.” I said: “What do I do if I intend to do that?” He said: “You will take a container of water and you will take a bath with it. Then you will make intention for both of them together and then you will perform two Tawafs and Sa‘is (i.e., one each) for both of them and it is not permissible for you to do anything that will vitiate your Ihram before the day of sacrifice.”

Al-Mansoor said: "I mentioned that to Mujahid and he said: 'We used to give a religious verdict of one Tawaf but now, we shall desist'."

I say: However, what is related in authentic Ahadeeth run contrary to that. We have presented earlier a narration on the authority of Ibn 'Umar in Saheeh AlBukhari that he made intention for 'Umrah and he joined the Hajj to it so he became a Qarin and he performed one Tawaf for the Hajj and 'Umrah and he commented: This is the same way Allah's Messenger had acted.

On the authority of Ibn 'Umar who narrated: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: "Whoever combines both Hajj and 'Umrah together should perform one Tawaf and one Sa'i for both of them." At-Tirmidhi said: This Hadith is hasan ghareeb.

I say: Its chain is upon the standard of Muslim. This is how 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), the Mother of the Believers, acted for she was among those who made intention for 'Umrah due to the fact that she did not drive along with her the Hady. Thus, when she menstruated, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), commanded her to take a bath and to make intention for Hajj along with her 'Umrah so she became a Qarinah (a female pilgrim on Hajj-Qiran). When they returned from Mina, she requested to be allowed to perform 'Umrah after her Hajj and she was granted in order to please her as clearly related in the Hadith.

Imam Ash-Shafi‘i related on the authority of ‘Ata’ that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her): “Your circumambulation of the House and between Safa and Marwah suffices for your Hajj and ‘Umrah.” This narration is clearly mursal though it is connected in meaning.

Muslim related from the Hadith of Ibn Juraij who said: “Abu Az-Zubair informed me that he heard Jabir say that the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), came to ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), may Allah be pleased with her, and found her weeping, and said: ‘What is the matter with you?’ She said: ‘The matter is that I have commenced my menstruation and the people have exited from Ihram, but I have not circumambulated the House, and the people are going for Hajj now (but I can’t go).’ Whereupon he said: ‘It is a matter which Allah has ordained for the daughters of Adam, so now take a bath and put on the Ihram for Hajj.’ She (‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her)) did accordingly, and stayed at the places of staying until her monthly period was over. She then circumambulated the House, and (ran between) Safa and Marwah. He (the Prophet) then said: ‘Now both your Hajj and ‘Umrah are complete,’ whereupon she said: ‘I feel in my mind that I did not circumambulate the House until I performed Hajj (I missed the circumambulation of ‘Umrah).’ Thereupon Allah’s Messenger said: ‘Abdur Rahman, take her to Tan‘eem (so as to enable her) to perform ‘Umrah (separately), and it was the night at Hasbah.’” Another Hadith from Juraij reads: Abu Az-Zubair informed me that he heard Jabir say, “The Prophet and Companions did not perform Tawaf between Safa and Marwah except once.” According to the companions of Abu Hanifah, may Allah have Mercy on him, the Prophet and his Companions whodrove their Hady along with them had done combined Hajj with ‘Umrah as indicated by aforementioned Ahadeeth. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Ash-Shafi‘i related on the authority of ‘Ali who said concerning a pilgrim performing Hajj-Qiran: "He will perform two Tawafs and one Sa‘i." AshShafi‘i added: some people said: Two Tawafs and Sa‘is and they adduced as evidence a weak narration on the authority of ‘Ali.

Jabir narrated in his Hadith: Until the end of his Tawaf (i.e. Sa‘i) at AlMarwah when he said: “If I had known beforehand what I have come to know afterward, I would not have brought sacrificial animals.” Related by Muslim. In it is a proof against those who state that Sa‘i is fourteen circuits. Each to and from is considered one circuit. This is the opinion of a group of senior followers of the Shafi‘i madhhab and this Hadith is a refutation for them. This is because, based on their opinion, the last circuit of Sa‘i ends at Safa and not Marwah. Thus, Ahmad said in his own version of the Hadith of Jabir: “When it was his seventh running at Marwah he said: ‘If I had known beforehand what I have come to know afterward, I would not have brought sacrificial animals and would have performed an ‘Umrah.’ So, he who among you has not brought the sacrificial animals with him should exit from Ihram and treat it as an ‘Umrah.” All the people exited from their Ihram. Muslim added: All the people exited from their Ihram and cut their hairs except the Prophet as well as those brought with them a Hady.

A host of Companions have narrated his command to those who did not bring along a Hady to treat their Hajj as ‘Umrah. We discuss them at length here and we have enumerated them in thebook Al-Ahkam Al-Kabeer, insha'Allah. Scholars have disagreed concerning that. Malik, Abu Hanifah and As-Shafi'i argue that it is part of the Khasa'is (peculiarities) of the Companions and then its permissibility for people other than them was abrogated. They rely on to the opinion of Abu Dharr that a repeal of Hajj for 'Umrah was meant only for the Companions of Muhammad. It is related by Muslim.

However, Imam Ahmad refuted that saying: "It has been narrated by eleven Companions, so where did this occur in their narrations?" Thus, he opined that a repealing of Hajj for 'Umrah is permissible for other than the Companions. Ibn 'Abbas argues in favour of the obligation of repealing upon whoever does not bring with them a Hady. To him, it is permissible in the Shari'ah if he had circumambulated the House and did not bring a Hady, then he becomes free of Ihram by the simple occurrence of that. According to him, there is no Nusuk (sacrifice) except for (Hajj) Qiran for whoever came with the Hady or Tamattu' for those who did not come with the Hady. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas who narrated: The Prophet along with his Companions arrived in Makkah in the morning of the fourth of Dhul-Hijjah in Ihram for Hajj only. So when we arrived, the Prophet ordered us to change our intentions of the Ihram for 'Umrah and that we could remove our Ihram after performing the 'Umrah and could go to our wives (for intercourse). The people began talking about that. Jabir said in surprise: "Shall we go to Mina while semen is dribbling from our male organs?" Jabir moved his hand while saying so. When this news reached the Prophet he delivered a sermon and said: "I have been informed that some people were saying suchand-such;

by Allah, I fear Allah more than you do, and am more obedient to Him than you. If I had known what I know now, I would not have brought the Hady (sacrifice) with me and had the Hady not been with me, I would have removed Ihram.” At that Suraqah Ibn Malik stood up and asked: “O Allah’s Messenger! Is this permission for us only or is it forever?” The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), replied: “It is forever.”

On the authority of Jabir who narrated: “We, in the state of Ihram, came with the Messenger of Allah for Hajj-Mufrad (with the aim of Hajj only), and ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) set out for ‘Umrah, and when we reached Sarif, she entered in the state of her monthly period. We proceeded on until we reached Makkah and circumambulated the Ka‘bah and ran between Safa and Marwah; and the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), commanded that anyone among us who had no sacrificial animal with him should exit from the Ihram. We said: “What does this exiting imply?” He said: “Exiting completely from the state of Ihram, and we returned to our wives and applied perfume and put on our clothes and we were just four nights away from ‘Arafah.”

It is explicit in these two Ahadeeth that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), arrived in Makkah in the year of Hajjat AlWadaa’ on the morning of the 4th day of Dhul-Hijjah. That was on Sunday when the day had risen and at the time of Dhuha because the first day of Dhul- Hijjah that year fell on Thursday without any dispute. Thus, the day of ‘Arafah that year fell on the day of Jumu‘ah based on the Hadith of ‘Umar Ibn AlKhattab recorded in the Saheehain as shall be presented later.

When Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), arrived on Sunday, the fourth day of the month, and as mentioned earlier, he started with the Tawaf of Ka'bah and then Sa'i. Upon concluding his running between them at Marwah, he ordered the one who had no Hady with him to exit from his Ihram compulsorily and that became obligatory upon them without an option. They complied but some of them were grieved because Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did not exit from his Ihram due to his coming with the Hady and they wished to act exactly as he had done. When he saw their unhappy demeanor, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to them: "If I had known beforehand what I have come to know afterward, I would not have brought sacrificial animals and would have performed an 'Umrah." Meaning, if I had known that it would unnerve you, I would not have brought Hady with me so that I could put off the Ihram as you have.

Thus, the evidence of the preference for Tamattu' becomes clear as mentioned by Imam Ahmad, deducing from this Hadith. He said: "I do not have a doubt that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Hajj-Qiran, but Tamattu' is better because of his feeling of regret. His response is that the Prophet did not feel regretful for Tamattu' being better than Qiran in respect of the one who had brought along the Hady. Rather, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), felt regretful so that he may not discomfit his Companions by remaining in Ihram himself and his command that they should exit from their own Ihram." Consequently, And Allah (SWT) knows best, when Imam Ahmad contemplated on this secret, he adduced in yet another narration from him that Tamattu' is better in respect of the one who did not bring Hady based on Allah's Messenger's command that whoever, among his Companions, did not bring along the Hady to perform Tamattu' and that Qiran is better for the one who brought the Hady as Allah has preferred for His Prophet during his Farewell Pilgrimage and His commanding him accordingly as stated above. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Afterward, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), proceeded along with the people upon the completion of his Sa'i between Safa and Marwah and his command to those who did not come with Hady to exit from Ihram until he alighted at Al-Abtah in the eastern part of Makkah. He remained there for the remainder of Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday until he offered the Subh prayers of Thursday. All the while he led his Companions in prayers and he did not return to the Ka'bah throughout those days.

Al-Bukhari said in the chapter on the one who does not come near the Ka'bah and does not perform Tawaf till the day of 'Arafah and returns after the first Tawaf that on the authority of 'Abdullah Ibn 'Abbas who narrated: the Prophet arrived in Makkah and he circumambulated (the House) and did Sa'i between Safa and Marwah and did not come close to the Ka'bah after his Tawaf until he returned from 'Arafah. Al-Bukhari related it exclusively.

While Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was still at Al-Batha', on the outskirts of Makkah, 'Ali arrived from Yemen. Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had sent him to Yemen as a commander after Khalid Ibn Al- Waleed, as stated earlier. When he returned, he found that his wife, Fatimah, the daughter of Allah's

Messenger, had exited from her Ihram as had the wives of Allah's Messenger as (they were among) those who did not come along with the Hady and she had applied antimony and had put on dyed clothes. Showing disapproval 'Ali asked: "Who asked you to do this?" She said: "My father." 'Ali went to the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), showing annoyance at Fatimah for what she had done, and narrated to him: "O Messenger of Allah, Fatimah has exited from her Ihram, put on dyed clothes and applied antimony and she claims that you commanded her to do so." Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: "She has told the truth, she has told the truth, she has told the truth." Then the Prophet asked him: "What did you say when you make the intention to go for Hajj?" 'Ali said: "I assume the same Ihram as that of the Prophet." He said: "I have with me sacrificial animals, so do not exit from the Ihram." The total number of those sacrificial animals brought by 'Ali from Yemen and of those brought by the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), from Madinah and those he bought on the way was one hundred camels. Both of them shared in all of the Hady. All of these have been related earlier in Saheeh Muslim.

This silent approval refutes the narration mentioned by Al-Hafiz Abul-Qasim At-Tabarani, may Allah have Mercy on him, from the Hadith of 'Ikrimah from Ibn 'Abbas that 'Ali met the Prophet on his way to Al-Juhfah. And Allah (SWT) knows best. Abu Moosa was among the people who came with 'Ali but he did not come with a Hady so Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), ordered him to exit from his Ihram after he had performed the Tawaf and Sa'i for 'Umrah. Thus, he turned his intention for Hajj into 'Umrah and he became a Mutamattu' pilgrim and, thereafter, he used to give religious verdicts accordingly during the reign of ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab, may Allah be pleased with him. When he saw that ‘Umar used to do Hajj-Ifrad and ‘Umrah, he abandoned his previous verdict in deference and love for the Commander of the Faithful, ‘Umar.

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of ‘Awn Ibn Abi Juhaifah who narrated that his father said: “I saw Bilal calling the Adhan and turning his mouth here and there with two of his fingers inserted into his ears.” He added: “Meanwhile, Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was in a reddish tent which I supposed was made of leather. Afterward, Bilal came out into his front with an iron-tipped walking stick and drove it into the ground and Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), offered the Salat.” ‘Abdur Razzaq said: “I heard him say that it was in Makkah at Al-Batha’; while a dog, a woman and a donkey passed across the front (behind the iron-tipped walking stick) and he was wearing a reddish garment as if I could still see his shining shanks.” Sufyan said: “We think it (the garment) was a Hibarah.”

On the authority of Abu Juhaifah who narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went out at midday to Al-Batha’. He performed ablution, offered two units of the Dhuhr prayers while an iron-tipped walking stick was in front of him. ‘Awn added from a report from his father, Abu Juhaifah: “Meanwhile, donkeys and women were passing behind us.” Hajjaj said concerning the Hadith: Afterward, the people got up and were taking his hand and rubbing it on their faces. He added: “I also took his hand and rubbed it on my face and it felt colder than snow and its fragrance sweeter than musk.” The two authors of Saheeh have related it from the Hadith of Shu‘bah in its entirety.

Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), remained at Al-Abtah, as indicated earlier, throughout Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The people had exited from their Ihram except those who came along with Hady. It was during these days that 'Ali Ibn Abi Talib arrived from Yemen together with those who had accompanied him among Muslims; he also came with wealth. The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did not return to the Ka'bah after he had circumambulated it. On the morning of Thursday, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), offered the Subh prayers of that day at Al-Abtah which coincided with the day of Tarwiyah and it is equally referred to as the day of Mina because that is the day pilgrims proceed to it.

It has been related that the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), gave an address prior to this day. It is said that it was the day before, based on what I saw from some commentaries on the Day of Embellishment because it is the day the Budn used to be embellished and similar things. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Al-Baihaqi related on the authority of Ibn 'Umar who narrated: Whenever Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), addressed the people on the day of Tarwiyah, he would address them concerning their rites.

Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), rode toward Mina before the sun shifted from its zenith though some said it was after it. Those people who had made the intention for Hajj at Al-Abtah assumed their Ihram when they were heading to Mina and dispatched their camel in its direction.

On the authority of Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah who narrated: We arrived along with Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and exited from our Ihram until the day of Tarwiyah when we left Makkah after making intention for Hajj. Al-Bukhari mentioned this as a short commentary.

On the authority of Jabir who narrated: "After we had exited from it, Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), ordered us to put on our Ihram when we were heading to Mina." He added: "We put on our Ihram from Al-Abtah."

‘Ubaid Ibn Jurajj said to Ibn ‘Umar: "I saw that whenever you are in Makkah and people put on Ihram on sighting the crescent moon you would not put on it until the day of Tarwiyah." He responded: "I have never seen the Prophet putting on Ihram until his camel set out with him (to Mina)."

Al-Bukhari related: ‘Ata’ was asked concerning the person who passed Mina while reciting the Talbiyah of Hajj and he said: Ibn ‘Umar used to utter the Labbaik on the day of Tarwiyah after he had offered the Dhuhr prayers and his camel had risen with him.

I say: This is how Ibn ‘Umar used to act whenever he performed Hajj with ‘Umrah. He would put off his Ihram for ‘Umrah and when it was the day of Tarwiyah, he would not utter the Labbaik until his camel had set out toward Mina just as Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had put on Ihram from Dhul-Hulaifah after he had offered the Dhuhr prayers and his camel had set out. However, on the day of Tarwiyah, the Prophet did not offer the Dhuhr prayers at Al-Abtah; rather, he offered it that day at Mina and there is no dispute concerning this.

On the authority of ‘Abdul-Aziz Ibn Rufai’ who narrated: ‘I asked Anas Ibn Malik: ‘Tell me something you have observed about the Prophet concerning where he offered the Dhuhr prayers on the Day of Tarwiyah (8th DhulHijjah).’ Anas replied: ‘He offered it at Mina.’ I said: ‘Where did he offer the ‘Asr prayers on the Day of Nahr (day of departure from Mina) ?’ He replied: ‘AtAl-Abtah,’ and added, ‘You should do as your leaders do.’”

On the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), led us in the Dhuhr, ‘Asr, Maghreb, ‘Isha’ and Fajr prayers at Mina and then proceeded to ‘Arafah the following morning.

Ash-Shafi‘i has narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), rode from Al-Abtah to Mina after Zawal but he offered the Dhuhr prayers in Mina and this Hadith is adduced as evidence for that. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

It has been stated earlier in the Hadith of Ja‘afar Ibn Muhammad from his father on the authority of Jabir who narrated: “Then all the people except the Prophet and those who had with them sacrificial animals, removed their Ihram, and got their hair clipped. When it was the day of Tarwiyah they went to Mina and put on the Ihram for Hajj and the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), rode and led the noon, afternoon, sunset, ‘Isha’ and dawn prayers. He then waited a little until the sun rose, and commanded that a tent should be pitched at Namirah.

The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then set out and the Quraish did not doubt that he would halt at Al-Mash‘ar Al-Haram (the sacred site) as the Quraish used to do in the pre-Islamic period. The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), however, continued until he came to ‘Arafah and found that the tent had been pitched for him at Namirah. There he alighted and stayed until the sun had passed the meridian; then he commanded that Al-Qaswa’ be brought and saddled for him. He came to the bottom of the valley, and addressed the people saying:

“Verily, your blood, your property are as sacred and inviolable as the sacredness of this day of yours, in this month of yours, in this town of yours. Behold! Everything pertaining to the days of Ignorance is under my feet completely abolished. Abolished are also the blood-revenges of the days of Ignorance.

“The first claim of ours on blood-revenge which I abolish is that of the son of Rabee‘ah Ibn Al-Harith, who was nursed among the tribe of Sa’d and killed by Hudhail. The usury of the pre-Islamic period is abolished, and the first of our usury I abolish is that of ‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib, for it is all abolished. Fear Allah concerning women! Verily, you have taken them on the security of Allah, and intercourse with them has been made lawful unto you by the words of Allah. You have right over them: they should not allow anyone to sit on your bed whom you do not like. But if they do that, you can chastise them but not severely. Their rights upon you are that you should provide them with food and clothing in a fitting manner.

I have left among you the Book of Allah, and if you hold fast to it, you would never go astray. And you would be asked about me (on the Day of Resurrection), (now tell me) what would you say?”

The audience said: “We will bear witness that you have conveyed (the message), discharged (the responsibility of Prophethood) and given wise (sincere) counsel.”

The narrator said: “The Prophet then raised his forefinger toward the sky and pointing it at the people (said): ‘O Allah, bear witness. O Allah, bear witness,’ saying it thrice.”

It is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who narrated: "I heard Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), deliver the Khutbah on ‘Arafat to the pilgrims: 'Whoever does not have shoes may wear Khuffs and whoever does not find an Izar may wear trousers!'"

On the authority of ‘Amr Ibn Kharijah who said: "Attab Ibn Aseed sent me to Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), while he was standing on ‘Arafat during Hajj. I delivered the message to him and then I stood under his camel while its saliva dribbled down my head and I heard him say: 'O people, Allah has restored rights to their respective owners and that it is not permissible to make a will for a rightful inheritor. A child is attributed to the (owner of the) bed and stoning is for the adulterer. Whoever attributes himself to other than his rightful father, upon him shall be the curse of Allah, the angels and all mankind and Allah shall accept neither his obligatory deeds nor his supererogatory ones!'"

We will shortly present the content of the Khutbah which Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), delivered after this on the day of Nahr and what it contains of wisdom, exhortation, encompassing benefits and prophetic morals insha’Allah.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Muhammad Ibn Abi Bakr Ath-Thaqafi who once asked Anas Ibn Malik, while the two of them were going from Mina to ‘Arafat: “What did you do on this day when you were with the Messenger of Allah?” He said: “Those of us who were saying the Talbiyah would continue doing so, and no one disapproved of it, and those of us who were saying: ‘Allahu Akbar’ would continue doing so, and no one disapproved of that either.” It is also related by Muslim.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Salim Ibn ‘Abdullah that ‘Abdul Malik Ibn Marwan wrote to Al-Hajjaj that he should follow ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar in all the rites of Hajj. So when it was the Day of ‘Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah), and after the sun had deviated or declined from the middle of the sky, Ibn ‘Umar and I came and he shouted near the cotton (cloth) tent of Al-Hajjaj: “Where is he?” Al-Hajjaj came out. Ibn ‘Umar said: “Let us proceed (to ‘Arafah).” Al-Hajjaj asked: “Just now?” Ibn ‘Umar replied: “Yes.” Al-Hajjaj said: “Wait for me until I pour water on myself (i.e. take a bath).” So, Ibn ‘Umar dismounted (and waited) until Al-Hajjaj came out. He was walking between me and my father. I informed Al-Hajjaj: “If you want to follow the Sunnah today, then you should shorten the sermon and then hurry up for the stay (at ‘Arafah).” Ibn ‘Umar said: “He (Salim) has spoken the truth.”

Al-Bukhari related after his narration of this that Al-Laith said: ‘Uqail narrated to me from Ibn Shihab on the authority of Salim who said: In the year that he advanced against Ibn Zubair, Hajjaj asked Ibn ‘Umar what was done at this place of stay. He said: “If you intend to follow the Sunnah, then offer the Salat at noon time on the day of ‘Arafah.” Ibn ‘Umar Added: “He has spoken the truth. They used to combine the Dhuhr and ‘Asr prayers according to Sunnah.” I said to Salim: “Did Allah’s Messenger do that?” He said: “Are they following anything other than the Sunnah with that?”

On the authority of Ibn ‘Umar who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), proceeded from Mina on the morning of the day of ‘Arafah. He disembarked at Namirah which is the place at which the Imams usually camp on ‘Arafah. When it was time for the Dhuhr Salat, the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), came out and combined both the Dhuhr and ‘Asr prayers. This is how Jabir has mentioned it in his Hadith after he had related the Khutbah above, he said: “Then Bilal pronounced the Adhan and then the Iqamah and the Dhuhr Salat was performed. Again, he gave another Iqamah and the ‘Asr prayers was performed and he did not offer any (supererogatory) prayers in between them. This implies that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), delivered the Khutbah first and then offered the prayers. This does not contradict the second Khutbah.

Muslim related on the authority of Jabir who narrated: “The Messenger of Allah then mounted his camel and came to the place of stay, making his camel turn toward the side where there were rocks, having the path taken by those who went on foot in front of him, and faced the Qiblah.”

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Umm Fadhl Bint Al-Harith that "some men were arguing in her presence on the day of ‘Arafah about whether the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was fasting or not. Some of them said: ‘He was fasting.’ Others countered: ‘He was not fasting.’ So I sent a bowl of milk to him while his camel was standing and he drank it.” It is also related by Muslim.

‘Ata’ said: ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abbas invited Fadhl Ibn ‘Abbas to a meal on the Day of ‘Arafah and he declined and said: “I am fasting.” ‘Abdullah said: “Don’t fast for Allah’s Messenger wassent a bowl of milk on the Day of ‘Arafah and he drank from it. So don’t fast for you are being emulated. Ibn Bakr and Rawh (version) reads: “People will emulate you.”’

While a man was standing at ‘Arafat (for Hajj) with Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), he fell down from his mount and broke his neck (and died). So Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: “Wash him with water and Sidr and shroud him in two pieces of cloth and neither perfume him nor cover his head, for Allah will resurrect him on the Day of Resurrection and he will be saying ‘Labbaik.’” Muslim also related it.

On the authority of ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Ya‘mar Ad-Deeli who narrated: "I witnessed Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), at ‘Arafat and a group of people from Najd came to him and asked concerning the Hajj and he said: “Arafah is Hajj. Whoever catches the night of ‘Arafah before the dawn of the night of Jami’ (the day pilgrims return to Mina) has completed his Hajj.”

On the authority of Yazeed Ibn Shaiban who narrated: "We were standing on ‘Arafah at a place far away from the place of standing. Then Ibn Mirba’ AlAnsari came to us and said: 'I am a messenger of Allah’s Messenger to you and he has sent me to tell you: Stay within your Masha‘ir (sacred sites) for you are upon a heritage from the heritage of your father, Ibraheem'."

It has been stated earlier that Allah's Messenger, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was not fasting on the day of 'Arafah. Thus, this points to the fact that not fasting there is better than fasting so as to be able to cope with supplication for it is the most important objective at that place. It is for this same purpose (Du'a) that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), stood riding on the back of his camel from the time of the decline of the sun (from the zenith) till sunset.

Abu Hatim Muhammad Ibn Hibban Al-Busti related in his Saheeh on the authority of 'Abdullah Ibn 'Umar that he was asked concerning fasting on the Day of 'Arafah and he said: "I performed Hajj with Allah's Messenger, Abu Bakr and 'Umar and they did not fast on that day and I also will not fast that day but I neither recommend it nor forbid it."

Imam Ahmad and At-Tirmidhi have related from the Hadith of 'Amr Ibn Shu'aib through his father from his grandfather that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: "The best Du'a is Du'a on the Day of 'Arafah, and the best thing that I or the Prophets before me have said is: 'There is no deity worthy of worship (in truth) except Allah. He is the Only One and has no partners. For Him is the Kingdom and all the praises are due for Him and He has dominion over all things (i.e. Omnipotent).' (La ilaha ill-Allah wahdahu la shareeka lahu lahul-mulk, wa lahul-hamd wa Huwa 'ala kulli shai'in Qadeer)."

Usamah Ibn Zaid said: "I was riding behind the Prophet while he lifted up his hand supplicating. His camel tilted and its bridle fell off his hand and he reached for it with one hand while he continued raising the other in supplication."

Mentioning of the Revelation to the Messenger of Allah

Sublime revelations that were sent down to Allah's Messenger at this revered place: Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Tariq Ibn Shihab who narrated: A Jew came to 'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab and said: O Ameerul-Mu'mineen, you recite a Verse in your Book which, if it had been revealed in relation to us, the Jews, we would have taken that day as a day of celebration. 'Umar asked: "What Verse is that?" The Jew said: "The statement of Allah: 'This day, I have perfected your religion for you, completed My Favor upon you, and have chosen for you Islam as your religion'." Thereupon 'Umar said: "By Allah, I know the day it was revealed on Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and the hour in which it was revealed. It was revealed on the eve of the Day of 'Arafah (ninth of Dhul-Hijjah) on Friday."

Departure of Allah's Messenger From 'Arafat to Mash'ar Al-Haram

Jabir narrated in his lengthy Hadith: "He kept standing there until the sun set and the yellow light had gradually gone, and the disc of the sun had disappeared. Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), made Usamah sit behind him, and he pulled the nose-string of Al-Qaswa' (in order to keep her under perfect control) so forcefully that its head touched the saddle, and he pointed out to the people with his right hand: "O people, gently! Gently! (i.e., to be moderate in speed), and whenever he happened to pass over an elevated tract of sand, he slightly loosened the nose-string of his camel until she climbed up and this is how he reached Al-Muzdalifah. There he led the evening and 'Isha' prayers with one Adhan and two Iqamahs and did not glorify (Allah) in between them (by not observe supererogatory Raka'ahs between them)." It is related by Muslim.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of 'Urwah from his father who said: Usamah was asked in my presence: "How was the speed of (the camel of) Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), while departing from 'Arafat during the Hajjat al-Wadaa'?" Usamah replied: "The Prophet proceeded on with a modest pace, and when there was enough space he would (make his camel) go very fast."

On the authority of Usamah Ibn Zaid who narrated: I was riding behind Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), on the Day of 'Arafah. When the sun went down, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), returned. When he heard the rumblings of their haste, he said: "Gently, O people. Go easily and in a measured manner for righteousness is not in hastening." Whenever the people crowded him, he would go slowly but whenever he found enough space, he went faster until he came to Muzdalifah and combined both Maghreb and 'Isha' prayers at the latter's time."

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of Usamah Ibn Zaid that he (a subnarrator) heard him say: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), proceeded from Arafah, and as he approached the mountain pass, he alighted from his camel and relieved himself, and then performed a light ablution. I said to him: "Prayers", whereupon he said: "The prayer is ahead of you (at Muzdalifah)." So he rode again, and as he came to Muzdalifah, he got down and performed complete ablution. Then Iqamah was pronounced for prayers, and he observed the Maghreb prayers. Then every person made his camel kneel down there, and then Iqamah was pronounced for 'Isha' prayers and he observed it, and he (the Prophet) did not observe any prayer (either Sunan or Nawafil) in between them."

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Usamah Ibn Zaid that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), made him ride behind him from 'Arafat. He added: The people said: "Our companion will inform us what he did." Usamah said further: On his return from 'Arafat he pulled the nose-string of his camel so forcefully (in order to keep her under perfect control) that its head touched or almost touched the saddle, and he pointed out to the people with his right hand to be moderate (in speed) until he came to Muzdalifah. Then he made Fadhl Ibn 'Abbas sit behind him. He added that the people began to say: "Whatever Allah's Messenger does will be relayed to us by our companion." Al-Fadl said: "The procession kept on moving gently until it came to a valley exhausted and they spread into the valley until they lay down."

On the authority of Anas Ibn Seereen who said: "I was with Ibn 'Umar in 'Arafat. When it was time to depart, I departed with him until the Imam came and prayed Dhuhr and 'Asr and then he stood (on 'Arafah) and a companion of mine until the Imam departed and he departed with him till we reached a strait. He made his camel kneel down and we did the same thing. We thought he wanted to pray but his slave boy who was holding his camel informed us that he did not intend to pray, rather he mentioned that when the Prophet once reached this place, he stopped to ease himself and (since then) he also loved to ease himself at the same place."

On the authority of Ibn ‘Umar who narrated: The Prophet combined the Maghreb and ‘Isha’ prayers at Muzdalifah, with one Iqamah each and he did not offer any supererogatory (prayer) between them or immediately after each one of them.

‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), combined both Maghreb and ‘Isha’ at Muzdalifah without offering any other prayer between them. He prayed Maghreb three units and ‘Isha’ two. Afterward, ‘Abdullah used to offer the prayer in a similar way until he died.

On the authority of Sa’eed Ibn Jubair who narrated that he combined Maghreb and ‘Isha’ with one Iqamah at Muzdalifah and he related that Ibn ‘Umar acted in a similar manner. Ibn ‘Umar in turn related that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did that as well.

Sa’eed Ibn Jubair narrated: "We departed along with Ibn ‘Umar until we arrived at Muzdalifah where he led us in the Maghreb and ‘Isha’ prayers with one Iqamah and then he left." He added: "This is how Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had prayed at this spot."

Al-Bukhari related in the chapter: "He who made one Adhan and Iqamah for each one of them" on the authority of ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Yazeed who narrated: ‘Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood performed the Hajj and we reached AlMuzdalifah at or about the time of the ‘Isha’ prayer. He ordered someone to pronounce the Adhan and Iqamah and then he offered the Maghreb prayer and offered two Raka‘ahs after it. Then he asked for his supper and took it, and then, I think, he ordered someone to pronounce the Adhan and Iqamah (for the ‘Isha’ prayers). (‘Amr, a sub-narrator said: The intervening statement ‘I think’, was said by the sub- narrator Zuhair). Then ‘Abdullah offered two Raka‘ahs of ‘Isha’ prayers. When the day dawned, ‘Abdullah said: “The Prophet never offered any prayer at this hour except this prayer at this time and at this place and on this day.” ‘Abdullah added: “These two prayers are shifted from their actual times – the Maghreb prayer (is offered) when the people reached AlMuzdalifah and the Fajr (morning) prayer at the early dawn.” ‘Abdullah added: “I saw the Prophet doing that.”

Jabir narrated in his Hadith that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), laid down until the dawn of the following morning and then he offered the Fajr prayer when the dawn had clearly come out with an Adhan and Iqamah.

On the authority of ‘Urwah Ibn Mudarris who said: I came to Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), while he was at Muazdalifah and asked: “O Messenger of Allah, I have come to you from the mountain of Tayyi’. I exhausted myself and my camel became tired and I did not leave a mountain except that I stood on it, do I have Hajj?” The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), answered: “Whoever participated with us in this Salat i.e. the Salat Al-Fajr and stood with us until we departed and had attended the ‘Arafah whether in the night or day time, then his Hajj is complete and (he has) fulfilled his rites.”

Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had sent forward some of his family members during the night before the surge of crowds fromMuzdalifah to Mina.

Al-Bukhari related in the chapter on the one who sent the weak members of his family ahead of him and they stayed in Muzdalifah supplicating and they went ahead when the moon has become hidden.

On the authority of Ibn Shihab who narrated: ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar used to send the weak among his family early to Mina. So they used to depart from Al-Mash‘ar Al-Haram (that is Al-Muzdalifah) at night (when the moon had set) and invoked Allah as much as they could, and then they would return (to Mina) before the Imam had started from Al-Muzdalifah to Mina. Some of them would reach Mina at the time of the Fajr prayer and some of them would come later. When they reached Mina they would throw pebbles on the Jamrah (Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah) Ibn ‘Umar used to say: “Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), gave the permission to them (the weak people) to do so.”

On the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who said: “Allah’s Messenger sent me from Muzdalifah (to Mina) by night.”

Ibn ‘Abbas also said: “I was among the weak members of the Prophet’s family who went ahead of him from Muzdalifah in the night.”

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated: "We, the young boys of Banu ‘Abdul-Muttalib, went ahead of the Prophet on our donkeys. He stroked our thighs saying: “O my sons, don’t pelt the Jamrah till the sun comes out.”

On the authority of ‘Abdullah (the slave of Asma’) who narrated: During the night of Jam‘, Asma’ got down at Al-Muzdalifah and stood up to (offer) the prayer and offered the prayer for some time and then asked: “O my son! Has the moon set?” I replied in the negative and she again prayed for another period and then asked: “Has the moon set?” I replied, “Yes.” So she said that we should set out (for Mina), and we departed and went on until she threw pebbles at the Jamrah (Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah) and then she returned to her dwelling place and offered the morning prayer. I asked her: “O you! I think we have come (to Mina) early in the night.” She replied: “O my son! Allah’s Messenger gave permission to the women to do so.”

If Asma’ Bint Abi Bakr pelted the Jamrah before the sunrise as mentioned here from Tawqeef, then her narration has precedence over that of Ibn ‘Abbas because the chain of narrations of her Hadith is more authentic than that of Ibn ‘Abbas especially if we say that: young boys are more energetic than women and that is why Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), commanded the boys not to throw the Jamrah before the sunrise while those who were given permission to depart were permitted to stone the Jamrah before the sunrise because their own condition were more precarious and more deserving of being guarded. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

If Asma’ did not do it by permission, then the Hadith of Ibn ‘Abbas has precedence over her action but it strengthens the first statement of Abu Dawood: that Asma’ stoned the Jamrah at night. She said: “We stoned the Jamrah at night.” She added: “We used to do that during the time of the Prophet.”

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: "We alighted at AlMuzdalifah and Sawdah asked the permission of the Prophet to leave (early) before the rush of the people. She was a slow woman and he gave her permission, so she departed (from Al-Muzdalifah) before the rush of the people. We kept on staying at Al-Muzdalifah until dawn, and set out with the Prophet but (I suffered so much that) I wished I had taken the permission of Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), as Sawdah had done, and that would have been dearer to me than any other happiness."

The Prophet's Talbiyah at Muzdalifah

Muslim related on the authority of 'Abdur Rahman Ibn Yazeed who said: While we were at Jam' (Muzdalifah), 'Abdullah said: I heard the one on whom Soorah Al-Baqarah was sent down saying at this station: "Labbaik Allahumma labbaik."

The Messenger of Allah's Stay at Mash'ar Al-Haram and His Departure From Muzdalifah

Allah says: "Then, when you leave 'Arafat, remember Allah (by glorifying His Praises, i.e. prayers and invocations, etc.) at the Mash'ar Al-Haram." (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2:198)

Jabir narrated in his Hadith that he then offered the Fajr prayer, when dawn had become clear, with one Adhan and Iqamah. Then he mounted Al-Qaswa' till he came to Al-Mash'ar Al-Haram. He faced the Qiblah and supplicated to Allah, saying "Allahu Akbar, la ilaha ill-Allah" and extolling His unity. He remained standing until the sky turned yellow and he departed before sunrise and he made Fadhl Ibn 'Abbas sit behind him.

On the authority of Abu Ishaq who said: "I heard 'Amr Ibn Maimoon say: I witnessed 'Umar praying at Jam' (Muzdalifah) and he stood and said: "The polytheists would not depart until sunrise and they would say: Hurry to sacrifice. But Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), would depart before sunrise'.”

‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Yazeed narrated: "I went out with ‘Abdullah to Makkah and when we proceeded to Jam’ he offered the two prayers (the Maghreb and the ‘Isha’) together, making the Adhan and Iqamah separately for each prayer. He took his supper in between the two prayers. He offered the Fajr prayers as soon as the day dawned. Some people said: 'The day had dawned (at the time of the prayer),' and others said, 'The day had not dawned.' ‘Abdullah then said: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: ‘These two prayers have been shifted from their stated times at this place only (at AlMuzdalifah) ; first: The Maghreb and the ‘Isha’. So the people should not arrive at Al-Muzdalifah until the ‘Isha’ prayer becomes due. The second prayer is the morning prayer which is offered at this hour.’” Then ‘Abdullah stayed there until it became a bit brighter. He then said: “If the AmeerulMu’mineen hastened onward to Mina just now, then he had indeed followed theSunnah.” I do not know which preceded the other, ‘Abdullah’s statement or the departure of ‘Uthman. ‘Abdullah was reciting Talbiyah until he stoned the Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah on the Day of Nahr (slaughtering) (i.e. the 10th of DhulHijjah).

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), departed from Muzdalifah before sunrise.

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated that Usamah was riding behind the Prophet from ‘Arafat to Muzdalifah and then Fadhl rode behind him from Muzdalifah to Mina and each one of them reported that the Prophet did not cease uttering the Talbiyah until he stoned the Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah.

Fadhil Ibn ‘Abbas who was riding behind Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), narrated that on the eve of ‘Arafah and on the morning of Jam‘ (Muzdalifah) the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to the people when they were returning: “Go gently!” Meanwhile, he held his camel until he entered Muhassir in Mina, and then said: “Be careful to pick only small pebbles with which you will stone the Jamrah.” The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not cease uttering the Talbiyah until he stoned the Jamrah.

Jabir said concerning the pilgrimage of the Prophet: Till he came to Muhassir then he quickened his pace slightly.

On the authority of ‘Ali who narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), stood at ‘Arafat and said: “This is a place of standing and all of it is a place of standing.” Then he departed when the sun had set and he made Usamah ride behind him. He kept stretching his neck on his camel while the people thronged on by his right and left. Turning to them he would say: “Gently, O people.” Then he came to Jam’ and he offered the two prayers: Maghreb and ‘Isha’ and spent the night until the following morning when he came to Quzah (a mountain at the end of Muzdalifah) and stood on it and said: “This is a place of standing and all of Jam’ is a place of standing.” Then he proceeded until he came to Muhassir, he stood on it and struck his camel and it moved faster until he went past the valley and then he restrained it. He made Fadhil sit behind him and proceeded until he came to the Jamrah. He stoned it and then went to the slaughtering place and said: “This is a place of slaughtering and all of Mina is a place of slaughtering.” A young lady from Khath‘am came to ask him question. She said: “My father is a decrepit old man and the obligation of Hajj had become due from him, will it suffice for him if I undertake it on his behalf?” The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), answered: “Yes, so undertake it on behalf of your father.” Meanwhile, he had turned the neck of Fadhl and ‘Abbas said to him: “O Messenger of Allah, why have you turned the neck of the son of your uncle?” The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

, replied: “I saw a young man and a young lady and I do not have security from Shaitan (for them).”

A man came to him and said: “O Allah’s Messenger! I shaved before I slaughtered.” He replied: “ (Go ahead and) slaughter, there is no problem.” Another person came to him and asked: “I did Ifadah before I shaved.” He replied: “ (Go ahead and) shave your hair, there is no problem.” Then he came to the House and circumambulated it and then he went to Zamzam and said: “O children of ‘Abdul-Muttalib, were it not that people might contend with you over your provision of water (for pilgrims), I would have taken it over.”

That has been authentically related by a number of Companions and it is authentic that the two chiefs used to do that.

The Prophet's Stoning of the Jamrat Al-'Aqabah Alone on the Day of Nahr

It has been stated earlier in the Hadith of Usamah and Fadhl and others from among the Companions, may Allah be pleased with them, that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), continued uttering the Talbiyah until he stoned the Jamrat Al-'Aqabah.

Abu Al-'Aliyah narrated that Ibn 'Abbas said: Fadhl narrated to me that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to him on the morning of the Day of Nahr: "Come and pick pebbles for me." I fetched him pebbles. He started sorting them out in his fingers saying: "Throw ones like these! Throw ones like these!" He then said: "Keep away from extremism in religion, for that which destroyed those who came before you was extremism in the religion." It is related by Al-Baihaqi.

Al-Bukhari related that Jabir narrated that the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), stoned on the Day of Nahr at the time of Dhuha and afterward, after Zawal.

It is recorded in the Saheehain on the authority of 'Abdur Rahman Ibn Yazeed, who narrated that 'Abdullah stoned from the middle of the valley so I said: "O Abu 'Abdur Rahman, the people are stoning from its top." He said: "I swear by Him besides Whom none deserves to be worshipped, it is at this spot where Soorah Al-Baqarah was revealed to him." The wording is that of Al-Bukhari.

It is reported that ‘Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood came to the Jamrah, and stood such that the House was toward his left and Mina on his right and he stoned seven times and said: “This is the exact manner the one upon whom Soorah AlBaqarah was sent had acted.”

It is also related that ‘Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood also stoned the Jamrah from the middle of the valley with seven pebbles saying Allahu Akbar at each (throw of the) stone and he said: “By Him besides Whom none deserves to be worshipped, it is from here that the one upon whom Soorah Al-Baqarah was revealed stood (to throw the pebbles).”

On the authority of Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah who said: “I saw Allah’s Messenger stoning the Jamrah with seven small pebbles.”

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated that the Prophet stoned the Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah on the day of Nahr mounted.

Umm Jundub Al-Azdiyyah narrated: I saw Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), stoning the Jamrahs from the middle of the valley mounted and saying Allahu Akbar at each throw of the pebble while a man was behind shielding him. Upon asking about the identity of the man, I was told it was Al-Fadhl Ibn ‘Abbas and when the people crowded (one another) he said: “O people, do not kill one another and whenever you are going to stone, do it with small pebbles.”

Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah narrated: I saw Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), stoning the Jamrah mounted on his camel on the Day of Nahr and saying: “Learn your rites of Hajj from me perhaps I may not perform another Hajj after this.”

Qudamah Ibn ‘Abdullah Al-Kilabi reported that he saw Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), stoning the Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah from the middle of the valley on the Day of Nahr mounted on a reddish camel neither beating nor shoving nor was he telling people away from him.

Nafi’ narrated: Ibn ‘Umar used to stone the Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah mounted on a riding animal on the Day of Nahr but he did not come to the remaining ones except on foot and he claimed that the Prophet also used not to come (to the remaining Jamrahs) except on foot both to and fro.

Jabir narrated: “Then the Prophet went to the slaughter place and he slaughtered sixty-three animals with his own hands and then gave ‘Ali (the slaughter instrument) to slaughter the remainder and made him partake in his Hady. He then commanded that a piece of flesh from each sacrificial animal should be put in a pot, and when it was cooked, both of them (the Prophet and ‘Ali) took some meat out of it and drank from its broth.” We shall discuss this Hadith.

‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Mu’adh At-Taimi who said: “Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), addressed us while we were at Mina and our ears were open in such a way that we could hear what he was saying.”

Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), made ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib share in the Hady and the total number of those sacrificial animals brought by ‘Ali from Yemen and of those brought by the Prophet was one hundred camels. Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), slaughtered sixty-three with his own noble hands.

Ibn Hibban and others said: That coincides with his lifespan: sixty-three years.

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), slaughtered 100 animals during the Hajj, sixty of them with his own hands and he ordered that the remainder be slaughtered as well. He took a piece of flesh from each animal sacrificed and put them in a pot, and when it was cooked, he took some meat out of it and drank from its broth. He added: He slaughtered seventy camels on the day of Hudaibiyah among which was the camel of Abu Jahl and when it was turned back from the House, it pined as it would over her child.

It is established in the Saheehain that ‘Ali said: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), commanded me to take charge of his Budn and to give away their meat, hide and other material as charity and that I should not give the butcher anything out of it. He added: “We shall pay him from our resources.”

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), stoned the Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah, then he slaughtered and then he shaved his head.

Ibn Hazm has claimed that he slaughtered a cow on behalf of his wife and he slaughtered on that day, two rams with black stripes.

Description of His Shaving

Imam Ahmad related that Ibn ‘Umar narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), shaved his head during his Hajj.

Nafi' narrated that Ibn 'Umar narrated: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and a group of his Companions shaved their heads while some others shortened their hairs.

Imam Muslim related from the Hadith of Al-Laithi from Nafi' with an addition. 'Abdullah said: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: "May Allah have Mercy on those who shaved," once or twice. They said: "And those who shortened, O Messenger of Allah?" He said: "And those who shortened."

Anas Ibn Malik narrated that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), got to Mina and went to the Jamrah and he stoned it. Thereafter he returned to his residence at Mina and he slaughtered and then he said the barber: "Take from here," pointing to the right side of his head and then to the left. Afterward, people began to approach him. In another narration, he shaved the right side and he distributed it among the people a strand or two strands each and he gave the left side to Talhah. In yet another report, he gave the right side to Abu Talhah and he gave him the left side and asked him to distribute it among the people.

Anas narrated: I saw Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), while the barber was shaving his head and his Companions encircled him. They did not want any strand of hair to fall except in the hand of one of them. Ahmad related it exclusively.

Afterward, Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), donned his cloth and applied perfume after he had stoned the Jamrat Al‘Aqabah and slaughtered but before circumambulating the House. ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), the Mother of the Believers, was the one who applied the perfume on him.

Al-Bukhari related on the authority of ‘Abdur Rahman Ibn Al-Qasim Ibn Muhammad, the best of the people of his time, who said that he heard his father who was also the best of the people of his generation say that he heard ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) say: “I applied perfume on Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), with these hands of mine when he wanted to put on Ihram.” Perhaps it was at the time of removing the Ihram before he circumambulated the House and she spread her hands to demonstrate that.

It is narrated that Ibn ‘Abbas said: “When you have stoned the Jamrah, all that has been prohibited to you before becomes permissible, except intercourse till you circumambulate the House.” A man said: “And perfume, O Abu ‘Abbas?” He replied: “I saw Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), perfuming himself with musk. Is this perfume or not?”

Umm Salamah narrated: The night in which Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), went around his wives was on the night of Nahr. When he was with me, Wahb Ibn Zam‘ah and a man from the family of Abi Umayyah entered after they had changed their clothes. Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), asked them: “Have you done your Tawaf Al- Ifadah?” Both of them replied in the negative and the Prophet,

(Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to them: “Remove your dress.” They complied but Wahb asked him: “But why, O Messenger of Allah?” He said: “This is a day in which facility has been given to you once you have stoned the Jamrah, slaughtered the Hady, if you have one, to be free from all prohibitions except intercourse with women until you have circumambulated the House. Thus, if you have stoned and you have not done the Tawaf Al-Ifadah, you remain in Ihram as you had been previously until you circumambulate the House.”

His Tawaf Al-Ifadah

Jabir related: The Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), again rode and came to the House, and offered the Dhuhr prayers at Makkah. He came to the tribe of ‘Abdul-Muttalib, who were supplying water at Zamzam, and said: “Draw water. O Bani ‘Abdul-Muttalib, were it not that people would usurp this right of supplying water from you, I would have drawn it along with you. So they handed him a basket and he drank from it.” This is related by Muslim. These wordings contain an indication that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), rode to Makkah before the Zawal. He circumambulated the House and when he completed that, he offered Dhuhr prayers there.

Ibn ‘Umar narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), performed Tawaf Al-Ifadah on the Day of Nahr and then returned to perform the Dhuhr prayers at Mina. This is a contradiction to the Hadith of Jabir both of them related by Muslim. The flaw in both is that it is possible to say that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), offered the Dhuhr prayers in Makkah and then returned to Mina and he found that the people were already waiting for him, so he led them again. And Allah (SWT) knows best. His return to Mina at the time of Dhuhr is possible because it was summer time when the day is usually longer especially since a lot of actions have reached us from him on the same day. He returned from Muzdalifah after the day had brightened but before sunrise. He came to Mina and started with the stoning of the Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah with seven pebbles. Then he came to sacrifice with his own hands sixty-three camels and ‘Ali sacrificed the remainder of the 100 camels. Then he took a piece of flesh from each animal sacrificed put them in a pot, and when it was cooked, he took some meat out of it and drank from its broth. In the meantime, he shaved his head and applied perfume. After he had finished all that, he rode to the House. On this same day, Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), delivered a compelling address. I do not know whether it took place before going to the House or upon his return to Mina. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The import of this is that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), rode to the House and circumambulated it seven times riding, but he did not run between Safa and Marwah as confirmed in Saheeh Muslim on the authority of Jabir and ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), may Allah be pleased with both of them. Then he drank from the Zamzamwater and from an infusion of dates in Zamzam water. All of this strengthen the position of the one who argues that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), offered the Dhuhr prayers in Makkah as related by Jabir. It is equally possible that he returned to Mina at the tail end of the time of Dhuhr and he led his Companions again in the Dhuhr prayers at Mina. This is what is perplexing for Ibn Hazm and he did not know what to say concerning it. He is excused because of the contradiction between two authentic texts on it. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did Tawaf Al-Ifadah at the end of that day when he had offered the Dhuhr prayers and then he returned to Mina and remained there for the nights of the days of Tashreeq, stoning the Jamrah after the decline of the sun (from the zenith) pelting each Jamrah with seven pebbles and saying Allahu Akbar with each pebble.

Ibn Hazm said: Here, ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) and Jabir agree on the fact that the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), offered the Dhuhr prayers at Makkah on the Day of Nahr and they are more precise, And Allah (SWT) knows best, than Ibn ‘Umar. This is what he said but there is no proof in this. This narration of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) does not textually prove that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), offered the Dhuhr prayers in Makkah. Thus, this is proof that he offered the Dhuhr prayers at Mina before he went to the House. This is more probable. And Allah (SWT) knows best. Based on this, it remains only the contradiction of the Hadith of Jabir for this implies that he prayed the Dhuhr at Mina before he rode to the House. The Hadith of Jabir implies that he rode to the House before he prayed the Dhuhr prayers and offered it in Makkah.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) and Ibn ‘Umar narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), visited (the House) at night. If this is understood to mean after Zawal toward the evening, that may be correct. But if it is understood to mean after sunset, then this is quite remote and contradicts what is established in well-known authentic Ahadeeth which state that he circumambulated the House on the Day of Nahr during the day time and he drank from the Zamzam water. The Tawaf for which he went to the House at night was that of Wadaa' (farewell). There are narrators which refer to Tawaf as a visit as we shall shortly explain insha'Allah. Or it may even be ordinary Tawaf Ziyarah before Tawaf Al-Wadaa' after the obligatory Tawaf.

A Hadith has been related, which we shall cite in its proper place, that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to visit the House every night during the nights of Mina. This is also very improbable.

The more authentic of those narrations and the opinions upon which the majority of scholars are upon is that Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), circumambulated on the Day of Nahr during the day time and much more likely before the Zawal but with a possibility that it may have occurred after the Zawal.

The import of this is that when Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), arrived at Makkah, he circumambulated the House while mounted and then he came to the Zamzam where he found Banu 'AbdulMuttalib drawing water from it and providing it to the people. He took a bucket of water and drank from it and poured some on himself.

On the authority of Bakr Ibn 'Abdullah Al-Muzani who narrated that he heard Ibn 'Abbas say while sitting near the Ka'bah: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), came here riding his she-camel, and Usamah was sitting behind him. He asked for water, and we gave him a cup full of Nabeedh (infusion of dates) and he drank it, and gave the remaining (part) to Usamah; and he (the Prophet) said: “Good! You have done well! So continue doing like it.” So we do not like to change what Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), had commanded us to do. In another version of the Hadith from Bakr, a Bedouin came to Ibn ‘Abbas and said: “What is the matter that I see that the progeny of your uncle supplies honey and milk (as drink to the travelers), whereas you supply Nabeedh (water sweetened with dates)? Is it due to your poverty or due to your close-fisted attitude?” Thereupon Ibn ‘Abbas narrated this Hadith.

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), came to the drinking place and asked for water. ‘Abbas said, “O Fadhl! Go to your mother and bring water from her for Allah’s Messenger.” Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said, “Give me water to drink.” ‘Abbas said, “O Allah’s Messenger! The people put their hands in it.” Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), again said, ‘Give me water to drink. So, he drank from that water and then went to the Zamzam (well) and there the people were offering water to others and working at it (drawing water from the well). The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then said to them, “Carry on! You are doing a good deed.” Then he said, “Were I not afraid that other people would compete with you (in drawing water from Zamzam), I would certainly take the rope and put it over this (i.e. his shoulder) to draw water,” on saying that the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), pointed to his shoulder. Afterward, Allah’s Messenger did not repeat running between Safa and Marwah for the second time; rather, he was contented with the first one. This is as related by Muslim on the authority of Jabir Ibn ‘Abdullah who said:

The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and his Companions did not perform Sa‘i except once.

Those referred to here as “his Companions”, are the ones who brought their Hady along with them and were performing Hajj-Qiran. It is recorded in Saheeh Muslim that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) who had combined Hajj with ‘Umrah and thus was also a Qiran pilgrim: “Your Sa‘i suffices for your Hajj and your ‘Umrah.”

According to Imam Ahmad and his companions, the position of Jabir and his companions is generally applicable to both those performing Hajj-Qiran as well those performing Hajj-Tamattu’. Thus, Imam Ahmad posits that one round between Safa and Marwah suffices for both ‘Umrah and Hajj of a Tamattu’ pilgrim even though he removes his Ihram between them. This is a strange position relying on the apparent general (meaning) of the Hadith.

The companions of Abu Hanifah hold the same opinion as their counterparts in the Maliki and Shafi‘i schools that two Tawafs and two Sa‘is are due upon a Tamattu’ pilgrim until the Hanafi even applied that to a Qarin and it is one of the odd positions of their madhhab. That is, a Qarin must also perform two Tawafs and two Sa‘is. They related that opinion from ‘Ali in a mawqoof form. It is also reported from him in a form raised (to the Prophet) but we have earlier discussed all of these under the Tawaf and we explained that the chains of that (Hadith) are weak and contradict more authentic Ahadeeth.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) performed (Tawaf) Al-Ifadah at the end of that day when he had offered the Dhuhur prayers and then he returned to Mina and remained there for the nights of the days of Tashreeq, stoning the Jamrah after the descent of the sun (from the Zenith) pelting each Jamrah with seven pebbles and saying Allahu Akbar with each pebble. This is related by Abu Dawood exclusively. This is a pointer to the fact that his going to Makkah on the Day of Nahr was after Zawal. This is an outright negation of the Hadith of Ibn ‘Umar. Concerning its contradiction to the Hadith of Jabir, then that is doubtful.

Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), delivered a compelling Khutbah on this honored day which has been reported in many Ahadeeth and here we cite from them what Allah has made easy:

Al-Bukhari said in the chapter which address in the days of Mina that on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbas who narrated that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), delivered a sermon on the Day of Nahr, and said: “O people! (Tell me) what is the day today?” The people replied: “It is the Sacred day.” He asked again: “What town is this?” They replied: “It is the Sacred town.” He asked: “Which month is this?” They replied: “It is the Sacred month.” He said: “No doubt! Your blood, your properties, and your honor are sacred to one another like the sanctity of this day of yours, in this town of yours, and in this month of yours.” The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), repeated his statement again and again. After that he raised his head and said: “O Allah! Have I not conveyed Your Message to them? O Allah! Have I not conveyed Your Message to them?” Ibn Abbas added: “By Him in Whose Hands is my soul, the following was the Prophet’s will to his followers: It is incumbent upon those who are present to convey this information to those who are absent; beware and do not renegade (as) disbelievers (turn into infidels) after me, striking the necks (cutting the throats) of one another.”

On the authority of Abi Bakrah who narrated: The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), delivered a sermon to us on the Day of Nahr. He said: “Do you know what today is?” We said: “Allah and His Messenger know best.” He remained silent until we thought that he might give that day another name. He said: “Isn’t it the Day of Nahr?” We said: “It is.” He further asked: “Which month is this?” We said: “Allah and His Messenger know best.” He remained silent until we thought that he might give it another name. He then said: “Isn’t it the month of Dhul-Hijjah?” We replied: “Yes! It is.” He further asked: “What town is this?” We replied: “Allah and His Messenger know it best.” He remained silent until we thought that he might give it another name. He then said: “Isn’t it the Sacred town of Makkah?” We said: “Yes. It is.” He said: “No doubt, your blood and your properties are sacred to one another like the sanctity of this day of yours, in this month of yours, in this town of yours, until the day you meet your Lord. No doubt! Haven’t I conveyed Allah’s message to you?” They said: “Yes.” He said: “O Allah! Be witness. So it is incumbent upon those who are present to convey it to those who are absent because the informed one might comprehend it better than the present audience, who will convey it to him. Beware! Do not renegade as disbelievers after me by striking the necks of one another.”

The deliverance of this address at the Jamrahs makes it possible to claim that it was after he had stoned the Jamrah on the Day of Nahr and before his Tawaf.

It is equally possible that it occurred after his Tawaf and return to Mina and stoning the Jamrahs. However, the former is strengthened by what is related by An-Nasa'i.

Muslim has related that Umm Al-Husain narrated: I performed Hajj along with Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), on the occasion of the Farewell Pilgrimage and I saw him when he threw pebbles at Jamrat Al-Aqabah and returned while he was riding the camel, and Bilal and Usamah were with him. One of them was leading his camel, while the other was raising his cloth over the head of Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), to shield him from the heat (of the sun). She (further) said: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said so many things, and I heard him say: "If a slave having some limb of his missing and having a dark complexion is appointed to govern you according to the Book of Allah, then listen to him and obey him."

On the authority of Salamah Ibn Qais Al-Ashja'i who said: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said during the Farewell Pilgrimage: "They are four: Do not associate any partner with Allah. Do not take a life which Allah has forbidden to be taken except by right, do not commit adultery and do not steal." Since I heard it from Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), no one has been more careful not to fall into them than me."

Ibn Hazm said in Hajjat Al-Wadaa' on the authority of Usamah Ibn Shareek who said: I witnessed Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), giving an address during the Farewell Pilgrimage and he was saying: “Your mother, your father, your sister, your brother and then other relatives in descending order.” Then some people came and said: O Messenger of Allah, Banu Yurboo’ had fought us whereupon Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: “No one should falsely accuse another.” Then a man who had forgotten to stone came and asked him for a (religious) verdict and he said: “Go ahead and stone, there is no harm.” Another person came and said: “O Messenger of Allah, I forgot to circumambulate.” The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), answered: “Go ahead and circumambulate, there is no harm.” And yet another man who had shaved before he slaughtered came to seek his verdict and he said to him: “Go ahead and slaughter, there is no harm.” He was not asked about anything that day except that he said, there is no harm. Thereafter, he said: “Allah has removed all harms except for someone who falsely tarnish the honor of another Muslim. Such is a person for whom there is harm and destruction.” He added: “Allah does not sent down a disease except that He also sends down its cure, except for old age.”

On the authority of Jareer who narrated: The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said to me during the Farewell Pilgrimage: “O Jareer, let the people keep quiet and listen.” Then he said to the people: “Do not revert to disbelief after me by striking the necks of one another.”

On the authority of ‘Amr who reported from his father who said: During the Farewell Pilgrimage, I witnessed Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), saying: “O people, (saying that three times) what day is this?” The people responded: “The day of the great pilgrimage.” The Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then said: “Certainly, your blood, your wealth and your honor are sacred to one another like the sanctity of this day of yours, in this month of yours, in this town of yours. The sin of a sinner shall not be blamed on his children nor that of a child blamed on his father. Verily, Shaitan has lost hope of being worshipped in this land of yours forever, however, he will be obeyed in some of the little things of your action and he would be pleased. Verily, all usury of the time of ignorance shall henceforth be waived, yours is the principal of your money. Do not oppress and do not (accept to) be oppressed.”

Imam Ahmad related on the authority of Abu Umamah who said: I heard Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), say while he was sitting on Al-Jad’a’ (one of his camels) and his legs were on the stirrup stretching so that the people may hear him. He said at the height of his voice: “Won’t you listen!” A man among the groups of people present said: “O Messenger of Allah, what do you recommend to us?” He said: “Worship your Lord, offer your five daily prayers, fast your month (of Ramadan) and obey when you are commanded and you will enter the Paradise of your Lord.” I (the sub-narrator) said: “Abu Umamah, how old were you at the time?” He said: “At the time, I was thirty years old.”

On the authority of Abu Umamah Al-Bahili who narrated: I heard Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), say in his Khutbah during the Farewell Pilgrimage: “Allah has given rights to their respective owners and that it is not permissible to make a will for a rightful inheritor. A child is attributed to the (owner of the) bed and the stone is for the adulterer. Whoever attributes himself to other than his rightful father or affiliates himself to other than his rightful mawla, upon him shall be the curse of Allah that will follow him until the Day of Resurrection. A woman should not give out anything from her (husband) house except with her husband's permission." It was said: "O Messenger of Allah, not even food?" He said: "That is the best of our wealth." Then Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: "Loan is to be repaid, a gift is reciprocated, a debt is offset and a guarantor is liable."

On the authority of Rafi' Ibn 'Amr Al-Muzani who narrated: I saw Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), giving an address at Mina during the late morning on a reddish mule while Ali was articulating for him and the people were either standing or sitting."

On the authority of 'Abdur Rahman Ibn Mu'aadh At-Taimi who said: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), addressed us while we were at Mina. Our hearings were wide open in such a way that we could hear what he was saying even while we were inside our lodgings. Then he began to teach them their rites till he got to the Jamrahs then he put together his two forefingers and said: "With small pebbles." Then he ordered the Emigrants to camp in front of the mosque and the Ansar to camp at the back and other people encamped after that.

It is recorded in the Saheehain that 'Abdullah Ibn 'Amr Ibn Al-'As narrated: "I witnessed the Prophet, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), while he was delivering a sermon on the Day of Nahr (i.e., 10th Dhul-Hijjah, day of slaughtering the sacrifice), a man got up saying: 'I thought, Allah's Messenger, such-and-such a thing was to be done before such-and-such a thing.'

Another man got up, saying, 'I thought, Allah's Messenger, such-and-such a thing was to be done before such-and-such a thing.' Then Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said: 'Do, and there is no harm!'" It is related from the Hadith of Malik, Muslim and Yoonus from Az-Dhuhri. It has numerous wordings and this is not the right place to examine that. Its proper place is the Book of Ahkam (rulings). In the wording of the Saheehain he said: Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was not asked about anything brought forward or delayed that day except that he said: "Do, and there is no harm."

Then Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), alighted at Mina where the mosque is currently located according to a report. The Emigrants encamped on the right, the Ansar encamped on the left and the (other) people encamped around behind them.

Ibn 'Umar narrated: Al-'Abbas sought permission of Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), to stay in Makkah during the nights of Mina for the provision of water and he permitted him."

Allah's Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), used to lead his Companions in Mina in two Raka'ahs as established in narrations from him in the Saheehain from the Hadith of Ibn Mas'ood and Harithah Ibn Wahb, may Allah be pleased with them both. Thus, a section of scholars posits that the reason for this shortening was Nusuk (sacrifice) as opined by some Malikis and others. They said: Whoever says that the Messenger of Allah, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), said in Mina to the people of Makkah: "Complete your prayers for we are travelers” is mistaken for he said that during the year of the Conquest when he disembarked at Al-Abtah as stated earlier. He used to pelt the three Jamrahs every day during the days of Mina after the Zawal on foot as stated by Jabir earlier and as stated by Ibn ‘Umar among the Salaf, each Jamrah was pelted with seven pebbles and he uttered Allahu Akbar at each throw of the pebble. He stopped at the first and second to supplicate Allah but he did not stop at the third.

It is narrated that Ibn ‘Umar used to stone the nearest Jamrah with seven pebbles saying Allahu Akbar at the end of each pebble throw then he would move ahead slightly to a more level ground and he would supplicate raising his hands. Then he would stone the middle Jamrah and he would move slightly left to a more convenient place and he would face the Qiblah and supplicate raising his hands and he would stand for a long time. He would then stone the last Jamrah from the middle of the valley but he would not stop to supplicate. He would depart saying: “This is the way I saw Allah’s Messenger acting.”

‘Asim Ibn ‘Adiyy reported from his father that Allah’s Messenger, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), gave concession to stone the Jamrah on the Day of Nahr and to skip a day and night and then stone the Jamrah again the subsequent day.

Chapter Concerning the Ahadeeth that Illustrate that Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) Addressed the People in Mina on the Second Day From the Days of Tashreeq

Abu Dawood said in the chapter concerning which day the Sermon given in Mina. Narrated by Ibn Abi Najeeh, from his father, from two men from Banu Bakr who said: We saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) address (the people) between the middle days of the days of Tashreeq, while we were by his riding animal, and it was the Sermon of the Messenger of Allah that he addressed in Mina.

From Sarra' Bint Nabhan – and she was a housewife in Jahiliyyah– who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) addressed us on the day of heads (the day when the heads of the sacrifices are eaten i.e. the first day of Tashreeq), saying: “What day is this?” We said: “Allah and his Messenger know best.” He said: “Isn't this the middle of the days of Tashreeq (three days of Mina i.e. 11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah).”

Ibn Hazm mentioned: It has occurred that the Prophet addressed the people on the day of heads and it is the second day from the day of sacrifice without any difference from the people of Makkah, and it has been mentioned that it is the middle of the days of Tashreeq, so middle can mean most noble, just as Allah said: And thus we have made you a median community. (Soorah Al-Baqarah 2: 143). And this course that Ibn Hazm followed is far from what is correct.

A Mention of a Hadith that the Messenger of Allah Used to Visit Ka‘bah Every Night From the Nights of Mina

Al-Bukhari stated mentioning from Abu Hassan, from Ibn ‘Abbas: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to visit Ka‘bah on the days of Mina,” this is how Al-Bukhari mentioned it in Mu‘allaq (without mentioning the chain of narrators) form with the context of criticising the narration’s authenticity.

The Sixth Day of Dhul-Hijjah

Some of them said: It is called “the Day of Beauty” because the body is beautified with Jilal (a type of adornment) and other than it, and the seventh day is called “the Day of Irrigation” because it is the day when they quench their thirst with water, and they take from it that which they need for the time of standing on the plains of ‘Arafat supplicating and that which comes after that, and the eighth day is known as “the Day of Mina,” because they travel from Al-Abtah to Mina, and the ninth day is called “the Day of ‘Arafah,” due to their standing there on the plains of ‘Arafat, and the tenth day is called “the Day of Sacrifice” and “the Day of Al-Adha” and “the Day of the Hajj AlAkbar” and the day that follows it is called “the Day of Tranquility” because they settle on that day. It is also called “the Day of Heads” because they eat the first of their sacrifices, and it is the first day of the days of Tashreeq, and the second of the days of Tashreeq is called “the Day of the First Leaving Group” because it is permissible to leave on that day, and it is said that it is the day that is known as “the Day of the Heads.” And the third of the days of Tashreeq is called “the Day of the Last (Leaving) Group.” Allah, the Most High, says: Then whoever hastens in two days – there is no sin upon him; and whoever delays – there is no sin upon him. (Soorah Al- Baqarah: 203). Then, when it was the last day for leaving, and it is the third of the days of Tashreeq and it was a Tuesday, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) rode and the Muslims also left with him. He left Mina with them and descended Al-Al-Muhassab and it is a valley between Makkah and Mina. Then he prayed Salat Al-‘Asr there.

And it has been narrated by ‘Abdul-Aziz Ibn Rufai’: I asked Anas Ibn Malik: “Inform me about something you witnessed from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ; where did he pray Dhuhr on the Day of Irrigation?” He said: “At Al-Abtah, do as your man did.” And it has truly been narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed Dhuhr on the Day of Leaving at Al-Abtah while remaining at Al- Muhassab.

Ibn ‘Umar narrated: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), Abu Bakr and ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with them, would stop at Al-Abtah.

Ibn ‘Umar also narrated: Indeed he would stop at Al-Muhassab. And he would pray Dhuhr on the Day of Leaving at Al-Hasbah. Nafi’ mentioned: Indeed the Messenger of Allah and his Caliphs after him threw pebbles at the Jamarahs in Mina.

Abu Hurairah narrated: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said about the day after the Day of Sacrifice at Mina: “We are going to descend tomorrow at Khaif Bani Kinanah where they share with each other disbelief.” He meant by that Al-Muhassab.

Usamah Ibn Zaid narrated: I said: O Messenger of Allah, where are you going to stay tomorrow in Hajj? He replied: "And did 'Aqeel leave for us a household?" Then he said: "We are going to stop tomorrow insha'Allah at Khaif Bani Kinanah – i.e. Al-Muhassab – where they have gathered with the Quraish upon disbelief," and that is because the tribe of Kinanah confederated with Quraish against the tribe of Hashim not to marry, trade and not to give them refuge – i.e. until they gave up the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) – then he said at that point: "The Muslim does not inherit from the Kafir and the Kafir does not inherit from the Muslim." Az-Dhuhri said: And Al-Khaif means the valley

'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: "It was the only place that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would stop at in order for it to be easier for him to leave – i.e. Al-Abtah." And what is intended is that all of them (the narrators) agreed that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stopped at Al-Muhassab when he left Mina, but they differed afterward. Some said he didn't plan his descent, but it was by coincidence for it to be easier for his exit; others indicated with his words that he intended to stop there, and this is the most likely opinion, because he commanded the people that their last covenant was with Ka'bah, and they would before that disperse from every angle. Ibn 'Abbas said: "So he commanded the people that their last affair was with Ka'bah, i.e., the Farewell Tawaf. So the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) intended that he made Tawaf and those who were with him, and he indeed left Mina close to the time of midday, so it wasn't possible for him to come to Ka'bah for the rest of the day and make Tawaf, and then traveled to the outskirts of Makkah from the direction of Madinah. Since that may nothave been possible with a big crowd, he needed a place to stay before going to Makkah and there was no place more suitable than Al-Muhassab for his stay, where the Quraish had confederated with the tribe of Kinanah against the tribe of Hisham and Muttalib. So Allah did not assist the Quraish in their affair; rather He suppressed them and rejected them as losers. Allah made His religion victorious and helped His Prophet and raised His Word (tawheed), and completed His straight religion and made clear His straight path. So the Prophet made Hajj with the people and made clear to them Allah's rules and signs and he left after completing the rights of Hajj. He then stopped at the place where the Quraish had unified on oppression, wrongdoing and causing discord. He prayed by it Dhuhr, 'Asr, Maghreb and 'Isha' and then slept a little. And he sent 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), the Mother of the Believers, with her brother 'Abdur-Rahman so they could perform the 'Umrah from At-Tan'eem and when she finished she returned.

'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: "I left with him - the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the last group, then he stayed at Al-Muhassab." Abu Dawood said: Ibn Bashshar mentioned the story of his dispatch to Tan'eem. She said: "Then I came to him in the morning, and he announced to his Companions it was time to go, so he reached Ka'bah before the morning prayer and made Tawaf of it when he was going to leave. Later, he left and headed for Madinah.

I say: That which is apparent is that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed the morning prayer on that day at Ka'bah with his Companions and read in that prayer the complete Soorah Toor till the end: By the Mount. And a Book inscribed. In parchment spread open. And the frequented House.

And the ceiling raised high. And the sea filled (with fire).
(Soorah At-Toor: 1-6)

And that is due to what Al-Bukhari narrated: From Umm Salamah, the wife of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him): "I complained to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that I was sick. He said: "Make Tawaf behind the people while riding." So I made Tawaf and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was praying at the side of Ka'bah, while reading: By the Mount. And a Book inscribed. (Soorah At-Toor: 1, 2)

Umm Salamah narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said when he was in Makkah and wanted to leave and Umm Salamah had not yet made Tawaf and also wanted to leave, so he said to her: "When the morning prayer commences then make Tawaf on your camel while the people are praying."

And the point is that he upon completing the morning prayers made Tawaf and stood in the area (Multazem) between the corner which has the Black Stone in it and the door of the Ka'bah and thereafter invoked Allah and pressed his cheek against the wall of the Ka'bah.

'Amr Ibn Shu'aib narrated from his father, from his grandfather: "I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) pressing his face and his chest with the Multazem."

Then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) left Makkah as 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) mentioned: "Indeed the Messenger of Allah entered Makkah from the top and exited from the bottom," narrated in the Saheehain.

Ibn ‘Umar said: “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered from the high end which is at Al-Batha’ and left from the lower end,” narrated by Al-Bukhari and Muslim. According to another narration: He entered from Kuda’ and left from Kada.

Jabir narrated: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) left Makkah at sunset, and did not pray until he arrived at Sarif which is nine miles away from Makkah. This is very strange, and Ajlah (narrator in the chain of narrations) is doubtful, and maybe this was in other than the last pilgrimage. For verily the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) made Tawaf of the House after the morning prayer, so what delayed him to the time of sunset? This is very strange, unless that which Ibn Hazm claimed was true that he returned to Al-Muhassab from Makkah after his Tawaf, and did not mention an evidence for that except for the statement of ‘A’isha when she returned from her ‘Umrah from Tan‘eem then she met him while she was ascending and he was descending to the people of Makkah. Or, she was descending and he was ascending. Ibn Hazm said: That which there is no doubt in, is that she was ascending to Makkah and he was descending; because she proceeded to perform ‘Umrah, and he waited for her until she returned, then he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) proceeded to make the farewell Tawaf. Then he met her whilst she was going to Al- Muhassab from Makkah.

Al-Bukhari stated in the chapter of the one who stops at Dhi Tuwa when he returns from Makkah, and narrated from Ibn ‘Umar that when he would spend the night at Dhi Tuwa until the morning and then he would enter (Makah) ; when he would leave he would pass by Dhi Tuwa and spend the night there until he reached the morning, and he would say that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to do that.

This is how he mentioned it Mu‘allaqan (without mentioning the narrator) with the phrase of certainty about the authenticity of the narration, and he mentioned it with the chain of narrations at another place in his book and Muslim also from the narration of Hammad Ibn Zaid. However, it does not have the mentioning of staying at Dhi Tuwa upon his return.

A’ishah narrated: She used to carry Zamzam and she used to inform that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would also carry it.

Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar also narrated that whenever the Messenger of Allah

(Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would return from a battle or Hajj or ‘Umrah, he would say Allahu Akbar thrice, then he would say: “There is no deity worthy of worship except Allah alone without a partner, for Him is the kingdom, for Him is All Praise, and He is able to do all things, returning repenters, worshippers, those who prostrate to our Lord praising, Allah affirmed his promise, and He helped his slave and He defeated the armies Himself.”

Concerning a Hadith that Proves that the Prophet Addressed at a Place Between Makkah and Madina

It is narrated that he explained over there the virtues of ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib and his innocence from what some people spoke about in Yemen, because of that which they experienced from his rulings which they considered as oppression, suppression, and stinginess, while the truth was with him in that matter. That is why when the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) finished explaining the rights of Hajj and returned to Madinah he explained that on the journey. Then he made a forceful speech on the 18th of Dhul-Hijjah of that year and it was a Sunday at Ghadeer Khumm under a tree in which he explained certain matters. He mentioned the virtues of ‘Ali and his honesty, justice, and his relationship with him, which removed from the people whatever they held in their hearts and minds against him. We will mention many Ahadeeth related to that affair and make clear the authentic narrations from the weak ones insha'Allah. Abu Ja‘afar Muhammad Ibn Jareer At-Tabari, the author of Tafseer and history, paid special attention to this and compiled a two volume work which mentions the chains and versions of this speech. He mentioned the weak and the strong, the authentic and the unauthentic narrations, upon the way of many Muhaditheen who mentioned that which came to them in that chapter without making a difference between the authentic and unauthentic narrations. Similarly Al-Hafiz Abul-Qasim Ibn Al‘Asakir mentioned many Ahadeeth of this sermon and we will mention narrations which have been narrated while mentioning that the Shi‘as have no share in it and there is nothing for them to hold onto or any proof as we will make clear what we say.

Muhammad Ibn Ishaq said in the context of the Farewell Pilgrimage: narrating from Yazeed Ibn Rukanah: When ‘Ali arrived from Yemen to meet the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in Makkah, he hurried to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and left in charge of the army he had with him a man from his companions. That man clothed every person with a gown that was with ‘Ali. When ‘Ali came back to his army he found them all having gowns on them, so he said: “Woe be upon you, what is this?” He said: “I clothed the people for them to beautify themselves when they met the people.” He replied: “Woe be upon you! Remove them before you meet the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with it.” He removed the gowns from the people and returned it. The army then made apparent their grievance for what he had done to them.

Abu Sa’eed narrated: The people complained about ‘Ali, so the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood as an addresser amongst us, then I heard him say: “People do not complain about ‘Ali for, by Allah, there is no harshness for Allah – or the path of Allah – that should be complained about.”

And Buraidah said: "I fought with ‘Ali in Yemen and I saw harshness from him. Then, when I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) I mentioned ‘Ali and I belittled him. I saw the face of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) change, and he said: 'O Buraidah, am I not more deserving of the Believers than themselves?' I said: 'Indeed, O Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ' He replied: 'Whoever I am a protector of, then ‘Ali is his protector'."

Zaid Ibn Arqam related that when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) returned from the Farewell Pilgrimage and stopped at Ghadeer Khumm and ordered that the Dawhat (trees) be brushed and their thorns were removed from underneath them so the ground would be clear then he said: “It is as though I was called so I answered. I have left behind the two heavy (matters) ; one of them is heavier than the other: The Book of Allah and my 'Itrah (close cousins) the people of my family (Ahl ulbait), so see how you succeed me to them, for, verily, they will not split until they meet me at the Hawdh." Then he said: "Allah is my protector and I am the ally of every Believer," then he took the hand of 'Ali and said: "Whoever I am the protector of, then he is their ally. Allah take as a friend the one who takes him as a friend and be an enemy to the one who is hostile to him." So I said to Zaid: "Did you hear it from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ?" He replied: "Nobody was in the great trees except that he saw him with his two eyes and heard him with his two ears."

Sa'eed Ibn Wahb related from Zaid Ibn Yuthai' who said that 'Ali said to the people in the open who heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say on the day of Ghadeer Khumm what he said except that he should stand? He said: Six people stood before Sa'eed, and six stood before Zaid, then they attested that they indeed saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say to 'Ali on the day of Ghadeer Khumm: "Is not Allah more deserving of the Believers than themselves?" They replied: "Certainly." He replied: "O Allah whoever I am the protector of, then 'Ali is their protector; O Allah take as a friend the one who takes him as a friend and be an enemy to the one who is hostile to him."

Sa'eed ibn Wahb said: 'Ali said in the open: "I read to you by Allah a man who heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say on the day of Ghadeer Khumm: 'Verily Allah is the ally of the Believers, and the one who I am their ally, then he ('Ali) is their ally. Allah take as an ally the one who takes him as an ally and be hostile to the one who is hostile to him, and help the one who helps him'.”

Year 11 From Hijrah

The year began and the noble Prophet and the travelers returned to Madinah from the Farewell Pilgrimage and in this year great matters occurred; from the greatest matters was the catastrophe that was the death of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). However, Allah, Almighty, moved him from this temporary world to the eternal pleasure in a lofty high place, and a level in Paradise that has no level higher than it. Allah said: And the hereafter is better for you than the first (life). And your Lord is going to give you, and you will be satisfied. (Soorah Duha: 4,5). And that is after he finished conveying the message that Allah commanded him to propagate, and he advised his nation, and showed to them that which he knew from good, and he warned them and prohibited them from that which was harmful for them in this world and the hereafter.

We already mentioned what the authors of the two authentic books (Imam AlBukhari and Muslim) mentioned from the Hadith of ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab that he said: The statement of Allah was revealed: Today I have completed for you your religion (Soorah Al-Ma’idah: on the day of Jumu’ah and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was standing in ‘Arafat.

We narrated from a good route that ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab cried when this Verse was revealed, so it was asked: “What causes you to cry?” He replied: “There is nothing after perfection except deficiency,” and it was though he felt the death of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). And indeed he, may the prayers of Allah and peace be upon him, indicated this in the narration of Muslim which he narrated from Jabir: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood at Jamrat Al-‘Aqabah and said to us: “Take from me your rights (of Hajj), for perhaps I may not perform Hajj after this year of mine.”

Abu Bakr Al-Bazzar and Al-Baihaqi narrated from Ibn ‘Umar that when Soorah An-Nasr was revealed in the middle of the days of Tashreeq, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) knew it was a farewell so he ordered for his riding animal Al-Qaswa’ and then left. He then mentioned the sermon that as preceded. Similarly Ibn ‘Abbas said to ‘Umar when he asked him about the explanation of this Soorah in the presence of many of the Companions to show them the virtue of Ibn ‘Abbas and his advancement and knowledge, as some of them blamed him for bringing forth and seating him amongst the veterans of Badr. He said, “Indeed he is from where you know (i.e. the family of the Prophet),” then he asked them in the presence of Ibn ‘Abbas about the explanation of this Soorah: When the victory of Allah has come and conquest. And you see the people entering into the religion of Allah in multitudes. Then exalt (Him) with Praise of your Lord and ask for forgiveness from Him. Indeed He is ever Accepting of repentance. (Soorah An- Nasr: 1-3) They said: “We have been commanded when we are victorious (in conquest) that we remember Allah and we praise Him and ask for forgiveness.” Then he asked: “What do you say, O Ibn ‘Abbas?” He replied: “The time of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) is being announced to him.” Then ‘Umar said: “I don’t know from it except that which you know.” We indeed mentioned it in the explanation of this Soorah that which illustrates the statement of Ibn ‘Abbas from different perspectives even though it does not negate also that which the Companions said in explanation of it.

Abu Hurairah narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said when He performed Hajj with his wives: “It is only this pilgrimage, then stick to the surfaces of the rugs.” This was the point that the soul felt his passing was imminent in that year, and we will mention that and relay that which has been narrated with regards to it from Ahadeeth and narrations and with Allah is help sought. Let us mention before that what the Imams Muhammad Ibn Ishaq Ibn Yasar, Abu Ja’afar Ibn Jareer, and Abu Bakr Al-Baihaqi said at this point before the death of the Prophet from the number of his pilgrimages, battles, brigades, letters and messengers to the kings. So let us mention that abridged and summarized then we will follow that up with the death of the Prophet.

In the Saheehain Zaid ibn Arqam narrated: Verily the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fought 19 battles, and made pilgrimage after He migrated, the Farewell Pilgrimage, and never made pilgrimage after that. Abu Ishaq said: And one in Makkah. And we mentioned earlier from more than one of the Companions, from them Anas Ibn Malik in the Saheehain: Indeed he performed four ‘Umrahs: ‘Umrah of Hudaybiyyah, ‘Umrah of Al-Qada’, ‘Umrah of Al-Ji’ranah and the ‘Umrah of the Farewell Pilgrimage.

As for the battles, Al-Bukhari narrated from Salamah Ibn Al-Akwa’: I fought with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) seven battles, and with Zaid Ibn Harithah nine battles in which the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) placed him in command over us.

In the Saheehain from Salamah: "I fought with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) seven battles, and from that which he would send from expeditions (brigades) nine battles, at one time with Abu Bakr in charge and at one time Usamah Ibn Zaid."

And in Saheeh Al-Bukhari Al-Bara' who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fought 15 battles.

Zaid Ibn Arqam said, as recorded in the Saheehain: Verily the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fought 19 battles and I was present in 17 of them.

Ibn Buraidah related from his father: He truly fought battles with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). In a narration from Muslim from the route of Al-Husain Ibn Waqid from Abdullah Ibn Buraidah from his father: He fought with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) battles and fought in eight from them. In a narration from him with this chain (of narrators): He sent 24 brigades, he fought on the day of Badr, Uhud, Al-Ahzab, Al-Muraisee', Qudaid, Khaibar, Makkah and Hunain.

In Saheeh Muslim from the Hadith of Abu Zubair from Jabir: Verily the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fought 21 battles, I fought with him in 19 battles, and I did not attend Badr or Uhud, as my father prevented me. When my father was killed in Uhud I did not miss any battle that he fought in.

Sa'eed Ibn Al-Musayyab narrated: the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fought in 18 battles. He said: I heard him another time say: 24 battles, and so I don't know if that was a misconception or something that I heard afterwards.

Abu Qatadah said: "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fought in 19 battles, he participated in eight of them, and sent from the brigades 24," so all of his battles and brigades were 43 (in total).

'Urwah Ibn Az-Zubair mentioned and Az-Dhuhri, Moosa Ibn 'Uqbah, Muhammad Ibn Ishaq Ibn Yasar and more than one of the Imams concerning this matter: Verily he fought on the Day of Badr in Ramadan in the second year (since Hijrah), then in Uhud in Shawwal of the third year, then Al-Khandaq, and Banu Quraizah in Shawwal also of the fourth year, and its mentioned the fifth year. Then in Bani Al-Mustaliq at Al-Muraisee' in Sha'ban in year 5, then in Khaibar in Safar in year 7, and from them are those who say year 6 and the truth is that it was at the start of year 7 and the end of year 6. Then he fought the people of Makkah in Ramadan year 8 and fought against Hawazin and laid siege to the people of Tai'f in Shawwal and some of Dhul-Hijjah year 8 as is mentioned in detail before. And Muhammad Ibn Ishaq said: And the total number of battles that he fought were 27:

The Battle of Waddan and that is the Battle of Al-Abwa'

The Battle of Buwat from the direction of Radwa

The Battle of Al-Ishirah from the middle of Yanbu‘

The first Battle of Badr (the request of Kurz ibn Jabir),

The great Battle of Badr in which he fought against the bravest of the Quraish

The Battle of Bani Sulaim until he reached Al-Kudr

The Battle of As-Saweeq in search of Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb

The Battle of Ghatfan and it was the Battle of Dhi Amr

The Battle of Najran

The Battle of Uhud

The Battle Hamra’al-Asad

The Battle of Banu Nadheer

The Battle of Dhaat ar-Riqah

The Battle of Badr Al-Akhirah (last)

The Battle Doomatal Jandal The Battle of Al-Khandaq then Bani Al-Quraidah then Bani Lihyan from Hudhail then Dhu Qarad then Bani Al-Mustaliq from Khuza‘ah then Al-Hudaibiyah, not wanting battle when the polytheists blocked his path then Khaibar then ‘Umrah al-Qada’ then Al-Fath

(Conquest of Makkah) then Hunain then At-Ta'if and then

Tabook.

Ibn Ishaq said: He fought in nine of them: Badr, Uhud, Al-Khandaq, Quraidhah, Al-Mustaliq, Khaibar, Al-Fath, Hunain and At-Ta'if. I say that all of that has been mentioned in much detail in their places with their evidences and proofs.

Concerning the Verses and Ahadeeth Warning of the Death of the Messenger of Allah

Jabir said: I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) throw at the Jimar then he stood and said: "Take from me your rites of Hajj for I may not perform Hajj after this year of mine." Allah, Most High, says:

"Indeed you are to die and indeed, they are to die. Then indeed you, on the Day of Resurrection, before your Lord, will dispute." (Soorah Az-Zumar: 30, 31)

"And we did not grant to any man before you eternity (on earth), so if you die – would they be eternal?" (Soorah Al-Anbiya': 34)

"Every soul will taste death. And we test you with evil and with good as a trial; and to Us you will be returned." (Soorah Al-Anbiya': 35)

“Everyone shall taste death. And only on the Day of Resurrection shall you be paid your wages in full. And whoever is removed away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise, he indeed is successful. The life of this world is only the enjoyment of deception (a deceiving thing).” (Soorah Aal ‘Imran: 185). “Muhammad is not but a messenger. (Other) messengers have passed on before him. So if he was to die or be killed, would you turn back on your heels (to unbelief) ? And he who turns back on his heels will never harm Allah at all; but Allah will reward the grateful.” (Soorah Aal ‘Imran: 144)

The above-mentioned Verse is the one As-Siddeeq (Abu Bakr) recited on the day of the passing of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). When the people heard it, it was as though they had never heard it before.

Allah said: “When the victory of Allah has come and conquest. And you see the people entering into the religion of Allah in multitudes. Then exalt (Him) with Praise of your Lord and ask for forgiveness from Him. Indeed He is ever Accepting of repentance.” (Soorah An-Nasr: 1-3). ‘Umar and Ibn ‘Abbas mentioned: “It was the time (death) of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that was made known to him.”

Ibn ‘Umar mentioned: It was revealed in the middle of the days of Tashreeq in the Farewell Pilgrimage, so the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) knew it was a farewell. Thereafter he addressed the people with a sermon he commanded them with good and forbade them from evil, the famous sermon as mentioned earlier.

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said to his daughter, Fatimah: “Verily, Jibraeel used to revise the Qur’an with me once every year, and this year he revised the Qur’an twice, and I do not see except that my time has come near.”

In Saheeh Al-Bukhari Abu Hurairah said: “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to make I’tikaf (staying in the mosque as an act of worship) every month of Ramadan for 10 days, then, when it was the year in which he passed away he performed I’tikaf for 20 days.”

Abu Muwaihibah narrated: "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was ordered to pray upon the people of Al-Baqi (graveyard in Madinah). He prayed upon them three times, then, when it was the third night, he said: 'Abu Muwaihibah, place the saddle on my riding animal.' Then he rode and I walked until he reached them, then he descended from his riding animal, then I held theriding animal and he stood, or he said, he stood by them and said: 'Let it be easy for you the state you are in, in contrast to what the people are in. The trials are like pieces of the dark night, each piece follows the other, the last is worse than the first, so let the state you are in be easy for, in contrast to what the people are in'."

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) returned from Al-Baqi and found me while I had a headache and I was saying: “My head!” He said: “Rather me, ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) and my head.” She continued: Then he said: “What would harm you were you to die before me and then I stood by you, wrapped you, prayed over you, and buried you?” I replied: “By Allah, it is as though I was with you, were you to indeed do that. It was as if I indeed returned to my house and had a feast with some of your wives.” Then the illness of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) peaked while visiting his wives, until his illness intensified in Maimoonah’s house. He called his wives, and sought permission from them to be nursed in my house so they gave him permission. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) exited being helped by two men from his family, one of them was Al-Fadhil Ibn ‘Abbas and another man, while having his head tied and dragging his feet, until he entered my house. ‘Ubaidullah mentioned: So I informed Ibn ‘Abbas then he asked: ‘Do you know who the other man was? He was ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib’.”

A’ishah also said: When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fell ill and his pain intensified, he asked permission from his wives to be nursed in my house so they allowed him. Then he exited while being helped by two men while his feet were dragging on the floor between ‘Abbas Ibn ‘Ubaid and another man. ‘Ubaidullah said: So I informed ‘Abdullah – i.e. Ibn ‘Abbas – what ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) mentioned. Then ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abbas said: “Do you know who the other man was who ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) didn’t mention?” I replied: “No.” Ibn ‘Abbas said: “He was ‘Ali.” Then ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) used to say that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered my house when his illness intensified, and said: “Pour on me water from seven water skins, and not complete the contents, i.e., not all of the water from them in order that I take a covenant from the people.” So we sat him in a tub belonging to Hafsa, the wife of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and we began to pour on him from those containers, until he began to indicate to us with his hand that you have done what he had wanted. A'ishah said: Then he exited to the people and led the prayer and addressed them.

'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to ask in during illness from which he died: "Where am I tomorrow, where am I tomorrow?" He intended the day with 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), so his wives allowed him to be where he wanted to be. So he stayed in 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her)'s house until he died. 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) said: He died on the day that he was going to see me in my house, and Allah took him while his head was between my chest and my neck and his saliva mixed with mine.

She said: 'Abdur-Rahman Ibn Abu Bakr entered brushing with a Siwak (twig like toothbrush), and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) looked at him. I said to him: "Give me that Siwak, 'Abdur Rahman." So he gave it to me and I cut it and softened it, and then gave it to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). He brushed with it while leaning on my chest."

Narrated by 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her): "Verily the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would read upon himself when ill the Mu'awwidhat (the last three Soorahs of the Qur'an) and blow on himself, then wipe his hands on himself. When he fell ill from the illness that led to his death, I began to blow on him with the Mu'awwidhat like he would, and wipe with the hand of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) upon him.

It is affirmed in the Saheehain that ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: "The wives of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) gathered around him. Then Fatimah came walking her gait (which) was not different to her father's. He said: 'Welcome my daughter,' and she sat to his right or left. Then he whispered something to her in secret and she cried, then he whispered another thing to her in secret and she smiled. I asked her: 'The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) favored you in particular with a secret and you were crying.' When she stood, I said: 'Inform me of what he shared with you?' She replied: 'I am not to spread the secret of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) "When he passed away I asked her: 'I ask you for the right that I have upon you, that you inform me.' She replied: 'As for now, then yes. He whispered to me on the first occasion: Verily I used to recite the Qur'an to Jibraeel once every year, and I recited it to him this year twice, and I do not see except that my time has come near, so fear Allah and remain patient for I am a good predecessor for you, so I cried. Then he whispered to me: Are you not pleased that you are the leader of the women believers, or the leader of the women from this nation? so I smiled.'" And this Hadith has other paths narrated by ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her).

Narrated by ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her):“We gave the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) medicine during his illness, so he began to indicate to us not to give him that medicine. Then we said (we thought or said to ourselves), (that it was) the hatred of the sick for medicine. When he recovered he said: “Did I not forbid you from administering medicine to me?” We said (we thought or said to ourselves) (that it was) the hatred of the sick for medicine. Then he said: “Nobody should be left in the house except that he is given this medicine – while I watch – except for Al-‘Abbas because he did not see you (give the medicine).”

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to say in his illness from which he died: “‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), I still feel the pain from the food that I ate in Khaibar (after he was poisoned by the Jews of Khaibar), so this is a time I find myself gasping from that poison.”

‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abbas narrated that ‘Ali left the company of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) during the illness from which he died. The people said: “Abul-Hasan, how did the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) reach the morning?” He replied: “He is better with Allah’s praise.” Then ‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Mutalib took his hand and said to him: “You, by Allah, after three (nights he will die) are the worshipper of the stick (an example for someone who begins to follow someone else), and I truly see that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) shall pass away by this illness of his. Verily, I know the faces of Bani ‘Abdul-Muttalib at the time of death. Take us to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and then let us ask him for whom is the command? If it is us then we know, but if it is in other than us then we will be informed and give Wasiyyah (i.e. appointment of the Caliph after him).” Thereafter ‘Ali said: “If we, by Allah, were to ask the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) for Wasiyyah then he denies us from it then the people won't give it to us after him, for surely by Allah I will not ask the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) for it."

Ibn 'Abbas narrated: "Thursday, and what happened on Thursday? The illness of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) intensified." Then he said: "Come to me I will write a message for you, after it you will never go astray." Thereafter they began to argue and it is not appropriate to argue in the presence of a Prophet. So they said: "What is the matter with him that he is in such pain?" They questioned that, so they began to defend him by make excuses for him. Thereafter he said: "Leave me, for that condition in which I am is better than what you are calling me to." Then he advised them with three matters. He said: "Expel the idolaters from the Arabian Peninsula, and treat the delegations in the way that I would." And he remained silent about the third, or he said: "I forgot it."

A'ishah said that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: "Indeed I intended to send for Abu Bakr and his son and take a covenant lest those who speak were to speak, or those who wish were to wish." Then he said Allah refuses, or the believers repel, or Allah repels and the believers refuse (to accept anyone other than Abu Bakr as the Caliph).

In Saheeh Al-Bukhari and Muslim it is narrated from Muhammad Ibn Jubair Ibn Mut'im from his father that he said: A woman came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he ordered her to return to him after some time. So she asked: "If I were to come and not find you?" As though she intended his death. He said: "If you do not find me then go to Abu Bakr.” And that which is apparent And Allah (SWT) knows best that she only said that to him in the illness from which he died.

He conveyed on Thursday before he was taken by five days a great sermon, in which he made clear the virtues of As-Siddeeq (Abu Bakr) in the presence of all of the Companions, as well as what he specifically mentioned about him leading the Companions in prayer – as will be explained – in their presence. It might be that this sermon was reparation for what he wanted to write. And he indeed had a bath before this noble sermon, they poured on him seven water skins and not their complete contents and this is from seeking a cure with seven from water, as has been mentioned in other Hadiths in other places. That which is intended is that he had a bath then exited and led the people in prayer. Afterward, he addressed them as was mentioned in the Hadith of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her).

Mention of His Command to Abu Bakr As-Siddiq to Lead in Prayer, and His Exiting, then He Prayed Behind Him

Imam Ahmed narrated from ‘Abdullah Ibn Zam’ah Ibn Al-Aswad Ibn AlMuttalib Ibn Asad who said that when the illness became severe for the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while I was with him in a group from among the Muslims, Bilal called for the prayer. He said: “Command somebody to lead the prayer.” He said: So I exited then suddenly ‘Umar was with the people and Abu Bakr was absent so I said: “Stand, ‘Umar and lead the people in prayer.” So he stood, and when ‘Umar pronounced: Allahu Akbar, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) heard his voice, for 'Umar was a man with a loud voice. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked: "Where is Abu Bakr? Allah refuses that and so do the Muslims; Allah refuses that and so do the Muslims." Thereafter Abu Bakr was sent for and he arrived after 'Umar had prayed that prayer, and led the people in prayer. Then 'Abdullah Ibn Zam'ah said: 'Umar said to me: "Woe be unto you! What did you do, Ibn Zam'ah? By Allah, I did not think when you commanded me except that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) commanded me with it, if it was not for that I would not have prayed." I replied: "By Allah, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not command me, however, when I did not see Abu Bakr, I saw you more deserving of the people in leading them in prayer."

Al-Aswad said: We were with A'ishah, and we spoke of being steadfast on the prayer and veneration of it so she said: When the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) became ill, during the illness from which he died, the time of prayer entered, and Bilal made the Adhan. He said: "Order Abu Bakr to lead the people in prayer." It was said to him: "Verily, Abu Bakr is a weak man, i.e., he had a soft heart and would cry much from the fear of Allah as other narrations have mentioned, and when he stands in your place he will not be able to lead the people in prayer." He repeated himself and they repeated themselves to him. Then he replied on the third occasion and said: "You are like the women who tried to tempt Yoosuf, may peace be upon him, order Abu Bakr to lead the people in prayer." Thereafter Abu Bakr exited (as an Imam). Thereafter the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) felt better and came out between two people, it is as though I see his legs dragging from the pain. Abu Bakr wanted to move back, but the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) indicated to him to stay in his place. Thereafter he was led until he sat next to him. It was said to Al-A'mash: So the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed and Abu Bakr followed him in prayer whilst the people were following Abu Bakr in prayer? So he nodded with his head: "Yes."

'Ubaidullah Ibn 'Abdullah said: "I entered upon 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) and said: Will you inform me about the illness of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)?" She said: "Indeed, the Messenger of Allah's (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) illness became heavy upon him and so he asked: 'Have the people prayed?' We replied: 'No, they are waiting for you, O Messenger of Allah.' He said: 'Put some water for me in the container.' So we did. Then he had a bath and when he went to stand up, he became unconscious. When he regained consciousness said: 'Have the people prayed?' We replied: 'No, they are waiting for you, O Messenger of Allah.' He said: 'Put some water for me in the container.' So we did. Then he had a bath when he went to stand up, he became unconscious. When he regained consciousness he said: 'Have the people prayed?' We replied: 'No, they are waiting for you, O Messenger of Allah.' Then he said: 'Put some water for me in the container.' So we did. Then he had a bath then he went to stand up, he became unconscious. When he recovered he said: 'Have the people prayed?' We replied: 'No, they are waiting for you, O Messenger of Allah,' and the people were sitting in the mosque waiting for the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) for the Isha' prayers. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) sent for Abu Bakr so that he can lead the people in prayers. Abu Bakr was a weak man (who cried from the fear of Allah). He (Abu Bakr) said: 'Umar, lead the people in prayers,' to which he replied: 'You are more deserving of that.' So Abu Bakr led them in prayers in those days. When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) felt a little better, so he came out between two men, one of whom was Al-'Abbas for the Dhuhr prayers. When Abu Bakr saw him he started to move back, but the Prophet indicated to him not to move back. He commanded him and then sat him next to him. Thereafter Abu Bakr prayed standing and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed while seated." 'Ubaidullah mentioned: So I entered upon Ibn 'Abbas and I said: 'Shall I not inform you of what A'ishah told me about the illness of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)' He replied: 'Tell me.' So I informed him and he didn't deny anything about it except that he said: 'Did she mention to you the name of the person who was with Al-'Abbas?' I replied: 'No.' He said: 'He was 'Ali'."

In another narration: Abu Bakr began to pray standing while following the prayer of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). The people were following the prayer of Abu Bakr while the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was seated. Al-Baihaqi mentioned: So in this (narration) the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went forward in this prayer, and Abu Bakr joined his prayer with his.

Anas said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed behind Abu Bakr in one single garment wrapped around him. When he wished to stand he said: "Call Usamah Ibn Zaid for me." So he came and then leaned his back to his neck, and that was the last prayer he prayed. Al-Baihaqi mentioned: In this is proof that this prayer was the morning prayer of Monday the day of his passing away. It was the last prayer that he prayed due to what has been affirmed that he passed away during midmorning (Dhuha) of Monday. That which Al-Baihaqi has mentioned, Muslim took it from the Book of Maghazi by Moosa Ibn Uqbah, for he mentioned it just like that. Similarly, Abul-Aswad narrated from Urwah, but it is weak. Rather this was the last prayer that he prayed with the people aswas mentioned specifically in the other narration, and a general incident is overruled by a specific one. Therefore, it is not possible for this to be the morning prayer of Monday the day of his passing away, because that prayer was in congregation, rather than in his house because of the weakness. The evidence for that is what Al-Bukhari mentioned in his Saheeh from Anas Ibn Malik, who followed, served, and accompanied the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him): Verily, Abu Bakr used to lead the prayer during the illness from which the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) passed away, until it was Monday while they were in rows for prayer. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) uncovered the curtain of the house looking at us while standing, his face was like the page of a Mus- haf, he smiled and was laughing. So we thought we were going to be tempted from the joy of seeing the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and Abu Bakr had gone back on his heels to reach the row of worshippers behind him, and he thought that the Prophet was coming out for the prayer. He indicated to us to complete the prayer, and then he let the curtain down, and passed away on that day."

Anas ibn Malik said that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not come out for three days, then the (Iqamah) prayer was established, Abu Bakr moved forward. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “Lift the curtain,” and they lifted it. When the Prophet’s (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) face became apparent to us, we had not seen a sight more beloved to us than his face. Thereafter, the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) indicated with his hand to Abu Bakr to move forward and the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) let go of the veil, and he was not seen until he died.

This is the most clear evidence that he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not pray the Monday morning prayer with the people, and he had no contact with them, because he did not come out for three days. We say: So upon this basis, the last prayer that he prayed with them was Dhuhr, as it has come explicitly in the Hadith of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) which was mentioned before, and that was on Thursday not Saturday or Sunday, as Al- Baihaqi mentioned from Maghazi Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah, who is weak, and because of we mentioned from his sermon after it. Also due to the fact he lost contact with them on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and these were full days. What is strange is that Al-Hafiz Al-Baihaqi cited this Hadith from these two paths, then he said: So maybe he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) secluded himself from them in the first Raka‘ahs, then he exited in the second Raka‘ah, then prayed behind Abu Bakr, just as ‘Urwah and Moosa Ibn Uqbah mentioned, and that had been unknown to Anas Ibn Malik, or he mentioned some of the incident and didn’t mention the end of it. This, which he mentioned, is very far fetched because Anas said: Then he was not seen until he died, and in another narration he said: Then that was the last time with him. The statement of a

Companion takes precedence over the statement of a Tabi'ee
And Allah (SWT) knows best.

What is important is that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) chose Abu Bakr As-Siddeeq as an Imam for all of the Companions in the prayer, which is the greatest pillar of Islam in terms of acts of worship. Shaikh Abul-Hasan Al-Ash'ari said: "His preference of him is a matter known by necessity from the religion of Islam. His preference of him is a proof that he was the most knowledgeable of the Companions and the best of them in memorization due to what has been affirmed in the report whose authenticity is agreed upon by the scholars. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: 'The one who leads the people in prayer is the one who has the best recitation/ memorization of the Qur'an; if they are the same in recitation, then the one who has the most knowledge of the Sunnah; if they are the same with regards to the Sunnah, then the one who is older; if they are the same age, then the one who accepted Islam first.'" Isay: these words of Al-Ash'ari deserves to be written in gold. All these qualities were indeed present in As-Siddeeq. The prayer of the Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) behind him in some of the prayers as we mentioned previously from the authentic narrations do not contradict that which has been narrated in the Saheeh that Abu Bakr followed him, because that was in another prayer as Ash- Shafi'i and others from the Imams mentioned.

Point of Benefit: Malik, Ash-Shafi'i and a number of the scholars, including Al-Bukhari, used the Prophet's prayer while being seated and Abu Bakr following him standing and the people following Abu Bakr as an evidence for the abrogation of his statement in the Hadith that is agreed upon, when he prayed with some of his companions seated. He fell from his horse and his right side was injured, so they prayed behind him while standing. So he indicated to them to sit down, then when he finished he said: “By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, you similar to what the Persians and the Romans would do, standing for their great ones while they are seated. The Imam is only there to be followed, so when he pronounces Allahu Akbar then pronounce Allahu Akbar. When he performs the Rukoo’ also perform the Rukoo’, and when he stands straight then stand straight; when he prostrates then prostrate, and when he prays sitting then everyone should pray sitting.” They said: Then he led them while seated, and they were standing in the illness of death, so that illustrates that it is an abrogation of what was mentioned before, And Allah (SWT) knows best.

And the ways in which people replied to this conclusion have differed into many opinions, and the place of their mentioning is in the book Al-Ahkam AlKabeer. The summary of it is that some people claimed that the Companions sat because of his previous command and Abu Bakr only continued standing in order to convey his voice. Some of the people said that Abu Bakr was the Imam at the same time as some of the narrators explicitly mentioned as was mentioned before, and Abu Bakr, due to his great conduct with the Messenger of Allah, would not lead him rather he would follow him. So it is as though the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) became the Imam of the Imam, because of this they did not sit as they were following Abu Bakr while he was standing. As-Siddeeq did not sit because he was the Imam and also in order to convey to them the Prophet’s movements, still moments, and transmissions. And Allah (SWT) knows best. From the people are those who said: There is a difference between starting the prayer behind the Imam in a state of standing, then continuing standing in it, even if the sitting of the Imam occurs during it, as is in this situation, and beginning a prayer behind an Imam who is already seated, in the latter case it is obligatory to sit as in the Hadith mentioned earlier And Allah (SWT) knows best. From the people are those who said: This action and the Hadith mentioned earlier are an evidence allowing standing and sitting, and both of them are allowed and permissible; sitting because of what has been mentioned, and standing because of the later action. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Chapter Concerning How the Prophet Approached Death

Imam Ahmad narrated from ‘Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood: "I entered upon the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while he was ill and I touched him. I said: 'O Messenger of Allah, indeed you are very ill.' He said: 'I feel the illness of two people from you.' I replied: 'You have two rewards.' He said: 'Yes by the One in Whose Hands is my soul, there is no Muslim on this Earth who is afflicted with a hardship from illness and other than it except that Allah removes from him his sins just as a tree sheds its leaves!'"

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) said: “I haven’t seen an illness of anyone more severe than the one of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).”

She also said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) died between my neck and chin, so I don’t hate the severity of death for anyone after I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

In another Hadith it is said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “The most severely tested of the people are the Prophets, then the righteous, then those similar to them, then those similar to them. The man is tested according to his religion, so if there is firmness in his religion then he will have a severe test upon him.”

Usamah Ibn Zaid narrated: "When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) became ill the people and I went to Madinah. I entered upon the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he became silent so he didn't speak, then he began to raise his hands to the sky then put them on his face, I knew he was praying for me."

Imam Malik mentioned in his Muwatta from Isma'eel Ibn Abu Hakeem that he heard 'Umar Ibn Abdul-Aziz say that the last words which the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said were: "May Allah curse the Jews and Christians, they took the graves of their Prophets as mosques. Two religions will not remain in the land of the Arabs." This is how he narrated it as a murasl Hadith (a Hadith which a break in its chain between the Tabi'ee and the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ).

Al-Bukhari and Muslim narrated from A'ishah and Ibn 'Abbas that they said:

When death descended upon the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) he began to cast his sheet on his face. When he became grieved he removed it from his face then he said in that state: "May the curse of Allah be upon the Jews and the Christians, they took the graves of their Prophets as places of worship," warning them from what they did (this is from the words of the narrator 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her)).

Anas Ibn Malik narrated: The advice of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) when death approached him was: "The prayer and that which your right hands own slaves," to the extent that the Messenger of Allah's (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) chest began to heave with it, and his tongue could hardly pronounce it.

Umm Salamah narrated: The advice of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) at the time of his death was: “The prayer, the prayer and that which your right hands owns slaves,” until he would mumble it in his chest and his tongue could not pronounce it.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) related from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that he said: “What truly makes it the suffering easy upon me, is that I saw the whiteness of the palm of ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) in Paradise.” Only Ahmad narrated it and the chain is sound. This is an evidence for his strong love for ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), may Allah be pleased with her. The people have mentioned many concepts for having strong love, and nobody reached this level. That is only because they over exaggerate with words that have no reality and these are certainly true words and there is no doubt about it.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) also narrated that she used to say: Verily, from the blessings of Allah upon me is that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) passed away on my day, in my house and between my chest and neck, and Allah indeed mixed my saliva with his at the time of death. She said: My brother entered upon me with a Siwak with him and I leaned the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to my chest, then I saw him look at him. I knew that he liked Siwak, so I said: “Will I give it to you?” He nodded with his head, i.e. yes, so he placed it in his mouth. She said: And in front of him was a pot or container with water in it, then he began to place his hand into the water and wipe it on his face, then say: “There is no God deserving of worship except Allah, verily death has pains.” Then he raised his left index finger and began to say: “In the highest company,” until he was taken and his hand moved in the water.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) said: We used to say that the Prophet would never die until he was given a choice between this world and the hereafter. She said: When it was the time of the Messenger of Allah’s (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) illness that he died from, I heard him say: “And whoever obeys Allah and the Messenger – those will be with the ones upon whom Allah bestowed favor of the Prophets, the steadfast affirmers of truth, the martyrs and the righteous. And excellent are those as companions.” (Soorah An-Nisa: 69) She said: So we thought he was given a choice between life and death.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) narrated: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to say when he was well, “Verily, no prophet has been taken until he sees his place in Paradise then he is given a choice.” ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) said: “When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) became ill and his head was on my thigh he fell unconscious for a while. Thereafter, he recovered, then raised his eyes to the ceiling of the house and said: ‘O Allah, the high company,’ so I knew that it was the Hadith that he used to inform us of when he was well, ‘Verily, no prophet has been taken until he sees his place in Paradise then he is given a choice.’” ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) said: “So I said: In that case do not choose us.” And ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) said: “Those were the last words that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) pronounced: ‘O Allah, the highest companion (paradise) ’.”

‘Abbad Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair narrated that ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) informed him that she heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, which she took heed of before he died while leaning on her chest: “Allah, forgive me, have mercy on me and add me with the presence of the Rafeeq (i.e. he yearned to meet Allah).”

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) related: "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was taken while his head was between my chest and neck. She said: When his soul exited, I never ever found a smell more pleasant than it.”

Umm Salamah narrated: “I placed my hand on the chest of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) the day he died, then weeks passed by and I would eat and perform Wudu’ yet the smell of musk would not leave my hand.”

Abu Burdah said: "I entered upon ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), and she showed us a thick Izar (lower garment) which is made in Yemen and a Kisa’ (upper garment) which they call Al-Mulabbadah, then she said: “Verily the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was taken in these two garments.”

Yazeed Ibn Babanoos said: "My friend and I went to see ‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) and we asked permission to enter, so she threw a cushion to us and wore her Hijab. Thereafter, my friend said: 'O Mother of the Believers, what do you say regarding Al-Irak?' She replied: 'What is Al-Irak?' I hit my friend on the shoulder. She said: 'What is this, you hurt your brother?' and said: 'Al-Irak is menstruation.' Then, she said: 'The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to cover me and touch my head and between us was a garment while I was menstruating.' Then she said: 'The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to pass my door and say a word that Allah would make beneficial. One day, he passed by and didn't say anything, then he passed by again without saying anything – twice or three times – I said: 'O maid, put a cushion for me at the door,' and I tied my head. Then he passed by and said: 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), what is wrong with you?' So I replied I have a headache. He said: 'My head,' then he left and it was not long before he was brought carried in a cloth. Thereafter he entered upon me and sent to the women a message so he said: 'Verily I am ill, and I am not able to visit you, so allow me to be with either 'A'ishah (May Allah be pleased with her) or Safiyyah.'

"I had not nursed anyone before, so one day while his head was on my shoulder suddenly his head moved toward mine, I thought he wanted something from my head. His cold saliva dripped from his mouth and landed on my neck and my skin shivered from it. I thought he was unconscious so I wrapped a garment around him, then 'Umar and Al-Mugheerah Ibn Shu'bah came and asked permission so I allowed them to enter and put on my veil. 'Umar looked at him and said: 'His unconsciousness, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), passing out is so severe!' Then they stood, and when they came close to the door, Al-Mugheerah said: 'Umar, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has passed away.' He replied: 'You are mistaken; rather you are a man mixed with tribulation! Verily, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) will not die until Allah eradicates the hypocrites.' Then Abu Bakr came so I lifted the veil, thereafter he looked at him and said: 'Indeed we belong to Allah and unto him we will return, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has died.’ He came to his head, dropped his mouth and kissed his forehead and then he said: ‘My true friend!’ He lifted his head, lowered his mouth and kissed his forehead and said: ‘My close friend, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) !’ He then went to the mosque while ‘Umar was addressing the people and saying: ‘Verily, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) will not die until Allah eradicates the hypocrites.’ Abu Bakr then spoke by praising Allah and extolling Him, then he said: “Verily, Allah says: Indeed, you are to die, and indeed, they are to die (Soorah Az-Zumar: 30) until he completed the verse. Muhammad is not but a messenger. (Other) messengers have passed on before him. So if he was to die or be killed, would you turn back on your heels (to disbelief)? And he who turns back on his heels... (Soorah Aal Imran: 144) until he completed the Verse. So whoever used to worship let them know that Allah is truly Ever-Living, and whosoever worshipped Muhammad, then verily, Muhammad has indeed died.’ ‘Umar said: ‘Is it really in the Book of Allah? I did not notice that it was in the Book of Allah.’ ‘Umar then said: ‘O People, this is Abu Bakr, and he is the owner of the young Muslims, so pledge allegiance to him, so they pledged allegiance to him’.”

Preface

In the Name of Allah, the Most Beneficent, the Most Merciful

All praise and thanks be to Allah (SWT), Who revived knowledge of His religion and caused it to blossom forth after it had all but disappeared, and Who demolished the false conjectures of the apostates. I praise Him and I seek refuge with Him from the sins which weigh upon the backs of mankind. I worship Him and seek His help and guidance in removing hindrances and difficulties in the practice of my religion. I bear witness that none has the right to be worshipped except Allah, Alone, without partners and I bear witness that Muhammad – who, by Allah’s leave, brought about the dawn of faith to the darkness and misguidance which existed in the hearts of mankind – is the slave and Messenger of Allah. May the Blessings and Peace of Allah be upon him in perpetuity.

O Allah! We seek Your favor and through You we seek to ward off affliction. We ask You to protect us and to grant us mercy. Our Lord! Make not our hearts deviate after You have already guided us. Make it easy for us to perform our deeds in the way that You have taught us. Make us grateful for what You have given us and make plain a path for us which leads to You. Open up the doors between us and You by which we may arrive before You. To You belong the keys to the heavens and the Earth and You are Most Able to do all things.

Among the blessings which Allah (SWT) has bestowed upon us, the community of Muslims, is that He has made it easy for us to follow the path of guidance and He has opened the doors of knowledge by making available to us these new publications, which present to us the writings of the early scholars and reveal to us what they said regarding legal verdicts, history, events, information and lessons. These scholars opened a clear beacon of light for all those Muslims seeking guidance, and they set up for us a signpost in which there is neither deviation nor crookedness. Whoever follows it will arrive safely at his desired destination and whoever diverts from it will be lost forever. They have written these books and treatises and made clear to us therein events, information and virtues. Among such books is this unique work, Al-Bidayah Wan-Nihayah, by the Imam, the Hafiz, the master scholar of ahadeeth, ‘Imaduddeen Isma‘eel Ibn Katheer Al-Qurashi – (May Allah be pleased with him) This book was greeted with approval by the vast majority of Muslims. No Islamic library would be complete without it. In it, the author has recorded what Allah, Most High, has made easy for him about the history of mankind, from the beginning of creation, starting with the creation of the Throne and the Kursi (chair), the heavens and the Earth and all that they contain and all that lies between them, such as the angels, the jinn and the devils. He also described how Adam was created, and told the stories of the prophets up to the days of the Children of Isra’eel and the Days of Ignorance (Jahiliyyah), until the advent of Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), which heralded the end of Prophethood. He then recorded his Seerah. Then he recorded the events which took place up to his own time. He also spoke of the trials and battles, the signs of the approach of the Hour, then the sending forth of mankind and the terrors of the Resurrection, which he described in detail. He then described the Hellfire, with all its horrors, and Paradise and all the good things contained therein. He called this particular volume of his book: AnNihayah Fil-Fitan Wal-Malahim (The Ending in Trials and Battles). As for the book which is in our hands today, it is Al-Bidayah.

By Allah's Grace, I came to know Brother Abdul Malik Mujahid, the general manager of Darussalam Publishing in Riyadh. He visited me in my humble office in Damascus and suggested to me the idea of creating a summarized version of this wonderful book. I prayed for Allah's Guidance in the matter and sought help from Him in completing the project. Allah enabled me to make the acquaintance of a number of people of knowledge and experience in this field and a plan of action for the work was written. It consisted of ten principal points and we then started the task, seeking help from the Lord of the heavens and the Earth. All of us exerted our utmost efforts in this task, making repeated revisions and corrections, until we reached the point where, by Allah's Permission, we completed it and it was published in the form which is in your hands today.

The Plan of Action for This Book:

1. Summarization of the text. This was achieved by concentrating on the most important events narrated in the book. In doing so, we took care not to leave out any important details which would cause loss of meaning or import.
2. We relied on a number of printed and handwritten copies of the book and in cases where any contradiction or omission was found, we succeeded in establishing the most accurate and authentic text.
3. We left out the ahadeeth which proved to be baseless or weak and confined ourselves to the ahadeeth which are authentic or hasan and those which are acceptable due to the existence of other supporting narrations. On rare occasions, when it was found that there were no other ahadeeth in the chapter, we included some weak ahadeeth whose weakness was not of an extreme nature.

4. We performed takhreej of the ahadeeth with ascription of the number of the section and the page, the number of the ahadeeth and in many cases, the precise location of the hadeeth in the original source, then the ruling on its authenticity, if it was not from the Saheehain, because the ahadeeth therein do not require any ruling on their authenticity and they have been widely accepted by the Muslim Ummah. As for the ahadeeth in this book, we have relied on the opinions of the Imams and scholars of Hadith – including the earlier scholars, the later scholars and those of the present day. On some occasions, we have recorded the weak ahadeeth, while making it plain that they are not authentic. We have not omitted them because the author has included them in order to warn the people against them due to their widespread popularity amongst the Muslims in general. In such cases, we desired not to oppose the author in this effort and so we left them, at the same time making the scholars' ruling on them clear, so as to warn the people against them.
5. We summarized the asaneed present in the book, in most cases mentioning only the Companion who narrated the Hadith, or the person who reported it from him.
6. We omitted many of the Isra'eeliyyat found in this book which the author referred to in the preface, where he said: "We do not record the Isra'eeliyyat except those which the Lawgiver has permitted, i.e., those which do not contradict the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). These are stories which are neither believed nor belied and they have been recorded because they provide details of unclarified narratives that we have, or they provide names for people and places that have only been mentioned in passing in our Revelation, due to there being no benefit in specifying them for us. Thus we have reported them in order to provide extra detail and not with the intention of citing them as evidence or placing any reliance on them. Only the Book of Allah and the authentic Sunnah of His Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) may be relied and depended upon. It is from Allah that we seek help and it is He in Whom we place our trust; there is no help and no power except in Allah (SWT) , the Almighty, the All-Powerful, Most Wise and Most High.

7. In some instances, we have referred back to the original manuscript in order to verify the wording of a Hadith from its source. In some cases, the author has combined two narrations of the same Hadith together and so where this has occurred, we have noted it and separated the two narrations, placing our own words between brackets, i.e., (and in another narration...) and we have also identified the source of the addition in the footnotes.
8. We have written the Qur'anic Verses in the Uthmani script, in conformity with the copy of the Qur'an published by Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah Printing Complex.
9. We vowelized the words of many of the ahadeeth in the book and, in addition, the poetic verses, wherever possible.
10. We mentioned the meters of the poetic verses between parentheses.
11. We explained the meanings of some difficult or obscure words, relying on dictionaries, books containing ghareeb ahadeeth and narrations and other sources.

12. We furnished a brief biography of the author, Hafiz Ibn Katheer, though in reality, he requires no introduction and no description.

Finally, I ask Allah, Most High, to accept this humble work from us and to acknowledge it as having been done purely and sincerely with the aim of pleasing Him and to grant us and our brothers, who assisted us in the production of this book, pardon and forgiveness in religious and secular matters. In addition, we ask Him that He include this work in the weight of our good deeds on the Day of Resurrection – a Day on which neither wealth nor sons will benefit anyone – except for those whom Allah has blessed with pure hearts.

And our final declaration is that all praise and thanks are due to Allah, and we invoke blessings and peace upon Prophet Muhammad and upon all his righteous family and Companions until the Day of Reckoning.

Publisher's Preface

Verily, all praise and thanks are due to Allah (SWT). We seek His help and we ask forgiveness from Him. We seek refuge with Allah from the wickedness in ourselves. Whomsoever Allah guides, there is none who can misguide him and whomsoever He sends astray, there is none who can guide him. I bear witness that none is worthy of worship except Allah and that Muhammad is His slave and His Messenger. He sent him with guidance and the true Religion and with the light (of truth), the admonition and wisdom, at a time when no Messengers were sent for a long period, when there was little religious knowledge and the people had gone astray, when the Hour was drawing nearer. Whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger has followed the right course, while whoever disobeys Allah (SWT) and His Messenger erred from it and gone far astray.

The book Al-Bidayah (The Beginning) by the Hafiz, the Imam, the scholarly critic, Ibn Katheer is an incomparable work regarding the study of the events and their chronological order, the knowledge of which he strove hard to acquire. He began by describing the start of creation – from the creation of the Throne and the Kursi and the heavens and the Earth and all that is in them and all that lies between them, such as the angels, the jinn and the devils and he described the manner of Adam's creation. He recounted the stories of the Prophets and the events that took place therein, up to the times of the Children of Isra'eel and the Days of Ignorance, which ended with the advent of the final Prophet, Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Then he gave a detailed description of his life and what happened after that, up to the time in which he lived. He then wrote a separate volume called An-Nihayah Fil- Fitan Wal-Malahim (The Ending With Trials and Great Battles).

Furthermore, Allah inspired us to undertake the noble task of making this book easily accessible to both the students and the scholars and then to translate it into several languages, by Allah's Permission.

I suggested to my brother, Yoosuf Al-Hajj, the necessity of summarizing this book in a suitable manner, through the omission of unbeneficial repetition, weak ahadeeth, lengthy poems, etc. I am thankful to Brother Yoosuf for assembling a team that consisted of Abdul Malik Wadih, Abu Muslim Al-Jaza'iri, Muwaffeq Khaleel Hammad, and himself. Darussalam funded the entire project, paying each team member for his contribution and work. After they completed their portion of the project, the work then went through numerous people in the Research Division of Darussalam, who meticulously went through the work, adding and subtracting materials. After this, the project went through another round of editing of the Arabic material before it was sent to the translation department. The translation was then checked for accuracy and then sent for editing, resulting in the final project that you see before you. All praise and thanks be to Allah for allowing us to produce such a classical work for the first time in the English language.

O Allah! We ask that You bless us with sincerity and success and that You spread goodness through our hands.

A Mention of Important Matters that Occurred After the Death and Before the Burial of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

From the greatest, most majestic and most blessed acts in the history of Islam and its people was the pledge of allegiance to Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) This is because when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) died, Abu Bakr As-Siddiq led the people in the morning prayer, and that was the time when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) recovered from the hardship of the illness he was experiencing. It was then that he removed the curtain of the house and looked at the Muslims while they were in rows in prayer behind Abu Bakr. The sight pleased him and made him smile (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and even the Muslims contemplated leaving the prayer they were engaged in due to their happiness on seeing him. Abu Bakr wanted to move backward to reach the rows of praying Muslims. However, the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) motioned to them to stay as they were, and (then) he let the curtain drop which was their last time with him (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). When Abu Bakr completed the prayer he entered upon him and said to ‘A’ishah: “I do not see the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) except that part of his illness has been removed from him. And this is the day of Bint Kharijah, [i.e., one of his two wives who lived in As-Sunh, east of Madinah].” So he rode a horse of his and went to his house and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) passed away in midmorning of that day, and it has (also) been said: midday. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

When he died, the Companions differed amongst themselves; there were those who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has died. And from them were those who said: He has not died. So Salim Ibn Ubaid followed As-Siddiq to As-Sunh, and he announced to him the death of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Thereupon, As-Siddeeq came back from his house when the news reached him and then entered the house of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), removed the cover from his face, kissed him and made sure he was indeed dead. Then he exited to the people and addressed them from the side of the pulpit, and clarified to them the passing of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) as we mentioned, and thus ended the commotion and erased the mystery, and all the people returned to him.

Thereafter, a group of the Companions gave allegiance to him in the mosque and a doubt arose in the minds of some of the Ansar and became embedded into the minds of some of them, concerning the permissibility of having a Caliph from the Ansar. Some of them mediated to have a leader from the Muhajiroon and one from the Ansar until Abu Bakr made clear to them that the Caliphate is only from the Quraish, so they returned to him and gathered upon that as we are going to explain and draw attention to in the following pages.

The Story of Saqeefah Banu Sa‘idah

Imam Ahmad narrated from Ibn ‘Abbas who said: I was teaching ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn ‘Awf, then he found me while I was waiting for him and that was in Mina in the last Hajj that ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab performed. ‘Abdur-Rahman said: Verily a man came to ‘Umar and said: Verily, so and so says:

Indeed, if ‘Umar were to have died I would have made a pledge of allegiance to so-and-so. At this, ‘Umar replied: Verily I am going to stand tonight insha’Allah in front of the people, and I am going to warn them of this group that wants to steal from them their affair.

‘Abdur-Rahman said, then I said: O Leader of the Believers, do not (do that), for this season gathers the rabble of the people and their mobs, and indeed they are the ones who mostly sit in your gatherings when you address the people. I fear that you may give a speech that makes them agitated and they may not understand it, and they will not put it in its place (i.e., receive the words in the spirit they are intended to). So, please wait until you reach Madinah because it is the land of the Hijrah and Sunnah and it is filled with the scholars of the people and their noble ones. Then you can say what you will safely say, they will understand your speech and put it in its place. ‘Umar said: If I reach Madinah safely I will certainly mention it to the people, the first time I stand.

We reached Madinah in the end of Dhul-Hijjah and it was a Friday, I hurried my movements like Sakkatul-A‘ma. Then I said to Malik: What is Sakkatul- A‘ma (blind way)? He replied: When one doesn’t care what time he exits, doesn’t know heat and cold or something like that. I found Sa‘eed Ibn Zaid at the right corner of the pulpit had already preceded me, so I sat next to him with his knee touching mine, then ‘Umar suddenly appeared. When I saw him I said: Tonight, he is going to give a speech on this that nobody has given upon it prior to him. He said: Sa‘eed Ibn Zaid denied that and said: What do you think he will say that nobody else has said?

Then ‘Umar sat on the pulpit, and when the Mu’aththin was quiet he stood and extolled Allah with what he is deserving of, then said: To proceed: O people, for verily I am going to give a speech and it has been already decreed for me to give it. I don't know for maybe it is near my time, so whoever comprehends it and understands it then he should convey it to where his riding animal reaches. And whoever doesn't understand it then I don't allow him to lie against me. Verily, Allah sent Muhammad, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, with the Truth and revealed upon him His Book, and in what Allah revealed to him is the "Verse of stoning." Thus, we read it and we comprehended and understood it. The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, stoned and we stoned after him, so I fear that there may come a time before long upon the people wherein someone will say: We can't find "the Verse of stoning" in the Book of Allah. So they will go astray for leaving an obligation that Allah, the Most Honored and High, indeed revealed. Stoning in the Book of Allah is incumbent for the one who fornicates while being chaste from the men and women, when the evidence is proved, or pregnancy, or confession.

Indeed we used to read: Don't abuse your parents because, erily, it is disbelief for you that you abuse your parents. Indeed the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "Don't praise me like the Christians praised 'Eesa the son of Maryam, for I am only a slave; simply say: the Slave of Allah and his Messenger." And it has indeed reached me that a person amongst you says: If 'Umar was dead I would give the pledge of allegiance (Bai'ah) to so-and-so. No man should be deluded in what he says, verily, the pledge of allegiance to Abu Bakr was a sudden occurrence and was accomplished. Indeed it was like that, however, Allah saved me from its evil. And there is no one amongst you today that is like Abu Bakr, and he indeed was from the best of us when the Messenger of Allah passed away.

Verily, ‘Ali and Az-Zubair stayed behind in the house of Fatimah, the daughter of the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, and all the Ansar stayed behind from giving the Bai‘ah and the Muhajiroon supported Abu Bakr. I said to him: O Abu Bakr, come with us to our brothers from the Ansar. We went leading them until two righteous men met us, they mentioned to us what the people had done then they said: Where do you want to go, O Muhajiroon? I said: We want our brothers from the Ansar. They replied: It is not incumbent upon you to go near them, complete your affair, O Muhajiroon. Then I said: By Allah, we are certainly going to approach them.

We continued until we met them at Saqeefah Banu Sa‘idah; they were gathered there and suddenly a man wrapped in a garment appeared. I said: Who is this? They replied: Sa‘d Ibn ‘Ubadah. I said: What is the matter with him? They replied: He is ill.

When we sat down, their spokesperson stood and praised Allah with what He deserves and said: To proceed: We are the helpers of Allah and the army of Islam, and you, O Muhajiroon, are the party of our Prophet. A group from you has come wanting to cut us out from our roots and single us out from this affair. Then, when he became silent I wished to speak and I had already perfected a speech which I liked and I wanted to say it in front of Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, and I flattered him to some extent, and he was wiser and calmer than me. Abu Bakr said: Hold on. I hated to anger him for he was more knowledgeable and I venerated him.

By Allah (SWT), he did not leave a word which pleased me from my speech except that he said it with its essence but better until he finished. He said: To proceed: As for that which you mentioned from goodness then you are deserving of it and the Arabs only know this matter (leadership) for this tribe from the Quraish. They are the most noble people of the Arabs in lineage and home (Makkah). I have chosen for you one of these two men, whichever you choose. Then he took my hand and the hand of Abu ‘Ubaidah Ibn Al-Jarrah, and I did not hate anything he said apart from this. It was, by Allah, more beloved to me to advance and have my neck chopped off so sin would not come near me than to lead a people with Abu Bakr amongst them except if I was to change my mind at the time of death.

Then a person from the Ansar said: I am her (camel with an itch or scabies) stick that scratches (her) and the supporting date-palm stick, a leader from us and a leader from you, O people of the Quraish. I said to Malik: What does this” I am her (camel with an itch or scabies) stick that scratches (her) and the supporting date-palm stick, mean”? He replied: It is as though he said I am its mastermind.

He said, then the commotion grew and the voices were raised to the extent that we feared bickering. I said: Stretch out your hand, O Abu Bakr. As he stretched out his hand, and I gave him the Bai‘ah and the Muhajiroon gave him the Bai‘ah. Thereafter, the Ansar gave him the Bai‘ah and we fell upon (i.e. urged) Sa‘d Ibn ‘Ubadah in such a way that a person from them said: You have killed Sa‘d. I said: Rather, Allah killed Sa‘d. ‘Umar said: Indeed, by Allah, we find in what we attended a matter easier than giving Bai‘ah to Abu Bakr. We feared that if we were to leave the people without a Bai‘ah, they would initiate a Bai‘ah after us, so either we would give Bai‘ah to them upon what we did not like, or we differ with them which would result in evil.

So, whoever gives Bai‘ah without the consultation of the Muslims then he has no Bai‘ah, and there is no Bai‘ah for the one who fears that he might be killed. Malik said: Ibn Shihab informed me from ‘Urwah that indeed the two men who met them were Uwaim Ibn Sa‘idah and Ma‘n Ibn Adiy. Ibn Shihab related: Sa‘eed Ibn Al-Musayyab said the one who said “I am her (camel with an itch or scabies) stick that scratches (her) and the supporting date-palm stick” was Al-Hubab Ibn Al-Mundhir.

A mention of Sa‘d Ibn ‘Ubadah’s recognition of the correctness of what AsSiddiq mentioned on the Day of Saqeefah

Rafi‘ At-Ta’i, the companion of Abu Bakr As-Siddiq in the Battle of Chains, narrated: I asked him (Abu Bakr) as to what was said in their Bai‘ah. Abu Bakr said, while he was informing him about what the Ansar said and what he said to them, and what ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said to the Ansar, and what he reminded them, from my leading them (in prayer) with the command of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, during his illness, then they gave me (allegiance) due to it and I accepted it from them and I feared that there would be a trial and then after it apostasy.

This chain of narrations is good and strong and the meaning of it is that Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, only accepted leadership because he feared a trial may occur if he did not accept it. I say: This was at the end of Monday. Then, when it was the morning of next day (Tuesday), the people gathered in the mosque and the Bai‘ah was accomplished from the Muhajiroon and the Ansar together. This was before the preparation for the burial of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah upon him.

Imam Al-Bukhari narrated from Anas Ibn Malik that he heard ‘Umar’s last sermon when he sat on the pulpit, and that was the day after the Messenger of Allah had passed away and Abu Bakr was silent and would not speak. He said: I wish the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him, were alive so he could organize us – what he meant by that was that he would be the last of them (to die) – so if the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, has indeed died, then Allah has made amongst you a light which you are guided with. Allah guided Muhammad, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and indeed Abu Bakr is the Companion of the Messenger of Allah and the second of the two, and he is the most deserving of the Muslims to be in control of your affairs. So stand and give him Bai‘ah. A group had already given the Bai‘ah in Saqeefah Bani Sa‘idah, and the Bai‘ah of the general populace was on the pulpit.

Az-Zuhri narrated from Anas Ibn Malik: I heard ‘Umar say on that day to Abu Bakr: Ascend the pulpit, and he continued (to reason) with him until he ascended. Then everyone gave him the Bai‘ah.

Abu Sa‘eed narrated that the Messenger of Allah died and the people gathered in the house of Sa‘d Ibn ‘Ubadah, and among them were Abu Bakr and ‘Umar. The spokesperson for the Ansar stood and said: Do you know that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was from the Muhajiroon and his Caliph is from the Muhajiroon, and we were the Ansar (helpers) of the Messenger of Allah and we are the helpers of his Caliph just as we used to be his helpers. He said: Then ‘Umar stood up and said: Your spokesperson has spoken the truth. If you were to say other than that we would not have given you Bai‘ah, and he took the hand of Abu Bakr and said: This is your companion so give him Bai‘ah.

Thereafter ‘Umar gave him Bai‘ah, and the Muhajiroon and Ansar gave followed him.

He said: Then Abu Bakr ascended the pulpit and looked at the faces of the people and when he did not see Az-Zubair, he summoned him and he came. He said: I said: “The son of the maternal uncle of the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, and his Companion, I apprehended that the group of the Muslims would split (i.e. differ).” At this, he said: “(There is) no blame upon you, O Caliph of the Messenger of Allah. Then he stood and gave him Bai‘ah.

Then Abu Bakr looked at the faces of the people and did not see ‘Ali Ibn Abi Talib, so he summoned him. When he came, he said: “The son of the paternal uncle of the Messenger of Allah and the one he married to his daughter, I apprehended that the group of the Muslims would be split.” ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with him, said, ‘No blame (shall be upon you), O Caliph of the Messenger of Allah.” Then he stood up and gave him Bai‘ah.

In this narration is a point of benefit, and that is the Bai‘ah of ‘Ali bin Abi Talib, whether on the first day or the second day after the death (of the Prophet). And this is true that ‘Ali did not leave Abu Bakr at any time, and he did not leave a prayer from the prayers behind him as we are going to mention. He accompanied him to Dhul-Qassah when As-Siddeeq went with his sword unsheathed to kill the apostates.

Whoever contemplates about what we have mentioned, it becomes apparent to him that there was a consensus of the Companions – from the Muhajiroon and Ansar – on appointing Abu Bakr as a leader, and the proof of his (the Messenger of Allah’s) statement: “Allah and the Believers will insist on Abu Bakr.” It is made plain to him that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not explicitly mention any individual for the Caliphate, neither for Abu Bakr – as a group mentioned from Ahlus-Sunnah – nor for ‘Ali – as a group claimed from the Rafidah. However he gave a strong indication that is understood by everyone who has a brain and intellect in favor of Abu Bakr as we mentioned and we will also mention later. Similarly, it has been affirmed in the Saheehain in the Hadith of Hisham Ibn ‘Urwah, from his father, from Ibn ‘Umar: Verily, when ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab was stabbed it was said to him, “Would you not appoint for us a successor, O leader of the Believers?” He replied, “If I were to appoint for you a successor then somebody who is better than me did - i.e. Abu Bakr. And if I did not then somebody who is better than me did not” - i.e. the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Ibn ‘Umar said, “I knew when he said the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, that he would not appoint a successor.”

It was narrated by Ibn ‘Abbas: Indeed, when Al- ‘Abbas and ‘Ali came out after being with the Messenger of Allah, and a man said: How did the Messenger of Allah woke up this morning? ‘Ali replied: He woke up better (or cured) with the praise of Allah. Then Al-‘Abbas said: Indeed you are the slave of a staff (a type of rebuke) after three nights, indeed I know death in the faces of Bani Hashim, and I see death in the face of the Messenger of Allah. So let us take ourselves to him and let us ask him, with whom is the leadership? If it is with us then we know, and if it is with other than us, then he will give him commands in our regard. ‘Ali said: I am not going to ask him, by Allah, if he does not give it to us then the people will never give it to us. I say: And this would be on Monday, the day of his death, so this proves that he – may salutations be upon him – passed away without giving instructions (Wasiyyah) about leadership. And in the Saheehain, Ibn ‘Abbas narrated that, verily, the calamity in every sense of the word is what prevented the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, from writing the will (Wasiyyah). We have already mentioned that he requested to write for them a book (or message) they would not go astray after it. When they increasingly began raising their voices and differing near him, he said: “Go away from me, for that which I am in is better than that which you are calling me to.” And we already mentioned that he said after that: “Allah and the Believers will insist on Abu Bakr (as a leader).”

In the Saheehain Ibrahim At-Taimi narrated from his father: ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib (May Allah be pleased with him) addressed us saying: “Whoever claims that we have something which we read which is not in the Book of Allah, and this Scripture (which is attached to his sword), in it are the ages of the camels (eligible for Zakat) and matters from Jirahat (rules regarding injuries) - then he has indeed lied. And what is written on this paper, (wherein) the Prophet said, “Madinah is a sanctuary from (the mountain of) ‘Air to Thawr, therefore, whoever innovates (in it) an heresy or commits a sin, or gives shelter to such an innovator, will incur the Curse of Allah, the angels and all the people; and none of his compulsory or optional good deeds of worship will be accepted and the asylum granted by any Muslim is to be secured by all the Muslims even if it is granted by one of the lowest social status among them. And whoever betrays a Muslim in this respect will incur the Curse of Allah, the angels and all the people, and his compulsory and optional good deeds of worship will not be accepted. And any freed slave who takes as masters (befriends) people other than his own real masters who freed him without taking the permission of the latter, will incur the Curse of Allah, the angels and all the people, and his compulsory and optional good deeds of worship will not be accepted.”

This Hadith, which is affirmed in the Saheehain and other than them, ‘Ali (May Allah be pleased with him)refutes a group from the Rafidah in their claim that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him, made a testament of leadership for him. If it was as they claimed, then none from among the Companions would have repelled that. They were more obedient to Allah and his Messenger in his life and after his death than to oppose him and choose other than whom he had selected, and leave behind whom he had selected with his words; nay never and why (would they)? Whoever assumes this about the Companions y then he has ascribed them all to disobedience and gathering upon opposition to the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and opposing him in his ruling and his text. And whoever from the people reaches this level (of disobedience) then he has left the fold of Islam and has disbelieved by consensus of the Imams of Islam and the spilling of his blood is more permissible than the spilling of alcohol. Thereafter, if ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib (May Allah be pleased with him)had a text, then why did he not use it as an evidence against the Companions proving the affirmation of his principality over them and his leadership of them? If he couldn’t convey the evidence he had with him, then he would be weak and the weak are not suitable for leadership. And if he was able but did not do so, then he would be a betrayer and the disobedient betrayer is retired from leadership. And if he did not know of the existence of the proof, then he would be ignorant; thereafter he knew and learned of it afterward. This is impossible, a lie and misguidance.

This is only (seen as) good in the eyes of the ignorant, common people and the deluded creatures. Shaitan beautifies it for them without a proof or evidence, rather with purely (unsubstantiated) claims, guessing, lying and slander. I seek refuge in Allah from the confusion, disgrace, blunder and disbelief they are upon. And I seek a place of refuge with Allah by holding on to the Sunnah and Qur'an, and death upon Islam and Eemaan (faith), dying upon firmness and certainty, and filling the scales (with good deeds) and salvation from the fire, and success with paradise. Verily, He is Noble, the Bestower of bounties, Merciful, the Most Gracious.

In this sound Hadith in the Saheehain narrated by 'Ali, which we mentioned earlier, is a refutation of the liars from the people of Turuq (Soofiyyah) and ignorant story-tellers against their claim that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, made a Wasiyyah (testament) to 'Ali with many things. They narrate (in a) lengthened (form), such as: "O 'Ali, do this. O 'Ali, don't do that. O 'Ali, whoever did this was a such-and-such" with weak wordings and foolish meanings, and most of them are weak that don't deserve to be written. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Section Concerning the time that the Messenger of Allah passed away, his age at the time of death, how he was washed (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and covered, and the prayer upon him, his burial and the place of his grave

There is no difference of opinion that he passed away on Monday. Ibn 'Abbas said: The Prophet was born on Monday and he became a Prophet on Monday. He left Makkah as a migrant on Monday, he entered Madinah on Monday and he died on Monday. (Narrated by Imam Ahmad and Al-Baihaqi ).

Anas said: The last time I saw the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, was on Monday. He opened the curtains while the people were praying behind Abu Bakr, then I looked at his face and it was though it was like the page of a book. The people wanted to turn around, but he indicated to them to stay put. Then he closed the gap that was between the two curtains and passed away by the end of the day.

Abu Nu'aim Al-Fadl Ibn Dukain said the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, passed away on Monday in the beginning of Rabee' ul-Awwal of the 11th year since his arrival in Madinah. And Ibn 'Asakir also mentioned it.

'A'ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, said: The Messenger of Allah passed away on Monday after 11 nights had passed from Rabee' ul-Awwal.

Ibn 'Abbas narrated that when the Messenger of Allah completed the Farewell Pilgrimage he came to Madinah and stayed there for the rest of Dhul-Hijjah and Muharram and Safar. And he died on Monday after 10 nights had passed from Rabee' ul- Awwal.

Point of benefit: Abul Qasim As-Suhaili says in Ar-Rawd, the summary of which is that the occurrence of his death on Monday, the 12th of Rabee' ul-Awwal in Year 11, cannot be possible. This is because he stood on the Day of 'Arafah in the Farewell Pilgrimage in Year 10 A. H., on Friday, which means that the start of Dhul- Hijjah was on Thursday. Therefore upon the assumption that the months are calculated completely or incomplete or some of them complete and others incomplete, it cannot be imagined that Monday was the 12th of Rabee' ul- Awwal.

The argument against this opinion has become well-known. A group has tried to answer it and it is not possible to answer it except in one way, and that is the difference in time zones (or moon sightings). The people of Makkah saw the crescent on Thursday and as for the people of Madinah, they didn't see it except on Friday night.

The statement of 'A'ishah and others supports this: The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, exited five days before the end of Dhul-Qa'adah – i.e. from Madinah – for the Farewell Pilgrimage. And upon what we mentioned that has to be on Saturday and not what Ibn Hazm claimed that he exited on Thursday because there were more than five days left without a doubt. And it is not possible that he left on Friday because Anas said: The Messenger of Allah prayed Dhuhr (4 units) and 'Asr in Dhul-Hulaifah (2 units). So it has to be that he left on Saturday with five days left.

Thus based on this, the people of Madinah only saw the crescent of Dhul-Hijjah on Friday night. And if the first of Dhul-Hijjah according to the people of Madinah was on Friday and the months are calculated as complete months (30 days because the lunar month is either 29 or 30 days) after it, the first of Rabee' ul- Awwal on Thursday, which is Monday the 12th. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from the Hadith of Malik from Rabee'ah Ibn Abu 'Abdur-Rahman from Anas Ibn Malik that the Messenger of Allah was not very tall and not short. And he was not very white nor brown, and he was not curly haired nor was he straight-haired. Allah sent him at the start of 40 years (of age), then he stayed in Makkah for 10 years and in Madinah for 10 years. And Allah took his soul at the beginning of 60 years and he did not have on his head or in his beard 20 white hairs.

Anas narrated: The Prophet died when he was 63 years old, and Abu Bakr died when he was 63 years old and ‘Umar died when he was 63 years old.

Ibn ‘Abbas: The Messenger of Allah was sent when he was 40 years old. He stayed in Makkah for 13 years as commanded by Allah. Then he was ordered with migration so he migrated for 10 years and died when he was 63 years old.

The description of his ‘Ghusl’

We have already mentioned that the Companions y were engaged with the Bai‘ah of Abu Bakr for the whole of Monday and some of Tuesday. Then, when it was established, and firmly accomplished, they began thereafter to prepare washing and covering the body of the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him following Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him)in everything that was problematic for them.

‘A’ishah, the Mother of the Believers, said that when they wanted to wash body of the Prophet they said: We don’t know (whether we) should strip the Messenger of Allah from his clothing as we strip our dead or wash him with his clothes on. When they differed, Allah put them to sleep to the extent that all of them had their chins on their chests. Then a voice addressed them from the direction of the house but they didn’t know who he was: “Wash the Messenger of Allah with his clothes on.” Then they stood by the Messenger of Allah and washed him with his clothes on. They poured water on his shirt and they rubbed him with the shirt without using their hands. And ‘A’ishah used to say: If I was to take my affair that I left, nobody would have washed the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, except his wives.

Sa'eed Ibn Al-Musayyab narrated that 'Ali said: I washed the Messenger of Allah, then I went to check what was left of him but I didn't see anything. He was clean while alive and dead.

Ibn 'Abbas said: When the grave was dug and the people had prayed Dhuhr, Al-'Abbas began to wash the body of the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him. He erected a curtain from thick Yemeni clothing in the middle of the house. Then he entered and called 'Ali and Al-Fadhl. And if he went to pass the water to them he would call Abu Sufyan Ibn Al-Harith. Then he would bring it while the men from Bani Hashim were behind the curtain. And whoever was allowed to enter from the Ansar were the ones who asked my father, from them was: 'Aws Ibn Khawli (May Allah be pleased with him)

The Description of His Shroud

'A'ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was placed in a veil, then it was taken from him. Al-Qasim said: Verily, the remains of that cloth are with me.

As narrated by 'A'ishah, the Messenger of Allah was wrapped in three white Sahooli (the name of a village in Yemen) garments, without a shirt and turban.

'A'ishah said: The Messenger of Allah was wrapped in three white Sahooli garments of cotton, without a shirt and turban. As for the cloak, it was only assumed by the people. I only bought a cloak for him to be wrapped in, however it was abandoned. 'Abdullah Ibn Abu Bakr took it said, "I am going to take it so that I am wrapped in it.” Thereafter he said, “If Allah was pleased with it for his Prophet he would have wrapped him in it.” So he sold it and gave the proceeds to charity.

The (Funeral) Prayer

Ibn Mas‘ood said that regarding the will of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that the men of his household should wash him, and that he said: “Wrap me in these clothes of mine, or in Yemeni, or the white of Egypt.” “When they wrapped him they put him at the edge of his grave and then left him, in order to let the angels pray on him. Thereafter, male members of his household entered and prayed on him. Then the people after them individually.” This Hadith is in its complete form and its authenticity is doubtful.

‘Ikrimah narrated from Ibn ‘Abbas: When the Messenger of Allah died the men were allowed to enter, who prayed on him. Then the women were allowed to enter and prayed upon him. Thereafter the children were allowed to enter and they prayed upon him. Then the slaves were allowed to enter and prayed upon him; nobody led them in prayer on the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him.

This action - which is their prayer upon him individually without anybody leading them - is a matter upon which there is a consensus, with no one differing on it. The reason for this has been differed over, so if the Hadith that we mentioned from Ibn Mas‘ood is authentic, it would have been a clear text in the matter, and it would be purely (a matter of) worship for which the reason is hard to understand. It is not for anyone to say: They prayed upon him in this manner because they didn’t have an Imam, because we have already mentioned that they began to prepare him (for burial) – (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) – after the completion of the Bai‘ah of Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him)

Some of the scholars mentioned that nobody led them in the funeral prayer on the Messenger of Allah. The reason was that everyone could experience the prayer from himself upon him, and the repetition of the Muslims’ prayer on him time after time, from every individual from the groups of the Companions: their men, women, children and even the male and female slaves.

The brief outline of what As-Suhaili said was: Verily, Allah already mentioned that He and His angels send prayers upon him, and He commanded everyone from the Believers to send prayers upon him.

Therefore it was obligatory upon everyone to initiate the prayer on him by himself, and the prayer upon him after his death is from this type. He said: And also the angels are leaders for us in that. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The followers of Ash-Shafi‘i differed over the legality of prayer on his grave for other than the Companions. So it has been said: Yes (it is permissible), because his body - (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) - is fresh in his grave, because Allah has made it impermissible for the earth to consume the bodies of the Prophets As has been mentioned in the Hadith in the Sunan and others, so he is like the one who died today. And others said: He should not, because the Salaf from those after the Companions didn’t do it, and if it was permissible they would have proceeded and persevered upon it. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Description of His Burial, (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) Where He Was Buried

‘A’ishah narrated: “When the Messenger of Allah died they differed with regards to his burial, so Abu Bakr said: I heard from the Messenger of Allah a matter which I have not forgotten. He said: “Allah does not take a Prophet except in the place that he likes to be buried.” Bury him in the place of his bed Sa‘eed Ibn Al-Musayyab said: ‘A’ishah mentioned to her father a dream and he was from the best in interpretation. She said: “I saw three moons fall in my house.” Then he said to her: “If you have told the truth about your dream, three people from the best of the people on this Earth will be buried in your house.” When the Messenger of Allah passed away and was buried there, he said: “O ‘A’ishah, this is the best of your moons.”

In the Saheehain, she was quoted as saying: “The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah upon him, passed away in my house and between my neck and chest. And Allah mixed my saliva with his in the last hour of this world and the first hour of the Hereafter.”

In Saheeh Al-Bukhari it was narrated by ‘A’ishah: I heard the Messenger of Allah in the illness that he died from say: “May Allah curse the Jews and the Christians, they took the graves of their Prophets as places of worship.” ‘A’ishah said: “If it wasn’t for that, his grave would have been prominent, except that he feared that his grave would be taken as a place of worship.”

Anas Ibn Malik narrated: “When the Messenger of Allah passed away there was a man in Madinah who would make the Lahd (niche toward the direction of the Qiblah in the grave, in which the deceased is placed on his right then bricks are placed behind him) and another would dig a Dareeh (a regular trench type grave). They said: “Let us make Istikharah (a prayer of 2 units, after which one supplicates a particular prayer seeking guidance toward the correct decision by the decree of Allah) and send for them, and the one who is slower will be left.” Then they were sent for and the one who would make the Lahd came first, so they made a Lahd for the Prophet.

Ibn ‘Abbas said: “A red velvet sheet was placed in the grave of the Prophet, peace be upon him.”

Sa‘eed Ibn Al-Musayyab narrated: ‘Ali said: I washed the Prophet, peace be upon him, then I went to look to see what was left from the signs of the deceased and I didn’t see anything, and he was clean while living and while dead. He said: Four from amongst the people were in charge of his burial – (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) – ‘Ali, Al-‘Abbas, Al-Fadhil and Saleh, the servant of the Prophet. And a Lahd was made for the Prophet and bricks were erected on it. Al-Baihaqi mentioned from some of the scholars: That nine bricks were erected in his Lahd.

A mention of the last person who was with him (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

Bahz narrated that he witnessed the prayer on the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the Companions said: How do we pray upon him? He replied: Enter one after the other. So they entered from one door, prayed on him, then left from the other door. He said: When he was placed in his Lahd, Al-Mugheerah said: Part of his feet are showing which they didn’t attend to. They said: Enter and cover them. He entered the Lahd and entered his hand and touched his feet. Then he said: Pile the soil on top of me, so they did until it reached the middle of his chin, then he left. And he would say: I am the last of you with the Messenger of Allah.

When was his Burial

‘A’ishah, the Mother of the Believers, narrated: Verily, the Messenger of Allah passed away on Monday and he was buried on the night before Wednesday. It has already been mentioned in a similar way in more than one Hadith. And this is what is known from more than one Imam from the Salaf and the Khalaf (those after the first three generations of Muslims); from them are Sulaiman Ibn Tarkhan At-Taimi, and Ja‘far Ibn Muhamad As-Sadiq, Ibn Ishaq, Moosa Ibn Uqbah and other than them.

The description of his Grave

It is known through tawatur, that he – (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was buried in ‘A’ishah’s personal house, east of his mosque in the west corner in the direction of the Qiblah from the house. Then Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) was buried after him in it, then ‘Umar (May Allah be pleased with him).

Sufyan At-Tammar narrated that he informed him that he saw the Prophet’s grave raised. Al-Bukhari was the only one who mentioned it. Abu Dawood narrated from Al-Qasim: I entered upon ‘A’ishah, and said to her: O mother, show me the grave of the Messenger of Allah and his two Companions. She showed me the three graves not elevated or level with the ground leveled with a red coating (in that order): The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Then Abu Bakr

(May Allah be pleased with him) and then ‘Umar (May Allah be pleased with him)

Abu Dawood was the only one who mentioned it.

Al-Hakim narrated it and Al-Baihaqi related it from Al-Qasim: Then I saw the Prophet at the forefront and Abu Bakr’s head between the shoulders of the Prophet and ‘Umar’s head near the leg of the Prophet, peace be upon him.

Al-Baihaqi said: This narration proves that their graves were flat, because pebbles are only stable on a flat surface. This is strange from Al-Baihaqi,, for, verily, there is no mention in the narration of pebbles in totality, upon that assumption it is possible to be raised while pebbles were on it by using clay and similar materials.

Al-Bukahri narrated from Hisham Ibn ‘Urwah from his father, who said: When the wall collapsed upon them in the time of Al-Waleed Ibn Abdul- Malik, they began to rebuild it. Then a foot became apparent to them, so they became startled. Then they thought that it was the foot of the Prophet and none from amongst them knew what it was until ‘Urwah said to them: No, by Allah, it is not the foot of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, it is only the foot of ‘Umar.

Hisham narrated from his father, from ‘A’ishah that she made a will to ‘Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair, “do not bury me with them. Bury me with my companions in Al-Baqee’.

He said: Al-Waleed Ibn Abdul-Malik began to build a mosque in Damascus when he came to power in the Year 86 A.H. And he wrote to his representative in Madinah, the son of his paternal uncle ‘Umar Ibn ‘Abdul-Azeez to expand the mosque of Madinah, so he expanded it even from the side of the market. Then the house of the Prophet became part of it.

Hafiz Ibn ‘Asakir narrated with his chain of narrations from Zadhan Mawla Al-Furafisah and he is the one who built the Prophet’s Mosque in the days of ‘Umar Ibn ‘Abdul-Azeez’s rule of Madinah. Then he mentioned from Salim Ibn ‘Abdullah similar to what Al-Bukhari mentioned, and he spoke about the description of the graves just as Abu Dawood narrated.

Mention of What Afflicted the Muslims from the Great Calamity by His Death

Al-Bukhari narrated from Anas, who said: When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, became ill the pain began to overwhelm him. Fatimah said: “Oh the pain, my father!” He replied: “There is no pain for your father after today.” When he died, she said: “O my father, he answered the call of a Lord that called him. O father, the one whose abode is the highest level in Paradise. O father, to Jibraeel we announce the death.” When he was buried, Fatimah said: “O Anas, does it please you that you throw soil on the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him?” Thabit would cry if he mentioned this Hadith and it would seem that his ribs would cross one another. This is not deemed to be wailing, rather it is by the way of mentioning his true virtues and we only mentioned this because the Messenger of Allah forbade wailing.

Anas narrated: “When the Messenger of Allah arrived in Madinah, everything was lit up on the day of his arrival; when on the day he died everything was darkened on his death.” He said, “We had not removed our hands from the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, (while removing the soil away from his body) before our hearts felt different.” Ubayy Ibn Ka’b narrated: “We were with the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, and our faces were the same, but when he was taken we looked here and there.” Anas said: “Once the Messenger of Allah went to visit Umm Aiman and I went with him, and I offered him some drink there. Either he was fasting or he did not want it, so he refused to take it. Umm Aiman used to make the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, laugh. After the death of the Prophet, peace be upon him, Abu Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, asked ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him: “Come with us to visit Umm Aiman”; when we reached there she started crying. They asked her: “What makes you cry? That which is with Allah is better for the Messenger of Allah.” She said: “By Allah, I don’t cry because I didn’t know that what is with Allah is better for his Messenger; I cry because the revelation has ceased from the sky.” Thus she drove them to cry, and they began to cry. And only Imam Muslim narrated it.

Abu Moosa narrated from the Prophet, peace be upon him, who he said: “Verily, if Allah wishes to have mercy upon a nation from His slaves He takes its Prophet before them, then He makes him a role model and a Salaf (predecessor) for it, which he will bear witness for. And if He wishes to destroy a nation He will punish it while its Prophet is alive and then cause it to perish, while he is looking at them with a sympathetic eye with its destruction when they rejected him and disobeyed his command.” Aws Ibn Aws narrated: The Messenger of Allah said: “From the best of your days is Friday, on this day Adam was created, on this day he was taken, on this day is the blowing (in the trumpet) and on this day is the collapsing (of the creation). So send abundant prayers upon me on this day, because your prayers will be conveyed to me.” They said: “O Messenger of Allah, how can our prayers reach you when you have perished? (i.e. become decomposed bones).” He replied:

“Verily, Allah has made it impermissible for the earth to consume the bodies of the Prophets.”

A Mention of What Has Been Narrated Regarding Condolences With Him

‘A’ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, narrated: The Messenger of Allah opened a door between him and the people or opened a curtain suddenly and the people were praying behind Abu Bakr. Then he praised Allah upon the good state he saw them in; hoping that Allah will succeed him with what he saw. Then he said, “O people; if anybody from the people or from the Believers is afflicted by a misfortune then let him remember his calamity by me (i.e. my death) instead of the calamity caused by other than me (i.e. other than my death). For none of my Ummah will be afflicted by a calamity greater than my calamity (i.e. the calamity caused by my death is a greater misfortune upon everyone due to the discontinuation of revelation and the differing and other evils).

Abu Hazim Al-Madani narrated: Verily, when Allah took the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, the Muhajiroon entered in groups praying upon him and then leaving. The Ansar also entered in the same way. Thereafter the people of Madinah entered. When the men finished, the women entered. And there were voices of despair from them, as usually occurs from them. After that there was deep silence in the house. Then suddenly a person said: Verily in Allah is comfort from every deceased, and a recompensation from every disaster, and a replacement for everything lost. And the repaid is the one who is repaid with reward, and the unfortunate is the one who is not repaid with reward.

Section Regarding What Has Been Narrated From the Knowledge of the People of the Book of the Day of His Death

Jareer Ibn ‘Abdullah Al-Bajali narrated: I was in Yemen and I met two men from the people of Yemen, Dhu Kala‘ and Dhu Amr. I began to inform them from the Messenger of Allah. Then they said to me: If what you say is true then your companion has been gone since three years. He said: So I advanced and they advanced; while we were on the journey we saw some travelers before Madinah so we asked them, and then they replied: The Messenger of Allah has died and he left Abu Bakr as a successor and the people are righteous. He said: Then they said to me: Inform your friend that we came and that we may return if Allah, the Most Honored and High, wills. He said: And we returned to Yemen. When I arrived I informed Abu Bakr of their talk. He said: If only you could bring them!

Then after sometime, Dhu Amr said to me: O Jareer, you have a high repute over me, and verily I am going to tell you something. Verily, you, O people of the Arabs, you will always be in a state of goodness if and when your leader dies you come under the command of another. And if it is by the sword, then you will become kings and have the anger of kings and you will be pleased like the pleasure of kings.

Ka‘b Ibn Adiyy narrated: I came to the Prophet, peace be upon him, in a delegation from the people of Al-Heerah. He explained the basics of Islam to us and we accepted Islam. Thereafter we went back to AlHeerah, and it wasn’t long that (news) of the death of the Prophet came to us. My companions began to doubt and they said: If he was a Prophet he wouldn’t have died. I said that have Prophets died before. I stayed firm upon my Islam.

Then I left and headed for Madinah, and I came across a monk and we would not be certain of a matter without him (i.e. without affirming from him). I said to him: Tell me about a matter that I intended, part of which has occurred in my chest. He said: Tell me any name from the names. I told him the name of Ka‘b. He said: Throw it in this big book, which he had brought. So I threw Ka‘b in it, then he looked in it and suddenly the description of the Prophet as I saw him, and suddenly he died at the time he died in.

He said: After this, I became stronger in my faith and went to Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) and informed him and stayed with him. Thereafter he sent me to Al-Muqawqis (a leader in Egypt) and then I returned. Later, ‘Umar also sent me. I came to him with his message and I came to him during the Battle of Al-Yarmook and I didn’t know of it. He said to me: Do you know that the Romans have killed the Arabs and humiliated them? I replied: No, I don’t know. He asked: Why? I replied: Verily, Allah promised his Prophet that He will make him victorious over every religion, and He doesn’t break His promise. He said: Verily, your Prophet has told you the truth, the Romans are going to die as Allah killed ‘Ad. He said: Then he asked me about the faces of the Companions of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. When I told him about them, he sent a gift to ‘Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, and to them. And from those whom he sent gifts were ‘Ali, ‘Abdur- Rahman and AzZubair and I think he mentioned Al-‘Abbas. Ka‘b said: I was a partner with ‘Umar in clothing in Jahiliyyah (the pre-Islamic era of ignorance). And when the register was invented, he made me from the people of ‘Adiyy Ibn Ka‘b. This is a rare narration (ghareeb), in it is a great story and it is authentic.

Declaration that the Prophet Did Not Leave a Dinar, nor Dirham, or Slave Boy, or Slave Girl, or Sheep, or Camel and Nothing Else Which is Inherited.

Rather, he left a piece of land all of which he gave in charity for the sake of Allah. For, verily, the world in its totality is not worthy in his sight – as it is with Allah – to strive for or leave after him as a charity, may the prayers of Allah and peace be upon him and his brothers from the Prophets and Messengers, and many salutations forever till the Day of Judgment.

Al-Bukhari narrated: From Amr Ibn Al-Harith, who said: The Messenger of Allah did not leave a Dinar, nor Dirham, nor slave boy, nor slave except for his white mule which he used to ride, and his weapons and land that he gave to the wayfarers in charity.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), narrated: The Messenger of Allah did not leave a Dinar, nor Dirham, nor slave girl, nor slave boy, nor sheep or camel.

‘A’ishah (May Allah be pleased with her), said: The Messenger of Allah passed away while his shield was held ransom with a Jew for 30 (Sa‘ of wheat).

Anas narrated: The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, was invited to wheat bread and some soup. Anas said: I indeed heard the Messenger of Allah say: “By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, the family of the Prophet have never had a Sa’ (ancient measure of approx. 2.5 kg) of wheat, nor a Sa’ of dates.” And he had on that day nine wives and his shield was held in ransom with a Jew in Madinah and he took food from him. Then he couldn’t find anything to free it until he died.

Ibn ‘Abbas: That the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, looked at Uhud then said: “By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, it would not please me that the family of the Prophet had the amount of Uhud in gold; I would spend it in the way of Allah....” He said: Then he died and he did not leave a Dinar, or Dirham, or slave boy, or slave girl and he left his shield with a Jew for 30 Sa’ of wheat.

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated: ‘Umar entered upon the Prophet, peace be upon him, while he was on a rug that had left a mark on his body. He said: “O Prophet of Allah, were you to use a rug softer than this!” He replied: “What need do I have for this world? My example and that of this world is nothing but the example of a traveler who traversed on a hot day. Then he took shade under a tree for a part of the day and then continued and left it.” Ahmad was the only one who mentioned this and its chain is good. And it has a supporting evidence in the Hadith of Ibn ‘Abbas from ‘Umar, about the two women that allied against the Messenger of Allah and the story of Al-’Eela’. And the Hadith will be mentioned as well as others similar to it concerning his abstinence and his leaving of this world and his turning away from it and his rejection of it. This is what proves what we have said that he did not have this world in his mind, i.e., he was not preoccupied with it.

Narrated by Malik Ibn Mighwal from Talhah, who said: I asked ‘Abdullah Ibn Abu Awfa: Did the Prophet make a Wasiyyah? He said: No. I said: How has the will been made obligatory on the people, or commanded with it? He replied: He made a Wasiyyah: the Book of Allah, the Most Honored, Most High.

Declaration that the Prophet said, ‘We are not to be inherited’

Abu Hurairah narrated that the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, said: “My inheritance is not to be divided; neither Dinar nor Dirham. That which I leave behind after spending on my wives and wages for my workers is for charity.” The wording is that of Al-Bukhari.

‘A’ishah, the Mother of the Believers, narrated: Verily, when the Messenger of Allah passed away, the wives of the Prophet wanted to send ‘Uthman (May Allah be pleased with him) to Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) to ask him for their inheritance. ‘A’ishah said: Did not the Messenger of Allah say: “We are not to be inherited, that which we leave is for charity?”

She also narrated that Fatimah and Al-‘Abbas came to Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) asking for their inheritance from the Messenger of Allah and they at the time were seeking his land from Fadak and his share from Khaibar. Abu Bakr told them: I heard the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, say: “We are not to be inherited, that which we leave is for charity, only the family of Muhammad eats from this wealth.” Abu Bakr said: By Allah, I will not leave a matter that I saw the Messenger of Allah do with it, except that I would do it. The narrator said: Then Fatimah boycotted him and did not speak to him till she died.

‘A’ishah also narrated similar to what has preceded, with the addition that when she passed away ‘Ali buried her at night without informing Abu Bakr and prayed upon her. ‘Ali had a status with the people during the life of Fatimah. When she died the people condoned him, so he sought to make amends with Abu Bakr and to make Bai‘ah with him, as he had not made

Bai‘ah with him earlier. He sent a word to Abu Bakr saying, “Come to us and no one else should come to us with you,” and he hated that ‘Umar would come to him for what he knew of his harshness.

‘Umar said: “By Allah, do not enter upon them alone.” Abu Bakr replied: “And what may they do to me? By Allah, I will certainly go to them.” Then Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) left to meet him and ‘Ali (May Allah be pleased with him) testified and said: “We indeed know of your virtues that Allah has given you. And we did not compete with you in the good that Allah has given you, however you had taken control of the matter. And we saw due to our kinship with the Messenger of Allah that we have a share in this affair.” ‘Ali continued to talk until Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) cried.

He replied: “By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, indeed I prefer to hold ties with the kinship of the Messenger of Allah more than keeping my own ties of kinship. And as for that which has occurred between you and I in (the matter of) this wealth then I did not stray from goodness in this regard. And I did not leave a matter that the Messenger of Allah performed except that I did it.” ‘Ali said: “Your time for the Bai‘ah is tonight.”

When Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) prayed Dhuhr he ascended the pulpit and testified and mentioned the affair of ‘Ali not attending the Bai‘ah as well as the excuse that he mentioned. ‘Ali (May Allah be pleased with him) testified and then venerated the right of Abu Bakr and mentioned his virtues and his precedence (in accepting Islam). He mentioned that competing with Abu Bakr was not what made him do what he did. Then he got up, came to Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) and made Bai‘ah with him. Thereafter the people turned to ‘Ali and said: “You have done well.” And the people became closer to ‘Ali when he recanted the matter with goodness.

So this is the Bai‘ah of ‘Ali (May Allah be pleased with him) with Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) after the death of Fatimah (May Allah be pleased with her) as an affirmation for the amendment that occurred between them. And it was the second, due to the Bai‘ah which we mentioned initially on the Day of Saqeefah as Ibn Khuzaimah narrated and Muslim Ibn Al-Hajjaj deemed authentic. ‘Ali did not boycott Abu Bakr in these six months, rather he used to pray behind him and attend his gatherings, and he rode with him to Dhul-Qassah as is going to be mentioned.

And it is mentioned in Saheeh Al Bukhari that Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) prayed ‘Asr after the death of the Messenger of Allah, then he exited the mosque and found Al-Hasan Ibn ‘Ali playing with children outside, and he carried him on his shoulders saying, “May my father be sacrificed for you! He looks like the Prophet, not similar to ‘Ali,” while Ali laughed. However, when the second Bai‘ah took place, some of the narrators believed that ‘Ali had not made the Bai‘ah before it, so he negated it. And the one who affirms takes precedence over the one that negates (a principle in the science of Fiqh) as preceded and has been established. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

As for Fatimah’s anger with Abu Bakr t, I don’t know the reason. If it was due to his prevention of her from what she asked of her inheritance, then he had already apologized with an excuse that has to be accepted, and that is what he narrated from her father the Messenger of Allah that he said, “We are not to be inherited, that which we leave is charity.” She was from those who follow the text of the legislator (Qur’an and Sunnah) which was not known to her before she asked for her inheritance, just as it was not known to the wives of the Prophet until ‘A’ishah, may Allah be pleased with her, informed them of it and they agreed with her upon that.

It should not be believed that Fatimah accused As-Siddeeq (May Allah be pleased with him) of what he informed her; she is above all that and he is far from that. How (could this be), when ‘Umar Ibn AlKhattab had agreed with him in narrating this Hadith and ‘Uthman Ibn ‘Affan, ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib, Al-‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Mutalib, ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn ‘Awf, Talhah Ibn ‘Ubaidullah, Az-Zubair Ibn Al‘Awwam, Sa’d Ibn Abu Waqqas, Abu Hurairah, may Allah be pleased with them all, and ‘A’ishah ! as we are going to clarify later. And (even) if As-Siddiq (May Allah be pleased with him) was the only one who narrated it, it would become incumbent upon everyone on Earth to accept it and to follow him in that. If her anger was due to her request from As-Siddiq due to these lands (which) were for charity and not inheritance, then her husband would look into it. Moreover, Abu Bakr had already apologized by saying (the summary of which was), that as he was the Caliph of the Messenger of Allah, it was obligatory for him to act as the Messenger of Allah used to and to take charge of what the Messenger of Allah took charge of. It was for this reason he said: “And verily, I will not leave a matter that the Messenger of Allah used to perform with it (wealth) except that I do so.”

He said: Then Fatimah boycotted him and did not speak to him till she died. This boycotting and condition opened manifest evil for the sect of the Rafidah (the Shia sect), and (led to acts of) sheer ignorance. Due to this uncalled for incident, they entered into what didn’t concern them. If they were to understand the matters as they were then, they would have known the virtue of As-Siddiq and accepted from him his reasoning which is obligatory upon everyone to accept.

However, they are a humiliated party and a lowly sect. They hold onto the ambiguities, and they leave the matters which are clear and affirmed with the Imams of Islam, from the Companions, Tabi'oon and those after them from the recognized scholars in all times and countries. Besides, the scholars from the people of the house (family of the Prophet) have admitted the authenticity of what Abu Bakr judged with in this regard. Zaid Ibn 'Ali Ibn Al-Husain Ibn 'Ali Ibn Abu Talib said: "As for me, if I were in the place of Abu Bakr, I would have ruled with what Abu Bakr ruled in Fadak."

Refutation of the Rafidah with Regard to the Inheritance and that Which They Used as Proof

The Rafidah spoke with ignorance in this regard and over-exerted themselves into that which they have no knowledge of, and denied that which they had no comprehension of and the interpretation of it that came to them. They entered into that which didn't concern them and some of them tried to reject the narration of Abu Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) in that which we mentioned – (saying) that it is against the Qur'an, as in the Verse where Allah, the Most High, says: "And Sulaiman inherited Dawood" (Soorah An-Naml: 16). And as Allah, the Most High, says about Zakariyya that he said: "And indeed, I fear the successors after me, and my wife has been barren, so give me from Yourself a heir. Who will inherit me and inherit from the family of Ya'qoob. And make him, my Lord pleasing (to You)." (Soorah Maryam: 5-6)

This argumentation is futile from many angles: one of them is that by His statement: “And Sulaiman inherited Dawood” (Soorah An-Naml: 16)

By this, He only meant in kingship and prophethood i.e. We made him in charge after him over what he oversaw – in terms of kingship and controlling the masses and judging between Bani Isra’eel. And We made him a noble Prophet like his father and just as kingship and prophethood was combined for his father then similarly He made his son after him.

Material inheritance is not intended by this because Dawood, as many of the Mufasssiroon (exegetes of the Qur’an) mentioned, had many sons; it has been estimated around a hundred. Why did he single out Sulaiman from amongst them if he intended material inheritance? Thus, the intended meaning is only the inheritance of standing after him in prophethood and kingship and that is why He says: “And Sulaiman inherited Dawood.” He also says, “O people, we have been given from all things. Indeed, this is evident bounty.” (Soorah An-Naml: 16) and the Verses that come after it. And we have mentioned this a number of times in our book, Tafseer, which is sufficient.

As for the story of Zakariyyah, indeed he was from the noble Prophets, and this world was considered lowly by him, how could he ask Allah for a child to inherit him in his wealth? He was only a carpenter, he ate from the earning of his hands as Al-Bukhari narrated, and he didn’t save from it more than his daily provision of food, for him to ask Allah for a child to inherit his wealth from him (would be plausible) if he had wealth. He only asked for a righteous child to inherit him in prophethood and to see the interests of Bani Isra’eel and drive them to uprightness.

And for this reason Allah, the Most High, says:

Kaf- Ha-Ya- 'Ain-Sad. (These letters are one of the miracles of the Qur'an, and none but Allah (Alone) knows their meanings). (This is) a mention of the Mercy of your Lord to His slave Zakariyyah. When he called out to his Lord (Allah) a call in secret, saying: "My Lord! Indeed my bones have grown feeble, and gray hairs have spread on my head, and I have never been unblest in my invocation to You, O my Lord! And, verily, I fear my relatives after me, since my wife is barren. So give me from Yourself an heir, who shall inherit me, and inherit (also) the posterity of Ya'qoob (inheritance of the religious knowledge and prophethood, not the wealth, etc.). And make him, my Lord, one with whom You are well-pleased!"
(Soorah Maryam: 1-6)

The rest of the story follows (after these Verses). He said: An heir who shall inherit from me, and inherit (also) the posterity of Ya'qoob, i.e. prophethood as we established in the Tafseer (Tafseer Ibn Katheer). It has been mentioned in the narration of Abu Salamah from Abu Hurairah from Abu Bakr that indeed the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, said: "The Prophet is not inherited". This is a generic noun that encompasses all of the Prophets and At-Tirmidhi declared the Hadith to be good. And in another Hadith it is said, "We, the family of the Prophets, are not inherited."

And the second angle: Indeed the Messenger of Allah was particularized with ordainments that the other Prophets did not share with him, as we are going to single out a chapter for it at the end of the Seerah, insha'Allah. So if it is hypothesized, that Prophets other than him were to be inherited – which is not the case – then what we mentioned from the Companions, from them the four Imams; Abu Bakr, ‘Umar, ‘Uthman and ‘Ali, may Allah be pleased with them, a clarification of this rule being specific for him.

And the third: Indeed acting on this Hadith is obligatory and ruling by it requisite as the Caliphs (first four) ruled by it. The scholars affirmed its authenticity whether it was from his particular characteristics or not. For he said, “We are not inherited from; that which we leave is for charity.” It can be understood from the point of wording that his statement, “That which we leave is for charity,” is the news (khabar) from his ordainment or the ordainment of all the Prophets before him also, which preceded and is the apparent meaning. If it could be understood initiating his will, it is as though he said: we are not inherited from because all of what we leave is for charity and so he is particularized from the point of rendering all of his wealth for charity.

The first understanding is more apparent and is the path that the majority of the scholars followed.

The second meaning could be strengthened by what has preceded from the Hadith of Malik and others narrated by Abu Hurairah, indeed the Messenger of Allah said: “My inheritors are not to have a single Dinar. That which I leave after the spending on my wives and the wages of my workers is for charity.” And this wording has been collected in the Saheehain and it refutes the distortion of the ignorant ones of the Shias in the narration of this Hadith, who say, ”We did not leave charity,” making the particle “Ma” (Arabic particle of the Hadith) for the purpose of negation. Then how does one deal with the first part of the Hadith and it is his statement: “We are not inherited. And with this narration: “That which I leave after the spending on my wives and the wages of my workers is for charity.” The affair of this person is similar to what is narrated from some of the Mu‘tazilah that he read to a Shaikh from Ahlus-Sunnah: “And Allah spoke to Moosa directly” (Soorah An-Nisa’: 164) by making the word “Allah” the object of the verb (meaning that Moosa spoke to Allah). So his Shaikh said to him: “Woe be unto you! How do you deal with his statement the Most High: ‘And when Moosa arrived at our appointed time and his Lord spoke to him’.” (Soorah Al-A‘raf: 143)

The point is that it is obligatory to act upon his statement, “We are not inherited, what we leave is for charity,” on every possibility that the wording holds and the (apparent) meaning, because it is a limitation of the generality of the Verse of inheritance and his exclusion from it either by himself or with his brothers from the Prophets u.

A Mention of His Wives (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and their children - may Allah be pleased with them

Allah (SWT) says:

“O wives of the Prophet! You are not like any other women. If you keep your duty (to Allah), then be not soft in speech, lest he in whose heart is a disease (of hypocrisy, or evil desire for adultery, etc.) should be moved with desire, but speak in an honorable manner. And stay in your houses, and do not display yourselves like that of the times of ignorance, and perform As-Salat (Iqamat as-Salat), and give Zakat and obey Allah and His Messenger. Allah wishes only to remove Ar-Rijs (evil deeds and sins, etc.) from you, O members of the family (of the Prophet), and to purify you with a thorough purification. And remember (O you, the members of the Prophet’s family, the graces of your Lord), that which is recited in your houses of the Verses of Allah and Al-Hikmah (i.e. Prophet's Sunnah legal ways, etc. so give your thanks to Allah and glorify His Praises for this Qur'an and the Sunnah). Verily, Allah is Ever Most Courteous, Well-Acquainted with all things." (Soorah Al-Ahzab: 32-34)

There is no difference of opinion that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, passed away having nine (wives) and they are: 'A'ishah Bint Abu Bakr As-Siddiq At-Taimiyyah, Hafsa Bint 'Umar Ibn Al-Khattab Al-Adawiyyah, Umm Habeebah Ramlah Bint Abu Sufyan Sakhr Ibn Harb Ibn Umayyah

Al-Umawiyyah, Zainab Bint Jahsh Al-Asadiyyah, Umm Salamah Hind Bint Abu Umayyah AlMakhzoomiyyah, Maimoonah Bint Al-Harith Al-Hilaliyyah, Sawdah Bint Zam'ah Al- Amiriyyah, Juwairiyah Bint Al-Harith Ibn Abu Dirar Al-Mustaliqiyah, Safiyyah Bint Huyayy Ibn Akhtab AnNadariyyah Al-Isra'eeliyyah Al-Harooniyyah - may Allah be pleased with them and please them.

He had two slave girls, and they were Mariyah Bint Sham'oon Al-Qibtiyyah Al-Misriyyah from Koorah Ansina and she was the mother of his son Ibraheem and Raihanah Bint Sham'oon Al-Quraziyyah who accepted Islam, then he freed her and she returned to her family. And there are some people who said that she went into hiding with them. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

As for the mention in detail and order with regards to who was first and so on, from the words of the Imams, Qatadah narrated: The Messenger of Allah had fifteen women. He entered upon thirteen from them and he had eleven at one time and left nine when he died. Thereafter he mentioned the nine which we mentioned.

‘A’ishah narrated similarly as she said: The two women that he did not allow to enter were: Amrah Bint Yazeed Al-Ghifariyyah and Ash-Shanba’. As for Amrah, when he was alone with her and removed her clothes and saw that she had leprosy and he left her and gave her the dowry. And she became impermissible for others (to marry). As for Ash-Shanba’, when she was made to enter upon him she wasn’t at ease so he left her until she would feel comfortable. Then, when Ibraheem died suddenly she said: “If he was a Prophet his child would not have died.” So he divorced her and gave her the dowry and she became impermissible for others. She said: The ones who cohabited with him were: ‘A’ishah, Sawdah, Hafsa, Umm Salamah, Umm Habeebah, Zainab Bint Jahsh, Zainab Bint Khuzaimah, Juwairiyah, Safiyyah, Maimoonah and Umm Shareek.

I say: And in Saheeh Al-Bukhari Anas narrated: Verily, the Messenger of Allah would visit his wives and they were eleven women. It is commonly mentioned that he did not enter upon Umm Shareek as its clarification is forthcoming, however, the meaning of the eleven that he would visit are the nine previously mentioned and the two maids Mariyah and Raihanah.

The first woman that the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married was Khadeejah Bint Khuwailid Ibn Asad Ibn ‘Abdul-‘Uzza Ibn Qusayy. Her father married her to him before his Prophethood.

In a narration Az- Zuhri said: The age of the Messenger of Allah the day he married Khadeejah was 21 years, and it has also been mentioned as 25 years, the time the Ka’bah was rebuilt. And Al-Waqidi also mentioned it and added that she was 45 years old. Others from the people of knowledge said the Messenger of Allah was 30 years of age. And narrated by Hakeem Ibn Hizam that: The age of the Messenger of Allah the day he married Khadeejah was 25 and she was 40 years old.

And narrated by Ibn Abbas: She gave birth to Al-Qasim, and by him he was nicknamed (Abul-Qasim), and At-Tayyib, At-Tahir, Zainab, Ruqayyah, Umm Kulthoom and Fatimah.

I say she was the mother of all his sons with the exception of Ibraheem; he was from Mariyah as we are going to mention. Then he spoke about every daughter from the daughters of the Messenger of Allah and who married her, the brief outline of it is: Zainab was married to Abul'Aas Ibn Ar-Rabee' Ibn 'Abdul'Uzza Ibn 'Abd Shams Ibn 'Abd Manaf, and he was Khadeejah's nephew. His mother was Halah Bint Khuwailid. She gave birth to his son 'Ali and a daughter called Umamah Bint Zainab. 'Ali Ibn Abu Talib married her after the death of Fatimah and died while she was with him, then she married Al-Mugheerah Ibn Nawfal Ibn Al-Harith Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib after him.

As for Ruqayyah, 'Uthman Ibn 'Affan married her; she gave birth to his son 'Abdullah and was nicknamed after him initially, then he nicknamed himself with the name of his son 'Amr. Ruqayyah died when the Messenger of Allah was in Badr. And when Zaid Ibn Harithah came with the glad tidings (of victory) he found that they had just leveled the soil on her body. And 'Uthman stood by her nursing her so the Messenger of Allah gave him his share and reward. Thereafter he married him to her sister Umm Kulthoom and for that reason he was nicknamed: Dhun-Noorain (possessor of two lights). She also passed away in the lifetime of the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him.

The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, married her daughter, Fatimah, to his nephew ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib. ‘Ali entered upon her after the Battle of Badr as we have mentioned. She gave birth to Hasan and he (‘Ali) was nicknamed with his name, and Husain, and Husain was martyred in the land of Iraq.

I say it is also said Muhsin (his son).

His daughter Zainab was married to the son of her uncle, ‘Abdullah Ibn Ja‘far, and she gave birth from him to ‘Ali and ‘Awn and died while married to him. As for Umm Kulthoom, the Leader of the Believers, ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab married her, and she gave birth to Zaid from him and he died while married to her. Later, after him she married with the sons of her uncle, one after the other. She married ‘Awn Ibn Ja‘far, then after his death his brother, Muhammad, married her. Then after the death of Muhammad, their brother, ‘Abdullah Ibn Ja‘far, married her; she died while married to him.

Az-Zuhri said: Khadeejah married two men before the Messenger of Allah; the first of them was ‘Ateeq Ibn ‘Abid Ibn Makhzoom. The second was Abu Halah At-Tamimi. She gave birth to Hind and Zainab from him. Ibn Ishaq related that after the death of ‘Abid Abu Halah, she was married to An-Nabbash Ibn Zurarah, from the sons of ‘Amr Ibn Tameem, the ally of the Banu Abdud-Dar. She gave birth to a boy and a girl. Later, An-Nabbash also died. Then she married the Messenger of Allah and gave birth to his four daughters and sons Al-Qasim, At-Tayyib, At-Tahir. The sons passed away in infancy. The Messenger of Allah didn’t marry anyone else while she was alive.

Az-Zuhri said: After Khadeejah, the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, married ‘A’ishah Bint Abu Bakr Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Abu Quhafah, ‘Uthman Ibn Amir Ibn Amr Ibn Ka‘b Ibn Sa‘d Ibn Taim Ibn Murrah Ibn Ka‘b Ibin Lu’ayy Ibn Ghalib Ibn Fihri Ibn Malik Ibn An-Nadr Ibn Kinanah. After Khadeejah, the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, did not marry any virgin except ‘A’ishah but she did not bear him any child.

I say: She did not give birth to any child for him and it is said that she had a miscarriage of a son, the Messenger of Allah named him Abdullah. That is why she is nicknamed Umm (mother of) ‘Abdullah.

The child of her sister, Asma’, from Az- Zubair Ibn Al- ‘Awwam was nicknamed ‘Abdullah.

I say: Indeed the Messenger of Allah married Sawdah before ‘A’ishah as Ibn Ishaq mentioned. And Allah (SWT) knows best. And we already mentioned the description of his marriage with them before the Migration (Hijrah) and not entering upon ‘A’ishah until after the Hijrah.

He married Hafsa Bint ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab; She was earlier married to Khunais Ibn Hudhafah Ibn Qais Ibn ‘Adiyy Ibn Hudhafah Ibn Sahm Ibn ‘Amr Ibn Husais Ibn Ka‘b Ibn Lu’ayy. Khunais had died as a Believer.

He said: The Messenger of Allah married Umm Salamah Hind Bint Abu Umayyah Ibn Al-Mugheerah Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Makhzoom. Before him, she was married to the son of her uncle, Abu Salamah ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Abdul-Asad Ibn Hilal Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Makhzoom.

He said: And he married Sawdah Bint Zam'ah Ibn Qais Ibn 'Abd Shams Ibn 'Abd Udd Ibn Nasr Ibn Malik Ibn Hishl Ibn Amir Ibn Lu'ayy. Before getting married to the Messenger of Allah, she was married to As-Sakran Ibn 'Amr, the brother of Suhail Ibn 'Amr Ibn 'Abd Shams. He died as a Muslim after their return from Al-Habashah (Ethiopia or Abyssinia and surrounding areas) to Makkah, may Allah be pleased with them.

He said: He married Umm Habeebah Ramlah Bint Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb Ibn Umayyah Ibn 'Abd Shams Ibn 'Abd Manaf Ibn Qusayy. Before the Messenger of Allah, she was married to 'Ubaidullah Ibn Jahsh Ibn Ri'ab from the tribe of Asad Ibn Khuzaimah. He died as a Christian in Abyssinia. The Messenger of Allah sent 'Amr Ibn Umayyah Ad-Damri to her there, then he proposed to her through him and then 'Uthman Ibn 'Affan married her to him. This is what he said. However, Khalid Ibn Sa'eed Ibn Al-'As and Najashi, the ruler of Abyssinia, paid her the dowry of 400 Dinars and sent Shurahbeel Ibn Hasanah with her. And we already have mentioned all of that in detail.

He said: He married Zainab Bint Jahsh Ibn Ri'ab Ibn Asad Ibn Khuzaimah, and her mother was Umaimah Bint 'Abdul-Muttalib, the paternal aunt of the Messenger of Allah. Earlier, she was married to Zaid Ibn Harithah, the slave of the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him. She was the first of his wives to follow him in death and the first who had a bier made over her; Asma' Bint 'Umais made it for her as she saw in Abyssinia.

He said: And he married Zainab Bint Khuzaimah and she was from the tribe of Banu 'Abd Manaf Ibn Hilal Ibn Amir Ibn Sa'sa'ah and she was called Ummul-Masakeen. She was previously married to ‘Abdullah Ibn Jahsh Ibn Ri’ab, who was killed on the Day [Battle] of Uhud. She could not stay with the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, except for a short time as she passed away.

Yoonus said narrating from Muhammad Ibn Ishaq that she was married to Al-Husain Ibn Al-Harith Ibn ‘Abdul- Muttalib Ibn ‘Abd Manaf, or his brother, At-Tufail Ibn Al-Harith.

Az-Zuhri said: The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, married Maimoonah Bint Al-Harith Ibn Hazn Ibn Bujair Ibn Al-Huzam Ibn Ruwaibah Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Hilal Ibn Amir Ibn Sa’sa’ah. She is the one who offered herself (for marriage without dowry and guardian).

I say: The truth is that indeed the Messenger of Allah proposed to her and the mediator between them was Abu Rafi’, his slave, as we explained in detail in Umratul-Qada’. Az-Zuhri said: She had married two men before the Messenger of Allah, first of them was Ibn Abd Yaleel. Saif Ibn ‘Umar said in his narration: She was married to ‘Umair Ibn ‘Amr from the tribe of Uqdah from Thaqeef Ibn ‘Amr AthThaqafi. He died and then she married Abu Ruhm Ibn ‘Abdul-‘Uzza Ibn Abu Qais Ibn Abd Wudd Ibn Nasr Ibn Hisl Ibn Amir Ibn Lu’ayy.

He said: And he captured Safiyyah Bint Huyayy Ibn Akhtab from the tribe of An-Nadeer on the Day of Khaibar when she was the bride of Kinanah Ibn Abul-Huqaiq. Saif Ibn ‘Umar claimed in his narration that she was married to Sallam Ibn Mishkam before Kinanah. And Allah (SWT) knows best. He said: So these are the eleven women upon whom he entered. Az-Zuhri said: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, married Al- ‘Aliyah Bint Zabyan Ibn ‘Amr from the tribe of Abu Bakr Ibn Kilab and entered upon her, and (then) divorced her. Al-Baihaqi said: This is how it is mentioned in my book and in a narration other than his: He did not enter upon her, then he divorced her. He said: The Prophet peace be upon him, married the sister of the tribe of Al-Jawn Al-Kindi, and they are the allies of the tribe of Fazarah, then she sought refuge in Allah from him so he said: “You have sought refuge in a Great One (Allah), go back to your family.” So he divorced her and did not enter upon her. He said: The Messenger of Allah had a slave girl called Mariyah; she gave birth to Ibraheem from him. Then he passed away in infancy. He had a slave girl called Raihanah Bint Sham‘oon from the People of the Book from Khunafah tribe - and they were a subdivision of the tribe of Quraizah. The Messenger of Allah freed her but they claim that she went into hiding.

And Al-Hafiz Ibn ‘Asakir narrated with his chain of narrations from ‘Ali Ibn Mujahid: Verily, the Messenger of Allah married Khawlah Bint Al- Hudhail Ibn Hubairah At-Taghlibi, and her mother was Khirniq Bint Khaleefah, the sister of Dihyah Ibn Khaleefah. And she was brought to him from Ash-Sham, and she died during the journey. Then he married her maternal aunt, Sharaf Bint Fadalah Ibn Khaleefah. She was brought to him from Ash-Sham but she also died during the journey. Yoonus Ibn Bukair mentioned from Muhammad Ibn Ishaq: And the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, married Asma’ Bint Ka‘b Al-Jawniyyah and did not enter upon her, and he divorced her. Then he married ‘Amrah Bint Yazeed from the women of Kilab tribe (Al-Waheed subdivision tribe). Earlier, she was married to AlFadhl Ibn ‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib before him. After marrying her, the Messenger of Allah, divorced her and didn’t enter upon her. Al-Baihaqi said: So these two are the ones that Az-Zuhri mentioned and did not name them.

Al-Baihaqi narrated from Ash-Sha‘bi, who said: The women offered themselves to the Messenger of Allah. After marrying them, he entered upon some of them and left others and then didn’t go near them till the day he died. And they didn’t marry after him, from them was Umm Shareek. That is the statement of Allah, the Most High:

“You (O Muhammad) can postpone (the turn of) whom you will of them (your wives), and you may receive whom you will. And whomsoever you desire of those whom you have set aside (her turn temporarily), it is no sin on you (to receive her again), that is better; that they may be comforted and not grieved, and may all be pleased with what you give them. Allah knows what is in your hearts. And Allah is Ever All-Knowing, Most Forbearing. (Soorah Al-Ahzab: 51)

Al-Baihaqi said we have narrated from Hisham Ibn ‘Urwah from his father, who said: Khawlah Bint Hakeem is from those who offered themselves (for marriage) to the Messenger of Allah.

Those Whom the Messenger of Allah Proposed but Did Not Marry

Umm Hani’ Fakhitah Bint Abu Talib narrated that the Messenger of Allah asked for her hand, but she mentioned that she had small children so he left her and said: “The best women among the camel riders are the righteous women of Quraish, the most kind to their young ones and the most caring of their husbands’ property.”

Abu Hurairah narrated that the Messenger of Allah proposed to Umm Hani’ Bint Abu Talib then she said:

“O Messenger of Allah, verily, I have become old and I have children.”

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated: Laila Bint Al-Khateem went to the Messenger of Allah while he had his back to the sun so it shone on his shoulder, then he said: “Who is this whose food is the black (dates)?” And he used to say this often. Then she replied: “I am the daughter of the one who feeds the birds and the one who is like the wind [i.e. generous], I am Laila Bint Al-Khateem, I came to offer myself to you, will you marry me?” He replied: “I have done (so).” Then she returned to her people and said: “I have indeed married the Prophet”. They said: “What a bad thing you have done, you are a selfless woman and the Messenger of Allah has women who protect him jealously so he will curse you, so ask for demission.” Thereafter she returned and said: “Demit me, O Messenger of Allah“. He demitted her.

Then she married Mas‘ood Ibn Aws Ibn Sawad Ibn Zafar and she gave birth to a child from him, then one day when she was having a bath in one of the gardens in Madinah when suddenly a black wolf pounced on her and injured her, thereafter she died.

Ibn ‘Abbas narrated: Duba‘ah Bint Amir Ibn Qurt was married to ‘Abdullah Ibn Jud‘an, then he divorced her. Hisham Ibn Al-Mugheerah married her after him, and she gave birth to Salamah from him and she was a big beautiful woman with plentiful hair that enveloped her body. Then the Messenger of Allah proposed to her through her son Salamah so he said: “May I ask her permission?” It was said to the Prophet: “She has become old.” Thereafter her son came to her and sought her permission. She replied: “O my son, do you ask permission with regards to the Messenger of Allah?” Her son returned and remained quiet and didn't return an answer to the Messenger of Allah, it was as though he saw that she had become old, the Prophet too did not speak about her.

Ibn Abbas narrated: "The Messenger of Allah proposed to Safiyyah Bint Bashamah Ibn Nadlah Al'Anbari. She had been taken prisoner, so the Messenger of Allah gave her a choice and said: "If you wish me or if you wish your husband." So she said "Rather my husband", then he set her free whereupon the tribe of Banu Tameem cursed her.

And from those who he proposed to and did not marry is Jamrah Bint Al-Harith Ibn 'Awf Ibn Abu Harithah Al-Muzani. Her father said: "She has a defect", when she didn't have one. Then he returned to her and she was afflicted with leprosy.

He said: And he proposed to Umm Habeebah Bint Al-'Abbas Ibn 'Abdul-Muttalib. Then he found that her father was her brother from breast-feeding, Thuwaibah, the maid of Abu Lahab.

These are his wives and they are categorized into three groups: First those he entered upon and died leaving them behind, and they are nine which was the initial mention of them and they were inviolable after his death (in marital terms) by actual consensus known from the religion by necessity and their waiting period ended with the end of their lives.

Allah, Most High, said:

"And it is not (right) for you that you should annoy Allah's Messenger, nor that you should ever marry his wives after him (his death). Verily! With Allah that shall be an enormity. (Soorah Al-Ahzab: 53)

In the second category are those whom he entered upon and divorced in his lifetime, so is it (considered) permissible to marry them after the end of their waiting period? There are two opinions of the scholars in its regard; one of them is no, due to the generality of the Verse which we mentioned. And the second (opinion) is yes; because of the Verse of At-Takhyeer and it is his statement: “O Prophet (Muhammad)! Say to your wives: If you desire the life of this world and its glitte, then come, I will make a provision for you and set you free in a handsome manner (divorce). But if you desire Allah and His Messenger, and the home of the Hereafter, then verily, Allah has prepared for Al-Muhsinat (gooddoers) among you an enormous reward.” (Soorah Al-Ahzab: 28,29)

The scholars said: If she was not permissible for anyone else to marry after his divorce of her there wouldn't be any benefit in giving her the choice between this world and the Hereafter. This is because if his divorce of her didn't allow anyone else to marry her there wouldn't be any benefit for her, and this is a strong (argument). And Allah (SWT) knows best.

As for the third category, they are the ones whom he married, then divorced before entering upon them., Then it is not allowed for anyone else to marry them and I do not know of a debate in this category. As for the ones whom he proposed and didn't marry, it is within her rights to marry. And a chapter is to come in “The Book of Particular Characteristics” (of the Prophet) in relation to this. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

A Mention of His Slave Girls

The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, had two slave girls. One of them was Mariyah Bint Sham'oon Al-Qibtiyyah. The leader of Alaxandria, Jurajj Ibn Meena (Viceroy of Egypt), had given her to him. He also gave her sister Seereen. Abu Nu'aim mentioned that he gave her among four maids - And Allah (SWT) knows best – an emasculated slave boy called Ma'boor and a mule called Ad-Duldul, so he accepted his gifts and chose Mariyah for himself. She was from a village in Egypt known as Hafn from Koorah 'Ansina and Mu'awiyah Ibn Abu Sufyan removed the land tax levied on the people of the land during the days of his leadership as a means of distinguishing it because it bore a son from the Messenger of Allah and he was Ibraheem. They said Mariyah was white and beautiful, the Messenger of Allah was pleased with her and loved her. She was precious to him especially after she gave birth to Ibraheem, his son. And as for her sister Seereen, the Messenger of Allah gave her to Hassan Ibn Thabit. She gave birth to his son 'Abdur-Rahman Ibn Hassan.

As for the emasculated slave boy, Ma'boor, he used to enter upon Mariyah and Seereen without permission as was the tradition in Egypt. Thereafter some of the people spoke about her due to that and didn't realize that he was emasculated until it was made known on the basis that we are going to clarify shortly insha'Allah.

And as for the mule, the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, used to ride it and from what is apparent – And Allah (SWT) knows best – it is the one that he rode in battle on the Day of Hunain. The mule grew old and lived long; it was even with 'Ali Ibn Abu Talib in the days of his reign and when he died it was with 'Abdullah Ibn Ja'far Ibn Abu Talib and grew old and wheat was ground for it to eat.

And from the wives is Raihanah Bint Zaid from the tribe of An-Nadeer and it is also said that she was from the tribe of Quraizah. Az-Zuhri narrated: The Messenger of Allah captured Raihanah from the tribe of Quraizah, then he freed her so she returned to her family.

Qatadah said: The Messenger of Allah had two slave girls, Mariyah Qibtiyyah and Rubaiyah – or Raihanah – Bint Sham‘oon Ibn Zaid Ibn Khunafah from the tribe of ‘Amr Ibn Quraizah. She was with the son of her uncle called ‘Abdul-Hakam, according to what reached me and died before the Prophet.

A Mention of His Children (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

There is no difference of opinion that all of his children were from Khadeejah Bint Khuwailid with the exception of Ibraheem; he was from Mariyah Bint Sham‘oon Qibtiyyah.

Ibn Abbas he said: The oldest of the Messenger of Allah’s offspring was Al-Qasim, then Zainab, then ‘Abdullah, then Umm Kulthoom, then Fatimah and then Ruqayyah. Al-Qasim died and he was the first of his children to die in Makkah, thereafter ‘Abdullah died.

Mariyah gave birth to Ibraheem in Madinah in Dhul-Hijjah in the 8th year after the Hijrah, and he died when he was 18 months old.

Abul-‘As Ibn Ar-Rabee‘ married Zainab and she gave birth to ‘Ali and Umamah from him. She is the one that the Messenger of Allah used to carry her in the prayer, when he would prostrate he would put her down and when he would stand up, he would carry her. And maybe that was after the death of her mother in the Year 8 after the Hijrah, based on what Al-Waqidi, Qatadah, ‘Abdullah Ibn Abu Bakr Ibn Hazm and others have mentioned. And it is as though she was a young child. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib (May Allah be pleased with him) married her after the death of Fatimah based on what is to come insha’Allah. And the death of Zainab was in Year 8 A. H.. Qatadah mentioned it from ‘Abdullah Ibn Abu Bakr Ibn Hazm, Khaleefah Ibn Khayyat, Abu Bakr Ibn Abu Khaithamah and others. Qatadah said from Ibn Hazm: in the beginning of the 8th year A.H. Hammad Ibn Salamah mentioned from Hisham Ibn ‘Urwah from his father that when she was migrating a man pushed her so she fell on a rock and had a miscarriage. She remained ill till she died, thereafter they believed that she died as a martyr.

As for Ruqayyah, the son of her paternal uncle ‘Utbah Ibn Abu Lahab, married her first just as his brother ‘Utaibah Ibn Abu Lahab married Umm Kulthoom. Thereafter they divorced before entering upon them out of hatred of the Messenger of Allah when Allah (SWT) revealed:

*“Perish the two hands of Abu Lahab, and perish he! His wealth and his children will not benefit him! He will be burned in a Fire of blazing flames! And his wife too, who carries wood (thorns of Sa’dan which she used to put on the way of the Prophet), or use to slander him). In her neck is a twisted rope of Masad
(palm fiber) (Soorah Masad: 1-5)*

Then ‘Uthman Ibn ‘Affan (May Allah be pleased with him) married Ruqayyah and migrated with her to Abyssinia and it is said that he was the first to migrate there. Thereafter, they returned to Makkah as we mentioned earlier and then migrated to Madinah. She gave birth to his son ‘Abdullah who reached

6 years of age, then a rooster pecked him in his eyes and he died. He was nicknamed by him initially (Abu ‘Abdullah), thereafter he was nicknamed with his son (son’s name) ‘Amr and he died when the Messenger of Allah was victorious in Badr, the Day of Criterion, the day the two parties met. And when the bringer of good news - who was Zaid Ibn Harithah – came to Madinah he found that they had just leveled the soil on her grave.

‘Uthman had stayed behind to nurse her by the command of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, and the Prophet gave him his share and reward (from the war booty). Thereafter he married her sister Umm Kulthoom also to him upon his return and for this reason he was known as the “possessor of two lights”. She died in Sha‘ban in Year 9 A.H. and didn’t have any children from him. The Messenger of Allah said: “If I had a third (daughter) I would have indeed married her to ‘Uthman.” And in another narration the Messenger of Allah said: “If they were 10 (daughters) I would have indeed married them to ‘Uthman.” As for Fatimah, she was married to the son of her paternal uncle - ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib - in Safar Year 2 A.H. She gave birth to Al-Hasan and Al-Husain - and it is said Muhsin (also) - and she gave birth to Umm Kulthoom and Zainab from him. ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab indeed married Umm Kulthoom Bint ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib in the era of his reign, from Fatimah and was extremely generous to her. He gave her 40,000 Dirhams (in dowry) due to her lineage from the Messenger of Allah. Then she gave birth to Zaid Ibn ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab from him. When ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab was killed the son of her paternal uncle ‘Awn Ibn Ja‘far married her after him and died while (married) to her. Then his brother ‘Abdullah Ibn Ja‘far succeeded him then she died while (married) to him.

Then ‘Abdullah Ibn Ja‘far married her sister Zainab Bint ‘Ali from Fatimah and she also died while married to him. Fatimah passed away six months after the Messenger of Allah based on the most authentic opinions and this is affirmed from ‘A’ishah, the Mother of the Believers, in the Saheeh.

As for Ibraheem, he was from Mariyah Qibtiyyah as we have mentioned, and his date of birth was in Dhul-Hijjah, Year 8 A.H. Anas Ibn Malik narrated: “If Ibraheem, the son of the Prophet, was to live he would have been a truthful prophet.” Abu Ya‘la narrated from Anas: “I didn’t see anyone more merciful to the children than the Messenger of Allah. Ibraheem was fed in ‘Awali of Madinah. And he would go while we were with him, then enter the house and it would indeed be smoky and the husband of the feeder was a blacksmith. So he would take him and kiss him, and then return.” ‘Amr said: “When Ibraheem passed away the Messenger of Allah said: “Verily Ibraheem is my son and he died on my chest. And he indeed has breast feeders who will complete his feeding in paradise.” And Al-Waqidi said: “Ibraheem, the son of the Messenger of Allah, passed away on Tuesday after 10 days had passed from Rabee‘ ul-Awwal in Year 10 A.H. when he was 18 months old in the tribe of Banu Mazin Ibn An-Najjar in the house of Umm Burdah Bint Al-Mundhir, and was buried in Al-Baqee’.”

I say: We previously mentioned that the sun eclipsed the day he died. The people said: It has eclipsed for the death of Ibraheem. On hearing this the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, said in his sermon: “Verily, the sun and the moon are two signs from the Signs of Allah, the Greatest and Almighty. They do not eclipse for the death of anyone nor his death.”

A Mention of His Slave Boys and Slave Girls. And a Mention of His Workers and Entrusted Scribes (of Qur’anic Verses)

They are presented here in alphabetical order of their names and a mention of some of their stories. Let us mention what he mentioned with some additions and deductions.

From them:

Usamah Ibn Zaid Ibn Harithah from the adopted children of the Messenger of Allah Abu Zaid Al-Kalbi and it is said: Abu Yazeed, and it is said: Abu Muhammad the adopted child of the Messenger of Allah and son of his adopted child, his beloved and son of his beloved.

His mother was Umm Aiman, her name was Barakah and she was the nursemaid of the Messenger of Allah in his youth and from the first of those who believed in him after his Prophethood. The Messenger of Allah made Zaid in command in the last days of his life when he was 18 or 19 years old. And he passed away when he was the leader of a big army.

When the Messenger of Allah entrusted Zaid Ibn Harith with the flag of leadership some of the people objected to his choice. So the Messenger of Allah addressed and said in his speech: “If you defame his leadership then you have indeed defamed the leadership of his father before. And by Allah he indeed has the characteristics for leadership and he was indeed from the most beloved of the creation to me and indeed this (person) is from the most beloved of creation to me after him.” And it is in the Saheeh from the Hadith of Moosa Ibn Uqbah from Salim, from his father.

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Al-Bukhari that Usamah (May Allah be pleased with him) narrated: The Messenger of Allah would take me and Al-Hasan and would say: “O Allah, I indeed love them so love them.”

This is the reason that when ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab distributed some money to people he also allocated to Usamah some money and allocated to his son ‘Abdullah Ibn ‘Umar some amount. When he was asked about it, he replied: “Indeed he was more beloved to the Messenger of Allah than you and his father was more beloved to the Messenger of Allah than your father.” Narrated by Usamah: “Verily, the Messenger of Allah placed him behind him on a donkey laden with velvet when he went to visit Sa’d Ibn ‘Ubadah before the Battle of Badr.”

From them was Aslam and it is said, Ibraheem and it has been mentioned, Thabit.

And it is mentioned Hurmuz Abu Rafi‘ Al-Qibti.

He accepted Islam before Badr and did not take part in it because he was with his masters in Makkah - the family of Al-‘Abbas. Thereafter, he migrated and took part in Uhud and (the battles) after it. He was a writer (of Qur’anic Verses and letters) and wrote for ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib in Al-Kufah as Al-Mufaddal Ibn Ghassan Al-Ghallabi mentioned. And he participated in the conquest of Egypt in the days of ‘Umar. He was initially owned by the family of Al-‘Abbas Ibn ‘Abdul-Muttalib, then Al-‘Abbas gave him to the Prophet and freed him, then married him to his freed slave Salma. She gave birth to several children and he used to carry things for the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

And from them Anasah Ibn Badah Abu Misrah and he is nicknamed Abu Masrooh from MuwalladisSarat Muhajiri.

He took part in Badr according to what ‘Urwah, Az- Zuhri, Moosa Ibn Uqbah, Muhammad Ibn Ishaq and Al-Bukhari mentioned. They said: He was from those (guards) who would (be asked permission to) let people enter on the Prophet when he sat.

And from them was Aiman Ibn ‘Ubaid Ibn Zaid Al-Habashi and his lineage is Ibn Mandah to Awf Ibn Al-Khazraj and there is doubt in it. He is the son of Umm Aiman Barakah, the maternal brother of Usamah.

And from them is Badham.

And from them was Thawban Ibn Bujdud and it is said, Ibn Jahdar Abu Abdullah and it is said, Abu Abdul-Kareem and it is (also) said, Abu Abdur- Rahman (was his name).

His origin is from As-Sarat (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) an area between Makkah and Yemen. And it is mentioned from Himyar from the people of Yemen. And it is also said, from Al-Han and it is said, from Hakam Ibn Sa’d Al-‘Asheerah from Madh-hij he was enslaved in the pre-Islamic period of ignorance. The Messenger of Allah bought him then freed him, and gave him a choice that if he willed he could return to his family or if he willed he could remain and be considered from the household (of the Prophet). So he remained upon being adopted by the Messenger of Allah and he did not depart from him whether on a journey or not until the Messenger of Allah passed away. And he participated in the conquest of Egypt in the days of ‘Umar and settled in Hims after that and built a house there. He remained there until he died in the Year 54 A.H. and it is also said Year 44 A.H. which is an error. It is mentioned that he died in Egypt and the correct (opinion) in Hims as we mentioned. And Allah (SWT) knows best. Al-Bukhari narrated from him in the Book of Manners, Muslim in his Saheeh and the authors of the Four Sunan.

And from them was Hunain, a freed slave of the Messenger of Allah, and he was the grandfather of Ibraheem Ibn ‘Abdullah Ibn Hunain.

We narrated that he used to serve the Prophet and pour (the water for) his ablution. When the Prophet would finish he would exit with the leftover from his ablution to his Companions, then from them were those who would drink from it and from them were those who would wipe themselves with it. Then (on one occasion) Hunain held it back and hid it in a jar until they complained about him to the Prophet, so he said to him: “What do you do with it?” He replied: “I store it (and) I drink it, O Messenger of Allah.” The Prophet said: “Have you seen a servant who calculated what he calculated?” Thereafter the Prophet gave him to Al-‘Abbas, who later freed him.

And from them was Dhakwan. His mention will come in the biography of Tahman.

And from them was Rafi‘ or Abu Rafi‘. He is also known as, Abul-Bahiyy.

Abu Bakr Ibn Abu Khaithamah said he belonged to Abu Uhaihah Sa‘eed Ibn Al-‘As Al-Akbar. His sons inherited him and three of them freed their share. And he participated with them on the day of Badr and the three were killed. Thereafter Abu Rafi‘ bought the shares of the rest of the children of Sa‘eed, his freed slave, except for the share of Khalid Ibn

Sa‘eed. Then Khalid gave his share to the Messenger of Allah he accepted it and freed him. And he would say: “I am the freed slave of the Messenger of Allah” and his sons after him would also say that.

And from them Rabah Al-Aswad. He was to guard the Messenger of Allah’s sittings.

He was the one who got permission for ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab to enter upon the Messenger of Allah in the place of drinking when he vowed to not come near his wives (‘Eela’ a type of divorce in Islam).

And from them was Ruwaifi‘, his adopted child – may peace be upon him. Similarly, Mus‘ab Ibn Abdullah Az-Zubairi and Abu Bakr Ibn Abu Khaithamah counted him from his freed slaves. They said: His son came to ‘Umar Ibn ‘Abdul-Azeez in the days of his Caliphate and allocated for him (money/provisions) and he had no children.

I say: ‘Umar Ibn ‘Abdul-Azeez used to take great care of the adopted children of the Messenger of Allah; he would love to get to know them and be good to them. And he wrote in the days of his Caliphate to Abu Bakr Ibn Hazm, the scholar of Madinah, during his time that he should search for the freed slaves of the Messenger of Allah.

And from them: Zaid Ibn Harithah Al-Kalbi. We have already mentioned something about him in the mention of his death in the Battle of Mu’tah in the month of Jumada of the Year 8 A.H. before the Conquest (of Makkah) by a few months. And he was the leader at the forefront, then after him Ja‘far, then after them ‘Abdullah Ibn Rawaha (May Allah be pleased with him)

And from them is Zaid Abu Yasar.

Abu'l-Qasim Al-Baghawi said in Biography of the Companions, that he lived in Madinah, and narrated one Hadith, I don't know of any other. He heard the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, say: "Whoever says I seek forgiveness from Allah, there is no god worthy of worship except Him, the Ever Living, the Sustainer, and I repent to him", he will be forgiven, even if he had fled the battlefield.

And from them was Safeenah Abu 'Abdur- Rahman, and it is said his name was Abul-Bakhtari, Mihran and also Abas. It is also said that he was called Ahmar and Rooman. Then the Messenger of Allah named him Safeenah - for a reason which we will mention - and it became popular.

He was the slave of Umm Salamah, then she freed him and stipulated upon him that he should serve the Messenger of Allah until he dies, so he accepted that and said: "If you had not stipulated upon me I (still) wouldn't have left him, and this Hadith is in "the four Sunan (Sunan Abu Dawood, An-Nasa'i, AtTirmidhi and Ibn Majah)." He was from the Muwalladi Arabs and his origin is from the sons of Persia, he was called Safeenah Ibn Marfannah.

Ahmad narrated from Sa'eed Ibn Jumhan, Safeenah informed me: The Messenger of Allah said, "The Caliphate in my nation is for 30 years, then kingship after it." Then Safeenah said to me: Calculate the Caliphate of Abu Bakr, and the Caliphate of 'Umar, and the Caliphate of 'Uthman and calculate the Caliphate of 'Ali; we found it to be 30 years. Thereafter I looked after that at the Caliphs and didn't find that they had 30 years between them. I said to Sa'eed: Where did you meet Safeenah? He replied: In Batn Nakhlah in the era of Al-Hajjaj. I stayed with him for three nights asking him about the Ahadeeth of the Messenger of Allah g.

I asked him: What is your name? He replied: I am not going to tell you, the Messenger of Allah named me Safeenah. I said: And why did he name you Safeenah? He replied: The Messenger of Allah exited and his Companions were with him, when their provisions became too heavy for them, then he said to me: “Open your cloth.” So I opened it, then they placed their provisions in it. Thereafter they placed it on me, then the Messenger of Allah said to me, “Carry for you are only but a ship (Safeenah in Arabic).” So if I were to carry on that day the burden of a camel, or two camels, or three, or four, or five, or six or seven it wouldn’t be heavy for me unless they were to turn away.

And from them: Salman Al-Farisi, Abu ‘Abdullah the freed slave of Islam.

His origin was from Persia and his circumstances changed until he was owned by a man from the Jews in Madinah. When the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, migrated to Madinah, Salman embraced Islam, and the Messenger of Allah commanded him to make a contract of Mukatabah (a contract of manumission between a master and a slave according to which the slave is required to pay a certain sum of money during a specific time period in exchange for freedom) to his Jewish master. The Messenger of Allah helped him to fulfill the payments he was indebted for, so he was attributed to him. And he said, “Salman is from us people of the household (of the Prophet).”

We have already mentioned the description of his migration from his country and companionship with monks, one after the other until a series of events brought him to Madinah. We have also dealt with the description of his embracing Islam – may Allah be pleased with him – in the beginning of the Prophet’s migration to Madinah. His death was in Year 35 A.H. in the last days of ‘Uthman’s reign, or in the beginning of Year 36 A.H. It is said that he died in the last days of ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab and the first is more common.

Al-‘Abbas Ibn Yazeed Al-Bahrani said: The people of knowledge would not doubt that he lived for 250 years, and they differed in what was greater than that up until 350 (years). Some of the later memorizers claimed that he didn’t pass 100 (years). And Allah (SWT) knows best.

And from them Shuqran Al-Habashi; his name was Saleh Ibn ‘Adiyy. The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, inherited him from his father. Mus‘ab Az-Zubairi and Muhammad Ibn Sa’d said: He belonged to ‘Abdur-Rahman Ibn ‘Awf, then he granted him to the Prophet.

And from them was Dumairah Ibn Abu Dumairah Al-Himyari. He was enslaved during the Jahiliyyah, then the Prophet bought him and freed him, according to Mus‘ab Az-Zubairi. He said: He had a house at Al- Baqee‘ and a child.

And from them was Tahman. It is said (that his name was) Dhakwan. He was also called Mihran, Maimoon, Kaisan and Badham.

And from them: ‘Ubaid the freed slave of the Prophet.

And from them: Fadalal, the freed slave of the Prophet as Muhammad Ibn Sa’d mentioned. And from them: Qafeez. The beginning of it is (Arabic letter) “Qaf” and the end of it is (Arabic letter) “Zay”. Anas he said: The Messenger of Allah had a servant called: Qafeez.

And from them Kirkirah. He was entrusted with the Prophet's belongings in some of his battles. Abu Bakr Ibn Hazm mentioned it in what he wrote to 'Umar Ibn 'Abdul-'Azeez.

And from them was Ma'boor Al-Qibtī, the emasculated slave. The Viceroy of Alexandria gave him as a gift to the Prophet along with Mariyah, Seereen and a mule. And we mentioned part of it in the biography of Mariyah which is sufficient.

And from them: Mid'am, and he was black man from Muwalladi Hisma. Rifa'ah Ibn Zaid Al-Judhami gave him as a gift. He was killed in the lifetime of the Prophet and that was upon their return from Khaibar. When they reached Wadiy ul-Qura, while Mid'am was removing the saddle from the she-camel of the Messenger of Allah, a stray arrow hit and killed him.

And from them Mihran and it is said: Tahman, and he is the one whom Umm Kulthoom Bint 'Ali narrated from the impermissibility of giving charity to the Banu Hashim tribe and their freed slaves as was mentioned.

And from them: Maimoon.

And from them: Nafi'.

And from them was Nufai'. He was also called Masrooh and Nufai' Ibn Masrooh. His correct name was Nufai' Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Kaadah Ibn Amr Ibn 'Ilaj Ibn Abu Salamah Ibn 'Abdul-'Uzza Ibn Ghiyarah Ibn 'Awf Ibn Qusayy.

He was Thaqeef Abu Bakr Ath-Thaqafi and his mother was Sumayyah Umm Ziyad. He and a group of the slaves descended from the wall of At-Ta'if. Then the Messenger of Allah freed them and stopped at a place called Bakrah so the Messenger of Allah called him Abu Bakrah. Abu Nu‘aim said: He was a righteous man. The Messenger of Allah created brotherhood between him and Abu Barzah Al-Aslami (a rule which was changed shortly afterward which was making Mu‘akhat (brotherhood) between the Muhajiroon and the Ansar that enabled them to inherit from each other).

I say: He is the one who prayed the funeral prayer upon him due to his will. Abu Bakrah didn’t participate in the Battle of the Camel, or the Days of Siffeen (the two battles between ‘Ali and the other group of Muslims who opposed him). His death was in Year 51 A.H. or Year 52 A.H.

And from them: Waqid or Abu Waqid, the freed slave of the Messenger of Allah.

And from them: Hurmuz Abu Kaisan, It is also said Hurmuz or Kaisan. He was also known as Tamhan.

And from them: Hisham, the freed slave of the Prophet.

And from them: Yasar. It is said that he was the one who the Aal-‘Uraniyyoon killed and they had mutilated him.

And from them: Abul-Hamra’, freed slave of the Prophet and his servant. He was also called Hilal Ibn AlHarith, Ibn Zafar and Hilal Ibn Al-Harith Ib Zafar As-Sulami. He was enslaved during Jahiliyyah.

And from them: Abu Sulma, the Prophet’s shepherd; he was called Abu Sallam and his name was Huraith.

And from them: Abu Safiyyah, the freed slave of the Prophet.

And from them: Abu Dumairah, the freed slave of the Prophet, the father of Dumairah mentioned earlier, and the husband of Umm Dumairah.

And from them: Abu ‘Ubaid, his freed slave

And from them: Abu ‘Aseeb, and from them (scholars) are those who say Abu ‘Aseem, and the first is the correct opinion. There are some scholars who made a differentiation between them. And it has been mentioned earlier that he witnessed the prayer on the Prophet and attended his burial, and he narrated the story of Al-Mugheerah Ibn Shu‘bah.

And from them: Abu Kabshah Al-‘Anmari from ‘Anmar Madhhij based on the renowned opinion. Mawla (freed slave) of the Prophet.

There are several other opinions regarding his name, the most famous of them is that his name was Sulaim. He was also called ‘Amr Ibn Sa‘d. His origin was from Muwalladi, the land of Daws (tribe). And he is from those who participated in Badr (as) Moosa Ibn ‘Uqbah mentioned from Az-Zuhri. Ibn Ishaq, Al-Bukhari, Al-Waqidi, Mus‘ab Az-Zubairi and Abu Bakr Ibn Abu Khaithamah also mentioned it.

Al-Waqidi added: He participated in Uhud and the battles which came after it, and he died the day ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab was appointed Caliph and that was on Tuesday with 8 days left from Jumadal-Akhirah, Year 13 A.H. And from them: Abu Muwaihibah, the freed slave of the Prophet g. He was from Muwalladi Muzainah. The Messenger of Allah purchased him and then freed him, and his name is unknown. Abu Mus‘ab Az-Zubairi said: Abu Muwaihibah fought at Al-Muraisee’, and he was the one who guided ‘Aishah’s camel for her.

And from them was Amatullah Bint Razeenah. And the correct (opinion) is that her mother Razeenah was the Companion of the Messenger of Allah.

And from them: Barakah Umm Aiman and Umm Usamah Ibn Zaid Ibn Harithah, and she was Barakah Bint Tha‘labah Ibn Amr Ibn Husain Ibn Malik Ibn Salamah Ibn Amr Ibn An-Nu‘man Al-Habashiyyah.

She was known by her nickname, Umm Aiman,; Aiman was her son from her first husband ‘Ubaid Ibn Zaid Al-Habashi. Then Zaid Ibn Harithah married her after him, whereupon she gave birth to Usamah Ibn Zaid from him and she was known as Ummuz-Ziba’. She made two Hijrahs (Abyssinia and Madinah) and she was the nursemaid of the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, with his mother Aminah Bint Wabb.

She was from those who the Messenger of Allah inherited from his father as Al-Waqidi stated. And others mentioned: Rather he inherited her from his mother, and it has been said that she belonged to Khadeejah’s sister, then she gave her as a gift to the Messenger of Allah and she believed from the start and migrated and lived after the Prophet. We have previously mentioned the visit Abu Bakr and ‘Umar paid her after the death of the Prophet and she burst into tears, so they said to her: Do you not know indeed that which is better for the Messenger of Allah? So she replied: Indeed, however, I cry because the revelation has ceased from the sky, thereafter they began to cry with her.

And from them: Khadirah, Ibn Mandah mentioned her.

And from them: Khulaisah Mawla Hafsa Bint ‘Umar Ibn Al-Khattab.

And from them: Khawlah, the servant of the Prophet.

And from them: Razeenah. Ibn ‘Asakir said: The correct (opinion) is that she belonged to Safiyyah Bint Huyayy, and she would serve the Prophet.

I say: It has been mentioned previously in the biography of her daughter, Amatullah, that the Prophet, may peace be upon him, gave Safiyyah Bint Huyayy her mother Razeenah as dowry. So on this basis her origin would be that she belonged to him.

And from them: Radwa.

And from them: Raihanah Bint Sham‘oon Al-Qurziyyah and it has been said: An-Nadariyyah, and she was mentioned previously after his wives.

And from them: Zareenah. The correct (opinion) is Razeenah as was mentioned previously.

And from them: Sa’ibah, Mawla of the Messenger of Allah.

And from them Sadeesah Al-Ansariyyah, and it has been said: Mawlat of Hafsa Bint ‘Umar.

And from them: Salamah, the nursemaid of Ibrahim, son of the Messenger of Allah.

And from them: Salma. She was Umm Rafi‘, the wife of Abu Rafi‘.

I say: It has been narrated that she would cook Al-Hareerah for the Prophet and it would please him. She lived until after his death – and witnessed the death of Fatimah. She initially belonged to Safiyyah Bint ‘Abdul-Muttalib, his paternal aunt, then she came in possession of the Messenger of Allah. She was the midwife for the children of Fatimah. to She was also the one who was a midwife for Ibrahim, the son of the Messenger of Allah,. She witnessed the washing of Fatimah (when she died) and washed her with her husband ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib, and Asma Bint Umais, the wife of As-Siddiq.

And from them: Sheereen. It is said that Sheereen the sister of Mariyah Al-Qibtiyyah, the maternal aunt of Ibrahim.

We have mentioned that Al-Muqawqis was the Viceroy of Alexandria and his name was Juraij Ibn Meena. He granted them along with a slave called Ma’boor and a mule called Ad-Duldul. Thereafter the Messenger of Allah granted her to Hassan Ibn Thabit and she gave birth to his son Abdur-Rahman Ibn Hassan.

And from them: ‘Unqoodah Umm Sabeeh Al- Habashiyyah, the servant of ‘Aishah. Her name was ‘Inabah (grape), then the Messenger of Allah named her bunch (of grapes), Abu Nu‘aim narrated it. It is also said her name was Ghufairah. Farwah the wet nurse of the Prophet, i.e., his suckling mother, Fiddah An-Noobiyyah, Laila Mawlat ‘Aishah.

Mariyah Al-Qibtiyyah the mother of Ibrahim. She has been mentioned with the Mothers of the Believers. And Ibn Atheer made a differentiation between her and Mariyah Ummur-Rabab. He said: She also was a slave girl of the Prophet.

And from them: Maimoonah Bint Sa‘d.

And from them: Maimoonah Bint Abu Anbasah or Bint Anbasah, (as) Abu Umar and Ibn Mandah said. Abu Nu‘aim said: It is a writing error and Maimoonah Bint Abu ‘Aseeb is correct.

And from them: Umm Dumairah, the wife of Abu Dumairah, and they have already been mentioned.

And from them: Umm Ayyash, the Messenger of Allah sent her with his daughter in order to help her when he married her to ‘Uthman Ibn ‘Affan.

So these are his female slaves - may Allah be pleased with them. Thumamah Ibn Hazn narrated: I asked ‘Aishah about An-Nabeedh (a drink made from dates). She replied: This is the servant of the Messenger of Allah so ask her – (pointing) a Habashiyyah slave girl. She said: I used to make Nabeedh for the Messenger of Allah in a water skin in the evening, and then covered it. When he would wake up in the morning he would drink from it.

This is how the people who wrote Atraf (the starting words of Ahadeeth) mentioned it in the collection of ‘Aishah (‘Aishah’s narrations). And it is more befitting for it to be mentioned in the collection of the Habashiyyah slave girl who served the Prophet, and she is either from those we mentioned or additional to what we mentioned. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Those Who Served Him from the Companions Other Than His Mawali (Freed Slaves)

From them is Anas Ibn Malik Ibn An-Nadr Ibn Damdam Ibn Zaid Ibn Haram Ibn Jundub Ibn Asim Ibn Ghanm Ibn ‘Adiyy Ibn An-Najjar Al-Ansari Al-Najjari Abu Hamzah Al-Madani, inhabitant of Basrah. He served the Messenger of Allah for the period of his stay in Madinah for 10 years. The Prophet didn’t even once scorn him for something he did, nor did he say about anything whatever he did. And his mother was Umm Sulaim Bint Milhan Ibn Khalid Ibn Zaid Ibn Haram. She is the one who gave him to the Messenger of Allah and he accepted him, and asked him to pray for him. He said: “O Allah increase his wealth, his children, lengthen his life and admit him into Paradise.” Anas said: I saw two (matters) and I am waiting for the third. By Allah, I have a lot of wealth, and my children and grandchildren exceed 100.

And in a narration, “And my vineyard harvests twice a year. And my children from my backbone are 106.” There is a difference of opinion over his participation in Badr. Al-Ansari narrated from his father, from Thumamah that he said, “It was said to Anas: Did you participate in Badr? He replied, “And where can I be absent from Badr? You have no mother (a type of taunt in Arabic).” That which is well-known is that he didn’t participate in Badr due to his young age, and he didn’t participate in Uhud also for that reason. And he participated in Hudaibiyah, Khaibar, Umratul-Qada’, the Conquest (of Makkah), Hunain, Ta’if and that which followed.

Abu Hurairah said, “I have not seen anyone more similar in prayer to the Messenger of Allah than Ibn Umm Sulaim - i.e. Anas Ibn Malik.”

Ibn Seereen said, “He was the best of the people in prayer, on his journey and while stationary.” He died in Basrah and he is the last of those who remained there from the Companions according to what ‘Ali Ibn Al-Madeeni mentioned and that is in Year 90 A.H. and it has also been said 91 A.H. It has also been said 92 A.H. and it has been said 93 A.H., which is the most well-known and what the majority (of the scholars) were upon. As for his age the day he died, Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad from Humaid that Anas lived for 99 years. The least of what has been mentioned is 96 years and the most that has been mentioned is 107 years and it has also been said variously 106 and 103 years. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

And from them: Al-Asla‘ Ibn Shareek Ibn ‘Awf Al-A‘raji. Muhammad Ibn Sa‘d said: His name was Maimoon Ibn Sinbadh.

And from them: Asma’ Ibn Harithah Ibn Sa‘eed Ibn Abdullah Ibn Ghiyath Ibn Sa‘d Ibn ‘Amr Ibn ‘Amir Ibn Tha‘labah Ibn Malik Ibn Afsa Al-Aslami and he was from the People of Suffah (as) Muhammad Ibn Sa‘d has mentioned. And he is the brother of Hind Ibn Harithah from the servants of the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, apart from his Mawali, and they would serve the Prophet.

Muhammad Ibn Sa‘d said: Asma’ Ibn Harithah died in the Year 66 A.H. in Basrah at 80 years of age.

And from them: Bilal Ibn Rabah Al-Habashi. He was born in Makkah, and he was a freed slave of Umayyah bin Khalaf. Abu Bakr bought him for a big amount of money because Umayyah would give him a severe punishment in refusing to apostate from the religion of Islam and he refused to accept any other religion except Islam - may Allah be pleased with him. Abu Bakr bought him and then freed. Thereafter, he migrated with other people and participated in the battles of Badr and Uhud and the battles after them, may Allah be pleased with him.

He was also known as Bilal Ibn Hamamah whereas Hamamah was his mother. He was from the most eloquent of people, contrary to what people believe that his (pronunciation of the Arabic letter) Seen was Sheen, to the extent that some people narrate a Hadith that has no basis from the Messenger of Allah that he indeed said, “Verily, the Seen of Bilal is a Sheen.”

He was one of the four Mu’adhdhins account of which is going to come. He was the first to pronounce the Adhan as we mentioned and he was in charge of spending on children and he had a sum of money that was with him (all the time). When the Messenger of Allah passed away he was from those who went to Ash-Sham for battle. And it has been mentioned He established the Adhan for Abu Bakr during the days of his Caliphate and the first is more authentic and renowned.

Al-Waqidi said: He died in Damascus in the Year 20 A.H. and he was over 60 years old. Al-Fallas said: In Ash-Sham, his grave is in Darayya. And it is also said that he died in Halab. The truth is that the one who died in Halab was his brother Khalid. Makhool said: Someone who saw Bilal informed me that he was very tanned, thin, little flesh on his cheeks, he had lots of hair and he wouldn’t dye his white hair.

And from them: Bukair bin ash-Shaddakh al-Laithi. Ibn Mandah mentioned it.

And from them: Habbah and Sawa’, the two sons of Khalid.

And from them: Dhu Mikhmar and he has also been called Dhu Mikhbar. He was the son of the brother of Abyssinian King Najashi. He is also known as the son of his sister. However, the first is correct. He sent him to serve the Messenger of Allah as a substitute for himself.

And from them: Rabee'ah bin Ka'b al-Aslami, Abu Firas.

And from them: Sa'd Mawla Abu Bakr As-Siddiq (May Allah be pleased with him) He is also known as the Mawla of the Prophet.

And from them: Abdullah bin Rawahah; he entered Makkah on the day of Umratul-Qada' while leading the she-camel of the Messenger of Allah and he was saying:

“Eradicate the sons of the disbelievers from his path,

Today we will hit you upon its (Qur'an's) interpretation

Just as we struck you upon its revelation a blow

That will remove the head of the arrow shaft

And will occupy the close friend from his close friend.”

And Abdullah bin Rawahah was killed months after this on the day of (battle) Mu'tah as was mentioned previously.

And from them: Abdullah bin Mas'ood - the servant of the Prophet, peace be upon him - bin Ghafil bin Habeeb bin Shamkh Abu Abdur- Rahman al-Hudhali, one of the Imams of the Companions: He made two Hijrahs and participated in the Battle of Badr and that which followed it. He would carry the sandals of the Prophet, assist him in his ablution and prepare his riding animal if he wished to ride. He had the longest hand in explaining (Tafseer) of the words of Allah and he had immense knowledge, grace and tolerance.

In a Hadith the Messenger of Allah said to his Companions when they were astonished by the thinness of his shins: “By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, they are heavier than Mount Uhud on the scales (that weighs good deeds and bad deeds).” And Umar ‘bin Khattab said concerning Ibn Mas‘ood: He is a vessel filled with knowledge. And it is said that he was of a thin stature and had good manners.

And it is said: He would cause the seated to have good conduct when he walked, and he was similar to the Prophet in his guidance, mannerisms and conduct, i.e., he would be similar to the Prophet in his actions, stillness and speech. He would emulate and copy his worship according to his ability. He died in the days of ‘Uthman in the Year 32 A.H. or 33 A.H. in Madinah at 63 years of age, and it has also been said that he died in Kufah, and the first (opinion) is more correct.

And from them: Uqbah bin Amir al-Juhani.

And from them: Qais bin Sa‘d bin Ubadah al-Ansari al-Khazraji.

And from them: Al-Mugheerah bin Shu‘bah ath-Thaqafi. He was like a bodyguard in the presence of the Messenger of Allah as he stood at the head of the Prophet raising a sword in his hand in the tent on the Day of Al-Hudaibiyah. Everytime his paternal uncle Urwah bin Mas‘ood ath-Thaqafi would come close to the beard of the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him - according to the tradition of the Arabs in their speech – he would hit his hand with the edge of the sword and say: Move your hand from the beard of the Messenger of Allah before it (your hand) doesn't return to you.

Muhammad bin Sa'd and others said: He participated in all the battles with the Messenger of Allah and he made him in charge along with Abu Sufyan when they went and destroyed the idol of the people of Ta'if called "Rabbah" or al-Lat. He was considered clever from amongst the cleverest Arabs. Ash-Sha'bi said I heard him say: Nobody [has] ever defeated me. And ash-Sha'bi said: I heard Qabeesah bin Jabir say: I accompanied al-Mugheerah bin Shu'bah and if there was a city with eight gates that nobody could leave except by extensive planning, he would have left from its gates. Ash-Sha'bi also said: The judges are four: Abu Bakr, Umar, Ibn Mas'ood, and Abu Moosa. And the intelligent men were four: Mu'awiyah, Amr bin al-As, al-Mugheerah and Ziyad. Az-Zuhri said: The intelligent men were five: Mu'awiyah, 'Amr, al-Mugheerah and two with Ali and they were; Qais bin Sa'd bin Ubadah and Abdullah bin Budail bin Warqa'.

Imam Malik said: Al-Mugheerah bin Shu'bah was a man who would often marry women and he would say: The one who has one (wife) if she menstruates then he also menstruates with her and if she is ill then he becomes ill with her. And the one who has two is between two burning fires. He said: So he would marry four and divorce them together. And others said: He married 80 women and it is also said 300 women. And it has also been mentioned that he married 1,000 women. The date of his death has been differed over with many varying opinions, the most renowned and correct of them was the one al-Khateeb al-Baghdadi mentioned a consensus upon that he died in the Year 50 A.H.

And from them: al- Miqdad bin al-Aswad Abu Ma‘bad al-Kindi [tribe] ally of the tribe Zuhrah.

And from them: Muhajir Mawla Umm Salamah.

And from them: Abus-Samh.

And from them was the best of the Companions in totality, Abu Bakr As-Siddiq. He served him out of his own accord in the journey of the Hijrah, especially in the cave and after they left it, until they reached Madinah as has been extensively mentioned previously and for Allah is all praise and grace.

Writers of the Revelation

From them were the four Caliphs: Abu Bakr, ‘Umar, ‘Uthman and ‘Ali Ibn Abu Talib, may Allah be pleased with them all.

And from them: Aban bin Sa‘eed bin al-As bin Umayyah bin Abd Shams bin Abd Manaf bin Qusayy alUmawi. He embraced Islam after his two brothers Khalid and ‘Amr. He is the one who safeguarded Uthman when the Messenger of Allah sent him to the people of Makkah on the Day of al-Hudaibiyah. It is also said that it was at Khaibar because he is mentioned in the Saheeh from the Hadith of Abu Hurairah in the distribution of the war booty of Khaibar.

The reason for his acceptance of Islam was that he met with a monk when he was on business in Sham. He explained to him the affair of the Messenger of Allah. The monk asked: What is his name? He replied Muhammad. He said: I will describe him to you; then he described him with his exact description and said: When you return to your family, give him the greeting (salam), thereafter, he embraced Islam upon returning. He was the brother of ‘Amr bin Sa‘eed al- Ashdaq the one who was killed by Abdul-Malik bin Marwan.

Abu Bakr bin Abu Shaibah said: The first to write the revelation (Qur’an) during the time of the Messenger of Allah was Ubayy bin Ka‘b and if he was not in attendance then Zaid bin Thabit would write. And Uthman, Khalid bin Sa‘eed and ‘Aban bin Sa‘eed (also) wrote for him. This is what the Prophet dictated, i.e. in Madinah. As for the Makkan chapters, Ubayy bin Ka‘b was not present at the time of their revelation and the Companions wrote them in Makkah. The death of ‘Aban bin Sa‘eed has been differed over - Moosa bin Uqbah, Mus‘ab bin Zubair, Zubair bin Bakkar and most of the people of lineage said: He was killed on the day of Ajnadayn, i.e., in Jumadal-Oola in the Year 12 A.H. And others said: He was killed on the day of Marjus-Suffar in the year 14 A.H.

From them: Ubayy bin Ka‘b bin Qais bin Ubaid al-Khazraji al-Ansari Abul-Mundhir, It is also said Abu’t-Tufail, the master of the (Qur’anic) reciters. He participated in al-‘Aqabatuth-Thaniyah (the second Pledge of Aqabah), Badr and the battles which followed. He was of average height, slim, with white head and facial hair and he would not dye his hair. Anas said: Four people compiled the Qur’an – i.e. from the Ansar – Ubayy bin Ka‘b, Mu‘adh bin Jabal, Zaid bin Thabit and a man from the Ansar called: Abu Yazeed.

Ibn Abu Khaithamah said: He was the first who wrote the revelation in the presence of the Messenger of Allah in Madinah.

Muhammad bin Sa‘d said: He [Ubayy] would write the revelation in the presence of the Messenger of Allah.

The year of his death has been differed over; it is said that in the Year 19 A.H, in the year 20 A.H. and it occurred also in the year 23 A.H. It has also been said before the assassination of Uthman by a week. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

From them: Arqam bin Abu'l-Arqam and his name is Abd Manaf bin Asad bin Jundab bin Abdullah bin Umar bin Makhzoom al-Makhzoomi. He embraced Islam early and he is the one whose house the Messenger of Allah used to hide in Safa; thereafter the house was known as al-Khaizuran. He migrated and participated in Badr and that which followed [from battles]. The Messenger of Allah joined him and Abdullah bin Unais in brotherhood [Mu'akhat: To enable them to inherit from one another so as to create love between the Migrants and the Ansar].

He is the one who wrote the part of the land of Uzaim bin Harith al-Muharibi by the order of the Messenger of Allah, and that is according to what al-Hafiz Ibn 'Asakir has narrated. He died in the Year 53 A.H.. It has also been said year 55 A.H. when he was 85 years old.

From them: Thabit bin Qais bin Shammas al-Ansari al-Khazraji, Abu Abdur-Rahman. And it has been mentioned: Abu Muhammad al-Madani the spokesman for the Ansar. And he has also been named 'spokesperson for the Prophet'. Muhammad bin Sa'd said: Ali bin Muhammad Madayini with his chain of narration from his Shaikhs in the Arab delegations to the Messenger of Allah, [that] they said: Abdullah bin Alas ath-Thumali and Musliyah bin Hirran al-Huddani came to the Messenger of Allah, peace upon him, in a group from their people after the Conquest of Makkah. Thereafter, they embraced Islam and made a Bai'ah on behalf of their people. He wrote for them a note with what was obligatory upon them from charity on their wealth. Thabit bin Qais bin Shammas wrote it and Sa'd bin Mu'adh and Muhammad bin Maslamah testified to it. And this man is from those who have been affirmed in Saheeh Muslim that the Messenger of Allah gave them glad tidings of Paradise.

He was martyred on the Day of al-Yamamah, in the year 12 A.H. in the era of Abu Bakr as-Siddiq and there is a story mentioned in connection with him which we will mention insha'Allah when the opportunity arises with Allah's Will.

From them: Hanzalah bin ar-Rabee' bin Saifiyy bin Rabah bin al-Harith bin Mukhashin bin Mu'awiyah bin Shuraif bin Jirwah bin Usayyid bin 'Amr bin Tameem at-Tameemi al-Usayyidi the writer, and his brother Rabah was also a Companion. His paternal uncle Aktham bin Saifiyy was the wise man of the Arabs.

From them: Khalid bin Sa'eed bin al-As bin Umayyah bin Abd Shams bin Abd Manaf, Abu Sa'eed alUmawi. He embraced Islam early, and it has been said after as-Siddiq by three or four and the most that has been mentioned is five [men]. They stated that the reason for his embracing Islam was that he saw in his dream that it was as if he was standing on the edge of Hell. And he mentioned from its vastness that which (only) Allah knows. He said: And his father was pushing him into it, and the Messenger of Allah held his hand to prevent him from falling into it. Then he narrated this dream to Abu Bakr As-Siddiq. He told him: I wish good for you; this is the Messenger of Allah, follow him and you will be saved from that which you feared. Then he came to the Messenger of Allah and embraced Islam.

When the news of his embracing Islam reached his father he became angry with him and hit him with a stick that was in his hand until he broke it on his head. He threw him out of his house and withheld sustenance from him and forbade his brothers from talking to him. Thereafter Khalid accompanied the Messenger of Allah day and night. Later, his brother ‘Amr accepted Islam. When the people migrated to Abyssinia, he also migrated with them. Thereafter, he was the one who married Umm Habeebah to the Messenger of Allah as we mentioned earlier. Then they migrated from Abyssinia in the company of Ja‘far and came to the Messenger of Allah in Khaibar when he conquered it, and he gave them a share after consulting the Muslims. And from them: Khalid bin al-Waleed bin al-Mugheerah bin Abdullah bin Amr bin Makhzoom, Abu Sulaiman al- Makhzoomi. He was the leader of the victorious Islamic armies, of Muslim soldiers, memorable events and with the Quraish (after his acceptance of Islam). He had a tent (which was used to carry, which they pitched to gather the provisions of the army) and [was at] the head of the horses (he led them when he would go to battle) on momentous days of glory days. In addition he was a person of sound thinking, fearsome [in war] and a good role-model.

With regard to Abu Sulaiman Khalid bin al-Waleed, it has been said that he had never been in an army that was defeated either in Jahiliyyah or Islam. He accepted Islam along with Amr bin al-As, Uthman bin Talhah bin Abu Talhah after al-Hudaibiyah; it is also said that it was Khaibar.

The Messenger of Allah did not cease to make him as a the leader of the expeditions that he sent. Thereafter, he was the head of all the soldiers in the era of As-Siddiq. When Umar came to power he dismissed him and Abu Ubaidah became the leader upon the basis that he would not depart from the ideas of Abu Sulaiman (Khalid). Thereafter, Khalid died in the reign of Umar and that was in the Year 21 A.H. And it is also said the Year 22 A.H, but the first is more correct, in a village a mile away from Hims.

From them: az-Zubair bin al-Awwam bin Khuwailid bin Asad bin Abdul-Uzza bin Qusayy, Abu Abdullah al-Asadi from the ten (given glad tidings of Paradise) and one of the six from the People of Consultation whom the Messenger of Allah passed away while being pleased with them. And he was a disciple of the Messenger of Allah and son of his paternal aunt Safiyyah bint Abdul-Muttalib and husband of Asma Bint Abu Bakr.

Az-Zubair accepted Islam early when he was 16 years old. It is also said 8 years old. He made the two migrations (the two Hijrahs to Ethiopia and then Madinah) and participated in all the battles and was the first to unleash his sword in the path of Allah. The Messenger of Allah said, "Verily, for every Prophet is a disciple and my disciple is az-Zubair." He participated in al-Yarmook and was the best of those who participated therein. He penetrated the rows of the Romans on that day from the first of them to the last of them twice and left from the other side safe. However, he was struck twice on the back of his neck.

He had many virtues and good traits and he died in the Battle of the Camel (Yawmul-Jamal, the battle between Ali and his opposition). This occurred when he was returning from an offensive leaving the battle, then Amr bin Jurmooz, Fadalah bin Habis and a third man called Nufai' at-Tameemiyoon in a place called Wadi as-Siba' (valley of predators). Then Amr bin Jurmooz attacked him while he was sleeping and killed him and that was on Thursday 10th of Jumadal-Oola, Year 36 A.H. and he was 67 years old on that day. He left a massive inheritance behind him. When he had paid off his debts and took out a third of his wealth (as a will to his non-inheritors) he distributed the remainder to his inheritors. The entire wealth was from permissible means acquired in his lifetime from that which he obtained from alFai', war booty and many different permissible sources of trade. And that is after paying the Zakah whenever due, and giving away generous gifts to those eligible in times of need. And from them: Zaid bin Thabit bin ad-Dhahhak bin Zaid bin Lawdhan bin Amr bin Abd bin Awf bin Ghanm bin Malik bin an-

Najjar al-Ansari al-Najjari, Abu Sa'eed. He is also known as Abu Kharijah and Abu Abdur Rahman alMadani. The Messenger of Allah arrived at Madinah when he was 11 years old. Due to his young age he didn't participate in Badr. It also said he did not participate in Uhud. The first of his battles was alKhandaq and he fought in those that followed. He was a Hafiz, a person of understanding, knowledgeable and intelligent. It has been affirmed from him in Saheeh Al-Bukhari that the Messenger of Allah commanded him to learn the Jewish language so he could read it out to the Prophet when they [Jews] wrote to him; he learned it in 15 days. He is from those who compiled the Qur'an at the time of the Messenger of Allah from the reciters.

He wrote the revelation in the presence of the Messenger of Allah on more than one occasion. Then Ibn Umm Maktoom came and began to complain about his blindness. Thereafter the revelation descended upon the Messenger of Allah in such a way that his thigh became heavy on my thigh to the extent that it was about to break it then it (the Verse) was revealed: "except those who are disabled (by injury or are blind or lame, etc.)" (Soorah An-Nisa': 95) Thereafter he commanded me so I added it (to the first revelation of the Verse). Zaid said: "For, verily, I know of the place it was added, by a crack in that tablet, i.e., from bones."

Zaid participated in (the battle of) al-Yamamah and an arrow hit him, but it didn't harm him. He was the one who was commanded by As-Siddiq after that to search for the Qur'an and then compile it, and he said to him: " You are an intelligent youth and we were not suspicious of you. You used to write the revelation for the Messenger of Allah so search for the Qur'an and compile it." He did as As-Siddiq ordered him and there was much good in that.

'Umar appointed him in charge of Madinah twice during two Hajj (periods) and he appointed him in charge when he went to Sham. 'Uthman would also appoint him over Madinah, and 'Ali loved him very much. On his part, he would venerate 'Ali and recognize his position and he didn't participate in any of the wars during his time and lived after him till he died in the Year 45 A.H. or 41 A.H. or 55 A.H. He is from those who wrote the master copies of the Qur'an that 'Uthman sent to the different parts whose recitation was according to its print by consensus and agreement. Just as we established that in the book Fada'il ul-Qur'an [Virtues of the Qur'an] which we wrote in the introduction to our book At-Tafseer. And from them: those who would write the records as has been mentioned in a Hadith narrated by Ibn Abbas if it was authentic.

From them: Sa'd bin Abu Sarh as will be mentioned shortly, insha'Allah.

From them: Amir bin Fuhairah Mawla of Abu Bakr As-Siddiq, the scribe of for the Prophet. Amir bin Fuhairah was nicknamed Abu Amr from Muwalladil-Azd, he was black in complexion and was initially the Mawla of at-Tufail bin al-Harith brother of 'A'ishah from Umm Rumman, on her mother's side. He embraced Islam early before the Messenger of Allah entered the House of al-Arqam bin Abu'l-Arqam – the one that is near as-Safa – in hiding.

Amir was tortured along with a group of the weak in Makkah so that he may leave his religion, but he would refuse. Abu Bakr bought him, then freed him. Thenceforth he would look after his sheep on the outskirts of Makkah. When the Messenger of Allah migrated accompanied by Abu Bakr, he was with them behind Abu Bakr. When they reached Madinah, Amir bin Fuhairah stayed with Sa'd bin Khaithamah and the Messenger of Allah made Mu'akhat between him and Aws bin Mu'adh. He fought in Badr and Uhud and was killed on the Day of Bi'r Ma'oonah as was previously mentioned in the Year 4 A.H.. He was 40 years old at the time.

Urwah, Ibn Ishaq, al-Waqidi and others mentioned that Amir was killed on the Day of Bi'r Ma'oonah by a man called Jabbar bin Sulma from Banu Kilab tribe. When he was stabbed with the spear he said: "I have succeeded by the Lord of the Ka'bah." Jabbar said: I asked ad-Dahhak bin Sufyan about that which he said, what did he mean by it? He replied: He meant Paradise. Amir was raised till he couldn't be seen by the eyes to the extent that Amir bin at-Tufail said: He was raised till I saw the sky without him.

And when Amr bin Umayyah was asked about him, he said: He was from the best of us and from the first of the household of our Prophet. Ad-Dahhak called me to Islam, and I embraced it, due to what I witnessed from the killing of Amir bin Fuhairah. Thereafter, ad-Dahhak wrote to the Messenger of Allah informing him of my acceptance of Islam and it was due to the affair of Amir so he said: "The Angels buried him and sent down the 'Illiyoon (dwellers of the seventh heaven, some said guardian angels)."

From them: Abdullah bin Arqam bin Abu'l-Arqam al-Makhzoomi. He embraced Islam in the year of the Conquest of Makkah, and was the scribe of the Prophet. Imam Malik said: He would do well in his work and the Prophet would thank him and held him in high esteem.

He was the scribe for Abu Bakr who made him in charge of the treasury, and 'Umar Ibn al-Khattab kept him in that position, then in the era of 'Uthman he was relieved of his duties.

I say: That was after Abdullah bin Arqam resigned, it has been said: 'Uthman offered him 300,000 Dirhams for his employment, but he refused to accept it and said I only worked for the sake of Allah, so my reward is with Allah, the Great and the Almighty.

From them: Abdullah bin Zaid bin Abd Rabihi al-Ansari al-Khazraji, the Mu'adhhdhin. He embraced Islam early and fought in Aqabat as-Sab'een, Badr and that which followed. From the greatest of his virtues is his dream of the Adhan and Iqamah in his sleep and his mention of that to the Messenger of Allah with his approval of him and his statement to him: "Verily it is a true dream, so give it (teach it) to Bilal for he has a louder voice." We have mentioned the Hadith earlier concerning this.

Al-Waqidi narrated with his chains of narrations from Ibn 'Abbas that he wrote a note to those who embraced Islam from Jurash, in it is the command to them to establish the prayer, give the Zakah and give a fifth from the war booty (in charity). He died in Year 32 A.H. at 64 years old and 'Uthman Ibn 'Affan prayed over him (funeral prayer).

From them: Abdullah bin Sa'd bin Abu Sarh, al-Qurashi al-Amiri, the brother of 'Uthman, in terms of his suckling mother. 'Uthman's mother suckled him. He wrote the revelation but thereafter he apostate from Islam and joined the idolaters in Makkah. When the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, conquered it, he came to 'Uthman Ibn 'Affan and he sought protection for him so the Messenger of Allah granted him safety as we have mentioned in the Battle of the Conquest. Thereafter Abdullah bin Sa'd became well-established in his belief.

I say: He was on the right wing of Amr bin al-As when Amr conquered Egypt in Year 20 A.H. in the reign of 'Umar. Thereafter 'Umar Ibn al-Khattab left Amr in charge of it. When Uthman became Caliph, he retired Amr from it and put Abdullah bin Sa'd in charge in the Year 25 A.H. and ordered him to go on a battle in Africa whereupon he conquered it. The army received huge wealth from it and the portion of the war booty for every horseman from the army was 3,000 Mithqal of gold and for the foot soldier 1,000 Mithqal. He had with him in this army three of those named Abdullah: Abdullah bin az-Zubair, Abdullah bin Umar and Abdullah bin Amr. Thereafter Abdullah bin Sa'd invaded al-Asawid in an-Noobah. Subsequently, he made a peace agreement with them, and that was in the Year 31 A.H. Thereafter, he fought the Battle of as-Sawari in the sea toward the Romans and it was a great battle, as is going to be mentioned in its place insha'Allah.

When the people differed with 'Uthman, he left Egypt and left someone in a position of leadership so that he could go to assist 'Uthman. When 'Uthman was killed he resided in 'Asqalan, and it is said ar-Ramlah. He invoked Allah to take him [his soul] in prayer so one day he prayed Fajr and read in the first raka'ah Soorah Al-Fatihah and Al-'Adiyat. And in the second he read Al-Fatihah and another Soorah, and when he read the Tashahhud, he made the first Tasleem. When he was making the second Tasleem he died between them and that was in the Year 36 A.H. It is also said in the Year 37 A.H. It is also mentioned that he lived till the Year 59 A.H. and the first is correct.

I say: He does not have a narration in the Six Books of Hadith or in Imam Ahmad's Musnad.

From them: Abdullah bin Uthman, Abu Bakr As-Siddiq. the promise has been mentioned earlier that his biography shall come in the era of his Caliphate, insha'Allah. I have compiled a volume on his biography with what he narrated from Ahadeeth and what has been narrated from him.

From them: 'Ali Ibn Abu Talib, and his biography shall follow in (the mention of) his Caliphate. It has been mentioned earlier that he wrote the peace agreement between the Messenger of Allah and the Quraish on the Day of Hudaibiyah; He wrote other notes in his presence. As for the claim of a group of Jews in Khaibar that they had a note from the Prophet which granted them exemption from Jizyah (tax levied on those who refuse to accept Islam but wish to live in peace under Muslim rule), and in the end (it reads), "written by 'Ali Ibn Abu Talib" and contains the testimony of a group of Companions, from them, Sa'd bin Mu'adh and Mu'awiyah bin Abu Sufyan then (this claim), is a calculated lie, a slanderous forgery, a fabrication and invention. A group from among the scholars has clarified its falsehood. Some of the early scholars of Fiqh (Jurisprudence) were deceived by it and supported the removal of Jizyah from them. But this is very weak. I have compiled a book explaining its falsehood and that it was a fabrication that they invented and they are known for that. And I clarified it and compiled various statements of the Imams in that respect. From them: ‘Umar Ibn al-Khattab and his biography shall come in its (proper) place. I have reserved a volume about him, and another comprehensive book covering the Ahadeeth that he narrated from the Messenger of Allah in addition to the narrations and rulings narrated from him, may Allah be pleased with him. The discussion about his writing has been mentioned earlier in the biography of Abdullah bin al-Arqam.

From them: al-‘Ala bin al-Hadrami. Al-Hadrami’s name was ‘Abbad. It also said his name was Abdullah bin ‘Abbad bin Akbar bin Rabee‘ah bin Uwaif bin Malik bin al-Khazraj bin Iyad bin as-Sadif bin Zaid bin Muqni‘ bin Hadramawt bin Qahtan and other than this has been stated for his lineage. He was from the allies of the Banu Umayyah tribe. The discussion about his writing was mentioned in the biography of Aban bin Sa‘eed bin al-As. He had 10 brothers apart from himself and from them was ‘Amr bin alHadrami, the first of the idolaters to be killed. The Muslims killed him in the expedition of Abdullah bin Jahsh and it was the first expedition as was mentioned earlier.

From them was Amir bin al-Hadrami the one who Abu Jahl ordered – may the curse of Allah be upon him – then showed his ‘Awrah (private parts) and called, “O ‘Amir,” when the Muslims and the idolaters met in the Battle of Badr. Then the war intensified and became severe and then the events happened as mentioned earlier in detail in its place.

From them is Shuraih bin al-Hadrami and he was from the best of the Companions. The Messenger of Allah said about him, “He is a man who doesn’t sleep on the Qur’an.” The intended meaning is that he doesn’t sleep and leave it; rather he stands with it during the day and night. They all had one sister and she was as-Sa‘bah bint al-Hadrami, Umm Talhah bin Ubaidallah.

The Prophet sent al-‘Ala’ bin al-Hadrami to al-Mundhir bin Sawa, the king of Bahrain. Later, he appointed him as a leader over it when he conquered Bahrain. As-Siddiq kept him in charge of it, then ‘Umar Ibn al-Khattab and he remained in that position until ‘Umar removed him and appointed him over Basrah. When he was on the way he died and that was in the Year 21 A.H.

Al-Baihaqi and others narrated many miracles from him; from them was that he really walked with his army on the surface of the sea with it reaching the knees of their horses. It has been said that the soles of the horseshoes did not even become moist, and he commanded all of them so they began to say, “O the Tolerant, O the Great (referring to Allah’s names).” And on one occasion he was with his army and they were in need of water. He called upon Allah, Who sent the rain to fulfill their needs. When he was buried he did not leave a single trace, as he had asked Allah for that, and this will be mentioned in the book Dala’il un-Nubuwwah shortly insha’Allah.

From them: al-‘Ala’ bin Uqbah.

From them: Muhammad bin Maslamah bin Salamah bin Hareesh bin Khalid bin Adiy bin Majda‘ah bin Harithah bin al-Harith bin al-Khazraj al-Ansari al-Harithi, Abu Abdullah as well as Abu Abdur-Rahman. In addition it also said Abu Sa‘eed al-Madani, a subdivision of Abul-Ash-hal tribe. He embraced Islam on the hands of Mus‘ab bin ‘Umair and it also said Sa‘d bin Mu‘adh and Usaid bin Hudair and the Messenger of Allah made Mu‘akhat between him and Abu Ubaidah bin al-Jarrah when he came to Madinah. He fought in Badr and the battles that followed it and the Messenger of Allah appointed him over Madinah in the year of Tabook.

Ibn Abdul-Barr said in Al-Istee'ab: He was dark brown, tall, bold, and had a strong body. He was from the virtuous Companions and from those who stayed away from the Fitnah (the feuds between the Companions). He took a sword made from wood (i.e. he did not fight as the phrase was mentioned by the Prophet which shall be mentioned later) and died in Madinah in the Year 43 A.H. upon the well-known opinion of the majority. Marwan bin al-Hakam prayed upon him and he narrated many Ahadeeth from the Prophet. Muhammad bin Sa'd mentioned from Ali bin Muhammad al-Madayini with his chains of narrations that indeed Muhammad bin Maslamah was the one who wrote a note for the delegation of Mahrah following the command of the Messenger of Allah.

From them: Mu'awiyah bin Abu Sufyan Sakhr bin Harb bin Umayyah al-Umawi.

From them: Al- Mugheerah bin Shu'bah ath-Thaqafi, and his biography was mentioned earlier with those who used to serve him from the Companions other than his Mawali and he was an executioner upon the head of a guard for the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him.

Ibn 'Asakir narrated with his chain of narrations from 'Ateeq bin Ya'qoob with his chain mentioned earlier on more than one occasion that al-Mugheerah bin Shu'bah was the one who wrote the Aqta' (allotment or piece of land) for Husain bin Nadlah al-Asadi which the Messenger of Allah gave to him with his command.

So these are his writers who wrote with his command in his presence - may the prayers of Allah and his peace be upon Him.

Ibn ‘Asakir mentioned from his trustees Abu Ubaidah Amir bin Abdullah bin al-Jarrah al-Qurashi al-Fihri one of the ten (given glad tidings of Paradise) and Abdur-Rahman bin Awf az-Zuhri.

I say: As for Abu Ubaidah, al-Bukhari narrated from the Hadith of Abu Qilabah from Anas that the Messenger of Allah said: “For every nation is a trustee, and the trustee of this Ummah is Abu Ubaidah.” And in a narration the Messenger of Allah said to the delegation of Najran, “I will certainly send a trustee with you, a true trustee.” He sent Abu Ubaidah with them.

Ibn ‘Asakir said, “And from them is Mu‘aiqeb bin Abu Fatimah ad-Dawsi, the freed slave of Banu Abd Shams. He was in charge of his ring/seal and it is said he was his servant. Others said he accepted Islam early and migrated to al-Habashah on the second occasion and then to Madinah. He fought in Badr and that which followed and was in charge of his ring/seal. Abu Bakr and ‘Umar put him in charge of the treasury. It is said that he was afflicted by leprosy and was treated with colocynth. He died during the caliphate of ‘Uthman, in the Year 40 A.H. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

As for his leaders we have mentioned them during the dispatch of the expeditions by name.

As for the total number of Companions, the people have differed in this regard. It has been narrated from Abu Zur‘ah that he said, “There were 120,000.” From Ash-Shafi‘i that he said, “The Messenger of Allah passed away and the Muslims from those who heard from him and saw him were close to 60,000.” Al-

Hakim Abu Abdullah said, “The Ahadeeth are narrated from close to 5,000 Companions.”

I say: Those whom Imam Ahmad narrated from, despite his numerous narrations, extensive research and the magnitude of his journeys and the duration of his imamate, were 987 individuals from the Companions (and close to 300 Companions have been placed in the six books in addition to that). And a group from the memorizers of the Ahadeeth – may Allah have Mercy on them – have paid attention to pinpointing their names, their lives and their deaths; some the most exalted of them are Shaikh Abu Umar bin Abdul-Barr an-Namri in his book Al-Istee‘ab, Abu Abdullah Muhammad bin Ishaq bin Mandah and Abu Moosa al-Madeeni. There after al-Hafiz ‘Izzud-Deen Abul-Hasan Ali bin Muhammad bin AbdulKareem al- Jazari, well known as Ibnul-Atheer. He compiled his book Usdul-Ghabah in its regard, and was thorough in benefiting, compiling and summing up (information) and obtained that which he desired and wished. (May Allah be pleased with him)

The Traits of the Prophet that Were Particular for him in his Lifetime

Abu Dawood has a special section in his book As-Sunan. Let us view what he has mentioned in this respect, in addition to which we will add the source of what we say.

Anas bin Malik narrated: “Allah’s Apostle wanted to write a letter to a group of people or some nonArabs (i.e. non-Muslims). It was said to him, ‘They do not accept any letter unless it is stamped’. So the Prophet had a silver ring made for himself, and on it was engraved: Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah’.” It was on his hand until he died and on the hand of Abu Bakr until he died, also on the hand of ‘Umar till he died and on the hand of ‘Uthman. Then, once he was passing by a well when it suddenly dropped in it. He commanded its retrieval and although the well was drained it wasn’t possible to retrieve it.

Anas said, “The Prophet’s ring was made from silver and its stone was Habashi.” Also narrated by Anas, “ The Prophet’s ring was made from silver as its stone was, too.” Ibn ‘Umar narrated, “The Prophet took a ring made from gold. He used to turn its stone toward the palm of his hand and engraved on it was: ‘Muhammad [is the] Messenger of Allah.’ So the people took gold rings. When he saw it that they had taken (wore) gold rings, he threw it and said, “I will never wear it again.” Then he wore a ring from silver and engraved on it, ‘Muhammad [is the] Messenger of Allah.’ Abu Bakr wore it after him, then ‘Umar wore it after Abu Bakr, then ‘Uthman wore it until it fell in the well of ‘Arees.” The truth is that the ring he wore for one day and then discarded was the gold ring, not the silver ring, due to what has been affirmed in the Saheehain. Ibn ‘Umar, he said, “The Messenger of Allah wore a ring from gold, then he discarded it and said, I will never wear it again.” Thereafter, the people discarded their rings. He wore the silver ring often and it remained on his hand until he passed away, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him. Its stone was from it (silver), i.e. it didn’t have a stone that was separate from it.

The one who narrated that it had an image of a person on it, he has gone far and erred. Rather it was all silver and its stone was from it and it was engraved with the words: ‘Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah’ in three lines: ‘Muhammad’, [on one line]. ‘Messenger’ [on one] line, ‘Allah’[on one] line. It was as though – And Allah (SWT) knows best – it was engraved with writing in reverse in order to stamp correctly in keeping with the norm. It has also been mentioned that it was written correctly and it would print in the same fashion, and the authenticity of this is doubtful and I don't know a chain of narrations supporting that - whether authentic or weak.

These Ahadeeth that we narrated that he had a silver ring refute the Ahadeeth which we mentioned earlier in Sunan Abu Dawood and An-Nasa'i. Mu'aiqeeb narrated, "The Prophet's ring was made from iron, plated with silver." Nafi' narrated, "Ibn 'Umar would wear his ring on his left hand." Muhammad bin Ishaq narrated, "I saw on as-Salt bin Abdullah bin Nawfal bin Abdul-Muttalib a ring on his right little finger, so I said, 'What is this?' He replied, 'I saw Ibn Abbas wear a ring like this and he made the top part of the ring face outward'. The narrator said, "It cannot be imagined except that Ibn Abbas remembered that the Messenger of Allah wore his ring in the same manner."

A Mention of His Sword

Ibn Abbas narrated, "The Messenger of Allah optionally took his sword Dhul-Faqar with him on the Day of Badr. And that is the one he saw a dream about on the Day of Uhud, he said, "I saw in my sword DhulFaqar defeat, so I interpreted it as a defeat amongst you. I saw that I was behind a sheep so I interpreted it as being the battalion. I saw that I was behind a secure shield so I interpreted it as being Madinah. I saw a cow being slaughtered, so a cow by Allah is good sign, so a cow by Allah is good sign." The words of the Messenger of Allah have been narrated by Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from the Hadith of Abdur-Rahman bin Abuz-Zinad from his father.

Narrated by Sa‘eed bin Abul-Hasan, he said, “The pommel of the sword of the Messenger was from silver.” A sword from the swords of the Messenger of Allah became the property of the family of ‘Ali, when al-Husain bin ‘Ali was killed in Karbala and it was in his possession Then ‘Ali bin al-Husain Zainul-‘Abideen took it and entered Damascus with it when he entered upon Yazeed bin Mu‘awiyah. Thereafter, he returned with it to Madinah. It has been affirmed in the Saheehain as narrated from alMiswar bin Makhramah that he met him and said to him, “Do you have any need that you may order me to satisfy?” ‘Ali said, “No.” Then al-Miswar said, “Will you give me the sword of the Messenger of Allah for I am afraid that the people may take it from you by force. By Allah, if you give it to me, they will never be able to take it till I die.”

Other weapons have been mentioned that belonged to the Prophet, and from them are the shields that the Messenger of Allah would wear, as narrated by many such as as-Sa’ib bin Yazeed and Abdullah bin azZubair that the Messenger of Allah had two shields on the Day of Uhud.

In the Saheehain as narrated by Anas, “The Messenger of Allah entered on the day of the Conquest (of Makkah) with a helmet on his head. When he removed it, someone said to him, “Ibn Khatal is holding on to the drapes of the Ka‘bah.” So he said, “Kill him.”

Jabir narrated, “The Messenger of Allah entered on the day of the Conquest of Makkah with a black turban.”

Ibn Umar narrated, “When the Messenger of Allah would wear the turban he would let it (the excess cloth) drop between his shoulders.”

A Mention of the Sandals He Used

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from Ibn Umar, “The Messenger of Allah used to wear Sibtiyyah sandals and they are the ones with no fur on them.”

Narrated by ‘Eesa bin Tamhan from Anas, “Anas showed us a pair of sandals with no fur and two straps.”

Abu Hurairah narrated, “The sandals of the Messenger of Allah had two straps.” I say, it was well-known that approximately in the Year 600 A.H. and the years that followed that a single sandal was with a man called Ibn Abul-Hadrad and it was thought to be the sandal of the Prophet, peace be upon him. The noble king Moosa, son of the just king Abu Bakr bin Ayyoob, proposed to buy it for a huge amount of wealth but he refused to sell it. Then his death coincided with that after a short period of time and it came in the aforementioned king’s possession. He took it and revered it. When he built Darul-Hadeeth al-Ashrafiyyah on the side of the fortress he kept it in a safe place and made a servant to look after it and gave him 40 Dirhams every month as is well-known. It is still in the aforementioned Dar (house).

At-Tirmidhi said in “Ash-Shama’il”, Moosa bin Anas narrated from his father, “The Messenger of Allah had a perfume bottle that he would perfume himself from.”

The Description of the Wooden Cup of the Prophet

Asim al-Ahwal narrated, “I saw the wooden cup of the Prophet, peace be upon him, with Anas bin Malik and it had split, and he had shackled it with silver. It was a good wide wooden cup made from (the best type of wood) Nudar. Anas said, “I served the Messenger of Allah from this wooden cup...” Ibn Seereen said, “It had a ring from iron in it (where it had split), then Anas wanted to put a ring of gold in it [in the gap] or silver, so Abu Talhah said to him, “Don’t change anything that the Messenger of Allah did,” so he left it.”

Chapter

A mention of what has been narrated concerning the bottle of antimony [kuhl] that he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would use

Narrated by Ibn Abbas, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had a bottle that he would use on his eyes at the time of sleep, three [strokes] in every eye.”

I say: It has reached me that in the Egyptian lands there is a sanctuary, within it are many of the artifacts of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Some of the late ministers made an effort to compile them and from them is the antimony bottle and Meel [antimony] and [an eye] brush and other things. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Cloak

Al-Hafiz al-Baihaqi said, “As for the cloaks that the Caliphs wore then we have narrated from Muhammad bin Ishaq bin Yasar in the story of Tabook that the Messenger of Allah

(Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) gave the people of Ailah a cloak with a note that he wrote to them as a trust for them. Then Abu'l-Abbas Abdullah bin Muhammad bought it for 300 Dinars - he meant by that the first of the Caliphs of the Banu'l-Abbas tribe called as-Saffah, (May Allah be pleased with him) And the Banu'lAbbas tribe inherited this cloak generation after generation. The Caliph used to wear it on the Day of 'Eid on his shoulders and would take the staff attributed to him - (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) - in one of his hands. And he would emerge having a tranquillity and calmness that would split the hearts and dazzle the eyes. They would dress in black on special occasions and Eids in accordance with the [practice of] the master of the rural and urban people, from those who live as nomads and [in] cities. This is due to that which al-Bukhari and Muslim [the two Imams of the narrations] collected from Anas, "Indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered Makkah with a helmet on his head."

Also in a narration, [it is reported] "With a black turban."

In a narration, [it is reported] "He let its end hang between his shoulders - (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)."

Narrated by Abu Burdah, he said, "Aishah showed us a thick top [kisa'] and a lower garment [izar] then she said, "The Prophet's soul was taken in these two."

Narrated by 'A'ishah and Ibn Abbas, they said, "When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fell ill, he began to throw a sheet he had on his face. Then when he was tired of it he removed it from his face and said at that point, "May the curse of Allah be upon the Jews and the Christians, they took the graves of their Prophets as places of worship.” He warned against what they did. I say these three chapters he didn’t know what happened to them after this. And it has been mentioned that he indeed – May peace be upon him – red velvet was placed under his grave that he would pray on.

If we were delve into that which he used to wear in his lifetime [then] the section would be long. It is [mentioned] in the Book of Dress from the book Kitabul-Ahkamil-Kabeer in sha’ Allah, and in Him [Allah] is faith and upon Him is reliance.

A mention of his (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) horses and means of transport

Al-Baihaqi said, “And we have narrated in the book Sunan, the names of his horses that were with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him): Sa’idiyain, Lizaz and al-Luhaif and it has been said, al- Lukhaif and az-Zarib. The one he rode that belonged to Abu Talhah was called al Mandoob, in addition to his she-camels al-Qaswa’, al-Adba’ and al-Jad’a’, and his mules ash-Shahba’ and al-Baida’. It is not mentioned in any of the narrations that he passed away after them except for what is narrated concerning his mule al-Baida’, his weapons, land that he gave away in charity, his clothes, sandals and his ring that we have narrated in this chapter.

Narrated by Sahl bin Sa’d, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) passed away with a knitted gown [made] from wool.” And this chain of narrators is good.”

It has been mentioned previously from more than one of the Companions that indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not leave behind a Dinar, nor Dirham, nor slave boy, nor slave girl, except for his mule and land that he gave in charity. This necessitates that he freed all of the slave boys and girls that we mentioned and gave in charity his weapons, animals, furniture and provisions that we mentioned and that which we didn't mention.

As for his mule, it was called ash-Shahba' as well as al-Baida' And Allah (SWT) knows best. This is the one that al-Muqawqis (whose name was Juraj bin Meena) the Viceroy of Alexandria granted him from the gifts he bestowed. This is the same one that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) rode on the Day of al-Hunain when [he was] in the necks of the enemies [i.e., in their midst] extolling His Noble Name [Allah] with courage and reliance upon Allah the Great and the Almighty. It has been mentioned that it lived after him to the extent that it was with Ali bin Abu Talib in his Caliphate. It lived until it was with Abdullah bin Ja'far after succeeding Ali, and wheat was ground for it to eat due to its weakness from then on.

As for his donkey, it was called Ya'foor which is transformed and then pronounced, Ufair, then he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would ride it on some occasions.

And in the two Saheehs indeed he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) passed by a mixed gathering when riding a donkey, in it was Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salool and a number of Muslims, idolaters (worshippers of idols) and Jews. Then he descended and called them to Allah – the Great and the Almighty – and this was before the Battle of Badr and he had decided to visit Sa'd bin 'Ubadah. It was then that Abdullah bin Ubayy said to him, "I am not good at doing what you say, O man. So if it is true then don't overwhelm us with it in our assemblies." That was before Islam had become dominant and it has been said that he covered his nose when the scent of the animal reached them. And he said, “Don’t harm us with the foul smell of your animal.”

At this, Abdullah bin Rawahah retorted, “Indeed the scent of the donkey of the Messenger of Allah is better than your scent. Rather, O Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), cover us with it in our assemblies for we indeed like it.” Thereafter the two sides erupted and were about to come to blows so the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) calmed them down. Then he went to Sa’d bin ‘Ubadah and complained about Abdullah bin Ubayy, at which he said, “Be gentle with him O Messenger of Allah, for by the One who ennobled you with the truth, Allah indeed sent you with the truth whilst we were preparing to make him in charge of us. Then when Allah brought the truth that he sent you with, he became jealous.”

We have mentioned previously that he rode the donkey during some of the days of Khaibar, and it is mentioned in a hadeeth that he placed Mu‘adh behind him on a donkey, and if we were to narrate them [these narrations] with their wordings and chains of narrators then the section would be rendered very long. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Chapter: The book of Ash-Shama'il

Now we shall mention what remains related to the Noble Seerah, and that is four books. The first is in Ash-Shama'il [characteristics], the second in Ad-Dala'il [signs], the third in al-Fada'il [virtues] and the fourth in al-Khasa'is [particular traits]. And with Allah is assistance and upon Him do we rely. And there is no might or power except with Allah, the Great and the Wise.

The characteristics of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and a mention of his apparent and non- apparent traits

People have authored numerous books on this subject – both in the past and present [whether] solely dealing with this subject or otherwise. From the best of authors of these compilations, the most proficient and the one that caused the most benefit was Imam Abu 'Eesa Muhammad bin 'Eesa bin Sawrah atTirmidhi - (May Allah be pleased with him) The renowned book ash-Shama'il is devoted exclusively to this subject and we have a chain from hearing that leads back to it. We shall mention some points from it and add important matters that the Muhaddith [scholar of hadeeth] and the Faqeeh [scholar in Fiqh or jurisprudence] cannot suffice without.

Let us first mention his immense good looks – may peace be upon him – and his handsome beauty after which we will commence to mention [the same] in brief and details.

Narrations concerning his dazzling handsome appearance, after that which was mentioned previously from his handsome looks

Al-Bukhari narrated from al-Bara' bin 'Azib, he said, "The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had the most handsome face of the people and the best of them in stature. He was neither very tall nor short."

Also narrated by al-Bara' bin 'Azib, he said, "The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was of medium height, [had] wide shoulders, he had hair that reached his earlobes. I saw him in a red cloak [and] I have never seen anything better than him [in appearance]."

Narrated by Abu Ishaq, he said, "Al-Bara' bin 'Azib was asked, was the Prophet's (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) face like the sword? He said, "No, rather like the moon."

Narrated by Jabir bin Samurah, a man said to him, "Was the face of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) like the sword?" Jabir said, "No, rather round like the sun and moon."

It has been affirmed in Saheeh al-Bukhari from Ka'b bin Malik in the hadeeth of repentance, he said, "And when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was happy his face would light up as though it was a piece of the moon."

Narrated by 'A'ishah, she said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered upon me happy, the features of his face shining."

Narrated by al-Harith bin ‘Amr as-Sahmi indeed al- Harith bin ‘Amr informed him, “I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) when he was in Mina or Arafah and the people had surrounded him. Yahya said, “When the people saw his face they said: ‘This is a blessed face.’”

The description of the complexion of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

Narrated by Rabee‘ah bin Abu Abdur-Rahman, he said, “ I heard Anas bin Malik describe the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), he said, “He was of medium height of the people, he was not tall nor short, radiant in complexion not albino white nor brown. He did not have curly hair nor did he have straight hair. He received revelation when he was 40 years old, then he stayed in Makkah for 10 years whilst receiving revelation and he spent 10 years in Madinah. [When] He passed away he did not have 20 white hairs on his head and beard.” Rabee‘ah said, “Then I saw a hair from his hairs and behold it was red, so I enquired it was said it was red from perfume.”

Narrated by Anas bin Malik t, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was not very tall nor was he short. And he was not albino white nor was he brown, he did not have curly hair nor did he have straight hair. Allah sent him [as a Prophet] at the start of 40 years then he stayed in Makkah for 10 years and 10 years in Madinah. Allah took his soul at the beginning of 60 years and there were not 20 white hairs on his head and beard.”

Narrated by Abu’t-Tufail, he said, “I saw the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and nobody remained that had seen him other than myself, so we said to him, “Describe the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to us.” So he said, “He was white with a handsome face.”

Narrated by Abu Hurairah he said, “I had not seen anything more handsome than the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). It was as though the sun would follow its course on his forehead. And I did not see anybody faster than the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while walking, it was as though the earth was folded for him we would try hard whilst he would not notice.” Narrated by Tirmidhi from Qutaibah from Ibn Lahee’ah and he narrated, “And the sun would follow its course on his face.”

Narrated by Nafi bin Jubair, he said, “Ali described the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to us, he said, “He was reddish white [had a mixed complexion].”

The description of the face of the Messenger of Allah and a mention of his features: his parting, forehead, eyebrows, eyes, nose, mouth, teeth and other features of his looks and appearance

The statement of Abu’t-Tufail has been mentioned previously that he was white and had a handsome face, also the statement of Anas that he had a bright complexion, in addition to the statement of al-Bara’ when he was asked, “Was the face of the Messenger of Allah like the sword?” i.e., in smoothness so he said, “No, rather like the moon.” When Jabir bin Samurah was asked a similar question, he said, “No, rather round like the sun and the moon.” And the statement of ar-Rubayyi‘ bint Mu‘awwidh, “If you were to see him, you would have said the sun is rising.” And in another narration, “You would have seen the sun rising.”

Abu Ishaq as-Sabee‘i said narrating from a woman from Hamdan who had performed Hajj with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), so when he asked about him (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), she said, “He was like the moon on a clear night, I have not seen before him or after him [anyone] similar to him.”

Narrated by Abu Hurairah [he said], “It was as though the sun would follow its course on his face.” And in another narration [he said], “His forehead.”

Narrated by Muhammad bin Ali from his father, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had a large head, big eyes, long eyelashes, eye [color] mixed with redness, thick beard, bright complexion, coarse short palms and feet. When he would walk it was as though he was walking on a hill and when he would glance he would turn with his whole body.” Only Ahmad narrated this.

Narrated by ‘A’ishah she said, “I was sitting reading poetry whilst the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was fixing his sandals. As I looked at him his forehead began to sweat and his sweat began to generate light, so I became astonished. Then he looked at me and said, “What is the matter with you O ‘A’ishah?” She said, “I said, O Messenger of Allah, I looked at you, then your forehead began to sweat and your sweat began to generate light and if Abu Katheer al-Hudhali saw you he would have known that you are the most deserving of his poetry.” He said, “What does Abu Kabeer say?” I said he says, “The cure for every remainder of menstruation and every corruption of wet nurse and disease of the first milk of the pregnant woman. When you look at the features of his face, it shines like the rain cloud [or thunder cloud].”

Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) left what was in his hand and stood in front of me and kissed me between my eyes, then he said, “You have not become happy with me like my happiness from you.”

Narrated by Jabir bin Samurah, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had bluish black eyes, little flesh on his heels and a wide mouth.”

Narrated by al-Hasan bin Ali from his aunt, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had a wide forehead, naturally groomed fully detached eyebrows, there was a vein between them which pulsed and filled with blood when he was angry His nose was aquiline; it had a brightness about the upper part that led those who were less observant to think him haughty. He had small cheeks, a wide mouth, he had white teeth with a space between his front teeth.”

Narrated from a man of the Ansar, he said, “I asked Ali bin Abu Talib whilst he was Muhtabin [sitting with his knees facing up] with the sheath of his sword [wrapped around him] in the mosque of Koofah about the description of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), so he said, “He was white in complexion mixed with redness, he had black eyes and silky hair, and thin hair from his chest to his navel, small cheeks, a full thick beard, his neck was like a silver jug, he had hair from his upper chest to his navel like a staff, he did not have any hair on his stomach or chest apart from that, coarse small palms and feet.

When he walked, it was as though he was descending a slope, and when he walked it was as though he was avoiding rocks [i.e. he would raise his legs high]. And when he would turn to glance he would turn with his whole body. He was not tall nor was he short, he was not weak and he was not very strong. The sweat on his face was [like] pearls and the smell of his sweat was better than al-Adhfar musk. I did not see anyone like him before or after him.”

It has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from Anas, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Indeed I can see you from behind my back.” Some of the scholars said he meant “with the eye of my heart”. Some of them even explained His statement, the Most High: “And Your movements among those who fall prostrate( to Allah in the five compulsory congregational prayers).” (Soorat ash-Shu‘ara’: 219) with that [explanation] and this is a weak explanation. And others said, “Rather this is from his specific traits – (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) – that he would indeed see with his sight from behind him similar to what he would see in front of him. Al-Hafiz Abu Zur‘ah ar-Razi mentioned that in his book Dala’il un- Nubuwwah. In the two Saheehs also from Abu Hurairah, indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Do you see my Qiblah over here? For by Allah your tranquility, bowing and prostrating are not hidden from me. Indeed I see you from behind my back.”

Narrated by Abu Hurairah, he said, “It was as though the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was formed from silver, he had silky hair, a level stomach

[i.e. his stomach did not protrude more than his chest], big shoulder bones. He would place his whole foot on the ground, when he would walk forward he would walk forward with all his body, and when he would return he would return with all his body [i.e. he would not stray left or right from where he was going].”

The description of his (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) Hair

It has indeed been affirmed in the two Saheehs from Ibn Abbas, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) liked to agree with the People of the Book in that which he had not received a [specific] command. The People of the Book used to let their hair hang forward and the idolaters would part their hair, so the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) let his hair hang forward then he parted [his hair] afterwards.

And it has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from al- Bara’, “Indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) let his hair grow to his shoulders.” It has been mentioned in the Saheeh from him and others, “To the middle of his ears.” There is no contradiction between the two states, for indeed hair can be long sometimes and shorter than it at other times. So each one narrated according to what he saw.

Narrated by ‘A’ishah, she said, “The Messenger of Allah’s hair was longer than his ear lobes yet above the shoulders.” It has been affirmed that he indeed (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) shaved his head in the Farewell Pilgrimage. And he died after that by 81 days - may the prayers of Allah be upon him forever until the Day of Judgment.

It has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from the hadeeth of Rabee‘ah from Anas after his mentioning of the Messenger of Allah’s hair, he said, “It indeed was not straight nor was it curly and Allah caused him to die whilst not having more than 20 white hairs on his head and beard.”

In Saheeh al-Bukhari from the hadeeth of Ayyoob from Ibn Seereen he indeed said, “I said to Anas: Did the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) dye his hair?” He said, “No, he did not see [on him] except a little white hair.”

And with Muslim from Anas, “Indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not dye his hair. He only had a few white hair under his lower lip, a little on his temples and a little on his head.”

Narrated by Uthman bin Mawhab, he said, “Umm Salamah had a small wide bell made from silver containing some of the hairs of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). If a person had a fever he would send a vessel to her then she would dip the hairs into it. Thereafter the man would sprinkle it on his face. My family sent me to her so she produced it and it was like so – and Isra’eel [the sub-narrator] illustrated with 3 fingers – and it contained 5 red hairs,” narrated by al-Bukhari.

Narrated by Abu Rimthah he said, “I went with my father to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and when I saw him he said, “Do you know who this is?” I said, “No”, he said, “Indeed this is the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).” I trembled when he said that and I used to think that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was a being that did not resemble mankind, then suddenly [I saw] he was a man with hair to his shoulders with traces of Hinna' [dye] wearing two green cloaks."

Narrated by Ibn Umar, "Indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to wear Sibtiyyah [tanned cow skin] sandals, and he would die his beard yellow with al-Wars and saffron, and Ibn Umar would [also] do so."

Narrated by Ibn Umar, he said, "The white hairs of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) were close to 20 hairs [in total]," and in the narration of Ishaq, "I saw the white hairs of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) approximately 20 white hairs on the forefront [of his head]."

Abdullah bin Muhammad bin 'Aqeel said, "Anas bin Malik came to Madinah when Umar bin Abdul'Azeez was a governor of Madinah. Then Umar sent [a messenger] to him and said to the messenger, "Ask him if the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) dyed his hair, for indeed I have seen a hair from his hairs that was colored." Then Anas said, "Indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was bestowed with black [hair], and if I was to count his white hairs on his head I would not find more than 11 hairs. And only this [hair] has been colored with perfume that was used to perfume the hair of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), that changed its color."

I say: Anas' negation of dyeing opposes what has preceded from others in affirmation of it. And the established rule is that "affirmation takes precedence over negation" because the one who affirms has extra knowledge that the one who negates doesn't possess. Similarly the affirmation of other than him [Anas] of what was mentioned of white hairs takes precedence, especially from Ibn Umar who most probably received that [information] from his sister, the Mother of the Believers, Hafsa. Indeed her awareness was more complete than Anas' awareness, because she may have washed his noble head (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

That which has been narrated concerning his shoulders, forearms, armpits, feet and ankles

The narrations of al-Bukhari and Muslim have been mentioned previously, from al-Bara' bin Azib he said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was of average height [and] had broad shoulders." Az-Zubaidi said from az-Zuhri from Sa'eed from Abu Hurairah, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had broad shoulders."

Al-Bukhari narrated from Anas he said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had a wide head and feet [and] soft palms." It has preceded in more than one narration that he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had coarse short hands and feet and in a narration, "large hands and feet."

In Saheeh Muslim narrated from Jabir bin Samurah, "He had a wide mouth - and it has been explained that he had a generous mouth, Ashkal eyes - and it has been explained as having large ovals of the eyes, having Manhoosal-'Aqib - which has been explained as having little flesh on the heels," which is more appropriate in relation to males.

Narrated by Maimoonah bint Kardam, she said, "I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in Makkah when he was on his she-camel and I was with my father. In the hand of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was a whip, like the whip of those who write [or teach]. Then my father came close to him and then took his foot and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) allowed him, thereafter I never forgot the length of his index toe over all the other toes.”

Description of his height (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his fragrant scent

Narrated by Anas in Saheeh al-Bukhari, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was of medium height [with respect to] the people, he was not tall or short.”

Abu Ishaq said from al-Bara’, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was the most handsome amongst the people and the best of them in stature, he was neither tall nor short,” collected in the two Saheehs.

Narrated by Ali, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was not very tall and taller than medium height. When he came with the people he would be taller than them, the sweat on his face appeared like pearls.”

It has been affirmed in Saheeh al-Bukhari from Anas, he said, “I have never touched silk or Deebaj (thick silk) softer than the palm of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) nor have I smelt a perfume nicer than the sweat of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).”

Narrated by Anas, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had a bright complexion, it was as though his sweat was pearls. When he walked he would lean forward. And I have never touched silk or Deebaj (thick silk) softer than the palm of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) nor have I smelt a perfume nicer than the sweat of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).”

Narrated by Jabir bin Samurah, he said, “I prayed the first prayer [Fajr] with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), thereafter he went in to his family, and I left with him. Then the children received him so he began to stroke their cheeks one after the other. And as for me, when he stroked my cheeks then I noticed coldness and a scent from his hand as though he had taken it out from a perfume bottle.”

Narrated by Abu Juhaifah, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went at midday to al-Batha’, then he performed ablution and prayed adh-Dhuhr two units [Rak’ahs] with an ‘Anazah [iron tipped walking stick] in front of him.” ‘Awn added [the following wording] from his father, “The donkey and the woman would pass by behind it.” Hajjaj added to this hadeeth, “Then the people stood and began to take his hand wiping their faces with it. Then I took his hand and put it on my face and suddenly it was colder than ice and better in scent than perfume.”

Narrated by Yazeed bin al-Aswad, who said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed al-Fajr in Mina, thereafter he turned and saw two men behind the people. So he called them, then they were brought with their sides shaking. Then he said, “What prevented you from praying with the people?” They said, “O Messenger of Allah, we prayed at home or in a tent.” He said, “Then do not do so [don’t repeat this], if anyone amongst you prays in his house then comes to then reaches the prayer with the Imam, he should pray with him for it is Nafilah [superogatory] for him.” Then one of them said, “Ask forgiveness for me, O Messenger of Allah.” So he sought forgiveness for him.

Then the people rose for the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and I stood with them, and I was at the time the youngest and bravest of the men. I continued pushing the people till I reached the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then I took his hand and placed it either on my face or my chest. And I never found anything more fragrant or cooler than the hand of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). And he was at the time in al- Khaif Mosque.”

Narrated by Abdul-Jabbar bin Wa’il bin Hujr, he said, “My family informed me from my father, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was given a bucket of water so he drank from it. Thereafter, he spat in the bucket then poured into the well or drank from the bucket. Then he spat in the well and the likeness of the scent of musk arose from it.”This is how al-Baihaqi narrated it from the path of Ya’qoob bin Sufyan from Abu Nu’aim and his name was al-Fadl bin Dukain.

Narrated by Anas, he said, “When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed the morning prayer the servants of Madinah came with their vessels containing water. Then no vessel was brought except that he submerged his hand in it, and sometimes they would come in the cold morning and then he would submerge his hand in it [their vessels].”

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to enter the house of Umm Sulaim and sleep on her mattress when she wasn’t on it. One day he came and slept on it, then she was confronted and it was said to her, “This is the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) he slept in your house on your mattress.”

When she came, she saw him sweating and his sweat had become soaked on a piece of leather on the mattress. Then she opened her safe box or hand bag and began to gather that sweat and squeeze it into containers. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) became astonished and said, “What are you doing, O Umm Sulaim?” She said, “O Messenger of Allah we wish for its blessings for our children.” He said, “You did right.”

Narrated by Anas also, he said, “When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would pass on a pathway from the pathways of Madinah they found the scent of perfume from him and say, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) passed by on this path.”

And narrated from him, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “That which has been made beloved to me from this world are women, perfume and the pleasure of my eyes has been made in prayer.”

Description of the Seal of Prophethood which was between his (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) shoulders

Narrated by as-Sa’ib bin Yazeed, he said, “My maternal aunt took me to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, “O Messenger of Allah, the son of my sister has become ill.” Then he stroked my head and invoked blessings upon me and made ablution then I drank from his ablution water. I stood behind him and then I saw the Seal of Prophethood between his shoulders similar to the egg of a pigeon.”

Narrated by Jabir bin Samurah, he said, “The front of the forehead of the Messenger of Allah and his beard had become white and when he would oil his hair it would be concealed but when his hair was dry it would be apparent. He had a thick beard, and once a man asked, “Was his face like the sword?” He said, “No, rather it was like the sun and the moon and was round. And I saw the Seal by his shoulder like a pigeon’s egg similar to his body.”

Narrated by Abdullah bin Sarjis, he said, “I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and ate bread and meat with him,” or he said, “Porridge.” I said, “O Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) - may Allah forgive you.” He said, “And you.” Then I said, “Did the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ask for forgiveness for you?” He said, “Yes and for you [the believers].” Then he recited this verse: “And ask forgiveness for your sin, and also for (the sin of) believing men and believing women.” (Soorah Muhammad: 19) Then I moved behind him and I saw the Seal of the Prophets between his shoulders by his left shoulder blade, like closed fingers with two beauty spots on it like warts.”

Narrated by Mu’awiyah bin Qurrah from his father, he said, “I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, “O Messenger of Allah, show me the Seal.” Then he said, “Insert your hand.” So I inserted my hand in his shirt pocket and began to feel and look at the Seal and it was on his shoulder blade similar to an egg. That did not prevent him from praying for me whilst my hand was in his shirt pocket.”

Narrated by Abu Rimthah at-Taimi, he said, “I exited with my father until I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Then I saw trace of Hinna’ [dye] on his head and saw on his shoulder what was similar to an apple. Then my father said, “I am a doctor so shall I not cut it for you?” He said, “Its doctor is the One that created it.” And he said to my father, “Is this your son?” He said, “Yes.” He [the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)] said, “You should indeed not harm him nor should you harm him.”

The best opinion of Ibn Dihyah and others from the scholars before him in the wisdom behind the Seal being between the shoulders of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) is that it was an indication that there was no Prophet after him. It has been said it was on his shoulder blade because it is said that is the place from where the Shaitan enters inside man so this was a protection for him (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) from the Shaitan.

I say, we have previously mentioned the hadeeths illustrating that there is no Prophet nor Messenger after him during the explanation of His statement the Most High: “Muhammad ((Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) is not the father of any man among you, but he is the Messenger of Allah and the last (end) of the Prophets. And Allah is Ever All Aware of everything.” (Soorah al- Ahzab: 40)

Chapter

Compilation of the hadeeths concerning the description of the Messenger of Allah

It has been mentioned previously in the narration of Nafi‘ bin Jubair from Ali bin Abu Talib that he said, “I never saw before him or after him a similitude.”

Narrated by Ibraheem bin Muhammad the son of Ali, who said, “When Ali would describe the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) he would say, “He was not very tall nor was he very short he was of medium height, he did not have curly hair nor was it straight, he had hair in between that. He did not have a fat face or a thin face, there was a roundness in his face reddish-white [complexion], black eyes, long eyelashes, big boned and joints [i.e. knees, shoulders, elbows, wrist, ankle etc.].

He had a faint line of hair from his chest to his navel, big hands and feet, when he would walk he would raise his feet as though he was walking uphill and when he would turn he would turn with his whole body. Between his shoulders lay the Seal of Prophethood. He was from the most generous of people in giving and the most welcoming of them in receiving, the most truthful of people in speech, the most trustworthy of people in obligation, the most soft of them in character, most noble of them in companionship. Whoever saw him would naturally respect him, and whoever associated with him loved him. One person describing him said, “I never saw before him nor after him a similitude.” And Imam Abu Ubaid al-Qasim bin Sallam narrated this in Kitabul-Ghareeb. Thereafter he narrated from al-Kisa’i and alAsma’i and Abu ‘Amr an explanation of the Ghareeb [uncommon words], and a summary of the uncommon words mentioned in his narration: al- Mutahham means a full body, al-Mukaltham means very round face i.e., it was not fat and raised nor was it weak rather between that, and his face was not completely round rather it was slight in places and that is [considered] most preferred among the Arabs and those who know [of such matters].

He was white mixed with red and that is the best of complexions and for this reason he was not extremely white, and al-Ad‘aj means strong blackness of the pupils, and Jaleelul-Mushash means his joints (like the knees, elbows, shoulders, wrists) were broad and [so was] that which was near it from the body. And his statement Shathnal-Kaffain means big hands, and Taqalla‘a in his walk means fast walk. Mention of his groomed eyebrows with long eyelashes has occurred in a hadeeth, along with “He had Shabh arms,” i.e. thick arms. And Allah the Most High knows best.

The hadeeth of Umm Ma‘bad concerning him (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

The hadeeth has been mentioned previously in full in the Hijrah from Makkah to Madinah when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came to her [Umm Ma‘bad] with Abu Bakr and his Mawla Amir bin Fuhairah and their guide Abdullah bin Uraiqit ad-Deeli. Then they had asked her if she had any Laban or meat with her that they could purchase from her but they didn’t find anything with her. She said, “If we had anything I would entertain you,” and they [her tribe] were afflicted by drought [at that time].

Then he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) spotted at a sheep through a gap in the tent and said, “What is wrong with this sheep, O Umm Ma‘bad?” She said, “It is weak.” Then he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Would you let me milk her?” She said, “If it has milk then milk her.” Then he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) requested the sheep [be brought] and stroked it and mentioned the Name of Allah. Then he [the narrator] mentioned the hadeeth and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) milking it so that it was enough for all of them. Then he milked it and left a full vessel with her.

The group left after having quenched their thirst, then when her husband came he was astonished by the milk and said, “Where did you find this when there is no milk in the house and the sheep is single?” She said, “No, by Allah, indeed a blessed man passed and from his speech [and behavior] was such and such.” He said, “Describe him for me, by Allah, I indeed think he is the man whom the Quraish are searching for.”

She said, “He is bright, he has a good face, well-mannered, and is not defective with a large abdomen or a small head. He is a handsome man, the pupils of his eyes are very black, the hair of his eyelashes is very long, there is a mild hoarseness in his voice, intensely white and deep black eyes, his eyebrows are arched and very close to each other, his neck was radiant, and there was a thickness in his beard.

He is dignified when he is silent and he is splendid when he talks, he explains thoroughly not too little and not too much, he is fluent and his speech appears like pearls. He is most beautiful and graceful from a distance and the best one when he is near, no eye looks up to him out of tallness and no eye looks down on him from shortness. He becomes the brightest and the most supreme one when he is between two people, and the best of them in stature. He always has companions who listen to him when he talks and obey his orders when he ask them to do something, his companions accompany and serve him, he was not frowning, and he does not talk in vain.”

Then her husband said, “This is the one whom the Quraish seek, if I was to encounter him I would seek to accompany him and I would strive if I was to find a way to do so. Then there was a loud voice between the heavens and the earth, they could hear it but didn’t see who said it, and he said [some Arabic poetry],

“May Allah the Lord of mankind reward with his best reward,

The two companions that

resided in the tent of Umm

Ma’bad, They arrived in goodness and left with it,

So successful is the one who became a friend of Muhammad”

We mentioned previously Hassan bin Thabit’s response to this blessed poetry in a fashion similar to it in splendor.

Al-Hafiz Ya’qoob bin Sufyan al-Fasawi and al- Hafiz Abu Nu’aim in his book Dala’ilun-Nubuwwah. Abdul-Malik said, “It has reached me that Abu Ma’bad embraced Islam after that and that indeed Umm Ma’bad migrated then embraced Islam.”Thereafter al-Hafiz al-Baihaqi mentioned the uncommon words after this hadeeth.

Hadeeth of Hind bin Abu Halah

Al-Hasan bin Ali (May Allah be pleased with him) said: “I asked my uncle Hind bin Abu Halah about the hilyah

[description] of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Hind was known to be a prolific describer of the Prophet, and I wished him to relate some of it for me so I might hold fast to it.”

So Hind said: “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was of mighty significance to Allah, and profoundly honored among the people. His face radiated light like the moon on its fullest night. He was a bit taller than those of medium stature and a bit shorter than the tall and skinny. His head was large. His hair was wavy. If his hair parted, he would leave it parted, if not he would leave it, and it would not be long enough to go past his earlobes. His complexion was fair. He had a wide forehead, arched, thick eyebrows with a space between them. There was a vein between them that would swell and pulse when he was angry. His nose was aquiline; it had a brightness about the upper part that led those who were less observant to think him haughty. He had a thick beard. His eyes were very black and the whites very white. His cheeks were not prominent, he had a wide mouth. His teeth were white and there was a space between his front teeth.

“There was a fine line of hair on his chest, and it was as if it were an ivory statue with the purity of silver. His figure was well proportioned, full bodied and strong. There was no slackness in his musculature, his chest did not protrude over his belly, nor the reverse. His chest was broad and his shoulders wide and muscular. He had large limbs. The parts of his body that could be seen while he was clothed were luminous. His body from the neck to the navel was joined by hair which flowed down like a line. There was no hair on his nipples. His forearms, shoulders, and upper chest were hairy. The bones of his forearms were long. His palms were wide and generous. His hands and feet were thick. His limbs were long. He had long sinews. His insteps were high. His feet were smooth without protuberances and water would run off them.

When he would move off, he would move with determination. He would step surely and unhurriedly and not proudly. He walked gently and with dignity, and he would take wide steps when he wanted to walk quickly. When he walked, it was as if he were descending from a slope and when he would look at someone, he would turn to him fully. He would lower his gaze and looked down more often than up. He did not stare. He would lead his companions by walking behind them out of modesty and would always be the first to greet them.”

At this point, Al-Hasan said to Hind, “Describe to me the way he spoke.”

Hind said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was continually full of concern. He was constantly deep in thought. He had no rest, and would not speak without a reason. He would be silent for long periods of time. He would begin conversations, and end them clearly and distinctly and would speak in a way that combined many meanings in few words. He spoke with excellence, and there was no excess in it, nor unnatural brevity. He was gentle by nature and not coarse, nor was he contemptuous of anyone.

He would extol the favors he received, even when they were few and small. He never found fault with them. He never criticized the food or drink that was prepared for him, nor did he overly praise it. No one would stand against his anger when matters of the Lord’s truth were opposed, until he had triumphed, but he would never get angry for his own sake, nor would he ever seek to win such an argument. He would gesture with his whole palm, to point. When he was astonished, he would make his palm face upwards. He used his hands frequently as he spoke, and would strike his left palm with his right thumb. When he would get angry, he would turn away and avert his gaze, and when he was full of joy he would lower his eyes. Most of his laughing was [no more than] smiling; when he did laugh, it was not loud, and he would show his teeth a bit like they were hailstones.”

Al-Hasan said, “I kept this report to myself, away from [my brother] Al-Husain for a while, then I told it to him, but he had already heard it and found out even more. He had asked our father [Ali] about the way the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was at home, when he went out in his assemblies, and about his way of living.” Al-Hasan left nothing of this out.

Al-Husain said, “I asked my father [Ali], about how the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered the house. He [Ali] said, “He always asked permission to enter his home, from Allah, and those within. When he was at home, he would divide his time into three parts: one part for Allah, one for his family and one for himself. Then he would divide his own portion between himself and the people. His chosen companions would mostly share this time with him, and they would convey his words to the common people. He would hold nothing back from them, neither knowledge or worldly things. It was his way to prefer the people of excellence, according to their merit in religious matters. Among the people there were those with a need, those with two needs, and those with many needs. He would work with them, and he would occupy them and the community in general with that which would improve their situations.

This he would do by asking about them and their needs, and informing them what they ought to do. He would say, ‘Let the one who is present among you inform the one who is absent, and bring to me the need of the one who is unable to tell me himself. Truly, the one who informs a person of authority of the need of one who is unable to convey it himself, Allah will make firm his feet on the Day of Judgment.’ This was the kind of topic mentioned in his presence, and he did not accept anything else from anyone [he did not like meaningless conversation and liked to talk about how to help people].”

Ali then said, in the hadeeth of Sufyan bin Wakee‘: “They would come as scouts [seeking decisions or knowledge], and they would not go on their way until they had found what they sought, and then they would leave as guides and learned people.”

I said [Husain to his father Ali], “Tell me about his going out and how he acted outside.”

Ali said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), would hold his tongue except in matters which concerned his companions. He would encourage affection and concord between them and would say nothing to alienate one from another. He honored the noblemen of every people who would come to him and make them their leaders. He would be wary around some people and on his guard against them [especially nomads], but he would never withhold from anyone his open-faced friendliness and fine personality. He would ask his companions about their circumstances, and he would ask people about what was going on amongst them. He would approve of that which was good and advocate it, and he would denounce that which was base and discourage it.

“Everything he did was in moderation, without excess or contrariness. He was not thoughtless, out of fear that those who came to him would become unmindful or weary. He was prepared for every situation in this world and the next. He did not fail to fulfill what was right, and he did not overstep his authority in regards to those near him. The most meritorious and excellent people to him were those whose advice was most universal; the most significant of them to him were those most beneficial to others, and the most helpful in helping others bear their burdens.”

Then Al-Husain said, “Then I asked him [Ali] about his gatherings and about what he did in them, and he said: “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), did not sit down or stand up without mentioning Allah, nor did he reserve for himself fixed places among the people to be seated, and he forbade others also to reserve places for themselves [especially in mosques and public gatherings]. When he would go to visit a group, he would sit in the nearest available spot, and ordered that others follow this practice. He would give those seated near him his full share of attention in such a way that no one would think others had been given precedence over him.

Whenever someone he sat with would tell him of his needs, he would bear with that person until that person left him. When someone would ask him to solve a problem, he would not turn him away without solving it for him, if possible, or saying a comforting word or a prayer for its fulfillment. His cheerfulness and open personality were felt by all the people, and he became like a father to them. They came to have the right of mercy and compassion from him, as they were close, like the relation of parent and child, distinguished only by virtue and devotion to Allah. And in another narrative, they became equals regarding their rights in his eyes.

“Assemblies with him were gatherings of gentleness, dignified conduct, modesty, patience, and trust. No voice would be raised, nor would women be spoken of in a depraved way, nor would people’s errors be mentioned. [This last item comes via different narrations.] They inclined to each other in affection born out of devotion to Allah, as humble people. In these gatherings, the old were honored, the young were treated with gentleness. They would come to the aid of the needy and would have compassion for the stranger.”

And then I asked him [Ali] about the Messenger’s conduct among his close associates and servants.

[Ali] said: “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), was unfailingly cheerful, easygoing by nature, and mild mannered. He was neither crude nor harsh. He was not a clamorous loudmouth, nor a repeater of obscenities. He was not one to find fault in others, nor did he overly praise them either. He was unconcerned about what he did not want, and this did not bother him. He allowed his soul no portion of three things – hypocrisy, acquisitiveness, and that which did not concern him. He did not allow himself to engage in three things regarding people – he would not criticize others, he would not revile anyone, and he would not seek out others’ faults. He would speak of nothing unless he hoped a reward from Allah for it.

When he would talk, the ones sitting with him would be so still and quiet, you would imagine birds were sitting on their heads. When he was silent, they would talk, but not quarrel in his presence. When one of them would talk, they would all listen attentively until he had finished. They would speak about a subject that was brought up by the first to speak until they had finished with it. He would laugh at what they laughed at, and he would be amazed by what amazed them. He was patient with the stranger who had roughness in his speech. He would say, ‘Whenever you see someone seeking to solve a problem, help him out.’ He did not seek praise, except to be spoken of appropriately. He would not interrupt another’s speech unless it got excessive or too long, then he would end it or get up to leave.”

[Al-Hasan continues in the words of his brother Al-Husain]. I said [to Ali], “What was the silence of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) like?”

He said, “His silences were for four situations: forbearance, caution, estimation, and contemplation. As for his estimation, it was to take an impartial study of events and listen to the people in order to be just. As for his contemplation, it was about what was eternal and what was transitory. His forbearance was part of his patience, he was not angered by that which was provocative. His caution was for four reasons – taking good speech or action into consideration so he might use it in an exemplary way; abjuring the ugly and bad so it would be left alone; exerting his judgment to improve the situation of his community; [and] establishing ways to maintain the good state of his community in regard to this world and the next.”

Narrated by ‘Uqbah bin al-Harith he said, “Abu Bakr prayed al-Asr after the death of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) by a few nights, then he and Ali went out walking and suddenly saw al-Hasan bin Ali [who] was playing with the children. Then Abu Bakr lifted him on to his shoulders and said, “Let my father be sacrificed for your sake, [you] resemble the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and not Ali,” whilst Ali was laughing at them (May Allah be pleased with him).”

Narrated by Abu Juhaifah, he said, “I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and al-Hasan bin Ali resembled him.”

Narrated by Ali (May Allah be pleased with him) who said, “Al-Hasan is the most resemblant of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) between his chest and head and al-Husain is the most resemblant of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the area below that.”

Section: His manners and pure characteristics

We mentioned his noble origin and ancestry, the purity of his lineage and birth and Allah the Most High indeed said, “Allah knows best with whom to place His Message” [Soorah al-An‘am: 124]

Narrated by Abu Hurairah, indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “I was sent from the best of the generations of Adam’s children, generation after generation till I was from the generation I am now in.”

In Saheeh Muslim from Wathilah bin al-Asqa‘, who said the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Indeed Allah chose Quraish from the children of Isma‘eel and chose the children of Hashim from Quraish. And he chose me from the children of Hashim.”

Allah (SWT) says:

“Noon. [These letters (Noon, etc.) are one of the miracles of the Qur‘ân, and none but Allah (Alone) knows their meanings]. By the pen and what the (angels) write (in the Records of men). You (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) are not, by the Grace of your Lord, a madman.

And verily, for you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) will be an endless reward. And verily, you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) are on an exalted standard of character.” [Soorah al Qalam: 1-4]

Al-Awfi said narrating from Ibn Abbas regarding His statement, The Most High: “And verily, you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) are on an exalted standard of character.” [Soorah al-Qalam: 4] It means, and verily you are on a great religion and that is Islam. This is what Mujahid, Ibn Malik, as-Suddi, ad-Dhahhak, Abdur- Rahman bin Zaid bin Aslam mentioned and al- Atiyyah said, “On great manners or conduct.”

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Muslim from the hadeeth of Qatadah narrated from Zurarah bin Awfa, from Sa’d bin Hisham, he said, “I asked ‘Aishah the Mother of the Believers, and said, ‘Inform me of the manners of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)’ so she said, “Do you not read the Qur’an?” I said, ‘Indeed.’ Then she said, “His manners were [in accordance with] the Qur’an.”

Narrated by al-Hasan al-Basri, he said, “Aishah was asked about the manners of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), so she said, “His manners were the Qur’an.”

The meaning of this is that indeed his manners – (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) – no matter what the Qur’an commanded him with - he implemented it, and whatever it forbade him he abstained from it. This is in accordance with what Allah fashioned him upon, from a great natural sound disposition that nobody has ever had nor shall have perfected [manners] more than him. He legislated for him the great religion that He never ordained for anyone before him and in addition to that he is the Seal of the Prophets, so there shall be no Messenger or Prophet after him. He possessed shyness, generosity, courage, forbearance, remission, mercy and the rest of the perfect mannerisms that cannot be defined or described [completely].

Narrated by Abdullah bin az-Zubair regarding the statement of the Most High: “Show forgiveness, enjoin what is good, and turn away from the foolish (i.e. don’t punish them)” [Soorah al-A‘raf: 199] He said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was commanded to take forgiveness from the manners of the people.”

Narrated by al-Bara’ bin Azib, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had the most handsome face of the people and was the best of the people in manners.”Malik said [narrating] from az-Zuhri, from Urwah, from ‘Aishah, she said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was not given a choice between two matters except that he chose the easiest of them as long as it was not a sin, and if it was a sin he was the most distant of people from it. He never sought revenge for himself except if a boundary of Allah was violated then he would seek revenge for Allah’s sake.”

Narrated by ‘Aishah, she said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) never hit anyone with his hand, not a slave nor a woman nor a servant unless he was fighting Jihad in the way of Allah. And nobody ever wronged him and then he took revenge from him except if a boundary from the boundaries of Allah was violated, then he would take revenge for the sake of Allah the Great and the Almighty.”

Narrated by Abu Ishaq [he said], “I heard Abu Abdullah al-Jadali say, “I heard ‘Aishah and asked her about the manners of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), so she said, “He was not foul in speech nor would he commit foul acts, nor was he one to shout in the markets, and he would not follow a wrongdoing with a wrongdoing rather he would forgive and pardon – or he said – pardon and forgive.”

Narrated by Abdullah bin ‘Amr he said, “Indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) is described in the Tawrat just as he is described in the Qur’an, “O Prophet (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him))! Verily, We have sent you as witness, and a bearer of glad tidings, and a warner” [Soorah al-Ahzab: 45], and a refuge for the illiterate. You are my slave and Messenger. I named you the Mutawakkil [one who relies on his Lord] not harsh or severe, nor one who shouts in the markets. And one who does not reward a wrong doing with a [another] wrong doing, however he forgives and pardons. And he [his Lord] will not take him until he straightens with him the crooked path [correct the distorted religion] until they say, “There is no true deity that deserves to be worshipped but Allah.” And that he opens blind eyes, deaf ears and sealed hearts.”

Narrated by Abu Sa‘eed, who said, “The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was more shy than a virgin in her separate room.” And when he disliked something it would be known by his facial expression.

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, who said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was not abusive, nor a curser and nor foul [in speech] and he would say to one of us when rebuking, “What is wrong with him, may his forehead be dusty [i.e. an invocation for him so that he is enabled to make a lot of prostrations].”

Narrated by Anas, who said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had the most handsome face, he was from the most generous of people and was from the most courageous of the people. Once the people of Madinah got terrified at night, so they went in the direction of the noise [that terrified them]. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) met them on the way back as he had beat them to the [source of] noise. He was riding an unsaddled horse belonging to Abu Talhah and a sword was hanging out by his neck, and he was saying, “Do not be afraid. Do not be afraid. I found it very fast – or he said – this horse is very fast.”He [sub narrator] said, “It was a slow horse.”

Narrated by Ali bin Abu Talib, he said, “When it was the Battle of Badr we were safe from the idolaters with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). And he was the most severe person [in battle].”

It has been mentioned previously in the Battle of Hawazin, that when the majority of his Companions fled on that day, he – may peace be upon him – stayed firm on his mule whilst commending his noble name, saying, “I am the Prophet, no lie. I am the son of Abdul- Muttalib.”And despite that he would ride the mule towards the enemy and this is the epitome of great courage and complete reliance [on Allah] - may the prayers of Allah and peace be upon him.

In Saheeh Muslim narrated from Anas, he said, “When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) arrived in Madinah Abu Talhah took me by the hand to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then he said, “O Messenger of Allah, indeed Anas is a young active boy, so let him serve you.” So I served him on journey and Hadar [when he was stationed in one place, the opposite state of journey]. By Allah, he never said to me about a matter, “Why did you do this like so?” Nor to a matter I did not perform, “Why did not you do this like so ?”

Narrated by Anas, he said, “I served the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) for nine years and I do not remember him ever saying, “Why did you do such and such?” And he did not ever rebuke me over anything.”

Narrated by Anas also, who said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was the best of the people in mannerisms. One day he sent me for a need [i.e., on an errand], so I said, ‘By Allah I won’t go’. While within me, I wanted to perform that which the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ordered me with. So I exited to pass by some children playing in the market, then suddenly the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) grabbed hold of my neck from behind me. I looked at him whilst he was laughing then he said, “O Unais [lessened version of the name Anas], did you go to where I ordered you?” I said, ‘Yes, I am going O Messenger of Allah’. By Allah I served him for nine years, I do not remember him saying about a matter I performed, “Why did you do such and such?” or a matter that I left, “If only you had done such and such.”

He said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was the most well mannered of people and I had a brother called Abu Umair, - he [the sub-narrator] said, “I thought he said weaning [young child]” - so when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came and saw him he said, “O Abu Umair, what did the small Nughayr [bird] do [for you].” [The subnarrator said:] It was a serin that he used to play with.

[Anas] He said, “Sometimes the time of prayer would enter when he was in our house and then [he would] order that the rug under him was brushed then water would be sprinkled on it, thereafter the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would stand and we would stand behind then he would lead us in prayer.” [The sub-narrator added] He said, “And their rug was from the leaves of date palm trees.”

Narrated by Ibn Abbas, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was the most generous of people, and he would be most generous in Ramadan when Jibreel would meet him and teach him the Qur’an. Indeed, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was more generous than the strong uncontrollable wind [in readiness to give charity].”

Narrated by ‘A’ishah, she said, “If something [disliked] from a man reached the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), he would not say, “What is wrong with so and so?” However, he would say, “What is wrong with the people they say such and such.”

It has been affirmed in the Saheeh that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Nobody should tell me anything [disliked] about anyone. I prefer to meet you with a sound heart.”

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, he said, “I was walking with the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he was wearing a cloak with a thick hem. Then a Bedouin came to him and pulled his cloak roughly and I looked at the base of the Messenger of Allah’s shoulder and saw that it had left a mark from the harshness of the tugging. Then he said, “O Muhammad, order for me some of Allah’s wealth that is with you.”Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) turned to him, he smiled and commanded that he should be given [money],” reported by the two Imams from the hadeeth of Malik.

Narrated by Abu Hurairah, he said, “We were with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the mosque, then when we stood with him a Bedouin came and said, “Give me [money/provision], O Muhammad.” So he said, “No, and ask forgiveness from Allah.” So he pulled him by his belt [in a narration, his hem] and it left a mark on him. They [the people] wanted to kill him, then he said, “Leave him.”Then he gave him, his oath used to be, “No, and ask forgiveness from Allah.”

Narrated by Zaid bin Arqam, he said, “A man from the Ansar would enter upon the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he would trust him. [Once] He tied a knot [for the purpose of sorcery] and threw it in a well, then that overwhelmed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Then two angels came to visit him and told him that so and so had tied a knot for him and it was in such and such well. The well had become yellow due to the severity of the knot. Then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went to the well and extracted the knot. He found that the water had turned yellow. Thereafter he opened the knot then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) slept. For indeed I saw the man enter upon the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) after that and I did not see him in the presence of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) till he died.

I say: it is well known in the Saheeh that the Jew Labeed bin al-A’sam was the one who performed magic on the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with a comb, the hair gathered on it in the outer skin of the pollen of the male date palm underneath the lid of the Dhi 'Arwan well. The state remained the same for approximately 6 months [under the influence of magic] until Allah revealed the two Soorahs for protection [al-Falaq and an-Nas]. It has been said that the verses of the two chapters amount to 11 verses and the knot whose magic he was victim to, consisted of 11 knots and we have mentioned that in sufficient detail in our book Tafseer. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, he said, "I never saw a man embrace the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and then [saw him – peace be upon him] move his head until that man moved his head [away from the other]. And I never saw a man take hold of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) then [saw him] let go until the man let go of his hand." Narrated only by Abu Dawood.

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, he said, "There was a young slave girl from the slave girls of the people of Madinah that used to come and take the hand of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). He would not remove his hand from hers until she took him to where she willed." Narrated by Ibn Majah from the hadeeth of Shu'bah.

Narrated by Anas also, he said, "A woman who had mental disorientation said, "O Messenger of Allah, I have a need." So he said, "O mother of so and so, see which path you wish to take [in order that I solve your need]. Then he went with her and spoke to her in seclusion until she had obtained her need."

It has been affirmed from Abu Hurairah, who said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) never criticized food, if he liked it he ate it and if not, he left it.”

Narrated by Abu Sa‘eed al-Khudri, “When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would sit he would sit with his hands wrapped round his shins to his chest.”

Narrated by Abdullah bin Hassan al-‘Anbari, he said, “Both my grandmothers, Safiyyah and Duhaibah daughters of ‘Ulaibah – Moosa [the sub narrator] added, “the daughter of Harmalah.” And they were the stepdaughters of Qailah bint Makhramah who was the grandmother of their father. She told them that she saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) when he was sitting with his hands wrapped around his shins to his chest. Then when I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the state of humbleness in his sitting, I feared him.”

Narrated by ‘A’ishah, “Indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would talk with words such that if one was to enumerate them he would have been able to [due to their order and clarity].”

And also from ‘Aishah, she said, “Did not Abu so and so surprise you? He came and sat by my house and mentioned hadeeth[s] from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) making me hear that [due to the loudness of his voice] whilst I was praying Nafilah. He left before I finished my Nafilah and if I had reached him I would have replied to him [saying] that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) never used to relate hadeeth as you do [in one tone].”

Narrated by ‘A’ishah, she said, “The Prophet’s speech used to have breaks in it - everyone would understand it. He never used to recite with a continuous tone.”

Narrated by Ibn Umar, he said, “In the speech of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was intonation or [he said] fluidity.”

Narrated by Anas he said, “When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would mention a word [of importance] he would repeat it three times. And when he gave Salaam to a people he gave Salaam thrice.”

Narrated by Thumamah bin Anas, he said, “When Anas spoke he repeated himself three times and he said that when the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would speak he would repeat himself thrice, it was his (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) guidance in speech. And he used to seek permission to enter [a dwelling] three times.”

In the Saheeh, he said, “I have been given eloquent speech and speech has been abbreviated for me [i.e. shortened speech].”

Narrated by Abu Hurairah, he said, “I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “I have been sent with eloquent speech and have been given victory with awe. And whilst I was asleep I was given the keys to the bounties of the earth in my hand.”

It has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from ‘A’ishah, she said, “I never saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) laugh fully to the extent that I could see his teeth, he would only smile.”

Narrated by Abdullah bin al-Harith bin Jaz', he said, "I never saw anyone smile more than the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)."

And Muslim said, "Narrated by Simak bin Harb, "I said to Jabir bin Samurah, did you used to sit with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)?" He said, "Yes, many a times he would not move from the place of prayer that he prayed Fajr in until the sun rose, then when it rose he left. And they [Companions] used to talk about what they did in Jahiliyyah and they would laugh and he would smile."

His Generosity

What has been narrated in the two Saheehs from Ibn Abbas, he said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was the most generous of people, and he would be most generous in Ramadan when Jibreel would meet him and teach him the Qur'an. Indeed, The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was more generous than the strong uncontrollable wind [in readiness to give charity]. This similitude is the epitome of eloquence in making a similitude with the uncontrollable wind in its generality and limitless abundance.

In the two Saheehs from Jabir bin Abdullah, he said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was never asked anything and then replied, "No.""

Narrated by Anas, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was not asked for anything upon Islam except that he gave it to him. A man came to him and asked him, so he ordered for [as] many sheep [as filled] between two mountains from the sheep of Zakat. Then he returned to his people and said, “O my people, embrace Islam for indeed Muhammad gives in the manner of someone who doesn’t fear poverty.”

And from him – may Allah reward him – he said, “A man asked the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) so he gave him some sheep [such that they filled the space] between two mountains. Then he came to his people and said, “O my people embrace Islam, for by Allah Muhammad gives in the way of the one who does not fear poverty.” Indeed a man would come to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) not wanting anything but worldly [matters], then he would not reach the evening until his religion would be more beloved and dear to him than the world and that which is in it.”

And this giving [in charity] indeed pleases the hearts of those with weak hearts [faith] in [staying on] Islam and encourages others to enter into Islam, just as he did in the Battle of Hunain when he distributed the abundant wealth from camels, sheep and silver among those who were al-Mu’allafatu Quloobuhum [bringing hearts together for Islam]. Despite that he did not give the Ansar and the majority of the Muhajiroon anything. Rather, he distributed [the spoils] amongst those whose hearts he wanted to bring upon Islam and left them because of the richness and goodness that was [already] in their hearts.

When condoling whoever questioned him about the wisdom behind this distribution, and answering those who rebuked him from a group of the Ansar, he said, “Are you not satisfied that the people leave with sheep and camel and that you leave with the Messenger of Allah, returning with him to your homes?” They said, “We are satisfied, O Messenger of Allah.”

Similarly, he gave his uncle al-Abbas after he embraced Islam when the fortune from Bahrain came to him and was placed in front of him in the mosque. Al-Abbas came to him and said, “O Messenger of Allah give me [from the fortune] because I redeemed myself in the Battle of Badr and I redeemed ‘Aqeel [he paid for his and ‘Aqeel’s freedom], so he said, “Take.” Then he removed his thawb and began to place some of the fortune in it then he stood up to carry it but he couldn’t, then he said to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), “Lift it on my back.” He said, “I will not do so.” So [al-Abbas] said, “Order some of them to lift it on my back.” So he said, “No.” So he removed something from it and still couldn’t carry it. Then he asked him to lift it or tell some of them to lift it yet he did not, so he removed some of it and carried the rest. And he left the mosque carrying it whilst the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) watched him in amazement at his zeal.”

I say: al-Abbas was a tall, strong nobleman, so the least of what he could carry would have been close to 40,000 And Allah (SWT) knows best. Al-Bukhari mentioned it in his Saheeh in some places in suspended form [without mentioning the transmitter] in the form of certainty [that it is a Saheeh hadeeth].

And this is mentioned from the virtues of al-Abbas because of His statement the Most High: “O Prophet! Say to the captives that are in your hands: “If Allah knows any good in your hearts, He will give you something better than what has been taken from you, and He will forgive you, and Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful” [Soorah al-Anfal: 70]

It has preceded from Anas bin Malik, his (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) servant that he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was the most generous of people and the most courageous of them....”And how could it not be so, when he is the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and formed with the most perfect of attributes, firm in belief in what is in Allah’s hands the Great and the Almighty, the one to whom Allah revealed His perfected great book: “And what is the matter with you that you spend not in the Cause of Allah? And to Allah belongs the heritage of the heavens and the earth” [Soorah al-Hadeed: 10]

And He said, the Most High: “And whatsoever you spend of anything (in Allah’s Cause), He will replace it. And He is the Best of providers.” [Soorah Saba’: 39]

He is the one who said to his Mu’aththin Bilal and he is the truthful and his truthfulness is attested in promise and speech, “Spend O Bilal, and do not fear diminution from the Possessor of the Throne [Allah].”

He (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) is the one who said, “There is not a day that the slaves [mankind] wake in the morning except that two angels descend, one of them says, “O Allah give the one who spends a replacement [reward for charity].”And the other says, “O Allah give the miser loss.” And in the other hadeeth, he said to ‘A’ishah, “Do not gather your wealth and be miserly with it lest Allah is miserly with you. And do not prevent [anyone] from what you have lest Allah will prevent you [from what he has].”

In the Saheeh he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Allah the Great and the Almighty says: “Spend O son of Adam, I will spend on you.”And how couldn’t he be the most generous of the people when there was nobody who had greater reliance [on Allah] than him, with firm belief in Allah's provision and help, the one who sought aid from his Lord in all of his affairs? He was - before his Prophethood, after it and before his migration - a source of refuge for the poor, widows, orphans, the weak and the poor as mentioned previously in the famous poem by his uncle Abu Talib.

His Humility

Narrated by Anas, "A man said to the Messenger of Allah, "O master and the son of our master. O, the best of us and the son of the best of us." So the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "O people, say what you have to say, do not allow the Shaitan fascinate you. I am Muhammad bin Abdullah, the Slave of Allah and his Messenger. By Allah I do not like that you raise me above the station that Allah has raised me."

In Saheeh Muslim from 'Umar bin al-Khattab, he said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Do not exaggerate your praise of me like the Christians exaggerated the praise of 'Eesa [Jesus] the son of Maryam, for I am only the Slave of Allah and his Messenger."

Narrated by al-Aswad, he said, "I said to 'A'ishah, "What did the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) do for his family?" She said, "He was in the service of his family, then when the time for prayer entered he left for the prayer."

Narrated by 'Urwah and Hisham bin 'Urwah from his father, he said, "A man asked 'A'ishah, "Did the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) work in the house?"

She said, “Yes, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to repair his sandals, sew his thawb and work in the house just as any of you work in the house.”

Narrated by ‘Amrah, she said, “I said to ‘A’ishah, how was the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with his family?” She said, “He was the softest of people, the most noble of them and he was someone who was cheerful and smiling.”

Narrated by Anas, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would make much remembrance of Allah, minimize idle speech, ride a donkey, wear wool and respond to the invitations of the kings. I indeed saw him in the Battle of Khaibar on a donkey, its rein was of fiber.”

Narrated by Abdullah bin Abu ‘Awfa, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would make much remembrance of Allah, minimize idle speech, lengthen the prayer, shorten the Khutbah, he was not too haughty to [prevent him] walk with a slave, nor the widows in order that he serves their needs.”

Narrated by Abu Moosa, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would ride the donkey, wear wool [clothing], milk the sheep and he would come to honor the guest.”

Narrated by Sahl Mawla Ghunaimah - he was a Christian from the people of Maris and he was in the house of his uncle - and he said, “Today I read from the scripture [Bible] of my uncle and I saw in it a page without lines and I saw on it the description of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him): “Not tall nor short, white [complexion] with two plaits, between his shoulders is the seal [of the Prophets], he sits much in a state of Ihtiba’, he does not accept charity, he rides the donkey and camel, he milks sheep, wears a stitched shirt and whoever does that is free from arrogance, he is from the descendants of Isma‘eel and his name is Ahmad.” When my uncle came and saw that I read it, he hit me and said why did you open this?” I said, “In it is the description of Ahmad.” So he said, “He hasn’t arrived yet.”

Narrated by Anas, he said, “I never saw anyone who was more merciful to children than the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).”

And al-Bukhari narrated from Anas, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) passed by some children playing and gave Salaam to them.”

His Humor

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, “A man came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and sought a ride. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “We are going to carry you on the young of a she camel.” So he said, “O Messenger of Allah what shall I do with a young of a she camel?” Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “And does the camel give birth to other than she camels?”

Narrated by ‘Awf bin Malik al-Ashja‘i, he said, “I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the Battle of Tabook when he was in a tent made from leather, so I gave the Salaam, he replied and said, “Enter.” I said, “All of me O Messenger of Allah?” He said, “Entirely,” so I entered.”

Narrated by Anas, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to me, “O, the one who has two ears.”

Also narrated by him [Anas](May Allah be pleased with him), “A man from the Bedouins called Zahir used to give the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) a gift from the desert and the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would inform him when he wanted to exit. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Zahir is our [man] desert and we are his [men] urban area. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to love him and he was not a handsome man. Once the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came to him when he was selling his things and hugged him from behind when he could not see him. Then the man said, “Let go of me, who is this?”

Then he turned and recognized the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and didn't mind that his back was pressed against the chest of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) when he knew it was him. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) began to say, “Who will buy this slave?” So he said, “O Messenger of Allah, by Allah so you find me unsalable.” Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “However with Allah you are not unsalable,” – or he said – “However with Allah you are expensive.”

Also from this type [of humor] is what al-Bukhari narrated in his Saheeh, “A man called Abdullah, nicknamed al-Himar (donkey) used to make the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) laugh and he was brought summoned [for punishment] for drinking [alcohol] so he was summoned on one day then a man said, “May Allah curse him! How often it is that he is summoned [for punishment]. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Do not curse him because he loves Allah and his Messenger.”

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, “The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was on a journey and the camel rider was escorting his wives and his wives were in front of him so he said, “O Anjashah, woe be unto you! Be careful with the glass vessels.”The meaning of al-Qawareer, is women, and it was a word of jest - may the prayers of Allah and his peace be upon him forever till the Day of Judgment.

Also from his noble manners, jesting and good manners is his listening to the hadeeth of Umm Zar‘ from ‘Aishah till its completion. And it is mentioned in some of the narrations that he is the one who informed ‘Aishah.

Narrated by al-Hasan, he said, “An old woman came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, “O Messenger of Allah pray for me that Allah enters me into paradise. He said, “O Mother of so and so, no old woman shall enter paradise.” Then the old woman left crying, so he said, “Inform her that she won’t enter when she is old because Allah the Most High said: “Verily, We have created them (maidens) of special creation. And made them virgins. Loving (their husbands only), equal in age.” [Soorah al-Waqi‘ah: 35-37]

Narrated by Abu Hurairah, who said, “They said, O Messenger of Allah you joke with us.” He said, “I only tell the truth.”

His abstinence (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his disregard of this world, his focus, effort and action for the world of eternity

The Most High says:

“And strain not your eyes in longing for the things We have given for enjoyment to various groups of them (polytheists and disbelievers in the Oneness of Allah), the splendor of the life of this world that We may test them thereby. But the provision (good reward in the Hereafter) of your Lord is better and more lasting.” [Soorah Taha: 131]

Allah the Most High says:

“And keep yourself (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) patiently with those who call on their Lord (i.e. your companions who remember their Lord with glorification, praising in prayers, and other righteous deeds) morning and afternoon, seeking His Face; and let not your eyes overlook them, desiring the pomp and glitter of the life of the world; and obey not him whose heart We have made heedless of Our Remembrance, and who allows his own lusts, and whose affair (deeds) has been lost.” Allah the Most High says:

“Therefore withdraw (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) from him who turns away from Our Reminder (this Qur’an) and desires nothing but the life of this world. That is what they could reach of knowledge.”
[Soorah an-Najm: 29, 30]

He (SWT) says:

“And indeed, We have bestowed upon you seven of Al-Mathani (the seven repeatedly recited Verses), (i.e. Soorat Al-Fatihah) and the Grand Qur’an. Look not with your eyes ambitiously at what We have bestowed on certain classes of them (the disbelievers), nor grieve over them. And lower your wings for the believers (be courteous to the fellow-believers)” [Soorah Al- Hijr 15:87, 88].

And the verses in this respect are many.

Ibn Abbas would narrate, “Allah sent one of the angels to his Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with Jibreel, and the angel said to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), “Allah gives you the choice either to become a Prophet slave or a Prophet king.” So the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) turned to Jibreel like the one who seeks counsel then Jibreel indicated to him that he should be humble. Thereafter the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Rather, I shall be a Prophet slave.” From those words onwards, he never ate leaning back until he met Allah the Great and the Almighty.

It has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from the hadeeth of Ibn Abbas, from Umar bin al-Khattab in the hadeeth of the 'Eela' [type of divorce] of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) from his wives that he would not have intimate relations with his wives for a month. He secluded himself from them in a single room, and when Umar entered upon him in that room he saw that there wasn't anything therein except for a pile of prickly leaves and some leather skin hung up and a heap of wheat whilst he was lying on a knitted rug that had left an impression on his side.

On seeing this, Umar began to cry then he [the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)] said, “What is wrong with you?” So I said, “O Messenger of Allah, you are the best of Allah’s creation and Kisra and Qaisar are in [the bliss] the condition that they are in.” Then he sat up with a reddened face and said, “Are you in a state of doubt, O Ibn al-Khattab?” Thereafter he said, “They are a people who have had their pleasures/enjoyment brought forward for their worldly abode.”

In the narration of Muslim, “Are you not satisfied that they have the worldly life and for us is the Hereafter?” So I said, “Indeed, O Messenger of Allah.” He said, “So praise Allah the Great and the Almighty.” Then when a month passed by Allah the Great and the Almighty commanded him to inform his wives and revealed to him his statement:

“O Prophet (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him))! Say to your wives: If you desire the life of this world, and its glitter, Then come! I will make a provision for you and set you free in a handsome manner (divorce). But if you desire Allah and His Messenger, and the home of the Hereafter, then verily, Allah has prepared for the good-doers amongst you an enormous reward.” [Soorah al- Ahzab 33: 28, 29].

And we mentioned this in detail in our book Tafseer. So he began with ‘A’ishah and said to her, “I am going to mention a matter to you, so do not rush until you ask your parents’ permission.” And he read to her this verse. She said, “I said, “Shall I ask my parents’ permission in this? For indeed I choose Allah and his Messenger and the abode of the Hereafter.” And the rest of his wives also said the same - may Allah be pleased with them.

Narrated by Ibn Mas‘ood, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) lay on a rug and the rug left a mark on his skin. Then I began to rub it and said, “May my father and mother be sacrificed for you! Would you not give me permission so we can spread something that will protect you from that you can lie on?” He said, “My example in this world is that of a traveler that took rest under the shade of a tree and then went and left it.”

Narrated by Abu Hurairah: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “If I had the amount of Uhud in gold it would not please me that three nights pass by me and I have some of it left over, unless I was to keep it for a debt.”

Narrated by Abu Hurairah, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “O Allah, the provision of the family of Muhammad, is basic food needs.”

Narrated by Anas, he said, “O Allah let me live the life of a poor person, cause me to die as a poor person and raise me with the poor people on the Day of Judgment.” Then ‘A’ishah said, “Why, O Messenger of Allah?” He said, “Indeed they enter Paradise before the rich by [the period of] 40 autumns. O ‘A’ishah, do not turn the poor person away even [if you give] a date stone. O ‘A’ishah, love the poor and bring them close, then Allah will bring you near on the Day of Judgment.”

Narrated by Sahl bin Sa‘d, he was asked, “Did the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) see an-Naqiyy with his eyes, i.e., al-Huwwara [a type of bread]. Then he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not see an-Naqiyy with his eyes until he met Allah the Great and the Almighty.” Then he was asked,

“Did you have sieves in the era of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)?” He said, “We didn’t have sieves.” Then he was asked, “So what do you do with wheat?” He said, “We would blow it, some of it would be blown away.”

Narrated by Abu Umamah, he said, “Even a loaf of wheat bread would not remain in the household of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).”

Narrated by Abu Hazim, he said, “I saw Abu Hurairah point with his finger many times, “By the One in Whose hand is the soul of Abu Hurairah, the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his family did not eat to their fill for three consecutive days from wheat bread until he left this world.”

Narrated by ‘A’ishah, she said the household of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) never ate to their fill of wheat bread since they arrived in Madinah for three consecutive days till he left on his path [i.e. died].”

Narrated by ‘A’ishah, she said, “We used to bring out al-Kura‘ [thin shin bone with little meat] after 15 days to eat.” I asked, “Why did you do that?” So she laughed and said, “The family of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) were never full from wheat bread three consecutive days until he met Allah the Great and the Almighty.”

Narrated by ‘A’ishah also, she said, “A month would pass by the family of the Prophet without them lighting a fire, [we had] nothing but dates and water unless we were given meat.”

And in the two Saheehs, from ‘A’ishah she said, “A month would pass by us, the family of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then another month and then another month without us lighting a fire. We only had the two black [sources]: dates and water, except that the dwellers surrounding us from the Ansar would send to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) the milk of their sheep. So he would drink and give us some from that milk.”

Narrated by ‘A’ishah, she said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not satisfy his hunger from wheat bread for two consecutive days till he was taken [died].”

‘A’ishah said, “The family of Abu Bakr sent us a sheep’s leg at night, then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) held and I cut, or I held and I cut.” Then the one who she informed said, “Without a lamp?” She said, “If we had a lamp we would have used it as soup [i.e. the fat or oil for the lamp]. A month would pass by the family of Muhammad without them baking bread or cooking a pot.”

Narrated by Anas he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to blow in the drink thrice and say, “It quenches better and is safer and more appropriate.”

Al-Bukhari narrated from the hadeeth of Qatadah from Anas, he said, “I have not known that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ever saw a thin well-baked bread till he died, and he never saw a roasted sheep with his eyes.”

In another narration by him [al-Bukhari] also, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not eat on a table or a small bowl, nor was thin well-baked bread, baked for him.” So I said to Anas, “Then what did they used to eat on?” He said, “On Sufar [sheets placed on the floor].”

Also [narrated] by him from Anas, “[Anas] walked to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with wheat bread and oil of changing scent. He had redeemed his shield to a Jew in return for some wheat for his family and I heard him on one day say, “There has never been a Sa‘ [measurement approx. just over 2 kg] of dates nor a Sa‘ of wheat with the family of Muhammad.” Narrated by Anas, “The Messenger of Allah did not have lunch and dinner of bread and meat except in a gathering of people [i.e. he did not satisfy his hunger eating with many people].”

Narrated by an-Nu‘man bin Basheer, he said, “I heard Umar bin al-Khattab give a speech, he mentioned what Allah granted for the people. He said, “Indeed I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) experience pangs from hunger. He could not [even] find the amount of poor quality dates to fill his stomach.”

In the story of Abu'l-Haitham bin at-Tayyihan, “Abu Bakr and Umar came out [from their houses] owing to hunger and whilst they were in that state the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came out, then said, “What causes you to come out?” They said, “Hunger.” Then he said, “By the One in Whose hand is my soul, indeed that which caused you to come out, caused me to come out.” Then they went to Abu'l-Haitham bin at-Tayyihan’s garden then he gave them fresh dates and sacrificed a sheep for them. Then they ate and drank cold water. And the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “This is from the pleasures that you will be asked about.”

It has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from ‘A’ishah that she was asked about the mattress of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), so she said, “It was from leather stuffed with palm tree fiber.”

Narrated by Hakeem bin Hizam, he said, “I went to Yemen and bought the cloak of Dhu Yazan [king of Yemen] and granted it to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) at the time when there was an agreement between him and the Quraish, so he said, “I do not accept the gift of an idolater.” He rejected it, then I offered it for sale and he bought it. Then he wore it and came out to his Companions wearing it and I never saw a thing on another better than him in it [cloak]. I couldn’t control myself and said,

“The leaders don’t look with grace

After it has become clearly manifest from Ghurrah and Hujool [white patches on horses’ forehead and legs]

When they compare him with majesty he overcomes them.

With the drainage of water out of a full bucket.”

The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) heard it and turned to me smiling then he entered and clothed Usamah bin Zaid with it.”

Narrated by Umm Salamah, she said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered upon us with a reddened face, I thought that was from illness or pain. So I said, “O Messenger of Allah, I see you have a reddened face, is that from illness?” He said, “No, however the seven Dinars that came to us yesterday, a day has passed and we have not spent it [for Allah's sake], I forgot it in the side of the mattress.”

Narrated by Abu Umamah bin Sahl, he said, “Urwah and I entered upon ‘Aishah one day, she said, “Only if you were to see the Prophet of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on one day during his illness. He had six Dinars with me - Moosa [sub narrator] said, “seven,” – then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) commanded me to distribute it. The illness of the Prophet of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) distracted me till Allah the Great and the Almighty cured him. Then he asked me about it and said, “What happened with the six?” – the sub narrator said, “or seven.” I [‘Aishah] said, “No, by Allah your illness distracted me from it.” She said, “Then he asked for it and placed it in his hand and said, “What would the Prophet of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) think if he met Allah and this was with him.””

Narrated by Anas, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would not save anything for the next day.” And this hadeeth is in the Saheeh.”

The meaning is that he wouldn't save anything for tomorrow that deteriorates quickly like foods and similar items because of what has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from Umar, that he said, “The fortunes of Banu an-Nadeer [a Jewish tribe] is from what Allah gave to his Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) which the Muslims had not rushed towards [in battle with] any horses or camels. He would give the year's amount of expenses to his wives and then spend the rest on cavalry and weapons as preparation for Jihad in the way of Allah.”

Imam Ahmad's narration supports what we have mentioned.

Narrated by Abu Sa'eed from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), he said, "How can I enjoy when the one who possesses the horn has put the horn [trumpet] to his mouth and has his forehead leaned forward and listens attentively, waiting till when he is commanded [to blow in it]?" The Muslims said, "O Messenger of Allah, what shall we say?" He said, "Say Allah is sufficient for us and the best to rely on, upon Allah we rely."

Narrated by Khabbab regarding His statement the Most High: "And turn not away those who invoke their Lord, morning and afternoon seeking His Face, till his statement, and thus become of the Zalimoon (unjust)." [Soorah al-An'am: 52]

Al-Aqra' bin Habis at-Tameemi and Uyaina bin Hisn al-Fazari and found the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with Suhaib, Bilal, Ammar and Khabbab sitting in the company of some of the weak ones from the believers. When they saw them around the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) they looked down on them. Then they came and secluded themselves with him (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and said, "We want you to organize such an assembly that the Arabs can see our virtue, because delegations of the Arabs come to you and we feel ashamed that they see us with these slaves. So we have come to you in order that you turn them away and when we are done you can sit with them if you want to." He (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Yes." They said, "So write a note for us against you."

He said [ the narrator], "Then he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked for a book or paper and called upon Ali to write whilst we were sitting in a corner, then Jibreel (Peace be upon him) descended and said, “And turn not away those who invoke their Lord, morning and afternoon seeking His Face. You are accountable for them in nothing, and they are accountable for you in nothing, that you may turn them away, and thus become of the Zalimoon (unjust). [Soorah al-An‘am: 52]

Then He mentioned al-Aqra‘ bin Habis and Uyaina bin Hisn: “Thus We have tried some of them with others, that they might say: “Is it these (poor believers) that Allah has favored from amongst us?” Does not Allah know best those who are grateful? [Soorah al-An‘am: 53]

Then He said, “When those who believe in Our Ayat (proofs, evidences, verses, lessons, signs, revelations, etc.) come to you, say: “Salamun ‘Alaikum” (peace be on you); your Lord has written Mercy for Himself” [Soorah al-An‘am: 54]

He said [the narrator], “Thereafter we sat close to him till our knees were on his knees, then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) sat with us and if he wanted to leave he stood and left us, then Allah the Great and the Almighty revealed: “And keep yourself (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) patiently with those who call on their Lord (i.e. your companions who remember their Lord with glorification, praising in prayers, etc., and other righteous deeds, etc.) morning and afternoon, seeking His Face, and let not your eyes overlook them [Soorah alKahf: 28]

“And don’t sit with the rich/noble, desiring the pomp and glitter of the life of the world; and obey not him whose heart We have made heedless of Our Remembrance, - i.e. Uyainah and al-Aqra‘ - one who follows his own lusts and whose affair (deeds) has been lost.” [Soorah al-Kahf: 28]

The Prophet said, “Destruction” i.e. the affair of Uyainah and al-Aqra‘, then he [Allah] set forth for them the parable of two men and the parable of worldly life. Khabbab said, “We used to sit with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and when we reached the time he would leave or stand we stood and left him so he could leave.”

And Imam Ahmad, Abu Dawood and Tirmidhi narrated from Anas [that] he said, “There wasn’t a person more beloved to me than the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). And when they [the Companions] would see him they wouldn’t stand due to their knowledge of his dislike of that.”

Chapter

Concerning his worship (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his effort in that

‘A’ishah said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to fast till we said, he does not eat [he fasts everyday]. And he would eat till we said, he does not fast. And [sometimes] you wouldn’t wish to see him standing [praying] in the night except that you saw him. And [sometimes] you would wish not to see him sleeping except that you saw him [i.e. he would pray in different times of the night].”

She said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did not pray more than 11 Rak‘ah in Ramadan or outside it. He would pray 4, and do not ask about their quality and length. Then he would pray 4, and do not ask about their quality and length. Then he would pray the Witr three [Rak‘ahs].”

She said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to read a Soorah then recite it to the extent that it would become longer than a Soorah that is longer than it.”

She said, “He would indeed stand till I would feel sorry for him due to the length of his standing.”

Ibn Mas‘ood mentioned that he prayed with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) one night, and read in the first Rak‘ah al-Baqarah, an-Nisa’ and Aal-i-Imran. Then he performed the Rukoo‘ close to that [amount of time], and stood [after Rukoo‘] and made prostration similar to that.”

Narrated by Abu Dharr: the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood on one night until he reached the morning reading this verse: “If You punish them, they are Your slaves, and if You forgive them, verily You, only You are the All-Mighty, the All-Wise [Soorah al-Ma’idah: 118], narrated by Imam Ahmad.

All of this is in the two Saheehs and other than them from the authentic books of hadeeth, and the place of the elaboration of these matters is in the book al- Ahkamul- Kabeer.

It has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from al- Mugheerah bin Shu‘bah, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood till his feet blistered or cracked. So it was said to him, “Has not Allah already forgiven your previous and future sins?” He said, “Shall I not be a grateful slave.”

It has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from Abu’ d-Darda’, he said, “We exited with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in Ramadan in extreme heat and there wasn’t anyone fasting among us except for the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and Abdullah bin Rawahah.”

In the two Saheehs from ‘Alqamah, he said, “I asked ‘Aishah, “Did the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) specify a day from the days?” She said, “No, His action was constant and who from you is capable of what the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was able?”

It has been affirmed in the two Saheehs from the hadeeth of Anas, Abdullah bin ‘Umar, Abu Hurairah and ‘A’ishah, “Indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to fast continuously and forbade his Companions from continuously fasting [and] he said, “I am not like one of you, I spend the night with my Lord – he feeds me and gives me drink.”

The truth [opinion] is that this feeding and giving of drink is metaphorical as has occurred in the hadeeth that Ibn Majah narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Don’t force your sick to eat and drink, for indeed Allah feeds them and gives them drink.”

Narrated by Abu Hurairah he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Indeed I seek forgiveness from Allah 100 times every day.”

Al-Bukhari narrated from Abdullah, he said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to me, “Read to me.” So I said, “Shall I read to you when it was revealed to you?” He said, “I like to hear it from someone else.” So I read Soorah an-Nisa’ until I reached: How (will it be) then, when We bring from each nation a witness and We bring you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) as a witness against these people? [Soorah an-Nisa’: 41] He said, “That is enough.” He turned and I saw his eyes flowing [with tears].”

It has been affirmed in the Saheeh, “That he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would find a date on his mattress and say, “If I did not fear that it might be from charity I would have eaten it.”

Narrated by ‘Amr bin Shu‘aib, from his father, from his grandfather, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) found under his side, a date from the night then ate it. Thereafter he did not sleep that night so some of his wives said, “O Messenger of Allah, you were sleepless [last] night.” He said, “I found a date under my side so I ate it. We had dates from the dates of charity so I feared that it may be from it.”

And it has been affirmed from him also in the Saheeh that he said, “By Allah, I have the most Taqwa of Allah amongst you and the most knowledgeable in knowing with what I need to do to have Taqwa.” And in another hadeeth he said, “Leave that which causes doubt in you for that which does not raise a doubt in you.”

Narrated by Mutarrif bin Abdullah bin ash-Shikhkheer from his father, he said, “I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) when he was praying and a noise from his chest [would be heard] like the boiling of [liquid in] a pot.” And in a narration, “And in his chest was a noise like the noise of a grinder from crying.”

Narrated by Ibn Abbas, he said, “Abu Bakr said, “O Messenger of Allah, I see that you have grown white hairs.” So he said, “[Soorahs] Hood, al-Waqi‘ah, al-Mursalat, “About what are they asking one another?” [Soorah Naba’] and, “When the Sun is wrapped,” [in darkness] [Soorah Takweer].”

His Courage

We mentioned in Tafseer from some of the Salaf, that it is derived from His statement, the Most High: “Then fight (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) in the Cause of Allah, you are not tasked (held responsible) except for yourself, and incite the believers (to fight along with you) [Soorah an-Nisa': 84], that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was commanded not to flee from the idolaters when they faced him even if he was alone, from his statement: "you are not tasked (held responsible) except for yourself" [Soorah an-Nisa': 84].

And he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was from the most courageous of people, most patient and the greatest of them in perseverance. He never fled from confrontation, even if his Companions fled from it. Some of the Companions said, "When the war heightened and the onslaught had heated up we would fall behind the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). In the Battle of Badr he threw a handful of stones on 1,000 idolaters and it struck all of them when he said, "Shahatil-Wujooh [may their faces be debased]."

And similarly in the Battle of Hunain as has preceded, when most of his Companions fled in the second state [turn of events] in the Battle of Uhud he stayed firm in his place without leaving it and none but 12 remained with him, 7 of them were killed and 5 survived. It was at this time that Ubayy bin Khalaf was killed – may Allah's curse be upon him – so Allah hastened him to the fire.

In the Battle of Hunain all of the people fled whilst they were 12,000 in number yet he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) remained along with 100 from his Companions when he was riding on that day on his mule, galloping towards the enemy extolling his name and announcing saying, "I am the Prophet without a lie [doubt], I am the son of Abdul-Muttalib." To the extent that al-Abbas, Ali and Abu Sufyan bin al-Harith tied themselves to the mule to slow it down from fear that one of the enemies would reach him. And he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) remained like this until Allah helped him and assisted him in that situation and the people did not retreat except that gravel [pieces of stones] was in front of him.

Chapter

What has been mentioned about his attributes (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the books narrated from the previous Prophets

We have already mentioned a good summary about this in the Chapter “The glad tidings for his arrival before his birth,” and we shall mention further along those lines.

Narrated by ‘Ata’ bin Yasar, he said, “I met Abdullah bin ‘Amr and said, “Inform me of the description of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the Tawrah.” He said, “Indeed, by Allah he is described in the Tawrah with some of what he is described in the Qur’an: “O Prophet (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) )! Verily, We have sent you as witness, and a bearer of glad tidings, and a warner” [Soorah al- Ahzab: 45]

“...and a refuge for the illiterate. You are my slave and Messenger. I named you the Mutawakkil [relies on his Lord] not harsh or severe, nor one who shouts in the markets. And one who doesn't reward a wrongdoing with a [another] wrongdoing, however he forgives and pardons. And he [his Lord] will not take him until he straightens with him the crooked path [correct the distorted religion] until they say, “There is no true God that deserves to be worshipped but Allah.” And that he opens blind eyes, deaf ears and sealed hearts.”

‘Ata’ bin Yasar said, “Then I met Ka‘b the [Jewish] scholar, then I asked him and they [the texts] did not differ in a single word except that Ka‘b said, “eyes Umooma and Qulooban Ghuloofa and ears Sumooma [i.e. he used the plural form instead of the singular form of these words].”

Narrated by Muqatil bin Hayyan, he said, “Allah revealed to ‘Eesa bin Maryam,

“Be serious in my affair and don’t joke around. Hear and obey, O son of the chaste celibate virgin. I created you without a male and made you as a sign for the creation so worship Me alone. And have reliance upon me. So make clear to the people of Sooran in Suryaniyyah that I am the Truth the Everlasting that will not disappear. Believe in the illiterate Arab Prophet, the owner of camels and woollen garment, turban and slippers and staff, curly hair, wide forehead, joint eyebrows, wide eyes, aquiline nose, clear cheeks, thick beard, his sweat on his face is like pearls his scent is musk [that] emanates from him, his neck was like an ivory stature with from silver, it is as though gold would flow down his throat, he has hairs from his chest to his navel flowing like a staff, he does not have any hair on his chest or stomach hair other than it, thick palms and feet, when he came with the people he would overwhelm them, when he walks it is like he is avoiding rocks and as though he is descending, and he has few offspring.”

Al-Hafiz al-Baihaqi narrated with his chain from Wahb bin Munabbih al-Yamani, who said, “When Allah spoke in secret with Moosa he said, “O my Lord, I find in the Tawrah a nation which is the best nation brought for the people, they command the good, forbid the evil and they believe in Allah so make them my nation.” He said that is the nation of Ahmad.” He said, “O my Lord I find in the Tawrah a nation which is the best and last of the nations, the first on the Day of Judgment so make them my nation.” He said, “That is the nation of Ahmad.”

He said, “O my Lord I find in the Tawrah a nation whose scriptures are in their hearts they read it and those who came before them would read their books from citing and not memory so make them my nation.” He said, “That is the nation of Ahmad.” He said, “O my Lord, I find in the Tawrah a nation that believes in the first and last book and they fight against the heads of misguidance till they fight against the one eyed liar, so make them my nation.” He said, “That is the nation of Ahmad.”

He said O my Lord, I find in the Tawrah a nation they consume their sacrifice in their stomachs and those who came before them when one of them brought forward his charity Allah sent a fire to consume it and if it wasn't to be accepted the fire wouldn't go near it, so make them my nation.” He said, “That is the nation of Ahmad.” He said, “O my Lord, I find in the Tawrah a nation that if one of them was to think about committing a bad deed, it would not be written against him and if he performed it, then it would be written as one bad deed. If one of them was to think about performing a good deed then not do so it would be written as a good deed, yet if he was to perform it then it would be written as 10 good deeds [and it would be] upto 700 [times], so make them my nation.” He said, “That is the nation of Ahmad.” He said O my Lord, I find in the Tawrah a nation who accept the call and their calls are accepted, so make them my nation.” He said, “That is the nation of Ahmad.”

He said, “And Wahb bin Munabbih in the story of Dawood (Peace be upon him) and that which was revealed to him in az-Zaboor, “O Dawood, a Prophet shall come after you called Ahmad and Muhammad, [a] truthful master and I shall never be angry with him nor shall he infuriate Me. And I have forgiven him before he sins that which he has erred in the past and future. His nation is under mercy. I give them from the superogatory actions similar to what I gave the Prophets. I have made obligatory upon them obligations that I made obligatory on the Prophets and Messengers in order that they come to me on the Day of Judgment with their illumination like the illumination of the Prophets. And that is because I have made it incumbent upon them to purify themselves for every prayer just as I made it incumbent upon the Prophets before them. I have commanded them with making Ghusl [bath] from Janabah [major impurities; ejaculation, sexual intercourse and menstruation] just as I ordered the Prophets before them. I commanded them with Hajj as I ordered the Prophets before them and I ordered them with performing Jihad just as I ordered the Messengers before them.

O Dawood, I have favored Muhammad and his nation over all the nations. I gave them six characteristics which I did not give to nations other than them:

I do not hold them to account due to error and forgetfulness and every sin which they commit by mistake

If they were to ask forgiveness from me for it I would forgive them

That which they give from their good I will magnify it for them and they shall have with me many a times more and greater than it [i.e. reward for charity in this life and hereafter]

And I shall give them as a recompense from afflictions in difficulties if they are patient and say, “Verily we belong to Allah and to him we will return” prayers, mercy and guidance to the Gardens of Pleasure.

If they call upon me I shall answer them. They will either see that in this world, or I shall avert from them evil, or I shall save it for them in the Hereafter.

O Dawood, whoever meets me from the nation of Muhammad bearing witness that there is no deity worthy of worship but Allah, alone without a partner believing in it, then he shall be with me in my Paradise and be among the elite. And whoever meets me denying Muhammad or that which he was sent with and made a mockery of my book, I would shower on him punishment in his grave and the angels shall beat his face and his back during his resurrection from his grave. Thereafter I shall admit him into the lowest level of the Hell Fire.”

Narrated by Jubair bin Mut‘im he said, “When Allah sent his Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his affair had become known in Makkah, I went to ash-Sham [Syria]. When I was in Basrah a group from the Christians came to me and said to me, “Are you from the Haram [Makkah]?” I said, “Yes.” They said, “Then you will know this person who has become a Prophet amongst you?” I said, “Yes.” Then they took my hand and entered me into their monastery with statues and pictures in it. Then they said to me, “Take a look to see if you can see the picture of your Prophet that has been sent to you?” So I looked and I couldn’t see his picture. I said, “I can’t see his picture.”

Thereafter they admitted me into a monastery bigger than the previous and I saw statues and pictures more than what was in the previous one. Then they said to me, “Take a look, do you see his picture?” So I looked and saw the description of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his picture and the description of Abu Bakr and his picture holding the heel of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Then they said to me, “Can you see his description?” I said, “Yes.” They said, “Is this him?” whilst pointing to the description of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). I said, “O Allah, yes I testify that it is him.” They said, “Do you know he who is holding his heel?” I said, “Yes.” They said, “We testify that this is your Companion and this is the Caliph after him.”

Miracles/Signs of Prophethood

They are [two types]: perceived and sensed. From the perceived signs/miracles is the revelation of the Great Qur’an. And this is the greatest of miracles and the most dazzling of signs and the most clear of arguments due to the miraculous composition with which He challenged mankind and Jinn to bring something similar to it, but they could not do so despite the many reasons of his enemies to oppose him and their eloquence. Thereafter He challenged them to bring 10 Soorahs similar to it and they were incapable [of doing so]. Then He compromised with a single Soorah similar to it, yet they were incapable of doing so. And thus, they knew their incapability and their failure in that respect, and there will never be a way for anyone to do so.

In a Makkan verse, Allah says: “Say: “If the mankind and the Jinns were together to produce the like of this Qur’an, they could not produce the like thereof, even if they helped one another.” [Soorah al-Isra’:

And He says in another Makkan verse, in Soorah at-Toor: “Or do they say: “He (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) has forged it (this Qur’an)?” Nay! They believe not! Let them then produce a recital like unto it (the Qur’an) if they are truthful. [Soorah at-Toor: 33-34] i.e. if you are truthful [in believing] that he conveyed the Qur'an from himself, then he is a man like you, so bring that which is similar to it because you are men like him.

Allah the Most High said in Soorah al-Baqarah which is Madani [revealed in Madinah] repeating the challenge:

“And if you (Arab pagans, Jews, and Christians) are in doubt concerning that which We have sent down (i.e. the Qur'an) to Our slave (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)), then produce a Soorah (chapter) of the like thereof and call your witnesses (supporters and helpers) besides Allah, if you are truthful. But if you do it not, and you can never do it, then fear the Fire (Hell) whose fuel is men and stones, prepared for the disbelievers.” [Soorah al- Baqarah: 23, 24]

Allah the Most High says:

“Or they say, “He (Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) forged it (the Qur'an).” Say: “Bring you then ten forged Soorah (chapters) like unto it, and call whomsoever you can, other than Allah (to your help), if you speak the truth!” If then they answer you not, know then that the Revelation (this Qur'an) is sent down with the Knowledge of Allah and that La ilaha illa Huwa: (none has the right to be worshipped but He)! Will you then be Muslims (those who submit to Islam)?” [Soorah al- Hood: 13, 14]

Allah the Most High says,

“And this Qur'ân is not such as could ever be produced by other than Allah (Lord of the heavens and the earth), but it is a confirmation of (the revelation) which was before it [i.e. the Tawrah (Torah), and the Injeel (Gospel), etc.], and a full explanation of the Book (i.e. laws and orders, etc, decreed for mankind) - wherein there is no doubt from the Lord of the 'Alameen (mankind, jinns and all that exists). Or do they say: "He (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) has forged it?" Say: "Bring then a Soorah (chapter) like unto it, and call upon whomsoever you can, besides Allah, if you are truthful!" Nay, they deny that; the knowledge whereof they could not compass and whereof the interpretation has not yet come unto them. Thus those before them did deny. Then see what was the end of the Zalimoon (polytheists and wrongdoers, etc.)! [ Soorah Yoonus:37-39]

So He, the Most High, clarified that the creation is unable to produce this Qur'an - even 10 Soorahs similar to it and even one Soorah like it. Moreover, they shall never be able to do that just as Allah mentioned: "But if you do it not, and you can never do it." [Soorah al-Baqarah: 24] i.e. if you did not do so in the past, then you shall never be able to do so in the future. This is a second challenge that it is not possible for them to contest it whether in the present or the future. Challenges such as this only come from one who has certainty in the [fact] that it is not possible for mankind to contest or to bring similar to what he has come with.

If it had come from someone who had invented it by himself, then he would have feared that he would be contested against, lest he should be humiliated and that it backfires against his intention in the people following him. Yet it is known to everyone who possesses a brain that Muhammad is from the most intelligent of Allah's creation, rather the most intelligent of them and the most perfect of them in totality at the same time. He did not embark on this affair except that he knew that it was not possible to contest and this is what has occurred.

From the time of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) till our time, nobody has been able to come with something similar to it or even a Soorah similar to it. This shall never be possible for this is the speech of the Lord of the mankind and Jinn, whom nobody resembles from creation, not in His essence, nor His attributes and nor His actions. So how is it possible for the speech of the created resemble the speech of the Creator? the statement of the Quraish which the Most High narrated from them in His statement:

“And when Our Verses (of the Qur’an) are recited to them, they say: “We have heard this (the Qur’an); if we wish we can say the like of this. This is nothing but the tales of the ancients.” [Soorah al-Anfal: 31]

This is a lie from them and a false claim without proof or evidence or an argument. If they were truthful, then they would have come with that which contests it. However, they knew that they were lying just as they knew that they were lying in His statement, the Most High: “Tales of the ancients, which he has written down, and they are dictated to him morning and afternoon.” [Soorah al-Furqan: 5]

Allah the Most High [then] says:

“Say: It (this Qur’an) has been sent down by Him (Allah) (the Real Lord of the heavens and earth) Who knows the secret of the heavens and the earth. Truly, He is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful.” [Soorah al-Furqan: 6]

That is, the One Who knows the hidden revealed it, the Lord of the earth and the Heavens, the One Who knows that which was and what shall be, and how that which has not existed would be. Verily He, The Most High, inspired to his Slave and Messenger, the Illiterate Prophet, the one who did not know how to write well and did not know how to read at all. And he did not know anything from the knowledge of the prior generations and the stories of those in ancient times.

Thereafter, Allah informed him about that which had passed and the present in its true form and in doing so, He differentiated between truth and falsehood that most of the previous books had differed in narrating just as Allah the Most High said: “This is of the news of the unseen which We reveal unto you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)), neither you nor your people knew them before this. So be patient. Surely, the (good) end is for the Muttaqoon [God fearing]” [Soorah Hood: 49].

He said the Most High,

“Thus We relate to you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) some information of what happened before. And indeed We have given you from Us a Reminder (this Qur’an). Whoever turns away from it (this Qur’an i.e. does not believe in it, nor acts on its orders), verily, they will bear a heavy burden (of sins) on the Day of Resurrection, They will abide in that (state in the Fire of Hell), and evil indeed will it be that load for them on the Day of Resurrection” [Soorah Ta Ha: 99-101].

He (SWT) says:

“And We have sent down to you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) the Book

(this Qur'an) in truth, confirming the Scripture that came before it and Mohaimin (trustworthy in highness and a witness) over it (old Scriptures)." [Soorah al-Ma'idah: 48]

He (SWT) says,

“Neither did you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) read any book before it (this Qur'an), nor did you write any book (whatsoever) with your right hand. In that case, indeed, the followers of falsehood might have doubted. Nay, but they, the clear Ayat [i.e. the description and the qualities of Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) written like verses in the Tawrah (Torah) and the Injeel (Gospel)] are preserved in the breasts of those who have been given knowledge (from the people of the Scriptures). And none but the Zalimoon (polytheists and wrongdoers, etc.) deny Our Ayat (proofs, evidences, verses, lessons, signs, revelations, etc.). And they say: “Why are not signs sent down to him from his Lord? Say: “The signs are only with Allah, and I am only a plain warner.”Is it not sufficient for them that We have sent down to you the Book (the Qur'an) which is recited to them? Verily, herein is mercy and a reminder (or an admonition) for a people who believe. Say (to them O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)): “Sufficient is Allah for a witness between me and you. He knows what is in the heavens and on earth.” And those who believe in Batil (all false deities other than Allah), and disbelieve in Allah and (in His Oneness), it is they who are the losers.” [Soorah al-Ankaboot: 48-52]

So Allah clarified that the revelation of this book containing knowledge of what happened [in the past], that which will happen and the ruling upon that which exists between mankind upon this illiterate Prophet is in itself sufficient proof of his truthfulness.

He (SWT) says:

“And when Our Clear Verses are recited unto them, those who hope not for their meeting with Us, say:

Bring us a Qur’an other than this, or change it.” Say (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)): “It is not for me to change it on my own accord; I only follow that which is revealed unto me.

Verily, I fear if I were to disobey my Lord, the torment of the Great Day (i.e. the Day of Resurrection).” Say (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)): “If Allah had so willed, I should not have recited it to you nor would He have made it known to you. Verily, I have stayed amongst you a life time before this. Have you then no sense?” So who does more wrong than he who forges a lie against Allah or denies His Ayat (proofs, evidences, verses, lessons, signs, revelations, etc.)? Surely, the Mujrimoon (criminals, sinners, disbelievers and polytheists) will never be successful! [Soorah Yoonus: 15-17]

He says to them, “I cannot alter this from my desires. It is only Allah the Great and the Almighty, Who is able to erase that which He wills and establishes. I am a conveyer from Him and you know my truthfulness in what I brought to you because I grew up among you. And you know my lineage, my truthfulness, my faithfulness, and [the fact that] I never lied to anyone of you even once in my life. So how is it possible for me to lie against Allah the Great and the Almighty, the Possessor of harm and benefit, the One Who is able to do all things and is knowledgeable of all affairs? And which sin is graver than lying upon Allah and attributing to Him that which is not from him?”

Just as Allah (SWT) says:

“And if he (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) had forged a false saying concerning Us (Allah), We surely should have seized him by his right hand (or with power and might), And then certainly should have cut off his life artery (Aorta), And none of you could withhold Us from (punishing) him.” [Soorah al-Haqqah: 44-47]

That is: If he was to lie upon Us, we would have certainly taken most severe revenge/exacted a severe punishment and none from the dwellers of the earth could hinder or prevent us from [punishing] him.

He (SWT) says:

“And who can be more unjust than he who invents a lie against Allah, or says: “I have received inspiration,” whereas he is not inspired in anything; and who says, “I will reveal the like of what Allah has revealed.” And if you could but see when the Zalimoon (polytheists and wrongdoers, etc.) are in the agonies of death, while the angels are stretching forth their hands (saying): “Deliver your souls! This day you shall be recompensed with the torment of degradation because of what you used to utter against Allah other than the truth. And you used to reject His Ayat (proofs, evidences, verses, lessons, signs, revelations, etc.) with disrespect!” [Soorah al-An‘am: 93]

He (SWT) says:

“Say (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)): “What thing is the most great in witness?” Say: “Allah (the Most Great!) is Witness between me and you; this Qur’an has been revealed to me that I may therewith warn you and whomsoever it may reach.” [Soorah al-An‘am: 19]

And in these words is proof that Allah is a witness over everything and that He, the Most High, is the greatest of witnesses and is well aware of me and you in regards to that which I brought to you. The strength of the words entails an oath that He sent me to the creation in order to warn them and whoever it reaches, then it is a warning for them, just as Allah says:

“ But those of the sects (Jews, Christians and all the other non-Muslim nations) that reject it (the Qur’an), the Fire will be their promised meeting-place. So be not in doubt about it (i.e. those who denied Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and also denied all that which he brought from Allah, surely, they will enter Hell). Verily, it is the truth from your Lord, but most of the mankind believe not. [Soorah Hood:17]

Thus, in this Qur’an there is true information about Allah, His Throne, His upper and lower beings like the heavens and the earths – that which is between them and therein, great matters proved with clear evidences, guidance from the point of view of sound intellect, just as Allah the Most High says:

“And indeed We have fully explained to mankind, in this Qur’an, every kind of similitude, but most mankind refuse (the truth and accept nothing) but disbelief.” [Soorah al-Isra’: 89]

He (SWT) says:

“And these similitudes We put forward for mankind, but none will understand them except those who have knowledge (of Allah and His Signs, etc.). [Soorah al-Ankaboot: 43]

He says, the Most High:

“And indeed We have put forth for men, in this Qur’an every kind of similitude in order that they may remember. An Arabic Qur’an, without any crookedness (therein) in order that they may avoid all evil which Allah has ordered them to avoid, fear Him and keep their duty to Him.” [Soorah az-Zumar: 27, 28]

The Noble Qur’an relates true stories about the events that have happened before and the evidence for this lies in the books of the People of the Book. These books give testimony to the revelation upon an unlettered man who did not know how to write, and he had not studied for even a [single] day anything from the sciences of the previous generations or the stories of the ancients. Thus, the people were not amazed except by the inspiration to him about the beneficial stories which are worthy of being remembered and contemplated over, from the stories of the nations with their Prophets and their affairs with them [Prophets] - how Allah saved the Believers and destroyed the Kuffar with a single statement which mankind could never ever reproduce till the end of time.

So in one place a story is mentioned briefly with the epitome of clarity and eloquence, and other times it is mentioned fully and there is nothing more radiant, clear or loftier than that context, to the extent that the reciter or the listener [would feel as if he was] witnessing what was being presented, seeing the story by himself. This is just as Allah (SWT) says:

“And you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) were not at the side of the Toor (Mount) when We did call, [it is said that Allah called the followers of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and they answered His Call, or that Allah called Moosa (Moses)]. But (you are sent) as a mercy from your Lord, to give warning to a people to whom no warner had come before you, in order that they may remember or receive admonition. [Tafseer At-Tabari, Vol. 20, Page 81]. [Soorah al- Qasas: 46]

He says, The Most High:

“This is a part of the news of the Ghaib (unseen, i.e. the news of the past nations of which you have no knowledge) which We inspire you with (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)). You were not with them, when they cast lots with their pens as to which of them should be charged with the care of Maryam (Mary); nor were you with them when they disputed.” [Soorah Al Imran: 44]

He says, the Most High:

“This is of the news of the Ghaib (unseen) which We reveal by Inspiration to you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ). You were not (present) with them when they arranged their plan together, and (also, while) they were plotting. And most of mankind will not believe even if you desire it eagerly. And no reward you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) ask of them (those who deny your Prophethood) for it, it(the Qur’an) is no less than a Reminder and an advice unto the ‘Alameen (men and jinns).

[Soorah Yoosuf: 102-104]

Till He says at the end of it [the Soorah]:

“Indeed in their stories, there is a lesson for men of understanding. It (the Qur’an) is not a forged statement but a confirmation of the Allah’s existing Books [the Tawrah (Torah), the Injeel (Gospel) and other Scriptures of Allah] and a detailed explanation of everything and a guide and a Mercy for the people who believe. [Soorah Yoosuf: 111]

He says, the Most High:

“They say: “Why does he not bring us a sign (proof) from his Lord?” Has there not come to them the proof of that which is (written) in the former papers [Scriptures, i.e. the Tawrah (Torah), and the Injeel (Gospel), etc. about the coming of the Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ].” [Soorah Ta Ha: 133]

He says, the Most High:

“Say: “Tell me, if it (the Qur’an) is from Allah, and you disbelieve in it, who is more astray than one who is in opposition far away (from Allah’s Right Path and His obedience). We will show them Our Signs in the universe, and in their ownelves, until it becomes manifest to them that this (the Qur’an) is the truth. Is it not sufficient in regard to your Lord that He is a Witness over all things?” [Soorah Fussilat: 52,53]

He has promised, the Most High, that He shall make the verses of the Qur’an apparent and its truthfulness and the truthfulness of the one who came with it, with signs proving the truthfulness of this book. And also in the souls of those who deny it, which will be an evidence against them and an evidence that cuts their doubts, until they have certainty that it was revealed by Allah upon the tongue of the truthful [Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)].

Then He guided towards a separate evidence with His statement: Is it not sufficient in regard to your Lord that He is a Witness over all things? That is, knowing that Allah is aware of this matter is enough [to illustrate] the truthfulness of this informer, because if he was a liar he would have brought a severe punishment swiftly upon him.

In the Qur'an is news about what shall occur in the future [after the revelation] matching what happened, word for word. And similarly in the hadeeths according to what we established in our book Tafseer and also what we shall mention from features and trials, such as His statement the Most High:

“He knows that there will be some among you sick, others travelling through the land, seeking of Allah’s Bounty; yet others fighting in Allah’s Cause.” [Soorah al-Muzzammil: 20]

This Soorah is from the first of the Soorahs that were revealed in Makkah. And similarly, His statement in Soorah Iqtarabat [Soorah al-Qamar] which is Makkan without any difference [of opinion]: Their multitude will be put to flight, and they will show their backs. Nay, but the Hour is their appointed time (for their full recompense), and the Hour will be more grievous and more bitter. The confirmation of this occurred in the Battle of Badr after that. Other examples such as this are from the clear evidences, and a section shall come later about matters which the Messenger of Allah said shall occur after him – may peace be upon him – in accordance to what he mentioned.

In the Qur'an are just rules – commands and prohibitions – entailing great wisdom, If a person of understanding and sound intellect contemplates over them, he would have certainty that these rules only came from the One who knows the Unseen, the Merciful to His slaves who deals with them with His care and mercy and goodness.

Allah the Most High says:

“And the Word of your Lord has been fulfilled in truth and in justice.” [Soorah al-An‘am: 115]

That is, [the Qur'an] is truthful in its stories and fair in its commands and prohibitions.

He says, the Most High:

“Alif-Lam-Ra. [These letters are one of the miracles of the Qur'an and none but Allah (Alone) knows their meanings]. (This is) a Book, the Verses whereof are perfected (in every sphere of knowledge, etc.), and then explained in detail from One (Allah), Who is All-Wise and Well-Acquainted (with all things)”
[Soorah Hood: 1]

That is, the words have been perfected and the meanings have been clarified.

He says, the Most High:

“It is He Who has sent His Messenger (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) with guidance and the religion of truth (Islam) [Soorah at-Tawbah: 33]

That is, beneficial knowledge and righteous action, and thus it has been narrated from Ali bin Abu Talib (May Allah be pleased with him) that he said to Kumail bin Ziyad, “It is the book of Allah, therein is the news of what was before you, and the ruling between you and the news of what is after you.” We have mentioned all of this in detail in our book Tafseer which is sufficient, and for Allah is all praise and grace.

Thus, the Great Qur’an is a miracle from many angles - from [the point of view of] its eloquence, composition, synthesis, phrasing, and what it contains from news of the Unseen, both past and future, and what it contains from clear perfect rulings. The challenge with [regard to] the eloquence of its words is specific for the eloquent Arabs, and the challenge of the true and perfect meanings contained in it – and this is the greatest challenge according to many scholars – is general to the dwellers of the earth from the two faiths, the people of the two books [Jews and Christians] and other than them from the intellectuals of the Greeks, Indians, Persians, Qibt and other than them from the groups of the children of Adam all over the world.

Whoever claims from the philosophers [people of innovation] that its miracle is in discouraging the disbelievers in challenging it whilst denying it, or removing the ability from them to do so, then this is a false claim. And it is derived from their [Islamic philosophers] belief that the Qur’an was created, Allah created it in some bodies. There is no differentiation according to them between one creation and another. This statement of theirs is disbelief and falsehood and is not in accordance with reality. Rather the Qur'an is the speech of Allah, not created - He spoke it as He wished, far removed is He, The Most High and Sacred from what they say.

In reality, all of the creation are incapable of bringing something similar to it, even if they were to help and assist one another upon this. Even the Messengers who are the most eloquent of the creation, the most knowledgeable of creation and the most perfect of them could not speak with words similar to the speech of Allah. This Qur'an, that the Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) conveyed from Allah, has speech and wordings that do not resemble the style of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). The style of his speech – may peace be upon him – preserved from him by authentic chains of narration, [is such that] none from the Companions nor those after them could speak with his expressions and eloquence or with the meanings contained in his noble words.

Rather, the speech of the Companions has a style more lofty than the style of the speech of the Tabi'oon and so on, and so forth till our time. The scholars of the Salaf were more eloquent, knowledgeable and exaggerated less in conveying the meanings they intended with their expressions than the scholars of the Khalaf [those after the Salaf]. This is witnessed by the one who has the knack of [distinguishing] people's speech, just as he perceives the difference between the poetry of the Arabs in the pre-Islamic Period of Ignorance and the poetry of those born after them.

Section

From the miracles that are perceived are: his pure manners – (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) – and his perfect disposition, courage, perseverance, hospitality, abstinence, satisfaction, selflessness, his good companionship, truthfulness, trustworthiness, Taqwa, worship, nobility of his origin, pure birth and upbringing as we mentioned in detail under their respective headings. And how amazing are the words our Shaikh Abu'l-Abbas Ibn Taimiyyah –(May Allah be pleased with him)- mentioned in his book in which he refuted sects of the Christians, Jews and those similar to them from the People of the Book. He mentioned in its conclusion the miracles/signs of Prophethood and followed a sound, time-tested approach with eloquent speech, such that everyone who contemplates upon it understands it and submits to it.

As for the miracles of Prophethood that are sensed – I mean witnessed by the eyes – then they are Heavenly and the earthly

And from the greatest of all of them is the splitting of the shining moon into two parts, Allah the Most High says:

“ The Hour has drawn near, and the moon has been cleft asunder (the people of Makkah requested Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to show them a miracle, so he showed them the splitting of the moon). And if they see a sign, they turn away, and say: “This is continuous magic.”They belied (the Verses of Allah, this Qur’an), and followed their own lusts. And every matter will be settled [according to the kind of deeds (for the doer of good deeds, his deeds will take him to Paradise, and similarly evil deeds will take their doers to Hell)]. And indeed there has come to them news (in this Qur'an) wherein there is (enough warning) to check (them from evil), Perfect wisdom (this Qur'an), but (the preaching of) warners benefit them not [Soorah al-Qamar: 1-5].

The scholars agreed with the rest of the Imams that the splitting of the moon was in the era of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and hadeeths have been narrated from many paths that provide certainty to the Ummah.

Narrated by Anas, he said, "The people of Makkah asked the Prophet for a sign, then the moon split twice, then he said, "The Hour has drawn near, and the moon has been cleft asunder (the people of Makkah requested Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to show them a miracle, so he showed them the splitting of the moon). And if they see a sign, they turn away, and say: "This is continuous magic."

Narrated by Abdullah bin Umar bin al-Khattab regarding His statement, "The Hour has drawn near, and the moon has been cleft asunder" (the people of Makkah requested Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to show them a miracle, so he showed them the splitting of the moon). He said, "That was at the time of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), it [the moon] split in two: one part in front of the mountain and the other part behind the mountain, then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "O Allah, I testify."

And in Saheeh al-Bukhari from Ibn Mas'ood, that he said, "Five [signs] have passed, the Romans [defeat], al- Lizam [defeat of the Mushriks in Badr], the Mighty grasp, the Smoke and the moon [its splitting].

Thus, these are paths [of hadeeth] from this group of Companions and this matter is so well-known that it makes it self sufficient from a chain, in addition to its mention in the Great Book [Qur'an]. Some storytellers mentioned that the moon entered the Prophet's (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) pocket and exited from his sleeve and words similar to that effect which doesn't have any basis. When the moon split, it didn't disappear from the sky, rather it split in two and one of the parts travelled behind the mountain Hira' and the other moved the other way till the mountain was between the two fractions. And both the fractions were in the sky whilst the people of Makkah were looking on, and many of their ignorant ones said that this was a trickery of their eyes. Then they asked the travelers that arrived in Makkah who told them an account similar to what they had witnessed, thereafter they knew the truth of it and had certainty in it.

And if it is said: why was this not known in all the countries of the world? Then the answer to that is: who denies that? However, for a long time the disbelievers rejected the signs of Allah and perhaps when they were told that this was a sign for the Prophet who was sent, [holders of] the corrupt opinions agreed upon hiding it and forgetting about it. More than one traveler mentioned that they witnessed a skeleton in India which had written on it that it had been raised erect on the night the moon had split. Thereafter, because the splitting of the moon was at night it could have been concealed from many of the people due to factors preventing its sighting at that time, such as clouds in those countries that night or due to many of them sleeping. Maybe it was during the night when many of the people sleep and matters other than that [aforementioned], And Allah (SWT) knows best. And we have compiled this in our book Tafseer.

In the Saheeh from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), “The sun has not been held back from anyone except for Yoosha’.”

And from that which is related to the heavenly signs in the chapter of Signs of Prophethood, his seeking of rain – (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) from his Lord the Great and the Almighty for his nation when there was a drought, [which] is from the heavenly signs that prove his Prophethood. Allah answered his prayer swiftly to the extent that he hadn't descended from the pulpit except that the rain was dripping from his (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) beard and similarly his prayer to hold back the rain.

Al-Bukhari narrated from Salim from his father, “I remembered the saying of a poet when I was looking at the face of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) seeking rain and he didn't descend till the rain water flowed profoundly from every roof gutter [The verses of Abu Talib]:

“And a white [person] [i.e. The Prophet]

Who is requested to pray for rain

And who takes care of the orphans

And is the guardian of widows.”

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, he said, “A man entered the mosque on Jumu'ah from a door that was facing the pulpit whilst the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was standing giving the Khutbah. Then he stood in front of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, “O Allah's Messenger! The livestock are dying and the roads are cut off, so please pray to Allah for rain.”Anas added, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) raised both his hands and said, “O Allah! Bless us with rain! O Allah! Bless us with rain! O Allah! Bless us with rain!”

Anas said, “By Allah, we could not see any trace of clouds in the sky and there was no building or a house between us and [the mountains] of Sala’.” Anas added, “A heavy cloud like a shield appeared from behind it. When it reached the middle of the sky, it spread then it rained.” Anas added, “By Allah! We could not see the sun for a week. The next Friday a person entered through the same gate when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was delivering the Khutbah. The man stood in front of him and said, “O Messenger of Allah! The livestock are dying and the roads are cut off, please pray to Allah to withhold the rain.”

Anas added, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) raised both his hands and said, “O Allah! [Send the rain] on the plateaus, on the mountains, on the hills, in the valleys and on the places where the trees grow.”So the rain stopped and we came out walking in the sun.” Shareek asked Anas whether it was the same person who had asked for the rain [the previous Friday]. Anas replied that he did not know.”

Narrated by Abu Wajzah Yazeed bin Ubaid as-Sa‘di, he said, “When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) returned [victorious] from the Battle of Tabook the delegation of Fazarah tribe came to him. They were an odd number between 13 and 19 men, among them was Kharijah bin Hisn and al-Hurr bin Qais – who was the youngest of them – the son of Uyainah bin Hisn’s brother. They rested at Ramlah bint al-Harith's house from the Ansar and had arrived on weak skinny camels and they were sleepy. They came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) as Mulims, and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked them about their homelands. So they said, "Our lands are dormant, our lives are barren, our families are naked and our cattle have died. So call upon your Lord to send the aid [rain] and intercede to your Lord for us and your Lord intercedes with you."

At this, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Glorified be Allah! Woe be onto you! This is me interceding to my Lord, then who is the one whom my Lord intercedes with? There is no deity worthy of worship except Allah, His footstool encompasses the Heavens and the Earth and it caves in from His Greatness and Majesty just as a new saddle caves in."

The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Allah laughs from your despair and hardship and [despite] the nearness of your aid and relief." So the Bedouin said, "And our Lord laughs O Messenger of Allah?" He said, "Yes." Then the Bedouin said, "We shall not be stripped O Messenger of Allah from a Lord that laughs of goodness." So the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) laughed due to his remark, then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood and ascended the pulpit and spoke a few words and raised his hands. And the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would not raise his hands for Du'a' except when seeking rain and he raised his hands till the whiteness of his armpits were visible.

And that which has been preserved from his supplication is,

“O Allah supply Your land and your animals with water, spread Your mercy and give life to Your dead land. O Allah provide us with aid that relieves us, irrigates, fertile, covering, encompassing and sooner not later; that benefits and does not harm. O Allah [I ask you] rain of mercy and not rain of punishment nor destruction, [that causes] drowning and does not eradicate. O Allah bless us with aid [rain] and help us against our enemies.”

Then Abu Lubabah bin Abdul-Mundhir stood and said, “O Messenger of Allah, the dates are in the Marabid [container in which dates are dried out].” Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “O Allah! Bless us with rain.” So Abu Lubabah said, “The dates are in the Marabid holes,” three times. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “O Allah, bless us with rain until Abu Lubabah stands naked and then close the drainage hole of the Marabid with his lower garment.”

By Allah there wasn't any trace of clouds in the sky and there wasn't a building or house between the mosque and Sal' [mountain]. Then a cloud like a shield came from behind Sal', then when it reached the middle of the sky it spread as they were looking and then rained. By Allah, they didn't see the sun for six days. Then Abu Lubabah stood naked covering the drainage hole of his Mirbad with his lower garment so that no date would fall from it.

Then a man said, “O Messenger of Allah the wealth has perished and the roads have been cut off.” So the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ascended the pulpit then made supplication and raised his hands till the whiteness of his armpits was visible then he said, “O Allah around us and not upon us. O Allah upon the plateaus, the hills, the valleys and where the trees grow.” Thereafter the cloud dispersed or split from Madinah like the splitting of a cloth.”

And how many [occurrences] similar to this did he have in more than one authentic hadeeth, and for Allah is all praise. It has preceded when he invoked against the Quraish due to their transgression that Allah plague them with seven years like the seven years of Yoosuf. So they were afflicted by drought that dried everything up till they ate bones, dogs and ‘ilhiz [a type of plant]. Then Abu Sufyan came asking for intercession from him so that he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would pray for them. So he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed for them and that [harm] was removed.

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, “Whenever drought threatened them, Umar bin al-Khattab, used to ask al- Abbas to invoke Allah for rain. He used to say, “O Allah! We used to ask our Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to invoke you for rain and you would bless us with rain, and now we ask the uncle of our Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to invoke you for rain, O Allah bless us with rain! ” And so it would rain,” narrated solely by al-Bukhari.

Miracles on the land

From these miracles are those which are related to inanimate beings and those that are in relation to animals. From those that are related to inanimate beings are his increase of water on more than one occasion in different ways which we shall narrate with their chains of narration In sha’ Allah. We start with this because it is more appropriate following what we mentioned earlier from his seeking rain and Allah’s acceptance of his supplications [in that respect].

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) embarked one day for some of his errands with some of his Companions with him. They traveled until the time of prayer entered, yet the people couldn’t find water for ablution, so they said, ‘O Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), we cannot find water for ablution.’ He saw the discontentment with that [state] on the faces of his Companions. Then he left the people and brought a water skin with little water in. Thereafter the Prophet of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) began to perform the ablution from it, then he spread his four fingers over the water skin and said, ‘Come, perform the ablution.’ So the people performed the ablution to the extent that they were excessive in what they wanted.” Al-Hasan said, “Anas was asked how many were they He replied, “70 or close to that.”

Narrated by Anas bin Malik, “The Prophet of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was at az-Zawra’, a cup was brought to him with water not even as deep as his fingers. Then he ordered his Companions to make ablution and placed his palm in the water. The water flowed from between his fingers and his finger tips until the people had performed the ablution.” Anas was asked how many were there, he replied saying, “We were 300.”

Narrated by al-Bara’ (May Allah be pleased with him) he said, “We were 1400 on the day of al-Hudaibiyah, and al-Hudaibiyah was a well. So we took from it to the extent that we didn’t leave a drop inside it. Then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) sat on the edge of the well and asked for water and rinsed his mouth then he threw it in the well. We didn’t wait long before we drank till we quenched our thirst and the thirst of our camels.”

From the hadeeth narrated solely by Muslim, from Jabir bin Abdullah in a lengthy hadeeth in which he said, “We travelled with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) until we reached a wide valley. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went to relieve himself so I followed him with a vessel of water. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) looked on and could not find anything to cover himself with, then he saw two trees on the edge of the valley. So the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went to one of them and took a branch from its branches then he said, 'Follow me with the permission of Allah.' So it followed him like a camel Makhshoosh [with a piece of wood through its nose with a rope tied to it] that follows its master. Then he came to the other one and took a branch from its branches then said, 'Follow me with the permission of Allah.' So it also followed him, then when he was in the midpoint between them he brought them together and said, “Cover me with the permission of Allah.” Then they were joined together.

Jabir said, “So I left swiftly fearing that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would sense my closeness and then distance himself. So I sat and spoke to myself and looked once and saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) coming and I saw the trees fall apart and each one of them stood on [its] trunk. Then I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stand and indicate with his head like this, left and right. Thereafter he walked and when he reached me he said, 'O Jabir, did you see my position?' I said, 'Yes, O Messenger of Allah.' He said, 'Go to the two trees and cut a branch off each of them then go to where I was standing then throw a branch on your right and a branch on your left.’”

Jabir added, “So I stood, then took a stone and broke it and sharpened it and it became sharp. Then I came to the two trees and cut a branch off each of them, thereafter I went till I stood where the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was standing, threw a branch to my right and a branch to my left then returned and said, 'I have done so, O Messenger of Allah.' He said, 'I asked what that was for.' He said, 'I passed by two graves [its dwellers] being punished, so I wanted that to be raised from them as long as the branches were still fresh.’”

Jabir added, “When we came to the camp, then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, 'O Jabir, call for the ablution water.' So I said, 'Alas the ablution water! Alas the ablution water! Alas the ablution water!' He said, 'I said, 'O Messenger of Allah I did not find a drop in the camp.' Whilst a man from the Ansar was cooling water for the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in water skins on a rack made from date palm leaves. He added: Then he said to me, 'Go to so and so al-Ansari and look to see if you find anything [water] in his water skins.'

He said, “So I went to him and I looked in them and did not find but a drop in the mouth of one of the water skins, if I were to empty it in order to drink [the drop] it would have dried it. He said, 'Go and bring it and bring it to me.' So I brought it to him, then he took it with his hand then began to say something which I did not know what it was. He touched it with his hands and then gave it to me and said, 'O Jabir, call for a pot.' So I said, 'O the one who possesses the pot of the camp.' Then it was carried to me and I put it in front of him. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) did this with his hand in the pot: spread it [his hand] and spread his fingers then he placed it [hand] in the bottom of the pot and said, 'Take [this] O Jabir and pour it on me and say: In the Name of Allah'."

So I poured on him and said: 'In the Name of Allah'. I saw the water gush from between the fingers of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) then the pot overflowed and went round till it was filled then he said, "O Jabir, invite anyone who has a need for water." The people came and drank to their fill. Then I said, "Is there anyone that remains who has a need?" Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) raised his hand from the pot when it was full. He [Jabir] added, "The people complained to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) from hunger, so he said, "Perchance Allah will feed you."

We came to the shore of the sea then it shuddered with a tremor then threw out an animal. Then we lit the fire on its side, cooked and fried it and ate our fill. Jabir said, "Then Fulan [so and so], Fulan and Fulan – till he counted 5 men – entered its eye socket and nobody saw us till we exited. Then we took a rib from its ribs and then made an arch, thereafter we called the biggest man, the biggest camel in the camp and the biggest seat in the camp then he passed through without lowering his head."

And in Saheeh Muslim narrated by Salamah bin al- Akwa', he said, "We travelled to al-Hudaibiyah [a well] with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) whilst we were 1400 – or more than that – and around it there was 50 heads [people] who had not drunk from it. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) sat on the wall of the well and either he prayed or spat in it." [Salamah] He added, "Thereafter it gushed and we drank the water."

Narrated by al-Miswar and Marwan bin al-Hakam in the lengthy hadeeth of the Treaty of al-Hudaibiyah, “Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) left them and descended to the lowest part of al-Hudaibiyah on an area with little water so that the people would take little by little till they finished it. The complaint of thirst was raised to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) so he took an arrow from his sack and commanded them to throw it in. By Allah the area did not cease to flood with water such that they turned away from it.”

This hadeeth has been previously narrated in its totality in [the section] the Treaty of al-Hudaibiyah which is sufficient and there is no need for it to be repeated. Ibn Ishaq narrated from some of them that Najiyah bin Jundab the camel driver threw the arrow in it. He said it has been mentioned [that it was] al-Bara’ bin ‘Azib thereafter Ibn Ishaq preferred the first [opinion].

Narrated by Abdullah, he said, “We used to consider the signs as blessings and you consider them as fearsome. We were with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on a journey and the water had become scarce so he said, 'Find a surplus of water.' They brought a vessel with a little water therein, so he placed his hand in the vessel then he said, 'Come forth to blessed water from Allah the Great and the Almighty.' I indeed saw the water flow from between the fingers of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). We used to hear the glorification of the food [of Allah] when it was eaten.”

Narrated by Abu Raja’, he said, “Imran bin Husain informed us that they were on a journey with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and they travelled through the night until it was close to the morning. They took a rest then their eyes overcame them up until the sun rose [midmorning]. The first to wake from his sleep was Abu Bakr and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would not be woken from his sleep till he awoke [on his own]. Then Umar awoke and then Abu Bakr sat next to his head and proceeded to say pronounce Allahu Akbar and raise his voice until the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) awoke. Then he descended and led us in the morning prayer. A man secluded himself from the people, he had not prayed with us then when he completed [the prayer] he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, 'O so and so, what prevented you from praying with us?' He said, 'I was in a state of Janabah [sexual impurity], then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) commanded him to make Tayammum with the earth and pray."

Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) made me ride in front of Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and we had become severely thirsty. Whilst we were proceeding with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) we met a woman who was sitting [on her camel] between two bags of water. We asked her, "Where can we find water?" She replied, "Verily, there is no water." We said, "How far is the distance between your family and the water?" She said, "A day and a night." We said, "Go to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)." She said, "And what is the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)?" Then we brought her to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). She told him what she told us except that she informed him that she had orphans. Then he ordered that the bags of water [be dismantled from the camel] and wiped over the openings of them. Then forty of us thirsty men drank till we quenched our thirst and we filled every water skin and vessel we had with us. We did not ride a camel except that it [the bag] was about to burst from fullness. Thereafter he said, “Give that which you have with you.” So some foodstuff and dates were collected for her, then when she reached her family she said, “I met the greatest magician of the people or a Prophet as they claimed.” Thus, Allah guided those people through that woman, then she embraced Islam and they too embraced Islam.

Narrated by Abu Qatadah, who said, “We were with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on a journey then he said, 'If you do not find water tomorrow, you shall become thirsty.' And the first of the people set off in search of water. I stayed with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his riding-animal swayed with him then Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) became drowsy, so I helped him [straighten] and he straightened. Then he swayed so I helped him [straighten] and he straightened. Thereafter he swayed till he was about to fall off his riding-animal then he was alerted and said, 'Who is this man?' So I said, 'Abu Qatadah, He said, 'Since when have you been journeying?' I said, since night. He said, 'May Allah protect you as you protected His Messenger.'

Thereafter he said we should sleep, so he walked towards a tree and rested then he said, 'Look to see if you can find anyone?' I said, 'This is a traveler, these two are travelers,' until he reached 7. Thereafter he said, 'Take heed of our prayer [time].' So we slept and nothing but the heat of the sun woke us then we came to. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) rode and we rode for a while, he dismounted and said, 'Do you have water?' He added [Abu Qatadah]: I said, 'I have a vessel containing some water.' He said, 'Bring it.' He added: So I gave it to him, then he said, "Take some of it.

Take some of it." So the people performed the ablution and a little sip of water remained then he said, 'Hold on to it O Abu Qatadah, for it shall have news [a usage].'

Thereafter Bilal performed the 'Athān and they prayed the two units before Fajr, then they prayed Fajr. Then he rode and we rode then some of them said to one another we have been neglectful of our prayer, so the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, 'What are you saying? If it is a matter of your worldly affairs then that is your affair and if it is a matter of your religion then that is for me.'

We said, 'O Messenger of Allah we have been neglectful of our prayer.' So he said, 'Sleep [at the time of prayer] is not neglectful, however being awake [and missing prayer] is neglectful and it is so, then pray it tomorrow on its time.' Then he said, 'The people perceived [guessed].' They said, "You said yesterday, 'If you do not find water tomorrow you will be thirsty.' And the people need water."

He [Abu Qatadah] added: When the people awoke and found their Prophet was missing, the people said to one another, 'The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has found water,' and Abu Bakr and Umar were among the people so they said, 'O people, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would not precede you to the water and leave you behind and if the people obey Abu Bakr and Umar they shall be guided, he [the Prophet] said this thrice.'

Then when the midday heat had heightened the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) appeared, so they said, 'O Messenger of Allah, we have been perishing from thirst [so much so] that the necks have been cut.' So he said, 'You shall not perish.' Thereafter he said, 'O Abu Qatadah, bring the vessel.' So I brought it to him, then he said, 'Open my water skin for me.' So I opened it and brought it to him. Then he began to pour it in it [the vessel] and serve the people. The people crowded round it, so the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, 'O people, have good conduct, for all of you are going to leave full.'

Thus the people drank until nobody but the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and I remained. Then he poured some for me and said, 'Drink O Abu Qatadah.' He [Abu Qatadah] said: "I said, 'You drink [first] O Messenger of Allah'. He replied, 'The one who serves drink for the people is the last of them to drink.' So I drank then he drank after me and the amount [of water] that was previously in the vessel remained and they were 300."

Abdullah said, "Imran bin Husain heard me mention this hadeeth in the Jami' Mosque, then he said, 'Who are you?' I said, 'I am Abdullah bin Rabah al- Ansari.' He said, 'The people [who were present] are more aware of their incident. Watch how you speak, for I am one of the seven on that night.' Then when I finished, he said, 'I did not think that anyone had memorized this hadeeth apart for myself.'

Narrated by Mu'adh bin Jabal - then he [Abdullah] mentioned the hadeeth of combining the prayer in the battle of Tabook till he said that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "You shall reach the spring of Tabook tomorrow by the will of Allah and you shall not arrive by it until forenoon. So whosoever arrives there, then he should not touch any of its water until I arrive.” He [Mu‘adh] added: So we arrived by it and two men were already present and the stream was flowing like the strap of a sandal with some water. So the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked them, “Have you touched [consumed] some of its water?” They said, “Yes.” So the Messenger of Allah rebuked them and said to them that which Allah allowed him to say. Then they scooped the water from the spring bit by bit until it was collected in something. Thereafter the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) washed his face and his hands and returned it to it [the spring]. Then the spring [began to] flow with plentiful water. Then the people drank, thereafter the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “O Mu‘adh, if you live long you may see what is here filled with gardens.”

We mentioned in the book, al-Wufood from Ziyad bin al-Harith as-Suda’i the story of his arrival [upon the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)] and he mentioned a long narration, part of it: Then we said, “O Messenger of Allah, we have a well which has sufficient water for us in the winter and we gather around it. And in the summer the water is scarce so we disperse upon water around us. We have just accepted Islam and everyone around us is an enemy. So invoke Allah for us with regards to our well so that its water is sufficient for us and we can gather around it and we don’t disperse.”

So he asked for seven stones and scratched them with his hands and prayed upon them, then he said, “Go with these stones and when you reach the well then throw one at a time and mention [the Name of Allah].” Suda’i said, “So we did as he requested, then we could not see its bed thereafter i.e. the well.”

Chapter on the multiplication of food at times of need

His increasing of Laban (soluble yoghurt) in many instances also. Abu Hurairah narrated: By the One besides Whom there is no diety, I would lay on my stomach on the ground because of hunger. I would tie a stone to my stomach and Abu Bakr passed by. I asked him about a Verse from the Book of Allah. I asked him so that he would satisfy my hunger, but he passed by without doing so. Then Umar passed by me and I asked him about a Verse from the Book of Allah. I did so because perhaps he would satisfy my hunger. But he also passed by without doing so. Thereafter, the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) passed by me, then he smiled when he saw me and he knew what was on my face and my inner self. Then he said, "O Abu Hurr," I said, "I am at your service, O Messenger of Allah." He said, "Follow (me)." He proceeded and I followed him. He entered the house and asked for permission (for me) and later allowed me to enter. He saw some Laban in a pot and asked, "Where is this Laban from?" They said such-and-such person donated it to you. He said, "O Abu Hurr, (short for Hurairah)." I said, "I am at your service, O Messenger of Allah." He said, "Go and call the people of Suffah for me." The narrator added: The people of Suffah were the guests of Islam, they didn't have family or wealth or anyone to support them and when charity was brought to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) he would send it to them and he didn't take anything from it. Whenever a gift came to him he would send it to them and took some of it and shared it with them and that would sadden me. So I (Abu Hurairah) said to myself, and what is this Laban with the people of Suffah! I am more deserving of a drink from this Laban that will strengthen me than them. When they would come and if the Prophet orders me, I thought if I give them that Laban then I would be left with hardly any Laban. But there was no escape from the obedience of Allah and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). So I came to them and called them. They came and sought permission to enter and the Prophet allowed them and they took their places in the house. He said, “O Abu Hurr.” I said, “I am at your service, O Messenger of Allah.” He said, “Take and give to them.” So I took the pot and gave it to one of them, which he drank till his fill and then returned the pot to me and I came back to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Gradually all the people fully satisfied their thirst. Then he took the pot and placed it on my hand and then looking at me he smiled and said, “O Abu Hurr.” I said, “I am at your service, O Messenger of Allah.” He said, “You and I remain.” I said, “You have spoken the truth, O Messenger of Allah.” He then said, “Sit and drink.” So I sat and drank, then he said, “Drink.” I drank it, and he continued to say so until I said, “No, by the One Who sent you with Truth I can’t take any more!” He said, “So show me.” So I gave him the pot and he praised Allah, the Most High, mentioned His name and drank the remaining.”

Ibn Mas‘ood narrated that: I used to attend sheep belonging to ‘Uqbah Ibn Abu Mu‘ait. One day, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and Abu Bakr passed by me and said, “O boy, is there any Laban?” I said, “Yes, but I am entrusted.” The Prophet said, “Is there a female sheep that hasn’t been mated by a male sheep?” I brought him a female sheep and he wiped over its udder and milk descended which he milked into a vessel. He drank some and gave some to Abu Bakr. Then he said to the udder, “Shrink.” So it shrank (dried up). Ibn Mas‘ood added: I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, “O Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), teach me from these words.” He wiped over my head and said, "O child, May Allah have mercy upon you for you are a young learning boy."

His increasing of Samn (butter/ghee) for Umm Sulaim

Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Shaiban informed us, Muhammad Ibn Ziyad Al-Burjumi also informed us from Abuz-Zilal, from Anas Ibn Malik from his mother that she had a sheep and gathered from its Samn in an 'Ukkah (a pot used to carry Samn). So she filled the 'Ukkah and sent it with Rabeebah saying, "O Rabeebah, give this 'Ukkah to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him); he can use it as soup. Rabeebah took it along with her till she met the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, "O Messenger of Allah, this is an 'Ukkah of Samn that Umm Sulaim sent to you." He said, "Empty the 'Ukkah." She emptied the 'Ukkah and then it was returned to her. She left and arrived when Umm Sulaim wasn't at home. So she hung the 'Ukkah on a peg. When Umm Sulaim arrived she saw the 'Ukkah full and dripping. Umm Sulaim said, "O Rabeebah, didn't I command you to take it to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)?" She replied, "I did, and if you don't believe me go and ask the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)." Umm Sulaim went accompanied by Rabeebah to the Prophet and said, "O Messenger of Allah, I sent her with an 'Ukkah containing Samn to you." He said, "Yes you did and she brought it." She said, "By the One Who sent you with Truth and the religion of Truth, it is indeed full and dripping with Samn!" Anas said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to her, "O Umm Sulaim, are you amazed that Allah provided for you just as you provided for his Prophet? Eat and feed others.” She said, “I came to the house and put in a big pot (Qa‘b) of ours such and such (amount) and left in it that which we used as a soup for a month or two months.”

Abu Bakr Ibn Muhammad Ibn Hamzah narrated from his father, from his grandfather that once, The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) left for Tabook and I was at his service on that journey. I looked at the vessel containing the Samn and there was left a little in it. I prepared food for the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and left the vessel out in the sun and slept and woke suddenly by the gurgle of the vessel. I stood and put my hand on my head, then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “If you had left it would have flowed a valley of Samn.”

Jabir narrated: Umm Malik Al-Bahziyyah used to give Samn in her ‘Ukkah to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and once while her children were asking her for soup she didn’t have anything. When she went to her ‘Ukkah, in which she used to deliver food to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), she found Samn. She started giving soup to her children until she squeezed it. She came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). He said, “Did you squeeze drain it out?” She said, “Yes.” He said, “If you had left it, (then) there would have remained some in it.”

Thereafter Imam Ahmad narrated with this chain from Jabir from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him): A man came to him asking for food. He fed him half a Wasq of barley. The man didn’t stop eating along with his wife and their servant until they weighed it. Then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “If you hadn’t weighed it, you would have eaten from it and still it would have remained in it.”

The story of Abu Talha honoring the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and that which appeared from the miracles of Prophethood in the increasing of little food:

Al-Bukhari narrated from Anas Ibn Malik: Abu Talhah said to Umm Sulaim, “I heard the voice of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was weak, and I noticed hunger from it, so do you have anything?” She said, “Yes.” Then she produced tablets of barley, thereafter she produced yeast which she had. She rolled the bread up and forced it under my arm and placed some on my head. Then she sent me to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).” Anas said, “I took it and I found the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the Mosque and he had people with him. I stood in front of them. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, ‘Did Abu Talhah send you?’ I said, ‘Yes.’ He said, ‘With food?’ I said, ‘Yes.’ Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to those who were with him, ‘Stand (leave).’ So he left and I went in front of them until I came to Abu Talhah and I informed him. Then Abu Talhah said, “O Umm Sulaim, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came and the people and we don’t have enough to feed them.” So she said, “Allah and his Messenger know best.” Then Abu Talhah went till he met the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) accompanied Abu Talhah and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Come, O Umm Sulaim, what do you have with you?” Then she brought the bread and then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ordered that the bread be crumbled and Umm Sulaim emptied an ‘Ukkah and put the soup/fat in it. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said that which Allah allowed him to say on it (he prayed on it) then he said, “Allow 10 people to enter.” So he gave them permission, then they ate till their fill and then they left. Then he said, “Allow 10 people to enter.” So he gave them permission, then they ate till their fill and then they left. Then he said, “Allow 10 people to enter.” So he gave them permission, then they ate till their fill and then they left. Thereafter he said, “Allow 10 people to enter.” So all of the people ate till their fill and they were 70 or 80 in number.”

Samurah narrated: A bowl was brought to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) of Thareed (a kind of meat dish) and they all ate from it from morning till Zuhr. Some people would leave then others would sit. Then a man said to him: “Was it filled each time?” He said, “From what are you amazed? It was filled from here,” and he pointed to the sky.

The story of Siddeeq’s bowl

It may be the bowl which is mentioned in the Hadith of Samurah Ibn Jundab. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Abdur-Rahman Ibn Abu Bakr narrated: The people of Suffah were poor people and the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said on one occasion, “Whosoever has the food of two people then he should invite a third, and whosoever has the food for four then he should invite a fifth or a sixth,” or words to that effect. Abu Bakr came with three and the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went with 10. Abu Bakr went with three saying, “It was my father, my mother and I.” (The narrator added: I don’t know if he said, “My wife and my servant from our house and Abu Bakr’s house.”) Abu Bakr had supper with the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and stayed until he prayed Isha’ then he returned and waited till the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had eaten his supper. Then he came after a portion of the night that Allah willed had passed. His wife said to him, “What held you back from your guests or guest?” He said, “Didn’t you serve them supper?” She said, “They refused until you come (the family of Abu Bakr) they offered them however they were overcome (in attempting to persuade the guests). So I went and hid.” Then Abu Bakr said to his son Abdur Rahman, “O ignorant one.” Then he cursed him (saying “may your nose or ear be cut”) and said, “Eat,” - and in a narration – “Not pleasantly (rebuking or cursing them for waiting for him).” He said, “I shall not eat.” By Allah we wouldn’t take a morsel except that it was replaced from where we took it from (i.e. the bowl) or more than that until they were all full and the food become more than it was before they ate. Then Abu Bakr looked and saw that it was something left or more, so he said to his wife – in another narration – “What is this, O sister of Bani Firas tribe?” She said, “No, by the pleasure of my eyes. It is three times more than it was.” So Abu Bakr ate from it and said, “It was Satan,” – i.e. his oath not to eat – then he ate another morsel of food then he took the dish to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and it remained with him till the morning. And there was an agreement between us and the people and the time had finished. So we split into 12 men and every man had people with him

And Allah (SWT) knows best how many were with each man. Then they all ate – or words to that effect – and others said, “So we knew, from the word knowledge (instead of the word split mentioned earlier).” Abdur-Rahman Ibn Abu Bakr narrated that, “Once we were 130 with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). The Prophet said, ‘Does any of you have food?’ One man had a Sa‘ of food. Then a tall scruffy haired idolater came with some sheep, so the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, ‘For sale or a gift?’ Or he said, ‘Is it a gift?’ He said, ‘No it is for sale.’ So he bought a sheep from him and it was cooked and he asked that the liver be fried. Abdur-Rahman said, ‘By Allah there was none from the 130 except that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) sliced a piece of liver for him. If he was present he gave it to him and if he was absent he saved it for him.’ He added, ‘He made two bowls from it. So we all ate from them and we were full. A little remained in the two bowls so we carried it on the camel.’”

Abu Sa‘eed or Abu Hurairah – al-A‘mash was doubtful – narrated, “In the Battle of Tabook, the people were afflicted by hunger so they said, ‘O Messenger of Allah, would you give us permission so that we can sacrifice our camels, (that were used for irrigation) then eat and use its fat as oil (for lightening fires and other uses)?’ The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, ‘Do so.’ Then Umar(May Allah be pleased with him)came and said, ‘O Messenger of Allah, if you do that then our transport (camels) will be lessened, but instead call for their surplus provisions from them and invoke Allah for them that He bestows Blessings upon them (surplus provisions).’ Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Yes.” Then he asked for a sheet which was spread out, thereafter he called for their surplus provisions. All of them would come one by one with a handful of corn and would bring a handful of dates, and nuts till a little sufficient amount was collected on the sheet. Thereafter the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) invoked blessings and said, "Place in your utensils/vessels." So they collected in their utensils to the fill. And they ate till their fill and still remained a lot of it. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "I testify that there is no deity worthy of worship except Allah and that I am the Messenger of Allah. No slave meets Allah with them (the two testimonies of faith) without doubting and is screened from Paradise (i.e. he will enter Paradise)."

Iyas Ibn Salamah narrated from his father, "We left with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) for the Battle of Khaibar and we were suffering from exhaustion to the extent that we thought about sacrificing some of our camels. The Prophet of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked for our provisions and we gathered our provisions. We spread a sheet for him and the people's provision was put on the sheet." The narrator added, "I looked to estimate as to how much was there. I calculated it as being the same as a grazing she goat (i.e. the collection of provisions) while we were 1,400." He added: "So we ate till we were all full; we also filled our pockets. Then the Prophet of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked if there was ablution water?" The narrator added: Then a man came with a water skin with a very little water inside it. Then he emptied it in a vessel and all of us performed the ablution. We poured it over 1,400 men., 8 men came and asked, "Is there any water for purification?" The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "The ablution water has finished."

The story of Jabir (May Allah be pleased with him) and his father's debt and his increasing of dates

Jabir narrated: His father passed away while he was in debt, "I came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and I said: My father left a debt, and I don't have except that which date-tree produces, yet its produce doesn't comply with the heavy debt upon him. He went with me so that the creditors don't rebuke me. He walked around a threshold of container of dates and supplicated and walked again and supplicated around another container. Then he sat on it and said, "Remove it." So he repaid them whatever was due to them and similar to it remained with us.

The story of Salman in the Prophet's increasing of that piece of gold to clear his debt

Salman Al-Khair said, "When I said: where is this in proportion to that debt which is upon me, O Messenger of Allah? The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) took it and turned it on its tongue, and he said, "Take this and repay them from it." I took it and I returned their right to them from it completely 40 'Ooqiyyah."

Abu Hurairah narrated, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was in an expedition and they were afflicted with hunger so he said, "O Abu Hurairah, do you have anything?" Abu Hurairah said, "Yes I have some dates in a sack that I own." He said, "Bring it." Abu Hurairah said, "I brought the sack." The Prophet said, "Bring a sheet." I brought the sheet and spread it. Then he put his hand in the sack and grabbed the dates and found there were only 21. Then he picked every date and mentioned the Name of Allah over them and said, "Call so-and-so and his companions." They came and ate their fill and left. He again said, "Call so-and-so and his companions." Then they ate their fill and left. He did the same again and there was still a surplus. Then he asked me to sit. I sat and he and I ate. Yet some dates remained so I put them back it in the sack and he said to me, "O Abu Hurairah, if you want some put your hand in it and take but don't resist lest it resist you, i.e. finish." He added: And I didn't wish for dates except that I put my hand inside it. I took 50 Wasq from it in the path of Allah. And it was attached behind my saddle, and it dropped in the era of Uthman. Later, it disappeared."

Jabir narrated: A man came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asking for food, so he gave him half a Wasq of barley. The man didn't stop eating from it with his wife and their guest until they measured it. He came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) who told him, "If you hadn't measured it, and would have eaten from it, it would have remained with you."

Jabir narrated that Umm Malik used to give Samn in her 'Ukkah to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). While her children were asking her for soup, she didn't have anything so she went to her 'Ukkah. In it, she found Samn. She continued having soup for her children until she squeezed it. And she came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) who said, "Did you squeeze it (drain it out)?" She said, "Yes." He said, "If you had left it, it would have remained there."

Abu Hurairah narrated that a disbeliever came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) as a guest.

A sheep was milked for him and he drank its milk. The Prophet ordered another sheep to be milked and he drank its milk. He ordered another sheep to be milked and he drank the milk until he drank the milk of seven sheep. The disbeliever woke up in the morning and accepted Islam. He came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) who ordered a sheep to be milked and he drank from its milk. The Prophet ordered another for him but he couldn't finish it. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "The Muslim drinks in one intestine but the disbeliever drinks in 7 intestines."

Dukain Ibn Sa'eed Al-Khath'ami narrated, "We came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and, we were 440 in number, asking him for food. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to Umar, "Get up and donate to them." He said, "O Messenger of Allah, except that which is sufficient for me and my children for 4 months." He said, "Get up and donate to them." Umar said, "O Messenger of Allah, I hear and obey." Then Umar stood and we stood with him and he led us to a room of his and produced the key from his pocket and opened the door. Dukain said,

"There were dates in the room the amount of a young grazing camel/cow that has stopped feeding." Umar said, "Take as you wish." Dukain said, "Then everyone of us took his needs as he wished, then he glanced and I was from the last of them and it was though we never took a single date from him."

Chapter on following of the trees with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

Jabir Ibn Abdullah narrated, “We traveled with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) until we reached a wide valley. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went to relieve himself and I followed him with a vessel of water. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) looked on and couldn’t find anything to cover himself with. He saw two trees on the edge of the valley. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went to one of them and took a branch from its branches and said, “Follow me with the permission of Allah.” It followed him like a camel Makhshoosh (with a piece of wood through its nose with a rope tied to it) that follows its master. Then he came to the other one and took a branch from its branches and said, “Follow me with the permission of Allah.” And it also followed him. When he was midway he brought them together and said, “Cover me with the permission of Allah.” They were joined together. Jabir said, “I left quickly fearing that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would sense my closeness and might distance himself. So I sat and spoke to myself and looked once and saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) coming and I saw the trees falling apart and each one of them stood on its trunk. I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) standing and indicating with his head like this: “left and right.”

Anas narrated, “Jibreel came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) one day when he was upset, stained with blood from an attack from some of the people of Makkah.” Anas added: He asked him, “What is wrong with you?” He said, “They did to me and they did, i.e., hurt me.” Anas added: Then Jibreel said to him: “Do you want me to show you a sign?” He said, “Yes.” He looked at a tree behind the valley and said, “Call that tree.” He called it and it came running and stood in front of him. Then Jibreel said, “Order it so that it returns.” So he commanded it and it returned to its place. Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “That’s sufficient for me as a sign.”

Ibn Abbas narrated: A man came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) from the tribe of Amir and said, “O Messenger of Allah, show me the seal that is between your shoulders because I am from the most learned of people in magic.” The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Shall I not show you a sign?” He said, “Indeed.” He looked at a date-palm tree and told the man, “Call that cluster of dates.” The man called it and it came skipping till it stood in front of him. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Return.” And it returned to its place. The Amiri man said, “O family of the tribe of Amir, I haven’t seen a man greater in magic than this man like today.”

Ibn Umar narrated: We were with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) during a journey, where a Bedouin approached and after coming close the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Where do you want to go?” He said, “To my family.” He said, “Do you want to go to goodness?” He said, “What is that (goodness)?” He said, “Bear witness: There is no deity worthy of worship except Allah, Alone, without a partner and that Muhammad is his slave and Messenger.” He said, “Do you have a proof of what you say?” He said, “This tree.” The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) called it and it was at the edge of the valley. So it came dragging itself on the ground till it stood in front of the Prophet. He asked it to make the Shahadah (testimony of Islam) three times so it made the testimony that he (the Prophet) was as he claimed. Then it returned to its roots and the Bedouin returned to his people and said, “If they follow me I will bring them to you and if not I will return to you and remain with you.”

The tree trunk yearning for the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and sadness due to his departure from it

It has been narrated in a Hadith from a group of the Companions with many chains that provide certainty with the Imams of this affair and the knights of this field (Hadith).

Al-Qadi Iyad said in his book Ash- Shifa' and it is a well-known Hadith, widespread, Mutawatir (related from many paths due to their number providing certain authenticity) and narrated by the writers of the Saheeh and as between 13-19 Companions narrated it, from them: Ubayy, Jabir, Anas, Ibn Umar, Ibn Abbas, Sahl Ibn Sa'd, Abu Sa'eed, Buraidah, Umm Salamah and Al-Muttalib Ibn Abu Wada'ah.

Ubayy Ibn Ka'b narrated from his father, “The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to give Khutba (speech) using a date-tree trunk as a rest as the Mosque was in the shade. He used to address the people leaning on that trunk. Someone from the Companions said, “O Messenger of Allah, can we make you a pulpit that you can stand on during Fridays so that you can make the people hear your Khutbah?” He said, “Yes.” Three steps were built which were used as the pulpit. When the pulpit was made and was fixed where the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) wanted it, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) decided to stand on it and give the Khutbah. As he walked toward it and passed by the trunk that he used to lean on, it cleft and split and started crying. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) descended from the pulpit and when he heard the voice of the tree trunk, he came close to it and put his hands over it to make it calm down and he returned to the pulpit. When the Mosque was destroyed, Ubayy Ibn Ka‘b took that tree trunk and it remained with him till it perished and was eaten by worms and thrown into the ruins.”

The stone’s glorification (of Allah) in the Prophet’s hand

Abu Dharr narrated, “I do not mention Uthman except with goodness after something which I witnessed. I used to be a watchman who used to search for the moments of seclusion for Messenger of Allah. One day I saw him sitting alone and I ceased the opportunity of his seclusion. I came and sat in front of him. Abu Bakr also came and gave the greetings and sat on the right side of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Thereafter, Umar came and gave the greetings and sat on the right side of Abu Bakr. Then Uthman came and gave the greetings and sat on the right side of Umar. In front of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) were seven stones – or it is said 9 stones. He took them in his hands and they began to glorify (Allah) which I heard from them the humming like the humming of the bee. When he put them down they became quiet. Then he took them and put them in Abu Bakr’s hands and they began to glorify (Allah) which I heard from them the humming like the humming of the bee. Then he put them down and they became quiet. Thereafter, he took them and put them in the hands of Umar and they started glorifying (Allah) which I heard from them the humming like the humming of the bee. He also put them down and they became quiet. Thereafter, the Messenger of Allah took them and placed them in Uthman's hands and they began to glorify (Allah) which I heard from them the humming like the humming of the bee. He put them down and they became quiet. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, 'This is the Caliphate of Prophethood.'

Jabir Ibn Samurah narrated, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, 'I know a stone in Makkah that used to greet me before I was sent (as a Prophet). I indeed recognize it now'."

We have mentioned earlier in the section Al-Mab'ath (the beginning of Prophethood) that when he returned after receiving the Revelation he wouldn't pass by a stone, a tree, clots of mud or anything except that they said to him Assalamu Alaika Ya Rasoolallah. We mentioned in the Battles of Badr and Hunain his hurling of a handful of soil (and it reached the Kuffar despite their distance from him) and his order of his Companions to follow it with a true attack so that help, victory, and assistance will occur soon after that. As for the Battle of Badr, then Allah said in that context: And you (O Muhammad) threw not when you did throw but Allah threw. (Soorah Al-Anfal: 17) As for the Battle of Hunain, we have mentioned it in the Hadith with its chains and wordings which suffices mentioning it here.

Another Hadith: We have mentioned in regard to the Battle of the Conquest that when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered the Haram Mosque and found idols around the Ka'bah he began to poke them with something in his hand and said, "The Truth has come and the falsehood has perished, falsehood always perishes. Say: The truth has come and the falsehood (Iblees) doesn't create anything nor does it resurrect anything." And in a narration, "He didn't point to an idol from them except that it tumbled on its neck." In another narration, "Except that it fell."

'A'ishah narrated: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered upon me while I was wearing a garment with pictures on it. He removed it and said, "The people receiving most severe punishment on the Day of Judgment will be those who try to resemble (draw) the creation of Allah, i.e., that which has a soul." Al-Awza'i said: 'A'ishah said, "A shield was brought to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with a picture of an eagle. He put his hand on it and then Allah, the Great and the Almighty, caused it to disappear."

Chapter about animals from the miracles of Prophethood; the story of the chanting camel and its prostration to him and its complaint to him

Anas Ibn Malik narrated: A household from the Ansar tribe had a camel which they used for irrigation purposes and it became hostile toward them and refused to be controlled. The Ansar came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, "We have a camel that we would use for irrigation and it has become hostile toward us and refuses to be controlled. The agriculture and the date trees have become thirsty." The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to his Companions, "Stand (leave)." So they stood and left. When he entered the (date-tree) garden, the camel was in its place. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) walked toward it then the Ansar said, "O Messenger of Allah, it has become like a dog and we fear its attack upon you.” He said, “No harm shall afflict me from it.” When the camel looked at the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) it walked toward him until it came close to him and fell in prostration. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) held it by its forehead in a way more subservient than it ever had been till he made it work. Thereafter, his Companions said to him, “O Messenger of Allah, this is an animal that doesn’t have intellect yet it prostrates before you and we are more worthy that we prostrate to you.” He said, “It is not befitting for a human being to prostrate before another human being. And it if it was befitting for a human being to prostrate before another then I would have commanded the woman to prostrate before her husband due to the greater rights he has upon her. By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, if there was a wart from his feet to the parting of his head seeping with pus and she faced him then licked it, she would have still not fulfilled his right (upon her).” And this is a good chain and An-Nasa’i narrated a portion of it from the Hadith of Khalaf Ibn Khaleefah with it (same chain).

Ya’la Ibn Murrah Ath-Thaqafi narrated: I witnessed three matters (miracles) from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). While we were traveling with him we passed by a camel irrigating the land. When the camel saw him it shuffled and it dropped its head. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood in front of it and said, “Where is the owner of this camel?” When he came, the Prophet said, “Sell it to me.” He said, “No, rather I grant it to you.” He again said, “No, rather sell it to me.” He replied, “No, rather we grant it to you, it belongs to someone who doesn’t own a livelihood other than it.” He said, “If you mention this from its affair, then it is suffering from much work and a lack of feeding, so look after it.” The narrator added: Then we traveled and we stopped at a place where the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) slept. There a tree came dragging itself until it enveloped him and then it returned to its place. When he woke up I mentioned that to him. He said, "It is a tree that sought permission from its Lord to give greetings to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) so he allowed it." The narrator added: Then we journeyed till we came to some water where a woman came to him with her child who was possessed. The Prophet held it by the nose and said, "Exit, for indeed I am Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah." The narrator added: Then we traveled and when we returned from our journey we passed by that water and the woman came with a sheep (which was) sound for a sacrifice and some Laban. He commanded her to take back the sheep which was sound for a sacrifice and he commanded his Companions to drink the Laban which they did. Then he asked about her child. She replied, "By the One Who sent you with Truth we haven't seen a problem with him after you left."

Hadith of the sheep's prostration before the Prophet

Anas Ibn Malik narrated, "The Prophet entered a courtyard belonging to the Ansar and Abu Bakr, Umar and a man from the Ansar were with him, and therein were sheep and they prostrated before him. Abu Bakr said, "O Messenger of Allah, we are more deserving that we prostrate before you than these sheep." He said, "It isn't appropriate for anyone to prostrate before another and if it was appropriate for someone to prostrate before another I would have indeed commanded the woman to prostrate before her husband". Ghareeb Hadith collected by fewer than 2 narrators throughout its chain and in its chain is someone who is unknown. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The story of the wolf and its testimony of the Prophethood

Abu Sa'eed Al-Khudri narrated: A wolf attacked a sheep, grabbed and took it away. The shepherd searched for it and retrieved it. The wolf sat on its tale and said, "Do you not fear Allah that you snatch from me a provision which Allah has given to me?" He said, "My amazement, a wolf sits on its tail and speaks to me with the speech of man?" The wolf said, "Shall I not inform you of something more amazing than that? Muhammad g in Yathrib (old name for Madinah) tells the people news which has come before." Abu Sa'eed said: The shepherd went on herding his sheep until he reached Madinah, tied them to a corner of its corners and came to the Messenger of Allah g and informed him about the incident. The Messenger of Allah g called for a congregation prayer. After that he left and told the shepherd, "Tell them." The shepherd told them. The Messenger of Allah g said, "He spoke the truth. By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, the hour shall not be established until the beasts speak to the people and the tassel of the man's whip shall speak to him and the strap of his sandals. And his thigh shall inform him of what his family (wife) did after him."

A man from Muzainah tribe or Juhainah narrated: The Messenger of Allah g offered Fajr prayers and then suddenly close to 100 wolves started heading forward like packs of wolves do. The Messenger of Allah g said to them, "Sacrifice for them some of your food, you can be safe from (sacrificing) other than that." So they complained their need to the Messenger of Allah g (for the food) He said, "Then ask them (to leave)." The narrator said: They asked them to leave and they left howling."

Al-Qadi Iyad spoke about the authenticity of the Hadith of the wolf and narrated it from Abu Hurairah, Abu Sa'eed and Uthban Ibn Aws and was nicknamed, "The one who speaks to wolves." And Ibn Wahb narrated that a similar occurrence happened to Abu Sufyan Ibn Harb and Safwan Ibn Umayyah regarding a wolf which they found had taken a deer. Then the deer entered the Haram and the wolf disappeared and they were amazed by that. But the wolf said, "More amazing than that: Muhammad Ibn Abdullah in Madinah calls you to paradise and you call him to the fire." Then Abu Sufyan said, "By Al-Lat and Al-Uzza, if I mention this to the people of Makkah its people will certainly leave."

The story of the beast that was in the house of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and would respect him and venerate him

Jabir narrated, 'A'ishah i said, "The family of the Prophet had a beast and when the Messenger of Allah g would leave, it would play and become active roaming around. When it perceived that the Messenger of Allah g had entered, it sat and didn't move when the Messenger of Allah g was in the house out of respect for him."

The story of the lion

We have mentioned in the biography of Safeenah the Mawla of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) his Hadith when the ship had been ripped apart. Then he floated on a board from it until he entered an island in the sea and found a lion on it. Safeenah said to him, "O AbulHarith, I am Safeenah the Mawla of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)." The narrator said, "He struck my shoulder and stayed adjacent to me until he set me on the path, then sometime passed and I saw that he was giving me the farewell."

Muhammad Ibn Al-Munkadir said: Safeenah the Mawla of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) became lost from the army in the land of the Romans or he was captured in the land of the Romans. He left looking for the army when suddenly he was confronted by a lion. He said, "O Abul-Harith, I am the Mawla of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

Such-and-such was from my affair." The lion advanced wagging his tail until it stood still by his side. Everytime he heard a noise he would move toward it. Then it advanced walking to his side and remained like that until he took him to the army. Then the lion left him. Narrated by Al-Baihaqi.

The Hadith of the gazelle

Umm Salamah, the wife of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), narrated: While the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was on a rock in the ground cave, suddenly someone shouted, "O Messenger of Allah. O Messenger of Allah." The Prophet said: I turned but I couldn't see anyone. Then I walked a short distance. Then suddenly I heard the voice, "O Messenger of Allah. O Messenger of Allah." I turned but I couldn't see anyone. Suddenly the voice was shouting for me. I followed the voice and I stumbled upon a deer tied up in a rope and I saw a Bedouin wrapped in a blanket in the sun. Thereafter the deer said, "O Messenger of Allah, this Bedouin hunted me before, while I have 2 fawns (young deer) on this mountain. If you can see that you should free me so that I may suckle them. Then I will return to my shackle?" He said, "And will you do so?" It replied, "May Allah punish me with punishment of Al-'Ashshar if I don't comply." The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) set it free and it went and suckled its fawns and returned. While the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was tying it, the Bedouin woke up and said, "May my father and mother be sacrificed for you, O Messenger of Allah. I seized it shortly before, do you have a need for it?" He said, "Yes." He said, "It is yours." He freed it and it left running in the desert in delight beating its legs into the ground saying, "I testify that there is no god worthy of worship except Allah and that you are the Messenger of Allah."

The Hadith of the lizard despite its Nakarah and Gharabah

Umar Ibn Al-Khattab narrated: The Messenger of Allah g was with a group of his Companions when a Bedouin came from the tribe of Sulaim and he had hunted a lizard and put it in his pocket so he could take it to his resting place to fry it and eat it. When he saw the group he said, "What is this?" They said, "This is the one who says he is a Prophet," then he came and split the people and said, "By Al-Lat and Al-Uzza, the sky doesn't hold (under it) a man who speaks more hated to me than you, nor more detested than you. And if it wasn't for my fear that my people will call me impatient then I would have certainly rushed toward you and killed you. Then the black, red, white and other people would have been delighted with your death." Then Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said, "O Messenger of Allah, allow me to kill him." He said, "O Umar, don't you know that the fore-bearing person would have been a Prophet?" Then he approached the Bedouin and said, "What made you say what you said, made you say falsehood and not honor me in my gathering?” He replied, “And you speak to me also?” – out of disrespect for the Messenger of Allah g – “By Al-Lat and Al-Uzza I will not believe in you until this lizard believes in you.” He produced the lizard from his pocket and threw it in front of the Messenger of Allah g. The Messenger of Allah g said, “O lizard.” The lizard responded to him with the clear language of Arabic. All of the people heard it say: “I am at your service and pleasure, O the most brilliant of those who fulfilled the Day of Judgment.” He said, “Who do you worship, O lizard?” It said, “The One Whose throne is above the sky and on the Earth is his authority, in the sea is his path, in the Paradise is his mercy and in the Hellfire is his punishment.” He said, “So who am I, O lizard?” It said, “The Messenger of the Lord of the worlds and the Seal of the Prophets. The one who believes in you succeeds and wretched is the one who rejects you.” Then the Bedouin said, “By Allah I shall not follow a story about you after what I saw. By Allah I came to you and there was no one on the face of the Earth more hated to me than you, but today you are indeed more beloved to me than my father, my eye and myself. And I indeed love you with my inner self and my exterior, and my secret and my apparent. And I bear witness that there is no god worthy of worship except Allah and that you are the Messenger of Allah g.” The Messenger of Allah g said, “All praise be to Allah, the One Who guided you through me. Indeed this religion shall be victorious and won’t be defeated and shall not be accepted without prayer. And the prayer isn’t accepted without the Qur’an.” He said, “Teach me.” So he taught him a Soorah: ‘Say: He is Allah the One.’ He said, “Tell me something extra, because I haven’t heard anything long or short which is better than this from speech.” He said, “O Bedouin, this is the speech of Allah, it is not poetry. Verily, if you read, the Soorah “Say: He is Allah the One,” once then you shall have the reward of the one who read a third of the Qur'an. And if you read it twice, then you shall have the reward of the one who read two-thirds of the Qur'an. And if you read it thrice, then you shall have the reward of the one who read all of the Qur'an." The Bedouin said, "What a wonderful God, He accepts a little action and gives in abundance." Then the Messenger of Allah g said, "Do you have any wealth?" He said, "There isn't a man in the entire Sulaim tribe who is poorer than me." Then the Messenger of Allah g said to his Companions, "Donate to him." They donated to him till they made him proud. Then Abdur-Rahman Ibn Awf stood and said, "O Messenger of Allah, I a she-camel with me which has been pregnant for 10 months. It is not extremely valuable nor is it defective. It follows and isn't followed (obedient), it was given to me in the Battle of Tabook. Shall I use it to get closer to Allah by giving it to the Bedouin?" The Messenger of Allah g said, "You described your she-camel, so that I describe to you your wealth with Allah on the Day of Judgment?" He said, "Yes." He said, "You have a she-camel made from interior pearl, its legs are from green aquamarine (precious stone), its neck is from yellow aquamarine upon it is a howdah (carriage). Upon the howdah is a type of silk and brocade. It shall take you on the Sirat (pathway over Hellfire) like rapid lightning; everyone who sees you shall envy you on the Day of Judgment." Then Abdur-Rahman said, "I am satisfied." Then the Bedouin left and 1,000 Bedouins from Sulaim tribe met him sitting upon 1,000 riding animals, armed with 1,000 swords and spears. He said to them, "Where are you going?" They said, "We are going to the one who belittled our gods; we will kill him." He said, "Don't do that. I bear witness that there is no god deserving worship except Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah." He told them the story, and they all said, "We bear witness that there is no god deserving worship except Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah." Then they all also came and the Messenger of Allah g was informed. He met them without an upper garment and they descended from their saddles and came close to him saying, “There is no god deserving worship except Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah.” They said, “O Messenger of Allah, command us with your command.” He said, “Be under the flag of Khalid Ibn AlWaleed.”

Hadith of the donkey

More than one of the great scholars including imams have rejected it from Abu Manzoor saying: When Allah made his Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) victorious in Khaibar his share was 4 pairs of sandals, 4 pairs of leather socks, 10 Awaq of gold and silver, a black donkey and a heap of dates. The narrator said: The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) spoke to the donkey, and he spoke to him. He asked it, “What is your name.” He said, “Yazeed Ibn Shihab. Allah took 60 donkeys from the descendants of my grandfathers, none of them was used except by a Prophet. None from the descendants of my grandfather remains except me and there is none from the Prophets that remains other than you and I expected that you would ride me. Before you, I belonged to a Jew and I used to stumble with him deliberately. He used to starve me and strike my back.” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “I name you Ya‘foor, O Ya‘foor.” He replied, “I am at your service.” He said, “Do you desire mates?” He said, “No.” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) used to ride it for his need, and when he dismounted from it he would send it to the gate of a man and it would come to the door and hit it with his head. When the owner of the house would come out it would indicate with its head toward the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Thereafter, when the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) died it came to a well that belonged to Abul-Haitham Ibn At-Tayyihan and fell inside it; it became its grave out of sorrow for the passing away of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

The Hadith of Al-Hummarah (robin) a well-known bird

Abdur-Rahman Ibn Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood narrated from his father: We were with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on a journey, and we passed by a tree with two young robin chicks and we captured them. The narrator added that the robin came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while it was close to the ground and said, “Who has taken my chicks?” The narrator said, “We did.” The Prophet said, “Return them.” So we returned them to their place and the robin didn’t return.

Another Hadith

Abu Hurairah narrated that We used to pray Isha’ with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). While in prayers he would prostrate, Al-Hasan and Al-Husain would pounce upon his back. When he would raise his head he would take them away and place them down gently. They would do the same again when the Prophet would prostrate. The Prophet used to separate them after the prayers and put them on his and left. Then I would come to him and say, “O Messenger of Allah, shall I not take them to their mother?” He would say, “No.” But when the lightning flashed then he said, “Take them to their mother.” And they continued to walk in the light until they entered the house.

Another Hadith

Muhammad Ibn Hamzah Ibn Amr Al-Aslami narrated from his father, “We were with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on a journey then we split up on a dark night. My fingers lit up until they gathered their backs upon it and none of them dispersed as my fingers were beaming with light.”

Another Hadith

Abu ‘Abs narrated that he would offer prayers with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), and then would return to Banu Harithah tribe. Once, he left on a dark rainy night and his stick lit up for him until he entered the dwelling of Banu Harithah tribe. Al-Baihaqi said: Abu ‘Abs is from those who fought in Badr.

I say: We have narrated from Yazeed Ibn Al-Aswad – and he was from the Tabi‘een – that he prayed in congregation in a mosque in Damascus from Jisreen, and maybe the toe of his foot showed light for him on a dark night. we mentioned earlier in the story of At-Tufail Ibn Amr’s embracement of Islam in Makkah before the Hijrah, and that he asked the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) for a sign that he could use to invite the people to Islam. When he went to them and descended from Ath-Thaniyyah a light shone between his eyes, so he said, “O Allah, may they not say that it is a defect.” So Allah moved the light to the end of his whip. Thereafter, they began to see it like a candle.

Another Hadith in which is a sign for a Wali from this Ummah

It is considered to be from the miracles because everything which has been affirmed from a Wali (friend of Allah) is a miracle for his Prophet.

Abu Sabrah An-Nakha'i narrated that a man from Yemen came and his donkey died while he was on the journey. He stayed and prayed two Raka'ahs and said, "O Allah, I have come from Ad-Datheenah as a Mujahid for your path and seeking your pleasure, and I bear witness that you bring life to the dead and resurrect those that are in the graves. Don't allow anyone to have a favor over me today, I ask you today to resurrect my donkey." Then the donkey stood up flapping its ears. Al-Baihaqi said: This has an authentic chain.

We have mentioned earlier in the chapter of his suckling that which occurred with the donkey of Haleemah As-Sa'diyyah (the lady who suckled the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in his infancy) and how it would beat the other riders in its return when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) rode with her when he was a baby and the riders were held back due to it stopping (because of the donkeys' slow pace) when they went to Makkah. Similarly, his blessings became apparent to them on their Sharif which was the she-camel that they used to milk and their sheep, their Samn and abundance of its milk.

Another story with the incident of Al-'Ala' Ibn Al-Hadrami

Anas narrated that I witnessed three matters which if they were in Bani Isra'eel, the nations wouldn't have shared with them their virtue. We said, “What were they, O Abu Hamzah?” He said: We were at Suffah with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) when a migrating woman came to him with a son of hers who had reached the age of adolescence. He grouped the woman with the women and grouped her son with us. It wasn’t long before he was afflicted by the harsh conditions of Madinah so he became ill for days and then died. The Prophet covered him and ordered that he be prepared for burial. He said when we wanted to wash him, “O Anas, go to his mother and inform her.” He informed her. The narrator said: She came and sat at his feet and said, “O Allah, I submitted myself to you voluntarily and turned against the idols from abstinence and migrated to you out of desire. O Allah, don’t cause the idol-worshippers to become delighted with my affliction and don’t burden me from this calamity what I can’t bear.” The narrator said: By Allah she didn’t finish her words before he moved his feet and threw the sheet from his face. And he lived till after Allah had taken his Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and till after his mother died. The narrator added: Then Umar prepared an army and made Al-‘Ala’ Ibn Hadrami in charge of it. Anas said: I was in his army and we came to our camp and found that our people felt our arrival and had no water and the heat was intense. Thirst had exhausted us and our animals and that was on Friday. When the sun was about to set he prayed two Raka’ahs and he stretched his hands in supplication toward the sky and we couldn’t see anything in the sky (i.e., the rain clouds). He added: By Allah before he dropped his hands Allah sent a wind and formed a cloud and it rained until it filled the water passages. We drank and gave water to our animals and carried some with us. Then we approached our enemy who had passed a gulf in the sea to an island. He stood on the gulf and said, “O Lofty one, O the Great, O Fore-bearing one, O Noble one.” Then he said, “Traverse in the Name of Allah.” The narrator added: So we traversed, the water didn't moisten even the hooves of our riding animals and it wasn't except a short passing of time then we attacked the enemy and killed, captured and apprehended them. Then we came to the gulf where he said what he mentioned earlier and we traversed and the water didn't even moisten the hooves of our riding animals. The narrator added: A short time passed and he was struck into his funeral. So we dug for him, washed him and then buried him. Then a man came after we had buried him and said, "Who is this?" We said, "This is the best of mankind, this is Ibn Al-Hadrami." He said, "This ground repels its dead, so you should take him to a land that takes the dead." We said, "What is the reward of our Companion that we leave him for the beasts to devour him if we left him here?" The narrator added: We gathered upon exhuming him, and when we reached the Lahd (the side chamber where the dead person is placed in the grave) suddenly our Companion wasn't in it. And suddenly the Lahd was a glittering light as far as the eye can see. The narrator added: We returned the soil and left.

Another story

Al-A'amsh narrated from some of his Companions,, "We reached Dijlah River in Baghdad and it was overflowing with water and the non-believers were behind it. A man from the Muslims said: "Bismillah," and he stormed with his horse and it rose above the water. Then the people said: "Bismillah," and they stormed with their horses and rose above the water. The non-believers looked at them and said: Insane people, insane people. Then they fled. The narrator added: The people didn't lose except a vessel which had a lantern attached to it. When they exited they obtained war booty and shared it and a man said, "Who will exchange yellow for white?"

Sulaiman Ibn Al-Mugheerah narrated that Abu Muslim Al-Khawlani came to Dijlah while it was throwing wood from its vastness. He walked on the water and looked at his companions and said, "Have you lost any of your provisions so we may supplicate to Allah, the Great and the Almighty."

The story of Zaid Ibn Kharijah and his words after his death

Sa'eed Ibn Al-Musayyab narrated: Zaid Ibn Kharijah Al-Ansari tribe and then from Al-Harith Ibn AlKhazraj tribe, passed away in the era of Uthman Ibn Affan and was wrapped in his shroud. They heard a rumbling coming from his chest and he said, "Ahmad, Ahmad (was mentioned) in the first (revealed) books. Abu Bakr was truthful, was truthful (in Muhammad) the Siddeeq; weak by himself and strong in the command of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) (mentioned) in the (previous) first books. Umar Ibn Al-Khattab was truthful, was truthful, strong and trustworthy (mentioned) in the first book. Uthman Ibn Affan was truthful, was truthful upon their methodology (Abu Bakr and Umar) 4 (years) had passed and two (years) remained came with trials. And the strong ate the weak and news shall come to you about your army, the well of 'Arees. And what is 'Arees well.

Yahya said that Sa'eed narrated: Then a man died from Khatmah tribe and was covered in his shroud, then a rumbling was heard from his chest when he said, "The brother of Banul-Harith Ibn Al-Khazraj told the truth, told the truth."

Al-Bukhari said in At-Tareekh: Zaid Ibn Kharijah Al-Khazraji Al-Ansari witnessed the Battle of Badr. He passed away in the era of Uthman and he is the one who spoke after death.

Al-Baihaqi said it has been narrated about speaking after death from many with sound chains. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The dead speaking and their wonders

Hisham Ibn Ammar said in his book, Al-Mab‘ath, in the chapter regarding the speech of the dead and their wonders, that narrated from Rib‘i Ibn Hirash Al-Absi: My brother Ar-Rabee‘ Ibn Hirash fell ill so I nursed him but he died. We went to prepare his burial, and when we arrived he removed the sheet from his face and he said, “Assalamu ‘Alaikum.” We replied: Wa ‘Alaikas-Salam, didn’t you die?” He said, “Indeed, however, I met my Lord with rest and bounty and a Lord who isn’t angry. Then He clothed me with clothes of green silk. And I asked Him to allow me to give you the glad tidings so He allowed me. The affair is as you see it, so do things correctly (and if not), try to (do things correctly), give glad tidings and don’t shun (people) away.” When he said that, it was like a stone that has fallen in the water.

Thereafter, he narrated many other matters in this chapter and it was the last of his books.

The story of the child that was suffering from seizures

This has been mentioned in the narration of Usamah Ibn Zaid, Jabir Ibn Abdullah and Ya‘la Ibn Murrah Ath-Thaqafi in the story of the camel, the Hadith in its complete form. Imam Ahmad narrated from Ibn Abbas: A woman came with her son to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, “O Messenger of Allah, he has a touch of madness and it effect’s him when we eat so he spoils our food for us.” The narrator said: The Messenger of Allah stroked his chest and supplicated for him. He vomited once and it came out of him like a black puppy.

Another Hadith

Ata' Ibn Abu Rabbah narrated that Ibn Abbas said to me, "Shall I not show you a woman from the people of Paradise?" I said: "Yes." He said, "This black woman came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, 'I have seizures and my body becomes exposed, so pray to Allah for me'." He said, "If you wish, you can be patient and Paradise is for you. And if you wish I pray to Allah for you to cure you." She said: "No, rather I shall remain patient so ask Allah that I don't become naked – or that my clothes aren't removed from me." The narrator said: So he prayed for her.

Another Hadith in that regard

Uthman Ibn Hunaif narrated that a blind man came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, "O Messenger of Allah, ask Allah to cure me." He said, "If you wish, I will delay that because it is better for your afterlife. And if you wish, I shall pray for you." He said, "No, rather pray for me." The narrator said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) commanded him to make ablution and pray two Raka'ahs and supplicate with this Du'a': O Allah, I ask you and turn to you with the supplication of your Prophet, Muhammad, the Prophet of mercy. O Muhammad, I ask you to pray for my need so it is fulfilled and that you intercede for me and that you intercede that my supplication is accepted." The narrator said: He repeated it many times. He added: So he did and he was cured.

Another Hadith

Abu Bakr Ibn Abu Shaibah narrated from a man from Banu Salaman Ibn Sa'd tribe, from his mother that her maternal uncle Habeeb Ibn Fuwaik told her that his father went to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his eyes were white, he couldn't see anything with them at all. He asked him, "What afflicted you?" He said, "I used to look after my sheep when my leg fell on the stomach of a snake and I was afflicted in my eyes." The narrator said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) spat in his eyes and he began to see. I saw him put the thread in the needle when he was 80 years old while his eyes were still white.

In this regard the Hadith of Qatadah Ibn An-Nu'man has been mentioned earlier: His eye was afflicted and his iris trickled down his cheek. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) returned it to its place. Thereafter, he didn't know which one was afflicted."

I say this Hadith was mentioned in the Battle of Uhud. And we narrated during the mention of Abu Rafi's killing that he wiped over him with his noble hands on the leg of Abdullah Ibn 'Ateek when his shin was broken and he was cured immediately.

Al-Baihaqi mentioned with his chain of narration: The Prophet wiped over the hand of Muhammad Ibn Hatib when his hand was burned by fire and he was cured immediately, and that he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) blew in the hand of Shurahbeel Al-Ju'fi a cut that was in his hand. I say: It has been mentioned earlier in the Battle of Khaibar his spittle in Ali's eyes when they were sore and he was cured.

And in the Saheeh that the Prophet said to Abu Hurairah and others, “Who will spread his robe today, for he will not forget anything from my words.” Abu Hurairah said, “I spread it and didn’t forget anything from his words.” It is said that was from Abu Hurairah committing everything to memory that he heard that day from him. It has also been said for others also. And Allah (SWT) knows best. And he prayed for Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas and he was cured.

Al-Baihaqi narrated that the Prophet prayed for his uncle Abu Talib due to his illness and he requested from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that he calls upon his Lord. Then he prayed for him and was cured immediately.

And the AHadith in this regard are many; it will be lengthy to mention all of them.

Another Hadith

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain, from Jabir Ibn Abdullah that he was riding upon his camel and it became fatigued so he wanted to sacrifice it. He said then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came to me and hit it and prayed for me. It advanced in a way that it never had. And in a narration it remained in front of the camels to the extent that I had held its reigns but couldn’t stop it. Then he said, “How do you find your camel?” I said, “Your blessings have fallen on it.” Thereafter, he mentioned that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) bought it from him. The narrators differed over the price of it on many narrations. He exempted transporting it to Madinah. When he reached Madinah he brought the camel to him so he gave him more than the price of it and returned the camel to him (Jabir) also.

Another Hadith

Anas Ibn Malik narrated: The people sought help from the Prophet and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) rode a slow horse belonging to Abu Talhah, which left galloping by himself. Then the people galloped behind the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he said, "You won't keep up." And he said concerning the horse that he was fast. Anas said, It was never beaten after that day.

Another Hadith

Ju'ail Al-Ashja'i narrated, "I participated with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on one of his expeditions while I was on a weak horse." He added, "I was lagging behind the people when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came to me and said, 'Move, O owner of the horse'." So I said, "O Messenger of Allah, it is weak and slender." He added: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) raised a whip which he had with him and struck it with it and said, "O Allah, bless him with it horse." He added: I saw myself holding it by its head because it had advanced in front of the people and I sold from its stomach (offspring) for 12,000.

Another Hadith

Abu Hurairah said: A man came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, "I have got married to a woman from the Ansar." The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Have you seen her, because there is something in the eyes of the Ansar.” He replied, “I have seen her.” The Prophet said, “How much did you marry her for (dowry)?” He replied: 4 Awaq (160 Dirhams).” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “4 Awaq? It is as though you extract silver from this mountain. We don’t have anything to give you. However, we may send you on an expedition that you will gain from.” The narrator said, “He sent an expedition to Banu Abs tribe and sent that man with them.”

In another narration: So he came to him and said: O Messenger of Allah, my she-camel refuses to go from exhaustion. The narrator said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) gave him his hand like the one who offers his hand to stand, then he came to it and kicked it. Abu Hurairah said: By the One in Whose Hands is my soul I saw it overtaking with it (his kick) the rider.”

Another Hadith

Khubaib Ibn Isaf narrated: I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) along with a man from my people in one of his expeditions. We said, “We desire to participate in a battle with you.” He said, “Have you embraced Islam?” We replied, “No.” He said, “We don’t seek help from the idolaters against the idolaters.” Khubaib said: We embraced Islam and I participated with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and I was struck with a blow to my shoulder and it penetrated me and my arm became motionless. I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he spat in it, closed it and it healed and I was cured. And I killed the one who struck me. Thereafter, I married the daughter of the one I killed. And she used to say, “I shall not miss man who scarred you with this scar.” Then I would say, “I won’t miss a man in more of a hurry who left you for the Fire.”

Another Hadith

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from Ibn Abbas that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came to the Khala’ (a place to relieve oneself). I placed the ablution water for him. When he came out he said, “Who placed this.” They said: Ibn Abbas. He said, “O Allah, grant him understanding of the religion.”

Allah accepted from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) this supplication for his nephew (Ibn Abbas). He was an Imam whose guidance was followed and his ways were adopted in the sciences of the Shari’ah and especially the knowledge the science of interpretation which is Tafseer. The knowledge of the Companions before him reached him and that which the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) understood from the speech of his nephew.

Abdullah Ibn Mas’ood said: If Ibn Abbas was to live to our age none of us will accompany him, and he used to say to them, “How wonderful the commentator of the Qur’an Ibn Abbas was.” The death of Ibn Abbas was later than the death of Ibn Mas’ood by 33-39 years, so what do you think he gained (from knowledge) after him in this period? And we have narrated from some of his companions that he said: Ibn Abbas addressed the people on the night of Arafah and made tafseer of Soorah Al-Baqarah for them. He made a tafseer of it which if the Romans, Turks and Ad-Dailam heard it they would have indeed embraced Islam.

Another Hadith

It has been affirmed in the Saheeh that he (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed for Anas Ibn Malik for abundance in wealth and children and it was so that Allah accepted his prayer. Even Tirmidhi narrated from Abu Khaldah, he said: I said to Abul-‘Aliyah, “Did Anas hear from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)?” He said, “He served him for 10 years and prayed for him. He had a garden which bore fruit twice a year and he had a scent which came from him like the scent of musk.”

We have narrated in the Saheeh that he had close to 100 persons from his descendants or slightly more than that, and in a narration the Prophet said, “O Allah, increase his life.” He made him live for 100 years.

He prayed for Umm Sulaim and Abu Talhah in their night which had passed and a child was born whom the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) named Abdullah and 9 descendants from him, all of them had memorized the Qur’an. That has been affirmed in the Saheeh.

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Muslim from the Hadith of ‘Ikrimah Ibn ‘Ammar, from Abu Katheer Al‘Anbari from Abu Hurairah that he asked the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to pray for his mother so that Allah will guide her. He prayed for her. When Abu Hurairah went home he found his mother taking a bath behind the door. When she finished she said: I bear witness that there is no god deserving worship except Allah and I bear witness that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah. Abu Hurairah cried with happiness, and went to inform the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) about that and asked him to pray for them that Allah make them beloved to his believing slaves and so it occurred.

Abu Hurairah said: There isn't a believing male or female except that he loves us. And Abu Hurairah spoke the truth about that. And from the completion of this supplication is that Allah made his mention famous in the days of gathering, because the people mentioned him in the Jumu'ah (Friday) Sermon.

It has been affirmed in the Saheeh, that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), prayed for Sa'd when he was ill and he was cured and prayed that he would become a person whose supplication was answered. So he said, "O Allah, answer his supplication and make his aim accurate." Then he became likewise. What a great leader of brigades and armies he became. He cursed Abu Sa'dah, Usamah Ibn Qatadah when he made a false testimony against him that he has a long life, deep poverty and exposure by trials (he would harass women). He became likewise and when he was asked (as to what caused him to be this way) he would say: An old man, exposed to trials the supplication of Sa'd fell upon me.

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Al-Bukhari and others that the Prophet prayed for As-Sa'ib Ibn Yazeed and wiped over his head with his hand. Then he lived long till he reached 94 years old and yet he had a perfect upright posture and the place where the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) placed his hand wasn't covered with white hairs and his senses and strength remained intact.

Abu Zaid Al-Ansari narrated: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to me, "Come close to me." He wiped his hand over my head and he said, "O Allah, make him beautiful and continue his beauty." The narrator added: he reached 103-109 years of age and there was no white hairs in his beard except a little patch. His face remained stretched and didn't wrinkle till he died.

And it has been affirmed in the Saheehain that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed for Abdur-Rahman Ibn Awf for blessings when he saw the patch of saffron on him when he got married. Allah accepted (the supplication) from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he made him successful in trade and war booty till he gained abundant wealth to the extent that one wife's share from his inheritance from his four wives was a quarter of an eighth of his wealth when he died.

'Urwah Ibn Abul-Ja'd Al-Bariqi narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) gave him a dinar to buy a sheep for himself. He purchased two with it and sold one of them for one dinar and returned to him with the sheep and the dinar. He invoked the blessings of Allah for him in his purchases. In another narration it is said that then he said to him, "May Allah bless you in the dealing of your right hand."

Abu 'Uqail narrated: His grandfather 'Abdullah Ibn Hisham used to go with him to the market and buy food where Ibn Az-Zubair and Ibn 'Umar would meet him and say, "Let us join you in your purchases; for indeed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed for blessings for you." He would let them become partner with him, and he would even buy a riding animal and would send it to the house.

Abu Tufail narrated that a man had a newborn baby who was brought to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) prayed for blessings for him and held his forehead. Thereafter, a hair grew on his forehead as though it was a hair of a horse. The boy grew up and when it was the era of the Khawarij and he followed them. Then the hair fell from his forehead so his father detained him and kept him safe from fear that he may join them. The narrator added: We entered upon him and admonished him and we said to him, “Do you not see that the blessing of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has fallen?” So we continued reasoning with him until he left their opinion. The narrator added: Then Allah returned that hair to his forehead because he had repented.

Another Hadith

Zaid Ibn Thabit narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) looked toward the direction of Yemen and said, “O Allah, bring their hearts (to Islam).” Then he looked toward the direction of Sham and said, “O Allah, bring their hearts (to Islam).” Then he looked toward the direction of Iraq and said, “O Allah, bring their hearts (to Islam) and bless us with our Sa‘ (measurement of food stuffs) and our Mudd (handful of foodstuff).” And this is what occurred; the people of Yemen embraced Islam. And goodness and blessings came from Iraq, and he promised that the people of Sham would remain upon guidance and establishment upon helping the religion until the final affair.

Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad, “The Hour shall not be established until the best of the people of Iraq move to Sham and the worst of the people of Sham move to Iraq.”

Muslim narrated from Iyas Ibn Salamah Ibn Al- Akwa‘ that his father informed him that a man ate with the Messenger of Allah

(Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with his left hand. The Prophet said to him, "Eat with your right hand." He replied: "I can't." He said, "You couldn't, nothing prevented you except for pride." The narrator said: After that, he couldn't raise his hand to his mouth.

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Muslim from Ibn Abbas: I was playing with children when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) came and I hid myself from him. He noticed me and patted me twice between the shoulders and sent me to Mu'awiyah for a need. I came to him while he was eating food. I went and came back and said, "I went to him when he was eating." He sent me a second time and I arrived when he was again eating. I came back again and said, "I went to him when he was eating." Then the Prophet said, "May Allah not fill his stomach."

I say: Mu'awiyah wouldn't ever be full ever since. And this supplication suited him in the days of his leadership for it is mentioned that he would eat food with meat 7 times a day and would say, "By Allah I am never full, I am only fatigued."

And we mentioned in the Battle of Tabook that a child wandered in front of them while they were praying; he cursed him and he never stood after that.

Jabir Ibn Abdullah he said: We exited with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in the Battle of Banu Anmar tribe. Jabir mentioned the Hadith of a man wearing two garments which were worn out and yet he had two other garments. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) commanded him after that he wore them and then he turned. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "What is wrong with him, Allah struck his neck?” The man replied: In the path of Allah. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “In the path of Allah.” The man was killed in the path of Allah.

Many narrations have been recorded of this type. It has been affirmed in authentic AHadith with many paths from a group of the Companions which provide certainty as we shall narrate soon in the chapter of his merits, that he said, “O Allah, whosoever I insulted or struck or cursed and he isn’t deserving of that then make that an act of goodness that will bring him near to you on the Day of Judgment.”

We have mentioned earlier in the beginning of the “Prophetic mission,” the Hadith of Ibn Mas‘ood in his supplication against the group of seven among whom was Abu Jahl Ibn Hisham and his Companions when they threw the intestines of a camel upon his back (while in prayer) and his daughter Fatimah removed them. When he finished he said, “O Allah, curse Abu Jahl Ibn Hisham, Shaibah Ibn Rabee‘ah, ‘Utbah Ibn Rabee‘ah and Al-Waleed Ibn ‘Utbah.” He named the rest of the seven. Ibn Mas‘ood said, “By the one who sent him with the Truth, I saw them killed in the well of Badr.” And it is agreed upon in Saheeh Al-Bukhari and Muslim.

Another Hadith

Anas Ibn Malik narrated: There was a man from one of us, from the tribe of Banun-Najjar, who read Soorah Al-Baqarah and Soorah Aal Imran, and he would write for the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). But he fled and met the People of the Book. The narrator added: They lifted him up and said: “This man used to write for Muhammad so must be amazed with him.” And it wasn’t long before Allah struck his neck amongst them (i.e. took his soul). They dug a grave for him and covered him, then the ground threw him out on his face in the morning on the surface. They returned and dug a grave again for him, but the ground threw him out in the morning on the surface, so they left him exhumed.

The issues that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was asked about and then answered in accordance with the truth in agreement with what the previous inherited books from the Prophets before him stated

We have mentioned in the beginning of the section, “Prophetic mission,” that the Quraish used to repeatedly ask about with stubbornness in accepting the truth. So they sent a delegation to enquire from the Jews of Madinah about what they should ask from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). They said: "Ask him about the soul, the people who disappeared in ancient times and it is not known what happened to them and about a man who reached the East and the West of the world." When they returned they asked the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) about that. Allah revealed his statement: “And they ask you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) concerning Rooh (the Spirit); Say: ‘The Rooh, it is one of the things, the knowledge of which is only with my Lord. And of knowledge, you (mankind) have been given only a little.’” (Soorah Al-Isra’: 85) Then He revealed Soorah Al-Kahf explaining in it the news of the young men who left the religion of their people and believed in Allah and they singled him out in worship and they secluded themselves from their people. They stayed in a cave and that is Al- Kahf and slept in it. Allah woke them after 309 years and from their affair is that which Allah narrated to us in His Book. He told the story of two men; a believer and a disbeliever and what occurred from their affair, and then the story of Moosa and Al-Khidr and that which took place from wisdoms and admonishments. He said: And they ask you about DhulQarnain. Say: I shall recite to you something of his story. (Soorah Al-Kahf: 83) He gave account of his news and that which he had reached from the East and the West of the world, and that which he performed from benefits to the world. This is the reality of what happened. The books which are in the hands of the People of the Book exclusively are in agreement with it that which is true from them (books). As for that which has been changed and altered then it is rejected, for indeed Allah sent Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with the truth and revealed a book to him to clarify to the people that which they differ in from stories and regulations. Allah said after mentioning the Tawrah and the Bible: And We have sent down to you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) the Book (this Qur'an) in truth, confirming the Scripture that came before it and Muhaimin (trustworthy in highness and a witness) over it (old Scriptures) (Soorah Al-Ma'idah: 48) And we mentioned in the beginning of the, Hijrah (section) the story of Abdullah Ibn Salam's embracement of Islam and he said: "When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) arrived in Madinah the people rushed toward him. And I was from those who rushed toward him and when I saw his face I said that his face isn't the face of a liar. The first thing which I heard him say was, 'O people, spread the Salam, and keep the ties of kinship, feed the people and pray in the night when the people are asleep (then) you shall enter Paradise with peace'."

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Al-Bukhari, from Anas the story of Abdullah Ibn Salam's questioning of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him): Three matters, nobody knows them except a Prophet; what is the first of the signs of the Last Hour, what is the first meal that the people of Paradise shall eat and what makes the child go to his mother or father (i.e. what determines male or female gender)? The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Jibreel informed me earlier." Then he said, "As for the first of the signs of the hour, a fire that will gather the people from the East to the West. And as for the first meal that the people of Paradise shall eat, it is the extra piece of flesh of the whale's liver. And as for the child, if the substance (chromosomes and genes) precedes the substance of the woman then the child shall take from his father and if the substance of the woman precedes the substance of the man then the child shall take from his mother."

Another Hadith with the same meaning

Narrated by Thawban, he said: I was standing with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and a Rabbi came and said, "Assalamu 'Alaika, Ya Muhammad." I pushed him with a hard push which almost made him fall. Then he said, "Why did you push me?" The narrator said: I said, "Won't you say: O Messenger of Allah?" He said, "I only named with the name that his family named him." Then the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "The name which my family named me with is Muhammad." The Jew said, "I came to ask you." The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Will it benefit you if I spoke to you?" He replied, "I shall listen with my ear." He made a mark with a stick on the ground which was with him. He said to him, "Ask." The Jew said to him, “Where will the people be on the day when the Earth will be changed to another earth and so will be the heavens?” The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “In darkness before the bridge.” He said, “Who will be the first to pass?” He replied, “The poor from the Muhajiroon.” The Jew said, “What will be their first snack when they enter Paradise?” He said, “The piece of flesh attached to the whales liver.” He said, “What shall be their dinner straight after it?” He said, “The bull of Paradise which ate from its boundaries.” He said, “What shall they drink following that?” He said, “From a spring therein (Paradise) called Salsabeela.” He said, “You spoke the truth.” The Jew added, “I came to ask you about something which nobody from the inhabitants of the world knows about except either a Prophet or a man or two men. The Prophet said, “Has it benefitted you that I informed you?” He replied, “I hear with my ear.” The Jew later said, “I came to ask you about the child.” He said, “The substance of the man is white and the substance of the woman is yellow. When they come together and the fluid of the man overcomes the fluid of the woman it becomes a male with the permission of Allah.” The Jew said, “You spoke the truth and you are indeed a Prophet.” Then he left. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “He asked me what he asked while I didn’t have any knowledge about until Allah inspired it to me.” Narrated by Muslim.

Another Hadith

Narrated by Ibn Abbas, he said: A group from the Jews came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) one day and said, “O Abul-Qasim, inform us of some matters that nobody knows except a Prophet.” He said, “Ask me that which you wish, however make for me the agreement of Allah and that which Ya‘qoob (Peace be upon him) took from his children; that if I tell you something and you recognize it you shall follow me upon Islam.” They said, “That shall be yours.” He said, “Ask me what you wish.” They said, “Tell us about four matters which we will ask you about: Inform us which food Isra’eel made forbidden upon himself before the Tawrah was revealed? And inform us how is the fluid of the woman and the fluid of the man and how the male receives from it? And inform us how this illiterate Prophet is in his sleep and who is his ally from the angels?” He replied: “Incumbent upon you is the pact of Allah and his covenant that if I inform you, then you shall follow me.” The narrator said: They gave him what he wished from pact and covenant.

He said, “I shall inform you by the One Who revealed the Tawrah to Moosa (Peace be upon him); do you know that Isra’eel was Ya‘qoob (Peace be upon him), he became very ill and his illness lasted long. The most beloved food to him was the meat of the camel and the most beloved drink to him was its milk?” They said: "O Allah, yes. He said, “O Allah, bear witness over them. For I ask you by the One besides Whom there is no God deserving of worship except Him, the One Who revealed the Tawrah to Moosa; do you know that the fluid of the man is white and thick and the fluid of the woman is yellow and thin and whichever of them overcomes the other then for him (/her) is the child and resemblance with the permission of Allah; if the fluid of the man overcomes the fluid of the woman then it shall be a male with the permission of Allah, and if the fluid of the woman overcomes the fluid of the man then it shall be a female with the permission of Allah?” They said: O Allah, yes. He said, O Allah, bear witness over them. For I ask you by the One Who revealed the Tawrah to Moosa; do you know that this illiterate Prophet’s eyes sleep, yet his heart does not sleep?” They replied: O Allah, yes. He said, “O Allah, bear witness.” They said, “Tell us: Who is your guardian ally from the angels?”

Based on this we shall either join you or leave you. If your guardian was other than him from the angels, then we shall follow you and deem you truthful.” He replied, “What prevents you from believing in him?” They said, “He indeed is our enemy from the angels.” Then at that point Allah said (revealed): Say (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)): "Whoever is an enemy to Jibreel (Gabriel) (let him die in his fury), for indeed he has brought it (this Qur'an) down to your heart by Allah's Permission.” (Soorah Al-Baqarah: 97). And at that point the Verse was revealed: So they have drawn on themselves wrath upon wrath. (Soorah Al-Baqarah: 90).”

We mentioned this story in the “Tafseer” at the explanation of Allah’s statement in Soorah Al-Baqarah: Say to (them): “If the home of the Hereafter with Allah is indeed for you specially and not for others, of mankind, then long for death if you are truthful.” But they will never long for it because of what their hands have sent before them (i.e. what they have done). And Allah is All-Aware of the Zalimoon (polytheists and wrongdoers). (Soorah Al-Baqarah: 94-95) And similar to it in Soorah Al-Jumu‘ah and it is his statement: Say (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)): "O you Jews! If you pretend that you are friends of Allah, to the exclusion of (all) other mankind, then long for death if you are truthful." But they will never long for it (death), because of what (deeds) their hands have sent before them! And Allah knows well the Zalimoon. (Soorah Jumu‘ah: 6-7) And we mentioned the opinions of the Mufasssiroon (commentators of the Qur’an) in that regards and the truth is that he called them to AlMubahalalah (invoking the curse on the family of the one who is a liar) and to pray for death upon the liar from either them or the Muslims. However, they refused to do so because of their knowledge of them oppressing themselves and that the curse will fall upon them, and its disaster shall fall on them. He similarly invited the Christians of Najran when they debated with him regarding 'Eesa Ibn Maryam. Allah commanded him to invite them to make Al-Mubahalalah in his statement: Then whoever disputes with you concerning him ('Eesa) after (all this) knowledge that has come to you, (i.e. 'Eesa being a slave of Allah, and having no share in Divinity) say: (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) "Come, let us call our sons and your sons, our women and your women, ourselves and yourselves - then we pray and invoke (sincerely) the Curse of Allah upon those who lie." (Soorah Aal Imran: 61) And similarly he cursed the idolaters by the way of Al-Mubahalalah in his statement: Say (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) whoever is in error, the Most Beneficent (Allah) will extend (the rope) to him, until when they see that which they were promised, either the torment or the Hour, they will come to know who is worst in position, and who is weaker in forces. (Soorah Maryam: 75) And we spoke in detail about this in the explanation of these verses in our book, "Tafseer" which is sufficient.

Another Hadith which includes the admittance of the Jews that he is the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

They planned between them that if he ruled with what was in accordance to their desires (then) they would follow him, and if not then they would reject it. And Allah dispraised them in His Book due to this intention.

Narrated by Abu Hurairah,he said: A man and a woman from Jews committed adultery. One of them said to the other, “Take us to this Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) because he is a Prophet sent with ease. So if he gives us a verdict other than stoning then we will accept it and we shall use it as an argument with Allah we will say a verdict from a Prophet from your Prophets.” The narrator said: They came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while he was sitting in the Mosque with his Companions. They said, “O Abul-Qasim, what do you say with regard to a man and a woman who committed adultery?” He didn’t say a word to them until he came to the house of their learned. He stood at the door and said, “I ask you by Allah, the One Who revealed the Tawrah upon Moosa; what do you find in the Tawrah with regard to the one who fornicates while he is married?” They said, “His face is painted black and At-Tajbiyah is performed on him and he is whipped. And At-Tajbiyah is to place the two adulterers on a donkey back to back and then they are ridden around.” The narrator said: A youth from them remained silent. When the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) saw that he remained quiet he persuaded him to talk. He said, “O Allah, as you have asked us to speak then we find in the Tawrah stoning.” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “What made you make the command of Allah lessened?” He said, “One of our kings’ cousins. He delayed the stoning of him. A royal man fornicated with a family member of the ordinary people and he wanted to stone him. But his people intervened and said: Our companion won’t be stoned until you bring your companion (his cousin) and stone him. And they agreed upon this punishment between them.” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “I shall judge between you with what is in the Tawrah,” so he ordered and then they were stoned.

Az-Zuhri said: It has reached me that this Verse was revealed about them: Verily, We did send down the Tawrah (to Moosa), therein was guidance and light, by which the Prophets, who submitted themselves to Allah's Will, judged for the Jews. (Soorah Al-Ma'idah: 44). And it has supporting evidence in the Saheehain from Ibn Umar.

We have mentioned earlier the Ahadith that have been narrated in this context (while commentating) on Allah's statement: O Messenger (Muhammad)! Let not those who hurry to fall into disbelief grieve you, of such who say: "We believe" with their mouths but their hearts have no faith. And of the Jews are men who listen much and eagerly to lies - listen to others who have not come to you. They change the words from their places; they say, "If you are given this, take it, but if you are not given this, then beware!" (Soorah Al-Ma'idah: 41), i.e., flogging and painting the faces which they agreed upon and invented by themselves, i.e., if Muhammad rules with this, then accept it: But if you are not given this, then beware!" (Soorah Al-Ma'idah: 41), i.e., if Allah doesn't rule with that for you then beware of his statement. Allah says: And whomsoever Allah wants to put in error, you can do nothing for him against Allah. Those are the ones whose hearts Allah does not want to purify; for them there is a disgrace in this world, and in the Hereafter a great torment. (They like to) listen to falsehood, to devour anything forbidden. So if they come to you (O Muhammad), either judge between them, or turn away from them. If you turn away from them, they cannot hurt you in the least. And if you judge, judge with justice between them. Verily, Allah loves those who act justly. Till he said: But how do they come to you for decision while they have the Tawrah, in which is the (plain) Decision of Allah; yet even after that, they turn away. (Soorah AlMa'idah:41-43). Allah rebuked him due to their evil intention with regards their belief in their book while therein is Allah's clear ruling of stoning. They also knew its authenticity, but they turned away from it to what they invented from flogging, blackening of the face and Tajbiyah.

Another Hadith

The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood in front of the learned Jews and said: "O Jews, accept Islam. By the One besides Whom there is no god except Him, you know that I am the Messenger of Allah sent to you." They said: "You have conveyed your message, O Abul-Qasim." He said, "That is what I want (to convey the message.)"

That which is certain from the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of his Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and also from the meaning is that the Prophets before the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) gave news about him and the followers of the Prophets know that. However, most of them conceal and hide that fact. Allah, the Most High, says: Those who follow the Messenger, the Prophet, who can neither read nor write (i.e. Muhammad) whom they find written with them in the Tawrah (Deut, xviii, 15) and the Injeel (Gospel) (John xiv, 16), - he commands them for AlMa'roof (i.e. Islamic Monotheism and all that Islam has ordained); and forbids them from Al-Munkar (i.e. disbelief, polytheism of all kinds, and all that Islam has forbidden); he allows them as lawful At-Taiyyibat ((i.e. all good and lawful) as regards things, deeds, beliefs, persons, foods, etc.), and prohibits them as unlawful Al-Khaba'ith (i.e. all evil and unlawful as regards things, deeds, beliefs, persons, foods, etc.), he releases them from their heavy burdens (of Allah's Covenant), and from the fetters (bindings) that were upon them. So those who believe in him (Muhammad), honor him, help him, and follow the Light (the Qur'an) which has been sent down with him, it is they who will be successful. Say (O Muhammad): “O mankind! Verily, I am sent to you all as the Messenger of Allah - to Whom belongs the dominion of the heavens and the Earth. La ilaha illa Huwa (none has the right to be worshipped but He); It is He Who gives life and causes death. So believe in Allah and His Messenger (Muhammad), the Prophet, who can neither read nor write (i.e., Muhammad) who believes in Allah and His Words ((this Qur’an), the Tawrah and the Injeel and also Allah’s Word: “Be!” - and he was, i.e. ‘Eesa son of Maryam and follow him so that you may be guided.) (Soorah Al-A’raf: 157-158) He says: Those unto whom We gave the Scripture (the Tawrah and the Injeel) know that it is revealed from your Lord in truth. (Soorah Al-An’am: 114) He says: Those to whom We gave the Scripture (Jews and Christians) recognize him (Muhammad or the Ka’bah at Makkah) as they recognize their sons. But verily, a party of them conceals the truth while they know it – (i.e., the qualities of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) which are written in the Tawrah and Injeel). (Soorah Al-Baqarah: 146) He says: And say to those who were given the Scripture (Jews and Christians) and to those who are illiterates (Arab pagans): “Do you (also) submit yourselves (to Allah in Islam)? If they do, they are rightly guided; but if they turn away, your duty is only to convey the Message. (Soorah Aal Imran: 20) He says: This (Qur’an) is a Message for mankind (and a clear proof against them), in order that they may be warned thereby. (Soorah Ibraheem: 52) He says: That I may therewith warn you and whomsoever it may reach (Soorah Al-An’am: 19) He says: But those of the sects (Jews, Christians and all the other non-Muslim nations) that reject it (the Qur’an), the Fire will be their promised meeting-place. (Soorah Hood: 17) He says: That he or it (Muhammad or the Qur’an) may give warning to him who is living (a healthy minded the believer), and that Word (charge) may be justified against the disbelievers (dead, as they reject the warnings). (Soorah Yaseen: 70) Allah mentioned his dispatch to the illiterate, the People of the Book and the rest of the creation from the Arabs and the non-Arabs. Everyone who the Qur'an has reached He is a warner to them. The Prophet said, "By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, no Jew or Christian shall hear about me from this Ummah and then doesn't believe in me except that he shall enter the fire." Narrated by Muslim.

In the Saheehain it is said, "I have been given 5 matters, none from the Prophets before me have been given; I have been assisted with fear (in the hearts of the enemy) for the distance of one month journey, the war booty has been made permissible for me, the ground has been made suitable for worship and the soil a means of purification for me (for the prayer known as Tayammum when water can't be used for purification), and I have been given the right of intercession, and the Prophets used to be sent to his people and I have been sent to all the people." And also narrated in the Saheehain, "I have been sent to the black and red people." It has been explained as Arabs and non Arabs

The point is that the news of his arrival are in the books that have been inherited from the Prophets before him until the Prophethood reached the last of the Prophets of the Children of Isra'eel, and that was 'Eesa and he mentioned this news to the Children of Isra'eel. Allah told the story of that news, so He says: And (remember) when 'Eesa, son of Maryam, said: "O Children of Isra'eel! I am the Messenger of Allah unto you confirming the Tawrah (which came) before me, and giving glad tidings of a Messenger to come after me, whose name shall be Ahmad. (Soorah As-Saff: 6) So Muhammad's informing that his mention is in the previous books in that which he brought from the Qur'an and that which has been narrated from him in the authentic Ahadith as was mentioned earlier, and on top of that he was the most intelligent of the creation by agreement of those who followed and those who opposed is a clear evidence that proves his truthfulness. Because if he wasn't certain of that which he spoke about then that would have been the greatest repellent from following him and no sane person would embark upon that. The point being that he was from most intelligent of the creation even with those who opposed him; rather he was the most intelligent of them at the same time. His call (Da'wah) spread to the East and the West and it encompassed the state of his Ummah, the countries of the horizons of the world in general which hadn't occurred to a nation from the nations before him. If Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) wasn't a Prophet then his harm would have been greater than anyone else and if the matter was likewise then the Prophets would have warned against him in the most severe manner and they would have caused the nations to flee from him in the most severe manner. Verily, all of them warned against the callers to misguidance in their books and forbade their nations following and adopting their way. They mentioned the (False Messiah) Dajjal, the one with one defective eye, the liar. Even Nooh (Peace be upon him) warned his people and he was the first of the Messengers and it is known that none of the Prophets warned against Muhammad nor did they discourage the people away from him nor any news about him other than praise, news of his arrival, the order to follow him, prohibition against opposing him and disobeying him. Allah says: And (remember) when Allah took the Covenant of the Prophets, saying: "Take whatever I gave you from the Book and Hikmah (understanding of the Laws of Allah, etc.), and afterward there will come to you a Messenger (Muhammad) confirming what is with you; you must, then, believe in him and help him." Allah said: "Do you agree (to it) and will you take up My Covenant (which I conclude with you)?” They said: “We agree.” He said: “Then bear witness; and I am with you among the witnesses (for this). Then whoever turns away after this, they are the Fasiqoon (rebellious). (Soorah Aal Imran: 81-82) Ibn Abbas (May Allah be pleased with him) said: Allah didn’t send a Prophet except that he took a covenant from him that if Muhammad was sent when they were alive then they shall believe in him and follow him. Narrated by Al-Bukhari.

I found the news of his arrival in the previous books and they are more famous than to be mentioned and more than can be restricted. We mentioned earlier before his birth a good portion from that. We established in the book, Tafseer under the verses that indicate that, many narrations. We shall narrate here some of what is found in their books which they admit their authenticity and accept as worship by reciting them from that which the scholars have compiled, both recent and ancient from those who believed from them and researched from the books that are in their hands. In the first genesis of the Tawrah which is in their hands in the story of Ibraheem Al-Khaleel (Peace be upon him) what the meaning and translation is: Allah inspired to Ibraheem (Peace be upon him) after he saved him from the fire of Numrood: Stand and travel the Earth, its East and West for your son. When he informed Sarah of this she wished that would be her son from him and she tried to make Hajar and her son distant. Al-Khaleel took them to the land of Hijaz and the mountains of Faran. Ibraheem thought that this glad tiding would be for his son Ishaq until Allah inspired to him that which its meaning is: As for your son Ishaq, then he shall be provided with a great offspring. And as for your son Isma‘eel then I have blessed him, made him great, increased his offspring and made from his offspring Madha Madha, i.e., Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). I have made 12 leaders (Imams) from his offspring and he shall have a big Ummah and similarly I have given Hajar the glad tidings when Al-Khaleel left her at the house (Ka'bah). Then she became thirsty and felt worried for her son, and the angel came and made Zam Zam sprout (from the earth), and he commanded her to look after this child because a great man shall be born from him. He shall have an offspring like the number of the stars in the sky.

It is well-known that nobody was born from the descendants of Isma'eel; rather the descendants of Adam greater in standing, nor more wider in authority, nor higher in station, nor mightier in position than Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

Similarly, in the story of Isma'eel from the first exodus: The son of Isma'eel shall have his hand over all the nations and all the nations are under his hand. He lives with all the households of his brothers. This isn't in conformity with anyone except Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

Also in the fourth exodus is the story of Moosa. Allah inspired to Moosa (Peace be upon him): Say to the Children of Isra'eel: I shall send to them a Prophet from their relations similar to you, O Moosa, and I shall make My Revelation with his mouth and you shall listen to him.

In the fifth exodus which is the exodus of the resurrection: Moosa (Peace be upon him) addressed the Children of Isra'eel toward the end of his life and that is in 39th year of their banishment. He reminded them of the days of Allah and his assistance of them and his goodness toward them. From what he said to them was: Know, that Allah shall send a Prophet to you from your cousins similar to whom he sent to you. He shall command you with good and forbid you from evil. He shall make good things permissible for you and make evil matters impermissible for you. So whoever disobeys shall have disgrace in this life and a punishment in the Hereafter.

Also in the end of the fifth exodus and that is the end of the Tawrah which is in their hands: Allah came from the Mount Sinai and (a light) shone from Sa‘eer and became visible from the mountains of Faran: It became apparent from the hills of the Quds (Jerusalem). On the right of him was a light, and on the left of him was a light. Upon it the nations will gather and upon it the people shall unite, i.e., the command of Allah and his Shari‘ah came from Mount Sinai which is the mountain at the place where Allah spoke to Moosa (Peace be upon him) and it shone from Sa‘eer which is the mountain range of the sacred land where ‘Eesa (Peace be upon him) was. His command became apparent from the mountains of Faran which are the mountains of Al-Hijaz (in Saudi Arabia without any difference of opinion among the people of knowledge) and that was not in the language of anyone except Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). Then He mentioned these three places based upon the order of events; He mentioned the place of Moosa, then ‘Eesa and then the country of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). When Allah swore by these places He mentioned the most virtuous of them first, then the next best and then the next virtuous based on the rule of the oath, so He said: By the fig and the olive (Soorah At-Teen: 1). And the meaning of it is the area of the Sacred Land where ‘Eesa (Peace be upon him) was (then he said): by Mount Sinai. (Soorah At-Teen: 2) And that is the mountain that Allah spoke to Moosa on (then he said): And by this city of security (Makkah) (Soorah At-Teen: 3) And that is the country that Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was sent from (as) more than one of the commentators of the Qur’an mentioned in explaining these noble Verses.

In the Psalms of Dawood (Peace be upon him) is the description of this Ummah with (making) Al-Jihad and worship. And therein is a proverb for Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that he is the sealing wax of the constructed dome just as has been mentioned in the Hadith in the Saheehain, "My example and the example of the Prophets before me is like the example of a man who built a house and completed it except for the place of one brick. Then the people passed by it and say: Only if that brick was placed?" Allah's statement is a testimony to that: But he is the Messenger of Allah and the last (end) of the Prophets. (Soorah Al-Ahzab: 40) Also in the Psalms is the description of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that his Prophethood and call (Da'wah) shall spread and his word shall reach from sea to sea. And kings from all the countries shall come voluntarily with gifts and presents, and that he shall save the compelled and remove the harm from the Ummahs, and he shall save the weak that has no helper and prayers will be made for him always, and Allah shall bless him every day and his mention shall remain forever. This is only in suitable to be mentioned about Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

In the scriptures of Sha'ya in a lengthy statement therein is a rebuking of the Children of Isra'eel and from it: Verily, I shall send to you and the Ummahs an illiterate Prophet. He is neither severe nor harshhearted, nor the one who shouts in the market. I shall enable him to do every beautiful act and grant to him every noble manner. Then I shall make tranquillity his clothing, and goodness his moto, and Taqwa his heart, and wisdom his thought, and fulfilling his nature, and justice his way, and truth his Shari'ah, and guidance his path, and Islam his religion, and the Qur'an his book, his name is Ahmad. I shall guide with him away from misguidance, and raise with him after lowliness, and unite with him after disunity, and make harmony between the different hearts with him, and make his Ummah the best nation raised up for mankind, their sacrifices are their blood, their Gospels are in their hearts, monks in the night, lions during the day. That is the grace of Allah, He gives it to whom He wills. Allah is the owner of the great bounty.

In the 10th section from the words of Sha‘ya: He shall tread on the nations like the treading of the Bayadirs (container used to hold dates till they dry) and he shall send misfortune to the polytheist Arabs and they shall be defeated in front of him.

In the 26th section from it: The barren thirsty land shall become happy and Ahmad shall be given the goodness of Lebanon and they shall see the majesty of Allah in his heart.

In the scriptures of Ilyas (Peace be upon him): He exited with a group from his Companions on a trip and when he saw the Arabs in the land of Hijaz, he said to those who were with him, “Look at them, for indeed they are the ones who shall own your great fortress.” Then they said, “O Prophet of Allah, what shall be their God.” He said, “They venerate the Lord of Honor above every high hill.”

In the scriptures of Hizqeel: Verily, my slave is my best (slave), I shall reveal to him my revelation, he shall show my justice in the Ummahs. I have chosen him and preferred him for myself and I have sent him to the nations with truthful regulations.

From the book, An-Nubuwwat by Ibn Taimiyyah: A Prophet from the Prophets traveled to Madinah. When Banu Quraizah and An-Nadeer tribes invited him (to their dwellings), and when he saw them he wept. So they said to him, “What causes you to weep, O Prophet of Allah?” He said, “A Prophet shall be sent from the Sacred place (Haram of Makkah), he shall destroy your houses and capture your women.” The narrator said: Then the Jews wished to kill him so he fled from them.

From the words of Hizqeel (Peace be upon him): Allah says: Before I formed you in the womb I made you sacred and made you a Prophet and sent you to all the nations.

In the scriptures of Sha‘ya also is a proverb mentioned about Makkah: Be pleased, O barren, with this child that your Lord shall bestow upon you. For by his blessing the places shall be widened and your pegs shall be fortified in the earth and the doors of your dwellings shall be raised. The kings of the Earth shall come to you from the right and left of you with presents and gifts and this child of yours shall inherit all the nations and conquer all the cities and districts. Do not fear and do not worry, because no harm shall ever afflict you from an enemy and all the days cause you to become a widow you shall forget them. All of this only occurred upon the hands of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and the meaning of barren is restricted to Makkah and it became as mentioned in these words without a doubt. And whoever from the People of the Book wants to interpret it as the Holy Land (Jerusalem) then this doesn’t match with it from every angle. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

In the scriptures of Armiya: A star became apparent from the south, its rays are bolts of lightning, its arrows are penetrating mountains are made powder by it. And the intended meaning of this is Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

In the Bible ‘Eesa (Peace be upon him) says: I am going to be raised to the highest levels in Paradise and I shall send to you the criterion between right and wrong, the spirit of the Truth

(Truth; one of Allah's Names). He shall teach you everything and he shall not say anything from his own desires. The meaning of the criterion is Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and this is like what was mentioned earlier from 'Eesa that he when he said: And giving glad tidings of a Messenger to come after me, whose name shall be Ahmad. (Soorah As-Saff: 6)

This is a very long chapter, if we were to mention everything which the people have said it would be a very long section.

A Hadith about the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) answering the question before hearing the questioner ask

Narrated from Wabisah Al-Asadi, he said: I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and I wanted to not leave anything from righteousness and sin except that I asked him about it while a group from Muslims were around him asking him questions. I began to walk through them and they said to me, "Stay away from the Messenger of Allah." I said, "Leave me, so that I can come close to him, for he is the most beloved of people to me that I should come close to." The Prophet said, "Leave Wabisah, come close, O Wabisah." He said that twice or thrice. The narrator said: I came close to him until I sat in front of him. Then he said, "O Wabisah, shall I inform you or do you want to ask?" I said, "No, rather you inform me." He said, "You came asking about righteousness and sin." I said, "Yes." He closed his fingers and began to poke them in my chest and say, "O Wabisah, ask your heart and ask your soul – three times – righteousness is what your soul feels tranquil with and sin is what creates restlessness in the soul and moves to and fro in the chest, even though people give you their opinion (in your favour) and continue to do so.”

What the Prophet foretold from the future events in his lifetime and after it and then occurred just as he mentioned exactly

This is a great chapter. It isn't possible to gather everything which is in it due to its vastness. However, we shall mention a portion of that and with Allah is assistance. And that which follows is taken from the Qur'an and Ahadith.

As for the Qur'an, Allah (SWT) says in Soorah Al-Muzzammil which is from the first of those which were revealed in Makkah: He knows that there will be some among you sick, others traveling through the land, seeking of Allah's bounty; yet others fighting in Allah's Cause. (Soorah Al-Muzzammil: 20) It is known that Al-Jihad wasn't revealed except in Madinah after the migration.

Allah (SWT) says in Soorah Iqtarabat which is Makkan: Or do they say: "We are a great multitude, and we shall be victorious?" Their multitude will be put to flight, and they will show their backs. (Soorah AlQamar: 44-45) This occurred in the Battle of Badr and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) recited it when he was leaving the shade and threw a handful of soil at the enemy and then there was victory and triumph and this was a confirmation of that, i.e., the prophecy.

Allah says: Perish the two hands of Abu Lahab (an uncle of the Prophet), and perish he! His wealth and his children (etc.) will not benefit him! He will be burned in a Fire of blazing flames!

His wife too, who carries wood (thorns of Sa‘dan which she used to put on the way of the Prophet, or use to slander him). In her neck is a twisted rope of Masad (palm fiber) (Soorah Al-Masad: 1-5) So he informed that his uncle Abdul-Uzza Ibn Abdul-Muttalib nicknamed Abu Lahab shall enter the fire, he and his wife. So Allah decreed that they would die upon their polytheism, they didn’t embrace Islam not even apparently and this is from the clear proofs of Prophethood.

Allah (SWT) says: Say: “If the mankind and the Jinns were together to produce the like of this Qur’an, they could not produce the like thereof, even if they helped one another.” (Soorah Al-Isra’: 88) Allah says in Soorah Al-Baqarah: And if you (Arab pagans, Jews, and Christians) are in doubt concerning that which We have sent down (i.e. the Qur’an) to Our slave (Muhammad), then produce a Soorah (chapter) of the like thereof and call your witnesses (supporters and helpers) besides Allah, if you are truthful. But if you do it not, and you can never do it. (Soorah Al-Baqarah: 23-24) So He mentioned that if all the creation were to gather, combine, help and assist one another to produce something similar to the Qur’an in its eloquence, sweetness, perfection of regulations, and a clarification to the permissible and impermissible (matters) and other than that from types of its miracles, then they couldn’t. And they wouldn’t be able to, not even 10 Soorahs from it and not even a single Soorah. He mentioned that they shall never ever be able to. And (the particle in Arabic language used in the Verse) Lan is to negate for eternity in the future. This type of challenge, this certainty and firm mentioning only comes from someone who has belief in what he says, knowing what he says and is certain that nobody can oppose him and bring something similar to what he has brought from his Lord, the Greatest, the Almighty.

Allah (SWT) says: Allah has promised those among you who believe, and do righteous good deeds, that He will certainly grant them succession to (the present rulers) on the Earth, as He granted it to those before them, and that He will grant them the authority to practice their religion, that which He has chosen for them (i.e. Islam). He will surely give them in exchange a safe security after their fear. (Soorah AnNoor: 55) This is exactly what occurred. Allah established this religion and made it triumphant, and he raised it and spread it in all the countries and he fulfilled it and made it continue. Many from the Salaf interpreted this Verse as the Caliphate of Abu Bakr As-Siddiq and there is no doubt in its inclusion (in the Verse). However, it isn't specific to it. Rather it encompasses it as it encompasses other than it as has been affirmed in the Saheeh, "When Qaisar (Caesar) perishes then there shall be no Qaisar after him, and when Kisra (king of Persia) perishes then there shall be no Kisra after him. By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, you shall spend their treasures in the path of Allah (Jihad)." This occurred in the era of the three Caliphs: Abu Bakr, Umar and Uthman. Allah says: It is He Who has sent His Messenger (Muhammad) with guidance and the religion of truth (Islam), to make it superior over all religions even though the Mushrikoon (polytheists, pagans, idolaters, disbelievers in the Oneness of Allah) hate (it). (Soorah AtTawbah: 33) This is what occurred; this religion became triumphant, it overcome and was superior over all religions in the East and the West of the world. His Word was exalted in the era of the Companions and those who came after them and all the countries submitted to them and all their inhabitants were humiliated before them with their different backgrounds. The people either became believers in him from the religion or either in a truce offering obedience and wealth or either waging war scared, distressed from the power of Islam and its followers. It has been affirmed in the Hadith: "Allah has showed me the East and West of the Earth, and the kingdom of my Ummah shall reach that which was shown to me from it.”

Allah (SWT) says: Say (O Muhammad) to the Bedouins who lagged behind: “You shall be called to fight against a people given to great warfare, then you shall fight them, or they shall surrender.” (Soorah AlFath: 16) And it is all the same whether those were the Hawazin or the followers of Musailimah (false prophet) or the Romans because that (event described in the Verse) happened.

Allah says: Allah has promised you abundant spoils that you will capture, and He has hastened for you this, and He has restrained the hands of men from you, that it may be a sign for the Believers, and that He may guide you to a Straight Path. And other (victories and much booty there are, He promises you) which are not yet within your power, indeed Allah compasses them, And Allah is Ever Able to do all things. (Soorah Al-Fath: 20-21) And whether this other (Verse was concerning) Khaiabr or Makkah then they were conquered and taken (all the same) exactly as was mentioned in the promise (prophecy).

Allah (SWT) says: Indeed Allah shall fulfill the true vision which He showed to His Messenger, i.e., the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) saw a dream that he has entered Makkah along with his Companions, having their heads shaved or cut short in very truth. Certainly, you shall enter Al-Masjid Al-Haram; if Allah wills, secure, (some) having your heads shaved, and (some) having your head hair cut short, having no fear. He knew what you knew not, and He granted besides that a near victory. (Soorah Al-Fath: 27) This promise was in the year of Al-Hudaibiyah Year 6 (Hijrah) and its fulfillment occurred in the Year 7 (Hijrah), the year of Umratul-

Qada as mentioned earlier. We have mentioned there the Hadith in full and therein Ibn Umar said: “O Messenger of Allah, didn’t you tell us that we were going to come to the Ka’bah and make Tawaf of it?” He said, “Indeed, did I tell you that you were going to come to it in this year?” He said, “No.” The Prophet said, “Indeed you shall go to it and make Tawaf of it.”

Allah (SWT) says: And (remember) when Allah promised you (Muslims) one of the two parties (of the enemy, i.e., either the army or the caravan) that it should be yours, you wished that the one not armed (the caravan) should be yours. (Soorah Al-Anfal: 7) And this promise was in the Battle of Badr, when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) left Madinah to take the caravan complete with goods from the Quraish, and news reached the Quraish about his expedition to their caravan. So they grouped and set off with approximately 1,000 fighters. When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his Companions were certain of the arrival of Quraishi army, Allah promised him one of the two parties that he will be victorious over; either the caravan or either the enemy. Many of the Companions who were with him wanted the promise to be the caravan because of the wealth there in and few guards, and they didn’t want to meet the enemy because of their number and preparation. Then Allah made them calm and executed His promise to meet the enemy, so he unleashed upon them his wrath which can’t be repelled. As many as 70 of their chiefs were killed and 70 were captured and a big amount of their wealth was seized. And he combined for them the good of this world and the Hereafter and for this reason Allah said: But Allah willed to justify the truth by His Words and to cut off the roots of the disbelievers (i.e. in the Battle of Badr). (Soorah Al-Anfal: 7) And this has been mentioned earlier in the “Battle of Badr” chapter.

Allah (SWT) says: O Prophet! Say to the captives that are in your hands: “If Allah knows any good in your hearts, He will give you something better than what has been taken from you, and He will forgive you, and Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful.” (Soorah Al-Anfal:70) And this is what happened, Allah recompensated those who embraced Islam from them with the goodness in this world and the Hereafter. And also that which Al-Bukhari narrated: Al-Abbas came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, “O Messenger of Allah give me wealth because I sacrificed myself and Aqeel.” He said to him, “Take.” So he took in a cloth an amount which he couldn’t carry, and he removed some amount from it time after sometime until he could carry it on his shoulder. And he left with it, as we mentioned before in detail, and this is a confirmation of this noble Verse.

Allah (SWT) says: And if you fear poverty, Allah will enrich you if He will, out of His Bounty. (Soorah At-Tawbah: 28) And this is what occurred, Allah replaced them from what came to them with the polytheistic pilgrims, with what he legislated for them by fighting the People of the Book. And he levied the tax (Jizyah) upon them and he took the wealth of whoever was killed from them upon disbelief, just as it happened to the disbelievers of Sham and the Romans and the Magians of the Persia in Iraq and other than it from the countries which Islam spread on its corners and ruled its cities and wilderness. Allah says: It is He Who has sent His Messenger (Muhammad) with guidance and the religion of truth (Islam), to make it superior over all religions even though the Mushrikoon hate (it). (Soorah At-Tawbah: 33)

Allah (SWT) says: They will swear by Allah to you (Muslims) when you return to them, that you may turn away from them. So turn away from them. Surely, they are Rijsun (i.e. Najasun or impure because of their evil deeds) (Soorah At-Tawbah: 95) This is what occurred when they consulted another about him; to help him, or kill him or banish him from them. Then the decision was made to kill him. At that point Allah commanded his Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to leave them. So he left along with his ally Abu Bakr. Then they hid in the cave of Thawr (mountain in Makkah) for three nights. Later, they left as we mentioned earlier. And this is the meaning of his statement: If you help him (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) not (it does not matter), for Allah did indeed help him when the disbelievers drove him out, the second of two, when they (Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and Abu Bakr) were in the cave, and he said to his Companion (Abu Bakr): "Be not sad (or afraid), surely Allah is with us." Then Allah sent down His Sakeenah (calmness, tranquillity, peace, etc.) upon him, and strengthened him with forces (angels) which you saw not, and made the word of those who disbelieved the lowermost, while it was the Word of Allah that became the uppermost, and Allah is All-Mighty, All-Wise. (Soorah At-Tawbah: 40) Also, this is the meaning of His statement: And (remember) when the disbelievers plotted against you (O Muhammad) to imprison you, or to kill you, or to get you out (from your home, i.e. Makkah); they were plotting and Allah too was planning, and Allah is the Best of the planners. (Soorah Al-Anfal: 30) And for this reason He said: And Verily, they were about to frighten you so much as to drive you out from the land. But in that case they would not have stayed (therein) after you, except for a little while. (Soorah Al-Isra': 76) And it took place just as He had mentioned because the chiefs who consulted one another upon that, didn't wait long in Makkah after his migration until he settled in Madinah and the Muhajiroon and Ansar followed him. Thereafter, the Battle of Badr took place and those were killed (the chiefs who planned to kill him) and those heads were cut and he knew that before it occurred from Allah's informing of him about that. And for this reason Sa'd Ibn Mu'adh said to Umayyah Ibn Khalaf, "Indeed I have heard that Muhammad said that he is going to kill you." He said, "Did you hear him?" He said, "Yes." He replied, "For, by Allah, he doesn't lie." And the Hadith shall be mentioned in its appropriate place. We have mentioned that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) began to point to his Companions to the places of their deaths (of the chiefs) and none of them strayed away from the places he pointed to.

Allah (SWT) says: Alif Lam Meem. (These letters are one of the miracles of the Qur'an, and none but Allah, Alone, knows their meanings). The Romans have been defeated. In the nearer land (Syria, Iraq, Jordan, and Palestine), and they, after their defeat, will be victorious. Within three to nine years. The decision of the matter, before and after (these events) is only with Allah, (before the defeat of Romans by the Persians, and after, i.e. the defeat of the Persians by the Romans). And on that Day, the Believers (i.e. Muslims) will rejoice (at the victory given by Allah to the Romans against the Persians). With the help of Allah, He helps whom He wills, and He is the Almighty, the Most Merciful. (It is) a Promise of Allah (i.e. Allah will give victory to the Romans against the Persians), and Allah fails not in His Promise, but most of men know not. (Soorah Ar-Room: 1-6) This prophecy took place as he mentioned. And that is because when the Persians beat the Romans the polytheists became happy and the Believers were saddened with that result, as the Christians were closer to Islam than the Magians. So Allah told his Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that the Romans shall defeat the Persians after that event by 3-9 years and Abu Bakr betted with the polytheists that it will occur (defeat of the Persians by the Romans) in this period (3-9 years) which is well-known as we established in our book, Tafseer. And it occurred just as the Qur'an informed, the Romans defeated the Persians after their victory with a bigger victory, and their story about that is too lengthy to be mentioned. And we have explained it in the Tafseer which is sufficient as an explanation of the story.

Allah (SWT) says: We will show them Our Signs in the universe, and in their own selves, until it becomes manifest to them that this (the Qur'an) is the truth. Is it not sufficient in regard to your Lord that He is a Witness over all things? (Soorah Fussilat: 53) It occurred likewise; Allah showed from His Signs and miracles in the souls of mankind, in the horizons that which he caused from the people to the enemies of Prophethood and the opponents of the Shari'ah from those who denied him from the People of the two Books (Jews and Christians) and the Magians and the polytheists which proved to the people with insight and intellect that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in truth. And that he brought the revelation from Allah was the truth. He put fear, respect for him and dread in the chests and hearts of his enemies as has been affirmed from him in the Saheehain, that he said, "I have been assisted with fear the journey of a month (his enemies would fear him that greatly)." This is from aid and assistance which Allah gave to him. His fear would fear him despite their being between him and them the journey of a month. It has been mentioned: When he decided to fight a people, they would fear him before he would reach them and arrive by one month.

As for the Ahadith that prove that which prophesized events which later occurred in their accordance then from that is what we mentioned earlier in the story of the document that the chiefs of Quraish agreed upon. They agreed that they wouldn't shelter Hashim and Al-Muttalib tribesmen, and they wouldn't allow marriages with them, nor would they trade with them until they surrendered the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to them.

The Quraish hung the document of leadership to the roof of the Ka'bah. Then Allah sent the earthworms to it and they ate the Names of Allah from it in order for them not to be combined with the injustice and sin on the sheet of paper. It has been said that they ate everything except for the Names of Allah, the Almighty. Thereafter, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) informed his uncle Abu Talib about that and Abu Talib went to the Quraish and said: My nephew has told me about your document that Allah sent the earthworms on it and that they ate everything except for the Names of Allah on it – or words similar to that – so bring it. And if it is as he said then I shall not give him up and if not then I shall surrender him to you. So they brought it down and opened it and it was just as the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) mentioned. Then at that moment they broke that ruling and the tribe of Banu Hashim and the tribe of Banu Al-Muttalib entered Makkah and they returned to what they were on before that, as we mentioned earlier.

Also the Hadith of Khabbab Ibn Al-Aratt when he and those similar to him from the weak seeking help from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he was laying on his robe in the shade of the Ka'bah, in order that he would pray for them due to the condition they were in from punishment and humiliation. He sat with a red face and said, "Those that came before you, one of them would be split in two yet that wouldn't steer him away from his religion. By Allah, Allah shall complete this affair (religion). But you are hasty.”

Narrated by Abu Moosa, I saw him from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “I saw in my dream that I was migrating from Makkah to a land that has date trees. I guessed that it was Al-Yamamah (in the center of the Arabian Peninsula, Riyadh) and that was Yathrib (old name for Madinah). I saw in this dream of mine that I jolted a sword and its middle snapped, and that was what befell on the Muslims in the Battle of Uhud. Then I shook it again and it returned to a better state than it ever was, and that was what Allah brought from the Conquest of Makkah and the unification of the Muslims and I saw a cow and goodness (slaughtered as is mentioned in other narrations, interpreted as the death of some Muslims in Uhud) and they were the Believers in Battle of Uhud. The goodness is what Allah brought from goodness and the reward of truthfulness that Allah gave us after the Battle of Badr.” From that is the story of Sa’d Ibn Mu’adh with Umayyah Ibn Khalaf when he came to Makkah.

Narrated by Abdullah Ibn Mas’ood, he said: Sa’d Ibn Mu’adh went to perform Umrah and stopped by Umayyah Ibn Khalaf, Abu Safwan. When Umayyah went to Sham and passed through Madinah, he would stay with Sa’d. Then Umayyah said to Sa’d, “Wait till the middle of the day and the people are not taking heed and make Tawaf.” So when Sa’d was making Tawaf, suddenly Abu Jahl appeared and said, “Who is the one making Tawaf of the Ka’bah?” Sa’d replied, “I am Sa’d.” Abu Jahl said, “You perform Tawaf of the Ka’bah when you have given shelter to Muhammad and his Companions (i.e., in Madinah)?” He said, “Yes.” They began to argue; Umayyah said to Sa’d, “Don’t raise your voice at AbulHakam (Abu Jahl’s real nickname) because he is the chief of this valley (Makkah).” Sa’d said, “By Allah, if you prevent me from doing Tawaf of the House then I shall stop your business in Sham.” Umayyah began to tell Sa’d not to raise his voice and grabbed him. Sa’d became angry and said, “Leave me alone because I have heard Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say that he is going to kill you.” He said, “Me?” He said, “Yes.” He said, “By Allah Muhammad doesn’t lie when he speaks.” Then he returned to his wife and said, “Do you not know what my Yathribi brother said?” She replied, “What did he say to you?” He said, “He claims that he heard Muhammad say that he is going to kill me.” She said, “By Allah, Muhammad doesn’t tell a lie.” The narrator said: When they went to Badr and the call to fight was made, his wife said to him, “Do you not remember what your Yathribi brother said to you?” The narrator added: And he didn’t want to exit, then Abu Jahl said to him, “You are from the chiefs of the valley so come along for a day or two.” So he went with them and Allah killed him.

This Hadith was from the Ahadith that only Al-Bukhari narrated and it has been mentioned earlier in more detail than this mention.

Also from this category: The story of Ubayy Ibn Khalaf who was feeding his horse and when he would meet the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) he would say, “I am going to kill you on this.” The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would reply to him, “Rather, I am going to kill you by the will of Allah.” Then Ubayy Ibn Khalaf was killed in the Battle of Uhud as we have mentioned earlier in detail.

From that is his prophecy of the places where the people will be killed in the Battle of Badr as was mentioned earlier in the Saheeh that he began to point to its place before the battle and say, "This is where so and so shall be killed tomorrow by the will of Allah, and this is where so and so shall be killed." The narrator said: By the One Who sent him with Truth none of them moved from the place where the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had pointed.

From this: His statement to that man who didn't leave anything from the polytheists stray except that he followed it with his sword and chopped it with his sword, and that was in the Battle of Uhud - and it has been said Khaibar and that is correct and it has been said that it was in the Battle of Hunain. Then the people said: No one shall gain more today than so and so - it was said he was called Qizman. So the Prophet said, "He is from the people of the fire." Then someone said: I shall follow him and he followed him and he was injured (Quzman) and he wanted to hurry death, so he put the point of his sword to his chest then leaned on it till it penetrated him. That man returned and said, "I bear witness that there is no god deserving of worship except Allah and that you are the Messenger of Allah." So he said, "What is that for?" He said, "The man whom you mentioned earlier, was from his affair." Then he mentioned the story as mentioned earlier.

From that is his prophecy concerning the conquest of the plains of Kisra (Persian empire) and the castles of Sham and other countries on the day the trench was dug (the Battle of Khandaq), when he hit the rock with his noble hand and it split with his strike and then another and then another as we mentioned earlier.

And from that was his prophecy that the corn was poisoned and it was as he mentioned. The Jews admitted that and the one who ate with him, Bishr Ibn Al-Bara' Ibn Ma'roor died.

From that is what Abdur-Razzaq mentioned from Ma‘mar; it had reached him that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said one day, “O Allah, save the people of the boat.” Then he waited and said, “It has continued.” And the complete Hadith is in Dala’il An-Nubuwwah by Al-Baihaqi. That boat was about to sink while in it were the Al-Ash‘ariyyoon who came to him when he was in Khaibar.

From that is his briefing about the grave of Abu Rigal when he passed by it while going to Ta’if and that it had a piece of gold. They excavated it and found it just as he mentioned, narrated by Abu Dawood from the Hadith of Abu Ishaq from Isma‘eel Ibn Umayyah, from Bujair Ibn Abu Bujair from Abdullah Ibn Amr.

From that is his statement to the Ansar when he addressed them with that speech comforting them due to what fell into the hearts of some of them when he favored others over them in distributing the war booty, as he sought to gain the hearts of the Arab chiefs and the leaders of the Quraish and others. He said, “Are you not satisfied that the people leave with sheep and camels and you return with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to your dwellings?” He said, “You shall experience after me Athara (i.e. inequality), so be patient until you meet me at the Pond (in Paradise).”

He said, “The people are increasing and the Ansar are becoming fewer.” He said to them in the sermon before this one on Mount As-Safa, “Indeed life is with your life and death is with your death.” All of this occurred exactly as he mentioned.

Narrated by Abu Hurairah he said, that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “When Kisra perishes then there shall be no Kisra after him and when Qaisar perishes, there shall be no Qaisar after him. By the One in Whose Hands is the soul of Muhammad, you shall indeed spend their treasures in the path of Allah.” Narrated by Muslim.

Narrated by Jabir Ibn Samurah, he said from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), “When Kisra perishes then there shall be no Kisra after him and when Qaisar perishes, there shall be no Qaisar after him.” He said, “You shall indeed spend their treasures in the path of Allah.” Also Al-Bukhari and Muslim have narrated it from the Hadith of Jareer, and Al-Bukhari and Abu ‘Awanah added from Abdullah Ibn Umair with this Hadith. The actualization of it occurred following it in the era of the three Caliphs: Abu Bakr, Umar and Uthman. These kingdoms fell to the Muslims and the treasures of Qaisar and Kisra were spent in the way of Allah, based upon what we shall mention afterward, insha’Allah.

In this Hadith there is a glad tidings for the Muslims and that is: the kingdom of Persia shall cease to exist and shall not return and the king of the Romans for Sham disappears and shall not rule it after that and for Allah is all praise and grace. And also in the Hadith is the legitimacy of the Caliphates of Abu Bakr, Umar and Uthman and a testimony for their justice because the war booty fortunes in their times were spent in the path of Allah in a good manner.

Narrated by Adiy Ibn Hatim, who said: When I was with the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on an occasion a man came to him and complained about poverty. Then another came to him and complained about being stranded (with no wealth/wayfarer). He said, “O Adiy, have you seen AlHeerah?” I said, “I haven’t seen it yet I have been told about it.” The Prophet said, “If you live long, you shall see the woman travel from Al-Heerah and perform Tawaf of the Ka‘bah not fearing anyone except for Allah.” I said to myself: Where are the mischief-makers of Tayy’ tribe who have destroyed the lands? He said, “If you live long, you shall conquer the treasures of Kisra.” I said, “Kisra Ibn Hurmuz?” He said, “Kisra Ibn Hurmuz, and if you live long, you shall see a man who will bring a handful of gold and silver and search for someone to accept it from him, yet he won’t find anyone who will accept it from him as charity. Indeed one of you shall meet Allah on the day he shall meet Him without an interpreter who shall interpret for him (i.e. without an intermediary). He shall indeed say to him, 'Didn't I send a Messenger to you and he conveyed to you?' He will say: 'Indeed'. Then He shall say, 'Did I not give you wealth, children and bless you?' He shall say: Indeed. He shall look to his right and he shall not see anything except the Hell fire, and he shall look to his left and he shall not see anything except the Hellfire.” Adiiy said: I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “Save yourselves from the fire even if it is with half a date in charity and if you can’t find that then with a good word.” Adiiy said: Then I saw the woman travel from Al-Heerah and perform Tawaf of the Ka‘bah and didn’t fear anyone except Allah. And I was from those who conquered the treasures of Kisra Ibn Hurmuz. And if you have a long life then you shall witness what the Prophet Abul- Qasim said, “He shall bring a handful of...”

Narrated by Khabab, who said: We came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while he was lying on a robe of his in the shade of the Ka‘bah. We said, “O Messenger of Allah, pray to Allah for us and ask for his help.” The narrator said: The color of his face became red or changed. He said, “Indeed, from those who came before you a man would be brought and a ditch would be made for him. Then a saw would be brought and placed on his head and it would be cut yet that wouldn't take him away from his religion. And his flesh would be combed with an iron comb from his bones or his skin would be combed or his flesh before the nerves yet that wouldn't take him away from his religion. And Allah shall complete this affair to the extent that the rider shall travel from San'a to Hadramawt and he shall not fear except from the wolves attacking on his sheep, but you are hasty.”

Al-Bukhari narrated in the book, Alamat An-Nubuwwah, from Utbah, from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that he exited one day and prayed upon the people (martyrs) of Uhud, then he ascended the pulpit and said, “I am Faratukum, and I am a witness over you and by Allah I can see the Pond (in Paradise whiter than milk and sweeter than honey) now. And I have indeed been given the keys to the treasures of the world and by Allah I don't fear that you shall commit Shirk (acts of polytheism) after me, but I fear that you will compete with one another in it (treasures of the world).”

In this Hadith are many matters and from them is that he told those present that he was Faratukum, i.e., going to die before them, and this is what happened. This was during the illness of his death. Then he said that he was a witness over them even if his death was to be before theirs. He mentioned that he was given the keys to the treasures of the world, i.e., the countries were conquered as in the Hadith of Abu Hurairah mentioned earlier. Abu Hurairah said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has gone and you are now conquering them Kafran Kafran, i.e., country after country. He mentioned that his Companions shall not commit Shirk, and this is what happened.

Narrated by Anas: The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was missing Thabit Ibn Qais when a man said, "O Messenger of Allah, I shall find out about him for you." He went to him and found him sitting in his house with his head lowered and said, "What is the matter?" He said: Evil, he used to raise his voice above the voice of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his actions are wasted and he is from the people of the fire. Then the man came to the Prophet and told him that he had said such-and-such. Moosa (a narrator) said: He returned another time with a great glad tidings. Then the Prophet said: Go to him and tell him: You are not from the people of the fire; rather you are from the people of Paradise. Only Al-Bukhari narrated this. And Thabit Ibn Qais Ibn Shammah was killed as a martyr in the Battle of Yamamah as shall be explained.

Similarly, it has been affirmed in the authentic Hadith glad tidings for Abdullah Ibn Salam that he shall die upon Islam and he shall be from the people of Paradise. And he died in the best of ways and most beautiful and the people would bear witness that he will be granted Paradise during his life because of the briefing of the Truthful (the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) about him that he shall die upon Islam and this is what occurred.

It has been affirmed in the Saheeh the news about the 10 Companions that they are from the dwellers of Paradise and also it has been affirmed from him that no one who gave the oath of allegiance under the tree shall enter the fire and they were 1,400 in number and it has been mentioned that there were 1,500. It hasn't been related from even one of them that he lived other than praiseworthy and he didn't die except upon goodness, uprightness and success and for Allah is all praise and grace. And this is from the prophecies of Prophethood and signs of the message.

Past hidden and future foreseen matters

Narrated by Jabir Ibn Samurah, he said: A man came and said, “O Messenger of Allah, so-and-so has died.” He said, “He hasn’t died.” Then he returned a second time and said, “Indeed, so-and-so has died.” Then he returned the third time and said, “Indeed so-and-so slashed his own throat with a blade he had with him.” The Prophet didn’t pray upon him (the funeral prayer).

Narrated by Abu Shahm, he said: A girl passed by me in Madinah and I grabbed her from behind. He added: The Messenger of Allah began to take allegiance from the people. He added: I went to him and he didn’t accept my allegiance and said, “Are you the one who grabbed?” He said: I said, “By Allah I shall not return (to that).” He said, “Then give me the pledge of allegiance.”

Narrated by Abdullah Ibn Umar, he said: We used to refrain from speaking and being open to our women in the time of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) from fear that something will be revealed (from the Qur’an) about us. When he died we spoke and were open.

Narrated by a man from the Ansar, he said: We left with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in a funeral prayer and I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) advising the grave digger, “Make it wider by his legs. Make it wider by his head.” When he returned the invitation of a woman to eat awaited him. So he went and the food was brought, he put his hand in it and the others put their hands in it and they ate. Our fathers saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) chew a morsel of food and said, "I find that the sheep's meat was taken without the permission of its owner." The woman said, "O Messenger of Allah, I asked that a sheep was bought for me from Al-Baqee' but there wasn't any, then I requested from a neighbor of mine, who had bought a sheep, to send it to me for its price. But he wasn't around. Then I asked his wife so she sent it to me." The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Feed it to the captives."

Section about the order of the unseen future events after the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Al-Bukhari and Muslim, narrated by Hudhaifah Ibn Al-Yaman who said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood on one occasion and he didn't leave the event till the last hour except that he mentioned it, the one who knows it knows it and the one who is ignorant of it is ignorant of it. And I would see something which I forgot and then I would recognize it just like a man knows a man when he sees him."

Narrated by Hudhaifah Ibn Al-Yaman, he said: The people would ask the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) about the good and I would ask him about evil from fear that it would afflict me. I said to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him): "O Messenger of Allah We were living in ignorance and in an (extremely) terrible atmosphere. Allah brought to us this good (i.e., Islam); will there be any evil after this good?" He said, "Yes." I said, "Will there be any good after that evil?" He replied, "Yes, but it will be tainted (not pure.)" I asked, "What will be its taint?" He replied, "There will be people who will guide according to other than my guidance. You will approve of some of their deeds and disapprove of some others." I asked, "Will there be any evil after that good?" He replied, "Yes, there will be some people calling at the gates of the (Hell) Fire, and whoever will respond to their call, will be thrown by them into the (Hell) Fire." I said, "O Messenger of Allah, will you describe them to us?" He said, "They will be from our own people and will speak our language." I said, "So what do you advise me if I reach that time?" He said, "Stick close to the group of the Believers and their Imam." I said, "If they don't have a congregation and an Imam?" He said, "Then leave all those groups even if you have to bite on to the root of a tree until death reaches you while you are upon that."

Narrated by Hudhaifah, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) spoke to me about what shall be until the last hour what the people of Madinah shall cause the people of Madinah to exit from it.

In Saheeh Muslim narrated from Abu Yazeed Amr Ibn Akhtab, he said, "The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) told us about what occurred and what shall happen till the Day of Judgment, so the most knowledgeable of us is the one who was the best in memory."

In Saheeh Muslim from the Hadith of Abu Nadrah from Abu Sa'eed, who said the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "This world is sweet and green and Allah is going to leave you as successors of it and see that which you do. So beware of the trials of this world and beware of the trials of the women, because the first trial of the Children of Isra'eel was in the women." In another Hadith, "I haven't left after me a trial more harmful upon the men than the women."

In the Saheehain from Jabir, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Do you have Anmat (type of expensive rug with thin fibres)?" The narrator said: I said, "O Messenger of Allah, how can I possess Anmat?" He replied, "You shall possess Anmat." The narrator said: Now I said to my wife, "Move your Anmat away from me." She would say, "Didn't the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say to you, 'Indeed you shall possess Anmat?' So leave it."

Narrated by Sufyan Ibn Abu Zuhair, he said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Yemen shall be conquered and a people driving their camels shall come (the word used in this Hadith is Yabisson, i.e., saying Bass, Bass to the camels so they speed up). And they will call their families and those that obey them and Madinah is better for them only if they knew. Ash-Sham shall be conquered and a people driving their camels shall come (saying Bass, Bass to them so they speed up). They will call their families and those that obey them and Madinah is better for them only if they knew. Iraq shall be conquered and a people driving their camels shall come (saying Bass, Bass to them so they speed up). They will call their families and those that obey them and Madinah is better for them only if they knew."

Narrated by Yazeed Ibn Khusaifah, Busr Ibn Sa'eed told him that he heard in a sitting of Makkans, them mentioning that Sufyan told them, and he mentioned a Hadith from it: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to him, "Ash-Sham shall be conquered soon, then people will come to it from this country – i.e. Madinah – and they will be amazed by its countryside and its ease of life, and Madinah is better for them only if they knew then Iraq will be conquered and a people driving their camels shall come (saying Bass, Bass to them so they speed up). They will call their families and those that obey them and Madinah is better for them only if they knew.” Narrated by Ibn Khuzaimah from the way of Isma‘eel, and Hafiz Ibn Asakir narrated it from the Hadith of Abu Dharr from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) similar to that (Hadith mentioned earlier). Similarly the Hadith of Ibn Hawalah, and the following is a witness to that (i.e. evidence supporting the Hadith mentioned), “Ash-Sham will refuse to give its Mudyun (45 lbs in weight) and its Dinars, and Iraq will refuse to give its Dirhams and Qafeez (approximately under 5kg), and Egypt will refuse to give its Irdabb (measurement approximately 50 kg) and its Dinars and you shall return just as you began (i.e. there will come a time when the people of these countries will not give the Jizyah and land taxation and Islam shall become strange just as it began).” This is also in the Saheeh. Similarly, the Hadith about the Meeqats (places where Ihram of Hajj or Umrah is put on) for the people of Ash-Sham and Yemen (or those that pass by them) and the Hadith is in the Saheehain. In Muslim, is the place of the Meeqat for the people of Iraq and this Hadith supports that also, “When Kisra perishes then there shall be no Kisra after him. And when Qaisar perishes, there shall be no Qaisar after him. By the One in Whose Hands is my soul you shall spend their treasures in the way of Allah, the Almighty.”

In Saheeh Al-Bukhari narrated by A'waf Ibn Malik, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said in the Battle of Tabook, “Enumerate six matters before the last Hour.” He mentioned his death, the conquering of Bait ul-Maqdis (Holy land of Kan‘an, Palestine), the death and that is the plague, the abundance of wealth, the trial and then the pact between the Muslims and the Romans.

In Saheeh Muslim narrated from Abu Dharr, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “You shall conquer a land in its dealing with one another called Qeerat (a portion of Dinar and Dirhams and other than them). So, do good to its inhabitants because they have a shield (of protection with the Muslims) and ties of kinship (because the mother of Isma‘eel, Hajar, was from there). So, if you see two men fighting over the place of a brick then leave it.” The narrator said: Ibn Hasanah passed by Rabee‘ah and Abdur Rahman Ibn Shurahbeel fighting over the place of a brick (land dispute). He exited from it, i.e., the lands of Egypt behind Amr Ibn Al-As in Year 20.

Ibn Wahb narrated from one of Ka‘b Ibn Malik’s sons that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “When you conquer Egypt, be good to its people because they have protection and kinship.”

Ahmad Ibn Hanbal narrated from Sufyan Ibn Uyainah that he was asked about his statement (in the Hadith), “protection and kinship.” He said from the people are those that say that: The mother of Isma‘eel, Hajar, was Egyptian. And from the people are those that say: The mother of Ibraheem (was Egyptian).

I say: The correct view in which there is no doubt is that they were (both) Egyptians as we have mentioned. And the meaning of his statement, “protection,” is that the gift which the viceroy gave to him and his acceptance of that from him, and that is a type of shield and pact. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

It has been mentioned earlier that which Al-Bukhari narrated from the Hadith of Muhill Ibn Khaleefah from Adiiy Ibn Hatim about the conquering of Kisra's treasures and the spread of security and the abundance of wealth to the extent that no one will accept the charity. In the Hadith, Adiiy witnessed the conquest and saw the woman travel from Al-Heerah (a city near Kufah in Iraq) to Makkah not fearing anyone except for Allah due to the security. He said, "If you live long then you will indeed see what Abul-Qasim (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) mentioned about the abundance of wealth to the extent that nobody will accept the charity."

Al-Baihaqi said, "And that occurred in the era of Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez."

I say: It is possible that shall occur late till the time of Al-Mahdi as has been mentioned in the description of him, or the time of 'Eesa Ibn Maryam's descent after he kills Dajjal. It has been narrated in the Saheeh that he shall kill the pig, break the cross and the wealth shall flow and will be plentiful to the extent that nobody will accept it. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

In Saheeh Muslim narrated from Jabir Ibn Samurah, he said: I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, "This religion shall remain established in the time of the twelve Caliphs, all of them are from the Quraish. Then liars shall appear before the Hour and a group of Muslims shall conquer the white castle, the castle of Kisra and I shall die to leave you until the Pond (i.e., till we meet at the Pond in Paradise)."

The Hadith of Abu Hurairah was mentioned earlier, "When Qaisar perishes there shall be no Qaisar after him, and when Kisra perishes there shall be no Kisra after him. By the One in Whose Hands is my soul, you shall spend their treasures in the way of Allah.”

Al-Baihaqi said, “The meaning is the disappearance of Qaisar’s kingdom from Sham and that it won’t stay like his kingdom over Rome after the Prophet’s statement when he venerated the note (that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) sent to him), “May Allah fortify his kingdom.” As for the kingdom of Persia, it completely disappeared due to his statement, “May Allah destroy his kingdom (because the king tore the note the Prophet sent to him).”

Narrated by Umar Ibn Al-Khattab when the clothes of Kisra, his sword, his belt, his crown and ornaments were brought, he clothed Suraqah Ibin Malik Ibn Ju’shum with them and said, “Say all praise is due to Allah, the One Who clothed a Bedouin from the nomadic land with the clothes of Kisra.”

Ash-Shafi’i said: He only clothed him with that because the Prophet said to Suraqah when he looked at his arms and said, “It is as though I can see you wearing the two bracelet of Kisra.” And Allah (SWT) knows best.

Narrated by Adiy Ibn Hatim, he said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Al-Heerah was shown to me like the canines of dogs and you shall indeed conquer it”. Then a man stood up and said: O Messenger of Allah, give to me her daughter Buqailah. He said: “She is for you.” So they gave her to him after that her father came and said: Do you sell her? He said: yes, He said: for how much? Judge what you want. He said: One thousand Dirhams. He said: I take it. They said to him if you say thirty thousand, sure take her. He said: Is its number more than one thousand.

Narrated by Damrah Ibn Habeeb that Ibn Zughb Al- Iyadi informed him, who said that Abdullah Ibn Hawalah Al-Azdi came to visit me and said, “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) sent us round Madinah to get some goods. We returned without gaining anything and he saw the tiredness on our faces.” He stood and said, “Don’t make them rely on me, then I become weak, and don’t leave them to their own vices lest they and then they become tired of them, and don’t make them rely on others for a living lest they feel they have grace over them.” Then he said, “Ash-Sham, the Roman and Persian empire will be opened for you and you shall have such-and-such in number from camels and from cows such-and-such in number, and from sheep such-and-such in number and to the extent that one of you will be given 100 Dinars and he will hate it (i.e., to accept it).” Then he placed his hand on my head or my forehead and said, “O Ibn Hawalah, when you see that the Caliphate has descended on the Sacred Land then earthquakes, trials and great matters will be near and the last Hour will be closer to the people than this hand of mine on your head.”

Narrated by Ibn Hawala that he said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “The affairs in the future shall be to the extent that there will be combined armies: an army will be in Ash-Sham, an army in Yemen and an army in Iraq.” Ibn Hawalah said, “What do you advise me if I reach that time.” He replied, “Go to Sham because it is the best place of Allah on the face of Earth and the best of His slaves come to it. And if you refuse, then go to Yemen and drink from your ghudar (water passages) because Allah has assured me with Ash-Sham and its people.”

Narrated by Abdullah Ibn Hawalah, he said: I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while he was sitting in the shade of a tree and he had a writer and he would dictate to him. He said, "Shall I not write your name, O Ibn Hawalah?" I said, "I don't know, whatever Allah and his Messenger have chosen for me." Then he turned away from me. Isma'eel said once in the first time, "Shall we write your name, O Ibn Hawalah?" I replied, "I don't know, regarding what, O Messenger of Allah?" He turned away from me and turned toward his writer and dictated to him. He said, "Shall we write your name, O Ibn Hawalah?" I replied, "I don't know, regarding what, O Messenger of Allah?" He turned away from me again and turned toward his writer and dictated to him. The narrator said, "Then I looked and suddenly found Umar's name in the book, so I thought that Umar isn't written except in good acts." The Prophet said, "Shall we write your name, O Ibn Hawalah?" I replied, "Yes." Then he said, "O Ibn Hawalah, what will you do in a trial that exits from the surface of the Earth as though it is the horns of a cow?" I said, "I don't know, whatever Allah and his Messenger have chosen for me." He said, "And what will you do in another trial that exits after it the first of it is like a rabbits' mound?" I replied, "I don't know, whatever Allah and his Messenger have chosen for me." He said, "Follow this." The narrator said, "And he was a man who was leaving at that time." He added, "So I set off and hurried and grabbed his shoulders and brought him to the Messenger of Allah in person and said, 'This man?'" He replied, "Yes." He added, "And it was Uthman Ibn Affan."

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Muslim, from Abu Hurairah that: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Iraq will refuse to give its Dirhams and Qafeez, Ash-Sham will refuse to give its Mudyun and its Dinars, and Egypt will refuse to give its Irdabb and its Dinars, and you shall return just as you began (i.e., there will come a time when the people of these countries will not give the Jizyah and land taxation and Islam shall become strange just as it began).” The flesh and blood of Abu Hurairah witnessed that.

Yahya Ibn Adam and others from the people of knowledge said: This is from the signs of Prophethood because he told of what Umar levied on the people of Iraq from Dirhams and Qafeez and that which he levied from Kharaj (land tax) upon Sham and Egypt before it happened. The people have differed over the meaning of his statement. “Iraq refuses...”, so it has been said that it means that they will accept Islam (people of those countries mentioned in the Hadith), then the taxes shall be relieved from them and AlBaihaqi saw this as the stronger opinion. It has also been said that they will disobey and not pay the Kharaj levied on them and for this reason he said, “and you shall return just as it (Islam) began,” i.e., you will return to your previous state just as occurred in the Hadith in Saheeh Muslim, “Islam began strange and it shall return to being strange so Tooba (tree in Paradise) is for the strangers.”

That which Imam Ahmad narrated supports this opinion from Jabir Ibn Abdullah, as he said the people of Iraq will not be brought to them soon: Qafeez and Dirhams. We said, “Where does that come from?” He replied, “From the non-Arabs. They shall refrain from giving that.” He said, “The people of Sham will soon not be brought to them Dinars and Mudyun.” We said where does that come from?” He said, “From the Roman Empire. They shall refrain from giving that.” He remained silent for a moment said, The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “There shall be a Caliph in the end of my Ummah (i.e., end of time) who shall gather wealth and not be able to count it.” Al-Jurairi said: So I said to Abu Nadrah and Abul-Ala, “Do you think that is Umar Ibn Abdul- Azeez?” They replied, “No.”

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from more than one way that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) made Dhul-Hulaifah the Meeqat for the people of Madinah, and AlJuhfah for the people of Sham and Yalamlam for the people of Yemen. In Saheeh Muslim, narrated from Jabir, the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "And Dhat Irq (Meeqat) for the people of Iraq." This is from the signs of Prophethood because he foretold the Hajj of the people of Sham, Yemen and Iraq.

Narrated by Abu Sa'eed, he said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "There shall come a time upon the people when a great congregation of people shall go to battle and they will be asked, 'Is there anyone from the Companions of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with you?' It will be said, 'Yes.' Allah will enable them to conquer it. Thereafter, there shall come a time upon the people when a great congregation of people shall go to battle and they will be asked, 'Is there anyone from the Companions of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with you?' It will be said, 'Yes.' Allah will enable them to conquer it. Thereafter, there shall come a time upon the people when a great congregation of people shall go to battle and they will be asked, 'Is there anyone from the Companions of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) with you?' It will be said, 'Yes.' Allah will enable them to conquer it."

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from Abu Hurairah, he said: We were sitting with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and Soorah Al-Jumu'ah was revealed to him: Also to others among them (Muslims) who have not yet joined them (but they will come) (Soorah Al-Jumu'ah: 3) A man said, "Who are they, O Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ?” He placed his hand on Salman Al-Farisi and said, “If faith (Eeman) was next Ath-Thurayya (a star) then men from them (this group mentioned in the Verse) would have reached it.” And this happened just as he mentioned.

In Saheeh Al-Bukhari from Abu Hurairah, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “The Prophets used to lead the Children of Isra’eel, each time a Prophet would die another Prophet would succeed him. There is no Prophet after me and there shall be Caliphs after me and there will be many.” They said, “So with what do you order us, O Messenger of Allah?” He replied, “With the first allegiance the second one becomes false (i.e., the chosen leader is the one who was given the allegiance first) and give them their rights because Allah is going to ask them what he made them in charge of.”

In Saheeh Muslim, narrated from Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood, he said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “There was no Prophet except that he had disciples guiding with his guidance and following his way. After them there are successors ”– and in another narration, “successive leaders,” – “they shall preach that which they don’t practice, and they shall do that which they aren’t ordered. So whoever strives against them with his hand then he is a believer, and whoever strives against them with his heart then he is a believer and whoever strives against them with his tongue then he is a believer and there is no mustard seed’s amount of Eeman beyond that.”

Narrated by Safeenah the Mawla of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), he said that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “The Caliphate after me is for 30 years, thereafter kingship.” In a narration, “Thereafter, Allah will give his kingdom to whomsoever he wills.” This is exactly what happened because Abu Bakr’s Caliphate was for two years and four months minus 10 nights, and the Caliphate of Umar was for 10 years, 6 months and 4 days. And the Caliphate of Uthman was for 12 years minus 12 days, and the Caliphate of Ali Ibn Abu Talib was for 5 years minus 2 months. I say: And the completion of the 30 is with the Caliphate of Al-Hasan Ibn Ali approximately 6 months in duration until he resigned in favour of Mu‘awiyah in the year 40 from the Hijrah as shall be explained later in detail.

Narrated by Abdur Rahman Ibn Abu Bakrah, he said: I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “the Caliphate of Prophethood is for 30 years. Then Allah will give his kingdom to whomsoever he wills.” Mu‘awiyah said, “We are pleased with kingship.”

This Hadith has a clear refutation against the Rafidah who deny the Caliphate of the three Imams (Abu Bakr, Umar and Uthman), and a refutation against the Nawasib (a sect that has enmity toward Ali and his descendants) from the tribe of Umayyah and those that followed the people of Ash-Sham in denying the Caliphate of Ali Ibn Abu Talib. If it is said: What is the reconciliation between this Hadith of Safeenah and the Hadith of Jabir Ibn Samurah mentioned earlier in Saheeh Muslim, “This religion shall remain upright among the people in the era of the 12 Caliphates, all of them are from Quraish?” The answer is that from the people are those that said: This religion shall remain upright until 12 Caliphates pass. After that the disarray occurred after them during the rule of the Umayyah tribe. Others said: Rather this Hadith contains a glad tiding of the existence of 12 just Caliphs from the Quraish even if not by succession, i.e., one following the other and the successive Caliphate only occurred with the Caliphate after the Prophethood for 30 consecutive years. Then after that there were the upright Caliphs from them was Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez Ibn Marwan Ibn Al-Hakam Al-Umawi. Many of the Imams have stated his Caliphate, justice and from being from the upright Caliphs to the extent that Ahmad Ibn Hanbal said about him, "Nobody's statement from any of the Tabi'een is an authority except for the statement of Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez." And from those that are mentioned from them is Al-Muhtadi Bi'amrillah AlAbbasi and Al-Mahdi whose existence has been prophesied at the end of time is from them also by means of text that he is from Ahlul-Bait (from the family of the Prophet) and his name is Muhammad Ibn Abdullah. He is not the one whose arrival is anticipated in Sirdab Samarra (a tunnel in Iran) because he doesn't exist, completely. Only the ignorant from the Rafidah are waiting for him. In the Saheehain from the Hadith of Az-Zuhri from Urwah, from 'A'ishah that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to 'A'ishah, "I wanted to call your father (Abu Bakr) and your brother and write a note lest someone says or wishes that other than Abu Bakr should be the Caliph." The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Yet Allah and the Believers refuse everyone apart from Abu Bakr to be the Caliph." This is what happened because Allah gave him leadership and all the Believers gave allegiance to him.

In Saheeh Al-Bukhari: A woman said, "O Messenger of Allah, what shall I do if I come and I can't find you?" It is as though she was implying death. He replied, "If you can't find me then go to Abu Bakr."

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain, from the Hadith of Ibn Umar and Abu Hurairah that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “While I was asleep I saw that I was standing over a well. Then I took what Allah willed from it and Ibn Abu Quhafah (Abu Bakr) came and drew a bucket or two in a weak manner, and Allah will excuse his weakness. Then Umar Ibn Al-Khattab came and the bucket turned into a very large one in his hands. I have never seen such might in a person in doing such strenuous work. He drank until he quenched his thirst and then gave (water) to all the people, who drank to their satisfaction.” Ash-Shafi‘i said, “The dreams of the Prophets are revelation and his statement, ‘And he drew in a weak manner,’ is (a parable of) his short era and near death and also his engagement in the wars against the apostates from conquering (the lands) that Umar obtained in his long era (as Caliph).”

I say: In the Hadith is a prophecy of their leadership and it occurred just as he mentioned in its exactness. And for this reason it has been mentioned in the Hadith that Ahmad, Tirmidhi, Ibn Majah and Ibn Hibban narrated from the Hadith of Rib‘i Ibn Hirash from Hudhaifa Ibn Al-Yaman from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that he said, “Follow the two that shall come after me; Abu Bakr and Umar.”

Narrated by Abu Dharr is the Hadith of Abu Dharr concerning the glorification of the stones in the hand of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), then Abu Bakr, then Umar, then Uthman and his statement after that “This is the Caliphate of my Ummah.”

It has been narrated in the Saheeh from Abu Musa, he said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) entered a place (the well of Arees) and hung his legs at the middle of the edge of the well. I said to myself that I will be the gatekeeper of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) so I sat behind the gate then a man came and said, "Open the gate." I asked, "Who are you?" He replied, "Abu Bakr." I informed the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he said, "Open for him and give him glad tidings of Paradise." Then Umar came and he said the same thing. Then Uthman came and he said, "Give him permission and give him glad tidings of Paradise after a trial that shall afflict him." He entered while saying, "Allah is the One Whose help is sought."

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Al-Bukhari from Anas, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ascended Uhud and Abu Bakr, Umar and Uthman were with him. Then the mountain shook with them. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) hit it with his feet and said, "Remain firm, (O) Uhud, because there is none but a Prophet, a Siddeeq (Abu Bakr) and two martyrs."

This is from the signs of Prophethood, for all of them were martyred but the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has been particularized out with the highest level of Messengership and Prophethood and Abu Bakr was particularized with the highest level of Siddeeqiyyah (believing in the Prophet).

It has been affirmed in the Saheeh the testimony for the 10 guaranteed Paradise; rather for all those that were part of the Bai'atur-Ridwan in the Year of Hudaibiyah and there were 1,400 Companions and it has been said 1,300 and even 1,500. All of them continued upon correctness and uprightness until he died.

It has been affirmed in Saheeh Al-Bukhari, the glad tidings for Okkashah that he is from the people of Paradise so he was killed as a martyr in the Battle of Al-Yamamah.

In the Saheehain, from Abu Hurairah that he heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “70,000 from my Ummah will enter Paradise without any reckoning with their faces glowing like the glowing of the moon on a clear night.” Then Okkashah Ibn Mihsan Al-Asadi stood dragging a tiger skin on him. He said, “O Messenger of Allah, ask Allah to make me from them.” Then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “O Allah, make him from them.” Then a man from the Ansar stood and said, “O Messenger of Allah, ask Allah to make me from them.” He replied, “Okkashah succeeded you to it.”

This Hadith has been narrated from many ways which provides certainty, i.e., in the authenticity of this Hadith and we shall mention it in the chapter “Description of Paradise.” We shall mention in the war against the apostates (Ahlur-Riddah) that Tulaihah Al-Asadi (false prophet) killed Okkashah as a martyr. Then Tulaihah recanted from what he claimed of Prophethood and repented to Allah. He came to Abu Bakr, performed the Umrah and his Islam was good means he became a righteous Muslim.

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from the Hadith of Abu Hurairah that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “While I was asleep I felt as though two bracelets were placed in my hand and I broke them. Then it was inspired to me in the dream to blow them, so I blew them and they flew. I interpreted it as two liars that shall exit, one (chief) from San‘a (Yemen’s capital) and the other (chief) from Al-Yamamah (Riyadh and surrounding areas).” It has been mentioned about the delegations that came to the Prophet that he said to Musailimah when he came with his people and began to say, “If Muhammad gives me this affair (leadership) after him then I will follow him.” The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood in front of him and said, “By Allah, if you ask me for this branch I wouldn’t give it to you and if you turn away, Allah will indeed slay you and I see in you that which I was shown about you (i.e., the dream he had).” It occurred likewise, Allah got him slaughtered and humiliated, and broke him and defeated him in the Battle of Yamamah just as he had killed Al-Aswad Al-Ansi in San’a, based upon what we will narrate, if Allah wills.

It has been affirmed in the other Hadith that Musailimah wrote after that to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him): In the Name of Allah, the Most Merciful, the Most Beneficent. From Musailimah the messenger of Allah, to Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah. Greetings to you. To proceed, I have been given a share in the matter after you, the cities are yours and the rural areas are mine. However, the Quraish are transgressors.

The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) wrote to him: In the Name of Allah, the Most Merciful, the Most Beneficent. From Muhammad the Messenger of Allah, to Musailimah the Liar. Peace on those that follow guidance. To proceed, the Earth belongs to Allah; He inherits it to whoever He wills and the end result is for the Believers.

Allah (SWT) made the end for Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and his Companions because they are the Muttaqoon (those that have fear of Allah) and they are the just Believers. Many Ahadeeth have been narrated from many ways from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) regarding the prophecy of the apostasy that occurred in the era of Abu Bakr. Abu Bakr As-Siddeeq fought against them with the armies of Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) until they returned to the religion of Allah in flocks, and to the sweet water of Eeman after it had turned bitter. Allah says: O you who believe! Whoever from among you turns back from his religion (Islam), Allah will bring a people whom He will love and they will love Him; humble toward the Believers, stern toward the disbelievers. (Soorah Al-Ma'idah: 54) The commentators of the Qur'an said: That was in reference to Abu Bakr and his Companions.

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from 'A'ishah in the story of the secret discussion the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) had with his daughter Fatimah and his mention to her that Jibreel used to listen to him recite the Qur'an once every year that he said, "And he made me recite the Qur'an twice this year and I see that is only because my time to die has come near." Then she wept, and he told her in whispers to her that she was head of the women in Paradise and he is the first of his family who is going to follow him (i.e. die), and this is what happened. Al-Baihaqi said, "The scholars have differed over how long Fatimah lived after the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him); it is said 2 months, and it is said 3 months, and it is also said 6 and 8 months." He added And the most authentic narrations is the narration of Az-Zuhri from Urwah from 'A'ishah that she said: Fatimah lived for 6 months after the death of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)." It is collected in the Saheehain.

And from the book, Signs of Prophethood, in the chapter about his informing of future unseen matters

From this is what has been affirmed in the Saheehain from ‘A’ishah, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “There were people that were inspired in the nations and if there is one in my nation it will be Umar Ibn Al-Khattab.”

Narrated by Tariq Ibn Shihab, he said, “We used to say that Umar Ibn Al-Khattab speaks from an angel’s tongue.” We have mentioned in the biography of Umar Ibn Al-Khattab many matters from his discoveries and that which he used to mention from matters of the unseen like the story of Sariyah Ibn Zunaim and that which is similar to it.

From this is what Al-Bukhari narrated from ‘A’ishah: The wives of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) gathered with him one day and said, “O Messenger of Allah, who is the first from among us going to catch up with you (i.e., who is going to die first then be with you)?” He replied, “The one who has the longest arm.” Sawdah was the one with the longest arm so she was the first to catch up to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). This is what has been mentioned in Al-Bukhari’s Saheeh that it was Sawdah.

That which Muslim narrated from ‘A’ishah Bint Talhah, from ‘A’ishah, the Mother of the Believers, that she mentioned the Hadith as mentioned above and in it Zainab had the longest arms from among us because she used to work with her hand and used to give in charity.” This is well-known among the historians that Zainab Bint Jahsh was the first of the Prophet’s wives to die. Al-Waqidi said: She died in Year 20 and Umar Ibn Al-Khattab prayed upon her (the funeral prayer).

I say: As for Sawdah then she died in the end of the rule of Umar Ibn Al-Khattab also, as mentioned by Abu Khaithamah.

From that is what Muslim narrated from the Hadith of Usair Ibn Jabir from Umar Ibn Al-Khattab regarding the story of Uwais Al-Qarani and the Prophet's mention of him that he is the best of the Tabi'een and that he had leprosy so he prayed to Allah and He removed it from him except for a place on his body the size of a Dirham. He was good to his mother and he commanded Umar to ask him to seek forgiveness from Allah for him. This man was found in the era of Umar upon the exact description that he mentioned in the Hadith. I have mentioned the ways of this Hadith and its words and the explanation of it in detail in that which I compiled from the Musnad of Umar Ibn Al-Khattab.

Narrated by Umm Waraqah Bint Nawfal: When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) fought in Badr, she said: "O Messenger of Allah, allow me to come with you in the battle, I shall nurse your wounded, so that Allah may grant me martyrdom." He replied to her, "Stay in your house, because Allah will grant you martyrdom." She used to be called Ash-Shaheedah (the Martyr) and she had memorized the Qur'an and asked the Prophet's permission to have a guard who would watch over her. She had a pact that her slave boy and girl be free when she dies, so they stood by her at night and smothered her in her blanket until she died. Umar woke up in the morning, stood in front of the people and said, "Whoever has knowledge about these two or saw them then he should bring them. Then he gave the order (after they were found) and crucified them and they were the first two who were crucified in Madinah.

From that is what Al-Bukhari narrated from A'waf Ibn Malik in his Hadith from him concerning the six signs after his death and a part of it: "Then a plague that will take you like Qu'asal-Ghanam (a disease that causes animals to excrete a fluid from its nose then die suddenly after)." This occurred in the era of Umar and that is the plague of Amawas (a village near Jerusalem) in the Year 18 and many from the most noble of Companions died from it, from them was; Mu'adh Ibn Jabal, Abu Ubaidah, Yazeed Ibn Abu Sufyan, Shurahbeel Ibn Hasanah, Abu Jandal Ibn Suhail Ibn 'Amr and his father and Al-Fadl Ibn Al-Abbas Ibn Abdul-Muttalib.

Narrated Mu'adh Ibn Jabal, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Six (matters) are from the signs of the hour; my death, the conquering of Jerusalem, a plague that will afflict the people like Qu'asal-Ganam, a trial its realm will enter the house of every Muslim, and that a man would be given 1,000 Dinars and dislike it and that the Romans will go to war and they will come to you with 80 big banners and under each banner there are 12,000 men."

Narrated Abdullah Ibn Hayyan that he heard Sulaiman Ibn Moosa mention that the plague afflicted the people in (shortly after) the Battle of Amwasah and Amr Ibn Al-As stood and said, "O people, this illness is impurity so stay away from it." Then Shurahbeel Ibn Hasanah stood and said, "O people, I have just heard the statement of your companion and, by Allah, I have embraced Islam and prayed and Amr is more misguided than the camel of his household. It is nothing other than a plague that Allah has sent so remain patient." Mu'adh Ibn Jabal stood and said, "O people, I have just heard the statements of these two companions of yours, this plague is a mercy upon you and the call (Da‘wah) of your Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). I indeed heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, ‘You are going to journey to Sham and reach called, the Land of Amwasah, and a plague is going to exit which leaves marks like the marks of ulcers, and then by it Allah causes you and your children to die as martyrs and purify your wealth.’ O Allah, you know that I heard this from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). So give Mu‘adh and his family the greatest portion from it and don’t cure him from it.” He added, “He was afflicted in his index finger and began to say, ‘O Allah, bless it because when you bless something which is small then it becomes big.’” Thereafter, his son was afflicted and he entered upon him and recited the Verse: (This is) the truth from your Lord. So be you not one of those who doubt. (Soorah Al-Baqarah: 147) So he replied: Insha’Allah (if Allah wills), you shall find me of As-Sabireen (the patient ones, etc.)” (Soorah As-Saffat: 102).

Narrated by Hudhaifah: Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said, “Who among you remembers the statement of Allah’s Messenger ((Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) about afflictions?” I said, “I know it as the Prophet had said it.” Umar said, “No doubt, you are bold. How did he say it?” I said, “A man’s afflictions (wrong deeds) concerning his wife, children and neighbors are expiated by (his) prayers, charity, and enjoining good.” (The sub-narrator, Sulaiman, added that he said, “The prayer, charity, enjoining good and forbidding evil.”) Umar said, “I did not mean that, but I ask about that affliction which will spread like the waves of the sea.” I said, “O chief of the Believers! You need not be afraid of it as there is a closed door between you and it.” He asked, “Will the door be broken or opened?” I replied, “No, it will be broken.” He said, “Then, if it is broken, it will never be closed again?” I replied, “Yes.” We were afraid to ask what that door was. We asked Masrooq to inquire, and he asked Hudhaifah regarding it. Hudhaifah said, “The door was Umar.” We further asked Hudhaifah whether Umar knew what that door meant. Hudhaifah replied in the affirmative and added, “He knew it as one knows that there will be a night before tomorrow morning. I informed him from Hadiths not fictitious stories.” The sub-narrator said, “We were afraid to ask him. We ordered Masrooq to ask him, and he asked: Who is that door. He replied: Umar.”

This is what happened after the murder of Umar, trials fell on the people and their existence was reaffirmed with the murder of Uthman Ibn Affan.

Narrated by Salim from his father, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) saw Umar wearing a garment and asked him, “Is your garment new or is it washed?” He replied, “Washed.” He said, “Wear new (clothes), and live praiseworthy and die as a martyr.” The narrator said: I think he said, “May Allah provide you with the pleasure of your eyes in this world and the hereafter.”

That which he mentioned in the Hadith occurred for indeed he was martyred while he was standing in Fajr prayers in his Mihrab (place where Imam stands) in the Prophet’s Mosque. The Hadith of Abu Dharr has been mentioned earlier concerning the glorification of the stones in the hands of Abu Bakr, Umar and then Uthman and then the Prophet’s statement after that, “This is the Caliphate of Prophethood.”

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from Abu Moosa Al-Ash‘ari: One day, I performed my Wudoo’ in my house and set forth with the determination that I would stick to Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and spend the whole day with him. I came to the Mosque and asked about him. The Companions told that he had gone in a certain direction. Abu Moosa added: I followed him inquiring until I came to Bi'r Arees (a well in the suburb of Al-Madinah). I sat down at the door till he had relieved himself and performed Wudoo'. I went to him and saw him sitting on the platform of the well with his shanks uncovered and his legs dangling in the well. I greeted him and returned to the door of the garden, saying to myself, "I will be the doorkeeper of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) today." Abu Bakr came and knocked at the door. I said; "Who is that?" He said: "Abu Bakr." I said, "Wait a moment." Then I went to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, "O Messenger of Allah! Abu Bakr is at the door seeking permission to enter." He said, "Admit him and give him the glad tidings of Jannah." I returned and said to Abu Bakr: "You may enter and Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has given you the glad tidings of (entering) Jannah." Abu Bakr came in and sat down on the right side of Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and suspended his legs into the well and uncovered his shanks, as the Messenger of Allah had done. I returned to the door and sat down. I had left my brother at home while he was performing Wudoo' and intending to join me. I said to myself: "If Allah intends good for him (i.e., to be blessed to come at this time and receive the glad tidings of entering Jannah), He will bring him here." Someone knocked at the door and I said, "Who is it?" He said, "Umar Ibn Al-Khattab." I said, "Wait a moment." I proceeded toward the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and greeted him and said, "Umar is at the door, seeking permission to enter." He said, "Let him in and give him the glad tidings of entering Jannah." I went back to Umar and said to him, “the Messenger of Allah has given you permission as well as glad tidings of entering Jannah.” He entered and sat down with Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) on his left side and dangled his feet into the well. I returned to the door and sat down and said to myself: "If Allah intends good for my brother, He will bring him here." Someone knocked at the door and I said, "Who is it?" He said, "Uthman Ibn Affan." I said, "Wait a moment." I went to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and informed him about his arrival. He said, "Let him in and give him glad tidings of entering Jannah together with a tribulation which he will have to face.” I came back to him and said, “You may enter; and the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) gives you the glad tidings of entering Jannah together with a tribulation that will afflict you.” He got in and saw that the elevated platform round the well was fully occupied. So he sat on the opposite side. Sa’eed Ibn Al-Musayyab, a sub-narrator, has reported: I interpreted it (the order in which they sat down) indicated the places of their burial they (the graves of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), Abu Bakr and Umar) were together and the grave of Uthman was away from theirs.

Another narration adds: Abu Moosa Al-Ash‘ari said: The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) ordered me to guard the door. When Uthman was told (about the misfortune) he praised Allah and said: "Allahul-Musta‘an (His help is to be sought).”

Narrated ‘A’ishah, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Call some of my Companions for me.” I replied, “Abu Bakr?” He said, “No.” I asked, “Umar?” He replied, “No.” I asked, “Uthman?” He said, “Yes.” When Uthman arrived (Al-Baihaqi) he said: He leaned and began to whisper to him and Uthman's color changed. Abu Sahlah said: When it was the day of the house (siege, i.e., when Uthman was murdered) and he was present therein, we said, "O Leader of the Believers, are you not going to fight?" He replied, "No, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has taken my promise and I am going to make myself patient upon that (i.e., not to fight and that he will be martyred)."

Al-Baihaqi narrated from the Hadith of Moosa Ibn Uqbah: My grandfather informed me, the father of my mother, Abu Habeebah, that he entered the house while Uthman was surrounded in it. And he heard Abu Hurairah seek permission from Uthman to speak, so he allowed him. He stood and praised Allah and extolled Him and said, I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, "You are going to experience trials and discord after me." Then someone from the people said to him, "Who shall we stick by, O Messenger of Allah? – or (he said): What do you command us?" He replied, "Stick to the faithful and his companions," and he was indicating to Uthman by that.

Narrated by Abdullah Ibn Masood from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that he said, "The affair of Islam shall remain intact for 35 years – or he said 36 or 37 years – and if they perish then the path of those who perished. If their religion remains then it will remain established for 70 years."

Al-Baihaqi said: It has reached me that in this was an indication to the tribulations that occurred, from them was the murder of Uthman in year 35. In this Hadith, there is an indication to the tribulations that occurred in the era of Ali. And he meant by 70 years the kingdom of Banu Umayyah tribe, because between the establishment of the kingdom for them and the time when callers appeared (in support of the Al-Abbasi movement) in Khurasan and the weakness of the Banu Umayyah's tribe is close to 70 years.

Another Hadith

Narrated by Umm Dharr, she said: When Abu Dharr's death was near, I cried. He said, "What causes you to cry?" I replied, "How can I not cry when you are going to die in an open plain of the earth and I have no strength to bury you and I don't have a sheet of cloth that is sufficient for you so I can cover you with it." He replied, "Don't cry, be happy because I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say to a group of people, 'A man from among you shall die in a plain of the earth, a group from the Muslims will witness him (shall pray on him).' There is none from that group except that he died in a village or a group and I am the one who die in a plain of land. By Allah, I am not lying nor was I told a lie."

The Hadith concerning his death is renowned in Ar- Rabadhah in the Year 33 in the Caliphate of Uthman and from those people that came to him while he was about to die was Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood and he is the one who offered prayers on him. He came to Madinah and lived for 10 days there and then he died.

Narrated Abud-Darda', who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "I am going to leave you (i.e. die) until the Pond. I will wait whoever comes to me from you then I will be disputed with about one of you, so I will say: He is from my Ummah. It will be said, 'Do you know what they did after you?'" Abud-Darda' said: I feared that I may be from those (who are repelled). I came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and mentioned that to him. He replied, “You are not from them.” The sub-narrator said: Abud-Darda’ died before Uthman died and before the tribulations occurred.

I say: Sa‘eed Ibn Abdul-Azeez said, that Abud- Darda’ passed away with two years remaining from Uthman’s Caliphate. And Al-Waqidi, Abu Ubaidah and others said that he passed away in Year 32.

A mention of his briefing concerning the tribulations toward the end of Uthman’s era and the Caliphate of Ali Ibn Abi Talib

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from Usamah Ibn Zaid: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) stood on a balcony (rooftop) of a high-rise building from the high-rise buildings of Madinah and said, “Do you see what I see? I indeed see the places where the tribulations will occur around your houses like the places where the rain drops.”

Imam Ahmad and Muslim narrated from Abu Idrees Khawlani: I heard Hudhaifah Ibn Al-Yaman say, “By Allah, I am the most learned of the people concerning every tribulation that is going to occur from now until the Hour. That isn’t because the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) informed me about something from that which he told me in secret and didn’t inform anyone else about it. But the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) mentioned when he was talking to a group that I was in. He was asked about the tribulations. “From them are three matters which will not leave anything from them, like the wind of summer. From them are small (matters) and from them are big (matters).” Hudhaifah said, “Then that group left and I stayed (i.e., to hear the rest of the story).” This is the wording of Ahmad.

Al-Baihaqi said: Hudhaifah died after the first tribulation, the murder of Uthman and before the last two tribulations (from the three mentioned in the Hadith above) in the era of Ali.

I say: Al-Ijli and others from the historians said: The death of Hudhaifah was after the murder of Uthman by 40 days, and he is the one who said, “If the murder of Uthman was any guidance, the Ummah would have milked yoghurt from it. However, it was misguided, so the Ummah milked blood from it.” He said, “If one of you was to move for what you did to Uthman then it would have been appropriate for him to dance.”

Narrated by Zainab Bint Jahsh, the wife of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), she said: The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) woke up from his sleep with a red face and said, “There is no god deserving of worship except Allah; woe be unto the Arabs from an evil that has drawn nearer. Allah has opened (a hole) from the barrier of Ya’jooj and Ma’jooj similar to this, and he made a circle with his index finger and his thumb and the finger next to it. I said, “O Messenger of Allah, are we going to perish when there are righteous people among us?” He said, “Yes, if evil increases.”

Abu Dawood As-Sijistani (Afghani) narrated in his Sunan from Sa‘eed Ibn Zaid, who said: We were with the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), when he mentioned a tribulation and magnified its affair. We said, “O Messenger of Allah, if this reaches us, it shall destroy us.” He replied, “Rather, being killed is enough for you (i.e., you won’t be destroyed).” Sa‘eed said, “I saw that my brothers were killed.”

Hudhaifah said, “There is no one from the people who will be affected by the tribulations except that I will fear for him with the exception of Muhammad Ibn Maslamah because I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, ‘The tribulations will not harm you’.” This Hadith has a broken chain (in effect, it is weak).

Ahmad narrated from Abul-Ash‘ath As-San‘ani, he said: Yazeed Ibn Mu‘awiyah sent me to Ibn Az- Zubair. When I arrived in Madinah I entered upon so-and-so – Ziyad (a sub-narrator) forgot his name – and said, “The people have done that which they have done, so what do you think?” He said, “My close friend Abul-Qasim (the Prophet) advised me, ‘If you reach any of these tribulations, then go to (Mount) Uhud and break the blade of your sword and sit in your house’. The Prophet added, ‘If anyone enters your house, go to your bed, if he goes to your bed, sit on your knees and say: Return with my sin and your sin so you become from the dwellers of the fire and that is the reward of the oppressors.’ I broke the blade of my sword and sat in my house.”

(Translator’s note: The tribulations which are referred to here are in reference to the fights and wars that occurred between the Muslims like in the time of Ali, Mu‘awiyah and Yazeed and also when the word Fitnah, i.e., tribulation mentioned earlier).

Narrated by Bint Uhban Al-Ghifari, Ali came to Uhban and said, “What prevents you from following me?” He said, “My close friend and son of your uncle (the Prophet) advised me, ‘There will be discord, tribulations and differences. If that happens, break your sword and sit in your house and take a sword made out of wood’.”

Narrated Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “There shall be tribulations, the one who sits is better than the one who stands. And the one who stands is better than the one who walks and the one who walks is better than the one who runs. Whoever exposes himself to it, he will be destroyed by it, and whoever finds a place of refuge or a safe place, he should stay in it”.

Narrated Ibn Mas‘ood from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that he said, “There will be injustice and matters that you disapprove.” They said, “O Messenger of Allah, then what do you command us?” He replied, “You fulfill the rights that are incumbent on you and you ask Allah for what (rights) belong to you.”

Narrated by Abu Bakrah from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “There will be a time of tribulations, then there will be a tribulation and the one who walks in it will be better than the one who runs. The one who sits will be better than the one who stands in it, the one who lies in it will be better than the one who sits. When it arrives, the one who has sheep should tend to his sheep, the one who has land should tend to his land, the one who has camels should tend to his camels.” A man from the people said, “O Prophet of Allah, May Allah sacrifice me for you, what if someone doesn’t have sheep, or land, or camels what should he do?” He replied, “He should take his sword, strike its edge on a stone and then escape if he can. O Allah, I have conveyed.” A man said, “O Messenger of Allah, May Allah sacrifice me for you, what if someone compels me by my hand and takes me to one of the two rows or one of the two parties – Uthman (the sub-narrator) had doubt (i.e., over: “one of the two rows or two parties”) – then a man stabs me with his sword and kills me, what shall be from my affair?” He said, “He will return with your sin and his sin and be from the dwellers of the fire.” This is what Muslim narrated from the Hadith of Uthman Ash-Shahham. This is a mention of the arrival of tribulations and many Ahadeeth have been narrated with this meaning.

Narrated by ‘A’ishah when she came to Al-Haw’ab (a place between Makkah and Al-Basrah), she heard the barking of dogs and said: I think I am going to return. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to us: “Who from among you (addressing his wives) will the dogs of AlHaw’ab bark at.” Az-Zubair said to her, “Are you going to return? Maybe Allah will bring peace between the people with you.” This chain is on the condition (in accepting authentic narrations) of the Saheehain and they didn’t narrate it.

Narrated by Ibn Abbas, he said: When the allies of Ali went to Basrah and knew that the people of Basrah had gathered for Talhah and Az-Zubair they found that difficult and felt it in their hearts. Then Ali said, “By the One besides Whom there is no god worthy of worship except Him, he will defeat the people of Basrah and kill Talhah and Az-Zubair. And 6,550 men from Kufah will face you or he said 5,500.” AlAjlah (a sub-narrator) had doubt (over this figure). Ibn Abbas said: That fell in my heart and when I went to Kufah I thought that I should have a look. If it was as he said then it was a matter that he heard and if not then it was propaganda. I met a man from the army and asked him, and, by Allah, he said that which Ali mentioned. Ibn Abbas said: And that is what the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) informed him.

Narrated by Abu Harb Ibn Abul-Aswad (Ad-Deeli) from his father – the Hadith of each of them merged with the other – he said, “When Ali and his companions approached Talhah and Az-Zubair and the rows (of the two sides) drew closer to each other Ali emerged upon the mule of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and shouted, "Call Az-Zubair Ibn Al-Awwam for me because I am Ali." Then Az-Zubair was called and came until the necks of their animals were tangled together, and Ali said: I ask you in Allah's Name, do you remember when the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) met you at such-and-such place and said, O Zubair, do you love Ali?" You said, "Shall I not love the son of my maternal uncle and the one who is on my religion?" He replied, "O Ali, do you love him?" I said, "O Messenger of Allah, shall I not love the son of my paternal aunt and the one who is on my religion?" The Prophet said, "O Zubair, you are going to fight him while you are going to be the wrong doer." Az-Zubair said, "Indeed, by Allah, I forgot it since I heard it from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and now I have remembered it. By Allah, I shall not fight you." Az-Zubair returned on his riding animal splitting the rows. His son Abdullah Ibn Az-Zubair came to him and said, "What is wrong with you?" He replied, "Ali reminded me of a Hadith I heard from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), I heard him say, 'You are going to fight him while you are the wrongdoer', so I shall not fight him." He asked, "So you came to fight? You only came to make peace between the people and that Allah reconciles this matter." He replied, "I have taken an oath not to fight him." He said, "Then free your slave Jarjis and stand till you reconcile between the people." He freed his slave and stood, and when the affair of the people differed he went on his horse.

It has been affirmed in the Saheehain from the Hadith of Hammam Ibn Munabbih, from Abu Hurairah, he said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “The Hour shall not be established until two great parties of the Believers fight, their call is one.”

These two parties are the people of the camel (i.e., the party of ‘A’ishah as she was on a camel and when it was struck the war ended) and the people of Siffeen (the place of the first battle between the allies of Ali and his opponents). That is because they both call to Islam and they only disputed over matters pertaining to leadership and considering the beneficial matters that benefit the Ummah and the general folk. Leaving the battle was more appropriate than making it, as was the school of thought of the majority of the Companions as we shall mention.

Narrated by Safwan Ibn Amr, he said: The people of Sham (party of Ali’s opposition) were 60,000 and 20,000 of them were killed and the people of Iraq (party of Ali) were 120,000 and 40,000 were killed from them.

However, Ali and his allies were the closest of the two parties to the truth than Mu‘awiyah. The allies of Mu‘awiyah were the ones who revolted against them as has been affirmed in Saheeh Muslim from Abu Sa‘eed Al-Khudri. He said: Somebody who is better than me informed me – i.e., Abu Qatadah – that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to Ammar, “The rebellious group shall kill you (and Ammar was from the allies of Ali).”

Narrated by Abu Ubaidah Ibn Muhammad Ibn Ammar Ibn Yasir from a Mawla of Ammar, who said: Ammar fell ill with an illness that made him weak, and he fell unconscious but recovered while we were crying around him. He asked, “Why are you crying? Do you fear that I will die on my bed? My beloved has informed me that the rebellious party shall kill me and my last provision in this world is diluted Laban.”

Narrated by Ibn Mas‘ood, he said: I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “When the people differ, Ibn Sumayyah will be with the truth.” It is well-known that Ammar was in the army of Ali in the Battle of Siffeen and the allies of Mu‘awiyah from Ash-Sham killed him and a man with the name of Abul-Ghadiyah killed him, and he was a man from the common folk. It has been mentioned that he was a Companion and Abu Umar Ibn Abdul-Barr and others mentioned him from the names of the Companions, and he was Abul-Ghadiyah Muslim. It has been said that his name was Yasar Ibn Uzaihir Al-Juhani from Quda‘ah and it is said he was a Muzani (tribesman), yet it has also been mentioned they were two. He lived in Ash-Sham and then moved to Wasit, Ahmad narrated a Hadith from him and he has another Hadith with another compiler of Hadith. The scholars said that he was the murderer of Ammar Ibn Yasir and he used to mention the description of his murder of Ammar and he wouldn’t be ashamed of that. We shall mention his biography when we speak of his murder of Ammar in the era of Mu‘awiyah in the Battle of Siffeen. Whoever has mentioned that he fought in the Badr has made an error.

Narrated by Hanzalah Ibn Khuwailid Al-Anazi, he said: While I was with Mu‘awiyah two men came disputing over the head of Ammar, every one of them said: I killed him. Abdullah Ibn Amr said, “Each of you should prefer that it was the other of you because I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, ‘The rebellious party will kill him.’ Mu‘awiyah said, “Take your insane (son) away from us, O Amr. Why are you with us?” Abdullah said, “My father complained about me to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he said, ‘Obey your father as long as he lives and don’t disobey him.’ I am with you but I won’t fight.”

Narrated by Abdullah Ibn Al-Harith Ibn Nawfal, who said, “I was traveling with Mu‘awiyah who was returning from Siffeen and along with him was Amr Ibn Al-As. Abdullah Ibn Amr said, “O my father, didn’t you hear what the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to Ammar, ‘Woe be unto you, O Ibn Sumayyah. The rebellious party shall kill you!’” He said: Then Amr said to Mu‘awiyah, “Do you not hear what he says?” Mu‘awiyah said, “The prohibition never ceases to come to me. Did we kill him? The ones that killed him are the ones who brought him (to us).”

The statement of Mu‘awiyah: “That the one who killed him is the one who brought him to our swords,” is a very far interpretation. Because that would imply that the leader of the army is the one who killed those who died in the way of Allah as he would have brought him to the swords of the enemies.

Amr said to Abdur Rahman Ibn Awf, “Do you not know that we used to read in the Qur’an: Strive hard in Allah’s cause as you ought to strive (with sincerity and with all your efforts that His Name should be superior) (Soorah Al-Hajj: 78) in the end of time just as you made Jihad at the beginning of time?” Abdur Rahman Ibn Awf said, “When is that, O leader of the Believers?” He replied, “When the tribesman of Umayyah become leaders and the tribesman of Al-Mugheerah become the ministers.” Al-Baihaqi mentioned it here and it is as though he was using it as an evidence for the chapter which he mentioned after it concerning the two arbitrators and the outcome of their affair.

Chapter concerning his briefing about the two arbitrators which were sent in the era of Ali

The two arbitrators were from the best of the Companions and they were Amr Ibn Al-As As-Sahmi from the party of Ash-Sham (Mu‘awiyah) and the second was Abu Moosa Abdullah Ibn Qais Al-Ash‘ari from the party of Iraq (Ali). They were only chosen in order to bring peace between the people and agree on a matter which entails ease for the Muslims and saving their blood. This is what occurred and because of them none was misguided due to them except for the Khawarij sect. Because they rebuked the two leaders for their use of arbitration, rebelled against them and labeled them as disbelievers. Ali Ibn Abu Talib fought against them and Ibn Abbas challenged their views. Then some of them returned to the truth yet the remainder continued until most of them were killed at An-Nahrawan and in areas from their defeated stances as we shall mention.

The Prophet’s mention of the exit of the Khawarij

Narrated by Abu Sa‘eed Al-Khudri: While we were with the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and he was distributing something, Dhul-Khuwaisirah came – and he was a man from the tribe of Tameem – and said, “Be just, O Messenger of Allah.” He replied, “Woe to you, and who will be just? You have indeed lost if I was not just.” Umar said, “O Messenger of Allah, give me permission so that I may strike his neck.” He replied, “Leave him, for he has companions and if you compare your prayers with theirs, and your fasting with theirs, you will look down upon your prayers and fasting in comparison to theirs. They recite the Qur'an but it doesn't leave their throats. They will leave this religion just as an arrow darts through the games body in which case, if the point of the arrow was examined, nothing will be found on it, and when its stem was examined, nothing will be found on it; and if its feathers are examined nothing will be found on it. The arrow has been too fast to be smeared by dung and blood. The sign by which these people are recognized will be a black man. One of his upper arms will be like the breast of a woman or like a moving piece of flesh and they will appear at a time of discord between the people (Muslims)." Abu Sa'eed said, "I testify that I heard this Hadith from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and I testify that Ali fought against them while I was with him, then he ordered that man be sought. He was searched for and brought and I saw that he was bearing the description that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) made about him."

Muslim narrated in his Saheeh from Abu Sa'eed, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "A group shall emerge at a time of discord between the Muslims, the nearest of the two parties to the truth shall kill it." He also narrated it from the Hadith of Abu Ishaq Ath-Thawri from Habeeb Ibn Abu Thabit from Ad-Dhahhak Al-Mishraqi from Abu Sa'eed from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him).

Muslim narrated from (Yusair) Ibn Amr, who said, "I asked Sahl Ibn Hunaif, did you hear the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) speak about those Khawarij?" He replied, "I heard him, then he pointed toward the East - and in another narration, toward Iraq - and said, 'A group shall emerge, they shall recite the Qur'an with their tongues yet it doesn't pass their throats. They shall leave this religion just as an arrow passes through its game, they have shaved heads.”

In the Saheehain from Ali: I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “A group will emerge toward the end of time, with new teeth (young people), with foolish aspirations, and they speak with words from the best of creation (i.e., the Prophet’s sayings), their faith will not pass their throats. Wherever you meet them then kill them, for lies a reward for the one who kills them till the Day of Resurrection.”

Narrated by Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas, he said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) mentioned the man with a (female) breast and said, “The devil of the mountain spring is like the one who tends to horses, a man from Bajeelah shall bring him.” He was known as: Al-Ashhab or Ibn Al-Ashhab; he is the sign of an oppressive people. Sufyan said: Ammar (Ad-Duhni) that a man brought him known as Al-Ashhab or Ibn Al-Ashhab.

Narrated by Abu Sa’eed, he said: I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “There will be someone from you who will fight in defense of the interpretation of the Qur’an just as I fought in defense of its revelation.” Abu Bakr said, “Is that me, O Messenger of Allah?” He replied, “No.” Umar said, “Is that me, O Messenger of Allah.” He replied, “No, but he is Khasifun-Na’l.” He intended Ali.

Narrated from Lahiq, he said, “The ones who rebelled against Ali in An-Nahrawan were 4,000 in iron. The Muslims mounted them and killed them and they didn’t kill from the Muslims except 9, and if you wish then go to Abu Barzah, for he will testify to that.”

I say: The narrations from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) concerning fighting against the Khawarij are Mutawatirah (many in number providing certainty in the narrations’ authenticity) because they are from many paths that provide certainty with the Imams of this field (i.e. Hadith). And its occurrence in the era of Ali is known by necessity among all the people of knowledge. And as for how they rebelled, and Ibn Abbas’ debating with them concerning that and the return of many of them to him then it shall be mentioned - if Allah wills - at its appropriate place.

The Prophet’s mention of Ali Ibn Abi Talib’s murder, and then it occurred exactly as he mentioned

Narrated Ammar Ibn Yasir, who said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said to Ali when he was made in charge of the Battle of Al-Ushairah, “O Abu Turab – because of what he saw upon him from Turab (soil) – shall I not inform you of the two worst men the people?” We said, “Indeed, O Messenger of Allah.” He replied, “Uhaimir Thamood, the one who slayed the she-camel (see Soorah Shams) and the one who will hit you on this, O Ali – (he pointed to) the top of his head – until this is wet from it,” (he pointed to) his beard (i.e. until his beard will be full of blood).

Narrated by Zaid Ibn Wahb, he said: The leader of the Khawarij came to Ali and said to him, “Fear Allah because you are going to die.” He replied, “No, by the One Who cleaves the grain and the One Who created human being, but I am going to be murdered from a blow to this which will dye this – and he pointed to his beard – is a fixed covenant and a decreed decree and he has failed who invents (such falsehood).”

It is renowned from Ali that when Abdur Rahman Ibn Muljam Al-Khariji stabbed him while he was exiting for the morning prayer at the door, Ali remained alive for two days since the stabbing and Ibn Muljam was held. Ali nominated his son Al-Hasan for being the Caliph as shall be mentioned and commanded him to lead the armies and said to him, “Ali doesn’t flow like the river.” When he died, Abdur Rahman was killed by means of Qawad (punishment for murder) and it is mentioned that he was killed by means of Hadd (punishment). And Allah (SWT) knows best. Al-Hasan Ibn Ali led the armies and went to Mu’awiyah as shall be explained later.

The Prophet’s mention of the event between Mu’awiyah and Al-Hasan and the nobility of his grandson Al-Hasan by resigning

Narrated by Abu Bakrah, he said: The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) took Al-Hasan Ibn Ali one day and he ascended the pulpit with him and said, “This son (grandson can be called “son” in Arabic) of mine is Sayyid (noble) and Allah will bring peace with him between two great parties of the Muslims.”

Al-Bukhari said from Al-Hasan (Al-Basri) in the book of Sulh (peacemaking):

By Allah, Al-Hasan Ibn Ali led large battalions like mountains against Mu’awiyah Ibn Abu Saufyan. Amr Ibn Al-As said (to Mu’awiyah), “I surely see battalions which will not turn back before killing their opponents.” Mu’awiyah who was really the best of the two men said to him, “O Amr! If they killed those and those killed these, who would be left with me for the jobs of the public, who would be left with me for their women, who would be left with me for their children?”

Then Mu‘awiyah sent two Quraishi men from the tribe of Abd-Shams called Abdur Rahman Ibn Sumurah and Abdullah Ibn Amir Ibn Kuraiz to Al-Hasan saying to them, “Go to this man (i.e. Al-Hasan) and negotiate peace with him and talk and appeal to him.” They went to Al-Hasan and talked and appealed to him to accept peace. Al-Hasan said, “We, the offspring of Abdul-Muttalib, have got wealth and people have indulged in killing and corruption (and money only will appease them).” They said to Al-Hasan, “Mu‘awiyah offers you so-and-so, and appeals to you and entreats you to accept peace.” Al-Hasan said to them, “But who will be responsible for what you have said?” They said, “We will be responsible for it.” Whatever Al-Hasan asked they said, “We will be responsible for it for you.” Al-Hasan concluded a peace treaty with Mu‘awiyah.

Al-Hasan (Al-Basri) said: I heard Abu Bakr say, “I saw Allah’s Messenger on the pulpit and Al-Hasan Ibn Ali was by his side. The Prophet was looking once at the people and once at Al-Hasan Ibn Ali saying, ‘This son of mine is a Sayyid (i.e., a noble) and may Allah make peace between two big groups of Muslims through him’.”

The affair occurred exactly how the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) mentioned. When the leadership was passed to Al-Hasan Ibn Ali and he led the armies of Iraq, and Mu‘awiyah came to him and they met at As-Siffeen based upon what Al-Hasan Al-Basri mentioned, then Al-Hasan Ibn Ali was inclined toward bringing peace. He addressed the people and resigned from leadership and gave it to Mu‘awiyah and that was in the Year 40. The leaders of the two armies gave allegiance to him and Mu‘awiyah became in charge of the Ummah. That year was named the Year of Congregation due to the unification in it upon one man. We shall narrate that in detail if Allah wills. The period of the continuous Caliphate that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) made an indication toward ended with this year, as was mentioned earlier in the Hadith of Safeenah, his Mawla, that he said, “The Caliphate after me is for 30 years, thereafter there shall be kingship,” and in another narration, “biting.” And it has been mentioned in another narration from Mu‘awiyah that he said, “We are pleased with it as kingship.”

The Prophet’s mention of the expedition of the sea to Cyprus which was in the era of Mu‘awiyah

Malik narrated from Anas Ibn Malik that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) would enter upon Umm Haram Bint Milhan (the aunt of the Prophet through weaning) and she would feed him and she was married to Ubadah Ibn As-Samit. Once he entered upon her and fed him and she sat and inspected his head for lice. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) slept, and when he woke laughing she said: “What causes you to laugh, O Messenger of Allah?” He replied: “I saw a people from my nation battling in the path of Allah riding the waves of this sea, kings on thrones” – or he said “like kings on thrones.” Ishaq (the sub-narrator) doubted. Then I said, “O Messenger of Allah, supplicate to Allah that He makes me from them,” so he prayed for her and slept again. Then he woke laughing again and she asked him, “What causes you to laugh, O Messenger of Allah?” He replied, “I saw a people battling in the path of Allah,” as he mentioned the first time. She said: “O Messenger of Allah, supplicate to Allah that He makes me from them.” He replied, “You are from the first of them.” Anas said: Then Umm Haram rode the sea in the era of Mu‘awiyah. She fell from her riding animal when she left the sea and died.

The Hadith has also been narrated by Al-Bukhari from Abdullah Ibn Yoosuf and by Muslim from Yahya Ibn Yahya, both of them from Malik.

Narrated by Khalid Ibn Ma‘dan that Umair Ibn Al-Aswd Al-Ansi informed him that he came to Ubadah Ibn As-Samit while he was staying on the coast of Hims (in Syria) in an apartment he owned with Umm Haram. Umair said: Umm Haram informed us that she heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “The first army from my Ummah to battle in the sea is granted Paradise.” Umm Haram said, “O Messenger of Allah, am I from them?” He replied, “You are from them.” She said: Then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “The first army that battles against the city of Qaisar shall have their sins forgiven.” I said, “Am I from them, O Messenger of Allah?” He said, “No.”

It is similar to the meaning of the first Hadith. Also in this Hadith there are 3 signs of the Prophethood. The first is the mention of the first battle at sea which occurred in Year 27 with Mu‘awiyah when he was on an expedition to Cyprus while he was a governor of Syria (Sham) under Uthman Ibn Affan. (Second) Umm Haram Bint Milhan who accompanied Ubadah Bin As-Samit - her husband, one of the chiefs in the night of the Aqabah (Pact). She died when she was returning from the battle although it has been mentioned in Sham according to what was mentioned earlier in the narration of Al-Bukhari. Ibn

Zaid said: She died in Cyprus in the Year 27. (Thirdly) the second battle was the Battle of Constantinople with the first army which went their and the leader (of the army) was Yazeed Ibn Mu‘awiyah and that was in Year 52, Abu Ayyoob, Khalid Ibn Zaid Al-Ansari was with them when he died there. And this woman was not with them because she had died before that in the first expedition.

So this Hadith has 3 signs from the signs of the Prophethood; the mention of the 2 battles, the mention that the woman is from the first and not the last and this is exactly what happened.

Information of the war against India

Narrated Abu Hurairah, who said: My close friend informed me the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “There will be an army from this Ummah that will go to Sind (an area now a province of Pakistan) and Al-Hind (India).” If I reach it and become martyred then so be it, and if I – he (Abu Hurairah) mentioned a word – return then I am Abu Hurairah the free whom was freed by him (the Prophet) from the fire.” Only Ahmad narrated this Hadith.

The Muslims went to battle in India at the time of Mu‘awiyah in Year 44 and there were events that occurred there which shall be explained later. And the great King Mahmood Ibn Subuktikeen of Ghaznah (Ghazni a city in modern Afghanistan) in around Year 400 invaded the land of India and he fought therein, he killed, captured, carried of slaves and gained war booty. He even entered Somanath and destroyed the biggest idol (Shiva) which they worshiped and he took its earrings and chains (or necklaces) and then returned safe and victorious as shall be mentioned.

Section concerning this Prophet’s mention of the war against the Turks as it happened

Al-Bukhari narrated from Abu Hurairah from the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), he said, “The Hour shall not be established until you fight a people with fur sandals (shoes) and until you fight the Turks, small-eyed red-faced Dhulful-Unoof (small short noses with raised tips). Their faces are like covered shields (i.e. round and full of meat) and you will find from the best of the people are those who have hatred for this affair (i.e. Islam) until he enters it. And the people are like earthly treasures (metals, gems, etc., i.e., they’re all different and also the true nature of them are never changed. That’s why he said after this); the best of them in Jahiliyyah (pre-Islamic ignorance) is the best of them in Islam. There shall come a time upon one of you that if he were to see me, then that would be more beloved to him than if he were to have similar to his family and his wealth.”

Narrated Abu Hurairah that the Prophet said, “The Hour will not be established until you fight Khooz and Kirman from the non-Arabs; with red faces, small (chisel type) noses and small eyes; their faces are like covered shields, their sandals (shoes) are from fur.”

The point is that fighting against the Turks occurred toward the end of the era of the Companions, they fought against the Great Al-Qan (or Khan) and severely destroyed him based upon that which we will mention when we come to it.

Another narration from Abdullah Ibn Salam

Narrated by Qais Ibn Ubad, he said: I was in the mosque when a man with the mark of humility came and prayed two short units (Raka‘ahs). The people said that he was a man from the people of Paradise. When he left, I followed him until he entered his house and I also entered with him and spoke to him. When he felt comfortable, I said to him, “The people said such-and-such when you entered the mosque.” He replied, “Allah is glorified, by Allah, it isn’t appropriate for anyone to say that which he doesn’t know and I shall inform you that I had a dream which I saw at the time of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) so I narrated it to him. I saw that I was in a green garden – Ibn Awn (sub-narrator) said that he mentioned its greenness and spaciousness – in the middle of it there was an iron pillar, the bottom of it was in the ground and the top of it was in the sky at the top of it there was a handhold. I was told to climb it. I said that I couldn’t. Then he brought a Minsaf – Ibn Awn said it means a young servant (Waseef) - and then he lifted my clothes from behind me and said to climb on it. I climbed till I took hold of the threshold and he said, “Hold on to the threshold.” Then I woke up and it was in my hand. The man said: I came to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and informed him. He said, “As for the garden, it is the garden of Islam and as for the pillar, it is the pillar of Islam. As for the threshold, it is the firm threshold, you shall die upon Islam.” He said, The narrator was Abdullah Ibn Salam.

The mention of the death of Maimoonah Bint Al-Harith in Sarif

Al-Bukhari narrated in At-Tareekh from Yazeed Ibn Al-Asamm, he said: Maimoonah became ill in Makkah and she didn’t have anyone from her nephews present. She said, “Take me out of Makkah because I am not going to die there. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) informed me that I won’t die in Makkah.” They transported her to Sarif under the tree which the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) first had intercourse with her in a tent (which they were in). She died there and her death was in Year 51 upon the correct opinion.

Narrations regarding the Prophet's mention of the murder of Hujr Ibn Adiy and his companions

Narrated by Ali Ibn Abi Talib, he said, "O people of Iraq, 7 people shall be killed from you at Adhra', their example is like the example of the companions of the ditches (see Soorah Al-Burooj)." Then Hujr Ibn Adiy and his companions were killed. Ya'qoob Ibn Sufyan said: Abu Nu'aim mentioned: Ziyad Ibn Sumayyah mentioned Ali Ibn Abi Talib on the pulpit when Hujr took some stones and those around him and threw them at Ziyad. He wrote to Mu'awiyah and said, "Hujr threw stones at me while I was on the pulpit." Mu'awiyah wrote to him that he should bring Hujr to him. When he was near Damascus he sent a group to him and met them at Adhra' and killed them.

Al-Baihaqi said, "Ali wouldn't say something like this unless he heard it from the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)."

Narrated Marwan Ibn Al-Hakam, who said: I entered with Mu'awiyah upon the Mother of the Believers, 'A'ishah, and she said, "O Mu'awiyah, you killed Hujr and his companions and you did that which you did. Do you not fear that I have a man hiding who is going to kill you?" He replied, "No, I am in the house of security. I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, 'Faith restricts Fatk (to kill someone when he is unaware), the Believer doesn't perform Fatk'. O Mother of the Believers, what do you need me for other than that?" She said, "Make peace." He said, "Then leave me and Hujr till we meet with our Lord."

Narration of Rafi' Ibn Khadeej

Al-Baihaqi narrated from Yahya Ibn Abdul-Hameed Ibn Rafi' from his grandmother that Rafi' Ibn Khadeej was hit – Amr (the sub-narrator) said I don't know which of the two he mentioned, either Battle of Uhud or Battle of Hunain – by an arrow in his chest. He came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and said, "O Messenger of Allah, take the arrow out for me." He said to him, "O Rafi' if you wish, I will pull the arrow and its head out together. And if you wish, I will pull the arrow out and leave the arrow head and testify for you that you are a martyr on the Day of Resurrection." He said, "O Messenger of Allah, pull out the arrow and leave the arrow head and testify for me that I am a martyr on the Day of Resurrection." The narrator said: He lived till the Caliphate of Mu'awiyah when his wound opened and he died after Asr (evening) prayers. This is what was mentioned in this narration that he died during the leadership of Mu'awiyah. Al-Waqidi and others mentioned that he died in Year 73 and it is also mentioned 74, yet Mu'awiyah's death was in Year 60 without any controversy. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

The Prophet's informing of trials that will occur after his death at the hands of youngsters from Banu Hashim

Abdullah Ibn Mas'ood narrated that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: "Soon others will be preferred to you, and there will be things which you will not like." The companions of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked, “O Allah's Messenger! What do you order us to do (in this case)?” He said, “(I order you) to give the rights that are on you and to ask your rights from Allah.” (Recorded by Al-Bukhari)

Abu Hurairah related that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “This branch from Quraish will ruin the people.” The companions of the Prophet asked, “What do you order us to do (then) O Messenger of Allah?” He said, “I would suggest that the people keep away from them.” (Recorded by Al-Bukhari)

Sa‘eed Al-Umawi narrated that he was in the company of Marwan and Abu Hurairah, when he heard Abu Hurairah say: I heard the trustworthy, truly inspired one (i.e. the Prophet) say, “The destruction of my followers will be brought about by the hands of some youngsters from Quraish.” Marwan asked, “Youngsters?” Abu Hurairah said, “If you wish, I would name them: They are the children of so-and-so and the children of so-and-so.” (Recorded by Al-Bukhari)

Abu Hurairah narrated that he heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “The destruction of my followers will be brought about by the hands of some youngsters.” (The subnarrator from Abu Hurairah) said: Marwan who was in our midst in the gathering and had not yet held any political position said, “May Allah curse those youngsters!” It was then that Abu Hurairah said, “If I wish to mention then and say they are the children of so-and-so and the children of so-and-so I would do so.” (The sub-narrator said): My father, my grandfather and I then visited Banu Marwan after they had gained authority and we found them pledging allegiance to young boys. There were among these some who pledged allegiance while he was still a baby. My grandfather then told us, ‘Perhaps, these are those I heard Abu Hurairah mention’.” (Recorded by Ahmad)

In another version by Ahmad, Abu Hurairah narrated: I heard my beloved one Abul-Qasim (the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)) say: “The destruction of my followers will be brought about by the hands of some thoughtless youngsters from Quraish.”

Abu Sa‘eed Al-Khudri narrated that he heard the Messenger of Allah (May Allah be pleased with him) say: “There will be successors after the passage of sixty years who will neglect prayer and pursue desires; so they are going to meet evil. Then there will be successors who will read the Qur’an but it will not go beyond their collarbones. Three kinds of people will read the Qur’an: a true believer, a hypocrite and a sinner.” Basheer (a sub-narrator) asked Al-Waleed (another sub-narrator): What do these three mean? The latter replied: “The hypocrite disbelieves in the Qur’an; the sinner turns the Qur’an into a source of earning a living and the believer believes in (and acts upon) it.” (This version is exclusively recorded by Ahmad)

Ash-Sha‘bi said: When Ali Ibn Abi Talib returned from Siffeen, he addressed the people saying, “O you people, do not detest the commandership of Mu‘awiyah. For, if you lose him, then you will see heads being removed from their bases like colocynth.”

Abu Hurairah would stroll in market of Al-Madinah and would say, “O Allah! Do not keep me alive till the sixtieth year! It is better for you to hold on to Mu‘awiyah’s temples. O Allah, do not keep alive till the time youngsters will assume leadership.”

It was reported that Abu ‘Ubaidah Ibn Al-Jarrah narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “This affair (of the Ummah) shall remain just and standing upon justice until it will be defiled by a man from Banu Umayyah.” (This narration is weak due to interruptions in its chain of transmitters)

Abu Dharr narrated that he heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say: “The first person to change my way is a man from Banu Umayyah.” Al-Baihaqi said, “It is likely that the man being referred to in this Hadith is Yazeed Ibn Mu‘awiyah Ibn Abi Sufyan. And Allah (SWT) knows best.

People have varying stances concerning Yazeed Ibn Mu‘awiyah. Some love him and are loyal to him; and these are people of Sham (especially) from among the Nawasib. As for the Rawafid, they ferociously attack him and invented many lies against him. Many or most of these Rawafid even go as far as calling him an atheist, but he was not! Some people neither love him nor insult him for they knew that he was not an atheist as he is being falsely portrayed by the Rawafid. They do not love him because of heinous occurrences and extremely repulsive events that took place during his caliphate. Among the most atrocious of these events was the murder of Husain Ibn Ali at Karbala. However, he knew nothing about this murder and was, possibly, neither pleased nor grieved by it. Another instance was the event of Harrah.

Murder of Husain Ibn Ali

Abdullah Ibn Wahb Ibn Zam‘ah related on the authority of Umm Salamah who narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) one day slept and then woke up, disturbed. He slept again and woke up but less disturbed. He then slept again and woke while holding a handful of red sand which he twisted in his hand. I said, “O Messenger of Allah, what is this sand?” He said, “(Angel) Gabriel told me: This (meaning Husain, the Prophet’s grandson) would be killed in the land of Iraq. Then I said to Gabriel: Show me the sand from the land in which he would be killed. And this is the sand’.”

Abdullah Ibn Abbas (May Allah be pleased with him) narrated that Al-Husain (the Prophet’s grandson) was sitting in the bosom of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) when Gabriel asked him, “Do you love him?” The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) responded, “How should I not love him while he is the fruit of my heart?!” It was then that Gabriel said, “But your followers will kill him. Should I show you the place of his grave?” He then took a handful of red dust.

Ummul-Fadl Bint Al-Harith i narrated that she came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and told him, “O Messenger of Allah, I had a terrible dream last night.” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked, “What is it?” She said, “I saw it in my dream that a part of your body was cut off and put in my lap.” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “You have seen something good. That is Fatimah! If Allah wills, she will have a baby boy that will be put in your lap (as his wet-nurse).” Later, Fatimah had Husain and he was put in my lap as prophesied by the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). One day, I entered upon the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and put Husain on his lap. Then I turned around and saw the tears rolling down from the Prophet’s eyes. I said, “O Messenger of Allah, may my father and mother be sacrificed upon you! What happened?” He said, “Gabriel came to me and informed me that my followers would kill this son of mine.” I said, “Is that so?” He said, “Yes, and he even brought me the red dust of the place in which he would be killed.”

She also narrated that she came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) and told him, “I saw in my dream that in my house or my room a part of your body.” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Allah willing, Fatimah will give birth to a baby boy that you will nurse.” As it turned out, Fatimah had Husain and he was given to me to nurse and I nursed him along with Qutham. One day, I brought him to Allah’s Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). He took him and placed him on his chest and the boy urinated. His lower garment was wetted by the urine and then rapped the boy’s shoulders. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) then said, “You have hurt my son, may Allah reform you!” Or he said, “May Allah have mercy upon you!” I then asked him to give me his garment so that I could wash it but he said, “It is only a baby girl’s urine that is washed off. As for a baby boy’s, water is only sprinkled on it.”

Ibn ‘Abbas (May Allah be pleased with him) narrated that he saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) in a dream, dusty and disheveled and holding a bottle of blood. He said, “May my father and mother be sacrificed on you, O Messenger of Allah! What is this?” He said, “This is the blood of Husain and his companions. I have been collecting it all day.” Ibn ‘Abbas continued, “We enumerated that day and we found that he was killed on that day. May Allah be pleased with him.”

Qatadah said, “Al-Husain was killed on Friday, the Ashoora’ day, in the Year 61 A.H. He was aged fiftyfour years, six months and fifteen days.”

The reason for killing Husain was that the people of Iraq wrote a letter to him, requesting him to come to them so that they could pledge allegiance to him as the caliph. He received many letters in this regard from the general public and from his cousin, Muslim Ibn Aqeel. When ‘Ubaidullah Ibn Ziyad, whom Yazeed Ibn Mu‘awiyah appointed as the governor of Iraq knew about this letter, he sent for Muslim Ibn Aqeel and had him beheaded. He then threw his body from atop of his palace to the public square. This caused commotion and disunity among people.

Meanwhile, Husain who had mobilized an army from Hejaz in preparation for marching to Iraq did not know what had happened to Muslim Ibn Aqeel. So, he set out in the company of about three hundred strong convoy, comprising members of his household and his followers. Some of the Prophet’s companions such as Abu Sa‘eed Al-Khudri, Jabir Ibn Abdullah, Ibn Abbas and Ibn Umar warned Husain against going to Iraq but he did not listen to them.

Abdullah Ibn Umar offered Husain the best advice on this matter. He tried in vain to convince him that he would not achieve his goal but Husain rejected the advice.

Ash-Sha‘bi said: Ibn Umar came to Al-Madinah and he was informed that Husain Ibn Ali had left for Iraq. He caught up with him after a journey of about two or three nights. He asked him, “Where are you going?” Husain said, “Iraq.” And there were books and scrolls with him. Ibn Umar advised, “Do not go to these people.” Husain then showed him the books and scrolls and said, “These are their books and scrolls containing their messages and pledges of allegiance.” Thereupon Ibn Umar said to him, “Allah gave His Prophet Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to choose between the wealth of this world and that of the Hereafter, and he chose that of the Hereafter and did not want that of this world. And you are of the blood of the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). By Allah! None of you will ever attain this (position of worldly authority). For, Allah has not diverted away from you but for what is better for you. So, go back.” But Husain refused and repeated, “These are their books and scrolls containing their messages and pledges of allegiance.” It was then that Ibn Umar hugged him and said, “I wish you Allah’s protection as a victim of murder.” In actuality, the understanding of Abdullah Ibn Umar that none of the members of the Prophet’s household had never assumed – and will never assume – the absolute and independent political authority and complete control was correct and accurate. Uthman Ibn Affan and Ali had also made the similar statement that none of the members of the Prophet’s household will ever attain absolute political authority.

As for the Fatimid caliphs that once controlled Egypt, most scholars are of the opinion that they are just pretenders (and not descendants of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)). Ali was a member of the Prophet’s household, yet he never enjoyed complete authority as his three predecessors had done. Neither did his control cover all parts of the Muslim lands. In addition to this, things were made difficult for him.

As for his son Hasan, when he came with the army of his father and he and the people of Sham reached an agreement and truce and he saw that it would be in the interest of all to forgo authority, he relinquished it for the sake of Allah, and in order to preserve the blood of the Muslims. May Allah reward him with good and be pleased with him.

When Ibn Umar advised Husain against going to Iraq and his advice was rejected, he hugged him and bade him farewell saying, “I wish you Allah’s protection as a victim of murder.” What Ibn Umar had expected to happen did occur. For, when Husain mounted his ride and continued with his journey to Iraq, Ubaidullah Ibn Ziyad sent a detachment of four thousand men to accost him under the leadership of Amr bin Sa’d Ibn Abi Waqqas, who had asked Ubaidullah to excuse him but the latter refused to do so. The two groups met each other at a place called Karbala. Then Husain and those who were with him sought refuge at a place where reeds were grown. And they stayed behind it.

The two groups faced each other and Husain asked members of the other group to grant him one of the three things: to allow him to go back to where he came from, to be sent to one of the warfronts where he could fight in the way of Allah and get martyred or to be left to go to Yazeed Ibn Mu’awiyah and surrender himself to him to take whatever decision he wished regarding him. They refused to grant him any of the three options and they told him that they could only take him to Ubaidullah who could then decide to do whatever he wanted with him.

Husain flatly rejected the idea of meeting Ubaidullah and, as a result, fighting ensued between him and Ubaidullah’s troops which culminated in his being killed – may Allah have mercy upon him. The soldiers then brought Husain’s head to Ubaidullah who started scratching the former’s incisors with a rod he was holding. Anas Ibn Malik was present there; and he said rather disgustingly, “You this! Take off your rod. On many occasions, I had seen the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) kissing these incisors!”

Ubaidullah then commanded that members of Husain’s family and the remnants of those who were with him be sent to Yazeed in Syria. There was also a report that he sent with them Husain’s head that was put in front of Yazeed.

People composed many eulogies on Husain and the eulogy mentioned by Al-Hakim An-Naisaboori, who has some Shiism in him, is one of the best. The meaning of the eulogy goes thus:

They brought your head, O son of Muhammad’s daughter, drenched in his own blood;

By killing you, O son of Muhammad’s daughter, it is as if they had publicly and intentionally killed a Messenger!

They killed you thirstily without having any consideration for the Qur’an or its meaning;

They are glorifying Allah for your being killed while in their murdering you, they have murdered glorification of Allah and proclamation of His oneness.

The event of Harrah that also occurred during the time of Yazeed

Ayyoob Ibn Basheer Al-Mu‘awi narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) went out in one of his journeys. When he arrived at the Harrah of Zuharah, he halted and made Istirja‘. This troubled those who were with him; for they thought that the Istirja‘ had to do with their journey. Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said, “O Messenger of Allah, what did you see?” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) answered, “It has nothing to do with this journey of yours.” His Companions then said, “Then what is the matter, O Messenger of Allah?” The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) answered, “The best ones from among my Companions will be killed in this Harrah.” This is a Mursal report.

Regarding the following Verse: “And if the enemy had entered from all sides (of the city), and they had been exhorted to Al-Fitnah (i.e. to renegade from Islam to polytheism), they would surely have committed it.” (Soorah Al-Ahzab 33:14)

Ibn Abbas said, “The interpretation of this Verse only came to light exactly sixty years (after Hijrah).” He then said, quoting a part of the Verse, “They would surely have committed it.”

Abu Dharr narrated: “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) asked me, ‘O Abu Dharr, what will you do when you see people killing one another so much so that there is lot of bloodshed?’ I said, ‘Allah and His Messenger know best.’ He then said, ‘You should sit down in your house and shut your door.’ I said, ‘What if I am not left alone?’ The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, ‘Then join the ones you belong to and stay with them.’ I said, ‘Should I take up my weapon?’ He said, ‘Then you will be involved in what they are doing. But if you fear that that you might be terrified by the clinging of the sword, then cover your face with the edge of your garment so that the killer to bear the burden of his sin and that of yours.’”

The cause of the battle of Harrah is that a delegation from Al-Madinah went to Yazeed in Damascus who honored them and gave them generous gifts. He gave their leader, Abdullah Ibn Hanzalah close to a hundred thousand Dirhams. When members of this delegation returned to their people, they informed them of religious violations that Yazeed used to commit such as consumption of alcohol and immoralities that such violations led to, the greatest of which is delaying prayers until their times expired as a result of drunkenness. They, therefore, resolved to stop recognizing him as the commander of the faithful, and an announcement to that effect was promptly made near the Prophet's pulpit.

When Yazeed heard what the people of Al-Madinah had done, he sent a detachment of fighters under the commandship of a man called Muslim Ibn 'Uqbah – the righteous predecessors call him "Musrif" Ibn 'Uqbah – to quell the rebellion. When he arrived at Al-Madinah with his troops, he launched a ferocious attack on the city for three days during which he killed lots of people that hardly any of its residents was able to escape. Some scholars from among the righteous predecessors claim that about a thousand virgins were raped during the invasion.

Imam Malik said, "During the war of Harrah, seven hundred men from among the memorizers of the Qur'an were killed." The narrator from him said, "I thought he said that three of them were Companions of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him)." This took place during the caliphate of Yazeed.

Laith said, "The war of Harrah took place on the 26th (or 27th) of Dhul-Hijjah, Year 63 A.H."

Musrif Ibn 'Uqbah then went to Makkah with the intention of killing Abdullah Ibn Zubair who had escaped from pledging allegiance to Yazeed. It was at this time that Yazeed died and Ibn Zubair was becoming more powerful in his control of Hejaz. He then seized Iraq and Egypt.

After the death of Yazeed, pledge of allegiance was given to his son Mu'awiyah Ibn Yazeed. He was a righteous man but he did not rule for long. He ruled only for forty or twenty days, according to some reports. May Allah have mercy upon him. Marwan Ibn Hakam then seized Syria and ruled it for nine months and died. He was succeeded by his son, Abdul-Malik who faced a stiff challenge from Amr Ibn Sa'eed Ibn Al-Ashdaq who was the governor of Al-Madinah during the caliphate of Mu'awiyah, his son Yazeed and Marwan Ibn Hakam. After the death of Marwan, Amr Ibn Sa'eed claimed the latter had made a will that he should assume the caliphate after him. So he made things difficult for Abdul-Malik that he had to wage a war against him until he killed him in the Year 70 A.H. or 69 A.H. according to some narrations.

The reign of Abdul-Malik continued until he was finally able to defeat Ibn Zubair in the Year 73 A.H. Abdullah Ibn Zubair was killed in Makkah by Hajjaj Ibn Yoosuf Ath-Thaqafi with the command of Abdul-Malik after a long siege in which the Ka'bah was struck with ballista just because Ibn Zubair was taking shelter in the Sacred Mosque. Hajjaj carried on his siege and attack on the mosque until he finally killed Ibn Zubair.

After the murder of Ibn Zubair, Abdul-Malik entrusted the caliphate to his four sons after him: AlWaleed, Sulaiman, Yazeed and Hisham, in that order.

Abu Hurairah narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Seek refuge with Allah from the (occurrences of) the beginning of year seventy (A.H.) and from leadership of youngsters."

The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) also said, “This world will not come to an end before the appearance of a wicked son of a wicked one.”

Abu Hurairah also narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “The (average) age of my followers is between sixty and seventy years.”

Muhammad Ibn Yazeed Ibn Abi Ziyad Ath-Thaqafi said: Qais Ibn Kharashah and Ka‘b marched together until they arrived at Siffeen. Ka‘b Al-Ahbar halted and spoke about many Muslims who were killed there.

He also mentioned that the incidence was mentioned in the Torah.

Muhammad Ibn Yazeed also reported from Qais Ibn Kharashah that he pledged allegiance to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) that he would always say the truth. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) then told him, “Qais, perhaps, you will live long and reach a time when you will be under the control of a ruler you will not be able to say the truth in their presence.” Qais replied, “By Allah! I will not pledge allegiance to you on something except that I fulfill it.” Thereupon the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Then no human being can harm you.”

So Qais lived till the time of Ubaidullah Ibn Ziyad Ibn Abi Sufyan who held something against him and summoned him. When he was brought to him he said, “Are you the one claiming that no human being can harm you?” Qais answered in the affirmative. Ubaidullah then said, “Today, you will know that you are a liar!” He then called for the tormentor. (Before the arrival of the tormentor, Qais slanted and died!)

Another Miracle

Abbas Ibn Abdul-Muttalib said that he sent his son Abdullah to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) concerning an affair. When Abdullah arrived at the Prophet's place, he found a man with him, so he turned back and did not talk to him due to the position of that man. When Abbas met the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), he told him about that. The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) then said, "Did he really see the man?!" Abbas answered in the affirmative. The prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) then said, "Do you know that man? He is (Angel) Gabriel. Abdullah Ibn Abbas will not die until he loses his eyes; but he will be endowed with great knowledge."

The prophecy came true, for Abdullah Ibn Abbas died in the Year 68 A.H. after he had become blind.

Unaisah Bint Zaid Ibn Arqam narrated on the authority of her father that the Messenger of Allah entered upon her father Zaid to visit him when he was sick. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) told Zaid: "There is nothing wrong with you concerning your ailment. But are you going to do if you are endowed with long life after me and you go blind?" Zaid said, "Then I will expect my reward from Allah and have patience." The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Then you will enter Paradise without reckoning." As it turned out, Zaid Ibn Arqam became blind after the death of Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him). He then regained his vision and became blind again and then died.

Jabir Ibn Samurah narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Thirty liars and charlatans will appear before the establishment of the Hour; each of them will claim that he is a prophet.”

Abdullah Ibn Zubair narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “The Hour will not be established before the appearance of thirty liars. Among them are: Musailimah, Al-Ansi and Al-Mukhtar. The worst Arab tribes are Banu Umayyah, Banu Haneefah and Banu Thaqeef.”

It is reported on the authority of Asma’ Bint Abi Bakr (May Allah be pleased with him) that she told Hajjaj Ibn Yoosuf: “The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) has informed us that a liar and a great slaughterer shall appear from the tribe of Thaqeef. We know the liar already. As for the great slaughterer, I have no doubt that it is you!”

Abul-Muhayyah related from his father who said: After Hajjaj Ibn Yoosuf had killed Abdullah Ibn Zubair, he visited Asma’ Bint Abu Bakr (Abdullah’s mother) and said, “O mother, the commander of the faithful commanded me that I should treat you well. What can I do for you?” Asma’ said, “I am not your mother. But I am the mother of the crucified one. I do not need anything from you. But wait and let me tell you what I heard the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say. He told us that in Thaqeef, there would be born a great liar and a great murderer. The liar we have seen, and as far as the murderer is concerned, I do not find anyone else besides you.” Hajjaj then said, “Great murderer of the hypocrites.”

Abdullah Ibn Umar narrated that he heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say: “A great liar and a great slaughterer will appear from among the tribe of Thaqeef.”

There are successive reports about Mukhtar Ibn Abi Ubaid the liar. He used to claim that he was a prophet and that Angel Gabriel brought him revelations. Ibn Umar, who was the husband of Mukhtar’s sister, was told that Mukhtar claimed that he received inspiration. The response he gave was: “Yes, he is correct. For, Allah says: And certainly, the Shayateen (devils) do inspire their friends (from mankind) to dispute with you. (Soorah Al-An‘am 6:121)”

Rifa‘ah Ibn Shaddad said: “I was planning to do something against Mukhtar, the liar. So, one day, I entered upon him and he said to me, ‘Angel Gabriel had just got up from this chair!’ I made for my sword to kill him but I remembered a Hadith that Amr Ibn Al-Hamiq Al-Khuza‘i related to me that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, ‘If a man trusts another man concerning his life and the latter killed the former, a flag of treachery would be raised for him on the Day of Resurrection.’ I then refrained from carrying out my plan.”

Abu Adhabah related: “A man came to Umar Ibn Al-Khattab and informed him that the people of Iraq had pelted their leader with stones. So he set out angrily and led us in a prayer in which he forgot to perform some of its rites. The people started saying, ‘Subhanallah! Subhanallah!’ When he concluded the prayer, he faced the people and said, ‘Who among you is from Syria?’ A man got up and another man also got up. I then got up as a third or fourth person. Umar then said, ‘O you people of Syria! Get ready for the people of Iraq for Shaitan has laid egg there and hatched. O Allah! They have caused me confusion, so cause them confusion and hasten their punishment by making the Thaqafi boy their ruler who will rule them by the law of the age of ignorance, will not accept any good deed done by the righteous ones among them and will not forgive the mistakes done by anyone of them.”

Al-Hasan narrated that Ali Ibn Abi Talib said about the people of Kufah: “O Allah, as I have trusted the people of Kufah and they betrayed me and I was sincere with them and they acted treacherously toward me, impose on them an excessively cruel and arrogant youngster from Thaqeef who would usurp their wealth and judge them in the way of the time of ignorance.” At the time of Hasan’s death, Hajjaj was not yet born. This narration is, however, interrupted.

Ali was reported to have said, “The overbearing youngster who will rule the cities will usurp their goods, kill their noble members and strike terror in their hearts. He will cause them insomnia and Allah will impose him on those who claim to be Ali’s supporters.”

Habeeb Ibn Abi Thabit narrated that Ali said to a man, “You will not die before you meet the Thaqeef boy.” He was asked, ‘Who is the youngster of Thaqeef, O commander of the faithful?’ He said, “It will be said about him on the Day of Resurrection, ‘One of the corners of Hell will be occupied by a man who is about twenty or twenty odd years of age. (In this world), he will not leave out a sin except that he commits it. Even if there are no more sins to be committed and nothing is left but a closed door that could be broken, he will break it. He will kill those who disobey with those who obey him.” This narration is full of irregularities; and its attribution to Ali is questionable.

Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez said, “If each nation was to present out its evil one, and we also present Hajjaj as our devil one, we would certainly defeat them.”

Abu Bakr Ibn Ayyash narrated from Asim Ibn An-Najood who said, “There was no sin against Allah that Hajjaj did not commit.”

Hajjaj died in the Year 95 A.H.

The Prophetic allusion to the reign of Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez, crown of the Umayyads

Hudhaifah narrated that he asked the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), “Is there any bad time after this good one?” He said: “Yes.” I asked: “Will there be a good time again after that bad time?” He said: “Yes, but therein will be a hidden evil.” I asked: “What will be the evil hidden therein?” He said: “(That time will witness the rise of) the people who will adopt ways other than mine and seek guidance other than mine. You will know good points as well as bad points.”

Al-Baihaqi and others interpreted this second good time as the reign of Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez.

Hudhaifah also related that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “The Prophethood shall remain with you as long as Allah wills. He will then remove it whenever He wills. Then, there will be a caliphate that will follow the path of Prophethood. It will also abide as long as Allah wills. He will then remove it when he wills to do so. After this, there will be a strong kingdom, and it will abide as long as Allah wills. He will then remove it. After this, there will be a coercive kingdom, and it will last as long as Allah wills. He will then remove it. After that, a caliphate that will follow the path of Prophethood will emerge.”

A sub-narrator of this Hadith added: “Then Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez came, accompanied by Yazeed Ibn Nu‘man. I then wrote to him to tell him about this Hadith. I included in my letter to him, ‘I hope that you will be the commander of the faithful after the coercive kingdom.’ Yazeed took the letter from me and gave it to Umar who was very happy when he read it.”

Qatadah narrated that Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez said: “In my dream, I saw the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman and Ali were with him. He said to me, ‘Come closer.’ And I came closer to him until I stood before him. He then looked up to me and said, ‘Indeed, you will assume leadership of this Ummah and you will rule them with justice’.”

Nafi‘ narrated on the authority of Ibn Umar who said: “It reached us that Umar Ibn Al-Khattab said, ‘There will be among my descendants a man who will assume the leadership of this Ummah and who will fill the earth with justice.’” Nafi‘ said, “I have no doubt that the man is Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez.”

This issue of his rule had already been known before he assumed authority; rather before he was born. It was already known that a man from Banu Umayyah shall attain the leadership of this Ummah and that he will be called, “The fissure-headed man of Banu Marwan.”

His mother is Arwa Bint Asim Ibn Umar Ibn Al-Khattab; and his father is Abdul-Azeez Ibn Marwan, appointed by his brother Abdul-Malik Ibn Marwan as the governor of Egypt.

Abdul-Malik used to honor Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez and would send him gifts which the latter would accept. He once sent him a gift of one thousand dinars which he accepted.

One day, Umar entered his father's enclosure and a horse kicked him, causing him a fissure on his forehead. His father wiped off the blood from his head, saying, "If you were the fissure-headed man of Banu Marwan, then you are indeed fortunate." The people used to say, 'The fissure-head man and the defective man are the most just of Banu Marwan'." The fissure-headed one is Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez and the flawed man is Yazeed Ibn Al-Waleed Ibn Abdul-Malik. It is about Yazeed that a poet said:

I saw Yazeed Ibn Al-Waleed a blessed man strong enough to bear the burdens of governance.

After the death of Sulaiman Ibn Abdul-Malik, Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez ruled for two-and-a-half years during which he filled the earth with justice and the wealth was so abundant that one would be worried about finding a needy person to whom he could give his alms.

Abu Ma'n Al-Ansari said: While Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez was traveling to Makkah on a desert, he saw a dead snake and asked those who were with him to bring him the digger, for he wanted to bury it. They said, "We will do that." He said, "No!" He then dug a hole and folded the snake in a piece of cloth and buried it. Then a caller called, "May Allah have mercy on you, Surraq!" Umar asked the caller, "Who are you, may Allah have mercy upon you?" The caller said, "I am a person from among the Jinns and this is Surraq. And no one remained alive from among the Jinns who pledged allegiance to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) except me and him. I bear testimony that I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “Surraq, you will die in a desert and the best of my Ummah (at that time) will bury you!”

Another narration of questionable authenticity in which Wahb Ibn Munabbih is praised and Ghailan is disparaged

Abu Hurairah was reported to have narrated that the Messenger of Allah said: “Shaitan will make a screaming sound in Sham that will make two-thirds of its residents deny predestination.” Al-Baihaqi said, “This and other reports allude to Ghailan and what occurred in Sham of denial of predestination, which he was instrumental in. Ghailan was eventually killed.

Allusion to Muhammad Ibn Ka‘b Al-Qurazi and his memorization of the Qur’an and knowledge of Tafseer

Abu Burdah Az-Zafari related from his father from his grandfather who narrated that he heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say: “There will come out from the two tribes of soothsayers a man who will study the Qur’an in such a way that none will do after him.”

Rabee‘ah Ibn Abi Abdur-Rahman said that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “There will be from among the two tribes of soothsayers a man who will study the Qur’an in such a way that none will do after him.” Rabee‘ah said, “The scholars believe that the man is Muhammad Ibn Ka‘b Al-Qurazi. Abu Thabit said, “The two tribes of soothsayers are Quraizah and Nadeer.

Prophecy about a disturbance that would occur after a hundred years fulfillment of that prophecy

Abdullah Ibn Umar said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) led us in 'Isha prayers one night during his last days. After concluding the prayer, he stood up and addressed us, "Do you realize (the importance of) this night? Nobody present on the surface of the Earth tonight will be living after the completion of one hundred years from this night."

Jabir Ibn Abdullah said: I heard Allah's Messenger (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say this one month before his death, "You asked me about the Last Hour whereas its knowledge is with Allah. I, however, take an oath and say that none upon the Earth, the created beings (from amongst my Companions), would survive at the end of one hundred years." This and similar Ahadeeth are cited by some scholars to support a view that Khidr no long exists.

Another Hadith

Abdullah Ibn Busr said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) put his hand on my head and then said, "This boy will live for a hundred years." And Abdullah Ibn Busr lived for hundred years.

Other narrators of this report added: There were warts of Ibn Busr's face and the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "And he will not die until the warts on his face are gone." And, indeed, the warts on his face disappeared before he died.

His informing about Al-Waleed and the strong threat against him

Sa‘eed Ibn Al-Musayyab said: Umm Salamah’s brother had a baby boy and he was named Al-Waleed. When the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) heard that he said, “You are naming (your sons) after your tyrants. A man will appear in this Ummah whose name will be Al-Waleed. He will be more harmful to my Ummah than the Fir‘awn to his people!”

Abu Amr Al-Awza‘i said: “The people used to think that it was Al-Waleed Ibn Abdul-Malik. We then realized that it was Al-Waleed Ibn Yazeed due to the tribulation people suffered because of him that they eventually revolted against him and killed him.”

Az-Zuhri said: “If Al-Waleed Ibn Yazeed assumed the caliphate, then he is the one meant in the report; if not, then the one meant is Al-Waleed Ibn Abdul-Malik.”

Al-Hasan said: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “A man will appear whose name shall be Al-Waleed. He will be made to occupy one of the corners of Hellfire.”

Another Hadith

It is reported on the authority of Abu Hurairah that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “When the rulers from among the children of Abul-As reached forty men, they will use the religion to deceive people, enslave the servants of Allah and distribute the money belonging to Allah among themselves.”

It is reported on the authority of Abu Dharr that he heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say, “When the rulers from among the tribe of Banu Umayyah reached forty men, they will take people as slaves, they will take the money belonging to Allah as their personal property and they will use Allah’s Book to deceive people.” This is also a narration with a missing link between Rashid Ibn Sa’d and Abu Dharr.

Abu Sa’eed narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “When the rulers from among the tribe of Banu Abul-As reach thirty men, they will use Allah’s religion to deceive, they will take Allah’s money as something to be distributed among themselves and they will take people as slaves.”

Amr Ibn Murrah, who was a companion of the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “Al-Hakam Ibn Abul-As came to the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) seeking permission to enter upon him. The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) recognized his voice and said, “Allow him in. He is a snake or son of a snake. May Allah curse him and all his offspring except the believers among them – and these are few. They will be honored in this world but will be disgraced in the Hereafter. They are deft in trickery and deception. They will have much in this world but in the Hereafter they will have no share.”

Rashid Ibn Sa’d reported that when Marwan Ibn Al-Hakam was born, he was given to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) to supplicate for him and he refused and said, “Son of Zarqa’! Destruction of my people shall be in his hand and in the hands of his descendants.” This is a Mursal report.

His informing about rulers of Banu Umayyah in general and alluding to the length of their rule

Abu Hurairah reported that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “I saw in my dream children of Hakam or children of Abul-As leaping unto my pulpit like monkeys.” The narrator said: The Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was never seen thereafter laughing until he died.

Sa‘eed Ibn Al-Musayyab narrated: The Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), in his dream, saw members of Banu Umayyah tribe on his pulpit, and he was saddened by that. It was then inspired to him, “It is just the authority of this world that they are given.” Then, he became happy. This is an interpretation of Allah’s statement:

“And We made not the vision which we showed you (O Muhammad) but a trial for mankind.” (Soorah AlIsra’ 17:60)

Yoosuf Ibn Mazin Ar-Rasibi said: A man stood up to Al-Hasan Ibn Ali after he had pledged allegiance to Mu‘awiyah and told him, “You have blackened the faces of the Believers!” Al-Hasan responded, “Do not blame me, may Allah have mercy on you! For, the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) saw Banu Umayyah (in his dream) delivering speech on his pulpit one after the other. He was grieved by that and it was revealed to him: “Verily, We have granted you (O Muhammad (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) Al-Kawthar (a river in Paradise).” (Soorah Al-Kawthar 108:1) It was also revealed to him: “Verily! We have sent it (this Qur’an) down in the night of Al-Qadr (Decree) And what will make you know what the night of Al-Qadr (Decree) is? The night of Al-Qadr (Decree) is better than a thousand months (i.e. worshipping Allah in that night is better than worshipping Him a thousand months, i.e. 83 years and 4 months).” (Soorah Al-Qadr 97:1-3) This is the lifespan of Banu Umayyah rule.

Al-Qasim (a sub-narrator) said: We estimated the period of Banu Umayyah’s rule and found that it was exactly one thousand months, not a day more and not a day less.

Umm Darda related that she heard Abud-Darda’ say: “When the young caliph of Banu Umayyah kills a wronged person between Sham and Iraq, obedience to the authority will be taken for granted and blood will be shed unlawfully.” The young caliph is Al-Waleed Ibn Yazeed.

However, matters like this can only be accepted if they are authentically attributed to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) alone.

About the rule of descendants of ‘Abbas – they emerged from Khurasan with black flags in the Year 132 A.H.

Aban Ibn Al-Waleed Ibn ‘Uqbah Ibn Abu Mu‘ait said: Abdullah Ibn Abbas came to Mu‘awiyah while I was present. Mu‘awiyah presented him with generous gift and then asked him, “Abul-Abbas, are going to have a state?” Ibn Abbas said, “Excuse from that, O commander of the faithful.” When Mu‘awiyah insisted, he answered in the affirmative. Mu‘awiyah then asked, “Who will be your supporters?” He replied, “The people of Khurasan.”

Ibn Abbas said: I passed by the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) while Angel Gabriel was with him, and I thought he was Dihyah Al-Kalbi. Gabriel said to the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him), “Now his dress is dirty; but his offspring shall wear black.”

Abu Maisarah, the freed slave of Abbas said that he heard Abbas say: I was with the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) one night when he said, “Look, can you see something in the sky?” I said, “Yes.” He said, “What did you see?” I said, “Pleiades.” He said, “Your offspring shall rule this nation for years the number of these Pleiades.”

Sa‘eed Ibn Jubair narrated: Ibn Abbas heard us say: “Twelve rulers and twelve rulers. Then the Hour will be established.” And he said, “How stupid you are! After that, there will be rulers from our household: Al-Mansoor, As-Saffah, Al-Mahdi.” He continued to mention the names until he reached ‘Eesa (Jesus).

Thawban narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “At this treasure of yours, three of the sons of the caliph will be killed and none of them will be able to become caliph before he will be killed. Then people with black flags will come from Khurasan and they will kill you in a way that you have not seen before. Then Allah’s Caliph Al-Mahdi will come. When you hear about him, you should go and pledge allegiance to him even if you have to get to him crawling on snow. For, he is the Allah’s caliph, the Mahdi.”

Abdullah Ibn Mas‘ood narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) mentioned some youngsters from Banu Hashim and his eyes swelled with tears. He also mentioned flags and then said, “He who lives to that time should come to the flags, even if has to do crawling on the snow.”

Abu Hurairah narrated that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “Black flags will come out from Khurasan and nothing will be able to stop them until they are erected at Bait ulMaqdis.”

Abu Sa‘eed Al-Khudri narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said, “After some time and appearance of trials, a man will emerge that will be known as ‘Saffah’. He will be extremely generous with money.”

The above are narrations about coming out of black flags from Khurasan and about caliphate of ‘As-Saffah’ – he is Abul-Abbas Abdullah Ibn Muhammad Ibn Ali Ibn Abdullah Ibn Abbas Ibn AbdulMuttalib. His caliphate occurred around Year 130 A.H. He then emerged in the company of his supporters bearing black flags for their symbol is black, in emulation of the color of the turban the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) was wearing when he was entering Makkah on the day of its conquest. He was wearing a helmet and over it was a black turban. As-Saffah then sent his uncle Abdullah to go and fight the Umayyads. He defeated them in the Year 132 A.H. and the last of the Umayyad caliphs – Marwan Ibn Muhammad Ibn Marwan, who was nicknamed Al-Himar – took to flight.

Information about twelve leaders that are all from Quraish

They are not the twelve ones whose leadership the Shiites rejecters are claiming. For, only two from among the Imams that the Shiites claim ever attained positions of authority. These two are: Ali Ibn Abi Talib and his son Al-Hasan alone. The last of the Imams claimed by the Shiites is the one they call “AlMahdi Al-Muntazar” and is living at a hidden basement! But the reality is: there is no existence for such a person.

The ones we are talking about here are those authentically mentioned in the Hadith; and they are: Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali. Umar Ibn Abdul-Azeez is also included, according to the consensus of the scholars.

Jabir Ibn Samurah narrated: I heard the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say: “There will be twelve caliphs.” He then said something I did not hear and I asked my father (Samurah Ibn Jundub) about that and he told me that he said, “All of them are from Quraish.”

Ibn Mas‘ood narrated that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “There would be caliphs after me the number of the companions of Prophet Moosa.”

Jabir Ibn Samurah narrated that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “The affairs of the people will continue to be conducted (well) as long as they are governed by twelve men.” Then the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said words which were obscure to me. I asked my father: What did the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) say? He said: All of the (twelve men) will be from the Quraish.”

Mu‘awiyah Ibn Abi Sufyan narrated that the Prophet (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “Authority of ruling will remain with Quraish, and whoever bears hostility to them, Allah will destroy him as long as they keep the religion established.” Al-Baihaqi commented, “As long as they keep the institutions of the religion established even if they are negligent as far as personal observance of the injunctions of the religion is concerned.”

The four caliphs are: Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman and Ali. Their caliphate was legitimized through an explicit statement of Allah’s Messenger: “The caliphate after me shall be for thirty years.”

Hudhaifah Ibn Al-Yaman said: “There will be twelve kings from Banu Umayyah after Uthman.” He was told, “Caliphs?” He said, “No, kings.”

There is in Tawrah that is in the hands of the people of the scripture something like this: “Allah gave Ibraheem the glad tidings about Ishma‘eel that He would make him blessed, multiply his descendants and raise up twelve great men from among them.” Abul-Abbas Ibn Taimiyyah said: “These are the ones mentioned in the Hadith recorded by Jabir Ibn Samurah. They will be scattered within the Ummah and the Hour will not be established until they are all found.”

Yahya Ibn Abu Amr Ash-Shaibani said: “There was none among the caliphs who did not control the Sacred Mosque (in Makkah) and Al-Aqsa Mosque (in Jerusalem).”

Information about things that occurred in the Abbasid Caliphate till today

It is reported that a man came to Abdullah Ibn Abbas while Hudhaifah Ibn Al-Yaman was in his company. The man asked Ibn Abbas about the interpretation of Allah’s statement, “Ha-Meem. ‘Ain-SeenQaf.” (Soorah Ash-Shoora 42:1-2) But he did not answer him, he bowed his head instead. The man repeated the question and yet Ibn Abbas did not give him any answer. It was then that Hudhaifah said, "I will tell you. I know why he disliked the question. The Verses were revealed concerning a man from his household whose name is Abdul-Ilah or Abdullah. He will come to one of the rivers of the East. He will establish two cities that will be totally separated by the river. Every tyrant and obstinate ruler shall come there."

Ka'b said: "In the Year 160 A.H., the reason of the reasonable and wisdom of the wise shall diminish."

A Hadith purported to be in reference to Imam Malik Ibn Anas

Abu Hurairah is reported to have narrated that the Prophet said: "Soon, people will undertake journey in search of knowledge and they will not find anyone more knowledgeable than the scholar of Al-Madinah."

Another Hadith purported to be in reference to Muhammad Ibn Idrees AshShafi'i

Abdullah bin Mas'ood is reported to have narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: "Do not insult the Quraish. For, its scholars will fill the Earth in knowledge. O Allah, as you have stricken the earlier generation of Quraish with affliction, bestow Your favor on its later generation."

Hafiz Abu Nu'aim Al-Asbahani said, "He is Ash-Shafi'i."

Anas Ibn Malik narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: "My nation consists of five generations. The first generation that is made of forty years is that of people of righteousness and piety; then the generation that follows them until one hundred and twenty years will be that of people of mutual compassion and relationship; then the generation that followed them until one hundred and sixty years is that of people of mutual enmity and severed relationship. Then there will be a lot of killings.”

Anas narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “My nation consists of five generations and each generation is of forty years. My generation which includes my Companions is that of people of knowledge and faith. The second generation that is between forty and eighty years consists of people of righteousness and piety.”

Imran Ibn Husain narrated that the Messenger of Allah (Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon him) said: “The best of people are members of my generation; then they are followed by those who come after them and then by those who come after them. Then a people will come that will so much love fat. They will bear testimony before they are asked to do so.”
